

The Athletic

2025 NFL DRAFT GUIDE

BY DANE BRUGLER

All information is last updated as of April 7, 2025.
For the latest version of The Beast, visit our interactive version at nytimes.com/athletic/the-beast/2025.

Email any questions or comments to thebeast@theathletic.com.

Credits

Author: Dane Brugler

Editing: Chris Burke

Visual Editing: Skye Gould

Data Editing: Junghye Kim and Ryan Best

Design: Skye Gould and Dan Goldfarb

Art: Hust Wilson for The Athletic

Production: Junghye Kim and Skye Gould

Additional Editorial Contributions: Alison Cotsonika, Adam Hirshfield, Jim Ayello, Jayna Bardahl, John Bradford, Ken Bradley, Cale Clinton, Stephen Cohen, Adam Coleman, David DeChant, Jimmy Durkin, Gary Gramling, Drew Jordan, RJ Kraft, Cristina Ledra, David Niinemets, Mike Sansone, Lauren Smith and Josiah Turner

Notes and Sourcing

Select stats courtesy of Pro Football Focus.

All scouting reports and rankings are the original views and analysis of Dane Brugler and The Athletic.

Combine and Pro Day information is NFL verified.

Recruiting rankings are courtesy of 247Sports Composite.

© Copyright The Athletic 2025

QUARTERBACKS	03
RUNNING BACKS	30
WIDE RECEIVERS	79
TIGHT ENDS	149
OFFENSIVE TACKLES	181
GUARDS	217
CENTERS	248
EDGE RUSHERS	265
DEFENSIVE TACKLES	323
LINEBACKERS	376
CORNERBACKS	419
SAFETIES	477
SPECIALISTS	516
TOP 100	518

GLOSSARY

HT _____ Height in feet, inches and the eighths of an inch

WT _____ Weight in pounds

AGE _____ Rounded to the nearest hundredth on draft day

FA _____ Undrafted free agent

40 _____ 40-yard dash time in seconds

10 _____ 10-yard split time in seconds

HAND _____ Hand width in inches

ARM _____ Arm length in inches

WING _____ Wingspan in inches

BJ _____ Broad jump in inches

VJ _____ Vertical jump in inches

SS _____ Short shuttle time in seconds

3C _____ Three-cone drill time in seconds

BP _____ Bench press reps at 225 lbs.

DNP _____ Did not participate

IPP _____ International Player Pathway

INT _____ Interceptions

CAR _____ Carries

CP% _____ Completion percentage

ATT _____ Attempts

TFL _____ Tackles for loss

FF _____ Forced fumbles

PD _____ Passes defended

GP _____ Games played

GS _____ Games started

CP _____ Completions

REC _____ Receptions

YDS _____ Yards

AVG _____ Average

TD _____ Touchdowns

QUARTER BACKS

QUARTERBACKS

NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1. CAM WARD	Miami	1st	5SR	6015	219	DNP (DNP)	9	30 5/8	75 3/4	22.92
2. SHEDEUR SANDERS	Colorado	1st-2nd	4SR	6014	212	DNP (DNP)	9 3/8	31 1/2	77 3/4	23.21
3. JAXSON DART	Ole Miss	2nd	4SR	6023	221	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	30 7/8	73 1/8	21.95
4. TYLER SHOUGH	Louisville	2nd	7SR	6051	219	4.63 (1.59)	9 3/4	31 1/8	77 3/8	25.57
5. JALEN MILROE	Alabama	2nd-3rd	4JR	6017	216	4.40 (1.56)	9 1/2	31 1/8	76 5/8	22.36
6. QUINN EWERS	Texas	3rd	4JR	6021	214	DNP (DNP)	9 3/8	31 1/8	75 1/8	22.11
7. KYLE MCCORD	Syracuse	3rd-4th	4SR	6030	218	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	31	74 1/2	22.59
8. WILL HOWARD	Ohio State	4th	5SR	6042	236	DNP (DNP)	9 1/8	32 7/8	77	23.58
9. DILLON GABRIEL	Oregon	4th	6SR	5111	205	DNP (DNP)	9 1/4	29 5/8	73	24.32
10. RILEY LEONARD	Notre Dame	4th-5th	4SR	6036	216	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	32 1/4	77 5/8	22.61
11. KURTIS ROURKE	Indiana	6th	6SR	6042	220	DNP (DNP)	9 5/8	30 3/4	75 1/8	24.50
12. CAM MILLER	North Dakota State	6th-7th	5SR	6007	215	4.82 (1.68)	9 5/8	30 1/8	73 1/8	23.85
13. MAX BROSMER	Minnesota	6th-7th	6SR	6016	218	4.79 (1.70)	9 1/2	32	75 3/4	24.07
14. SETH HENIGAN	Memphis	7th	4SR	6030	215	4.76 (1.67)	9 1/8	32 1/8	77 1/4	22.12
15. HUNTER DEKKERS	Iowa Western CC	FA	5SR	6017	210	4.65 (1.63)	9 3/4	31 1/4	75 1/2	23.81
16. GRAHAM MERTZ	Florida	FA	6SR	6033	212	DNP (DNP)	9 3/4	31 3/4	76 1/2	24.38
17. BRADY COOK	Missouri	FA	5SR	6021	214	4.59 (1.57)	9 3/8	32 1/2	78	23.53
18. PAYTON THORNE	Auburn	FA	6SR	6015	207	4.70 (1.67)	9 1/4	31	77	23.83
19. CONNOR BAZELAK	Bowling Green	FA	6SR	6024	212	4.80 (1.68)	10 1/8	32	78	24.59

QB1 Cam Ward

Miami, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
West Columbia, TX	Columbia	May 25, 2002	22.92	6015	219	#1

BACKGROUND: Cameron "Cam" Ward, the youngest of four children, was born and raised in West Columbia-Angleton, Texas, area (60 miles south of Houston). His parents have never missed one of his games, including all 57 Ward played in college. His father (Calvin) played football in high school and is a fuel buyer for a nuclear power plant. His mother (Patrice) is a retired special education teacher and the former head girls basketball coach at Columbia High, where she attended school before enrolling at Sam Houston State. Cameron's older sister (Aaliyah) took over as the head basketball coach at Columbia. Another of his older sisters (Chantel) set the Houston Christian University (formerly Houston Baptist University) records in the indoor shot put (44 feet, 11 1/2 inches) and outdoor shot put (47-4.25) before transferring to San Jose State. She is now an assistant track and field coach at Houston Baptist.

With his mother coaching basketball, Ward grew up on the court. At age 8, he started playing pee wee football, in third grade. He also played the drums at his church, where his mother played the piano. Ward was drawn to football because of his close relationship with his cousin (Quandre Diggs), who played safety at Texas and is a three-time NFL Pro Bowler. He is also cousins with Quentin Jammer, who played cornerback for 12 seasons in the NFL (2002-13).

Ward attended Columbia High and lettered in basketball and football. He was better known as a freshman and sophomore for his play on the basketball court (also starred on the AAU circuit) before becoming starting quarterback on varsity. In Columbia's Wing-T offense, Ward had minimal passing opportunities — he finished his junior season with 1,070 passing yards and seven touchdowns, adding 192 rushing yards and four rushing touchdowns. As a senior, he helped Columbia to a 9-1 record (2019 co-district champions) and was named first-team all-district and honorable mention all-state. Ward also started working with longtime quarterbacks coach Steve Van Meter in high school. Ward was a two-time all-district MVP in basketball and finished as the program's all-time leading scorer.

A zero-star recruit, Ward was overlooked in the 2020 recruiting class, primarily because he played in a run-first high school offense. He attended numerous recruiting camps after his junior season, but schools from FBS to Division III were reluctant to offer him, so he started looking at juco options. The only Division I program to see his potential was FCS Incarnate Word, a private school in San Antonio that launched its football program in 2009. A few weeks before signing day, Incarnate Word head coach Eric Morris (Patrick Mahomes' offensive coordinator at Texas Tech) and quarterbacks coach Mack Leftwich visited Ward and offered him his only scholarship. The 2020 fall season was postponed because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but that delay turned out to be a blessing in disguise for Ward as he learned a new offensive system. He beat out Incarnate

Word's incumbent starter for the spring 2021 season and was named the FCS' top freshman. As a sophomore in 2021, he led the program to its first 10-win season and a deep playoff run.

After that season, Morris left Incarnate Word to become offensive coordinator at Washington State, and Ward entered the transfer portal (he had led the FCS in passing touchdowns in both of his college seasons). He was overwhelmed with offers and visits from FBS schools, including a hard push from Lane Kiffin and Ole Miss. Incarnate Word, which hired G.J. Kinne as head coach and retained Leftwich as offensive coordinator, hoped he would stay, but Ward stayed loyal to Morris and transferred to Washington State in January 2022. After two productive seasons in Pullman, Ward had earned his undergraduate degree and initially entered the transfer portal as a graduate before entering the 2024 NFL Draft. However, he didn't sign with an agent and kept open the possibility of returning to college. Several programs pursued him, but Miami was most aggressive, and Ward committed to head coach Mario Cristobal for his final season. He declined invitations to the Senior Bowl and East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (6/6)	183-303	60.4	2,260	24	4	38	2	0.05	2	Incarnate Word; Jerry Rice Award (top FCS freshman); First Team All-Southland
2021: (13/13)	384-590	65.1	4,648	47	10	74	65	0.88	1	Incarnate Word; Second Team All-American; Southland Offensive POY; First Team All-Southland
2022: (13/13)	320-497	64.4	3,231	23	9	107	58	0.54	5	Washington State; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2023: (12/12)	324-486	66.7	3,732	25	7	120	144	1.20	8	Washington State; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2024: (13/13)	305-454	67.2	4,313	39	7	60	204	3.40	4	Miami; Consensus All-American; ACC Offensive POY; Davey O'Brien Award; First Team All-ACC
Total: (57/57)	1516-2330	65.1	18,184	158	37	399	473	1.19	20

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6015	219	9	30 5/8	75 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Relaxed, fluid throwing motion — ball comes out fast with easy flick of the wrist
- Snappy release and creative athleticism (in and out of structure) expand his options
- Outstanding feel/feet to elude pursuit, maneuver around pressure and buy extra time
- Bold passer; not afraid to thread the needle or push downfield (56.1 percent of completions in 2024 were of more than 10 yards, No. 1 in FBS)
- Above-average anticipation and arm velocity on speed outs and throws outside numbers
- Intelligent passer who is comfortable reading out entire field
- Played point guard in basketball and shows vision to read safeties and exploit spacing in middle of field
- Adequate size for position with a strong core, which causes blitzers to fall off him
- Mahomes-like scrambler — not fast but runs with savvy and takes yards defense gives him
- Had freedom at Miami to make checks at line based on pre-snap reads
- Flatliner competitor and plays calm, regardless of situation (three comeback wins in 2024 after being down 10 points or more in second half)
- Acclimated himself well at each college stop, and coaches had positive things to say about him as a leader and person (Mario Cristobal: "He's a dynamic human being. Strong leader. Raised the right way with unbelievable parents.")
- Improved play and production each of five seasons in college

WEAKNESSES:

- Guilty of playing "hero ball" at times with forced, spur-of-the-moment decisions
- Low, almost sidearmed throwing slot will be an issue for some NFL coaches
- Drops elbow and uses varying mechanics, which disrupts spiral and creates different angles from nose of football
- Generally accurate but placement needs to improve, especially on deep shots
- Inconsistent footwork and depth in drops, leading to extra hitches
- Drifts backwards unnecessarily and momentum often pulls him in different directions as passer
- Caught holding ball too long on key money downs (see 2024 Georgia Tech tape)
- Only four fumbles in 2024 but leaves the ball exposed when scrambling
- Occasionally pulls it on zone reads but doesn't have speed to consistently escape from NFL defenders on the edge
- Decision to sit out second half of Miami's 2024 bowl loss will rub some the wrong way

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Miami, Ward was a record-setting quarterback in offensive coordinator Shannon Dawson's RPO-based version of the Air Raid. A Wing-T quarterback in high school, he made steady improvements at both Incarnate Word and Washington State before becoming a Heisman contender in his one season with the Hurricanes. The first player in Miami history to win ACC Player of the Year honors, he set program single-season records for passing yards (4,313) and touchdowns (39) and broke Case Keenum's Division I record for career passing touchdowns (158).

With his quick load and fire, Ward is a perfect fit for the RPO game and quick drops. He is elusive in the pocket and has an innate feel for casually operating around pressure to buy extra time, although he needs to find a happier medium between his nonchalant style and playing with the urgency required. He reads well in structure and throws with anticipation, but each game tape includes examples of questionable, forced decisions with negative results. Overall, Ward must button up his drifting footwork and cut down on the reckless habits, but he is a loose, instinctive passer who can rip accurate strikes with a natural rhythm to his play. With his talent and intangibles, he projects as an NFL starter in the mold of a taller, slower version of Kyler Murray.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 13 overall)

QB2 Shedeur Sanders

Colorado, 4SR

HOMETOWN Dallas, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Trinity Christian	BIRTHDAY Feb 07, 2002	AGE 23.21	HT 6014	WT 212	NUM #2
------------------------	----------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Shedeur Sanders was born and raised in the Dallas area with his parents (Deion and Pilar), who divorced in 2012, with Deion ultimately being awarded full custody of the couple's three children. Shedeur Sanders also has a half-brother (Deion Sanders Jr.) and half-sister (Deiondra).

Deion Sanders, also known as "Prime Time," played at Florida State (1985-88) and was a first-round pick (No. 5) in the 1989 NFL Draft. An eight-time Pro Bowler, he played 14 seasons in the NFL (53 career interceptions) and is a member of the Pro and College Football Halls of Fame. He also played nine seasons in Major League Baseball (.263 career batting average). Shedeur's older half-brother was a defensive back and returner at SMU (2013-15). Shedeur's older brother (Shilo), who is also a 2025 NFL Draft prospect, played safety at South Carolina (2019-20), Jackson State (2021-22) and Colorado (2023-24). His younger sister (Shelomi) played college basketball at Jackson State (2022-23) and Colorado (2023-24) before transferring to Alabama A&M (2024-25).

Shedeur Sanders started playing at age 6 and blossomed in his father's youth football league, Truth Sports. However, it wasn't until eighth grade that Shedeur committed to football as his focus (after showing out at an all-star game) and started training with 13-year NFL veteran quarterback Jeff Blake. Sanders enrolled at Trinity Christian School, a private Christian school in Cedar Hill, Texas.

With his father as his offensive coordinator, he became the starting quarterback on varsity as a freshman and passed for 34 touchdowns, leading the team to a 12-1 finish and the 2017 TAPPS (Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools) Division II state championship. As a sophomore in 2018, Sanders led Trinity Christian to an undefeated 14-0 record and another state title. He finished the season with 3,088 passing yards and 50 total touchdowns (42 passing, eight rushing). As a junior, Sanders led the program to its third straight TAPPS state championship and posted 3,477 passing yards, 73.6 percent completions and 58 total touchdowns (47 passing, 11 rushing). Trinity Catholic played more of a national schedule during the 2020 season, finishing 9-3 (including the TCAL National Championship). Sanders posted 3,702 passing yards and 43 touchdowns. He finished his prep career with 12,627 passing yards, 166 passing touchdowns and a 47-5 combined record, including four titles.

A four-star recruit, Sanders was the 26th-ranked quarterback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 38 recruit in Texas. Before he took his first high school snap, he received his first scholarship offer from Oregon and former head coach Willie Taggart (July 2017). Several other programs entered the mix following his freshman season, including Florida, Georgia, Louisville, LSU and his father's alma mater, Florida State. Sanders also added Alabama and Michigan to his offer list, but he chose Florida Atlantic and Taggart, then in his first year as the Owls' head coach. He committed before his senior season in July 2020, but everything changed when FCS Jackson State named Deion Sanders its head coach in September 2020.

Shedeur Sanders flipped his commitment shortly after and, at the time, was the highest-ranked high school recruit in school history. After two seasons as the starter at Jackson State (including two SWAC championships), he again followed his father, who became head coach at Colorado before the 2023 season. Sanders also has strong interests in fashion and music and had the highest NIL valuation in college athletics in 2024 (approximately $6 million, according to reports), including deals with Nike, Mercedes-Benz, Gatorade and BRADY (Tom Brady's apparel line). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl (interviews only).

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (13/13)	272-413	65.9	3,231	30	8	103	-17	-0.17	3	Jackson State; Jerry Rice FCS Freshman of the Year; Second Team All-SWAC
2022: (13/13)	341-483	70.6	3,732	40	6	85	173	2.04	6	Jackson State; SWAC Offensive POY; First Team All-SWAC; school record for TDs
2023: (11/11)	298-430	69.3	3,230	27	3	111	-77	-0.69	4	Colorado; Pac-12 Newcomer of the Year; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2024: (13/13)	353-477	74.0	4,134	37	10	100	-50	-0.50	4	Colorado; Second Team All-American; Big 12 Off. POY; First Team All-Big 12
Total: (50/50)	1264-1803	70.1	14,327	134	27	399	29	0.07	17

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6014	212	9 3/8	31 1/2	77 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Throws with strong, balanced base and clean stroke
- Polished mechanics help translate to consistent accuracy (led FBS with 74 percent completion rate in 2024)
- Leads receivers well on crossers/digs/outs (good feel for touch on those routes)
- Some of best throws on tape came as a scrambler on the move
- Throws really well in rhythm in RPO/quick game
- Smart and savvy in decision-making process
- Takes care of the football and limits turnover-worthy attempts
- Makes quick, subtle movements in pocket to navigate and work around the noise
- Stands in face of pressure and questions about toughness (frequently had rushers in lap behind a poor offensive line in college)
- Willing runner to scamper for sticks when defense gives it to him
- 36-14 record as starter in college (23-3 at Jackson State, 13-11 at Colorado)
- Ice water flows through veins in late-game situations
- Doesn't lack for confidence and teammates praise his leadership

WEAKNESSES:

- Not a quick-twitch passer and ball doesn't explode off his hand
- Average arm strength — throws have more arc than zip
- Mediocre size; didn't get his father's speed or explosiveness
- Needlessly backpedals, drifts and takes extra hitches in pocket (possible scar tissue from playing behind a bad line)
- Holds ball excessively long and put too many "you can't take that sack!" plays on tape
- Ability to buy time in pocket will become much more difficult versus NFL speed
- Gets ultra-conservative and timing of play design gets away from him at times
- Wish he put more anticipatory throws on tape
- Feasted on quick throws, which inflated completion percentage (28.3 percent of completions in 2024 were screens)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Colorado, Sanders produced at a high level in offensive coordinator Pat Shurmur's RPO-based scheme. After finishing 1-11 in 2022, the Buffs had a combined winning record (13-11) over the past two seasons in games started by Sanders, who set school single-season records for passing yards (4,134), passing touchdowns (37) and total touchdowns (41).

Although not close to the athlete his father was, Sanders is a controlled, polished passer who gets the ball out accurately in structure and when throwing on the move. He is a cool customer, and his high completion percentage reflects his steady heartbeat. However, he benefited from a high volume of screens and checkdowns (just 23.7 percent of his completions the past two seasons were on throws over 10 yards). The chief concern on his college tape is his inconsistent pocket feel, which was highlighted by poor protection — he will climb and maneuver on some plays, then drift or retreat on others, vastly lowering his success rate. Overall, Sanders doesn't have the physical traits to get away with some of his decisions, but he is a poised, rhythmic passer when he stays true to his skill set, and he shows the necessary touch and confidence of an NFL starter. He fits best in a timing-based offense.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 34 overall)

QB3 Jaxson Dart

Ole Miss, 4SR

HOMETOWN Kaysville, UT	HIGH SCHOOL Corner Canyon	BIRTHDAY May 13, 2003	AGE 21.95	HT 6023	WT 221	NUM #2
---------------------------	------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Jaxson Dart, the oldest of four children, grew up in northern Utah, with his parents (Brandon and Kara), who are devout members of the Church of Latter-day Saints. Brandon was an All-WAC safety for Kyle Whittingham (then the defensive coordinator) at Utah but battled numerous injuries over seven seasons in college (1994-2000). Whittingham called Brandon "as instinctive a football player as I've ever been around." Jaxson's younger brother (Diesel) plays wide receiver at Corner Canyon High and is part of the 2027 recruiting class.

Jaxson Dart was an avid athlete and outdoorsman growing up, and fishing was his "first love." He starred in multiple sports starting in elementary school, including baseball, basketball, football, soccer and a number of water sports (water skiing, wakeboarding, surfing, etc.). Dart started training with former BYU quarterback John Beck, then later with private coach Taylor Kelly (both part of 3DQB training organization), who has worked with several current NFL quarterbacks, including Matthew Stafford and Lamar Jackson.

Because freshmen didn't play varsity football at Davis High, the local high school in Kaysville, Utah, Dart transferred 15 minutes north and enrolled at Roy High. He won the starting quarterback job on varsity as a freshman, beating out a senior, but missed the second half of the season because of a right elbow injury. Dart earned all-region honors as a sophomore and led Roy to a 9-3 season, finishing with 2,161 passing yards and 23 total touchdowns (17 passing, six rushing). As a junior, he again led Roy to the 6A state playoffs, completing 64.4 percent of his passes for 2,440 yards and 22 touchdowns and again earning all-region honors. With Roy running a single-wing offense, Dart transferred for his senior season to Corner

Canyon High, a championship-level program with a roster that included FBS recruits such as Jackson Powers-Johnson (now with the Las Vegas Raiders). Dart led Corner Canyon to an undefeated 14-0 record, including the 2020 6A state championship, and was named Gatorade National Football Player of the Year and a National All-American. He completed 69.6 percent of his passes for 4,691 yards and a state-record 67 touchdowns (with only four interceptions), plus added 1,195 rushing yards and 12 rushing touchdowns. Dart also lettered in baseball and basketball in high school, twice earning all-state honors on the diamond.

A four-star recruit, Dart was the 10th-ranked quarterback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Utah (one spot behind Kingsley Suamataia; one spot ahead of Powers-Johnson). Between Roy's run-heavy offense and his focus on baseball in the offseason, Dart was underrecruited over his first three years of high school. He received his first Division I offer after his junior season from Yale, followed by his first FBS offer from Louisiana. After he transferred to Corner Canyon, he received a fourth star and his recruitment blew up with offers from Arizona State, Iowa State, TCU and UCLA. But an offer from USC in October 2020 most interested him. Dart committed to former head coach Clay Helton during the early signing period and enrolled in January 2021. He beat out fellow four-star freshman Miller Moss for the backup job behind starter Kedon Slovis and was pressed into action in Week 3, throwing for 391 yards (USC record for a debut). He suffered a knee injury and missed the next four games before returning for the final month of the 2021 season.

USC fired Helton during the 2021 season and hired Lincoln Riley as head coach. Dart was hoping to stay at USC, but when Caleb Williams followed Riley to USC, he entered the transfer portal (Brandon Dart: "Jaxson didn't want to leave USC. ... It was a decision he felt forced to make."). Dart narrowed his destination to a handful of places, and he and his family visited only three schools (BYU, Oklahoma, Ole Miss). Ultimately, Dart committed to Lane Kiffin and the Rebels in January 2022. He was one of the highest NIL earners in college football last season (reportedly estimated at around $1.7 million). Dart was a finalist for the 2024 William V. Campbell Trophy ("academic Heisman") with a 3.71 GPA as a business major. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the American Team's top quarterback during the week of practice.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (6/3)	117-189	61.9	1,353	9	5	22	43	1.95	2	USC; bowl game MVP; UCF freshman passing records; enrolled January 2019
2022: (13/12)	226-362	62.4	2,974	20	11	128	614	4.80	1	Ole Miss; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	233-358	65.1	3,364	23	5	119	391	3.29	8	Ole Miss
2024: (13/13)	276-398	69.3	4,279	29	6	124	495	3.99	3	Ole Miss; First Team All-SEC; led SEC in passing yards (school record)
Total: (45/41)	852-1307	65.2	11,970	81	27	393	1,543	3.93	14

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6022	223	9 1/2	30	72 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6023	221	9 1/2	30	73 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with solid body mass
- Throws catchable ball and can drive passes outside numbers
- Able to change arm angles without sacrificing rpm
- Accuracy improved as senior — looked more confident putting the ball where he wanted
- Willing vertical passer — led FBS in yards per attempt (10.8) and completions of 10 yards or more (74) in 2024
- Comfortable maneuvering in the pocket with bodies all around him
- With his mobility, designed runs were central part of Rebels offense
- Finishes like a running back when he takes off and runs (JJ Pegues: "He's the most competitive guy I've ever seen.")
- Teammates praise his leadership and say he "brings the juice" every day (Princely Umanmielen: "The quarterbacks at my past schools kept to themselves or only talked to the offensive guys, but Jaxson connects with everyone.")
- Production didn't decline after losing his No. 1 receiver (Tre Harris) over second half of 2024
- Most passing yards in a season (4,279) and career (10,617), surpassing Eli Manning's school record

WEAKNESSES:

- Occasions when he made full-field progressions and backside reads — you just wish it happened more on tape
- Likes to see things before firing — needs to improve passing anticipation to get throws out a half-second faster
- Bad habit of dropping eyes when he starts to feel heat (45 scrambles in 2024)
- Gives his guys a chance on deep balls but placement can be better
- Benefited from heavy play-action offense (No. 1 in FBS with 252 play-action dropbacks in 2024)
- Commendable toughness but holds ball too long and takes a lot of bruising hits
- Stayed healthy at Ole Miss but had prior injuries: torn meniscus and MCL sprain in right knee (Sept. 2021), which caused him to miss four games; medial epicondyle fracture and UCL tear in throwing (right) elbow as freshman in high school, which required surgery

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Ole Miss, Dart thrived in offensive coordinator Charlie Weis Jr.'s spread RPO, heavy play-action scheme (No. 1 in passing EPA per dropback in 2024). After transferring out of USC once Caleb Williams arrived, he found a home with Lane Kiffin and left Oxford with numerous season and career records, including the Rebels' all-time lead in wins (28), passing yards (10,617) and total offense (12,117).

With his physical tools and rhythm passing, he was an ideal fit in Kiffin's quarterback-friendly offense, although the simplistic nature of the scheme leaves NFL scouts questioning his post-snap decision-making process when reads aren't as structured and predetermined. The other key concern is his tendency to prematurely drop his eyes once the pocket gets heated. However, his athleticism to buy time and scramble for positive yards is an asset. Overall, Dart needs time to develop his progression-based reads and anticipation (things he wasn't asked to regularly do in college), but he is a natural thrower of the football with promising mobility and high-level competitive intangibles. If allowed to develop at his own pace, he offers NFL starting upside in the right situation.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 49 overall)

QB4 Tyler Shough

Louisville, 7SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Chandler, AZ	Hamilton	Sep 28, 1999	25.57	6051	219	#9

BACKGROUND: Tyler Shough (shuck), who has two older half-sisters (Beth and Cori) and a younger brother (Brady), grew up in Chandler, Ariz. (outside of Phoenix), with his parents (Glenn and Dana). Glenn, who played college football at Cal Lutheran, is a retired police officer; Dana, who committed to play softball at Oregon State, is a retired teacher. Dana was diagnosed with Stage 4 metastatic breast cancer in 2006 and given only nine months to live, but she beat the illness and has been cancer-free since.

Tyler started playing sports, including baseball, basketball and soccer, at age 5. He played flag football before advancing to pee wee ball, where he learned how to play quarterback. Shough played travel baseball for the Chandler Reds throughout middle school — he was teammates with Brock Purdy (San Francisco 49ers) and Cole Bellinger (2017 MLB Draft pick and older brother of Cody) and was coached by former major leaguers Clay Bellinger and Jamie Brewington. Shough and Purdy also had the same quarterback coach (Dan Manucci). Tyler's younger brother played wide receiver at Northern Arizona (2020-23). Shough and Jordan Wormdahl, who played soccer at Oregon (2018-21), were married in April 2024.

Shough enrolled at Hamilton High in Chandler, the largest high school in Arizona and alma mater of former NFL pass rusher Terrell Suggs. After playing on JV and serving as a varsity backup over his first two seasons, he won the starting quarterback competition as a junior. Shough completed 62.3 percent of his passes (142 of 228) for 2,079 yards and 29 touchdowns (27 passing, two rushing), earning honorable mention all-league honors. Before his senior season, Hamilton's football program was rocked by a hazing scandal. Shough was not implicated, however, and rallied the team to an 8-4 and spot in the second round of the 2017 6A state playoffs. He was named first-team all-league as a senior with 62.4 percent completions (176 of 282) for 3,071 yards and 31 total touchdowns. He played 7-on-7 football for Heads Up Redzone and was named 2017 MVP. Shough was also a standout baseball player at Hamilton and graduated with a 4.4 GPA.

A four-star recruit, Shough was the seventh-ranked pro-style quarterback in the 2018 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Arizona (Purdy was No. 12 in the state). After his junior season, he picked up his first offer from Western Kentucky (Dec. 2016), followed by his first major offer from South Carolina (March 2017). In April 2017, Shough added offers from Alabama, Georgia and Michigan (his favorite school growing up). After attending a camp at North Carolina, he committed to the Tar Heels in June 2017. However, he flipped to Oregon four months later and stayed committed after Willie Taggart left for the Florida State job (Dec. 2017). Shough was the second-ranked recruit in former head coach Mario Cristobal's 2018 class (behind offensive tackle Penei Sewell).

After three years in Eugene, he graduated with two degrees (criminal justice and political science) and entered the transfer portal (Feb. 2021). Shough committed to Texas Tech and earned the starting job but suffered three major injuries in three seasons in Lubbock. He graduated with a master's degree in interdisciplinary studies (Dec. 2022). Shough again entered the portal and transferred to Louisville for his seventh and final season. He opted out of Louisville's bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl, where he was voted the National Team's top quarterback during the week of practice.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2018: (3/0)	0-0		0	0	0	0	0		0	Oregon; redshirted; enrolled January 2018
2019: (5/0)	12-15	80.0	144	3	0	2	11	5.50	0	Oregon
2020: (7/7)	106-167	63.5	1,559	13	6	66	271	4.11	2	Oregon; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (4/4)	64-92	69.6	872	6	3	16	14	0.88	2	Texas Tech; missed final nine games (collarbone); enrolled March 2021
2022: (7/5)	106-177	59.9	1,304	7	4	72	269	3.74	4	Texas Tech; missed six games (collarbone)
2023: (4/4)	67-111	60.4	746	7	4	48	149	3.10	2	Texas Tech; missed final nine games (broken left leg)
2024: (12/12)	244-389	62.7	3,195	23	6	42	19	0.45	1	Louisville; Honorable Mention All-ACC; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (42/32)	599-951	63.0	7,820	59	23	246	733	2.98	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6047	219	9 3/4	30 3/4	76 1/2	4.63	2.69	1.59	32	9' 9"	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6051	224	9 3/4	31 1/8	77 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Prototypical size, passing twitch and arm strength
- Efficient hitch-free release — ball shoots off hand for easy zip
- Arm strength gives him access to every inch of the field, including long field-side throws
- Has elasticity to deliver throws from different arm angles
- Throws with steady pacing and anticipation to layer passes on intermediate windows
- Moves better than expected to extend plays and access different throwing platforms
- Accuracy doesn't dip when throwing on the move
- Catalyst for home-run plays (tied with Cam Ward for fourth in FBS with seven completions of 50 yards or more in 2024)
- Comfortable making throws in face of pressure (pressured 142 times in 2024 — only 9.9 percent resulted in sacks)
- Designed play action led to some of his best throws on tape (12-to-0 TD-to-INT ratio on play-action passes in 2024)
- Mature work habits (wide receiver Ja'Corey Brooks: "He was always in the film room, that was the first thing I noticed about him.")
- Learned about toughness at a young age, as he watched his mother (his "biggest inspiration") battle breast cancer
- Engineered an offense that averaged 36.6 points per game in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Only one full season of starting experience on college resume
- Eventually finds right read but often lingers on other targets before getting there
- Too willing to throw tardy 50-50 prayers into coverage, especially under pressure
- Ball placement is workable but can be more consistent
- Older prospect — will be 26 as a rookie
- Suffered three major injuries in his three seasons in Lubbock: broken collarbone (Sept. 2021) and missed final nine games of first season; suffered same injury in season opener (Sept. 2022) of second season and missed six games; broke fibula in left leg (Sept. 2023), because of a hip-drop tackle, and missed remainder of junior season

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Louisville, Shough was productive in head coach Jeff Brohm's quarterback-friendly, spread offense (play action, spacing concepts, etc.). With one of the most unique college journeys in this class, he played three seasons at Oregon and three at Texas Tech before leading the Cardinals to an 8-4 record in 2024 — the first time in his seven-year college career that he played in more than eight games in a season.

With his drive velocity and body fluidity, Shough can make impressive rip-and-zip throws from a variety of arm slots and is a better athlete than expected, which helps him keep plays alive. His ability to expedite his process when the pocket deteriorates is promising, but he needs to improve his eye discipline to stay in sync with receivers when reading full progressions. Overall, Shough is overaged and needs to cut back on some of the high-risk passing decisions, but he is a gifted thrower with the functional mobility to work off schedule. He has the tools to work his way up a depth chart and make plays once on the field.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 50 overall)

QB5 Jalen Milroe

Alabama, 4JR

HOMETOWN Katy, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Tompkins	BIRTHDAY Dec 13, 2002	AGE 22.36	HT 6017	WT 216	NUM #4
----------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Jalen Milroe, who is one of three children (two boys, one girl), was born on a naval base into a military family. His father (Quentin) was in the United States Marine Corps (1999-2003) and was part of the first wave deployed to Iraq, a month after Jalen was born. His mother (Lola) was in the medical field for the Navy (1999-2004). After both of Milroe's parents retired from military life, the family moved from Maryland to Katy, Texas (just outside of Houston) in 2005. One of Milroe's first football memories is seeing highlights of Vince Young leading Texas to the national championship. Milroe got his start for the pee wee Ravens as part of the Katy Youth Football League and dreamed of being an NFL quarterback. His father was passionate about his son playing quarterback, and the two bonded through daily practice (Jalen has "Quentin" tattooed across his right arm). In sixth grade, Milroe played for the Football University Sun Devils (his father was a coach) and helped lead the team to a national championship.

Milroe enrolled at Obra D. Tompkins High in Katy and played on the freshman team his first season. He moved up to varsity and became the starting quarterback, transforming a team that had gone 0-10 in 2017 and led them to a 10-3 finish in 2018. He was the district's newcomer of the year (1,404 passing yards, 613 rushing yards and 20 total touchdowns). As a junior, Milroe was named district MVP, leading Tompkins to an 11-2 finish and the quarterfinals of the 2019 6A state playoffs. He finished his junior year with 2,689 yards passing, 29 touchdowns and eight interceptions, adding seven rushing touchdowns and one touchdown grab. As a senior, Milroe led Tompkins to a 10-1 record (only loss came in the playoff semifinals), including a win over powerhouse Katy High, which snapped Katy's 75-game winning streak in district play. Milroe posted 1,257 passing yards, 307 rushing yards and 18 total touchdowns his final season, earning an invitation to the Under Armour All-American Game.

Tompkins wasn't known as a strong football school, but the program went 31-6 during Milroe's three varsity years. Milroe also ran track as a sophomore.

A four-star recruit, Milroe was the 13th-ranked quarterback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 14 recruit in Texas (one spot ahead of Garrett Nussmeier). Before taking a varsity snap, he drew his first scholarship offer from Texas State (June 2018). His recruiting skyrocketed after his sophomore year with offers from Alabama, Florida, Florida State, Oregon, Texas A&M and several others. In June 2019, Milroe received an offer from Texas, the program he'd idolized growing up, and committed a month later. After Quinn Ewers committed to Texas in August 2020, Milroe felt like the coaches cooled on their interest in him, decommitted three days later and flipped to Alabama (Ewers later flipped to Ohio State before transferring to Texas under Steve Sarkisian).

He was the 14th-ranked recruit in former head coach Nick Saban's 2021 class. Milroe graduated cum laude (3.52 GPA) with a degree in business and entrepreneurship (Dec. 2023), then achieved a master's degree in sports management (Dec. 2024). He was awarded the 2024 William V. Campbell Trophy ("academic Heisman"), the second player in Alabama history to win it (Barrett Jones, 2012). Milroe also won the 2024 Pop Warner Little Scholars Award for his work in the classroom and community. Milroe elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (4/0)	3-7	42.9	41	1	0	15	57	3.80	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (8/1)	31-53	58.5	297	5	3	31	263	8.48	1	Backup behind Bryce Young
2023: (13/13)	187-284	65.8	2,834	23	6	161	531	3.30	12	Missed one game (lost starting job); team captain
2024: (13/13)	205-319	64.3	2,844	16	11	168	726	4.32	20	William V. Campbell Trophy; team captain
Total: (38/27)	426-663	64.3	6,016	45	20	375	1,577	4.21	33

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6017	217	9 3/8	30 5/8	76 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6016	216	9 1/2	31 1/8	76 1/8	4.40	2.57	1.56	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Electric ball carrier and accelerates to top speed quickly
- Offers both speed and physicality as runner
- Twelve rushing touchdowns of 10 yards or more in 2024, most by a quarterback in last 25 years (Lamar Jackson had 11 in 2016 and 2017)
- High-rpm arm strength to easily make far-hash throws with stationary feet
- Strong in pocket to shake off contact or deliver in face of pressure
- Created explosives in passing game (16 passing touchdowns in 2024 averaged 36.6 yards)
- Plays with competitive calm to his game
- Grew up in strict upbringing with military parents, which helped shape detailed focus and team-first mentality
- Two-time team captain (NFL scout: "He's extremely grounded. Tremendous attitude.")
- 21-6 record in 27 starts at Alabama

WEAKNESSES:

- Makes receivers work too often, because of erratic ball placement
- Completed just 52.8 percent of passes on third and fourth downs in 2024
- Inconsistent pacing and footwork — upper-body mechanics and eyes often on different pages
- More "see it" thrower than anticipation passer
- Stares down initial target; inefficient eliminating things quickly mid-read
- Few examples of him manipulating defenders on tape
- Poor quick-game touch and misses too many layups
- Guilty of peeking at rush and bailing too early
- More interceptions (seven) than passing touchdowns (six) on road in 2024
- Smaller hands — fumbled 29 times over past three seasons

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Alabama, Milroe was a dual-threat quarterback in head coach Kalen DeBoer's vertical-based offense. Though he showed gradual promise in 2023 under play caller Tommy Rees, his 2024 tape was much more a roller coaster of unpredictable highs (Georgia, Wisconsin) and lows (Tennessee, Oklahoma). He had 20 rushing touchdowns but had 10 interceptions and just five passing touchdowns in SEC play. A dangerous weapon on zone reads, options and powers, Milroe is an explosive athlete with the speed to rip off big gains at any moment (20 percent of his 2024 carries resulted in gains of 10 yards or more). As a passer, the ball shoots out of his hand to drive the ball to every level, but he throws with too much heat and needs to develop his changeup. His disjointed mechanics disrupt the rhythm in his drops, which leads to inconsistent accuracy, anticipation and processing. Overall, Milroe is unpolished as a passer, both physically and mentally, but he is a dynamic athlete with a unique blend of speed, arm strength and intelligence, making him an intriguing developmental option for a patient coaching staff. His upside is tough to measure, but it is higher considering he has the tools to switch positions if his time at quarterback doesn't pan out.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 73 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Southlake, TX	Carroll	Mar 15, 2003	22.11	6021	214	#3

BACKGROUND: Quinn Ewers (YOU-ers), who has an older sister (Kailey) and younger sister (Teddy-Ray), was born in San Antonio and grew up in the small town of Pleasanton, Texas (south of San Antonio), with his parents (Curtis and Kristen). His father works in the oil and gas field; mother is an elementary school teacher. Ewers started throwing passes with his father at age 3 and was a natural in several sports in elementary school. When he was in the third grade, in 2011, his family relocated for Curtis' job to the Dallas-Fort Worth area and settled in the football-rabid city of Southlake. Coached by his father, Ewers played quarterback for his pee wee team and started working with quarterback coach Joe McCulley in fourth grade. Ewers gained steam throughout middle school as one of the best up-and-coming quarterbacks in Texas, and he led his 7-on-7 Southlake team to multiple championships, including a state title in the summer of 2016. He also played basketball, baseball and golf, as well as outdoor activities, such as hunting and fishing. Ewers started training in high school with movement performance coach Bobby Stroupe.

Ewers enrolled at Southlake Carroll High, a perennial state title contender and program built by former NFL quarterbacks such as Greg McElroy and Chase Daniel. As a freshman in 2018, he saw time on varsity as the backup punter. Ewers became the varsity starting quarterback as a sophomore and led Carroll to a 13-1 record, its only loss coming in the 2019 6A state quarterfinal playoffs. He earned second-team all-state and district MVP honors in his first year as a starter with 72.4 percent completions (291 of 402) for 4,003 yards, 45 touchdowns and three interceptions, adding 568 rushing yards and nine rushing touchdowns. As a junior All-American, Ewers passed for 2,442 yards and 28 touchdowns in eight games but missed six games midseason because of a core muscle injury, which required surgery. He returned for the 2020 playoffs and led Carroll to the 6A state championship game, where it lost to Westlake. After initially planning to return for his senior season, Ewers elected to reclassify and enroll in college in the summer of 2021. He finished his prep career with 6,445 passing yards and 85 total touchdowns in his 22 starts. Ewers also lettered in baseball at Southlake Carroll.

A five-star recruit, Ewers was the top-ranked quarterback in the 2021 recruiting class, the No. 1 recruit in Texas and the No. 1 recruit nationally. He became just the sixth player to receive a perfect 1.0000 recruiting rating, joining Jadeveon Clowney, Rashan Gary, Vince Young, Robert Nkemdiche and Ernie Sims. Ewers received his first scholarship offer in seventh grade from North Texas. The summer after eighth grade, he picked up his first major offer from Urban Meyer and Ohio State (June 2018). Before he started a game in high school, Ewers added offers from Arkansas, Florida, Michigan, Michigan State, SMU and Texas A&M. Midway through his sophomore season, he received an offer from Texas, the program he'd grown up idolizing as a kid.

Ewers committed to the Longhorns in August 2020 but backed off that pledge midway through the 2020 season, as Tom Herman's program was struggling. Less than a month later, Ewers committed to Ohio State and head coach Ryan Day. After being informed that he would not be able to receive NIL money and remain eligible, Ewers elected to skip his senior season of high school and enroll at Ohio State in August 2021. Stuck behind C.J. Stroud on the depth chart (and homesick), Ewers entered the transfer portal in December 2021. With Steve Sarkisian now the head coach at Texas, Ewers transferred to the Longhorns. He earned more than $1 million in NIL money before starting a game in college football and just shy of $2 million during the 2024 season, according to reports. Ewers elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. Ewers declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (1/0)	0-0		0	0	0	0	0		0	Ohio State; redshirted; enrolled August 2021
2022: (10/10)	172-296	58.1	2,177	15	6	24	-52	-2.17	1	Texas; missed three games (left clavicle)
2023: (12/12)	272-394	69.0	3,479	22	6	59	75	1.27	5	Texas; Honorable Mention All-Big 12; missed two games (right shoulder)
2024: (14/14)	293-445	65.8	3,472	31	12	57	-82	-1.44	2	Texas; Second Team All-SEC; missed two games (oblique)
Total: (37/36)	737-1135	64.9	9,128	68	24	140	-59	-0.42	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6021	214	9 3/8	30 3/4	75	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6020	215	9 3/8	31 1/8	75 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Natural ball-handling skills with lightning-fast release, especially on RPOs
- Comfortable delivering dots when throwing off platform
- Able to access various arm angles and release points without sacrificing velocity
- Throws well to areas — very good curl/comeback passer
- Displays touch to all areas (64 completions of 20 yards or more ranked fourth most in FBS in 2024)
- Eye use and ability to hold/manipulate defenders improved each season
- Experienced changing protections at line based on pre-snap reads
- Able to execute subtle moves/slides in pocket to avoid rush
- Stays clear-minded regardless of score or situation — coaches say he doesn't "ride the emotional roller coaster" (see fourth-and-13 overtime touchdown on Arizona State tape)

- Several of best performances (2023 Alabama, 2024 Michigan) came in true road games (Steve Sarkisian: "He's a very calm guy ... (who) doesn't get affected by crowd noise.")
- Experienced starter; posted 27-9 record at Texas (11-1 in true road games), including back-to-back playoff appearances

WEAKNESSES:

- Not a bad athlete but legs don't present daunting threat
- Frequently drops eyes when moved from spot — shrinking pockets make him uncomfortable
- Too many frazzled decisions as passer and fooled at times by underneath zone defenders
- Most interceptions on 2024 tape came to the right and outside the numbers (see 2024 SEC title game vs. Georgia)
- Inconsistent deep-ball placement, often leaving throws short and creating turnover opportunities (completed just six of 24 attempts of more than 20 yards between the numbers in 2024)
- Has feel for touch to feather throws but needs to unload fastball more often
- Fumbled 10 times in 2024 (20 over his three seasons as a starter)
- Average body type and missed time each season because of injury: missed two games as junior with strained oblique (Sept. 2024); high right ankle sprain later that season (Nov. 2024) — didn't miss any time, but injury limited mobility; missed two games as sophomore because of Grade 2 AC joint sprain in right (throwing) shoulder (Oct. 2023); missed three games as redshirt freshman after spraining left clavicle (Sept. 2022); missed six games in final season of high school because of sports hernia, which required surgery (Oct. 2020)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Texas, Ewers operated well in head coach Steve Sarkisian's RPO-based spread scheme with heavy pre-snap movement (shifts, double-motions, return-motions, etc.). After a high-profile recruitment and transfer, he made key improvements over his time in Austin and engineered one of the best back-to-back runs in Longhorns history (25 total wins and two straight College Football Playoff appearances).

Though he trusts his arm over mechanics, Ewers creates rotational torque to get the ball out quickly and plays with fast eyes within the structure of the offense. He didn't have a ton of true dropbacks until third downs, which is when his inconsistent pocket presence led to more negative results (sacks and turnovers) than you want to see (55.8 percent completions, 9-to-7 touchdown-to-interception ratio on third downs in 2024). The physicality of a long season wore on his body and, though he was willing to play through pain, his execution clearly was affected. Overall, Ewers has the arm, intelligence and poise that will translate to the next level, although his up-and-down decision-making, limitations as a play extender and durability concerns create question marks for his pro ceiling. If he stays healthy, the tools are there to compete for NFL starting reps.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 86 overall)

QB7 Kyle McCord

Syracuse, 4SR

HOMETOWN Mt. Laurel, NJ	HIGH SCHOOL St. Joseph's Prep	BIRTHDAY Sep 19, 2002	AGE 22.59	HT 6030	WT 218	NUM #6
----------------------------	----------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Kyle McCord, who has an older brother and younger sister, was born and raised in southwestern New Jersey, across the Delaware River from Philadelphia. His parents (Derek and Stacy) met at Rutgers, where his father played quarterback (1989-92). McCord started playing at age 5 for the Mt. Laurel Fleetwood youth team. He was coached by his father, both in youth football and in the backyard, where he trained to play quarterback. Kyle often played up levels in youth football, including on rosters with his older brother (Cole), who was a standout lacrosse player in high school and signed in 2018 with Division III Ursinus to play tight end. After playing for the Fleetwood Indians in the South Jersey Elite Youth Football League in fifth grade, McCord joined the Pennsauken youth team to play against better competition (originally wore No. 16, like his father, before switching to No. 6 because of Mark Sanchez). It was in the PYAA that he started attracting attention from college programs. He played several other sports growing up, including basketball. McCord has been dating his girlfriend (Sophia Giangiordano) since high school.

McCord enrolled at St. Joseph's Preparatory School, a private Catholic school in Philadelphia that has produced several NFL players, including offensive lineman Jon Runyan Jr., quarterback Rich Gannon and running back D'Andre Swift. McCord earned the starting quarterback job on varsity as a sophomore (teammates with wide receiver Marvin Harrison Jr. and linebacker Jeremiah Trotter Jr.) and posted 2,883 passing yards and 38 touchdowns, leading the team to a 13-0 record and the 2018 PIAA state championship. He again helped St. Joseph's Prep to the state title in 2019 and finished with 2,399 passing yards and 31 touchdowns, despite missing the final four games because of injury. As a senior, McCord led the program to its third straight state championship (336 yards, four touchdowns in the title game) during a 2020 season abbreviated because of the COVID-19 pandemic. He earned all-state honors and league MVP honors as a senior and finished his prep career with the city and league records for career passing yards (6,887) and touchdown passes (88). McCord trained throughout high school with Matt and Phil Simms.

A five-star recruit, McCord was the sixth-ranked quarterback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Pennsylvania (one spot ahead of Trotter, three spots ahead of Harrison). He received his first scholarship offer (Central Michigan) in eighth grade. Before his sophomore year of high school (and before he became the full-time starter), McCord impressed enough at camps to draw offers from Boston College, Michigan and Rutgers (the program he'd grown up cheering for, because of his father). He was interested in offers from Clemson, Penn State and Stanford, too, but was drawn to Ohio State and committed to head coach Ryan Day in April 2019 (McCord and Harrison Jr. often talked about attending the same school). The Buckeyes chose McCord over J.J. McCarthy, who later signed with Michigan. McCord was the ninth-ranked recruit in Ohio State's 2021 class. Originally, he was the only quarterback in the Buckeyes' class, but Quinn Ewers decided to reclassify and joined him.

After three seasons in Columbus (one as the starter), McCord entered the transfer portal after the 2023 regular season. Ohio State wanted to retain him but was also looking to add competition for the starting job, so McCord made what he calls a "business decision" to transfer. He heard from several programs in the portal, but Syracuse was the most aggressive. McCord had several connections to the coaching staff: Syracuse head coach Fran Brown is a south New Jersey native and worked with McCord in middle school; offensive coordinator Jeff Nixon's son was on the same youth football team as McCord; quarterbacks coach Nunzio Campanile was head coach at Bergen Catholic in North New Jersey and tried to lure McCord to play for him in high school. McCord accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (5/1)	25-38	65.8	416	2	2	9	-16	-1.78	0	Ohio State; first career start replacing injured C.J. Stroud; enrolled January 2021
2022: (7/0)	16-20	80.0	190	1	0	3	4	1.33	0	Ohio State
2023: (12/12)	229-348	65.8	3,170	24	6	32	-65	-2.03	0	Ohio State; Third Team All-Big Ten; Missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2024: (13/13)	391-592	66.0	4,779	34	12	67	-65	-0.97	3	Syracuse; Second Team All-ACC; broke several records; enrolled January 2024
Total: (37/26)	661-998	66.2	8,555	61	20	111	-142	-1.28	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6030	218	9 1/2	31	74 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Excellent pre-snap process to decipher looks and understand where to go with the football
- Anticipates well — not afraid to put the ball where receiver will be (both inside and outside numbers)
- Puts the ball in prime locations for his receivers, especially on slants, fades and out patterns (deep and shallow)
- Solid arm talent — throws with adequate velocity and adds some arc, when needed
- Displays outstanding poise to execute in a crowd
- Rhythmic pocket movements mid-read to climb and help buy time for routes to develop
- No questions about his toughness or mindset
- Former high school and college teammate Marvin Harrison Jr. said McCord "prepares better than anyone else"
- Seamlessly inserted himself into culture at Syracuse and gained trust of the locker room
- Had a 22-4 record as a starter (12-1 at Ohio State, 10-3 at Syracuse)
- Rewrote nearly every single-season passing record at Syracuse with his 2024 production
- Ranks top seven in Syracuse history in career passing yards and passing touchdowns, despite just one year in program

WEAKNESSES:

- Average athlete and will struggle to consistently escape NFL pressures
- Inconsistent improvisational skill (better when programmed)
- Tight-window throws don't intimidate him but can lead to negative results (see 2024 UNLV and Pitt tapes)
- Doesn't have rapid release
- Will lock on to reads, leading underneath/overhang defenders to the catch point
- Tends to sail throws on the move

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Syracuse, McCord flourished in offensive coordinator Jeff Nixon's pass-happy spread system (62-38 pass-run ratio), which incorporated a little bit of everything (play action, heavy personnel, etc.). Despite a productive season at Ohio State in 2023, the two sides parted ways — Ryan Day wanted more mobility at quarterback, and McCord didn't want to be in a quarterback competition. McCord transferred to Syracuse, and it proved to be an ideal fit. He led the FBS in completions per game (30.1) and passing yards (4,779) in 2024, surpassing Deshaun Watson's previous ACC passing-yards record.

McCord doesn't have exceptional release quickness and needs to improve his eye work to keep defenses honest, but he operates with timing, touch and poise to put the ball in spots where his targets can make plays. Although his aggressiveness as a passer will backfire at times, it is also the key reason he led college football in several passing categories in 2024 and helped Syracuse to double-digit wins (third time in school history). Overall, McCord is average from a physical standpoint, and his lack of escapability limits his options, but he is a cool customer with the anticipation and conviction as a pocket passer to make plays when he has protection and capable talent around him. He projects as a backup option in the NFL, although there is starting potential there in the right situation.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

HOMETOWN Downington, PA	HIGH SCHOOL West	BIRTHDAY Sep 24, 2001	AGE 23.58	HT 6042	WT 236	NUM #18
----------------------------	---------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: William "Will" Howard, the oldest of four children (two boys, two girls), was born in West Chester, Pa. (30 miles west of Philadelphia), with his parents (Bob and Maureen). Bob worked in real estate finance and Maureen was a pediatric physical therapist. Will struggled sleeping as a baby, so his mother created a custom sleepsuit (she did the same with her three other children). The experiment was so successful that the family turned it into a business in 2008 and launched the "Baby Merlin's Magic Sleepsuit." The family eventually hired employees and added warehouse space, and Bob and Maureen quit their previous jobs to focus on the blossoming business, which the Howards sold in 2021.

Howard grew up starring in baseball, basketball and football, often playing up a grade level for better competition. He was a quarterback throughout pee wee football and led his team with 12 touchdowns at age 8. His younger brother (Ryan) also grew up playing football and signed with Kansas State as an offensive lineman in the 2024 recruiting class. Howard started training with quarterback coach Jeff Christensen before the 2024 season.

After the family moved to nearby Downington, Pa., Howard enrolled at Downington West High. He spent his freshman season on JV and as a varsity backup before winning the starting quarterback job as a sophomore (over a senior). Howard passed for 61.6 percent completions for 1,447 yards and 15 total touchdowns (nine passing, six rushing) in 2017. He missed part of his junior season because of a broken right arm but helped the program to an 11-win season and spot in the 6A state playoffs. As a senior, Howard led Downington West to a 13-2 record and the 2019 district title (program's first since 1996). He was named Maxwell Football Club Player of the Year in Pennsylvania (63.4 percent completions for 2,543 passing yards, 27 touchdowns and eight interceptions, plus 12 rushing touchdowns). Howard was an all-area performer in basketball and surpassed 1,000 career points.

A three-star recruit, Howard was the third-style pro-style quarterback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 7 recruit in Pennsylvania. His recruitment started to pick up the summer before his junior season, including an offer from Rutgers in June 2018. After his junior season, Howard added offers from Bowling Green, Maryland, Minnesota, Temple and Toledo. Several Ivy League schools also offered him, including Harvard and Yale (Howard graduated high school with a 4.34 GPA and 1,380 SAT). He'd grown up dreaming of playing at Penn State (his father's alma mater), but he never received an offer (Howard: "They didn't think I was good enough."). After sending his tape to Kansas State assistant coach Conor Riley, Howard received a call from head coach Chris Klieman, who offered him a scholarship. He committed in June 2019 and was the second-ranked recruit in Klieman's 2020 class. Over his first two and a half seasons with the Wildcats, Howard shared quarterback duties with Skylar Thompson and Adrian Martinez. He became the unquestioned starter midway through the 2022 season and led the team to the 2022 Big 12 Championship.

After the 2023 season, Howard took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and entered the transfer portal. He heard from several prominent programs, including Miami and USC, but he jumped at the Ohio State offer. Howard trained in the offseason with John Beck at 3DQB in Dallas. He was a three-time Academic All-Big 12 honoree and graduated from Kansas State with a degree in accounting (Dec. 2023). Howard graduated with a master's degree in sports coaching from Ohio State (Dec. 2024). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but was a late bail because of how long Ohio State's season lasted.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (9/7)	90-168	53.6	1,178	8	10	78	364	4.67	3	Kansas State; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (6/3)	30-55	54.5	332	1	1	32	184	5.75	4	Kansas State
2022: (7/6)	119-199	59.8	1,633	15	4	35	22	0.63	3	Kansas State
2023: (12/12)	219-357	61.3	2,643	24	10	81	351	4.33	9	Kansas State; Second Team All-Big 12; 8-yard TD catch; team captain
2024: (16/16)	309-423	73.0	4,010	35	10	105	226	2.15	7	Ohio State; Third Team All-Big Ten; national championship game Off. MVP
Total: (50/44)	767-1202	63.8	9,796	83	35	331	1,147	3.47	26

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	236	9	32	77 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	9' 4"	4.33	7.13	No 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	6041	239	9 1/8	32 7/8	77	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, big-boned body type and comfortably carries his weight
- Plays large in pocket to handle muck around him
- Mechanics will affect touch at times but generally an accurate passer (FBS-best 70 percent completion rate on non-screens in 2024)
- Noticeable improvement from start of 2024 when layering throws between levels of the defense
- Looks down gun barrel and keeps his eyes downfield (always knows where checkdown is)

- Mobile athlete for size and effective on option plays, designed reads and extended plays
- Ranked No. 2 in FBS in 2024 with eight completions of 50 yards or more
- Helped Ohio State to touchdown on 29 of 31 goal-to-go drives (2024 red-zone stats: 26 total touchdowns, one interception, one sack)
- Tough-minded and doesn't bring mistakes with him to the next play
- Big shoulders are comfortable carrying palpable pressure (plenty of big-game experience)
- Coaches praise his leadership behind the scenes, especially during practice
- Team captain at Kansas State (Cooper Beebe: "I love that dude to death. He's a great leader.") and gradually won over Ohio State locker room, especially late in 2024 (Emeka Egbuka: "He gets along with everybody. He's definitely upped the team chemistry in the locker room.")
- Set Kansas State career record for touchdown passes (48) and broke C.J. Stroud's single-season Ohio State completion percentage record (73.1 percent)
- Career 30-14 record (27-7 over final three seasons)

WEAKNESSES:

- Mechanics and delivery tend to get tight, partly because of body thickness
- Arm strength more adequate than above average (tends to push ball, instead of driving it)
- Struggled with passing anticipation over middle of field
- Stubborn tendencies with preferred read, not seeing defensive traps set for him
- Feet tend to get stagnant in pocket on progression-based reads
- Pocket management on deep drops needs further development (benefited from quick throws and plays designed to move his throwing platform)
- More functional than dynamic as an athlete
- Impulsive decision-making as ball carrier — left too much yardage on the field because of incorrect read or shaky run balance
- Fumbled eight times in 2024
- Played with arguably best offensive roster in college football in 2024

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Ohio State, Howard was a terrific fit in former offensive coordinator Chip Kelly's RPO-based scheme with a ton of creativity in both the run and pass games. It isn't easy arriving at a top program and becoming the clear leader in a short period of time, but Howard was able to do that in Columbus after spending four promising years at Kansas State. Despite several bumps during the regular season, he led the Buckeyes to the 2024 national championship and played his best in the four-game playoff stretch (75.2 percent completions, 287.5 passing yards per game, 8-to-2 touchdown-to-interception ratio).

A well-built athlete, Howard sets up quickly and throws well enough to all levels, doing some of his best work on designed rollouts and waggles to move his launch point. His aggressiveness as a passer will bite him at times, especially when he locks onto his preferred read — his ability to quickly get deeper into progressions will be crucial at the next level. Overall, Howard has a couple plays on each tape that make evaluators question if his decision-making and placement are consistent enough for him to be an NFL starter. But he has the physical requirements, intelligence and mental resiliency to stick as a backup and potential spot-starter.

GRADE: 4th round

QB9 Dillon Gabriel

Oregon, 6SR

HOMETOWN Mililani, HI	HIGH SCHOOL Mililani	BIRTHDAY Dec 28, 2000	AGE 24.32	HT 5111	WT 205	NUM #8
--------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Dillon Gabriel, the second of three boys, was born and raised in Mililani, Hawaii, on the island of Oahu, with his parents (Garrett and Dori). He grew up in a football family and developed a passion for the quarterback position at age 4. Garrett played quarterback in college at Hawaii (1986-90) and left as the school's all-time leading passer (5,638 yards and 47 touchdowns). He is now a school counselor and coaches the Mililani High basketball team, but he also coached all three of his boys in different sports throughout the youth levels. Each of the Gabriel boys is named after an NFL player: Garrison (Garrison Hearst), Dillon (Corey Dillon) and Roman (Roman Gabriel).

Dillon was a quarterback throughout pee wee and Pop Warner and led the Manoa Paniolos to the 2012 Division II Pop Warner Super Bowl. He also played baseball and basketball throughout both elementary and middle school. Gabriel attended the Punahou School, a private college prep school in Honolulu (same academy Barack Obama attended), throughout middle school. Because of the high tuition, however, the family decided that Gabriel would attend public high school.

Gabriel enrolled at Mililani High and started out on the JV squad as a freshman. But when varsity starter McKenzie Milton was injured, Gabriel was called up to varsity and immediately showed he belonged before his season was also cut short because of a shoulder injury. He returned strong as a sophomore and led the team to the 2016 Division I state championship, finishing the season with 2,704 passing yards, 28 touchdowns, 14 interceptions and seven rushing touchdowns. After leading Mililani to the 2017 league title as a junior, Gabriel was named 2018 Gatorade Hawaii Player of the Year and Oahu Offensive Player of the Year Award as a senior, earning his third straight first-team All-Oahu honors. He finished his final season with 3,754 passing yards and 38 touchdowns and helped Mililani to a 10-win season and the 2018 state championship game (lost to undefeated St. Louis High). Gabriel finished his high school career with a state-record 9,948 career passing yards, passing both Timmy Chang and Tua Tagovailoa. He also finished second in state history with 105 passing touchdowns.

A three-star recruit, Gabriel was the 27th-ranked pro-style quarterback in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 9 recruit in Hawaii. He started to receive recruiting attention after leading Mililani to the state championship as a sophomore, but he held only Air Force, Army and Hawaii offers through his junior season. Gabriel initially committed to Army the summer before his senior season (June 2018). But other schools started to take notice during his senior season — including UCF, at the urging of Milton, who was thriving as the Golden Knights' quarterback. UCF initially offered Gabriel a grayshirt but upped it to a full offer after Georgia and USC offered scholarships late in the process. Because of his relationship with then-offensive coordinator Jeff Lebbby (and the prospect of playing early), Gabriel committed to UCF. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in former head coach Josh Heupel's 2019 class. With Milton recovering from a major knee injury, Gabriel took over as starter for three seasons.

After his own season-ending injury in 2021 (under head coach Gus Malzahn), though, Gabriel entered the transfer portal. He initially looked at Ole Miss to rejoin Lebbby, who'd been named offensive coordinator for the Rebels. But Lebbby left that position to be Oklahoma's play caller, and the Sooners had Caleb Williams entrenched as the quarterback. Gabriel instead committed to UCLA and former head coach Chip Kelly. The day before his first online class at UCLA (Jan. 2022), however, he received a phone call from Lebbby, with the news that Williams was entering the transfer portal (he later signed with USC). Despite having never visited Oklahoma or met head coach Brent Venables in person, Gabriel flipped to the Sooners. After two seasons in Norman, he planned to enter the 2024 NFL Draft but had mostly late-round and undrafted grades, so he took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to college for his sixth season.

With Lebbby leaving to be head coach at Mississippi State and five-star quarterback Jackson Arnold waiting in the wings, Gabriel entered the transfer portal. He heard from numerous schools over the next week before deciding that Oregon was the right choice. Gabriel grew up idolizing Hawaii native Marcus Mariota, who's now a mentor for him (both players wore No. 8 at Oregon).

Gabriel's older brother (Garrison) is his business manager and joint-owner of "DG the Brand," Gabriel's clothing line ("DG" stands for his initials and the phrase "Dedicated to Greatness"). Gabriel started dating his girlfriend (Zoe Caswell) in sixth grade and the couple got engaged in September 2024 (Caswell originally attended UMass before joining Gabriel at Oklahoma). He has donated a significant portion of his NIL income to different causes, including more than $250,000 to his former high school for new jerseys, helmets and accessories for the football team. He graduated from Oklahoma with a degree in communication and media studies and was a finalist for the 2024 William V. Campbell Trophy ("academic Heisman"). Gabriel accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (13/12)	236-398	59.3	3,653	29	7	71	78	1.10	4	UCF; bowl game MVP; UCF freshman passing records; enrolled January 2019
2020: (10/10)	248-413	60.0	3,570	32	4	72	169	2.35	2	UCF; Second Team All-AAC; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (3/3)	70-102	68.6	814	9	3	24	125	5.21	2	UCF; missed final 10 games (left clavicle)
2022: (12/12)	230-367	62.7	3,168	25	6	89	315	3.54	6	Oklahoma; missed one game (concussion); Big 12 Offensive Newcomer of Year
2023: (12/12)	266-384	69.3	3,660	30	6	93	373	4.01	12	Oklahoma; missed bowl game (transfer portal); First Team All-Big 12
2024: (14/14)	326-447	72.9	3,857	30	6	75	149	1.99	7	Oregon; First Team All-American; Big Ten Off. POY; First Team All-Big Ten
Total: (64/63)	1376-2111	65.2	18,722	155	32	424	1,209	2.85	33

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	5111	205	9 1/4	29 5/8	73	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Left hand measured (left-handed QB); pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	199	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Efficient lefty passer with quick-trigger release
- Competes with veteran awareness, both in muddy pockets and in space
- Shows outstanding feel to patiently sort through the rush, elude pressure and buy time
- Foot quickness allows for sudden resets with his base and mechanics
- Keeps eyes downfield and doesn't panic when locating secondary progressions
- Doesn't have a power arm but spins tight, accurate spirals in short to intermediate game
- Excellent touch on deep bucket throws, especially over middle of the field on post routes
- Nifty escapability — will take advantage of free yards
- Intensely competitive; teammates say he brings same infectious energy each day (NFL scout: "The coaches say he is obsessed with winning.")
- Highly respected teammate; hosted Airbnb bonding retreats for teammates (drives same Chrysler Pacifica van he's had for years, partly because it has room for his family and teammates)
- Incredible career production; started more games (63) than any other quarterback in FBS history

WEAKNESSES:

- Short stature with smaller hands and maxed-out build
- Deep throws outside numbers often lose life, requiring receivers to slow their strides
- Struggles to add zip — lack of arm strength shows on the move or with limited foot space
- Average anticipation — more of a "see it" decision-maker
- Quick-game and checkdowns helped inflate completion percentage
- Had trouble recognizing underneath defenders, especially in red zone (four of six interceptions in 2024 came in goal-to-go situations)
- Will turn 25 as a rookie
- Missed game against Texas first season at Oklahoma because of concussion (Oct. 2022); missed final 10 games of final season at UCF with broken left clavicle (Sept. 2021)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Oregon, Gabriel was a productive passer in offensive coordinator Will Stein's balanced spread scheme (51 percent pass to 49 percent run). After three seasons at UCF and two at Oklahoma, he led the Ducks to a 13-1 record and 2024 Big Ten Championship, winning Big Ten Offensive Player of the Year and finishing third in Heisman Trophy voting. With six years of college football and 63 starts under his belt, he set the FBS record with 189 total touchdowns (155 passing, 33 rushing, one receiving) and ranks No. 2 all-time in passing yards (18,722).

A point guard-style quarterback, Gabriel is willing to scan from the pocket and deliver accurate balls with a twitchy release, although he is often too willing to bypass tight windows and settle for the checkdown. He isn't an electric athlete, by any means, but he is very poised and confident and plays with exceptional feel for navigating pressure to create second-chance plays. Overall, Gabriel looks small in the pocket and has some limitations as a downfield thrower, but he is a rhythm passer with the football instincts and mature intangibles to overcome his physical shortcomings. A savvy lefty with a quick release, he has similarities to Tua Tagovailoa — and has a fighting chance to earn a backup role in the NFL.

GRADE: 4th round

QB10 Riley Leonard

Notre Dame, 4SR

HOMETOWN Fairhope, AL	HIGH SCHOOL Fairhope	BIRTHDAY Sep 13, 2002	AGE 22.61	HT 6036	WT 216	NUM #13
--------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Riley Leonard, the middle child of three boys, was born in Mount Pleasant, S.C. (outside of Charleston). When he was in kindergarten, his parents (Chad and Heather), who met in high school in Washington D.C., relocated the family to Fairhope, Ala. Chad graduated from Gonzaga Prep and played basketball at The Citadel (1992-95), setting the school record for steals in a season (68). Heather graduated with a degree in special education from College of Charleston. Riley's uncle (Michael Sabol) played basketball at Georgetown (1990-91); his great-grandfather (James Curran), who later became a lieutenant in the Air Force, played football at Notre Dame (1938-40) — Riley's middle name is James in his honor.

Leonard played every sport he could throughout childhood, starting with T-ball and pee-wee at age 4. He was a quarterback throughout pee wee football in Fairhope and played baseball until seventh grade. However, basketball was his favorite sport most of his life, and he expected to follow in his father's footsteps.

Leonard attended Fairhope High, where he was a four-year letterman in basketball and football. With an upperclassman (Devin Mitchell) entrenched at quarterback, Leonard played wide receiver for two seasons, posting 26 catches for 536 yards and six touchdowns as a sophomore (had one start at quarterback when Mitchell was injured and led Fairhope to a win). Leonard became the full-time starter as a junior and completed 59.3 percent of his passes (102 of 172) for 1,231 yards, adding 499 rushing yards and eight rushing touchdowns. As a senior, he led Fairhope to an 8-4 record and finished with 72.7 percent completions (149 of 205) for 1,870 yards and 20 touchdowns, adding 494 rushing yards and five rushing touchdowns (plus a 47-yard receiving touchdown). Leonard earned all-state honors as a senior and twice was tabbed the Edward Jones Coastal Male Athlete of the Year.

On the basketball court, he averaged 17.9 points as a sophomore. As a junior, Leonard led Fairhope to a 23-5 record and the school's first final four appearance (20.9 points and 8.5 rebounds per game). As a senior, he was named 7A Player of the Year with 20.8 points, 7.9 rebounds and 2.5 assists per game, leading the team to a 27-2 record. Leonard surpassed 2,000 career points. He joined the track team as a senior and had personal bests of 5 feet, 10 inches in the high jump, 21-7 in the long jump, 43-8 in the triple jump and 48.21 seconds in the 300-meter hurdles.

A three-star recruit, Leonard was the 47th-ranked quarterback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 28 recruit in Alabama. He received more attention as a basketball recruit before his junior year of high school, earning multiple Division I offers compared to just one FBS football offer (nearby South Alabama). But after his junior year (his first as starting quarterback), interest from several major football programs started to pick up. David Morris, co-founder of Quarterback Country and former backup to Eli Manning at Ole Miss, trained Leonard throughout high school and convinced former Duke head coach David Cutcliffe to give him an offer, sight unseen. Leonard added offers from Nebraska, Syracuse, Tulane and others, but he committed to Duke because of those connections. Leonard was the sixth-ranked recruit in the Blue Devils' 2021 class. Cutcliffe resigned after the 2021 season, and Leonard played under Mike Elko for two seasons.

After the 2023 season, Elko took the Texas A&M job, so Leonard entered the transfer portal. He immediately heard from several top programs, including Alabama, Auburn, Georgia, Ohio State and Oregon. But Leonard was drawn to the culture and opportunity at Notre Dame (he didn't visit any other schools). He committed to head coach Marcus Freeman and the Irish for his final season. Leonard has been dating his girlfriend (Molly Walding) since high school — he was the star quarterback at Fairhope High; she was a cheerleader. Leonard twice earned Academic All-ACC honors at Duke. He reportedly had an NIL valuation estimated at around $1.6 million in 2024. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and didn't bail, despite playing in the national championship game the week prior.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (7/1)	37-62	59.7	381	1	1	47	173	3.68	2	Duke; enrolled June 2021
2022: (13/13)	250-391	63.9	2,967	20	6	124	699	5.64	13	Duke; Honorable Mention All-ACC; Bowl game MVP; led team in rushing
2023: (7/7)	95-165	57.6	1,102	3	3	58	352	6.07	4	Duke; team captain; missed final six games (ankle)
2024: (16/16)	269-403	66.7	2,861	21	8	184	906	4.92	17	Notre Dame; Sugar Bowl Off. MVP; Orange Bowl Off. MVP; team captain
Total: (43/37)	651-1021	63.8	7,311	45	18	413	2,130	5.16	36

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6036	216	9 1/2	31 5/8	77 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6035	213	9 3/8	32 1/4	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Sturdy-framed passer with quality size for position
- Above-average athlete, particularly in run game (option schemes, designed reads, etc.)
- Accelerates quickly to challenge pursuit angles and win races to the corner
- Super competitive as runner, with contact balance to break tackles and finish (eight carries of 20 yards or more in 2024)
- Willingly throws body around on QB power
- Doesn't have elite arm but can make stick throws and drive the ball to sideline
- Will drop ball in bucket on deep iso routes
- Plays both strong and slippery in pocket to buy time and deliver with bodies crowding him
- Good balance in his feet to make snap throws from different platforms and arm angles
- Special intangibles — humble and respectful, yet an authentic leader who can take command
- Team captain at both Duke and Notre Dame — wins over locker room
- Finished college career 27-10 as a starter

WEAKNESSES:

- Wasn't asked to consistently push ball downfield (89th in FBS with 178.8 passing yards per game in 2024)
- Passes show manageable accuracy but ball placement lacks precision
- Occasionally scanned left to right but tends to rush with inconsistent read-to-read pacing
- Gets stuck on targets too long and gives away intentions with his eyes
- Not a true anticipation thrower (yet)
- Erratic internal clock, with bad habit of bailing from workable pockets
- Decisions are too often influenced by pressure
- Finishes headfirst as runner and doesn't shy from taking hits, which creates durability concerns
- Injured right ankle in fifth game of junior season (Sept. 2023) and played in two more games before shutting things down; underwent tigh trope surgery (Jan. 2024) and required second surgery (March 2024) to address a potential stress fracture, which sidelined him for Notre Dame's spring practices

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Notre Dame, Leonard operated well in offensive coordinator Mike Denbrock's run-heavy scheme, which was molded around the quarterback's dual-threat skills. After putting himself on the NFL radar during his sophomore season at Duke, he transferred to South Bend for his senior year and led the Irish to the 2024 national championship game. He was one of just six FBS quarterbacks to surpass 900 rushing yards in 2024, and he set the Notre Dame single-season record for rushing touchdowns by a quarterback (17).

With his instinctive athleticism, Leonard impacts the game in different ways, including as a ball carrier, scrambler and when using evasive maneuvers to stay alive in the pocket. As a passer, he has a quality arm but wasn't able to let it loose on his 2024 tape and will need to prove that he has the anticipation and placement to consistently push the ball downfield. Overall, Leonard has an interesting upside because of his athletic passing tools and elite makeup, but it will take time for him to develop NFL-caliber field vision and pocket rhythm. He projects as a backup in a scheme that leverages his mobility.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Oakville, Ontario	Holy Trinity	Oct 25, 2000	24.50	6042	220	#9

BACKGROUND: Kurtis Rourke, the youngest of two boys, was born and raised in Oakville, Ontario (west of Toronto), with his parents (Larry and Robyn). His older brother (Nathan), who also played quarterback at Holy Trinity, started at Fort Scott (Kan.) Community College before transferring to Ohio, where he was a three-year starter (2017-2019). Nathan went undrafted in the 2020 NFL Draft but was selected No. 15 in the 2020 CFL Draft and played two seasons for the BC Lions. He then spent time on the practice squads of the Jacksonville Jaguars, New England Patriots, New York Giants and Atlanta Falcons before returning to the CFL. Before the 2024 season, he signed with the BC Lions for $600,000 per year, making him the league's highest-paid player.

Kurtis Rourke grew up playing whatever sport his older brother was playing, including basketball, hockey, soccer and football. He first played football at age 4 and later led his youth team to multiple championships. He followed in his brother's footsteps and enrolled at Holy Trinity Catholic Secondary School in Oakville. Nathan was entrenched as the starter; Kurtis served as the backup. For his senior season in 2015, Nathan transferred to Edgewood Academy in Alabama for added exposure, and Kurtis and Robyn joined him. Nathan played well, but Kurtis was stuck on the bench (in football and basketball) and returned to Holy Trinity for his junior season. He led Holy Trinity to the 2017 Halton Championship as a senior but was underrecruited, so he took advantage of Ontario allowing for an extra year of high school and returned for his fifth season in 2018. He finished his prep career with 4,250 passing yards, 705 rushing yards and 69 total touchdowns (63 passing, six rushing), twice earning league MVP honors. Rourke also played forward on the basketball team throughout high school.

A three-star recruit, Rourke was the 84th-ranked pro-style quarterback in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit from Canada. He received several offers to play collegiately in Canada, but his extra season of high school put him on the radar of several MAC schools. He had an obvious connection at Ohio, where Nathan made sure the coaches were aware of his younger brother. He committed in May 2018 and was the eighth-ranked recruit in the Bobcats' 2019 class. The Rourke brothers were teammates at Ohio in 2019. After five seasons, Kurtis Rourke took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2023). He considered offers from BYU, Vanderbilt and Wake Forest but was drawn to the new coaching staff at Indiana, led by head coach Curt Cignetti, a former college quarterback.

While at Ohio, Rourke served as vice president of Athletes in Action, a ministry organization. He was a three-time Academic All-MAC honoree and a second-team Academic All-American. Rourke graduated with two degrees from Ohio: an undergraduate in communication and media studies, and a master's in coaching. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl. In college, Kurtis started dating Caroline Clippard, a three-time All-MAC volleyball player at Ohio (2021-23). The couple got engaged in June 2023 and married in February 2024 in Cincinnati (Nathan was his best man). Caroline joined Kurtis in Bloomington and worked for Indiana University as a marketing manager.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (1/0)	0-0	0	0	0	0	3	20	6.67	0	Ohio; redshirted; enrolled January 2019
2020: (3/3)	30-44	68.2	386	3	0	14	17	1.21	0	Ohio; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/9)	169-259	65.3	1,801	11	7	74	327	4.42	3	Ohio; missed two games (knee); team captain
2022: (11/11)	244-353	69.1	3,256	25	4	74	249	3.36	4	Ohio; MAC Off. POY; First Team All-MAC; missed final three games (ACL); captain
2023: (11/11)	195-307	63.5	2,207	11	5	67	219	3.27	4	Ohio; Second Team All-MAC; missed one game (injury); team captain
2024: (12/12)	222-320	69.4	3,042	29	5	46	-35	-0.76	2	Indiana; Second Team All-Big Ten; missed one game (thumb)
Total: (48/46)	860-1283	67.0	10,692	79	21	278	797	2.87	13

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	220	9 3/8	30 1/4	75 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: right knee)
PRO DAY	6040	220	9 5/8	30 3/4	74 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Big-bodied passer and pretty easy thrower of the football
- Ball comes off hand with velocity and pace, even when he doesn't generate torque from lower half
- Not shy squeezing throws into tight windows and giving receivers chances to make plays
- Throws deep ball with timing and touch — puts air under passes to drop them in bucket
- Finds favorable matchups pre-snap to avoid holding the ball in pocket
- Willing to stand in and deliver the ball before taking a shot
- Able to slide away from pass-rush lanes to buy second-chance throws
- Thirteen rushing touchdowns over past four seasons
- Proven toughness battling back from several injuries — played hurt all of 2024
- Three-time team captain at Ohio (earned MAC's 2022 Vern Smith Leadership award)

WEAKNESSES:

- Wasn't asked to work through many progressions in Indiana offense
- Average foot quickness — not a threat to beat defenses with his legs
- Plays poised but will peek at the rush when pocket starts to show cracks
- Inconsistent throwing between levels of the defense, and his interceptions usually came from leaving throws short
- Ball placement tends to be high — has some things to work through mechanically in lower body
- Fumbled seven times in 2024
- Will be 25 as a rookie
- Lack of durability is bright red flag: knocked out of 2020 season finale with left shoulder injury; torn ACL in right knee (Nov. 2022), which required season-ending surgery (wore brace on right knee in 2023); right thumb injury (Oct. 2024), which required surgery and sidelined him for one game; again tore ACL in right knee (Aug. 2024) — played through injury (with heavy brace) during 2024 season but missed most of draft process after undergoing surgery (Jan. 2025)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Indiana, Rourke was productive in offensive coordinator Mike Shanahan's RPO spread scheme. After five seasons at Ohio, he joined the Hoosiers in 2024 and set a single-season school record with 31 total touchdowns, as he engineered an offense that led the program to an 11-2 finish and spot in the inaugural 12-team College Football Playoff.

When in structure, Rourke delivers with anticipation, pace and placement and is at his best on isolation routes, especially back shoulders and sideline bucket throws. Though fearless in the pocket, his struggles start to pop up when forced to move from his spot, which leads to lower-body mechanical issues and inaccuracy — he completed just 57 percent of his passes and averaged 163 passing yards against the three best defenses on the 2024 schedule (Michigan, Notre Dame, Ohio State). Overall, Rourke is a good-sized pocket passer who will push the ball downfield when everything stays on schedule, but his average mobility will be tough to mask against NFL defenses. He is a potential Aidan O'Connell-level backup, if he stays healthy.

GRADE: 6th round

QB12 Cam Miller

North Dakota State, 5SR

HOMETOWN Solon, IA	HIGH SCHOOL Solon	BIRTHDAY Jun 18, 2001	AGE 23.85	HT 6007	WT 215	NUM #7
-----------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Camden "Cam" Miller, who has an older sister (McKenna), was born and raised in Solon, Iowa (just outside of Cedar Rapids), with his parents (Kevin and Nichole). His father played quarterback at Solon High and led the program to its first state title in 1989 before playing college basketball at Division III Loras. Kevin went into coaching and became head football coach at Solon in 2002, leading the program to four straight state titles (2007-10). He retired from coaching with 190 wins over 18 seasons (2002-19). Cam Miller, meanwhile, grew up on the sidelines as a water boy and ball boy, then started his own career at the pee-wee level. Like his dad, he was a multisport standout — he also shined in baseball and basketball throughout childhood.

Miller enrolled at Solon High and played for his father. He became the varsity starting quarterback in 2017 as a sophomore and took snaps from senior center Tyler Linderbaum, who went on to play at Iowa and became a Pro Bowler for the Baltimore Ravens. He also played safety (former NFL defensive end Aaron Kampman was a defensive coach on staff at Solon). As a senior, Miller passed for 2,436 yards and 28 touchdowns, plus rushed for 840 yards and 12 touchdowns, earning first-team all-state honors and all-conference honors for the third straight season. He led Solon to a 14-1 finish in 2019, its lone loss coming in the state championship game (Kevin retired from coaching after the 2019 season). Miller finished his three years as a starter with a 32-3 record (all three losses came in the state playoffs). He was also a standout baseball player at Solon and twice earned all-state honors as a pitcher, setting the school ERA record (0.60).

A three-star recruit, Miller was the 25th-ranked dual-threat quarterback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 10 recruit Iowa (No. 2 quarterback in the state behind Hunter Dekkers). He received his first scholarship offer to play baseball from South Dakota State in January 2019, and his family expected him to go that route for college. His first football scholarship came from Northern Iowa in May 2019. South Dakota State offered him for football a month later, but once North Dakota State offered in June 2019, Miller accepted on the spot. He was the top-ranked recruit in the Bison's 2020 class. Miller took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his fifth season. He twice won the MVFC Commissioner's Academic Excellence Award and graduated with a degree in marketing (May 2024). Miller accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (8/2)	30-59	50.8	363	2	3	55	176	3.20	4	Pandemic-shortened season; season played in spring 2021
2021: (13/8)	103-151	68.2	1,444	14	3	69	280	4.06	4	Started final eight games
2022: (15/15)	160-244	65.6	1,975	13	5	122	561	4.60	15
2023: (15/15)	208-291	71.5	2,687	19	4	135	629	4.66	13	Second Team All-American; Second Team All-MVFC
2024: (16/16)	258-351	73.5	3,251	33	4	145	631	4.35	12	First Team All-American; MVFC Off. POY; First Team All-MVFC; team captain
Total: (67/56)	759-1096	69.3	9,720	81	19	526	2,277	4.33	48

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
PRO DAY	6007	215	9 5/8	30 1/8	73 1/8	4.82	2.82	1.68	32	9'3"	4.33	7.00

STRENGTHS:

- Delivers with balance in drops, quiet feet and a clean stroke
- Puts premium on placement and optimal spots for receiver
- Comfortable cycling through reads in timely fashion
- Anticipates windows and trusts receivers to get there
- Takes care of the football (four interceptions and one fumble over 16 games in 2024)
- Opportunistic athlete to buy time and take yards when they are there
- Voted a 2024 team captain and known for unflappable play in high-pressure situations
- Faced only two FBS opponents in career (Arizona in 2022, Colorado in 2022) but was productive in both games (82.4 percent completions, 401 passing yards, five total touchdowns, zero interceptions)
- Started 54 straight games to finish career (45-11 career record as starter)

WEAKNESSES:

- Modest size by NFL standards and can be swallowed up in pocket
- Good-enough arm strength but timing must be perfect to get pass there before the defender
- Ball needs to come out quicker on downfield shots
- Gets through progressions too fast on some reads, lingers too long on others
- Still improving footwork in the pocket to keep his eyes, hips and feet on same page
- Bad habit of dropping eyes late in down
- 54 of 56 career starts came against FCS competition

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at North Dakota State, Miller was the point guard of former offensive coordinator Jake Landry's run-heavy scheme (averaged just 21.9 pass attempts per game). A two-time FCS national champion as a starter (2022 and 2024), he set school records for career passing yards (9,720), completions (759) and total offense (11,997).

Miller is an intelligent game manager who takes what the defense gives him and relies on timing and placement over pure arm power. The son of a football coach, his mental approach and on-field production showed improvements each season, although he will continue to have his doubters because of the level of competition he faced. Overall, Miller won't wow you right away, because the physical traits are average. The more you watch, though, the more you come to appreciate his decision-making and feel for the position. He can be an asset in an NFL quarterback room as a reserve.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

QB13 Max Brosmer

Minnesota, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Roswell, GA	Centennial	Mar 28, 2001	24.07	6016	218	#16

BACKGROUND: Max Brosmer (BROZE-mer), the oldest of two boys, was born in Davenport, Iowa, with his parents (Colin and Jayna). He grew up in Ohio as a Buckeyes fan (his father played club volleyball at Ohio State) and got his start in little league sports. He initially played wide receiver before moving to quarterback (Troy Smith was his favorite player growing up). At the start of middle school, his family relocated to the Atlanta suburbs, where he continued playing youth sports with a focus on football. He also loves to fish and started playing the guitar at age 12. He wrote a country song titled "Old Jack Daniels" during the COVID-19 pandemic and recorded it in March 2023 (it's available on YouTube). His younger brother (Fish) is a trumpet performance major at Georgia State. Brosmer started working with quarterback coach Quincy Avery during high school.

Brosmer attended Centennial High in Roswell, where he started out on the freshman and JV teams his first two years while also gaining varsity experience. As a junior in 2017, he became the starter on varsity and led the team to an 8-4 record, including a win in the opening round of the 6A state playoffs. Brosmer earned all-region and all-county honors with 73.6 percent completions (231-for-314) for 3,750 yards, 30 touchdowns and 11 touchdowns, plus five rushing touchdowns. As a senior, he led Centennial to another postseason berth but suffered a left knee injury in the regular-season finale and was sidelined for the playoffs (Centennial lost in the first round). Brosmer was named the 2018 regional offensive player of the year with 3,459 passing yards, 31 touchdowns and six interceptions, along with 618 rushing yards and a pair of rushing touchdowns.

A two-star recruit, Brosmer was the 150th-ranked pro-style quarterback in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 286 recruit in Georgia. He was a late bloomer and had a slow start getting noticed by recruiters. He took visits to several FBS programs (Appalachian State, North Carolina, Tennessee), but offers didn't follow. The summer before his senior year, Brosmer picked up his first scholarship offers from Ivy League programs Columbia, Dartmouth and Yale. A few other FCS schools offered, including Dayton and Northern Colorado, but New Hampshire made a strong push at the start of his senior season and Brosmer committed in September 2018. New Hampshire honored the scholarship offer after Brosmer's late-season knee injury in November 2018. Georgia head coach Kirby Smart made a late push with a preferred walk-on opportunity (Smart visited Centennial via helicopter), but Brosmer was already set on New Hampshire. He enrolled early and rehabbed his knee before becoming the first quarterback in school history to start as a true freshman. He was roommates with running back Dylan Laube (2024 sixth-round pick of the Las Vegas Raiders) for three seasons.

After five seasons in the program, Brosmer entered the transfer portal in November 2023 to challenge himself at the FBS level. He immediately received offers from several MAC programs (Buffalo and Western Michigan), but Minnesota gave him the chance to play in the Big Ten and Brosmer connected really well with the Gophers' coaches and culture. He joined the team in December 2023. Brosmer graduated with a degree in biomedical science from New Hampshire. He is also working on a master's in kinesiology. Brosmer accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (11/10)	183-311	58.8	1,967	12	12	55	28	0.51	3	New Hampshire; started final 10 games; enrolled January 2019
2020: (1/1)	20-35	57.1	128	2	0	4	-8	-2.00	0	New Hampshire; one-game season in spring 2021 because of pandemic
2021: (-/-)	NA-NA									New Hampshire; missed season because of right knee injury
2022: (13/13)	263-420	62.6	3,154	27	8	75	117	1.56	2	New Hampshire
2023: (11/11)	293-458	64.0	3,464	29	5	57	126	2.21	5	New Hampshire; First Team All-American; First Team All-CAA; team captain
2024: (13/13)	268-403	66.5	2,828	18	6	71	-36	-0.51	5	Minnesota; enrolled December 2023
Total: (49/48)	1027-1627	63.1	11,541	88	31	262	227	0.87	15

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6015	217	9 1/2	31 1/4	75 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6016	218	9 1/2	32	75 3/4	4.79	2.78	1.70	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Above-average post-snap processing to find correct read
- Highly efficient intermediate-level passer
- Snappy release — puts velocity on throws to stay ahead of closing coverage
- Consistently throws with anticipation and has vision to poke holes in zone
- Executes subtle moves to climb and avoid rush
- Inquisitive mind with high football IQ and can handle a lot of information
- Took care of football in red zone (15-to-0 touchdown-to-interception ratio in 2024)
- Used NIL money to fund retreat for the offense after signing with Gophers
- Loves to be coached and has impeccable work ethic (P.J. Fleck: "He's the ultimate connector ... very curious leader.")
- Led Minnesota to an 8-5 record in 2024 (four of five losses were by one score)

WEAKNESSES:

- Adequate accuracy in structure but starts to tail off when he feels heat
- Won't force throws but needs to avoid getting too conservative when there are downfield plays to be made
- There were 202 FBS players with at least one 50-yard completion in 2024 — Brosmer was not one of them (longest pass was 44 yards)
- Internal clock goes off quickly — will bail from perfectly clean pockets
- Doesn't have escapability to threaten defenses with his legs
- Torn ACL and meniscus in right knee (Aug. 2021) during preseason practice and underwent season-ending surgery; significant left knee injury senior year of high school

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Minnesota, Brosmer was a quick study in offensive coordinator Greg Harbaugh Jr.'s balanced spread scheme. After leading the FCS in passing in 2023, he joined the Gophers for his final college season and was the catalyst of the school's best offensive passing season in recent memory — he set Minnesota's single-season completions record (268).

Brosmer is at his best attacking the intermediate part of the field and shows anticipation, a crisp release and firm spiral into tight windows. However, his downfield passing leaves a lot to be desired, and he makes receivers work for the catch when he can't deliver in rhythm. Overall, Brosmer is inconsistent when asked to play outside of structure, but he has several redeeming qualities, most notably his intelligence and drive, the chief reasons he can carve out a backup role in the NFL.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Denton, TX	Ryan	Mar 10, 2003	22.12	6030	215	#9

BACKGROUND: Seth Henigan, the middle of three boys, was born and raised in the Dallas area with his parents (Dave and Laurie). His father was a college quarterback at the University of Pacific (1989-93) before becoming a graduate assistant in 1995 at SMU (where he met Laurie). Over the last 30 years, Dave has been a high school coach in Texas and made several stops (Allen, Highland Park, Grapevine) before becoming head coach at Denton Ryan High in 2013. Dave's father (Mike) was a high school coach for more than 40 years. Seth's older brother (Ian) played quarterback at Ryan, and his younger brother (Quin) is a rising senior and current starter at Ryan. Seth always had a ball in his hands as a toddler and started flag football at age 5, followed by pee wee and youth leagues. In December 2024, Henigan became engaged to his college sweetheart (Anna Bubnick), who performed on the Memphis Pom Dance Team.

Henigan enrolled at Denton Ryan High, where he was teammates with several FBS recruits, including tight end Ja'Tavion Sanders and linebacker Drew Sanders, who are currently in the NFL. He played on the JV squad and dressed on varsity as a freshman. With Spencer Sanders graduating after a prolific run, Ryan had a quarterback opening entering the 2018 season. Ian Henigan, who was a senior and Sanders' backup, became the starter — but Seth took over early in this season after his older brother separated his shoulder. Ian returned later in the year, but Seth had locked down the job by then.

Seth Henigan finished his sophomore season with 1,979 passing yards and 20 touchdowns. As a junior, Henigan led Ryan to a 15-1 record and the 2019 district title (only loss came in the 2019 state championship game). He finished the 2019 season with 68 percent completions (180 of 265) for 2,931 yards and 35 touchdowns. Henigan led Ryan back to the title game at AT&T Stadium in Arlington as a senior and won the 2020 5A state championship game, capping an undefeated 15-0 season. He was named MVP of the title game and finished his senior year with 3,828 passing yards and 44 total touchdowns (42 passing, two rushing). Henigan ended his high school run with a 39-2 record, and his father was named 2020 Landry Coach of the Year Award as the top coach in Texas.

A three-star recruit, Henigan was the 78th-ranked quarterback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 175 recruit in Texas. Despite his high school production, he didn't receive a ton of attention from the larger schools in the state. After his junior season, Henigan received his first scholarship offer from Houston (Dec. 2019). That offseason, he added offers from Harvard, Louisiana Tech, Nevada, North Texas and San Diego State, plus his first then-Power 5 offer from Arizona. But he connected with the coaches at Memphis and was impressed by the team's offensive production, led by quarterback Brady White. Henigan committed to the Tigers in April 2020 and became the 10th-ranked recruit in head coach Ryan Silverfield's 2021 class. Henigan won the starting job entering the 2021 season. He twice earned AAC All-Academic honors and graduated with a degree in business management (Dec. 2023). Henigan accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (11/11)	235-393	59.8	3,322	25	8	80	147	1.84	0	Freshman All-American; first true freshman in school history to start opener
2022: (13/13)	285-445	64.0	3,559	22	8	146	289	1.98	4
2023: (13/13)	318-476	66.8	3,883	32	9	94	274	2.91	5	Second Team All-AAC; bowl game MVP; single-season school completions record
2024: (13/13)	309-477	64.8	3,502	25	6	80	190	2.38	1	Third Team All-AAC
Total: (50/50)	1147-1791	64.0	14,266	104	31	400	900	2.25	10

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6030	215	9	32	76 3/4	4.76	2.80	1.67	31 1/2	9' 6"	4.44	7.34
PRO DAY	6030	216	9 1/8	32 1/8	77 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Sturdy size with adequate athleticism
- Does nice job staying aligned in drops, with the rhythm of the route concept
- Doesn't make receivers work for the ball when he throws from set base
- Enough touch to layer the ball over second-level defenders
- Can get to third read and trusts receivers will be where they need to be
- Several examples on tape of him using his eyes to hold safeties and open passing windows
- Trusts pocket compass to make controlled, unfazed shuffles away from pressure
- Rarely looks panicked; only breaks pocket with a purpose
- Plans to be high school football coach (like his father and grandfather) after playing days
- Started 43 straight games to finish career and posted a 34-16 career record as a starter (all-time winningest quarterback in school history)

WEAKNESSES:

- Average arm strength but doesn't have much power behind his throws, especially off platform
- Deep ball tends to lose steam on backend

- Mediocre velocity leaves out throws floating
 - Didn't consistently push the ball downfield (23.5 percent of completions in 2024 came on throws deeper than 10 yards)
 - Throws well to areas but placement must improve to keep the ball away from harm
 - Middling foot speed — doesn't move with twitch or fluidity to consistently extend plays outside the pocket
- SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Memphis, Henigan operated well in offensive coordinator Tim Cramsey's multiple-based scheme. He became the first true freshman to start a season opener at Memphis and finished his career ranked No. 1 in both school and AAC history in passing yards (14,266) and passing touchdowns (104).
- Henigan does an efficient job keeping his progressions on schedule — the ball often comes out before the receiver is out of his break. He was a model of consistency, regardless of the opponent, a trait best illustrated by his 41-game passing touchdown streak (tied with Marcus Mariota for second longest in FBS history). Though he has an innate feel for shuffling in the pocket to buy time, he doesn't have the escapability to easily access different throwing platforms. Overall, Henigan will have a chance at a pro career, because he can play on time and deliver with touch, but his movements and arm power won't stand out. He will have a chance at a career as a backup in the right situation.
- GRADE: 7th round

QB15 Hunter Dekkers

Iowa Western CC, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Hawarden, IA	West Sioux	Jul 04, 2001	23.81	6017	210	#8

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	5-7	71.4	118	1	0	3	12	4.00	1	Iowa State; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (4/0)	20-36	55.6	193	2	1	4	61	15.25	1	Iowa State
2022: (12/12)	302-457	66.1	3,044	19	14	89	73	0.82	2	Iowa State; Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led Big 12 in completion percentage
2023: (-/-)	NA-NA									NA; ruled ineligible by NCAA
2024: (13/13)	288-449	64.1	3,806	32	10	44	-11	-0.25	1	Iowa Western CC; NJCAA All-American; Hula Bowl
Total: (32/25)	615-949	64.8	7,161	54	25	140	135	0.96	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
PRO DAY	6017	210	9 3/4	31 1/4	75 1/2	4.65	2.70	1.63	DNP	DNP	4.24	7.25

SUMMARY: Hunter Dekkers, who has two younger sisters, grew up in the northwest corner of Iowa, with his parents (Jami and Scott). His family owns and operates a cattle business (Rolling Hills Feedlot) in Hawarden. He was a do-everything athlete from a young age and separated himself on the football field starting in the third grade. At West Sioux High, he set the Iowa prep records for career passing yards (10,628) and touchdowns (126), while leading his team to state titles in 2017 and 2018. He also set the school's scoring record in basketball and was an all-state baseball player.

A four-star recruit, Dekkers became the highest-ranked quarterback recruit in Cyclones history. After backing up Brock Purdy for two seasons, he became the starter in 2022 and posted strong stats but managed just a 4-8 record.

Following a state investigation into sports betting, Dekkers pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of underage gambling (which carried a fine but no additional punishment) and had his NCAA eligibility revoked. (Dekkers: "I was a dumb kid at the time."). After sitting out the 2023 season (and having his appeal for reinstatement denied by the NCAA), he enrolled at Iowa Western Community College. He led the program to an 11-2 record and a spot in the NJCAA national title game (lost to Hutchinson Community College, 28-23).

Dekkers can really sling the football with pace and velocity. He operates with poise in the pocket and bounces on his toes at the top of his drop. He will lose sight of defenders on certain route concepts, and he put too many interceptions on tape his only season in the FBS (although, his decision-making process did mature in 2024). Overall, Dekkers' past will be interpreted differently across the league, but the lefty passer has draftable talent and physical and mental tools worth developing.

GRADE: FA

QB16 Graham Mertz

Florida, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Overland Park, KS	Blue Valley North	Dec 06, 2000	24.38	6033	212	#15

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (2/0)	9-10	90.0	73	0	0	2	6	3.00	0	Wisconsin; redshirted; enrolled January 2019
2020: (7/7)	118-193	61.1	1,238	9	5	36	38	1.06	2	Wisconsin; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/13)	169-284	59.5	1,958	10	11	37	-25	-0.68	4	Wisconsin
2022: (12/12)	164-286	57.3	2,136	19	10	50	-40	-0.80	2	Wisconsin; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2023: (11/11)	261-358	72.9	2,903	20	3	62	-75	-1.21	4	Florida; missed final game (collarbone); enrolled January 2023
2024: (5/5)	72-94	76.6	791	6	2	18	56	3.11	1	Florida; missed one game (concussion); missed final seven games (left ACL)
Total: (50/48)	793-1225	64.7	9,099	64	31	205	-40	-0.20	13

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6033	212	9 3/4	31 1/4	76 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left knee);
PRO DAY	6032	215	9 3/4	31 3/4	76 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

SUMMARY: Graham Mertz grew up outside of Kansas City, Kan., with his parents (Ron and Amy). His father played for John Gutekunst (father of Packers GM Brian Gutekunst) on the offensive line at Minnesota (1989-92). His older sisters (Lauren and Mya) played college basketball at Kansas State and Drake, respectively.

Mertz grew up playing quarterback and started training with private coach Justin Hoover in sixth grade. After starting at Bishop Miege High, he transferred as a junior and led Blue Valley North to the 2017 Class 6A state title (3,684 yards passing and 49 touchdowns). A four-star recruit, Mertz had Wisconsin ties and connected with former head coach Paul Chryst, becoming the highest-ranked quarterback to ever sign with the Badgers. After a rocky four seasons in Madison (19-13 as a starter), he entered the transfer portal and landed at Florida, where he started 16 games over the past two seasons (7-9 record) but missed nine because of injuries.

A good-sized athlete, Mertz is efficient on play action with enough mobility (in and out of the pocket) to buy time. He is quick to scan, and his internal clock has upgraded over the years, although his accuracy drops off with his secondary reads. Overall, Mertz struggled to stay healthy in Gainesville, but he played with improved confidence and better decision-making than what he showed at Wisconsin. He will get his chance to compete for an NFL roster spot, once he's healthy.

GRADE: FA

QB17 Brady Cook

Missouri, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
St. Louis, MO	Chaminade	Oct 12, 2001	23.53	6021	214	#12

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	6-7	85.7	72	1	0	1	-10	-10.00	0	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (5/1)	46-58	79.3	345	2	0	22	92	4.18	1
2022: (13/13)	248-383	64.8	2,739	14	7	139	585	4.21	6	Team captain; graduated with degree in business (Dec. 2022)
2023: (13/13)	244-369	66.1	3,317	21	6	113	319	2.82	8	Team captain
2024: (12/12)	201-321	62.6	2,535	11	2	87	223	2.56	5	Missed one game (ankle, wrist); team captain; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (46/39)	745-1138	65.5	9,008	49	15	362	1,209	3.34	20

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
COMBINE	6021	214	9 1/4	32 1/2	77 5/8	4.59	2.67	1.57	37	10' 8"	4.17	7.01
PRO DAY	6020	214	9 3/8	32 1/4	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

SUMMARY: Brady Cook grew up outside of St. Louis in Wentzville, Mo., with his parents (Jim and Amy). His mother played soccer at Truman State before attending Missouri. Cook started playing quarterback in kindergarten and later earned all-state (at quarterback and punter) as a senior at Chaminade Prep with 3,194 passing yards and 36 total touchdowns. A three-star recruit, he grew up dreaming of playing at Missouri, which ended up being his lone FBS offer. Cook originally committed to Barry Odom and ultimately was part of Eli Drinkwitz's first recruiting class for the Tigers. A three-year captain, he became the starter as a sophomore and went 26-12 over 38 career starts.

Though not elusive, Cook is an underrated athlete who consistently picks up positive yards (plenty of options and designed runs in the Mizzou offense). He has solid arm talent as a passer, and he knows when to deliver with zip or when the ball needs touch. He can be too willing to throw without setting his base, which disrupts his accuracy, and there are too many panic throws on his tape when he's late to feel pressure. Overall, Cook is made of the right stuff, with the functional athleticism and arm to hang in the pros. However, he will need to put more of a premium on ball placement to take the next step.

GRADE: FA

QB18 Payton Thorne

Auburn, 6SR

HOMETOWN Naperville, IL	HIGH SCHOOL Central	BIRTHDAY Jun 26, 2001	AGE 23.83	HT 6015	WT 207	NUM #1
----------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (-/-)	NA-NA									Michigan State; redshirted
2020: (4/1)	48-85	56.5	582	3	3	25	47	1.88	1	Michigan State; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/13)	234-388	60.3	3,232	27	10	82	181	2.21	4	Michigan State; team captain
2022: (12/12)	242-387	62.5	2,679	19	11	60	42	0.70	1	Michigan State; team captain
2023: (13/12)	162-265	61.1	1,755	16	10	134	515	3.84	3	Auburn; enrolled May 2023
2024: (11/10)	199-317	62.8	2,713	21	9	112	283	2.53	2	Auburn; missed one game (benched); team captain
Total: (53/48)	885-1442	61.4	10,961	86	43	413	1,068	2.59	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
PRO DAY	6015	207	9 1/4	31	77	4.70	2.69	1.67	31	9'9"	4.25	7.20

SUMMARY: Payton Thorne grew up in a football family. His grandfather (John) was a longtime high school coach before becoming head coach at Division III North Central (2002-14). His other grandfather (Dave Martin) played football at Wisconsin. His father (Jeff) played quarterback at Eastern Illinois (1990-93), then later took over as head coach at North Central (2015-21) before serving as offensive coordinator at Western Michigan in 2022.

Payton Thorne played quarterback at Metea Valley (Ill.) High before transferring for his junior and senior years to Naperville Central, where he earned all-state honors (also played baseball and basketball). A three-star recruit, Thorne initially committed to Western Michigan before flipping to Michigan State before signing day. He went 16-10 in two seasons as the starter in East Lansing before transferring to Auburn for his final two years (10-12 as a starter for the Tigers).

During his up-and-down six-year college career, Thorne often took the brunt of the blame for his teams' performances, but he played better than what the stat sheet (or message boards) would suggest. He is a good-sized passer and functional athlete who can move throwing platforms and put the ball where his receivers can make a play. Though he can drop the ball in the bucket, some of his zip throws lack precise placement and lead to negative plays. Overall, Thorne tends to press when he feels his team needs a play, and his inconsistent decision-making can hold him back. He is a football lifer, though, with tools that won't look out of place in an NFL camp.

GRADE: FA

HOMETOWN Dayton, OH	HIGH SCHOOL Archbishop Alter	BIRTHDAY Sep 22, 2000	AGE 24.59	HT 6024	WT 212	NUM #7
------------------------	---------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

YEAR (GP/GS)	CP-ATT	CP%	YDS	TD	INT	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (3/1)	15-21	71.4	144	0	0	7	2	0.29	0	Missouri; redshirted; torn ACL in season finale
2020: (10/8)	218-324	67.3	2,366	7	6	44	20	0.45	2	Missouri; SEC All-Freshman; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/11)	246-377	65.3	2,548	16	11	33	-23	-0.70	0	Missouri
2022: (10/9)	235-426	55.2	2,312	13	10	47	-160	-3.40	1	Indiana; missed one game (injury); enrolled January 2022
2023: (11/11)	168-278	60.4	1,935	12	7	44	-82	-1.86	2	Bowling Green; enrolled May 2023
2024: (13/13)	269-402	66.9	3,044	18	5	48	-91	-1.90	2	Bowling Green; Third Team All-MAC; Hula Bowl
Total: (58/53)	1151-1828	63.0	12,349	66	39	223	-334	-1.50	7

HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	NOTES
PRO DAY	6024	212	10 1/8	32	78	4.80	2.75	1.68	DNP	DNP	4.45	7.14

SUMMARY: Connor Bazelak (bays-lack) grew up in Dayton, Ohio, with his parents (Kelley and Lenny). His sisters (Maddie and Libby) played volleyball and basketball, respectively, at Duquesne. Connor Bazelak was an all-state quarterback while running a wishbone offense at Archbishop Alter High. A three-star recruit, he committed to Missouri over North Carolina and quickly became the Tigers' starter. He entered the portal after the 2021 season and replaced a departing Michael Penix Jr. as Indiana's starter. He again jumped into the portal after the 2022 season and spent two years as Bowling Green's starter.

Bazelak is a good-sized passer with some power behind his throws, so long as he stays balanced in his drops and delivery. His eyes tend to tell defenders where he is going, and he needs work to better manipulate secondaries. Improved footwork consistency led to a bump in accuracy in 2023. He also did a much better job limiting interceptions, which had been a major problem earlier in his career. Overall, Bazelak is physically and mentally tough. He put better consistency on his 2024 tape, from decision-making and execution standpoints, giving himself a chance to play professional football.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	HAND	ARM	WING
20	DJ Uiagalelei	Florida State	6042	229	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 7/8	31 5/8	78 5/8
21	Will Rogers	Washington	6020	207	4.92	2.87	1.68	33 1/2	9'5"	4.39	6.97	8 5/8	31 3/8	75 3/8
22	Ethan Garbers	UCLA	6023	207	4.95	2.87	1.80	32 1/2	9'0"	4.48	7.41	9 1/8	32	77
23	Tommy Mellott	Montana State	6000	205	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A
24	Taylor Elgersma	Wilfred Laurier (Can.)	6050	227	DNP	DNP	DNP	25	8'9"	4.89	7.95	9 5/8	32 1/8	77 3/8
25	Donovan Smith	Houston	6041	219	4.63	2.67	1.64	37	10'2"	4.32	DNP	10 3/8	32 1/2	79 1/4
26	Spencer Petras	Utah State	6046	235	4.94	2.88	1.76	27 1/2	8'11"	4.48	7.39	10 1/8	32 3/4	79 3/8
27	Matthew Downing	Elon	5110	207	4.88	2.81	1.64	DNP	DNP	4.45	7.37	9 3/8	29 1/2	73 5/8
28	Hudson Card	Purdue	6023	200	4.81	2.68	1.64	32	9'7"	4.37	6.97	8 3/4	30 1/4	73 3/8
29	Brett Gabbert	Miami (OH)	5114	200	4.79	2.74	1.69	29 1/2	9'4"	4.42	DNP	9	29	70 5/8
30	Jameson Wang	Cornell	6002	201	4.88	2.84	1.77	29 1/2	9'2"	4.56	7.50	9	31	74 3/8
31	Cole Snyder	Eastern Michigan	6016	211	4.86	2.82	1.64	32 1/2	9'9"	4.25	6.97	9 1/2	30 3/8	75 1/2
32	Garrett Greene	West Virginia	5106	195	4.50	2.62	1.56	36 1/2	9'7"	4.08	6.84	8 1/2	29 7/8	73 1/2
33	Brayden Schager	Hawaii	6020	216	5.01	2.88	1.75	31 1/2	9'0"	4.38	7.24	9 3/8	30 3/8	74 7/8
34	Hank Bachmeier	Wake Forest	6012	208	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	30 1/2	73 5/8
35	Alan Bowman	Oklahoma State	6020	220	5.00	2.93	1.75	DNP	DNP	4.54	7.37	9 7/8	31 1/2	78
36	Collin Schlee	Virginia Tech	6033	211	4.53	2.56	1.53	39 1/2	10'8"	4.34	6.91	9 5/8	32 1/4	78
37	Zach Zebrowski	Central Missouri	6013	210	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9'1"	4.49	7.07	9 1/8	30 5/8	70
38	Davis Black	California (Pa.)	6041	233	5.05	2.96	1.71	29	9'8"	4.64	7.45	9	32 1/2	78 1/2
39	Jason Ceniti	Wisc.-Whitewater	6005	212	4.88	2.85	1.70	31 1/2	9'2"	4.19	6.97	9 3/4	29 3/8	71
40	Matt Morrissey	Eastern Kentucky	6046	230	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	9'3"	4.50	7.19	9 3/4	31 3/4	77 3/4
41	Kinkead Dent	UT-Martin	6046	213	4.90	2.77	1.71	34 1/2	9'8"	4.38	7.13	10	34 1/8	80 1/8
42	Dante Chachere	Portland State	6022	193	4.58	2.63	1.63	39	10'8"	4.27	7.47	9 3/4	32 7/8	77 3/4
43	Pierce Holley	Eastern Illinois	6021	220	5.15	2.99	1.76	31 1/2	9'3"	4.59	7.75	9 1/8	30 1/8	74 1/4
44	CJ Ogbonna	Buffalo	6023	206	4.70	2.72	1.57	30	9'10"	4.54	7.38	9 1/2	32 3/4	79 1/4
45	Myles Crawley	Grambling	6036	223	4.78	2.75	1.57	35	10'0"	4.63	7.38	9 7/8	31 3/4	77 1/4
46	Chandler Rogers	California	5113	197	4.52	2.68	1.62	36	10'0"	4.34	7.52	9 5/8	30 1/2	74 3/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	HAND	ARM	WING
47	Sammy Edwards	Valdosta State	6020	191	4.66	2.72	1.62	33	10'6"	4.57	7.21	9	30 1/8	73
48	Connor Watkins	Villanova	6024	223	4.62	2.70	1.64	33 1/2	10'4"	4.19	7.13	9	30	73 5/8
49	Tyler Huff	Jacksonville State	6000	210	4.77	2.77	1.65	29 1/2	9'5"	4.51	7.33	9	30 1/8	73 3/8
50	Eric Phoenix	South Carolina State	6015	206	4.72	2.75	1.69	31 1/2	10'0"	4.72	7.76	9 1/8	31 3/8	77
51	Brandon Stephens	Okla. Panhandle St.	5094	199	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	30 1/2	74 5/8
52	Draylen Ellis	Tennessee State	5115	177	4.70	2.78	1.61	29 1/2	9'6"	4.40	7.54	10	32 1/2	75 1/4
53	Ben Wooldridge	Louisiana	6023	214	4.81	2.81	1.64	34	9'7"	4.35	DNP	9 1/4	32	78 3/4
54	Grant Sergeant	San Diego	6022	216	5.19	3.02	1.76	24	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	32	77 5/8
55	Paxton DeLaurent	SE Missouri State	6052	227	DNP	DNP	DNP	30 1/2	9'2"	4.60	7.25	9 5/8	31 7/8	77 1/8
56	Jordan McCloud	Texas State	5116	207	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	31 1/4	74 5/8
57	Miles Hastings	UC-Davis	5116	189	4.91	2.89	1.77	27	8'7"	4.52	7.42	9 1/4	28 7/8	69 1/4
58	Demilon Brown	Arkansas-Monticello	6002	211	4.59	2.67	1.55	37 1/2	10'0"	4.38	7.01	8 1/2	30 5/8	74 1/2
59	Chase Artopoulos	UT-Chattanooga	6013	216	4.95	2.76	1.68	32 1/2	9'11"	4.33	7.30	9	31 1/8	73 1/2
60	Haji-Malik Williams	UNLV	6001	208	4.58	2.69	1.63	32	9'9"	4.45	7.39	9 3/4	31 1/2	76 5/8
61	Javonte Howard	Charleston	5114	197	5.14	2.85	1.78	23 1/2	8'2"	4.77	7.75	8 3/4	30 1/4	73 1/2
62	Ryan Hilinski	Northwestern	6032	230	5.02	2.89	1.79	28	8'10"	4.55	7.52	10	32 1/2	78 5/8
63	Darius Perrantes	Duquesne	5106	202	4.87	2.72	1.61	26	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 7/8	30 1/2	73 5/8
64	Trevor Bycznski	Ashland	6043	243	5.38	3.08	1.83	22 1/2	8'2"	5.02	DNP	10 1/8	31 7/8	77 3/4
65	Seth Morgan	New Hampshire	6027	214	4.84	DNP	1.75	32 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	30 7/8	73 1/8
66	Daniel Richardson	Florida A&M	5090	197	4.94	2.89	1.75	26	8'10"	4.56	7.71	9 1/4	31 5/8	75 3/8
67	Casey Thompson	Oklahoma	6000	205	DNP	DNP	DNP	33	9'5"	4.33	DNP	9 1/4	30 5/8	72
68	Gerry Bohanon	BYU	6016	225	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10 1/2	32	79
69	Carlos Davis	Towson	6012	225	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	32	77 7/8
70	Keith Ridley Jr.	Southern Conn. St.	6030	239	5.00	2.89	1.74	34 1/2	9'9"	4.45	7.52	9 3/4	31 3/4	76
71	Luke Lovell	Albion	6003	207	5.27	2.95	1.73	24 1/2	8'2"	4.80	7.72	9 1/4	31 1/4	75 3/4
72	Luke Bailey	Drake	6015	195	4.91	2.90	1.74	32	9'1"	4.60	7.37	8 3/8	31 1/4	75 1/8
73	Will McElvain	Central Arkansas	5095	189	4.94	2.83	1.69	28 1/2	8'6"	4.51	7.33	8 5/8	28 1/2	69 1/2
74	Teryn Berry	Midland	5114	218	4.93	2.90	1.65	30	8'10"	4.67	7.53	8 3/8	31 3/8	75 5/8
75	Xzavier Vaughn	Alcorn State	6042	191	4.64	2.71	1.72	DNP	10'10"	4.57	7.41	9 3/4	33 1/2	81 3/8
76	Garrett Rooker	Univ. of B.C. (Can.)	6021	206	DNP	DNP	DNP	33 1/2	9'1"	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	32 1/8	76 1/4
77	Sam Tumilty	St. Francis (Ill.)	5076	179	4.69	2.72	1.71	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/2	29 7/8	70 5/8
78	Justin Fomby	North Carolina A&T	6025	214	5.10	2.91	1.78	27	8'7"	4.82	DNP	9 3/8	32 7/8	76 3/8
79	Quincy Casey	West Georgia	6002	202	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	30 1/2	76
80	Davis Beville	South Carolina	6060	230	DNP	DNP	DNP	31	9'1"	4.52	7.63	10 1/2	33	79 1/4
81	Romelo Williams	Virginia State	5114	197	DNP	DNP	DNP	27	9'4"	4.19	7.20	8 3/8	30 1/8	73 3/4
82	Jake Barlage	Northwood	6001	198	5.00	2.90	1.71	29	8'5"	4.93	7.65	8 3/4	30 1/4	70 1/4
83	Robert Coleman	Lamar	5115	195	4.85	2.79	1.71	32	8'10"	4.40	7.03	9 7/8	31	73 3/8
84	Cole Kennon	Duke	6030	218	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
85	Jake Willcox	Brown	6010	202	4.68	DNP	1.60	33 1/2	10'0"	4.27	6.97	9 3/4	30 1/8	73
86	Chandler Fields	Louisiana	5096	198	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	29 5/8	71
87	Hunter Hays	Idaho State	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
88	Derek Engel	Univ. of B.C. (Can.)	6027	194	5.13	2.97	1.79	26 1/2	8'9"	4.59	7.43	9 3/8	32 1/4	76 3/4

RUNNING BACKS

RUNNING BACKS

	NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1.	ASHTON JEANTY	Boise State	1st	3JR	5084	211	DNP (DNP)	9 3/8	29 3/4	72 3/4	21.39
2.	OMARION HAMPTON	North Carolina	1st-2nd	3JR	5116	221	4.46 (1.53)	9 3/8	30 7/8	74 3/4	22.11
3.	KALEB JOHNSON	Iowa	2nd	3JR	6010	224	4.57 (1.61)	9 5/8	33	78 1/2	21.69
4.	TREVEYON HENDERSON	Ohio State	2nd	4SR	5101	202	4.43 (1.59)	9 1/2	31 1/2	76 1/8	22.50
5.	QUINSHON JUDKINS	Ohio State	2nd-3rd	3JR	5115	221	4.48 (1.58)	9 1/4	31 1/2	73 1/2	21.48
6.	DYLAN SAMPSON	Tennessee	2nd-3rd	3JR	5080	199	4.42 (1.58)	8 3/4	30 1/2	73	20.61
7.	JORDAN JAMES	Oregon	3rd	3JR	5094	208	4.51 (1.55)	9 1/2	30 1/2	73 3/4	21.07
8.	RJ HARVEY	UCF	3rd	6SR	5080	205	4.40 (1.52)	9	29	71 1/4	24.22
9.	TREVOR ETIENNE	Georgia	3rd	3JR	5086	198	4.42 (1.54)	9 3/4	29 1/2	70 1/2	20.79
10.	BHAYSHUL TUTEN	Virginia Tech	3rd-4th	4SR	5092	206	4.32 (1.48)	9	29 7/8	72 7/8	23.19
11.	JARQUEZ HUNTER	Auburn	3rd-4th	4SR	5093	204	4.44 (1.57)	9 1/2	30 1/4	72 5/8	22.32
12.	CAM SKATTEBO	Arizona State	3rd-4th	5SR	5095	216	4.65 (1.58)	9 3/8	29 7/8	74 1/4	23.21
13.	DJ GIDDENS	Kansas State	3rd-4th	4JR	6002	212	4.43 (1.49)	9 5/8	30 3/8	75 1/4	21.66
14.	OLLIE GORDON II	Oklahoma State	4th	3JR	6013	226	4.61 (1.62)	9 3/4	32 1/2	80	21.27
15.	DEVIN NEAL	Kansas	4th	4SR	5111	213	4.58 (1.63)	8 1/2	29 7/8	71 3/4	21.70
16.	DAMIEN MARTINEZ	Miami	4th	3JR	5115	217	4.51 (1.58)	9 3/4	30 1/2	75 1/2	21.23
17.	LEQUINT ALLEN	Syracuse	4th-5th	3JR	6001	204	DNP (DNP)	10 1/4	32 1/4	78 5/8	20.72
18.	BRASHARD SMITH	SMU	4th-5th	4SR	5097	194	4.39 (1.54)	9 1/8	31 3/8	74	22.04
19.	WOODY MARKS	USC	4th-5th	5SR	5101	213	4.52 (1.50)	9	29 3/4	71 7/8	24.32
20.	KYLE MONANGAI	Rutgers	4th-5th	5SR	5082	211	4.60 (1.62)	9 1/8	28 7/8	72 1/8	22.88
21.	JAYDON BLUE	Texas	5th	3JR	5090	195	4.38 (1.50)	8 3/8	30	75 3/4	21.29
22.	TAHJ BROOKS	Texas Tech	5th	5SR	5092	214	4.52 (1.56)	9 3/8	30 3/4	75 5/8	22.95
23.	KALEL MULLINGS	Michigan	5th-6th	5SR	6014	226	DNP (DNP)	10	32	78	22.55
24.	JACORY CROSKEY-MERRITT	Arizona	5th-6th	6SR	5102	206	4.45 (1.50)	9	31 3/4	77 1/8	24.03
25.	PHIL MAFAH	Clemson	6th	4SR	6005	234	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	32	78	22.50
26.	RAHEIM SANDERS	South Carolina	6th-7th	4SR	6000	217	4.46 (1.61)	9 3/8	32 1/8	77 1/4	22.88
27.	COREY KINER	Cincinnati	6th-7th	4SR	5085	209	4.57 (1.62)	7 3/4	30 1/2	75 7/8	23.25
28.	DONOVAN EDWARDS	Michigan	6th-7th	4SR	5113	205	4.44 (1.54)	10	30	74 5/8	22.16
29.	MONTRELL JOHNSON JR.	Florida	6th-7th	4SR	5113	212	4.41 (1.54)	9 1/4	31 1/8	75 7/8	22.53
30.	MARCUS YARNS	Delaware	7th	5SR	5107	193	4.45 (1.54)	9 1/8	32 1/8	76 3/8	23.48
31.	ANTARIO BROWN	Northern Illinois	FA	4SR	5101	214	DNP (DNP)	8 3/8	30	71 3/8	22.32
32.	ULYSSES BENTLEY IV	Ole Miss	FA	6SR	5097	200	4.553 (1.59)	8 5/8	29 7/8	71 1/8	24.32
33.	JOSH WILLIAMS	LSU	FA	6SR	5083	196	4.53 (1.57)	9 3/4	30	73 1/8	23.87
34.	JA'QUINDEN JACKSON	Arkansas	FA	5SR	6016	236	4.75 (1.64)	9 1/2	33 1/2	79 5/8	23.61
35.	MICAH BERNARD	Utah	FA	6SR	5097	199	4.58 (1.66)	9 1/8	31	75 1/8	23.50
36.	TRE STEWART	Jacksonville State	FA	4SR	5093	192	4.50 (1.64)	9 5/8	30 3/8	73 1/8	22.36

RB1 Ashton Jeanty

Boise State, 3JR

HOMETOWN Jacksonville, FL	HIGH SCHOOL Lone Star	BIRTHDAY Dec 02, 2003	AGE 21.39	HT 5084	WT 211	NUM #2
------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Ashton Jeanty (JEN-tee) was born and raised in Jacksonville, Fla., with his parents (Harry and Pamela). Growing up in a military family, he lived in Florida, Georgia and Virginia before he was a teenager. His father was a commanding officer in the Navy. Jeanty grew up playing basketball, football and several other sports. At age 13, Jeanty’s family relocated to a naval base in Aversa, Italy (15 miles outside of Naples), when Jeanty was in seventh grade. He played football (offense and defense) for the Wildcats at Naples Middle School, which traveled to other military bases in Germany, Belgium and elsewhere throughout Europe. Jeanty also became a competitive weightlifter while in Italy. After Jeanty's freshman season of high school, his family returned to the United States and moved to Frisco, Texas (north of Dallas).

Jeanty enrolled at Lone Star High as a sophomore in 2019, joining a talented football team that included several future FBS players, such as Marvin Mims (Oklahoma), Jaylan Ford (Texas) and Jaden Nixon (Oklahoma State/Western Michigan). He started on defense (defensive lineman and safety) as a sophomore and earned district newcomer of the year, helping the team to a 14-1 record. Lone Star already had an established running back, so Jeanty played primarily slot receiver as a junior and finished the 2020 season with 54 catches for 803 yards and seven touchdowns, adding 44 carries for 383 yards and eight rushing touchdowns. He became the starting running back as a senior and rushed for 1,843 yards on 229 carries (8.0 average) and scored 41 total touchdowns (31 rushing, 10 receiving) over 12 games. Jeanty also lettered in basketball and track at Lone Star. He averaged 8.1 points and 4.8 rebounds per game as a junior and ran a personal-best time of 11.13 seconds in the 100 meters. He also competed in the 4x100 and 4x200 relays.

A three-star recruit, Jeanty was the 90th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 188 recruit in Texas. After his junior season, he received his first Division I scholarship offer (Dartmouth), followed by his first FBS scholarship offer (Tulsa). Because he came from a military family, Jeanty received offers from Air Force, Army and Navy. Several Ivy League schools also recruited him. Boise State offered him in May 2021, and he committed to the Broncos (over Louisiana and Tulane) a few months later, at the start of his senior season. Several Power 4 programs entered the picture after Jeanty's productive senior year, most notably California, but Jeanty had his mind made up. He graduated high school early and enrolled at Boise State in January 2022. After a productive sophomore season in college, Jeanty was recruited by several Power 4 programs — some of which offered close to $1 million in NIL compensation — but decided to stay at Boise State (and reportedly received more than $300,000 in NIL deals to stay put). He endowed a football scholarship at Boise State as part of his compensation. Jeanty owns a poodle pointer named Coco. He elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (14/2)	156	821	5.26	7	14	155	11.07	0	Enrolled January 2022; Honorable Mention All-MWC
2023: (12/10)	220	1,347	6.12	14	43	569	13.23	5	First Team All-American; MWC Offensive Player of the Year; First Team All-MWC; led MWC in rushing
2024: (14/14)	374	2,601	6.95	29	23	138	6.00	1	Unanimous All-American; Doak Walker Award; Maxwell Award; MWC Offensive Player of the Year; First Team All-MWC; led FBS in rushing; team captain
Total: (40/26)	750	4,769	6.36	50	80	862	10.786

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5084	211	9 1/4	29 1/4	72 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	5081	213	9 3/8	29 3/4	72 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Built low to the ground with exceptional strength throughout his frame
- Runs through contact like he's doused in Vaseline and will expose anything less than a strong wrap tackle
- Equally instinctive and athletic with ability to press, set up blocks and explode through holes
- Elusive in tight quarters with controlled footwork to cut and accelerate (models game after Alvin Kamara)
- Able to drop hips and burst laterally without slowing
- Reaches top speed quickly to rip off chunk runs (five touchdowns of 70 yards or more in 2024, tying LaDainian Tomlinson for single-season FBS record)
- Dangerous in passing game with natural hands and receiving athleticism (four drops on 97 career targets)
- Boise State put a lot on his plate as a pass blocker — he showed awesome promise in that area
- Works tail off in weight room and can squat a small house (Boise State director of sports performance Benjamin Hilgart calls him pound-for-pound the strongest player he's coached)
- Voted a team captain and truly seems to care about the team over himself (NFL scout: "He's a celebrity in Boise, yet his ego stays small and appreciation stays large.")
- Led FBS in rushing yards in 2024 and became Boise State's all-time leading rusher

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have the elite top-end speed needed to easily run away from NFL pursuit
- His recognition and technique in pass pro are solid, but need improvement vs. NFL rushers (allowed at least one pressure in nine of 14 games in 2024)
- Nine fumbles combined over past two seasons, including four in 2024 (another called back because of penalty)
- Unusually high number of offensive touches (830) in his three years in college
- Missed one game because of right knee sprain as sophomore (Oct. 2023) and wore brace over season's final month; hyperextended left elbow as junior (Oct. 2024) and wore bulky brace but didn't miss a game

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Boise State, Jeanty was the featured weapon in offensive coordinator Dirk Koetter's multiple (gap and zone) run scheme. After putting first round-level play on his 2023 tape, he had one of the best running back seasons in college football history in 2024, joining Barry Sanders as the only FBS players to eclipse 2,600 rushing yards in a season. Jeanty finished as the Heisman Trophy runner-up.

With his low center of gravity and explosiveness, Jeanty has an uncanny ability to stay afloat through contact and be elusive in space (led FBS with 151 forced missed tackles in 2024 — 57 more than No. 2 on the list). He trusts his vision when following his blocks, but instead of predetermining his path, he displays outstanding reactionary reads to sort, cut and create (responsible for 12 carries of 50 yards or more in 2024; no other FBS player had more than five). Overall, Jeanty displays exceptional contact balance, run instincts and versatility in the passing game, reminiscent of LaDainian Tomlinson. He has the talent to emerge as a high-level running back early in his NFL career.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 3 overall)

RB2 Omarion Hampton

North Carolina, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Clayton, NC	Cleveland	Mar 16, 2003	22.11	5116	221	#28

BACKGROUND: Omarion (oh-mar-ee-on) Hampton grew up in Clayton, N.C. (south of Raleigh), with his mother (Leslie) and father (Cory Chappell), playing basketball, football and other sports in the neighborhood. At the age of 8, he started playing Pop Warner football and starred for the Cleveland Rams at the mitey-mite level. His older brother (Jamal) played wide receiver and defensive back at Cleveland High and signed with Division II Chowan in the 2018 recruiting class. His cousin (Giorgio Lowrance) played wide receiver at North Carolina A&T (2006-09).

Hampton enrolled at Cleveland High and started out on the JV squad before the coaches moved him up to varsity (335 rushing yards and 11 touchdowns). He became the starter as a sophomore and set school records for rushing yards (2,402), rushing touchdowns (35) and yards per carry (9.61). He earned all-state and conference player of the year honors, as Cleveland went 12-2 and won the 2019 conference title. As a junior, Hampton got off to another hot start (685 yards and 13 touchdowns), but he suffered a season-ending broken left ankle in the team's fifth game. He returned healthy as a senior captain and rushed for 1,948 yards (12.1 average), plus broke his own school record with 39 rushing touchdowns, earning all-state and conference player of the year honors. Hampton was also named North Carolina Gatorade Player of the Year, as he led Cleveland to an 11-1 record (only loss came in the playoffs). He finished his prep career with 5,370 rushing yards and 88 rushing touchdowns. Hampton also set several school weightlifting records and lettered in basketball and track. He had personal bests of 10.71 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.47 in the 200, as well as 20 feet, 9 inches in the long jump and 38-8 in the triple jump.

A four-star recruit, Hampton was the 11th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 3 recruit in North Carolina. He received his first offer (Duke) during his breakout sophomore season, followed by offers from several ACC (Miami, NC State, Virginia Tech), Big Ten (Michigan, Ohio State, Penn State) and SEC (Auburn, Florida, LSU) programs. After several visits, Hampton set a final three of Florida, North Carolina and Penn State before deciding to stay home and sign with the Tar Heels. He was the fifth-ranked recruit in former head coach Mack Brown's 2022 class. Hampton skipped North Carolina's 2024 bowl game and his senior season to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (13/4)	88	401	4.56	6	6	40	6.67	1	Enrolled July 2022
2023: (13/12)	253	1,504	5.94	15	29	222	7.66	1	First Team All-American; First Team All-ACC; led ACC in rushing
2024: (12/12)	281	1,660	5.91	15	38	373	9.82	2	First Team All-American; First Team All-ACC; led ACC in rushing; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (38/28)	622	3,565	5.73	36	73	635	8.70	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5116	221	9 3/8	30 1/2	74 3/4	4.46	2.57	1.53	38	10' 10"	4.40	DNP	18	No three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5116	223	9 3/8	30 7/8	74	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Thick, squared-up build
- Above-average run strength, especially in his lower half (broke his high school's squat record as sophomore)
- Tilts field downhill with the forward lean to barrel through half-tackles
- Above-average initial burst for a 220-pound athlete
- Reads blocks well at line of scrimmage to press hips of his blockers
- Subtly sets up defenders before cutting back against pursuit's leverage, creating fly-by tackle attempts
- Accelerates cleanly off plant foot to transfer speed in/out of cuts
- Feasted on pivot routes (two drops on 80 career targets)
- Transfers ball to correct hand to protect against fumbles (one in 2024)
- Proven as durable workhorse (25 or more touches in eight of 12 games in 2024)
- Offers both talent and experience in pass protection
- Finished career No. 4 in school history in rushing yards (3,565), No. 3 in rushing touchdowns (36) and No. 2 in 100-yard rushing games (19)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lack of swivel in hips creates tightness in turns, which limits open-field creativity
- Sluggish getting through some lateral jump cuts
- Will make himself too big of a target through line of scrimmage
- Pad level needs better consistency to maintain his balance versus NFL defenders
- Willing to power into contact, but not always through it
- Stayed healthy in college but missed most of junior season in high school with broken left ankle (March 2021)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at North Carolina, Hampton was the featured back in former offensive coordinator Chip Lindsey's balanced run attack. He was a beast during the 2023 season and led the ACC in rushing, but it was even more impressive to see him repeat as the conference's leading rusher in 2024 without Drake Maye (and with defenses selling out to stop the run). He rushed for 100 or more yards in 10 of 12 games in 2024 and set a UNC single-season record with 2,033 all-purpose yards.

With his NFL-ready frame, Hampton quickly reads the blocking scheme and collects his feet to accelerate through congestion or press and cut toward slivers of daylight. Once he gets north-south, he will mash the gas pedal into second-level defenders, but sometimes does so at the expense of his balance — and those heavy hits will take their toll over time. Overall, Hampton has only average creativity and is a tad tight in his hips and ankles, but he is a bruising runner with an effective blend of patience, power and speed. Given his reliability on passing downs, he is a complete player and should start as an NFL rookie.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 29 overall)

RB3 Kaleb Johnson

Iowa, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Hamilton, OH	Hamilton	Aug 14, 2003	21.69	6010	224	#2

BACKGROUND: Kaleb "K2" Johnson, the oldest of five children, was born and raised in the Cincinnati area by his mother (Juanielle Finley), who gave birth to him at age 17. His maternal grandparents (Charlene and Jeffrey Strader) helped raise him, and Jeffrey served as the main father figure in his life (Johnson: "My grandfather has had the biggest influence on me, because he kept my head straight and always told me to stay positive."). Johnson's first passion growing up was baseball (first baseman and left-handed pitcher). He started playing football in kindergarten, initially on the defensive line before switching to running back at age 8 for the Tomahawks. Given his height, some people wanted him to switch positions, but he was determined to stay at running back throughout Pop Warner and middle school — which is when football took over as his main focus. However, Johnson took a brief hiatus from organized sports in eighth grade when Charlene died at age 62.0 in June 2017.

Johnson attended Hamilton High, where he was a multisport standout. As a sophomore, he became part of the running back rotation on varsity (878 yards and nine touchdowns). Johnson led Hamilton to six wins and the Division I state playoffs as a junior, earning first-team all-conference honors (786 rushing yards and eight touchdowns over 10 games). His most productive season came as a senior captain in 2021, when he carried the ball 155 times for 1,004 yards and 15 touchdowns, earning a first-team all-state spot. Johnson also lettered in basketball and track. He had personal bests of 11.26 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.25 in the 200.

A three-star recruit, Johnson was the 35th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the 15th-ranked recruit in Ohio (No. 2 running back in the state). After his sophomore season, he picked up his first scholarship offer (Iowa State), followed by offers from Cincinnati, Kent State, Michigan State, Pittsburgh, Toledo and Western Michigan. Several teams, including Ohio State, were looking at him as a potential linebacker — his home state Buckeyes never offered. Johnson received an offer from Cal in March 2021 and committed a few months later, in June 2021. However, he visited Iowa for the Hawkeyes' thrilling 23-20 win over Penn State in October 2021 and flipped his commitment to Iowa a few days later. Johnson was the third-ranked recruit in head coach Kirk Ferentz's 2022 class. He elected to skip Iowa's 2024 bowl game and his senior season to enter the 2025 NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (13/6)	151	779	5.16	6	4	27	6.75	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; Iowa freshman rushing record; enrolled June 2022
2023: (10/5)	117	463	3.96	3	3	25	8.33	0	Missed three games (ankle)
2024: (12/11)	240	1,537	6.40	21	22	188	8.55	2	Consensus All-American; Big Ten RB of the Year; First Team All-Big Ten; led Big Ten in rushing
Total: (35/22)	508	2,779	5.47	30	29	240	8.28	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6010	224	9 5/8	33	78 1/2	4.57	2.67	1.61	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6005	234	9 1/2	33	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Physically put-together with power throughout his frame
- Runs square with strong base and forward momentum to make tacklers feel it at contact (draws inspiration from Derrick Henry)
- Consistently carries tacklers for extra yards (1,060 rushing yards after contact in 2024)
- Processes really well to read backside cuts, follow blocks and navigate holes
- Shines on toss, outside zone or plays with horizontal flow
- Stays light on his feet to slide, redirect and make timely cuts
- Average long speed but initial acceleration allows him to get downhill through lanes
- Zero fumbles in 2024
- Reliable pass catcher with big, strong hands in screen game
- Held up well when asked to pass protect — and should continue getting better
- Stamina runner and looked stronger deep into games (8.3 yards per carry in the fourth quarter in 2024)
- Scored at least one touchdown in all 12 regular-season games in '24 and set Iowa record for points in a season
- Iowa running backs coach and former NFL player Ladell Betts said Johnson "sets the example" for the offense in terms of how to work

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent pad level through first-level holes
- Not a home-run hitter and long speed taps out
- Average elusiveness and will struggle to avoid direct hits
- Can do a better job setting up second-level moves
- Work in progress as a blocker (averaged just 2.4 pass-blocking snaps per game in 2024)
- Suffered high-ankle sprain during 2023 fall camp and tried to play through it before missing three games
- Ten pounds heavier at pro day than combine

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Iowa, Johnson was the focal point of offensive coordinator Tim Lester’s run-heavy, zone-blocking scheme (62.5 percent of Iowa’s snaps in 2024 used multiple tight ends, No. 2 in the FBS). He exploded onto the NFL radar with a prolific 2024 season and set single-season Iowa records for total touchdowns (23), rushing touchdowns (21) and total points scored (138). He also became just the third player in school history to eclipse 1,500 rushing yards in a season. Despite consistently facing stacked boxes (Iowa ranked 130th out of 133 FBS teams in passing offense in 2024), Johnson shined on outside zone.

He is at his best when he can quickly read and set up his blocks and anticipate backside/frontside lanes to find yardage that isn't there (No. 2 in the FBS with 21 carries of 20 yards or more in 2024). He tends to run upright, giving defenders a large target, but has the build and determination to be a bruiser as a forward-leaning, north-south runner. Overall, Johnson isn't a dynamic make-you-miss athlete, but he is a patient and powerful one-cut runner with the instinctive vision to crease the defense using run angles and foot quickness. His play style is reminiscent of DeMarco Murray with a three-down skill set to thrive in a zone-based NFL scheme.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 44 overall)

RB4 TreVeyon Henderson

Ohio State, 4SR

HOMETOWN Hopewell, VA	HIGH SCHOOL Hopewell	BIRTHDAY Oct 22, 2002	AGE 22.50	HT 5101	WT 202	NUM #32
--------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: TreVeyon (TRAY-vee-on) "Trey" Henderson, the middle child of three boys, was born and raised in Hopewell, Va. (20 miles south of Richmond). He primarily grew up with his mother (Lakeesha Hayes-Winfield), who routinely worked multiple jobs in finance. Because of violence and gang-related shootings in Hopewell, Lakeesha signed her sons up for sports to help keep them out of trouble. Henderson started playing soccer and basketball before picking up football — he played both ways, as a running back and defensive back. He also started training with Kerry Grant, Hopewell’s athletic director and track coach. Henderson’s older half-brother (Ronnie Walker Jr.) was a running back at Indiana (2018-19), Virginia (2020-22) and FCS Utah Tech (2023), where he led the Trailblazers in rushing in his final season. His younger brother (Kesean) was a three-star athlete recruit in the 2024 class. His uncle (Alphonso Harris) played running back at Morgan State before a short stint with the then-Washington Redskins. His maternal grandfather (Albert Lee Harris) was a record-breaking track and football athlete at Hopewell and was nicknamed "Airplane" because of the way he flew around the field (Henderson wears No. 32 because of him).

Henderson enrolled at Hopewell High, where he played wide receiver and defensive back as a freshman (his older brother was the starting running back), finishing with 82 tackles and two interceptions in 2016. As a sophomore, he again started on defense (64 tackles, nine tackles for loss, three interceptions) before getting late-season action at running back, posting 312 yards on 30 carries (10.4 average) and five touchdowns. As a junior, Henderson finally got his chance to be the starting running back (also played wildcat quarterback) and responded with a record-breaking season: 2,424 rushing yards on 198 carries (12.2 average) and 45 touchdowns. He also had 18 receptions for 283 yards (15.7 average) and five touchdown grabs, along with 48 tackles and three interceptions.

Henderson was named 2019 Gatorade Virginia Player of the Year, as he led Hopewell to an undefeated 15-0 record (setting the program record for wins) and the school's second straight state championship. He didn't play as a senior after the 2020 season was postponed because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Henderson also ran track (sprints and relays) at Hopewell and finished first in the 55-meter dash (6.45 seconds) at the 2020 indoor state championships. He had personal bests of 18 feet, 1 1/2 inches in the long jump and 10.94 seconds in the 100 meters. Henderson graduated high school with a 4.0 GPA.

A five-star recruit, Henderson was the top-ranked running back in the 2021 recruiting class (just ahead of Will Shipley and Donovan Edwards) and the No. 2 recruit in Virginia. He was ranked as the No. 23 recruit nationally. Even before his breakout junior season, Henderson was a popular target on the recruiting trail (mostly as a defensive back) — he added almost 20 scholarship offers in the six months after his sophomore season, including from Florida, Clemson and Notre Dame. His recruitment continued to heat up throughout his junior season, as he added offers from Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Ohio State and Texas. His final choice came down to Ohio State over Oklahoma (recruited by Tony Alford), despite not visiting Columbus because of the pandemic. Henderson was the sixth-ranked recruit in the Buckeyes' 2021 class behind Quinn Ewers, JT Tuimolalo, Jack Sawyer, Donovan Jackson and Emeka Egbuka. He graduated with a degree in sports industry (Dec. 2024). Henderson declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (13/11)	183	1,248	6.82	15	27	312	11.56	4	Freshman All-American; Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in rushing; enrolled January 2021
2022: (8/8)	107	571	5.34	6	4	28	7.00	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed five games (left foot)
2023: (10/10)	156	926	5.94	11	19	229	12.05	0	First Team All-Big Ten; led team in rushing; missed three games (injury)
2024: (16/9)	144	1,016	7.06	10	27	284	10.52	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; team captain
Total: (47/38)	590	3,761	6.37	42	77	853	11.08	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5101	202	9 1/2	30 3/4	76 1/8	4.43	2.64	1.59	38 1/2	10' 8"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No pos. drills, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5101	204	9 1/2	31 1/2	75 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Compactly built with sculpted muscle tone in upper and lower halves
- Instant acceleration to fly through holes or outrace pursuit on outside zone
- Has wiggle to plant, bounce laterally and throw off pursuit with quick lane shifts (also has a killer spin move)
- Consistently stays behind his pads to pinball off contact and finish forward
- Slams it hard inside and grinds out tough yards with low pads
- Follows blocks well on CG/GH counter runs
- 22.1 percent of carries in 2024 resulted in gains of 10 yards or more (third best in the FBS)
- Fumbled only twice in four years (zero times in past two seasons); Ohio State recovered both
- Outstanding pass catcher, using his tracking/plucking skills (two drops on 53 combined targets in 2023-24)
- Easily uncovers when lined up man-to-man with linebackers in space (career 11.1 yards per catch average)
- Trusted blocker — consistently puts defenders on their backsides with his pop as a lead blocker and in pass pro
- Credits faith for his maturation; motivated by his mother (used his NIL money to help her retire)
- Unselfish teammate and voted a 2024 team captain — he told Ryan Day to do "what is best for the team" when Ohio State was considering adding RB Quinshon Judkins in the transfer portal
- Finished fifth on Ohio State's all-time rushing yards list (seven yards behind Eddie George)

WEAKNESSES:

- Slightly tight-hipped and pads stay aligned with his hips/legs
- Patience and tempo run hot/cold at times
- At his best when led to the hole, instead of trying to reset/adjust his vision versus sudden traffic
- Drive-killing penalty on 2024 Texas tape for punching a defender after a play
- Battled sleep paralysis growing up and during his tenure at Ohio State
- Workload questions after battling several injuries: missed five games (and parts of several others) as sophomore because of broken sesamoid bone in left foot (Sept. 2022), which hampered him all season (surgery in Dec. 2022); missed three games as junior (Oct. 2023) because of injury

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Ohio State, Henderson shared running back duties in offensive coordinator Chip Kelly's diverse run game (gap/zone, pin-pulls, counters, etc.). After setting Ohio State records as a freshman, he battled injuries the next two seasons, then willingly split carries as a senior. That shift hurt his overall stats but kept him fresh (7.1 yards per carry in 2024). Nonetheless, he still finished top five in school history in rushing yards and No. 3 in total touchdowns (48).

Although his inside vision can get a little messy at times, and he isn't the most graceful working through tight spaces, Henderson can bounce laterally and smash the accelerator to sprint through voids or convert his speed to power as a finisher. As a blocker, he delivers thunderbolts into his target. As a pass catcher, he secures grabs away from his frame and has dynamic ability on option routes. Overall, Henderson isn't a proven bellcow between the tackles, but his bursts of speed make him a home-run threat and coaches can trust him to execute without the football. His versatile skill set will be an immediate upgrade to an NFL backfield.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 46 overall)

RB5 Quinshon Judkins

Ohio State, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pike Road, AL	Pike Road	Oct 29, 2003	21.48	5115	221	#1

BACKGROUND: Quinshon (KWIN-shon) Judkins, who has two sisters, grew up in Montgomery, Ala., with his mother (Teva), who's an attorney, and his father (Quincy), a business owner. He started playing football at age 7, initially as a pee-wee quarterback before moving to running back at age 9. Judkins also loves to fish, and his favorite activity growing up was skateboarding before he decided to focus on football in high school.

Before seventh grade, Judkins' family moved to Pike Road, Ala., which was a newly established school system. Part of the inaugural class of an upstart football program, he starred on JV as an eighth-grader before moving up to varsity as a freshman — the first ever varsity season for Pike Road (played home games at Alabama State). He saw more action on defense (39 tackles as a linebacker) than on offense (19 carries) in his first season. As a sophomore, Judkins became the starting back and rushed for 1,131 yards and 16 touchdowns, helping the team to an 11-0 start until a loss in the second round of the 2019 3A state playoffs. Pike Road moved up to 5A in 2020 and again had an undefeated regular season behind Judkins' 1,482 rushing yards and 25 touchdowns. As a senior, Judkins led the program to an undefeated 14-0 season and the 2021 5A state championship. Despite battling a hamstring injury early in the 2021 season, Judkins, who was named MVP of the state title game, finished with 1,534 yards on 205 carries (7.5 average) and scored 27 touchdowns (26 rushing, one receiving). He also ran track for Pike Road on the 4x100 and 4x200 relay teams.

A three-star recruit, Judkins was the 46th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 25 recruit in Alabama. After his breakout sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer (UAB) in February 2020. Offers from several Big Ten and SEC programs soon followed, including Auburn, Arkansas, Michigan, Nebraska and Tennessee. Judkins narrowed his offer sheet to seven: Auburn, Florida, Michigan, Penn State, Notre Dame, Ole Miss and Yale. Some expected him to stay in-state, but he committed to Ole Miss because he loved his visit and felt like the staff made him a priority. Judkins graduated early and was the 10th-ranked recruit in head coach Lane Kiffin's 2022 class.

After two productive seasons with the Rebels, he entered the transfer portal in January 2024 and immediately identified Ohio State as the most attractive of the schools that showed interest (Judkins on OSU: "This is the place you want to go — a place where everyone is passionate and everyone wants to win here. There is a great culture."). As part of his NIL earnings, he donated $10,000 to his alma mater, Pike Road, before the 2024 season. After one season with the Buckeyes, Judkins elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG TD	REC	YDS	AVG TD	NOTES
2022: (13/6)	274	1,567	5.72 16	15	132	8.80 1	Ole Miss; Freshman All-American; SEC Freshman of the Year; First Team All-SEC; 7-yd pass
2023: (13/13)	271	1,158	4.27 15	22	149	6.77 2	Ole Miss; First Team All-SEC; led SEC in rushing TDs
2024: (16/8)	194	1,060	5.46 14	22	161	7.32 2	Ohio State; Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in rushing; enrolled January 2024
Total: (42/27)	739	3,785	5.12 45	59	442	7.49 5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5115	221	9 1/4	30 1/4	73 1/2	4.48	2.61	1.58	38 1/2	11' 0"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5116	221	9 1/8	31 1/2	73 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	24

STRENGTHS:

- Well-built, compact back with rocked-up quads
- Displays both balance and run strength, making it a chore for defenders to get him on the ground
- Won't slow into contact and never had a run he didn't finish
- Has vision to find the crease or cutback
- Good backfield feet with plant-and-go acceleration to build up immediate momentum
- Aggressively attacks designed inside run lane with goal of hitting second level at top speed
- Serviceable pass catcher and reliable in screen game
- Terrific ball security for a back who seeks out contact (only one fumble in past two seasons)

- Finished with 50 career touchdowns and became the only player in Ole Miss history with 17 total touchdowns or more in a season (he did it twice)
- Above-average rushing production in both SEC and Big Ten (needed only two seasons to rank top three in all-time rushing yards at Ole Miss)
- Durable — didn't miss a game in past three seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- More quick and decisive than truly explosive
- Lacks getaway gear to speed away from pursuit in open field
- Overeager at the line with inconsistent pace and patience
- Needs to be choosier when picking lanes
- Inconsistent in pass protection and struggles to stay square; stagnant feet and mistimed hand strikes
- Didn't play on special teams in college
- Plenty of mileage on the odometer (799 career touches in college, more than 500 touches in high school)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Ohio State, Judkins shared running back duties in former offensive coordinator Chip Kelly's diverse run game (gap/zone, pin-pulls, counters, etc.). He had one of the best two-year rushing stretches in SEC history while at Ole Miss. He then transferred to Columbus, Ohio, for the 2024 season and surpassed 1,000 yards rushing for the third straight year. He joined Ohio State because he wanted to win a national title, and he helped pay off that goal with three touchdowns in a championship-game victory over Notre Dame.

Judkins has quick eyes and footwork to react to the blocking geometry, although he often runs like he is starving and must balance his aggressive style with improved patience before attacking the line of scrimmage. His best traits are his play strength and the run toughness to drop his pads, barrel through heavy contact and come out the other side. Overall, Judkins isn't as dynamic as other backs in this class, but he is an "attitude" runner with the quickness, vision and violence to be a productive lead option in an NFL backfield. He can help secure his spot on the depth chart by taking his passing-down responsibilities from serviceable to above average.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 60 overall)

RB6 Dylan Sampson

Tennessee, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Baton Rouge, LA	Dutchtown	Sep 14, 2004	20.61	5080	199	#6

BACKGROUND: Dylan Sampson, the third of four children (three boys, one girl), was born and raised in the Baton Rouge, La., area with his parents (Adrian and Eric) and extended family. His older brothers (Austin and Justin), who are twins and eight years older than Dylan, both played football and inspired Dylan to play, as well. In third grade, his mother signed him up for tackle football, and he immediately chose running back as his position, because he wanted to be like Reggie Bush. He only played that one year of football and instead focused on track as his main sport. He competed for the Louisiana Xpress Club and finished first in the 2016 USATF Regional Championships in the 100 meters. The following year, he competed in nationals in Houston and finished third in the 200 meters. In seventh grade, Sampson and his family endured the deadly Louisiana floods of 2016 and the death of his grandfather. Those experiences led him back to football, where he blossomed in eighth grade.

Sampson followed in his brother's footsteps and enrolled at Dutchtown High in Geismar (outside of Baton Rouge), which has produced several NFL players, including running back Eddie Lacy and defensive backs Landon Collins, Justin Reid and Eric Reid. Sampson became the first non-kicker in school history to suit up on varsity as a freshman and gradually became a key contributor over his first two seasons. As a junior, he rushed for 1,327 yards and 15 touchdowns over eight games of a pandemic-shortened season, which earned him a spot on the 5A all-state team. As a senior captain, Sampson finished with 1,673 all-purpose yards, including 1,374 rushing yards, 22 touchdowns and a 9.28 yards-per-carry average. As a senior, he again earned all-state honors and overtook Lacy as Dutchtown's all-time leading rusher (4,927 yards). He also set the program's single-game rushing record (287 yards). Sampson continued his track career in high school, as well, and was named the 2019 district most outstanding male track athlete. He was one of the state's top high school sprinters and had personal bests of 10.62 seconds in the 100 meters, 21.57 in the 200 and 6.90 in the 60 indoor. Sampson carried a 4.0 GPA and was named Dutchtown's Homecoming king.

A three-star recruit, Sampson was the 36th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 21 recruit in Louisiana. Midway through his sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer (FCS Nicholls State). A week later, Tennessee became his second offer. The offers continued to pour in, including from Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi State, Penn State and South Carolina. Sampson didn't originally consider Tennessee, because of coaching upheaval within the program, but Josh Heupel started to recruit him at UCF and then continued when he was hired as the Volunteers' head coach in January 2021. Sampson committed to the Volunteers in June 2021. After Brian Kelly was hired as head coach at LSU, he tried to flip Sampson to the Tigers, but Sampson stayed committed to Tennessee. He was the seventh-ranked recruit in Heupel's 2022 class. Sampson twice earned SEC Academic Honor Roll honors (2022-23) and held a 3.6 GPA at Tennessee. He elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG TD	REC	YDS	AVG TD	NOTES
2022: (10/0)	58	397	6.84	3	24	8.00	Enrolled June 2022
2023: (12/1)	106	604	5.70	17	175	10.29	First career start came in bowl game
2024: (13/13)	258	1,491	5.78	20	143	7.15	Second Team All-American; SEC Offensive Player of the Year; First Team All-SEC; led SEC in rushing
Total: (35/14)	422	2,492	5.91	35	342	8.55	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5081	200	8 3/4	30 1/2	73	DNP	DNP	DNP	35	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	13	No 40, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5080	199	8 5/8	30 3/8	72 7/8	4.42	2.59	1.58	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Loves to play fast and displays electricity with the ball in his hands
- Can turn the corner and race down the sideline
- Natural feel for following pullers on counter runs
- Will press zone runs before using light feet to shake laterally (wears No. 6 because he models his game after Alvin Kamara)
- Accelerates into second-level contact with balance to spin out of defender's grasp
- Makes sharp speed cuts and weaves to avoid getting squared up
- Fights for every yard — and consistently gets more than expected
- High-energy personality (Tennessee coach Josh Heupel: "He's grown into somebody who has a great voice. He's truly a strong leader for us.")
- Nose for the paint — scored 36 touchdowns in 35 games (set school record with at least one TD in 11 straight games)
- Carried Vols' offense in 2024, including breaking single-season rushing touchdown record that had stood for 95 years

WEAKNESSES:

- Has some muscularity but frame is lighter than desired for the position
- Not a powerful runner, inside or downhill
- Adequate run patience as he searches for daylight but could use better anticipation to hit the hole as it comes open
- Adequate hands as a receiver but will fight the ball at times (two drops on 25 targets in 2024)
- More than willing in pass pro but his and eyes need to improve to match up against NFL rushers
- Extra fight as a runner gives defenders extra chances to swipe the ball (four fumbles in 2024)
- Didn't play on special teams in college and doesn't have return experience
- Missed almost all of his final game against Ohio State with strained left hamstring (Dec. 2024)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Tennessee, Sampson was a prolific runner in head coach Josh Heupel's up-tempo, multiple-run scheme (exclusively one-back sets in the gun). After serving as a backup behind Jaylen Wright and Jabari Small for two seasons, he emerged as SEC Offensive Player of the Year in 2024 (averaged 131.4 rushing yards per game in SEC play), setting school-records for rushing yards (1,491) and rushing touchdowns (22) in a season.

Although it looks chaotic at times when he plays in overdrive, Sampson runs with urgent speed getting through the first wave, and his sharp lateral cuts open up the field. He isn't powerful, but he runs with outstanding competitiveness and averaged a touchdown every 12.1 carries in college. Overall, Sampson is undersized by NFL standards and his inconsistent tempo gets him in trouble, but he is equal parts fast, physical and slippery as a runner and shows promise as a pass catcher. He can have a Tony Pollard-like impact for an NFL backfield.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 74 overall)

RB7 Jordan James

Oregon, 3JR

HOMETOWN Nashville, TN	HIGH SCHOOL Oakland	BIRTHDAY Mar 29, 2004	AGE 21.07	HT 5094	WT 208	NUM #20
---------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jordan James, the second of five children, was born and raised in Nashville, Tenn., with his mother (Toshiya Ward). He grew up with four sisters. James started playing football "the earliest he could," at age 6, initially as an offensive and defensive lineman for two years before moving to running back. He also tried baseball (James: "It was too slow."), then wrestled in middle school.

James originally attended Brentwood Academy, a Christian prep school in Nashville. After making a splash on varsity as a freshman, he rushed for 1,099 yards on 155 carries (7.1 average) and 18 touchdowns as a sophomore. However, he wanted a better fit, so he withdrew from the school toward the end of the football season (Oct. 2019) and was home-schooled for the remainder of his sophomore year.

After his family relocated to Murfreesboro, Tenn., he enrolled at Oakland High. As a junior, James rushed for 1,752 yards on 182 carries (9.6 average) and 26 touchdowns, as Oakland went 15-0 (school's first undefeated season) and captured the 2020 6A state championship over Brentwood Academy — he was MVP of the game with 226 rushing yards and six touchdowns. He was also named the area's male athlete of the year, a feat made even more impressive by the fact he played the entire 2020 season with a torn PCL in his right knee from the previous summer. As a senior, James rushed for 1,653 yards on 187 carries (8.8 average) and 24 touchdowns, adding 10 catches for 148 yards and one touchdown grab. He earned first-team all-state honors and led Oakland to another unbeaten season at 15-0, including the 2021 6A state championship. James also played 7-on-7 football for the Tennessee Select team.

A four-star recruit, James was the 16th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Tennessee (top running back in the state). His first offer came from Tennessee after his freshman season (Feb. 2019). He added offers from Alabama, Florida State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Penn State and others before committing to Georgia as a junior in March 2021. However, Oregon made a late push before signing day, and James opted to take late visits instead of signing during the early period. He announced a final three of Florida, Georgia and Oregon, then made up his mind after his visit to Eugene. On signing day, he officially flipped to the Ducks and was the fifth-ranked recruit in head coach Dan Lanning's first class at Oregon. After three seasons with the program, James skipped his senior season and entered the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (10/0)	46	189	4.11	5	1	6	6.00	0	Enrolled August 2022
2023: (14/0)	107	759	7.09	11	15	132	8.80	1	Led Pac-12 in yards per carry
2024: (14/14)	233	1,267	5.44	15	26	209	8.04	0	Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in rushing; knocked out of final game (concussion)
Total: (38/14)	386	2,215	5.74	31	42	347	8.26	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5094	205	9 1/2	29 3/4	73 3/4	4.55	2.68	1.63	DNP	9' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No VJ, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5094	208	9 1/2	30 1/2	73 1/4	4.51	2.60	1.55	32	DNP	DNP	DNP	20

STRENGTHS:

- Short and stocky with a cut-up physique
- Creates strong forward momentum to keep his balance and grind his legs through contact
- Decisive zone runner with above-average vision
- Skillfully baits defenders and sets up blocks before cutting away from leverage
- Works well in tight spaces with quick footwork and wiggle to gravitate toward openings
- Runs with attitude and consistently picks up more yardage than he should
- Has a nose for the sticks (one of just five FBS backs with 85 or more first downs in 2024)
- Reliable ball security and won't put ball on the ground (zero career fumbles)
- Has receiving traits to become an asset in screen game
- Stout, leveraged-based blocker with good awareness in pass pro
- Played entire junior season of high school without PCL in right knee after tearing it riding jet skis in summer 2020; underwent surgery after leading Oakland to state championship in December 2020
- Plenty of tread left on tires (428 career touches)

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent make-you-miss ability at second level
- Makes strong cuts to elude downhill pursuit but not as comfortable stringing together multiple moves
- Foot gets a tad heavy on the pedal at times
- Questionable open-field speed to be big-play threat (one of 233 carries in 2024 resulted in a play of more than 25 yards)
- Frequent visitor to end zone, but all 15 rushing touchdowns in 2024 came from inside red zone
- Needs to cut down on focus drops as a pass catcher
- Knocked out of Rose Bowl against Ohio State because of a concussion (Jan. 2025)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Oregon, James became the featured back in offensive coordinator Will Stein's RPO-based, multiple run scheme (inside zone, counter, duo, etc.). After sharing backfield duties with Bucky Irving in 2023, he became the starter in 2024 and helped lead the Ducks (and the Big Ten's top-ranked offense) to an undefeated regular season, including the conference championship (in Oregon's first season in the Big Ten).

Built low to the ground, James is quick to scan, drop his pads and slam the gas through cracks at the line of scrimmage (36.5 percent of his 2024 carries resulted in a first down or touchdown, No. 2 in the FBS). You can't measure his determination with a stopwatch or measuring tape. He ripped off a ton of doubles but wasn't much of a home-run threat — he ranked 10th in the FBS in carries of 10 or more yards (39) but 173rd in carries of 20 or more yards (3). Overall, James' well-rounded, no-nonsense run style will translate well to the NFL game, as will his feel for maximizing runs at the line of scrimmage and making the first man miss, which he does in multiple different ways (power, balance, quickness, vision). He has the talent to quickly ascend to the top of a team's running back depth chart — and stay there.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 77 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Orlando, FL	Edgewater	Feb 04, 2001	24.22	5080	205	#7

BACKGROUND: Robert "RJ" Harvey Jr., who has two sisters (Brianna and Alaina), was born and raised in Orlando with his parents (Robert and Juliet). He grew up with a football in his crib and started playing the first year he was eligible, at age 5. His father was his coach in flag football and then in tackle football for the Orlando Outlaws. Harvey was a quiet kid, so his father put him at quarterback to force him to talk more — and he stayed at quarterback throughout little league (also played on defense). At age 7, Harvey was named the 2008 Offensive Player of the Year in Midget league. His younger sister (Alaina) was a standout high school softball player and just finished her freshman season as a pitcher and third baseman at Allen (S.C.) University.

Harvey enrolled at Edgewater High, which produced 2016 first-round safety Karl Joseph. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore and shared quarterback duties for a team that went winless (0-10) in 2016, losing its games by an average of 41 points. Under a new coaching staff, Harvey became the full-time starting quarterback as a junior and led a major turnaround, earning first-team all-county and leading Edgewater to a 9-3 record and the 2017 district title. As a senior, he led Edgewater to 12 wins and the 2018 7A state semifinals. Harvey finished his final season with 1,787 passing yards, 1,376 rushing yards and 48 total touchdowns (25 rushing, 23 passing). He also lettered in weightlifting and track at Edgewater. He had personal bests of 11.29 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.58 in the 200 and 18 feet, 5 inches in the long jump.

A three-star recruit, Harvey was 36th-ranked dual-threat quarterback in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 216 recruit in Florida. He received interest from colleges as a running back but had been a quarterback his entire life and was committed to staying at the position in college. After his junior season, Harvey received his first scholarship offer (South Alabama) in February 2018, followed by offers from Appalachian State, Coastal Carolina and Georgia State. Several ACC programs entered the mix, including North Carolina, Syracuse and Virginia. His hometown UCF also offered him, but as a running back. Harvey officially committed to Virginia in July 2018. He signed as a quarterback and was the 23rd-ranked (out of 23) recruit in Virginia's 2019 class.

Harvey was homesick during his redshirt season, though, and entered the transfer portal in July 2020. The first school he heard from was UCF, which still wanted him as a running back. Harvey was more open to the position change by that point and joined the Golden Knights in August 2020. Because it was so late in the calendar, Harvey had to walk on with the promise from former head coach Josh Heupel that he would be put on scholarship after the season. Heupel left UCF for the Tennessee head coaching job in January 2021 but kept his promise and put Harvey on scholarship before he left. Harvey took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted because of the pandemic and returned to UCF for a sixth season in 2024. He earned AAC All-Academic honors in 2022 and graduated with a degree in interdisciplinary studies (May 2023). He is pursuing a second degree in pre-management. Harvey accepted his invitation to the 2025 Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (-/-)									Virginia; redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (5/0)	3	3	1.00	0	0	0		0	UCF; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (-/-)									UCF; missed season (ACL injury)
2022: (13/3)	118	796	6.75	5	22	215	9.77	0	UCF; 49-yard passing TD
2023: (13/11)	226	1,416	6.27	16	19	238	12.53	1	UCF; Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in rushing
2024: (12/12)	232	1,577	6.80	22	20	267	13.35	3	UCF; First Team All-Big 12; led team in rushing and total TDs; team captain
Total: (43/26)	579	3,792	6.55	43	61	720	11.80	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5080	205	9	29	71 1/4	4.40	2.55	1.52	38	10' 7"	4.34	DNP	16	No three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Patient eyes at the line to settle, scan and allow blockers to do their jobs
- Makes abrupt lateral cuts and loose lower body helps him hop from one gap to another
- Excellent proximity awareness and skillfully maneuvers around moving pieces
- Elusive burst creates more yardage than expected (FBS-best 23.3 percent of his 2024 carries resulted in gain of 10 or more yards)
- Can spin out of tackle attempts and maintain balance through contact
- Makes sharp cuts in open field to disrupt pursuit (35.1 percent of his 2024 carries resulted in a first down or touchdown)
- Solid foundation to become a better pass catcher
- Offers kick-return experience, having averaged 16.4 yards per return in college (seven attempts for 115 yards)
- Consistently productive — finished No. 2 in school history in all-time rushing yards (surpassed 100 yards rushing in 16 of final 20 games)
- Voted 2024 team captain; described as "lowkey" and "quietly confident" by NFL scouts

WEAKNESSES:

- Average run power— arm tackles can halt his momentum
- Guilty of making extra cut instead of driving downhill when bottled up
- Quicker than fast — linebackers can track him down on stretch plays
- Squares in pass pro but too much of a catch blocker and can be bowled over by blitzers
- Sluggish getting his head turned on screen targets (lack of urgency led to pick six on 2024 Utah tape)
- Suffered non-contact ACL tear in left knee (August 2021) during preseason camp, requiring season-ending surgery (Sept. 2021)
- Will be 24 years old on draft weekend

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at UCF, Harvey was the lead back in head coach Gus Malzahn's multiple run scheme. A quarterback his entire life, he'd never taken a snap at running back before joining the Golden Knights (Harvey: "I didn't even know how to take a handoff."). Even so, he rushed for 75 or more yards in each of his final 21 games at UCF, and only Ashton Jeanty, Omarion Hampton and Tahj Brooks had more rushing yards in the FBS over the past two seasons.

Though he doesn't have the power to drive through the first level, he is a dynamic make-you-miss runner with his tempo and burst (54 carries of 10 or more yards in 2024), which made him a frequent visitor to the end zone (UCF-record 48 total touchdowns). He is below average as a pass-protecting blocker but has the tools to be a weapon catching the ball on screens and wheels. Overall, Harvey needs to develop better consistency on passing downs, but he is skilled at patiently settling his feet and changing lanes with his instinctive field vision and lateral quickness. Similar in ways to Tyjae Spears, he projects best in a timeshare role in the NFL.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 93 overall)

RB9 Trevor Etienne

Georgia, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Jennings, LA	Jennings	Jul 09, 2004	20.79	5086	198	#1

BACKGROUND: Trevor Etienne, the youngest of four children, was born and raised in Jennings, La. (a small town midway between Houston and New Orleans), with his parents (Travis and Donnetta). His father worked in the oil industry, and his mother was a nurse. His older brother (Travis Jr.) was a record-breaking running back at Jennings High, then starred at Clemson before becoming a Jacksonville Jaguars first-round pick (No. 25) in the 2021 NFL Draft. His older sisters (Danielle and Shanea) played basketball and track. Growing up, Trevor Etienne was his older brother's shadow (despite a six-year age difference), so naturally, he started playing running back at the pee-wee level. Always wanting to play with his older brother, Trevor competed against older kids in the backyard and on the basketball court most of his life, although the two brothers never played on the same team because of their age gap. The brothers have appeared in multiple commercials and marketing opportunities, including for Chipotle.

Like his older brother, Etienne enrolled at Jennings High, where he played both ways as a running back and safety. Much was expected of Trevor after Travis rewrote the program's record books, but he got off to a rough start, breaking his fibula (August 2018) and missing his freshman season. Once healthy again, he rushed for 1,266 yards (7.2 average) and 15 touchdowns as a sophomore, adding 352 receiving yards and five touchdown grabs. As a junior, Etienne led Jennings to an 8-1 record, its only loss coming in the regional finals of the 2020 3A state playoffs. He put together his best season as a senior with 1,344 rushing yards (12.3 average) and 20 touchdowns, even moving to wildcat quarterback for several games because of injuries on the roster (482 yards passing and one touchdown). Etienne also had a punt return touchdown and a 41-yard interception return. He earned first-team all-state honors and played in the 2022 All-American Bowl. Etienne lettered in basketball and track, as well.

A four-star recruit, Etienne was the 14th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 14 recruit in Louisiana. Though his brother was overlooked as a high school recruit, Trevor didn't have that issue — thanks to his brother's college success. LSU received a lot of criticism for being late to start recruiting Travis, but it didn't make that same mistake with Trevor and offered him a scholarship as a freshman in May 2019. After Trevor Etienne's sophomore season, he received offers from Alabama, Auburn, Clemson, Florida, Florida State, Georgia, Ole Miss, Penn State, Tennessee and Texas A&M. His family had a great relationship with Clemson head coach Dabo Swinney, but Etienne became a silent commit to Florida in October 2021. After Florida fired Dan Mullen and replaced him with Billy Napier, Etienne remained confident in his decision and publicly announced his commitment at the All-American Bowl a few weeks before signing day. He was the ninth-ranked recruit in Napier's first class in Gainesville.

After two seasons at Florida, Etienne entered the transfer portal, because he wasn't the full-time starter and didn't want to be part of a "rebuilding" program. He signed with rival Georgia for the 2024 season. After one season in Athens, Etienne elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted top running back on the American Team during the week of practice.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (13/1)	118	719	6.09	6	9	66	7.33	0	Florida; enrolled May 2022
2023: (11/1)	131	753	5.75	8	21	172	8.19	1	Florida; missed one game (injury)
2024: (10/10)	122	609	4.99	9	32	194	6.06	0	Georgia; Third Team All-SEC; missed three games (ribs); missed season opener (suspended)
Total: (34/12)	371	2,081	5.61	23	62	432	6.97	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5086	198	9 1/2	29 1/4	70 1/2	4.42	2.58	1.54	35	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	15	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5086	200	9 3/4	29 1/2	70 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.34	7.20	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Compactly built and runs bigger than listed, with a muscular lower half
- Pairs his feet with his eyes at the line to set up moves
- Agile footwork for sharp cuts and last-minute redirects
- Runs with tempo and balance through the hole
- Gathers and establishes his weight quickly post-cut
- Consistently finishes runs with toughness
- Large, accepting hands as a receiving target — rarely let a pass hit the ground
- Just 371 carries in college, so he has plenty of tread left
- Became an offensive leader at Georgia (Kirby Smart: "He hasn't had even a full year with these guys, but he's not afraid to speak up.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent open-field moves once he clears the line of scrimmage
- Can get bounce-happy at times
- Fumbled twice in 2024 (Notre Dame and Alabama tapes)
- Showed promise in pass protection, but he wasn't asked to do it a ton on his 2024 tape
- Wasn't asked to be a workhorse (20 carries or more just once in his 34 career games)
- Suspended for 2024 season opener after he was arrested and charged with reckless driving and underage possession of alcohol (March 2024); charges were later dismissed after Etienne pleaded no contest
- Rib injury sidelined him for three games (Oct. 2024) and bothered him much of his final college season; missed his freshman year of high school after suffering a broken fibula (Aug. 2018)
- Last time he led his team in rushing for a season was in high school

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Georgia, Etienne became the lead back in offensive coordinator Mike Bobo's zone-based power scheme with gap principles included. He was part of a committee backfield in his two seasons at Florida before jumping to the Gators' hated rivals for the 2024 season. He finished as Georgia's second-leading rusher but battled through a rib injury over the second half of the year (his team's second-leading rusher each of his three seasons in college).

Etienne is built low to the ground with the vision and tempo to follow blockers with little wasted motion. He doesn't have the same type of electric acceleration as his older brother, but he has balanced feet in the hole with short-area cutting burst to shake defenders in tight spaces. Overall, there might not be anything exceptional about Etienne's game, but he also doesn't have any glaring weaknesses that would keep him from seeing steady NFL snaps. His promise as a pass catcher and blocker gives him value on all three downs.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 97 overall)

RB10
Bhayshul Tuten

Virginia Tech, 4SR

HOMETOWN Paulsboro, NJ	HIGH SCHOOL Paulsboro	BIRTHDAY Feb 14, 2002	AGE 23.19	HT 5092	WT 206	NUM #33
---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Bhayshul (BAY-shull) Tuten (TOOT-en) grew up in New Jersey with his parents. His father is a former sprinter; his mother was a record-breaking 110-meter hurdler in high school. Tuten started playing football at age 8 and quickly found a home at running back in youth football, where he was coached by Isaac Redman, his cousin and a former NFL running back with the Pittsburgh Steelers (2009-13). Tuten was a standout wrestler growing up and continued wrestling through freshman year of high school.

Tuten enrolled at Paulsboro High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman and played on all three phases as a running back, cornerback and return man. As a freshman, he accounted for 1,068 all-purpose yards and 10 total touchdowns (five rushing, three receiving, one punt return, one kick return), as Paulsboro finished 10-2 and captured the 2017 state championship. After missing most of his sophomore season with a broken thumb, Tuten had his best season as a junior (1,467 rushing yards and 24 touchdowns), despite playing through a sprained ankle and facing defenses that loaded the box while Paulsboro cycled through quarterbacks. He added 38 tackles, one interception and six other touchdowns (three receiving, three kick returns), plus earned first-team all-league and honorable mention all-state.

As a senior, Tuten repeated as the South Jersey Offensive Player of the Year and led Paulsboro to an undefeated 7-0 record amid a pandemic-shortened 2020 season. He finished with 1,282 yards (9.9 yards per carry) and 24 touchdowns, adding 34 tackles, one interception and five additional touchdowns (four receiving, one kick return). Tuten finished his prep career with 3,768 rushing yards and 77 touchdowns. He was also a standout track athlete in high school and won the high school elite indoor championships with a 6.99-second 60 meters. Tuten also had personal bests of 21 feet, 5 inches in the long jump, 43-9 in the shot put, 10.93 in the 100 and 23.85 in the 200.

A no-star recruit, Tuten went underrecruited in the 2021 recruiting class, despite his productive numbers (the pandemic played a part). The summer before his senior season, he picked up his first scholarship offers from FCS programs Albany, Bryant and Fordham. Tuten played his senior season with hopes of an FBS program swooping in with an offer, but one never arrived. On signing day, he made the "last-minute" decision to sign with North Carolina A&T, because it was an HBCU school. After two seasons at North Carolina A&T, Tuten entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2022). He received several attractive offers from Florida, Georgia, Kansas State, Missouri and Pittsburgh but originally committed to Boston College before flipping to Virginia Tech. Tuten opted out of Virginia Tech's bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (11/1)	37	215	5.81	3	10	230	23.00	1	North Carolina A&T; enrolled July 2021
2022: (11/11)	208	1,363	6.55	13	31	342	11.03	4	North Carolina A&T; First Team All-Big South; led Big South in rushing, all-purpose yards
2023: (13/13)	173	863	4.99	10	27	239	8.85	2	Virginia Tech; Second Team All-ACC; 99-yd KR TD; 94-yd KR TD; enrolled January 2023
2024: (11/10)	183	1,159	6.33	15	23	81	3.52	2	Virginia Tech; Second Team All-ACC; missed one game (left ankle); missed bowl (opt-out)
Total: (46/35)	601	3,600	5.99	41	91	892	9.80	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5092	206	9	29 1/2	72 7/8	4.32	2.50	1.48	40 1/2	10' 10"	4.41	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5092	204	9	29 7/8	72	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.15	DNP	24

STRENGTHS:

- "Freaks List" alum — it shows on the tape and the stopwatch
- Short but not small and carries decent mass on his frame
- Quick-footed cuts to tilt turns while maintaining tempo
- At his best on outside toss/pitch plays, where he can run on an outside track
- Runs with natural balance to keep his feet churning through arm tackles
- Will lower pads into contact to earn a few extra yards
- Catches the ball well in screen game (zero drops in 2024)
- Averaged 23.8 yards per kick return in college, including two touchdowns (94-yarder, 99-yarder)
- Soft-spoken guy but flips a switch on the field

WEAKNESSES:

- Patience and vision will run hot and cold between the tackles
- Want to see improvements anticipating in creating point of entry
- Relies on east-west cuts; more likely to bounce than cut back inside
- Ball security must improve (nine fumbles over two seasons with Hokies)
- Plays with energy in pass pro but technique isn't on same level, leading to breakdowns
- Battled left ankle issue over final month of senior season (Nov. 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Virginia Tech, Tuten was a weapon in former offensive coordinator Tyler Bowen's zone-based scheme. After his breakout sophomore season at North Carolina A&T, he transferred to Blacksburg and led the Hokies in rushing each of the past two seasons (6.3 yards per carry in 2024). When the blocking gets a hat on a hat, Tuten has the explosiveness to do the rest and forces tacklers to be perfect with their technique to slow his leg churn (averaged 4.40 yards after contact per carry in 2024). He is much more comfortable running on the edges compared to inside and needs to continue improving his decision-making between the tackles.

A two-year starter at Virginia Tech, Tuten was a weapon in former offensive coordinator Tyler Bowen's zone-based scheme. After his breakout sophomore season at North Carolina A&T, he transferred to Blacksburg and led the Hokies in rushing each of the past two seasons (6.3 yards per carry in 2024). When the blocking gets a hat on a hat, Tuten has the explosiveness to do the rest and forces tacklers to be perfect with their technique to slow his leg churn (averaged 4.40 yards after contact per carry in 2024). He is much more comfortable running on the edges compared to inside and needs to continue improving his decision-making between the tackles. Overall, Tuten is a balanced runner with the giddy-up burst to gash the defense when he finds the crease. His promise on third downs and experience as a kick returner increase the value he'd hold on an NFL roster.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

RB11 Jarquez Hunter

Auburn, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Philadelphia, MS	Neshoba Central	Dec 29, 2002	22.32	5093	204	#27

BACKGROUND: Jarquez (jar-KWEZ) Hunter, one of eight children, grew up on his family's farm with his grandmother (Shelia Murrell, who played basketball at Jackson State), and mother (Kenyatta Ragsdale) in the small town of Philadelphia in central Mississippi. He also has a relationship with his father (Kenshay Hunter), who lives in Texas. Described as a "country boy," Hunter played multiple sports throughout childhood, along with riding horses, fishing, hunting and riding four-wheelers. Hunter grew up idolizing Walter Payton and started playing football at age 6. He worked his way from a backup to be one of the top youth football players in the area.

Hunter attended Neshoba Central High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman on the football team, playing on offense (running back) and defense (linebacker). His breakout season came as a sophomore, when he rushed for 1,986 yards on 231 carries (8.6 average) and 26 touchdowns, adding 81 tackles, eight sacks and two interceptions. As a junior, Hunter led Neshoba Central to a 10-win season and the 2019 regional title. He earned district MVP honors with 2,088 rushing yards (9.8 yards per carry) and 29 touchdowns, plus 234 receiving yards and a pair of touchdown grabs. He also had 72 tackles, 10 tackles for loss, seven sacks and four interceptions (three returned for touchdowns). As a senior, Hunter rushed for 1,687 yards and 22 touchdowns in just eight games, which earned him the 2020 5A Mr. Football award.

He finished his prep career with 5,834 rushing yards and a state-record 93 touchdowns, breaking the previous mark of 92 held by former Oklahoma, USFL and NFL running back Marcus Dupree, who is Hunter's distant cousin. Hunter's 93 total touchdowns came in six different ways: rushing, receiving, fumble return, interception return, punt return and kick return. Hunter lettered in basketball and track at Neshoba Central and qualified for states as a sophomore with a personal best in the 100 meters of 11.04 seconds. As a senior, he also won the 5A powerlifting championship (198-pound weight class) with a 300-pound bench press, 576-pound squat and 575-pound deadlift.

A three-star recruit, Hunter was the 43rd-ranked running back in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 12 recruit in Mississippi. Following his breakout sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer (Ole Miss) in February 2019. Several schools followed, including Louisville, Memphis, Mississippi State, Tennessee and Virginia. Hunter was considered an Ole Miss lean until Auburn, his favorite school from childhood because of Cam Newton, entered the mix late. Newly hired offensive line coach Will Friend, also a Neshoba Central alum, convinced the Tigers' staff to offer Hunter a scholarship a few weeks before signing day. Hunter was the 10th-ranked recruit in former head coach Bryan Harsin's first class at Auburn. He made the SEC Academic Honor Roll four straight seasons and graduated (in three years) with his degree in natural resource management (May 2024). He accepted his invitation to the 2025 Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (13/2)	89	593	6.66	3	12	61	5.08	1	SEC All-Freshman; enrolled July 2021
2022: (12/1)	104	668	6.42	7	17	224	13.18	2	20-yard passing TD
2023: (12/12)	159	909	5.72	7	18	118	6.56	0	Led team in rushing; missed the season opener (suspension)
2024: (12/12)	187	1,201	6.42	8	21	155	7.38	1	First Team All-SEC; led team in rushing
Total: (49/27)	539	3,371	6.25	25	68	558	8.21	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5093	204	9 1/2	30	72 5/8	4.44	2.59	1.57	33 1/2	10' 0"	DNP	DNP	21	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5094	210	9 3/8	30 1/4	72 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	33 1/2	10' 0"	4.47	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Densely built with bricks and mortar
- Teammates tell tales of his legendary weight-room work ethic (squatted 600 pounds as freshman)
- Led SEC with 6.4 yards per carry in 2024
- Terrific run balance to drop pads and keep feet through contact
- Defenders better finish him to the ground, because he won't surrender easily
- Hits burst button when given a lane
- Ability to slash angles leads to chunk runs (42 carries of 10 yards or more sixth most in the FBS in 2024)
- Caught ball well as a screen target
- Regular on kickoff coverage all four seasons (10 career tackles on special teams)
- Also has experience returning kicks — averaged 20.7 yards per return (25 attempts for 517 yards)
- Rushing production improved each of his four seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent vision working through all the smoke at line of scrimmage
- More likely to barrel into first-level bodies than show patience for developing holes
- Setting up moves at second level isn't natural for him
- Struggles to quickly regain speed after being slowed down
- Fumbled three times on 187 carries in 2024
- Missed assignments in pass pro and communication needs to be better
- Has projectable frame as blocker, but blitzing linebackers can give him the shake
- Scouts say there are "no concerns" about his character, but Hunter was briefly suspended from the team during 2023 offseason

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Auburn, Hunter was the featured back in head coach Hugh Freeze's RPO-leaning offense. After backing up Tank Bigsby for two seasons, he led the Tigers in rushing as a junior and senior and left the Plains fourth on the school's all-time rushing list (behind Bo Jackson, Cadillac Williams and James Brooks).

A weight-room demon and state champion powerlifter in high school, Hunter has a cut-up physique, and his physical, balanced run style makes him a chore to tackle (ranked No. 2 in the FBS with 36.6 percent of his 2024 carries resulted in a first down or touchdown). He isn't the most creative or elusive runner at the line of scrimmage or in space, but he keeps his legs pumping to carry tacklers draped on his back. Overall, Hunter's vision and tempo tend to run hot and cold, but he is a hammerhead with downhill burst to run through holes and into contact without gearing down. Along with his hungry run style, his impact on special teams will separate him on an NFL depth chart.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

RB12 Cam Skattebo

Arizona State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Rio Linda, CA	Rio Linda	Feb 05, 2002	23.21	5095	216	#4

BACKGROUND: Cameron "Cam" Skattebo (SKAT-eh-boo), one of four children, was born and raised in Rio Linda, Calif. (north of Sacramento), with his parents (Leo and Becky), who divorced when Cam was 16. His father owns and operates a home inspection business and played football at Colorado State. His older brother (Leonard IV) played fullback at Sacramento City College (2014-15) before transferring to Bowling Green (2016-17). Cam Skattebo started playing organized sports at age 5, notably football and baseball (led his California Little League in home runs at age 9). Leo coached Cam on the Rio Linda Junior Knights, where Cam played with the same group of kids throughout youth football and into high school. He started out as a running back before moving to quarterback, and he also saw time at wide receiver and on defense. In high school, he started speed/agility training with Lem Adams and GameFit Sacramento.

Just like his brother, father and grandfather, Cam Skattebo enrolled at Rio Linda High, where he had a record-setting football career. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore running back and rushed for 992 yards and nine touchdowns. Skattebo had an exceptional junior season, leading Rio Linda to a 13-2 record and the 2018 Division 5 state championship (393 rushing yards in the title game). He finished that season with 3,550 rushing yards (11.6 yards per carry) and 42 touchdowns, including 10 performances of 200 yards or more, earning league MVP and Sacramento MVP honors. As a senior, Skattebo posted 1,650 rushing yards and 18 touchdowns while adding 245 passing yards and one touchdown to earn all-league honors for the third straight season. He also played linebacker and collected a combined 168 tackles and three interceptions over his three-year varsity career. Skattebo finished his prep career with 6,192 rushing yards and 69 touchdowns. He also lettered in baseball (pitcher and catcher) and basketball (guard) at Rio Linda.

A no-star recruit, Skattebo wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. After his prolific junior season, he picked up his first Division I scholarship offer (William & Mary) in February 2019. Despite averaging 9.9 yards per carry over his high school career, however, Skattebo didn't receive any FBS offers and finished with just two FCS offers. He did visit UCLA and other programs in the former Pac-12, but none of those schools offered him. Midway through his senior season, he committed to nearby Sacramento State. He flirted with the idea of also playing baseball in college, but the coaches didn't allow that to come to fruition. After three seasons in the FCS (including an All-America 2022 campaign), Skattebo entered the transfer portal with the hopes of moving up to the FBS. He received offers from San Jose State and Texas State, but Skattebo committed almost on the spot when Arizona State entered the mix. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (-/-)									Sacramento State; season cancelled because of pandemic
2021: (11/4)	57	520	9.12	6	12	124	10.33	1	Sacramento State; Third Team All-Big Sky
2022: (13/11)	195	1,372	7.04	7	31	371	11.97	3	Sacramento State; All-American; Big Sky Offensive Player of the Year; First Team All-Big Sky; 19-yard TD pass
2023: (12/7)	164	783	4.77	9	24	286	11.92	1	Arizona State; led team in rushing; completed 6-of-15 passes (1 TD, 1 INT)
2024: (13/13)	293	1,711	5.84	21	45	605	13.44	3	Arizona State; First Team All-American; First Team All-Big 12; led Big 12 in rushing; missed one game (shoulder)
Total: (49/35)	709	4,386	6.19	43	112	1,386	12.38	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5094	219	9 3/8	29 7/8	73 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	39 1/2	10' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	Jumps only (left hamstring)
PRO DAY	5095	216	9	29 3/8	74 1/4	4.65	2.67	1.58	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	17

STRENGTHS:

- Short and stocky with brawny body composition
- Runs with tremendous balance and abides by "low man wins" slogan
- Drops square pads into contact to create a stalemate, then drives his legs to leverage forward (he would excel in rugby)
- Slams inside with determined strength to grind out yards
- Runs with vision and downhill urgency to find the crease
- Doesn't stay in one place too long, displaying agile footwork to weave or jump cut
- Builds up speed as he goes to create big plays (20 plays of 20 yards or more in 2024 — 12 rushes, eight catches)
- Soft-handed receiver and catches with ease
- Wired differently and has always been mentally and physically tough (According to his mother, at age 6, he would wear his brother's pads and run into telephone poles at football fields while the older kids were playing.)
- Versatile skill set (19 career pass attempts for 191 yards, three touchdowns and one interception)
- Punted eight times in 2023 (three times for for 50 yards or more) and played on kickoff coverage in 2024
- Finished No. 2 in FBS in rushing yards in 2024, behind only Ashton Jeanty

WEAKNESSES:

- Short strider and takes a moment to get going, which leads to excess contact at or behind line of scrimmage
- Average burst and start-stop ability
- Lack of immediate juice will be more apparent on stretch plays against NFL pursuit
- Impatient pressing line of scrimmage and too eager barreling into contact
- Courageous runner but takes a lot of pounding — doesn't always need to show how tough he is
- Extra hits on body will lead to ball-security concerns (10 combined fumbles over past three seasons)
- Has body type and functional strength needed for pass pro but eye level and mechanics are inconsistent
- Missed one game as senior because of shoulder injury (Nov. 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Arizona State, Skattebo was the featured weapon in offensive coordinator Marcus Arroyo's spread, multiple run scheme. After two years at Sacramento State (Skattebo didn't have any FBS offers out of high school), he achieved legendary status in Tempe, Ariz., by leading the Sun Devils to the 2024 Big 12 championship and College Football Playoff. He finished fifth in 2024 Heisman Trophy voting and set Arizona State's single-season school records for rushing yards (1,711), rushing touchdowns (21) and total touchdowns (24).

Skattebo will struggle with some short-area cuts once he gets rolling downhill and can do a better job pressing the line, but his best traits are his finishing toughness and sturdy balance to absorb hits, which make him a chore to tackle. He needs to improve his consistency as a pass blocker, but his versatility as a receiver is an asset (first FBS player with 1,500 yards or more rushing and 500 yards or more receiving in the same season since Christian McCaffrey). Overall, Skattebo is a thickly built, compact runner who is more quick than explosive, but he competes with tremendous resolve and understands how to rely on his pad level and contact balance to get the most out of every carry. He is a draftable option for a team looking to upgrade its backfield physicality.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

RB13 DJ Giddens

Kansas State, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Junction City, KS	Junction City	Aug 26, 2003	21.66	6002	212	#31

BACKGROUND: David “DJ” Giddens grew up in Junction City, Kan. (20 miles from Manhattan, Kan.), with his parents (David and Monique Giddens). He developed a love for fishing and eventually found football. Giddens attended Junction City High and saw time on varsity as a freshman. He didn’t play as a sophomore but rejoined the team as a junior, only to miss most of the season with an injury. Giddens worked hard to return to the field in 2020 and put together his best season as a senior: 1,255 rushing yards and the school record for touchdowns (30), which earned him first-team all-state honors. Giddens led Junction City to a 9-2 record and the semifinals of the 2020 6A state playoffs, capturing district and sectional championships. He finished his career with 1,912 rushing yards.

A no-star recruit, Giddens wasn’t ranked by online recruiting services in the 2021 class. He had two things working against him: his grades and lack of film. FBS recruiters didn’t expect him to qualify academically and thought he would go the junior college route. But Kansas State head coach

Chris Kleiman, who was familiar with Giddens because he'd watched him play against his son at Manhattan High, stayed in contact. Giddens was still unsure about his next step as signing day came and went in 2021, but Kleiman gave him his only scholarship offer (May 2021). After four seasons in Manhattan, Giddens opted out of Kansas State's bowl game and elected to skip his senior season to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (-/-)									Redshirted; enrolled June 2021
2022: (14/0)	89	518	5.82	6	8	98	12.25	0
2023: (13/13)	223	1,226	5.50	10	29	323	11.14	3	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in rushing
2024: (12/12)	205	1,343	6.55	7	21	258	12.29	1	Second Team All-Big 12; led team in rushing; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (39/25)	517	3,087	5.97	23	58	679	11.71	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6002	212	9 1/4	30 3/8	75 1/4	4.43	2.54	1.49	39 1/2	10' 10"	4.33	DNP	DNP	Limited workout (med. exclusion)
PRO DAY	6001	214	9 5/8	30 1/4	74 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	7.19	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Fluid in lower half to pick, slide and wiggle through traffic
- Lateral quickness allows him to shake one-on-one defenders (safeties don't want to see him in open field)
- Scans patiently at line with cutback ability
- Anticipates holes before they expand and gets skinny through creases
- Run balance helps keep himself afloat post-contact
- Showed tracking skills on deep wheel route on 2024 Tulane tape
- Quiet and reserved but described by his coaches as a "humble worker"
- Consistent production — averaged 102.8 rushing yards per game over 25 starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Linear build and needs to continue adding mass to his frame
- Doesn't always play up to stopwatch speed
- Runs with tall pads and average power (won't push pile)
- Not a punisher between the tackles — would like to see better leg churn
- Adjusts well to the football as a pass catcher, but drops started to add up on tape (five on 32 targets in 2024)
- Core strength and technique are equal problems in pass protection (see 2024 Kansas tape)
- Had a pair of fumbles in 2024

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Kansas State, Giddens went from relative obscurity to a starter in former offensive coordinator Conor Riley's multiple run scheme (Riley accepted a job as the Dallas Cowboys' offensive line coach in 2025). A former no-star recruit, he worked his way up the depth chart once he arrived in Manhattan and topped 1,200 rushing yards in back-to-back seasons (6.0 yards per carry over his career).

Giddens displays good vision, tempo and cutting skills at the line of scrimmage, and he is at his best when he has room to anticipate angles and sidestep or spin out of tackles. However, there is a massive gap between the talent level of tacklers in the Big 12 and what he will see in the NFL — thus far, he's been able to get away with some of his tentative tendencies. Overall, Giddens is a narrow, upright runner and doesn't have a grind-it-out mentality, but his gliding quickness and innate balance help him create. He projects best in an NFL scheme with a play caller who can get him into space as part of a committee.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

RB14 Ollie Gordon II

Oklahoma State, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Fort Worth, TX	Trinity	Jan 15, 2004	21.27	6013	226	#0

BACKGROUND: Ollie Gordon II was born and raised in Fort Worth, Texas, with his mother (Tarona Smith). He started playing football at the pee-wee level and became one of the best youth players in the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex in middle school. He played a lot of running back and grew up idolizing Derrick Henry, although Gordon was primarily a quarterback in junior high and going into high school (saw himself as a Cam Newton-style player).

Gordon enrolled at Trinity High in Euless, Texas, where he started at quarterback and safety on the freshman team in 2018. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore and shared starting running back and wide receiver duties, finishing with more than 700 rushing yards and 12 total touchdowns to earn district newcomer of the year. As a junior, Gordon became the featured weapon in the Trinity offense. He helped lead the team to an 11-2 record and the 2020 district championship, despite missing three games with a fractured clavicle.

He earned district MVP and first-team all-state honors in 2020 with 2,083 rushing yards and 28 touchdowns, including a record-setting performance (49 carries for 455 yards and six touchdowns) in an upset over football powerhouse Allen. Despite sharing some of the quarterback duties as a senior in 2021, Gordon posted even better production, as he again led Trinity to an 11-2 finish and another district title. He finished his final season with 257 carries for 2,546 yards (9.9 yards per carry) and 35 touchdowns, rushing for 100 or more yards in all 13 games and adding six other touchdowns (three passing, two receiving, one punt return).

A four-star recruit, Gordon was the 19th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 37 recruit in Texas. The summer before his junior season, he picked up his first scholarship offer from Iowa State (July 2020). The recruiting floodgates burst open during his breakout junior year, including offers from Arkansas, BYU, Houston, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma State, SMU, Texas Tech, USC, Utah and his hometown TCU. However, he felt a connection with the coaches at Oklahoma State and committed in February 2021. Despite a late push from Texas before signing day, Gordon stayed committed and was the second-ranked recruit in head coach Mike Gundy's 2022 class. He graduated with a bachelor's degree (Dec. 2024). Gordon skipped his senior season to enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the National Team's top running back during the week of practice.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (13/1)	62	308	4.97	2	12	76	6.33	2	First start came in bowl game; enrolled February 2022
2023: (14/14)	285	1,732	6.08	21	39	330	8.46	1	Doak Walker Award; unanimous All-American; Big 12 Off. POY; First Team All-Big 12
2024: (12/12)	190	880	4.63	13	29	179	6.17	1	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in rushing
Total: (39/27)	537	2,920	5.44	36	80	585	7.31	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6013	226	9 1/2	32 3/4	80	4.61	2.72	1.62	34 1/2	10' 0"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6010	227	9 3/4	32 1/2	79 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	12

STRENGTHS:

- Sports a good-sized, athletic build
- Galloping speed once he stretches out long-legged strides
- Open-field burst to destroy second-level pursuit angles with acceleration
- Presses the line and angles his body to make tight turns and maneuver around defenders
- Runs with tempo to navigate through the weeds
- Aggressive in pass pro, diving and taking out legs of rushers or using hands to keep blitzers busy
- Catches the ball well — didn't register a drop in 2024 (on 38 targets)
- Sixth player in school history to rush for 1,700 or more yards in a season
- Served as a captain in four games in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Runs upright and struggles to make himself small
- Needs to embrace and tap into power element to send messages when finishing
- Guilty of slowing/stopping his feet, instead of dropping his pads and driving through impending contact
- Often impatient and overly committed, which is a bad combination
- Late to locate and access alternate run lanes
- Need a microscope to find explosive plays on his 2024 tape
- Holds the ball too loose at times (four fumbles over past two seasons)
- Arrested and charged with DUI by a person under 21 and transporting an open container of alcohol (June 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Oklahoma State, Gordon was the centerpiece in offensive coordinator Kasey Dunn's multiple run scheme. He put himself on the NFL radar with a unanimous All-America sophomore season (FBS-best 1,732 rushing yards), although he had a tough time matching that production during his junior season (his carries of 20 yards or more plummeted from 21 to six).

Gordon has somewhat of an identity crisis as a runner, because he has a wide, balanced gait and the acceleration to make defenders miss. But what he faced in the Big 12 wasn't close to the NFL pursuit he'll see, and he must embrace his size to be more of a banger through contact. Overall, Gordon runs with life in his legs that makes him a threat any time he touches the rock, but he must improve his decision-making and physicality as a finisher to be a consistent down-to-down runner. His promise as a blocker and pass catcher will help his chances on an NFL depth chart.

GRADE: 4th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Lawrence, KS	Lawrence	Aug 12, 2003	21.70	5111	213	#4

BACKGROUND: Devin Neal, who has a younger sister (Embree), was born and raised in Lawrence, a few miles from the Kansas campus, with his parents (Ryan and Freda). He was introduced to organized sports in kindergarten and played baseball for the Dirtbags, football for the Eagles and basketball at Lawrence Parks and Recreation. Neal grew up idolizing Adrian Peterson and played whatever position put the ball in his hands. He quickly separated himself as one of the best young youth sports athletes in the area.

Neal attended Lawrence High, where he continued as a multisport standout. After he was part of a 1-8 season as a sophomore, he helped Lawrence to an 8-2 finish as a junior and earned first-team all-class and all-league honors in 2019 with 1,671 rushing yards, 510 receiving yards and 32 touchdowns. As a senior, Neal led the team to a 9-1 record with 1,327 rushing yards and 20 touchdowns, which earned him all-state honors. He also lettered in basketball and baseball. Neal considered graduating early, but after the baseball season was canceled his junior year because of the pandemic, he didn't want to forgo his senior baseball season. He earned second-team all-state honors as an outfielder and led Lawrence to the 2021 regional finals. Neal was selected to represent Team Kansas in Select Baseball.

A three-star recruit, Neal was the 28th-ranked running back in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Kansas. His first recruiting interest from colleges came for baseball, but football soon took over, including offers from Iowa, Kansas State, Nebraska and Oklahoma State. Several schools were open to him playing both sports, including Princeton, which interested Neal. But his hometown program, Kansas, was his preferred destination. The Jayhawks wanted him for baseball, too, and former head coach Les Miles told Neal that he would be able to play both sports. He was the top-ranked recruit in Miles' 2021 class. After his freshman season with the football team, Neal joined the baseball team for spring practices and played in seven games that season, reaching base three times (three walks) in six plate appearances. After his sophomore season in football, however, he decided to give up baseball and focus on football full-time. Neal opted out of Kansas' 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the 2025 Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (11/8)	158	707	4.47	8	7	57	8.14	1	Led team in rushing; enrolled July 2021
2022: (13/12)	180	1,090	6.06	9	21	183	8.71	1	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in rushing
2023: (13/11)	203	1,280	6.31	16	25	217	8.68	1	Second Team All-Big 12; led team in rushing
2024: (12/12)	219	1,266	5.78	16	24	254	10.58	1	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in rushing; team captain; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (49/43)	760	4,343	5.71	49	77	711	9.23	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5111	213	8 1/2	29 5/8	71 3/4	4.58	2.68	1.63	37 1/2	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5107	219	8 1/2	29 7/8	71 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.53	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Quality vision to press the line and find creases
- Skillfully uses patience and pace to set up defenders and leave them diving at ankles
- Strings together moves with stop-start agility and lateral jukes
- Recalibrates on move to find escape routes
- Solid build with run balance to keep momentum through arm tackles
- Excellent hand-eye coordination as pass catcher (played baseball at Kansas)
- Productive on swing and wheel routes
- Protects the football (two fumbles over his last 502 carries)
- Voted a 2024 team captain, and both his high school and college coaches have said he is an "unbelievable" person
- Toughs out minor injuries (played in combined 49 of 50 games past four seasons)
- Kansas' all-time leading rusher and ranks No. 5 in Big 12 history in career rushing yards

WEAKNESSES:

- Not the inside grinder his 213-pound frame would suggest
- More likely to try to sidestep tackles, rather than drop shoulder and punish defenders
- Average long speed and doesn't have fifth gear, which allows pursuit to catch him
- Overly patient at times and needs to know when to aggressively attack line of scrimmage
- Pass blocking was too up and down (see 2024 Kansas State tape)
- Very little special teams experience
- Missed one game as freshman because of shoulder injury (Nov. 2021)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Kansas, Neal was the featured weapon in offensive coordinator Jeff Grimes' RPO-based offense with both gap and zone principles. The Lawrence, Kan., native led the team in rushing all four seasons and set school records for rushing yards (4,343), rushing touchdowns (49), total touchdowns (53) and rushing games of 100 yards or more (20).

With his square running style, Neal sees the field well and utilizes his patience, loose slides and timing to create mismanaged pursuit angles. Though not a burner, he is a great example that throttling speed is more important than sprinting speed at the running back position. Overall, Neal isn't a punishing runner, but he consistently creates yardage with his pacing, wiggle and knack for setting up defenders. The two backs have very different body types, but Neal's skill set is reminiscent of that of Kyren Williams.

GRADE: 4th round

RB16 Damien Martinez

Miami, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Lewisville, TX	Lewisville	Jan 31, 2004	21.23	5115	217	#6

BACKGROUND: Damien Martinez, who has a younger brother (Davean), grew up in Lewisville, Texas (northwest suburb of Dallas), with his mother (Samantha Martinez). His mother signed him up for flag football at age 4, and he fell in love with the running back position. Martinez also played on defense and was a safety through middle school.

Martinez enrolled at Lewisville High, where he was a three-year varsity letterman at the 6A level (highest classification in Texas). As a sophomore, he rushed for 619 yards on 93 carries (6.7 average) and eight touchdowns. After bulking up from 180 pounds as a freshman to 215, Martinez became the starter as a junior and finished second in the Dallas area (behind Ollie Gordon II) with 2,010 rushing yards on 232 carries (8.7 average) and 31 touchdowns. He added 121 receiving yards and helped Lewisville to a 7-4 record and the 2020 6A state playoffs. Martinez earned all-state and all-district honors and was named district MVP as a senior captain, leading the team to an 11-2 record and the state playoff quarterfinals, where Lewisville lost to Southlake Carroll. He finished his final season with 1,712 rushing yards on 207 carries (8.3 average) and 26 touchdowns, despite playing the past four games with a bulky cast after breaking a bone in his right hand. Martinez finished his three years on varsity with 4,341 career rushing yards. He also lettered in track (sprints and relays) and set a personal best of 11.37 seconds in the 100 meters.

A three-star recruit, Martinez was the 48th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 89 recruit in Texas. Midway through his breakout junior season, he picked up his first scholarship offer from Kansas (Oct. 2020). Martinez added offers from Georgia Tech, San Diego State and Texas State, but he went overlooked by many bigger programs because of the pandemic, according to his high school coaches. He was offered by Oregon State, developed a connection with head coach Jonathan Smith and his coaching staff and committed in April 2021. He was the second-ranked recruit in the Beavers' 2022 class. Martinez initially announced his return for the 2024 season, but he had a change of heart and entered the transfer portal after Smith left to take the head coaching job at Michigan State — Martinez called it the "hardest decision" of his life. He took visits to Arizona, Mississippi State and Texas A&M before committing to Miami for the 2024 season. After his junior year, Martinez elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (13/5)	161	982	6.10	7	4	61	15.25	0	Oregon State; Freshman All-American; First Team All-Pac-12; enrolled January 2022
2023: (12/12)	194	1,185	6.11	9	11	126	11.45	0	Oregon State; First Team All-Pac-12; led team in rushing; missed bowl game (suspension)
2024: (13/10)	159	1,002	6.30	10	17	204	12.00	0	Miami; Honorable Mention All-ACC; led team in rushing
Total: (38/27)	514	3,169	6.17	26	32	391	12.22	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5115	217	9 1/2	30 1/2	75 1/4	4.51	2.63	1.58	35	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5115	225	9 3/4	30 3/8	75 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.49	7.16	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized runner and physically strapped together
- Bruiser of a ball carrier and leaves tread marks on backs of defenders
- Plows through half-hearted tackle attempts to move the sticks (37.5 percent of 2024 carries resulted in a first down or touchdown)
- Pad level needs to be better, but he constantly falls forward because of the powerful momentum he creates
- Coordinated footwork for a power back to stack cuts
- Takes a lot of contact but does a great job covering up the football (zero fumbles in 2024)
- Frame and base strength to develop as a pass blocker — best pass-protecting back during Senior Bowl practices
- Durable; NFL scouts say football is important to him
- Averaged more than 6.0 yards per carry in each of his three college seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Upright runner and lacks suddenness in his moves
- Indecisive at times and needs a beat to get back up to speed after stopping his feet in the backfield
- Average speed really stands out when attempting to turn the corner
- Bad habit of turning his back as inside runner
- Functional screen receiver but could expand his pass-catching capabilities
- Didn't play on special teams in college
- Initially suspended for Oregon State's 2023 bowl game after being arrested on suspicion of driving under the influence of intoxicants (November 2023); charges were later dropped and Martinez was reinstated for the bowl game but did not play

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Miami, Martinez became the lead back in offensive coordinator Shannon Dawson's RPO-based version of the Air Raid with gap/duo principles. He led Oregon State in rushing his first two seasons before transferring to Miami in 2024. With the Hurricanes, he again surpassed 1,000 rushing yards and led the team in rushing while averaging 6.3 yards per carry.

Martinez uses his patience, physicality and balance to pick through contact — a sizable chunk (71 percent) of his 2024 yardage came after contact. Though he often finds the right lane, he is more of a one-speed guy and gives pursuit a chance to close on him. Overall, Martinez doesn't have the burst or wiggle to consistently make defenders miss, but he can power through/over them and prides himself on his finishing ability to churn out positive yards. He can be a "dirty work" runner on an NFL depth chart.

GRADE: 4th round

RB17 LeQuint Allen

Syracuse, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Millville, NJ	Millville	Aug 05, 2004	20.72	6001	204	#1

BACKGROUND: LeQuint Allen was born and raised in South New Jersey, with his mother (Gloria Collier). Allen's father (LeQuint Allen Sr.) was shot and killed in February 2023 at age 42.

LeQuint Allen grew up a big Philadelphia Eagles fan and started playing midget football in Millville as soon as he was old enough. He was a natural at running back and drew inspiration from watching his older cousin (Ryquell Armstead) star at running back at Millville High. (Armstead then played at Temple and became a Jacksonville Jaguars fifth-round pick in the 2019 NFL Draft; he played in the CFL in 2023 and '24.) Allen continued playing at the Pop Warner level and at Lakeside Middle School.

Allen attended Millville Senior High, alma mater of Major League All-Star outfielder Mike Trout. After getting a taste of varsity as a freshman, he became the team's starting running back as a sophomore and nearby college programs began to take notice. As a junior captain, Allen posted 692 rushing yards, 288 receiving yards and 10 total touchdowns, adding 82 tackles, six sacks and three interceptions. He had his best season as a senior, on a Millville team that finished 12-1 and captured the 2021 sectional and regional championships. Allen rushed for 1,903 yards (8.3 average) and 26 touchdowns that season, along with 17 catches for 277 yards and three touchdown grabs, which earned him Gatorade New Jersey Football Player of the Year. (Trout and Allen are the only athletes in school history to earn that honor). He also earned South Jersey Offensive Player of the Year and first-team all-state honors and starred at safety as Millville's best defender (131 tackles, five interceptions and three forced fumbles). Allen had a 4.2 GPA in high school, started in center field for the baseball team and ran indoor track. He had personal bests of 7.35 seconds in the 55 meters, 1:03.32 in the 400 and 32 feet, 7 inches in the shot put.

A three-star recruit, Allen was the 69th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 15 recruit in New Jersey. During his breakout sophomore season at Millville, he picked up his first offer from nearby Temple, the same program where his cousin had starred. Over the next few months, Allen added FBS offers from Pittsburgh, Rutgers and West Virginia. The summer before his junior year, Syracuse reached out with an offer, and Allen officially committed to former head coach Dino Babers after his junior season (March 2021). Allen was the sixth-ranked recruit in Babers' 2022 class

During his freshman year, he was involved in a fight at an on-campus party in December 2022 and charged with misdemeanor third-degree assault (the case was later settled with an adjournment in contemplation of dismissal). The school initially suspended him for the spring and summer semesters in 2023, which would have made him ineligible for the football season. Allen challenged the decision and sued the university, arguing he had been acting in self-defense. In July 2023, the two parties reached a resolution that reinstated Allen and allowed him to return to the football team in August 2023 (Allen in an email to school administrators: "I am not denying responsibility for my actions. I made a foolish and juvenile mistake. ... I should have removed myself from the situation.") After three seasons, Allen elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (13/1)	41	274	6.68	1	17	117	6.88	1	First start came in bowl game; 33-yard TD pass; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	245	1,064	4.34	9	38	210	5.53	1	Second Team All-ACC; led team in rushing and receptions
2024: (13/13)	228	1,021	4.48	16	64	521	8.14	4	Honorable Mention All-ACC; set school records for catches and receiving yards by a RB
Total: (39/27)	514	2,359	4.59	26	119	848	7.13	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6001	204	10 1/8	32	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	35	10' 0"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5117	204	10 1/4	32 1/4	78 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Ripped-up physique and doesn't skip daily workouts
- Better run strength and contact balance than expected
- Patient and coordinated in his movements, making sharp 90-degree cuts off his plant foot
- Long-striding acceleration once he reaches open field (and looks to leap over defenders in space)
- Runs with determination (and that gets dialed up even more near the goal line)
- Large, natural hands to catch cleanly outside frame (Syracuse single-season and career records for catches and receiving yards by a back)
- Much more than a screen target — flexed across the formation as a mismatch weapon
- Executed well in pass protection on tape, reading blitzes and bodying up target
- Didn't play on special teams once he became starter but made impact as freshman (four tackles on kickoff coverage)
- Started 27 straight games to finish career and plays with passion (Syracuse head coach Fran Brown: "He's never down at practice, he's a special kid.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Linear frame and might be nearly maxed out
- Shows creativity on some plays, then runs into traffic the next snap
- Speed is more build up than truly explosive
- Runs tall, exposing body (and ball) to punishment, although four career fumbles isn't an alarming number
- Put several undisciplined penalties on 2024 tape (see personal foul vs. Virginia Tech)
- Sometimes late adjusting to movement in pass pro
- Charged with misdemeanor assault for fight at on-campus party (Dec. 2022) and sued the school to avoid suspension (NFL scout: "Not ideal, but the kid was remorseful, trusted the process and hasn't been an issue in the program.")

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Syracuse, Allen was a versatile running back in offensive coordinator Jeff Nixon's multiple run scheme, aligning for 122 of his 2024 snaps out wide or in the slot — he probably could be a full-time wide receiver or safety, if he wanted. Despite a rough start after enrolling, he was productive both rushing and receiving and joined Arizona State's Cam Skattebo as the only two FBS players with more than 1,000 rushing yards and 500 receiving yards in 2024.

His scoring production also stands out: 32 total touchdowns, fifth most in school history. With his patience and foot quickness, Allen reads well on whams and inside traps to squeeze through openings and keep his feet to finish. He isn't a hammer or true make-you-miss back, but he runs tough downhill and brings juice to the offense. Overall, Allen is an upright, determined runner with good short-area quickness, although what separates him is his production on passing downs — running routes, finishing catches and holding up as a pass blocker. I like his chances of becoming an electric committee back and special-teamer in the NFL.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

RB18 Brashard Smith

SMU, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Richmond Heights, FL	Palmetto	Apr 11, 2003	22.04	5097	194	#1

BACKGROUND: Brashard (Bra-SHARD) Smith, who has two sisters, was born and raised in Richmond Heights in Miami-Dade County with his mother (Monica Hennigan), a USPS mail carrier. Smith started playing youth football at age 4 and initially starred for the Richmond Heights pee-wee Giants. He later played for Richmond Pop Warner and won MVP honors in 2012 as a do-everything weapon. Smith was also an electric track athlete (sprints and relays) throughout childhood and competed for the South Dade eXpress Track Club. He won the 100-meter dash at the 2013 Junior Olympics at North Carolina A&T University but later gave up the sport and decided to focus on football.

Smith enrolled at Miami Palmetto Senior High in Pinecrest, Fla., where he was a standout running back, receiver and return man (the coaches called him the "most dynamic" athlete they'd ever had). After flashing his big-play talent on varsity as a freshman, he helped Palmetto to a 10-win season as a sophomore in 2018. As a junior, Smith caught 36 passes for 628 yards and 13 touchdown grabs and returned a kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown, as Palmetto won the 2019 district championship. He was named an Under Armour and U.S. Army All-American as a senior and led Palmetto to its first state playoff semifinals appearance in 2020, even filling in as a wildcat quarterback because of injuries on the roster. He was named Miami-Dade County Offensive Player of the Year.

A four-star recruit, Smith was the 35th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 30 recruit in Florida. He was high school teammates with five-star recruits DT Leonard Taylor III (Miami) and CB Jason Marshall Jr. (Florida) and started receiving recruiting love as a freshman, including his first offer from Boston College in December 2017. The offers started to pile up after that, including several SEC offers from programs such as Alabama, Georgia and LSU. He committed to Florida in January 2020 but decommitted a few months later. Smith eventually announced a final five of Auburn, Florida, Miami, Oregon and Tennessee. He officially committed to the Hurricanes in July 2020, citing the hire of offensive coordinator Rhett Lashlee as a key reason. He was the sixth-ranked recruit in former head coach Manny Diaz's 2021 class. After three seasons as a wide receiver at Miami, Smith entered the transfer portal and signed with SMU, rejoining Lashlee for Smith's final college season. He changed positions to running back after enrolling at SMU. Smith accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (11/0)	6	23	3.83	0	14	199	14.21	2	Miami; enrolled January 2021
2022: (11/6)	3	22	7.33	0	33	308	9.33	0	Miami
2023: (12/4)	9	132	14.67	1	22	263	11.95	2	Miami; Second Team All-ACC (KR); Honorable Mention All-ACC (all-purpose); 98-yard KR TD
2024: (14/10)	235	1,332	5.67	14	39	327	8.38	4	SMU; Third Team All-American (all-purpose); First Team All-ACC; led team in rushing
Total: (48/20)	253	1,509	5.96	15	108	1,097	10.16	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5097	194	8 3/4	30 1/2	74	4.39	2.57	1.54	32 1/2	9' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No pos. drills, SS, three-cone, bench (right hamstring)
PRO DAY	5092	200	9 1/8	31 3/8	73 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.28	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Natural feel for manipulating space and yard creation
- Ranked top five among FBS running backs in 2024 with 19 plays of 20 yards or more
- Light-footed in his moves, both linearly and laterally
- Accelerates in a blink to quickly eat up grass and outleverage pursuit
- Does a great job keeping his feet underneath him to establish balance at contact
- Not a powerful ball carrier, but he runs with purpose and fight to spin out of tackles
- Former wide receiver and will make an impact beyond the screen game (great feel for the scramble drill)
- Tracks ball well with quick hands/eyes to pull in throws away from his frame
- Brings value as kickoff return man (24.4 yards per attempt over his college career, including a 98-yard touchdown)
- His 18 total touchdowns in 2024 ranked top 12 in the FBS
- Durable and didn't appear to wear down late in games or the season (Mario Cristobal: "He's like a piece of iron. He can go forever.")
- One of only eight FBS players to average more than than 140 all-purpose yards per game in 2024 (141.2)

WEAKNESSES:

- Narrowly built and lacks ideal body mass for the position
- Inconsistent patient and tempo within the play design — lack of experience at the position is often clear
- Revved-up runner and will outrun his blocks
- Too much trust in his speed leads to excessive east-west moves at line
- Unproven as a punt returner
- Benched for first half vs. Stanford (Oct. 2024) for missing classes and team meetings (Lashlee: "He's a great kid. We love him to death. But we value our culture.")
- Fumbled twice on BYU tape — NFL scouts say he will get down on himself following on-field mistakes and needs to develop a shorter memory
- Gets low and gives up his body as a blocker but angles and technique are underdeveloped

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at SMU, Smith made the transition from receiver to running back in head coach Rhett Lashlee's balanced spread scheme. After three seasons as a pass catcher for Miami, he entered the portal, and Lashlee sold him on making a positional move that would allow him to be SMU's version of Isaiah Pacheco. Smith responded with 1,977 all-purpose yards in 2024, No. 4 in the FBS behind only Ashton Jeanty, Cam Skattebo and Omarion Hampton. He was also the only FBS player with at least 1,300 yards rushing, 300 yards receiving and 300 kick-return yards in 2024.

A hard-charging athlete, Smith runs with wiggle and balance to elude tacklers and make it tough for defenders to square him up, although he needs to better rely on the blocking scheme to set up defenders. He plucks the ball well outside his frame and can get open on wheels and fades. Overall, Smith needs to continue developing his run discipline and tempo, but he runs hard and explosively with terrific control for abrupt cuts. Given his versatility as a runner and receiver, he has the upside of a dynamic role player who can be flexed across the offense and affect the defensive game plan.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

RB19 Woody Marks

USC, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Atlanta, GA	Carver	Dec 29, 2000	24.32	5101	213	#4

BACKGROUND: Jo’Quavious "Woody" Marks grew up in Atlanta with his mother (Tameka), whom Woody calls his "biggest motivation" (Tameka attended all but one of Woody’s games in college). Marks has a close relationship with his older brother (Dontavious). His nickname, "Woody," was given to him by his grandmother because he loved the movie "Toy Story" as a kid and wore a Woody costume for seven straight Halloweens. Marks played baseball and basketball through middle school and also ran track, but he grew up in a football family and started playing pee wee at age 8. He played every position throughout youth football, from quarterback to multiple roles on defense, before running back emerged as his best spot.

Marks enrolled at Carver High (south of downtown Atlanta) and forced his way to the top of the running back depth chart as a freshman. He also saw time at cornerback. After rushing for 1,245 yards in his first season, Marks posted a personal-best 2,127 rushing yards on 208 carries and 19 touchdowns as a sophomore, rushing for 100 yards or more in all 13 games. As a junior, he rushed for 1,500 yards on 140 carries and nine touchdowns. As a senior, Marks was named the region’s Offensive Player of the Year with 1,519 rushing yards on 162 carries and 23 touchdowns, despite missing two games. He finished his prep career with 6,391 rushing yards, 7,220 all-purpose yards, 60 touchdowns and a 10.4 yards-per-carry average. Marks also lettered in track and had personal bests of 11.16 seconds in the 100 meters, 22.16 in the 200, 50.84 in the 400 and 18 feet, 4 inches in the long jump.

A four-star recruit, Marks was the 16th-ranked running back in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 19 recruit in Georgia (third-ranked running back in the state behind Tank Bigsby and Jahmyr Gibbs). He started receiving scholarship offers as early as his freshman year, including one from Nick Saban and Alabama. Marks later picked up offers from Florida State, Miami, Michigan, Ohio State, Tennessee and Texas. He could have gone almost anywhere in the SEC, except nearby Georgia, his preferred destination — Kirby Smart and the Bulldogs never offered Marks because of his size. Ultimately, Marks committed to Mississippi State over Florida, Louisville and Wisconsin and enrolled early in January 2020. He and Emmanuel Forbes were the highest-ranked recruits in the Bulldogs’ 2020 class, and Marks cited his relationship with head coach Joe Moorehead and his offense as key factors in the decision. However, Mississippi State fired Moorehead two weeks after Marks signed and replaced him with Mike Leach.

After four seasons at Mississippi State, Marks expected to enter the 2024 NFL Draft, but a lingering hamstring injury pushed him to play one more year of college ball. Zach Arnett, who took over as Bulldogs head coach following Leach’s death, was fired following the 2023 season and Marks subsequently entered the transfer portal. He visited Louisville, Washington and USC before committing to the Trojans for the 2024 season. He earned his degree in kinesiology from Mississippi State (Dec. 2023) and is pursuing a graduate certificate in gerontology. He opted out of USC’s 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (11/8)	70	312	4.46	3	60	268	4.47	0	Mississippi State; enrolled July 2022
2021: (13/8)	106	416	3.92	6	83	502	6.05	3	Mississippi State; school record for single-season catches by running back
2022: (12/7)	113	582	5.15	9	48	288	6.00	0	Mississippi State; led team in rushing; missed one game (injury)
2023: (9/9)	121	573	4.74	4	23	167	7.26	2	Mississippi State; led team in rushing; missed three games (hamstring)
2024: (12/12)	198	1,133	5.72	9	47	321	6.83	0	USC; Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in rushing; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (57/44)	608	3,016	4.96	31	261	1,546	5.92	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5101	207	9	29 1/8	71 7/8	4.54	2.66	1.62	35	9' 11"	4.24	DNP	18	No three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5101	213	9	29 3/4	71 3/4	4.52	2.63	1.50	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Compact build and looks like an action figure with sculpted muscle definition
- Runs low, hard and balanced to sustain momentum through arm-tackle attempts
- Fluid lower body and jump-cutting skills to snatch ankles
- Physical finisher and more likely to throw his body into a defender than escape out of bounds
- Natural route runner out of backfield with accepting hands (only one drop on 54 targets in 2024)
- Combined 261 catches over past five seasons (eighth most among FBS players over that span and 88 more than any other running back)

- Often holds ball in wrong hand but quickly covers it up at contact (fumbled once in 2024, five times in his career)
- Not a vocal leader but shows up every day with same "I'll outwork everyone and never cut corners" mindset, according to NFL scouts
- Forced fumble vs. Michigan in 2024, ripping the ball out of Kenneth Grant's hands on a fumble return
- Played through bumps and bruises (and the flu vs. Nebraska in 2024)
- Operated in mostly zone-based offense at Mississippi State and gap-based run scheme at USC

WEAKNESSES:

- More quick than fast and can be caught by chasing pursuit
- Gets bounce happy at times, instead of working inside out with his reads
- Much more confident with reads in space than between the tackles, which leads to some wasted steps
- Not a big-play creator in passing game — averaged fewer than 6.0 yards per catch in college (only four of 261 career catches resulted in 20 yards or more)
- Workhorse mentality but tread is worn after 869 offensive touches in college
- Inconsistent batting average as chipper and pass blocker (holding flag on his 2024 Penn State tape)
- Missed three games of final season at Mississippi State because of hamstring injury (Nov. 2023)
- Will turn 25 as a rookie

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at USC, Marks was the lead running back in head coach Lincoln Riley's RPO, spread (multiple-run) scheme and motioned across the formation (jets, orbits, etc.). After four seasons as a starter at Mississippi State, he became an invaluable part of the Trojans' offense in 2024 and was USC's first 1,000-yard rusher since 2017 (Ronald Jones). When he stays patient to set up blocks, Marks showcases balanced footwork and determination to stack cuts and pick his way through the defense. He has natural hands out of the backfield (set the Mississippi State record for career catches and caught a pass in 56 straight games). Overall, Marks has only average explosiveness and speed, but his low-to-the-ground run style and sharp run angles make him tough to get on the ground. His pass-catching skills and impact on third downs will ensure him a role in an NFL backfield.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

RB20 Kyle Monangai

Rutgers, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Roseland, NJ	Don Bosco Prep	Jun 06, 2002	22.88	5082	211	#5

BACKGROUND: Kyle Monangai (Muh-NUN-Guy), the youngest of three children, was born and raised in Essex County in northern New Jersey. His father (William) and mother (Gwendolyn) are from Cameroon and immigrated to the United States for education opportunities. Thanks in part to his family's African roots, Monangai was first introduced to soccer — but once his older brother (Kevin) started playing football, Kyle (also an avid track athlete) developed a passion for the sport, too. He started playing organized football in the third grade before suiting up for the Pop Warner Bulldogs and then the Cobras in middle school. Growing up playing with his brother (who is almost 10 years older), he was used to playing against bigger and older competition. Kevin was a star running back at Seton Hall Prep before earning a scholarship at Villanova (2011-14). He went undrafted in the 2015 NFL Draft but spent time with the Philadelphia Eagles and Minnesota Vikings, then transitioned into coaching, spending time on the New York Giants' staff (2019-20). Kyle's older sister (Kathy) was also an athlete (field hockey and track) in high school.

Monangai followed in his older brother's footsteps and initially attended Seton Hall Prep for high school. After seeing limited varsity action as a freshman (131 rushing yards), he became a starter as a sophomore in 2017 and rushed for 729 yards on 164 carries (4.4 average) and six touchdowns. After his sophomore season, Monangai transferred to Don Bosco Preparatory High, an all-boys Catholic school known for its football program. He drew some criticism for the move, because he joined a backfield that already included Jalen Berger, a junior considered at the time the top running back in the state. But Monangai and Berger became friends and formed one of the state's best backfields. As a senior, Monangai rushed for 926 yards on 130 carries (7.1 average) and 11 touchdowns, adding 20 catches for 334 yards and six touchdown grabs. He helped lead Don Bosco Prep to the final round of the 2019 Group 4 playoffs (lost to St. Peter's Prep at MetLife Stadium) and was named first-team all-county and honorable mention all-state. Monangai finished his two seasons at Don Bosco with 2,903 scrimmage yards and 35 total touchdowns. He also ran track at Seton Hall Prep.

A three-star recruit, Monangai was the 114th-ranked running back in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 46 recruit in New Jersey. (Berger, his backfield mate at Don Bosco, was the third-ranked recruit in the state and signed with Wisconsin.) The summer before his junior season, Monangai received his first scholarship offer from Villanova (his brother's alma mater). He added several other FCS offers, including from Ivy League schools Columbia, Harvard, Princeton and Yale (graduated with a 3.9 GPA in high school). After his junior season, Monangai picked up his first FBS offers from Air Force, Army, Central Michigan and Navy. In May 2019, he received his first major offer (California) and was planning to sign out west. But Greg Schiano returned to Rutgers as head coach in Dec. 2019 and offered Monangai two days before signing day. Monangai had the second-lowest recruiting ranking in Rutgers' 2020 class. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted because of the pandemic and returned for his fifth season in 2024. He was a three-time Academic All-Big Ten selection. Monangai opted out of Rutgers' 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	0	0	0.00	0	0	0	0.00	0	Enrolled June 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/0)	62	235	3.79	4	10	68	6.80	0
2022: (12/11)	109	445	4.08	2	6	31	5.17	0
2023: (13/13)	242	1,262	5.21	8	8	78	9.75	0	Second Team All-Big Ten; led Big Ten in rushing yards; Bowl game MVP; team captain
2024: (11/11)	256	1,279	5.00	13	14	75	5.36	1	First Team All-Big Ten; missed one game (head); missed bowl game (opt-out); team captain
Total: (52/35)	669	3,221	4.81	27	38	252	6.63	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5082	211	9	28 3/4	72	4.60	2.70	1.62	34 1/2	9' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5081	209	9 1/8	28 7/8	72 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.40	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Aggressive eyes and has a tractor beam to developing holes
- Quick feet to pick his way between the tackles (described as "The Matrix" by Nebraska head coach Matt Rhule)
- Sticks foot in the ground and gets north, allowing running game to develop
- Uses shorter stature to hide behind blockers before using quickness through holes
- Consistently falls forward as finisher, scraping for every yard
- Reliable ball security (zero career fumbles on 707 offensive touches)
- Effective chipper and eager pass blocker, launching hands/shoulder into defenders
- Didn't see a high volume of targets but also didn't register a drop in 2024
- Durable and consistently played through minor injuries
- Twice voted a team captain by teammates (also voted "best dancer" in the locker room, according to several teammates)
- Second player in school history with multiple 1,200-yard rushing seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Runs hard but will tiptoe inside and lacks ideal run power
- Average speed on stretch and doesn't have extra gear to consistently win the edge or break away
- Gets tunnel vision at times as he races for the hole, bypassing other opportunities
- Needs to do better job setting up open-field moves
- Plenty of singles and doubles on tape but very few home runs (just three career carries of more than 40 yards)
- Averaged just 13 targets each of past four seasons
- Aggressive blocker but doesn't have stout anchor and needs to develop more nuance
- Doesn't offer any return experience on special teams
- Missed one game as super senior because of head injury (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Rutgers, Monangai was the featured weapon in offensive coordinator Kirk Ciarrocca's zone-blocking scheme that was built around the run game. Despite being one of the lowest-ranked recruits in Greg Schiano's 2020 class, Monangai became one of the best running backs in the Big Ten and finished No. 2 in school history with 3,221 rushing yards (behind only Ray Rice).

A first-generation Cameroonian-American, Monangai isn't going to stand out as the fastest or most powerful back in this class, but he runs hard and decisive, following his blocks on traps and reaches to motor through gaps. His ball security (zero career fumbles) and overall dependability as a workhorse will be appreciated by NFL coaches. Overall, Monangai lacks breakaway speed, but he can pick, slide and weave through the defense with shifty quickness and run toughness. His competitive profile and promising reps on passing downs should make him an effective utility back in the NFL.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

RB21
Jaydon Blue

Texas, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Houston, TX	Klein Cain	Jan 08, 2004	21.29	5090	195	#23

BACKGROUND: Jaydon Blue grew up in the Houston area with his mother, whom he calls his "right hand." He started playing football at the pee-wee level and quickly made a name for himself as one of the best young players in the area. At age 9, he starred for the North Houston Gators, then played Pop Warner through sixth grade. However, Blue was unable to play in junior high after suffering a dislocated right knee in the first game of his seventh-grade season. He missed the next season after suffering the same injury in the 2017 opener, requiring season-ending surgery. In high school, Blue played 7-on-7 football for East Houston and won a 2020 championship in Tennessee.

Blue enrolled at Klein Cain High in Harris County, Texas, where he played with his future Longhorns teammate Matthew Golden. After playing on the freshman and JV teams in 2018, he was named the district's newcomer of the year as a sophomore with 1,612 rushing yards on 205 carries (7.9 average) and 16 touchdowns, plus 15 catches for 108 yards. As a junior, Blue was named first-team all-state and district offensive MVP, posting 2,155 rushing yards on 227 carries (9.5 average) and 30 touchdowns. He led Klein Cain to an 8-3 record in 2020 and the second round of the 6A state playoffs. Blue surprised many when he elected to forego his senior season and instead focus on his schoolwork and preparing for college football (Blue: "Football is a brutal sport, and the wear and tear associated with the running back position is undeniable."). He also lettered in track (sprints and relays) at Klein Cain and had personal bests of 10.70 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.50 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Blue was the 15th-ranked running back in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 31 recruit in Texas. Before he became a varsity starter, he picked up his first scholarship offer from Arizona State (June 2019). The recruiting floodgates opened during his sophomore year with offers from Alabama, Arkansas, Auburn, Georgia, LSU, Ohio State, Penn State, TCU, Texas, Texas A&M, USC and others. Blue had grown up an LSU fan, but he committed to the Longhorns after Steve Sarkisian was hired as head coach in January 2021. Blue was the fourth-ranked recruit in Sarkisian's 2022 class. After three seasons in Austin, he elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL draft. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl but pulled out at the last moment (NFL scout: "His mom is running things, and they didn't think he should do it.").

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2022: (9/0)	15	33	2.20	0	0	0		0	Enrolled January 2022
2023: (14/0)	65	398	6.12	3	14	135	9.64	1
2024: (15/5)	134	730	5.45	8	42	368	8.76	6	Missed one game (right ankle)
Total: (38/5)	214	1,161	5.43	11	56	503	8.98	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5090	196	8 1/4	29 7/8	75 1/2	4.38	2.59	1.58	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	40 only (choice)
PRO DAY	5087	195	8 3/8	30	75 3/4	4.38	2.59	1.50	29 1/2	10'3"	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive athlete — hits another gear once he sees green grass
- Both fast and agile to scoot around defenders
- Able to read blocks at line, tempo run and redirect path
- Drops pads and uses run leverage to burrow through congestion
- Dangerous in screen/wheel receiving game
- Out-angles defenders in open field, giving his quarterback a target
- Responsible for three plays of 45 yards or more in 2024
- Played on kick coverages in 2023 (two tackles)

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have body type for full-time carries (at least 18 offensive touches just once in his 38 games)
- Marginal run power through narrow lanes
- Inconsistent patience and lane recognition
- Ball security a major question mark (seven fumbles over past two seasons, including five in 2024)
- Gives effort in pass protection but will be limited by frame
- Missed one game as junior because of right ankle injury (Sept. 2024)
- Needs to convince NFL teams he has desire and work ethic to maximize talent

SUMMARY: Blue was part of a running back committee in head coach Steve Sarkisian's multiple-run scheme (RPO, wide-zone offense). He played behind two early-round NFL Draft picks (Bijan Robinson, Jonathon Brooks) his first two seasons before becoming a key cog in the Longhorns' offensive attack in 2024 — he scored four touchdowns in the playoffs.

Blue moves with electricity in his feet to make defenders miss in a phone booth and is at his best as a pass catcher on screens, angles and wheels (No. 1 among FBS running backs with six receiving touchdowns). An undersized back, he is inconsistent working through traffic and must improve his ball security at the next level (fumbled once every 25 times he touched the ball in 2024). Overall, Blue is a threat to make a house call at any point, especially as a receiving weapon out of the backfield, but NFL scouts say he may need time to learn what it takes to be a professional. His dynamic talent can upgrade a backfield.

GRADE: 5th round

HOMETOWN Manor, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Manor	BIRTHDAY May 13, 2002	AGE 22.95	HT 5092	WT 214	NUM #28
-----------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Tahj Brooks, who has a sister (Ceecee), was born and raised just outside of Austin, Texas, with his parents (Kevin and Tiffani). He attended elementary school at Texas on the Forty Acres before attending Manor for middle school, where his family has deep roots. Brooks grew up playing multiple sports and riding horses. He started football as a running back at the pee-wee level and, because of his size, often played up a level in youth football. He played for an all-star team at age 12, then for the Outlaws in middle school. In high school, Brooks competed in 7-on-7 with Juice Football.

Brooks enrolled at Manor High, where he was teammates with Tyler Guyton, a first-round pick of the Dallas Cowboys in the 2024 NFL Draft. He cracked the varsity roster as a freshman running back and linebacker and posted 259 rushing yards and three touchdowns. Brooks became a bell-cow back as a sophomore and earned all-district honors with 1,150 rushing yards and 10 touchdowns, adding 13 catches for 107 yards and a touchdown grab. He again earned all-district honors as a junior with 1,201 rushing yards and 21 touchdowns, adding 17 catches for 267 yards. Brooks enjoyed his best season as a senior, as he led Manor to eight wins — the first winning season during his four years in high school. He posted 1,807 rushing yards in 2019 on 239 carries (7.6 average) and 26 total touchdowns, finishing his prep career with 4,417 rushing yards.

A three-star recruit, Brooks was the 45th-ranked running back in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 81 recruit in Texas. Having grown up a few miles from the Texas campus, he was a Longhorns fan but did not receive an offer from that program. After his sophomore season, he picked up his first scholarship offers from SMU and Tulsa. Brooks initially committed to Tulsa in August 2018, but his recruitment started to take off following his junior campaign, including then-Power 5 offers from Arkansas, Boston College, Duke, Iowa State, Kansas State, Minnesota, Missouri, TCU and Utah.

He decommitted from Tulsa (May 2019) and took several visits before committing to Texas Tech (June 2019). Brooks was the fifth-ranked recruit in the Red Raiders' 2020 class (two spots behind receiver Ja'Lynn Polk). He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a fifth season. A three-time first-team Academic All-Big 12 member, Brooks graduated with a degree in sport management with a 3.56 GPA (Dec. 2023) and was named the 2024 Big 12 Scholar-Athlete of the Year. He opted out of Texas Tech's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020:(10/0)	69	255	3.70	4	13	61	4.69	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled July 2020
2021:(9/4)	87	568	6.53	7	6	52	8.67	0	Led team in rushing; missed four games
2022:(13/6)	147	691	4.70	7	26	164	6.31	1	Led team in rushing
2023:(13/13)	290	1,541	5.31	10	29	72	2.48	0	First Team All-Big 12; led team in rushing
2024:(11/11)	286	1,505	5.26	17	28	199	7.11	1	Second Team All-Big 12; led team in rushing; missed one game (arm); team captain
Total:(56/34)	879	4,560	5.19	45	102	548	5.37	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5092	214	9 1/8	30 3/8	75 5/8	4.52	2.63	1.56	35	10' 0"	4.06	6.90	16
PRO DAY	5093	220	9 3/8	30 3/4	75 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Compactly built with excellent strength in lower half
- Runs stout and balanced to shake off half-assed tackle attempts
- Produces yards after contact with leg churn/foot turnover
- Quick lateral jukes to sidestep front-facing pursuit
- Displays run patience and tempo, both inside and outside
- Quick to drop his weight and redirect against the grain (reflects impressive three-cone time)
- Steady hands as a receiver and will work in occasional wheel/seam route
- Batting average is strong in pass pro for a college back
- Workhorse mentality and tank rarely appears empty
- Voted a 2024 team captain; coaches praise his work ethic and character (Joey McGuire: "He's as good of a person as there is on this planet.")
- Finished career as Texas Tech's all-time leading rusher (4,560 yards), No. 4 in Big 12 history (behind Cedric Benson, Ricky Williams and Darren Sproles)

WEAKNESSES:

- Quicker than fast (doesn't consistently play up to timed speed)
- Too easily tracked down by pursuit
- Average open-field elusiveness and not going to string together moves

- NFL linebackers will shut down edges when attempting to bounce outside
- Too patient at times between the tackles
- Ball security isn't a major concern, but it's something to clean up (five fumbles in past three seasons)
- Touched the ball almost 1,000 times over five years, including a school-record 879 carries

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Texas Tech, Brooks was a workhorse back in former offensive coordinator Zach Kittley's zone-based run scheme. The most prolific running back in school history, he posted back-to-back 1,500-yard seasons as a junior and senior and finished his career with 22 straight games of 95 rushing yards or more.

With his low center of gravity, Brooks runs with tempo and vision to navigate through bodies and the physicality to finish each run (usually after breaking a few tackles). Though his quickness is an asset, his lack of top-end acceleration put a cap on some of the ways he produced against Big 12 defenses. Overall, Brooks won't be a fit for a team searching for a speed back, but his agility, contact balance and feel as a runner directly leads to rushing production. Even with worn treads, the dependability factor plays to his favor, because of his durability and reliability on third downs.

GRADE: 5th round

RB23 Kalel Mullings

Michigan, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Boston, MA	Milton	Oct 04, 2002	22.55	6014	226	#20

BACKGROUND: Kalel Mullings was born and raised in the southwest Boston neighborhood of West Roxbury with his parents (Dale and Calicia). He started playing football at age 6 — his first Pop Warner coach was Dan Kraft, son of New England Patriots owner Robert Kraft. A bigger kid growing up, Mullings often played up a level in sports (mostly as a running back and linebacker), and his parents pushed him in both football and academics (started school a year early and has always been the youngest in his class). By middle school, he was considered one of the best youth players in the Boston area and was recruited by several high schools. Starting in fifth grade, Mullings competed for Mass Elite/FBU teams and traveled across the country playing for different teams and showcases, including the U.S. National Football Team in eighth grade. He also played other sports, including basketball, throughout childhood. He plays the saxophone and also performed in the choir.

Mullings enrolled at Milton Academy, in the prestigious ISL (Independent School League), as a 13-year-old freshman. Starting at both running back and linebacker on varsity, he had a breakout first season and helped the team to a 6-2 record in 2016. He was productive to start his sophomore and junior seasons but battled shoulder issues, including a dislocation in the fifth game of his junior year, which ended his 2018 season. Mullings returned healthy as a senior captain and posted 22 rushing touchdowns (despite not playing offense in every game) and led Milton to an 8-1 record and the 2019 league championship. He was also a terrific receiver (18 receptions for 289 receiving yards and four touchdown grabs) and added 51 tackles, four sacks and three interceptions on defense. Mullings was named the 2019 Gatorade Player of the Year in Massachusetts and earned an invitation to the U.S. Army All-American Game. He also lettered in basketball and track at Milton and had personal bests of 11.43 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.04 in the 200 and 19 feet, 6 inches in the long jump.

A four-star recruit, Mullings was the 10th-ranked outside linebacker in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Massachusetts (ahead of his eventual Michigan teammate, Zak Zinter). A few months after his 14th birthday, he received his first scholarship offer, from Michigan (and former defensive coordinator Don Brown) during his high school freshman year in January 2017. Northeast programs such as Boston College, Massachusetts, Rutgers and Syracuse also extended Mullings offers during his freshman year. After attending numerous camps, Mullings started to become more of a national recruit, and he picked up offers from Clemson, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Penn State and Tennessee. Because academics were a key part of his college decision, Mullings had a final three of Michigan, Northwestern and Stanford. Many thought he would choose Stanford, which wanted him as a running back, but the lure of the Big Ten led him to Ann Arbor.

Mullings signed as a linebacker and was the 10th-ranked recruit in head coach Jim Harbaugh's 2020 class (one spot behind running back Blake Corum). After playing defense his first two years, he practiced at both linebacker and running back during the 2022 season and made the full-time move to offense after Corum was injured late in the season. Mullings stayed on offense for the 2023 and 2024 seasons, the latter of which became a breakout super-senior campaign. He twice earned Academic All-Big Ten honors and graduated from Michigan's Ross School of Business with his degree in business administration (May 2024). Mullings opted out of Michigan's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (6/0)	0	0	0.00	0	0	0	0.00	0	Linebacker; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (13/0)	0	0	0.00	0	0	0	0.00	0	Linebacker; 11 tackles
2022: (12/1)	14	31	2.21	3	0	0	0.00	0	Linebacker/running back; 12 tackles
2023: (13/0)	36	222	6.17	1	2	32	16.00	0	Running back
2024: (12/4)	185	948	5.12	12	6	35	5.83	0	Running back; Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in rushing; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (56/5)	235	1,201	5.11	16	8	67	8.38	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6014	226	10	31 3/4	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No bench, receiving pos. drills (med. exclusion: left wrist); no three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	9 3/4	32	75 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Imposing frame and muscularity, with big hands and feet (size 16 cleats)
- Runs with bulldozer mentality, lowering pads and surging through tackle attempts, especially at the second level
- Keeps shoulders square and will step out of the grasp
- Efficient vision to pick and slide
- Gets through reads while maintaining balanced footwork in cuts
- Put games away — 5.7 yards per carry in fourth quarter (more carries in the fourth quarter than any other quarter)
- Didn't fumble on 243 career offensive touches
- Described as "intrinsically humble" by his coaches and strives for balance in his life (NFL scout: "Looks like meathead, but he's the opposite. ... He's a sharp, hand-the-ball-to-the-ref-after-scoring kinda guy.")
- Background on both special teams and defense (27 career tackles)

WEAKNESSES:

- Runs upright with limited creativity
- Average burst and long speed (just 16 carries of 10 yards or more in 2024, 156th most in the FBS)
- Takes time to get rolling at times, leading to early contact at line
- More of a see-and-go cutter with inconsistent anticipation
- Pass-blocking upside but inexperience is obvious (put some embarrassing blocking attempts on the USC and Ohio State tapes)
- Saw just 10 receiving targets in college (one drop)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Michigan, Mullings separated himself as the top back in head coach Sherrone Moore's run-heavy multiple run scheme. Known more as a backup linebacker and special-teamer entering the 2024 season, he was barely on the NFL radar, but he quickly passed Donovan Edwards on the depth chart and received draftable grades from NFL scouts.

Mullings creates an inside surge as a runner, and most of his clutch runs came from his determination and physicality to stay alive through contact — especially late in games. Although he is a bigger back with only average suddenness, he runs with balanced feet and shifts his weight seamlessly in his cuts. Overall, Mullings doesn't offer any difference-making qualities, but he follows his blocks and grinds yards. His experience on special teams will help separate him on an NFL depth chart. How quickly he gains the trust of his NFL coaches as a blocker and pass catcher will determine his early playing time.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

RB24 Jacory Croskey-Merritt

Arizona, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Montgomery, AL	Sidney Lanier	Apr 12, 2001	24.03	5102	206	#1

BACKGROUND: Jacory (jah-CORE-ee) Croskey-Merritt (CRAHS-key MERH-it) grew up in Montgomery, Ala., and he modeled his football game after running back Mark Ingram, a former star for the Crimson Tide. Croskey-Merritt attended Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, where he was a four-year letterman on varsity. As a junior, he helped the team to an 11-2 finish with 1,036 rushing yards and eight touchdowns, adding 125 receiving yards and three touchdown grabs. As a senior, Croskey-Merritt earned all-metro honors for the second straight season with 2,354 all-purpose yards between offense and special teams. He finished with 1,363 rushing yards and eight touchdowns, plus with 23 catches for 382 yards and two touchdown receptions, which also earned him all-state honors.

A no-star recruit, Croskey-Merritt wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class. At just 165 pounds, he went overlooked on the recruiting trail and didn't have any offers going into his senior year. Croskey-Merritt finally received a nibble toward the end of his senior season, with an offer from FCS Alabama State (located in Montgomery). After four seasons with that program, he entered the transfer portal and committed to New Mexico.

After rushing for almost 1,200 rushing yards in 2023, Croskey-Merritt graduated with a degree from New Mexico (May 2024) and again entered the transfer portal for his final season. He originally committed to Arizona before flipping to Ole Miss. However, he flipped back to Arizona in May 2024 and started the season opener for the Wildcats. But concerns about his eligibility related to the number of games he'd played in 2019 (and his redshirt status) forced Arizona to sit him for the rest of the year. Croskey-Merritt accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl and was named the Offensive Player of the Game (87 yards and two touchdowns).

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	45	108	2.40	2	2	76	38.00	0	Alabama State
2020: (5/0)	43	164	3.81	2	4	21	5.25	0	Alabama State; season played in spring of 2021
2021: (11/4)	120	422	3.52	5	10	71	7.10	1	Alabama State; led team in rushing
2022: (11/11)	120	467	3.89	4	13	167	12.85	0	Alabama State; led team in rushing
2023: (12/10)	189	1,190	6.30	17	7	72	10.29	1	New Mexico; Second Team All-MWC; led team in rushing; enrolled June 2023
2024: (1/1)	13	106	8.15	1	0	0		0	Arizona; missed final 11 games (ineligible)
Total: (44/26)	530	2,457	4.64	31	36	407	11.31	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5102	206	9	31 3/4	77 1/8	4.45	2.59	1.50	41 1/2	10'4"	4.44	7.28	17

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive footwork to stop on a dime and redirect
- Feet are all over the place, yet he stays balanced in cuts
- Wide-screen vision and always looking for next void to attack
- Makes sudden decisions for quick lane changes
- Turns his feet over to accelerate away from linebackers
- Strength in his legs to stay on his feet through half-hearted tackle attempts
- Burst off plant foot to separate from linebackers in passing game
- Shows good coordination catching with his hands in screen game

WEAKNESSES:

- Run style is more helter-skelter than rhythmic
- Guilty of getting cut happy and turning a short gain into no gain
- Narrow; doesn't have traditional build desired at the position
- Willing in pass pro but technique is all over the place (see 2023 Fresno State tape)
- Fumbled twice in 2023
- Just 125 of his 2,457 career rushing yards came against Power 4 competition
- Older player — will be 24 on draft weekend

SUMMARY: Croskey-Merritt had a short stint in the Arizona's spread scheme (Dino Babers and Matt Adkins shared play-calling duties in 2024). After suiting up in just one game amid eligibility issues in 2024, he reminded scouts of his talent during East-West Shrine Bowl week, taking home Offensive Player of the Game honors.

A slippery runner with explosive feet, Croskey-Merritt is capable of full-stride cuts without gearing down to toy with defenders. He runs with a "cut to daylight" mentality, which keeps his runs alive but also leads to wasted steps and extra hits. Overall, there is an unpredictability to his run style that keeps both defenders and his own coaches on the edge of their seat, but you'll live with the volatility because of his electric plant and burst to naturally string moves together and create chunk plays. He projects as an offense's change-of-pace weapon.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

RB25 Phil Mafah

Clemson, 4SR

HOMETOWN Loganville, GA	HIGH SCHOOL Grayson	BIRTHDAY Oct 24, 2002	AGE 22.50	HT 6005	WT 234	NUM #7
----------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Phil-Ceasar "Phil" Mafah was born and raised in Gwinnett County in Georgia. His parents (Eugene and Suzanne) are originally from Ivory Coast. Eugene attended high school in France before immigrating to the United States, where he attended the New York Institute of Technology and studied business (he has owned several businesses). Eugene and Suzanne moved from New York to the Grayson, Ga., area in the late 1980s to start a family. Phil Mafah originally played soccer (the sport with which his parents were most familiar) before trying football in third grade — and he was instantly hooked. Because of his size, he played offensive and defensive line his first season in Pop Warner. But after the coaches caught a glimpse of him carrying the ball, Mafah moved to running back full-time. He was coached by Mickey Conn (current Clemson defensive coordinator) from age 7 through seventh grade.

Mafah attended 7A powerhouse Grayson High, where he was a three-year letterman and teammates with several high-profile recruits, such as LB Owen Pappoe. As a sophomore, he missed four games because of a collarbone injury but still rushed for 720 yards on 89 carries (8.1 average) and 10 touchdowns. Mafah helped Grayson to an 11-2 record and the 2019 regional title, finishing his junior season with 676 rushing yards on 69 carries (9.8 average) and nine touchdowns. He had his best season as a senior, helping Grayson to a 14-0 record and the 2020 7A state championship. In his final season, Mafah rushed for 1,130 yards on 130 carries (8.7 average) and 18 touchdowns, adding 169 receiving yards and two touchdown grabs.

A four-star recruit, Mafah was the 11th-ranked running back in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 18 recruit in Georgia (top running back in the state). He received his first scholarship offer (Baylor) midway through his sophomore season (Oct. 2018). Mafah added offers from Arkansas, Florida State, Miami, Michigan, Tennessee and USC, but he dreamed of playing at Clemson and had a personal connection with Conn. Mafah accepted almost immediately once Clemson offered in August 2019 (first commit in the Tigers' 2022 class). He was the ninth-ranked recruit in head coach Dabo Swinney's 2021 class and enrolled early in January 2021. A three-time ACC Honor Roll selection, Mafah graduated with a degree in management (May 2024). He completed an internship at NFL headquarters in New York in the spring of 2022. His cousin (Smael Mondon Jr.) played linebacker at Georgia (2021-24) and is also a prospect in the 2025 NFL Draft class. Mafah accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (9/1)	68	292	4.29	3	7	50	7.14	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (14/1)	98	515	5.26	4	9	48	5.33	0
2023: (13/5)	179	965	5.39	13	21	108	5.14	0	Led team in rushing; bowl game MVP; started final five games
2024: (14/14)	216	1,115	5.16	8	21	103	4.90	0	Third Team All-ACC; led team in rushing
Total: (50/21)	561	2,887	5.15	28	58	309	5.33	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6005	234	9 1/2	31 3/8	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left shoulder)
PRO DAY	6003	239	9 1/2	32	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Built like an NFL back with broad chest/shoulders and well-distributed mass
- Runs square to line with dense body type to absorb physical hits and remain unfazed
- Tacklers would be wise to trip up his legs — he will barrel through high tackle attempts
- Athletic feet for his size to press line, collect himself and make a sharp cut
- Uses patience at line to follow and set up blocks
- Nice job turning frame to adjust and pluck back-shoulder passes
- Fumbled just once on 237 offensive touches in 2024
- Will square up or leave feet to get the job done in pass protection
- Laidback, genuine personality (NFL scout: "Love his positive attitude and always has a smile")

WEAKNESSES:

- Average speed and burst on the edges
- Runs high and makes himself a large target, which leads to extra contact with his own blockers
- Average flexibility hurts ability to sink and make tight direction changes
- Averaged fewer than 5.0 yards per catch in 2024 and had a pair of drops
- Limited over final month of senior season with a left shoulder injury (averaged only 2.4 yards per carry over the final five games of 2024)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Clemson, Mafah became the Tigers' featured back as a senior in offensive coordinator Garrett Riley's balanced gap/zone run scheme. Although injuries caught up with him over the final month of the 2024 season, Mafah averaged 7.0 yards per carry in September and October, and his overall production improved each of his four seasons with the Tigers.

Though he is more bulldozer than dancer between the tackles, Mafah patiently makes his reads to follow blocks and become a one-cut runner to open space. He will run through arm tackles and make some defensive backs look like speed bumps at the second level using his willingness to finish with physicality. Overall, Mafah is a big, strong downhill runner who lacks explosiveness to be a consistent perimeter runner but has the footwork and power to work between the tackles. He has the necessary skills to hold up his end of the bargain in a two-headed NFL backfield committee.

GRADE: 6th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Rockledge, FL	Rockledge	Jun 08, 2002	22.88	6000	217	#5

BACKGROUND: Raheim "Rocket" Sanders, the second oldest of four boys, was born in Rockledge, Fla., near the Atlantic coast with his mother (Shantay Frye), a track athlete in high school. As Sanders was growing up, his mother moved the family around the Orlando area. Following in the footsteps of his older brother and greatest inspiration (Bryan), Sanders developed a passion for both basketball and football at a young age. He started playing football at age 6 and suited up for the little league Rockets, which is also when he earned the nickname "Rocket," for his long runs. However, his mother didn't want to see her son get hurt, so he stopped playing football after little league and focused on travel basketball throughout middle school. His younger brother (Martay Barnes) attends Holy Trinity Episcopal Academy in Melbourne, Fla., and has a basketball offer from UCF in the recruiting class of 2027.

Sanders started his prep career at Oak Ridge High in Orlando, where he played basketball as a freshman — he helped the program to a 30-4 record and the 2017-18 9A state championship. For his sophomore year, Sanders transferred to East River High in Orlando and returned to football for the first time since little league, so he could play with his older brother, a senior on the team. However, Sanders played in only four games before requiring season-ending knee surgery, an injury that also sidelined him for the 2018-19 basketball season. He still considered himself more of a basketball player, but he attended a football camp at Rockledge before his junior year, and the coaches convinced him to transfer in and give football a more serious look (Sanders: "I didn't know much about football before Rockledge."). As a junior, Sanders played wide receiver (15 catches for 368 yards and two touchdowns), defensive end on third downs (eight tackles for loss, six sacks) and returned kicks, helping Rockledge to an 8-2 finish and the 2019 district title. As a senior, he again lined up primarily as a receiver (24 receptions for 391 yards and four touchdowns). Sanders also had 317 rushing yards, four rushing touchdowns and a 95-yard kick return touchdown. He joined the basketball team at Rockledge and averaged 9.5 points and 5.7 rebounds as a junior. As a member of the track team, Sanders set a personal best of 11.31 seconds in the 100 meters.

A four-star recruit, Sanders was the 14th-ranked athlete in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 37 recruit in Florida. After he returned to football his sophomore year, college recruiters started to show interest in spring of 2019, and he received offers from Charlotte, Cincinnati and FAU. Following his first season at Rockledge, in fall of 2019, his recruitment blew up with attention from the SEC (Missouri, South Carolina, Tennessee), Big Ten (Indiana, Nebraska) and ACC (Florida State, Miami). Sanders announced a final five of Arkansas, Florida State, Missouri, Oklahoma and South Carolina, and he committed to the Razorbacks in June 2020. He was the third-ranked recruit in head coach Sam Pittman's 2021 class. Sanders expected to play wide receiver at Arkansas, but the coaches sent him to the running back line in his first practice, and that became his new position.

His son (Raheim Jr.) was born in the summer of 2021. Sanders has always been driven to be there for his son, which is what prompted his decision to enter the transfer portal following the 2023 season. He considered several SEC programs before committing to the Gamecocks, primarily because it was closer to his son. Sanders graduated with a degree from Arkansas (May 2024), becoming the first in his family to graduate from college. He opted out of Arkansas' 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (13/0)	114	578	5.07	5	11	109	9.91	1	Arkansas; SEC All-Freshman; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/13)	222	1,443	6.50	10	28	271	9.68	2	Arkansas; Second Team All-SEC; led team in rushing
2023: (6/5)	62	209	3.37	2	10	75	7.50	0	Arkansas; missed six games (left knee, shoulder)
2024: (12/11)	183	881	4.81	11	27	316	11.70	2	South Carolina; led team in rushing; missed bowl game (opt-out); enrolled January 2024
Total: (44/29)	581	3,111	5.35	28	76	771	10.14	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6000	217	9 1/4	31 1/2	76 1/4	4.46	2.63	1.61	36 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5117	217	9 3/8	32 1/8	77 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10'0"	4.49	7.39	17

STRENGTHS:

- Tall athlete with a thick frame and decent foot quickness for his size
- Runs with big-man balance to keep his feet through contact
- Patient to and through hole, trusting his blockers to do their jobs
- Knack for avoiding defenders to get more yardage than expected
- Secure pass catcher — finished third on team in catches in 2024
- Former wide receiver and looked like an H-back downfield (can be used on wheels, pivots, etc.)
- Weight was almost 250 pounds at Arkansas, but he committed to the conditioning program at South Carolina — the coaches rave about his prep and work ethic
- Goal-oriented mindset — driven by his 3-year-old son

WEAKNESSES:

- Does too much backfield thinking at times and makes unnecessary moves, instead of getting downhill
- Upright runner and easy target for defenders to reach and pull down
- Not as powerful as expected for bigger back; often slows his feet once he meets resistance as an inside runner
- Doesn't have breakaway speed to run away from NFL pursuit
- Too much lunging in pass protection and needs technique work (see 2024 LSU tape)
- Fumbled three times in 2024 (and nine times in his career)
- Didn't play much on special teams in college
- Meniscus surgery in high school and required another procedure before freshman season at Arkansas in summer of 2021; missed six games (and parts of others) during junior season because of left knee injury in 2023 season opener and torn labrum, which required shoulder surgery (also sidelined him for 2024 spring practices at South Carolina)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at South Carolina, Sanders became the lead back in former offensive coordinator Dowell Loggains' zone-based run scheme (Loggains also coached him at Arkansas from 2021-22). A wide receiver when he joined the Razorbacks, Sanders moved to running back and had a breakout sophomore season to put himself on the NFL radar. After injuries sidetracked his 2023 season, he transferred and led the Gamecocks in rushing in 2024.

A plus-sized runner, Sanders allows things to develop at the line and can create for himself with tempo and lighter feet than one might expect. However, his elevated pad level and average explosiveness work against him, and he doesn't have the speed to live up to his "Rocket" nickname. Overall, Sanders doesn't consistently run as powerfully as his size might suggest, but he shows vision at the line of scrimmage to press, cut and stay on his feet through contact. His receiving skills will expand his usefulness for an NFL offense.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

RB27 Corey Kiner

Cincinnati, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Cincinnati, OH	Roger Bacon	Jan 21, 2002	23.25	5085	209	#21

BACKGROUND: Corey Kiner was born and raised in the Cincinnati area with his parents (Denean Whitehead and Clif Kiner). Growing up in the suburb of St. Bernard, he started playing football at age 4, and it quickly became his dream to play in the NFL. He attended Roger Bacon High, a private Catholic school (fewer than 500 students) and rewrote the record books as a four-year varsity letterman. After announcing himself in 2017 as a freshman standout (1,226 rushing yards), Kiner set the school's single-game (302) and single-season (1,740) records as a sophomore. His best season came as a junior (2,298 rushing yards and 40 touchdowns), when he earned all-state and district player of the year honors. He led Roger Bacon to a 10-2 finish and the 2019 conference championship. As a senior, Kiner was named Ohio's Mr. Football with 1,866 rushing yards and led Roger Bacon to another 10-win season and the 2020 regional championship (first in school history). He finished his prep career 10th in state history in rushing yards (7,130) and third in both rushing touchdowns (116) and total touchdowns (125). Kiner also ran track and had personal bests of 11.70 seconds in the 100 meters and 23.96 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Kiner was the 10th-ranked running back in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 7 recruit in Ohio (No. 1 running back). He received his first scholarship offer during his freshman season from Kentucky. During his sophomore year, Kiner added offers from Michigan, Ohio State, Penn State, Tennessee and his hometown Cincinnati. After his junior season, he announced a final 10 of Cincinnati, Florida, Georgia, LSU, Louisville, Michigan, Ohio State, Penn State, Purdue and Texas A&M. On his father's birthday in May 2020, Kiner announced his commitment to reigning national champion LSU. He had never been to Louisiana (because of the COVID-19 pandemic) but was sold on the virtual visit. He spent one season in Baton Rouge before he entered the transfer portal with the intent of transferring back home. Kiner spent his final three years of eligibility with the Bearcats. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (11/1)	79	320	4.05	2	2	10	5.00	0	LSU; enrolled May 2021
2022: (10/0)	81	362	4.47	5	2	2	1.00	0	Cincinnati; enrolled April 2022
2023: (12/12)	192	1,047	5.45	5	12	49	4.08	0	Cincinnati; led team in rushing
2024: (12/12)	204	1,153	5.65	4	16	111	6.94	0	Cincinnati; led team in rushing
Total: (45/25)	556	2,882	5.18	16	32	172	5.38	0

HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5085	209	7 3/4	30 1/2	75 1/2	4.57	2.70	1.62	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	19 No jumps, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5086	208	7 3/4	30 3/8	75 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.44	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- High-level contact balance, because of his natural leverage and run strength
- Not a content runner and shreds arm tackles
- Knows how to press angles to create cutback opportunities
- Runs with high knees to maintain momentum and step out of tackle attempts
- Allows blocks to develop with run pacing
- Small sample size as a receiver but caught all 16 targets in 2024
- Became fifth player in school history to post back-to-back 1,000-yard rushing seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have ideal size for the position
- Mediocre speed and won't accelerate away from pursuit consistently
- Better short-area quickness than true burst
- Fumbled three times in 2024 — ball security must improve
- Poor red zone production (three red zone rushing touchdowns in 2024)
- Awareness and timing as a blocker need work (see 2024 Pitt tape)
- Doesn't have much special teams experience

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Cincinnati, Kiner was consistently productive in offensive coordinator Brad Glenn's zone-based run scheme. After a short stint at LSU, he averaged 91.7 rushing yards per game as the Bearcats' starter, and his yards per carry increased each of his four seasons in college. Kiner is a leverage-based runner who is more powerful than he looks and consistently makes the first man miss (No. 4 in the FBS with 82 forced missed tackles in 2024). Despite lacking top-tier athletic traits, he has a natural feel for run angles to use his blocking and set up defenders.

A two-year starter at Cincinnati, Kiner was consistently productive in offensive coordinator Brad Glenn's zone-based run scheme. After a short stint at LSU, he averaged 91.7 rushing yards per game as the Bearcats' starter, and his yards per carry increased each of his four seasons in college. Kiner is a leverage-based runner who is more powerful than he looks and consistently makes the first man miss (No. 4 in the FBS with 82 forced missed tackles in 2024). Despite lacking top-tier athletic traits, he has a natural feel for run angles to use his blocking and set up defenders.

Overall, Kiner is a compactly built tackle breaker. He won't impress with speed or burst, but his balance through contact will be his NFL ticket. Proving himself on passing downs will help his chances of making a roster.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

RB28 Donovan Edwards

Michigan, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
West Bloomfield, MI	West Bloomfield	Feb 25, 2003	22.16	5113	205	#7

BACKGROUND: Donovan Edwards, the youngest of two boys, grew up outside of Detroit with his father (Kevin Sr.), an assistant principal in the Detroit Public Schools system. Donovan's mother (Donna) died of breast cancer in August 2005, when Edwards was only 2. His grandfather (Charlie Primas Jr.), who died in January 2020, was a Harlem Globetrotter (1954-56) and All-American basketball player at Wayne State (1951-54) — he set Wayne State's school records for points, rebounds and free throws. A multisport star from an early age, Edwards played baseball, basketball, football, soccer and any other sport he could as a child.

Edwards was an accomplished athlete at West Bloomfield Middle School and was recruited by several private high schools, but he decided to play at West Bloomfield High, where he was coached by former Michigan wide receiver Ron Bellamy (and was teammates with Makari Paige, who also later played at Michigan). Edwards moved up to varsity, from JV, as a freshman running back and helped the team to an 11-3 record and district title. He had his best season as a junior (1,439 rushing yards, 569 receiving yards and 25 touchdowns), earning all-metro honors and helping West Bloomfield to the 2019 league and district championships. As a senior, Edwards posted 1,021 rushing yards and 20 total touchdowns in nine games (pandemic-shortened season). He was named 2020 Gatorade Player of the Year in Michigan and was runner-up for the state's High School Player of the Year award. Edwards also lettered in basketball and track. He had personal bests of 11.18 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.65 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Edwards was the fourth-ranked running back in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Michigan. He ranked No. 42 nationally, one spot behind wide receiver Troy Franklin. After Edwards' freshman season, Michigan didn't waste any time offering him in April 2018, followed by Kentucky, Pittsburgh and Purdue. Edwards collected an impressive list of more than 40 scholarship offers, including from Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Penn State, Texas and USC. He'd grown up a Michigan State fan and "hated" Michigan, but he was uneasy about the coaching change in East Lansing. Edwards was leaning toward Ohio State, but the Buckeyes added two highly recruited running backs (TreVeyon Henderson and Evan Pryor) before he was ready to commit.

In the end, the draw of staying close to home and building a legacy at Michigan led him to Ann Arbor. Edwards was the top-ranked player in Jim Harbaugh's 2021 recruiting class, one spot ahead of QB J.J. McCarthy. His high school head coach (Bellamy) also returned to Michigan in 2021 and currently serves as the Wolverines' wide receivers coach. Edwards opted out of Michigan's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (12/0)	35	174	4.97	3	20	265	13.25	1	75-yard passing TD; enrolled January 2021
2022: (11/3)	140	991	7.08	7	18	200	11.11	2	Big Ten Championship game MVP; missed three games (right knee, right hand)
2023: (15/1)	119	497	4.18	5	30	249	8.30	0	First player in national championship history with multiple touchdown runs of 40 yards or more
2024: (12/10)	128	589	4.60	4	18	83	4.61	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; team captain; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (50/14)	422	2,251	5.33	19	86	797	9.27	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5113	205	10	30	74 5/8	4.44	2.58	1.54	38 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	23	No BJ, SS, three-cone — choice
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Quick-footed athlete who can plant, cut and make defenders miss in tight quarters
- Stop-start ability creates immediate off-ramp access when stuck in traffic
- Mashs gas at line of scrimmage to zoom through holes and force misjudged angles on second level
- Average run power but not shy about dropping his pads into contact to push forward
- Strong hand-eye coordination, with large hands to secure catches
- Dynamic screen target (7.6 career YAC per reception)
- Will leave feet to take out blitzers in pass pro
- Only player in Michigan history with pass, run and catch of 75 yards or more in their career
- Voted a team captain as senior in 2024
- Most productive performances came in Michigan’s most important games (6.5 yards per carry vs. ranked teams)

WEAKNESSES:

- Runs with tunnel vision and marginal contact balance
- Sporadic patience — more likely to run into blockers than set up blocks
- Doesn’t generate power from legs or frame to barrel through tackles
- Fumbled three times on just 128 carries in 2024
- Inconsistent pre-snap reads in pass protection
- Home-run plays from 2022 (five carries of 50 yards or more) disappeared past two seasons (zero carries of 50 yards or more)
- Not a proven workhorse (20 or more offensive touches just three times in 50 games played)
- Never led Michigan in rushing any of his four college seasons
- Partially torn patella in right knee (Sept. 2022) but missed only two games and played through injury, which required offseason surgery (Feb. 2023); Broken right thumb (Nov. 2022) — missed one game before playing rest of season with cast (required offseason surgery, including two screws in hand)

SUMMARY: A part-time player at Michigan, Edwards shared backfield duties in head coach Sherrone Moore's run-heavy multiple run scheme. After a breakout sophomore season, he was viewed as a potential future top-100 pick by NFL scouts, but his junior and senior seasons fell well below expectations (yards per carry dropped from 7.1 in 2022 to 4.4 over the 2023-24 seasons combined).

Edwards is hyper-aggressive attacking the line of scrimmage, which allows him to make tight 90-degree cuts or explode to the second level when the hole is there, but his lack of patience and tempo often leaves him bottled up. Despite a career low in targets as a senior, he has large, accepting hands with the versatility to line up in the slot or out wide. Overall, Edwards' inconsistent vision and contact balance as an inside runner will limit his role in the NFL, but his pass-catching skills could be his saving grace toward earning a roster spot. He projects as a change-of-pace runner with receiving versatility.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

RB29
Montrell Johnson Jr.

Florida, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
New Orleans, LA	De La Salle	Oct 13, 2002	22.53	5113	212	#1

BACKGROUND: Montrell Johnson Jr. was born and raised in New Orleans with his mother (Keshawn Harris). He played youth football growing up while attending ISL (International School of Louisiana) for elementary and middle school. In eighth grade, he enrolled at De La Salle High, a private Catholic school in New Orleans, and was a four-year varsity letterman as a running back. After working himself into the rotation as a freshman, he stepped up as a sophomore after an injury pushed him up the depth chart and set the school's single-game rushing record (345 rushing yards, five touchdowns). As a senior, Johnson led his team to a 10-1 record and the 2020 Division II state championship game — De La Salle fell just short (35-28), despite a valiant performance from Johnson (29 carries for 182 yards and four touchdowns). He finished his final season with 1,249 rushing yards (11.6 average) and 15 total touchdowns (13 rushing, two receiving). Johnson also ran track at De La Salle and had personal bests of 11.91 seconds in the 100 meters and 19 feet, 2 inches in the long jump.

A three-star recruit, Johnson was the 60th-ranked running back in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 29 recruit in Louisiana. The summer before his sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offers from instate FCS programs Southeastern Louisiana and Nicholls State. After his sophomore season, Johnson picked up his first FBS offer from Tennessee. He continued to add offers, including from Colorado, Duke, Kansas, Louisiana Tech, South Alabama, Tulane, Virginia and others. But an offer from Arizona in June 2020 piqued his interest, and he committed a month later.

However, his mother asked him to decommit (Harris: "It wasn't in my spirit. ... It wasn't the right place for him."). When Arizona fired Kevin Sumlin in December 2020, Johnson made it official and reopened his recruitment. He found a home at Louisiana with head coach Billy Napier. Johnson was the second-ranked recruit in the Ragin Cajuns' 2021 class. After Napier left for the head coaching job at Florida, Johnson entered the transfer portal in January 2022. He heard from several programs, including his home state LSU, but opted to follow Napier and sign with the Gators. Johnson earned a spot on the SEC Academic Honor Roll and graduated with a degree in education sciences (Dec. 2024). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (14/0)	162	838	5.17	12	6	53	8.83	0	Louisiana; led team in rushing TDs; enrolled July 2021
2022: (13/9)	155	841	5.43	10	12	58	4.83	1	Florida; led team in rushing
2023: (12/11)	152	817	5.38	5	30	236	7.87	1	Florida; led team in rushing
2024: (10/8)	100	593	5.93	6	13	64	4.92	0	Florida; missed three games (knee)
Total: (49/28)	569	3,089	5.43	33	61	411	6.74	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5113	212	9 1/4	30 3/4	75 3/8	4.41	2.58	1.54	35 1/2	10' 3"	4.29	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5112	213	9 1/8	31 1/8	75 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	17

STRENGTHS:

- Solidly built with functional mass for the position
- Picks up speed as he goes and will give defensive backs a footrace down the sideline
- Flashes short-area burst when he finds a lane
- Coordinated in and out of cuts to maneuver at the line
- Trusts vision to read blocks and squeeze through skinny creases
- Grinds his feet through run completion
- Fumbled only three times in four-year career
- Coaches go to bat for him as one of team's best practice players (Billy Napier: "He's a class act. ... He sets the standard.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Runs hard and tough but wouldn't be classified as a "power back"
- Doesn't have lateral wiggle to make defenders miss in tight quarters
- Trusts run design, almost to a fault — would like to see more creativity
- Low-volume checkdown/screen back, although he showed pass-catching promise in 2023
- Asked to pass protect only a few times each game, with mixed results (including a holding flag on Texas A&M tape)
- Left meniscus injury (Aug. 2024), which required arthroscopic surgery and sidelined him for fall camp; returned for start of season but suffered another knee injury (Oct. 2024) — missed three games and parts of several others (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Florida, Johnson was part of a committee backfield in offensive coordinator Rob Sale's split-zone and wide-zone scheme. He followed Billy Napier to Gainesville and was productive sharing carries the past three seasons, including a career-best 5.9 yards per carry as a senior in 2024. With his juice, Johnson is at his best when he can get rolling on outside tracks that are blocked up for him. He runs physically through traffic and isn't shy banging inside, but his creativity and instincts don't consistently create yardage for him.

A three-year starter at Florida, Johnson was part of a committee backfield in offensive coordinator Rob Sale's split-zone and wide-zone scheme. He followed Billy Napier to Gainesville and was productive sharing carries the past three seasons, including a career-best 5.9 yards per carry as a senior in 2024. With his juice, Johnson is at his best when he can get rolling on outside tracks that are blocked up for him. He runs physically through traffic and isn't shy banging inside, but his creativity and instincts don't consistently create yardage for him. Overall, Johnson is at his best when he trusts his tempo to play off blocks with contact balance and physicality, searching for a lane to unleash his speed. He hasn't proven himself enough on passing downs, but he reminds me of an off-brand Chuba Hubbard-style runner.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Salisbury, MD	Parkside	Oct 30, 2001	23.48	5107	193	#21

BACKGROUND: Marcus Yarns grew up in Salisbury, Md. (near the Delaware border), with his mother (Tashema). He enrolled at Parkside High, where he lettered in basketball, football and lacrosse. Yarns earned a spot on varsity as a sophomore and rushed for 435 yards and two touchdowns, adding 58 tackles and two interceptions at safety. As a junior, he helped Parkside to an eight-win season and a spot in the 2018 2A state playoffs. Yarns finished his junior year with 1,680 rushing yards (11.7 average) and 12 touchdowns, plus 54 tackles, two sacks and two interceptions. As a senior, he had a pick six in the season opener but also suffered a knee injury and missed the next six games. Yarns was productive once he returned to the field in 2019 and led Parkside to a 9-2 finish, including a playoff win. He finished his prep career with 2,415 career yards. Yarns was also the top scorer on Parkside's basketball team, averaging 21.3 points per game.

A no-star recruit, Yarns wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. He received his first offer in March 2019 from Memphis, followed by offers from Army, East Carolina, Navy, Toledo, UConn and UMass. The summer before his senior year, Yarns added an offer from nearby Delaware. His recruitment was disrupted by the knee injury he suffered as a senior, but Delaware stayed on him and he committed to the Blue Hens. Yarns accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	0	0		0	0	0		0	Enrolled in June 2020; season played in spring of 2021
2021: (8/1)	23	80	3.48	0	2	5	2.50	0
2022: (13/1)	73	481	6.59	2	21	199	9.48	3	Blocked punt
2023: (13/11)	136	939	6.90	15	24	311	12.96	3	Third Team All-American; Second Team All-CAA; 2-point conversion
2024: (9/9)	133	844	6.35	6	17	297	17.47	5	First Team All-CAA; missed two games (leg)
Total: (44/22)	365	2,344	6.42	23	64	812	12.69	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5107	193	9 1/8	31 1/8	76 3/8	4.45	2.58	1.54	37 1/2	10' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5106	198	8 7/8	32 1/8	75 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.43	7.33	9

STRENGTHS:

- Accelerates in a flash to clear the line of scrimmage and surprise box players
- Home-run speed to take the ball to paydirt from anywhere
- Makes defenders pay for non-perfect pursuit angles
- Shifty in space, with workable peripheral vision
- Patiently follows blocks well on the outside, using leads/pulls as escort
- Didn't put the ball on the ground in 2024 (after fumbling three times in 2023)
- Looks natural catching the football on screens/wheels/angles

WEAKNESSES:

- Light-framed with lean muscle tone
- Runs tough but not powerfully — not built for interior work
- Doesn't have lower-body power to keep legs pumping
- Average vision between the tackles and won't consistently create for himself
- Wasn't asked to carry a heavy load (365 carries in five years in college)
- Up-and-down execution in pass pro, and it won't get any easier at the next level
- Missed two games because of a lower-leg injury (Sept. 2024) — his lack of size will lead to durability questions

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Delaware, Yarns was productive in offensive coordinator Terence Archer's zone-based run scheme. He averaged 6.6 yards per carry over the past two seasons, primarily against FCS opponents. But he also looked dynamic against the only FBS defense he saw, Penn State in 2023, with 83 rushing yards, including a 66-yard touchdown run.

With his patience and burst, Yarns can ride the wave on stretch and outside runs and is at his best bouncing runs, so he can reach the corner and go to the races on the perimeter. While he runs physically, his run momentum can be too easily affected by contact and his inside vision isn't strong enough to consistently create for himself. Overall, Yarns is undersized, which will limit his role in the NFL, but his open-field speed and versatility as a pass catcher can be weaponized by the right team. He projects as a complementary option with special teams upside.

GRADE: 7th round

HOMETOWN Savannah, GA	HIGH SCHOOL Beach	BIRTHDAY Dec 29, 2002	AGE 22.32	HT 5101	WT 214	NUM #1
--------------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Antario Brown, who has two sisters (Anatasia, Jazmine) and two brothers (Jamonta, Jermaine), grew up on the westside of Savannah, Ga., with his mother (Hannah). In April 2016, Hannah died at age 36 after being shot near the family's apartment while returning home from work. Antario Brown, a 13-year-old seventh-grader at the time, and his siblings went to live with their aunt, Hannah's sister.

Brown enrolled at Alfred E. Beach High in Savannah, where he was a three-year varsity letterman, playing both running back and linebacker. After seeing minimal action as a sophomore, he had a breakout season as a junior (1,008 rushing yards and 503 receiving yards over seven games). Beach finished 0-10 that season, but Brown earned first-team all-state and his performance against Benedictine (280 rushing yards, 119 receiving yards, four touchdowns) put him on the recruiting radar. Beach played a shortened 2020 season because of the COVID-19 pandemic — Brown finished with 375 rushing yards in five games. Brown was a standout track athlete at Beach and set school records in the 100 (11.00 seconds) and 200 meters (22.98).

A three-star recruit, Brown was the 47th-ranked running back in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 65 recruit in Georgia. He received a call after his breakout junior season from former South Carolina head coach Will Muschamp (May 2020) and picked up his first scholarship offer. Soon after, Brown added offers from NC State, West Virginia and Virginia Tech. Before his senior year, he committed to the Gamecocks (Aug. 2020) but decommitted two months later, citing "unforeseen circumstances."

One month later, Brown committed to Northern Illinois, which had been the first school to recruit him. Not only was he the top-ranked recruit in Thomas Hammond's 2021 class, but Brown was also the highest-ranked recruit in school history. Brown's relationship with Hammond kept him at Northern Illinois, even after he received NIL interest from Power 4 programs.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (9/2)	81	538	6.64	5	0	0		0	Enrolled July 2021
2022: (10/3)	110	689	6.26	7	1	7	7.00	0
2023: (13/11)	212	1,296	6.11	10	12	52	4.33	1	First Team All-MAC; led team in rushing
2024: (8/7)	115	567	4.93	4	8	204	25.50	1	Missed five games (hip)
Total: (40/23)	518	3,090	5.97	26	21	263	12.52	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5101	214	8 3/8	30	71 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	16

STRENGTHS:

- Built low to the ground with thick frame
- Lowers pads and grinds through contact (arm tackles won't do the job)
- Plenty of impressive 1- or 2-yard gains on tape
- Outstanding run patience — allows blocking to do its job
- Sharp cutback runner, with natural feel for a bigger back
- Strong hands on screens and swings, with a knack for making first man miss
- Stout against blitz; showed improved awareness in 2024 to scan and square
- Created buzz with performance in upset of Notre Dame (225 yards from scrimmage)

WEAKNESSES:

- Won't stand out on NFL field with athletic talent alone
- Non-explosive and more of a one-speed runner
- Average wiggle — moves lack suddenness
- Ball security must be addressed (four fumbles in eight games in 2024)
- Doesn't offer much on special teams
- Battled through injuries as senior, notably a hip issue, which sidelined him five games (Oct. 2024) and most of draft process

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Northern Illinois, Brown was the lead back in former offensive coordinator Wesley Beschorner's balanced run scheme, plus occasionally lined up in the slot. He put himself on the NFL radar by rushing for nearly 1,300 yards as a junior, and was on his way to eclipsing that number as a senior (including a memorable performance in an upset of Notre Dame) before injuries slowed, then prematurely ended, his 2024 season.

Using his compact power and physicality, Brown runs with natural leverage and contact balance to work his way through the weeds. Though he has some shake, he isn't overly dynamic and must fix his fumbling issues to stay on the field at the next level. Overall, Brown doesn't have any special athletic traits, but he runs with patience and attitude and is a viable threat in the passing game. If healthy, he has enough talent to compete for an NFL roster spot.

GRADE: FA

RB32 Ulysses Bentley IV

Ole Miss, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Houston, TX	C.E. King	Dec 30, 2000	24.32	5097	200	#24

BACKGROUND: Ulysses "Doo" Bentley IV grew up in the Houston area with his parents (Felicia and Ulysses Bentley III). He received the nickname "Doo" from his mother, because he would "do anything" to sneak away from her as a toddler. Bentley started playing football at the youth level and grew up idolizing Reggie Bush.

Bentley attended C.E. King High in Houston and played on the JV team as a freshman quarterback and kicker. He saw varsity action as a sophomore as a receiver/running back and defensive back. Bentley had his breakout season as a junior running back and earned all-district honors. He moved under center for his senior season as the quarterback of King's triple-option offense and led the team to an eight-win season (four combined wins the previous two seasons), despite missing some time with an elbow injury. Bentley also lettered in track all four seasons (sprints, jumps and relays). He set the school record in the 400 meters (46.88 seconds) and had personal bests of 11.06 in the 100, 22.94 in the 200 and 19 feet, 5 inches in the long jump.

A three-star recruit, Bentley was the 97th-ranked running back in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 213 recruit in Texas. Because of his skinny frame, he was overlooked during the recruiting process by most college programs in the state. SMU became his first FBS offer, and he liked the "small-school" atmosphere (despite SMU being located in Dallas). He added a few other FBS offers, including Syracuse, Texas State and his hometown Houston, but he committed to SMU in June 2018 and didn't waver.

Bentley was the 15th-ranked recruit in former head coach Sonny Dykes' class in 2019. After three productive seasons at SMU, he wanted to play on a bigger stage and entered the transfer portal once Dykes left for TCU. Ole Miss had already added running back Zach Evans in the transfer portal, but Bentley was childhood friends with Evans and liked the idea of joining him in Oxford. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Oxford for his sixth season. Bentley made the Ole Miss dean's List in 2024 and graduated with a degree in multi-disciplinary studies.

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	7	36	5.14	0	1	30	30.00	0	SMU; redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (10/6)	170	913	5.37	11	21	174	8.29	1	SMU; Freshman All-American; First Team All-AAC; AAC ROY; led team in rushing
2021: (11/8)	96	610	6.35	4	19	90	4.74	1	SMU; Second Team All-AAC; missed two games (ankle)
2022: (6/0)	16	73	4.56	4	1	4	4.00	0	Ole Miss; missed seven games (wrist)
2023: (13/0)	95	540	5.68	4	11	87	7.91	1	Ole Miss
2024: (13/2)	84	419	4.99	5	13	99	7.62	0	Ole Miss
Total: (57/16)	468	2,591	5.54	28	66	484	7.33	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5097	201	8 5/8	29	71 1/8	4.62	2.72	1.62	32 1/2	9' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5087	200	8 3/8	29 7/8	71 1/8	4.553	2.66	1.59	DNP	DNP	4.38	7.32	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Accelerates quickly with enough long speed to take it the distance
- Reads blocking scheme well on stretch plays
- Can shimmy in the hole and scoot through creases
- Looks the ball into his hands to be a threat in passing game (zero drops at Ole Miss)
- Flashes burst out of breaks as a route runner
- Fumbled just twice over college career
- Averaged 21.6 yards on kick returns (19 attempts for 410 yards)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean, narrow frame and looks maxed out physically (160 pounds when he arrived in college)
- Doesn't have build or leg drive to power through resistance

- Mediocre contact balance and can be knocked off his feet
- Abandons inside run design too quickly
- Squares up in pass protection but doesn't have anchor strength to match up
- Double-digit offensive touches in just seven of 32 games for the Rebels
- Battled several injuries, including a wrist injury (Sept. 2022) that forced him to miss half of the season; banged up for most of his sophomore season with a high ankle sprain (Sept. 2021)

SUMMARY: A part-time player at Ole Miss, Bentley was a complementary back in offensive coordinator Charlie Weis Jr.'s balanced run scheme. After producing at SMU, he transferred to the SEC, but his impact for the Rebels was more sporadic than steady — he didn't command consistent playing time as part of the game plan.

A gliding athlete, Bentley can put his foot in the ground, drop his weight and make strong cuts to break off long runs (one of only four SEC players with multiple carries of 50 yards or more in 2024). However, he isn't built to run between the tackles and is too reliant on finding outside tracks as both a runner and receiver. Overall, Bentley's flashes in college teased the explosive-play creation that will give him a chance to stick in the league, but he is undersized and will have a very defined role. His experience as a kick returner should boost his chances.

GRADE: FA

RB33 Josh Williams

LSU, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Houston, TX	Kinkaid	Jun 09, 2001	23.87	5083	196	#18

BACKGROUND: Joshua "Josh" Williams, the oldest of three children (two boys, one girl), was born and raised in the Houston area with his mother (Kimberly) and father (Jermaine). While growing up in an athletic family, he played multiple sports throughout childhood, including baseball and basketball. He started playing football at the pee-pee level (Kid Cougars) and received an early running back education from his father — Jermaine, who now works in real estate, was a running back at Houston (1994-96) and played five seasons in the NFL (1997-2001) for four different teams (Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Oakland Raiders, Jacksonville Jaguars, Kansas City Chiefs).

Basketball was Williams' go-to sport for most of childhood. He played for the Olajuwon-Bateer Dream Academy (teammates with current NBA player De'Aaron Fox), where he was coached by Hakeem Olajuwon and Clyde Drexler and took trips to China for tournaments. His younger brother (Jordan) played basketball at Texas A&M (2022-23) before transferring to Vanderbilt for the 2023-24 season.

Williams attended The Kinkaid School, a prestigious program with alumni such as George W. Bush, and was a four-year varsity letterman at cornerback and running back. After seeing starter reps as a freshman, he rushed for 836 yards on 117 carries (7.1 average) and 13 touchdowns as a sophomore. As a junior, Williams rushed for 992 yards on 117 carries (8.5 average) and 11 touchdowns. He produced his best season as a senior in 2018, despite battling an ankle injury, with 1,238 rushing yards on 111 carries (11.2 average) and 16 touchdowns, including a single-game record of 436 yards against St. Thomas. He also had 376 receiving yards and five touchdown grabs. In four years of high school, Williams helped Kinkaid to three state championships. He also lettered in baseball and basketball.

A two-star recruit, Williams was the 211th-ranked running back in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 448 recruit in Texas. While playing on the AAU basketball circuit in the offseason, he didn't attend many recruiting camps and wasn't on the radar for most FBS programs. Williams did have interest from several Division II programs and received three FCS offers (Dayton, Drake, Lafayette College), but he held zero scholarship offers from FBS teams.

He had grown up an LSU fan, because of Harvey Williams (LSU running back from 1987-90 and 1991 first-round NFL Draft pick), a former NFL teammate of his father. Believing his talent belonged on a bigger stage, Williams jumped at a walk-on opportunity at LSU in the 2019 recruiting class. (Two of LSU's top-five highest-ranked recruits in the 2019 class were running backs: John Emery Jr. and Tyrion Davis-Price.) After a year on the scout team, Williams was put on scholarship after fall camp in 2020. Williams was a three-time SEC Academic Honor Roll member and graduated with a marketing degree (Dec. 2022) and a 3.46 GPA. Williams added a master's degree in business (Dec. 2023). He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a sixth season. Williams was a late call-up to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (-/-)									Redshirted; walk-on; enrolled June 2019
2020: (10/0)	22	88	4.00	0	0	0		0	Put on scholarship after fall camp; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/0)	23	107	4.65	0	5	11	2.20	0
2022: (11/6)	97	532	5.48	6	21	132	6.29	0	Led team in rushing; missed three games (knee)
2023: (13/4)	55	284	5.16	5	14	194	13.86	1	Started final four games
2024: (13/7)	117	482	4.12	6	31	263	8.48	0
Total: (60/17)	314	1,493	4.75	17	71	600	8.45	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5083	196	9 3/4	30	73 1/8	4.53	2.65	1.57	42	10'2"	4.26	7.03	23

STRENGTHS:

- Patient runner who follows blocks to find slivers of daylight
- Knows when to press the hole and work off blocks
- Runs behind his pads with low leverage and decent contact balance inside
- Proudful blocker; has chops for pass protection
- Dependable screen target (fifth on team in catches in 2024)
- Zero fumbles in career
- Cerebral player and knows everyone's responsibilities
- Former walk-on with high character; beloved in the LSU program

WEAKNESSES:

- Adequate bulk on shorter frame
- Doesn't run with drive power in lower body to push the pile or carry defenders
- Lacks explosion through holes and can get clipped before reaching second level
- Not shifty or elusive in open field
- Can be late at times to decipher where blitzers are coming from
- Last 100-yard rushing performance came in November 2022
- Played through knee injury as junior (missed three games) and underwent surgery (Dec. 2022), which sidelined him for 2023 spring practices

SUMMARY: A part-time starter at LSU, Williams was a complementary back in offensive coordinator Joe Sloan's inside-outside zone scheme. He went from a scout team walk-on in 2019 to emerging as the most well-rounded back on LSU's roster the past few seasons, despite his lackluster career production.

Though he can get what is blocked for him, Williams isn't a power back and his short-area movements won't threaten defenses. Never the star of the LSU backfield, he didn't bring electricity to the field, but he was Mr. Dependable with his ball security, pass catching and blocking. Overall, Williams is a specific type of running back who doesn't have the juice most teams covet at the position, but he is a potential fit for an offense that values reliability in a third-down role.

GRADE: FA

RB34 Ja'Quinden Jackson

Arkansas, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Dallas, TX	Duncanville	Sep 12, 2001	23.61	6016	236	#22

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2020: (-/-)									Texas; redshirted
2021: (3/0)	6	30	5.00	1	0	0		0	Utah
2022: (13/0)	78	531	6.81	9	1	8	8.00	0	Utah; transitioned from QB to RB
2023: (12/11)	161	797	4.95	4	9	53	5.89	0	Utah; led team in rushing
2024: (10/7)	149	790	5.30	15	13	139	10.69	0	Arkansas; led team in rushing
Total: (38/18)	394	2,148	5.45	29	23	200	8.70	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6014	229	9 1/2	33	79 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	32	9'11"	4.36	7.19	DNP	No 40, bench — choice
PRO DAY	6016	236	9 1/2	33 1/2	79 5/8	4.75	2.69	1.64	33 1/2	10'0"	4.48	DNP	15

SUMMARY: Ja'Quinden Jackson grew up south of Dallas, with his mother (Nyia Evans), and started playing football at age 7. He was an all-state quarterback at Duncanville High, accounting for 37 touchdowns as a senior before a torn ACL, MCL and PCL in his left knee ended his 2019 season. A four-star recruit, he committed to Texas as a quarterback and redshirted in 2020 while recovering from that knee injury. He later transferred to Utah, where he transitioned to running back before transferring again in 2024, this time to Arkansas.

Jackson runs with quick eyes and collects himself in his cuts to get north to south, although creating explosive plays isn't his jam (just five carries of 20 yards or more in 2024). A bigger back, he will consistently gain a few extra yards because of his leg drive, and 14 of his 15 rushing touchdowns in 2024 came in the red zone. Overall, Jackson isn't a dynamic athlete, but he runs with tempo, vision and physicality. He'll stick around, if he lands in the right situation/role.

GRADE: FA

RB35 Micah Bernard

Utah, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Long Beach, CA	Gahr	Oct 22, 2001	23.50	5097	199	#2

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	0	0		0	0	0		0	Redshirted; enrolled July 2019
2020: (5/0)	15	76	5.07	0	4	25	6.25	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/6)	87	523	6.01	2	26	251	9.65	2	One of starts came at CB in Rose Bowl vs. Ohio State
2022: (14/6)	106	533	5.03	4	34	314	9.24	1
2023: (2/1)	16	76	4.75	1	5	30	6.00	0	Missed 11 games (injury)
2024: (12/12)	197	1,009	5.12	4	30	150	5.00	2	Led team in rushing
Total: (51/25)	421	2,217	5.27	11	99	770	7.78	5

HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5097	199	9 1/8	31	75 1/8	4.58	2.64	1.66	38 1/2	10'6"	4.37	7.39	14

SUMMARY: Micah (muh-ky) Bernard grew up in Southern California and started playing football at age 5. He lettered in basketball, football and track at Gahr High, where he combined for 3,127 rushing yards over his final two seasons. A three-star recruit, he received offers from Oregon and USC, but Utah entered the mix and received Bernard's commitment. After backing up Zach Moss in 2019, Bernard was part of a committee the next few years, including playing both ways (corner and running back) in the Rose Bowl vs. Ohio State.

After missing most of the 2023 season because of injury, he returned as a senior in 2024 and had a career year. An upright slasher, Bernard can be a power back when he wants, but he also can put his foot in the ground and cut back across pursuit. Despite some stiffness in his hips, he does a nice job keeping his feet beneath him. He also looks comfortable catching the football out of the backfield. Overall, Bernard isn't consistently patient or creative, but he is quick both to and through the hole, with the run balance and subtle cuts mid-stride to gash the defense.

GRADE: FA

RB36 Tre Stewart

Jacksonville State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Winston-Salem, NC	WS Prep	Dec 14, 2002	22.36	5093	192	#28

YEAR (GP/GS)	CAR	YDS	AVG	TD	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	NOTES
2021: (9/0)	25	116	4.64	0	7	72	10.29	0	Limestone
2022: (11/11)	209	1,517	7.26	15	29	270	9.31	3	Limestone; First Team All-SAC; led team in rushing
2023: (12/12)	186	1,361	7.32	9	32	291	9.09	2	Limestone; First Team All-SAC; led team in rushing
2024: (14/12)	278	1,678	6.04	25	18	234	13.00	1	Jacksonville State; First Team All-CUSA; led CUSA in rushing
Total: (46/35)	698	4,672	6.69	49	86	867	10.08	6

HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5093	192	9 5/8	30 3/8	73 1/8	4.50	2.65	1.64	33	9'6"	4.45	7.33	12

SUMMARY: Tresean "Tre" Stewart was born and raised in Winston-Salem, N.C., with his parents (Lashonda Stewart and Angelo Terry). While lettering in basketball, football and track at Winston-Salem Prep Academy, he had a record-breaking junior season (2,045 rushing yards, 1,493 receiving yards and 46 total touchdowns, scored five different ways). A no-star recruit, he signed with Division II Limestone (S.C.) University and led the team in rushing as a sophomore and junior. He entered the transfer portal for his final season and committed to Jacksonville State over several FCS offers (Indiana State, Mercer, Samford). He flourished in Rich Rodriguez's offense in 2024, joining Ashton Jeanty as the only two FBS running backs with at least 1,600 yards rushing and 25 rushing touchdowns.

Although his movement patterns aren't always efficient, Stewart is able to pick, slide and string together multiple moves with his abrupt run style. He runs upright, with below-average run strength that leaves him easily turned at contact. Overall, Stewart has his limitations, but he was a fun study because of his lively run style and ability to create in the passing game.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
37	Lan Larison	UC Davis	5104	209	4.57	2.70	1.67	35 1/2	9'11"	4.21	6.93	21	9 3/4	30 1/8	73 3/4
38	ShunDerrick Powell	Central Arkansas	5071	183	4.40	2.52	1.50	40 1/2	10'9"	4.40	7.39	21	8 3/4	30	72 1/2
39	Jalen White	Georgia Southern	6000	205	4.57	2.65	1.56	36	10'2"	4.44	7.14	20	8 3/4	32	74 1/4
40	Nate Carter	Michigan State	5092	200	4.40	2.59	1.58	40	10'8"	4.20	7.15	23	9	31 1/4	74 7/8
41	Ty Son Lawton	Indiana	5087	208	4.53	2.63	1.53	38	9'9"	4.58	7.69	14	9 1/2	31 1/4	75 1/2
42	Irv Mulligan	Jackson State	5092	199	4.53	2.65	1.59	36	10'9"	4.34	7.07	14	9 1/8	30 5/8	75 3/8
43	Qualan Jones	Stephen F. Austin	5096	223	4.49	2.64	1.54	37	10'6"	4.52	7.47	19	9 3/8	33	79
44	Nate Noel	Missouri	5077	194	4.55	2.57	1.59	DNP	DNP	4.38	7.21	16	9 7/8	29 3/8	72
45	Braedon Sloan	Ball State	5110	207	4.53	2.71	1.58	33 1/2	9'8"	4.31	7.19	20	9 3/8	29 1/2	71 7/8
46	Kevin Davis	Miami (OH)	5074	164	4.39	2.53	1.58	37 1/2	10'5"	4.20	6.82	12	8 7/8	27 3/4	69 1/4
47	Peny Boone	UCF	5115	226	4.69	2.70	1.62	30	9'2"	4.36	6.93	DNP	8 5/8	31	76 5/8
48	Amar Johnson	South Dakota State	5096	205	4.39	2.54	1.51	33 1/2	10'4"	4.28	7.07	19	9 3/8	29 1/2	72 1/2
49	Nay'Quan Wright	South Florida	5086	193	4.41	2.53	1.55	33	9'5"	4.27	6.92	21	9	29 7/8	72 1/2
50	Marion Lukes	Central Michigan	5093	205	4.63	2.68	1.55	35 1/2	10'1"	4.40	7.14	DNP	8 3/8	30 1/8	72 1/4
51	Christian Grubb	Portland State	5092	194	4.50	2.57	1.56	42	10'9"	4.25	6.94	15	9 3/8	29 5/8	72 3/4
52	Lawrance Toafili	Florida State	5117	194	4.68	2.68	1.63	36	10'0"	4.47	7.01	11	8 3/4	30 1/8	72 7/8
53	Andrew Henry	New Mexico	5096	198	4.57	2.63	1.51	37 1/2	10'5"	4.30	7.50	22	8 5/8	29 3/4	72 3/4
54	Quali Conley	Arizona	5100	211	4.62	2.69	1.64	34 1/2	9'5"	4.56	7.52	24	9	29 1/8	72 1/4
55	Reggie Love III	Purdue	5100	209	4.75	2.73	1.63	35	9'8"	4.53	7.28	16	9 1/2	29 1/8	70 5/8
56	Aaron Young	Old Dominion	5092	201	4.65	2.65	1.58	35	10'5"	4.41	6.97	16	9 1/2	31 5/8	75 5/8
57	Keegan Jones	UCLA	5082	181	4.50	2.62	1.64	36 1/2	10'4"	4.33	6.87	17	8 5/8	30 1/2	73 1/4
58	Elijah Young	Western Kentucky	5092	197	4.41	2.44	1.51	34	10'11"	4.25	7.14	15	9 5/8	30 1/8	73 3/8
59	Marcus Major	Minnesota	5115	213	4.61	2.62	1.57	37 1/2	10'0"	4.45	7.08	10	9 1/4	30 1/8	73 3/8
60	Jordan Petaia	Australia (IPP)	6031	226	4.58	2.56	1.65	40 1/2	10'4"	4.48	7.09	DNP	9	31 7/8	76
61	Jalen Leonard-Osbourne	Ithaca	5084	187	4.46	2.59	1.64	37 1/2	10'5"	4.40	7.32	20	8 3/4	28 1/2	69 1/2
62	Jariq Scales	Southern Arkansas	5094	195	4.59	2.62	1.50	36 1/2	10'6"	4.29	6.99	15	8 5/8	29 5/8	71 7/8
63	Ben Furtney	Purdue	5113	231	4.94	2.84	1.69	DNP	DNP	4.74	7.60	DNP	9 3/8	31 1/4	75 1/8
64	Mario Anderson Jr.	Memphis	5080	202	4.58	2.63	1.58	35 1/2	10'0"	4.28	7.29	18	9 1/8	29 1/4	69 5/8
65	Joshua Carter	Eastern Kentucky	5087	208	4.72	2.76	1.69	33 1/2	9'5"	4.58	7.27	13	8 5/8	28 3/4	71 3/8
66	Targhee Lambson	Southern Utah	5082	203	DNP	DNP	DNP	32 1/2	9'6"	4.49	7.22	17	9 1/4	31 3/4	76 3/8
67	Hope Adebayo	St. Thomas (Minn.)	5081	199	4.65	2.59	1.59	34	9'0"	4.51	7.27	20	8 1/2	29 1/2	71
68	Kay'Ron Lynch-Adams	Michigan State	5092	205	4.60	2.69	1.61	32	9'5"	4.55	7.43	17	8 1/4	30	71 3/4
69	DeCarlos Brooks	Arizona State	5093	209	4.60	2.65	1.58	40	10'10"	4.47	7.22	17	9 7/8	30 1/4	75
70	Henry Parrish Jr.	Ole Miss	5102	182	4.69	2.77	1.65	29 1/2	9'6"	4.39	DNP	7	8 5/8	29 5/8	71 1/4
71	Kye Robichaux	Boston College	5113	209	4.63	2.68	1.55	39	10'2"	4.44	7.33	16	9 1/4	31	75 3/4
72	Sone Ntoh	Monmouth	5110	220	4.50	2.57	1.51	38 1/2	10'1"	4.40	7.31	19	9	30 7/8	75
73	Malik Grant	Rhode Island	5076	191	4.69	DNP	1.57	37	10'2"	4.23	6.99	26	9 1/8	28 3/4	69 1/4
74	Kayvon Britten	Tarleton State	5060	191	4.46	2.59	1.69	31 1/2	9'5"	4.34	7.37	17	8 3/4	29	69 1/2
75	Avery Morrow	Colorado State	5115	202	4.51	2.58	1.56	34 1/2	9'9"	4.39	7.28	DNP	9 1/2	30 5/8	73 1/8
76	Marcus Carroll	Missouri	5086	213	4.81	2.69	1.64	32 1/2	9'2"	4.76	7.65	25	10 1/8	30 5/8	74 1/8
77	Quinton Cooley	Liberty	5074	209	4.71	2.69	1.50	32 1/2	DNP	4.42	7.34	19	8 1/2	29 3/4	70 5/8
78	Dominique Loggins	Western Oregon	5106	215	4.51	2.71	1.63	35 1/2	9'7"	4.42	7.44	16	8 3/4	31 5/8	74 3/8
79	Jacardia Wright	Missouri State	5116	218	4.64	2.69	1.69	35 1/2	10'1"	4.44	7.06	19	8	33 1/8	77 3/8
80	Anthony Tyus III	Ohio	6007	220	4.59	2.64	1.58	33 1/2	10'5"	4.44	7.23	19	9 1/8	31 5/8	74 3/4
81	Travis Theis	South Dakota	5090	208	4.63	2.66	1.64	34 1/2	9'6"	4.21	6.89	20	9 1/4	28 1/2	69 5/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
82	Anthony Adkins	UCLA	6024	259	4.87	2.89	1.83	32	9'2"	4.56	7.81	17	9 3/8	34 1/2	81 1/2
83	Darius Hale	Central Arkansas	5105	227	4.58	2.56	1.63	35 1/2	9'6"	4.56	7.25	DNP	9 1/4	30	72 1/8
84	Isaiah Knight	Univ. of B.C. (Can.)	5116	211	4.78	2.75	1.63	32	10'0"	4.53	7.44	15	9 1/4	33 1/8	78 3/4
85	David Afari	Northern Colorado	5091	195	4.63	2.70	1.56	33	9'7"	4.29	7.62	14	9 3/8	29 3/4	74 1/4
86	Treshaun Ward	Boston College	5090	191	4.60	2.67	1.57	29 1/2	9'11"	4.20	6.95	DNP	9 1/2	30 1/4	73 1/4
87	Sidiki Kone	American Intl.	5116	215	4.54	2.62	1.59	37 1/2	10'2"	4.30	7.11	DNP	9 1/4	30 3/4	76
88	Jordan Waters	NC State	6000	221	4.57	2.62	1.48	33 1/2	10'0"	4.33	7.06	17	9 5/8	32 5/8	77
89	Jarod Epperson	Augustana	5106	202	4.46	2.61	1.52	38 1/2	10'1"	4.12	6.84	17	8 7/8	29 5/8	72 1/2
90	Brock Lampe	Northern Illinois	6010	244	DNP	DNP	DNP	34	9'4"	4.40	7.43	22	8 7/8	31	74 1/2
91	Shane Watts	Fort Hays State	5084	191	4.50	2.58	1.56	39	10'2"	4.19	7.37	26	8 1/2	29 1/2	70 5/8
92	Jacquez Stuart	Toledo	5080	182	4.53	2.59	1.59	35 1/2	10'5"	4.48	7.31	19	8 7/8	29 7/8	70 3/8
93	Sam Hicks	Abilene Christian	5080	177	4.47	2.63	1.64	33 1/2	9'10"	4.23	7.12	10	9	29	70 1/8
94	Tyshon King	Youngstown State	5094	214	4.75	2.79	1.65	33 1/2	9'2"	4.25	6.97	19	10 1/8	30 3/8	72
95	Jordan Houston	Marshall	5091	195	4.62	2.66	1.51	32 1/2	10'2"	4.30	7.01	20	8 1/2	28 3/8	69 1/8
96	Zak Wallace	Arkansas State	5113	219	4.68	2.73	1.61	28 1/2	9'9"	4.70	7.38	21	9 1/8	31 3/4	75 3/4
97	Anthony Watkins	Tulsa	5097	197	4.63	2.66	1.51	31	9'11"	4.47	7.48	DNP	10 1/8	33	75 5/8
98	Marquez Cooper	San Diego State	5062	193	4.97	2.88	1.71	28	8'8"	4.58	7.34	16	8 7/8	29	68 3/4
99	Kelley Joiner	South Florida	5074	192	4.56	2.62	1.59	34	10'2"	4.56	7.17	13	9	29 1/2	70 7/8
100	Daquon Kincey	Alabama State	5096	219	4.79	2.78	1.63	28	8'10"	4.56	7.62	14	8 3/4	31 3/8	73 1/4
101	Kaleb Monaco	Indiana Univ. of Pa.	5077	196	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	28 3/8	69 1/4
102	Demie Sumo-Karngbaye	Kentucky	5107	207	4.73	2.66	1.62	29	9'10"	4.35	7.20	14	9 1/2	30 1/8	73 1/2
103	Delbert Mimms III	Eastern Michigan	5105	219	4.75	2.69	1.63	29 1/2	9'2"	4.37	7.13	17	9 1/2	30	72 3/4
104	Tyler Echeverry	Mount Union	5087	186	4.52	2.64	1.58	35 1/2	9'11"	4.39	7.15	16	8 3/8	30 3/8	71 3/8
105	Deion Hankins	Texas State	5105	222	4.53	2.63	1.56	35 1/2	10'2"	4.48	7.48	18	9 3/4	31 3/8	77 3/4
106	Rontavious Farmer	St. Thomas (Fla.)	5091	194	4.57	2.61	1.58	31 1/2	9'8"	4.58	7.08	11	9 1/8	28 7/8	70 5/8
107	Ahmani Marshall	Appalachian State	6011	225	4.60	2.68	1.59	32	10'0"	4.51	7.43	19	9 1/8	33 1/8	77 3/4
108	Rushawn Baker	Elon	5107	218	4.52	2.56	1.52	38 1/2	10'0"	4.51	7.07	21	9 3/4	32 1/4	79
109	Jaden Sutton	Delaware State	5112	216	4.59	2.64	1.59	33 1/2	10'0"	4.42	DNP	17	8 3/4	32	76
110	Donovan Eaglin	Alabama A&M	5114	227	4.75	2.75	1.63	28	9'3"	4.60	7.63	1	8 1/8	31	75 3/8
111	Rahjai Harris	East Carolina	5094	207	4.77	2.75	1.62	28	9'7"	4.51	7.35	11	8 3/4	30 1/4	74 1/2
112	Devyn Ford	Notre Dame	5107	189	4.67	2.69	1.63	34	9'9"	4.33	7.13	12	8 3/4	31 1/8	72 3/4
113	Gavin Williams	Northern Illinois	5111	216	4.79	2.70	1.66	32	9'3"	4.55	7.28	11	9	31 1/8	72 5/8
114	Tyvon Edmonds Jr.	Robert Morris	5055	177	4.69	2.81	1.67	32 1/2	9'0"	4.30	7.10	10	8 1/2	28 1/8	75 1/4
115	D'Angelo Durham	McNeese State	6003	202	4.69	2.81	1.63	32	9'8"	4.60	7.10	13	9 1/8	31	75 1/2
116	Keaundre McCullough	William Jewell	5073	191	4.57	2.62	1.53	27	9'4"	4.53	7.40	13	9	29 3/8	69 3/4
117	Ryan Gomes	Westminster (Pa.)	5073	180	4.69	2.75	1.65	33 1/2	9'4"	4.64	7.30	DNP	8 1/8	30	69 3/4
118	Nick Ostmo	Montana	5113	223	4.55	2.70	1.64	34	9'11"	4.38	7.15	25	9 1/4	29 1/4	72 3/8
119	Rodrigues Clark	Southern Miss	5103	208	4.70	2.65	1.65	34 1/2	9'5"	4.59	7.51	20	9 1/8	31	73 1/4
120	Matt Brantley	Utica	5087	205	4.69	2.75	1.65	31 1/2	10'5"	4.35	7.25	21	9	29 1/4	73 1/8
121	Dwayne McGee	Mercer	5062	174	4.77	2.76	1.70	29	8'7"	4.59	7.35	DNP	9 5/8	29 3/4	72 1/4
122	Isaiah Smith	North Dakota	5100	208	4.64	2.66	1.60	30	9'9"	4.52	7.50	19	9 1/4	31 7/8	74 5/8
123	Billy Lucas	Liberty	5103	207	4.89	2.79	1.65	30 1/2	9'10"	DNP	DNP	18	8 3/8	29 3/8	72
124	Lexington Joseph	Florida International	5081	214	4.77	2.68	1.65	30	8'7"	4.58	7.34	14	8 5/8	30 3/4	72
125	Izayah Boss	Minnesota Morris	5070	191	4.67	2.66	1.62	36	9'3"	4.22	7.12	17	8 7/8	29	71 3/4
126	Kylin James	UNLV	5111	226	4.45	2.59	1.61	36	9'11"	4.76	7.70	14	9 1/4	30 7/8	75
127	Tyrell Greene Jr.	Towson	5100	200	4.64	2.76	1.64	30 1/2	10'1"	4.62	DNP	24	8 5/8	30 1/2	73 3/4
128	Jermaine Corbett	Merrimack	5063	185	4.67	DNP	1.57	33 1/2	9'1"	4.32	7.07	13	8 7/8	28 1/8	71 1/2
129	Khalan Griffin	Lamar	5090	200	4.57	2.64	1.70	32	9'3"	4.31	7.18	12	8 7/8	30	71 1/4
130	Jaden AlfanoStJohn	SUNY Cortland	5106	202	4.64	2.62	1.67	35	10'1"	4.75	7.46	15	8 1/2	30 3/8	74
131	Marcus Williams	Mississippi College	5083	202	4.77	2.75	1.67	DNP	9'7"	4.55	7.52	DNP	9 3/8	30	73 7/8
132	Bronson Yoder	William & Mary	5102	198	4.68	2.68	1.55	29 1/2	9'5"	4.34	7.00	15	8 3/8	29	71 1/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
133	Ty Wiley	Northern State	5097	169	4.63	2.71	1.65	26 1/2	9'5"	4.82	7.80	DNP	8	29 1/4	69 1/4
134	Christopher Ais	New Haven	5114	207	4.69	2.71	1.60	33 1/2	9'8"	4.31	7.22	21	9 1/2	30 7/8	73 3/4
135	Devin Matthews	Towson	5087	195	4.71	2.75	1.70	32 1/2	9'10"	4.52	7.52	DNP	9 1/8	29 5/8	74 1/4
136	B.J. Harris	Central Michigan	5090	191	4.65	2.77	1.59	29 1/2	9'1"	4.65	7.31	8	8 3/8	29 3/4	71 1/2
137	Michel Dukes	Georgia State	5096	187	4.70	2.75	1.60	31 1/2	9'4"	4.26	7.02	12	9	30 1/4	73 5/8
138	Jaren Mangham	Minnesota	6014	229	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8'6"	4.35	7.09	11	9 1/4	31	76 5/8
139	Myren Harris	Davenport	5090	213	4.59	2.60	1.53	37	9'11"	4.44	7.00	19	9	30 1/2	72 7/8
140	Caleb Driskill	Wyoming	6004	250	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	29 5/8	72 1/2
141	Kobe Johnson	Colorado State	5087	184	4.45	2.62	1.60	32	10'1"	4.47	7.33	DNP	8 5/8	30 3/8	71 7/8
142	Juju McDowell	South Carolina	5072	182	4.50	2.62	1.46	37	9'8"	4.23	7.08	27	8 3/4	29	70 3/4
143	KJ Howard	Lock Haven	5054	174	4.50	2.62	1.61	38	10'8"	4.34	7.17	DNP	8 3/4	27 7/8	68 3/8
144	Kobe Pace	Virginia	5096	205	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	14	9 1/4	31 3/4	74 3/8
145	Patrick Smith	UT Martin	5082	185	4.61	2.71	1.51	31 1/2	10'1"	4.37	7.26	DNP	8 7/8	29 1/2	69 7/8
146	Daniel Carter	Pittsburgh	5096	225	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
147	Kendel Givens	Ouachita Baptist	5064	200	4.71	2.68	1.58	31 1/2	9'8"	DNP	DNP	22	8 1/2	28 5/8	69 5/8
148	Kelvin Smith	Delta State	5075	208	4.78	2.77	1.63	DNP	9'7"	4.45	7.37	DNP	9 3/8	30	72 5/8
149	Daniyel Ngata	Washington	5081	198	4.68	2.69	1.59	34	9'9"	4.22	7.11	15	9	30	73 3/4
150	Bryson Irby	East Tennessee State	5100	203	4.64	2.69	1.63	33 1/2	9'10"	4.53	7.31	15	9 7/8	30 3/4	74 3/4
151	Myles Bailey	Central Michigan	5086	227	4.77	2.81	1.56	28 1/2	9'3"	4.47	7.37	13	9 1/2	30 1/4	74 5/8
152	Jarett Hunter	Howard	5083	204	4.57	2.59	1.50	38	9'9"	4.40	7.26	12	8 3/4	30 1/4	72 5/8
153	Keyon Mozee	Miami (OH)	5067	180	4.51	2.58	1.51	34 1/2	10'6"	4.10	6.82	13	8 7/8	28	68 7/8
154	Keilon Elder	Grambling	5073	211	4.64	2.72	1.63	38 1/2	10'2"	4.51	7.40	15	9 1/8	30	72 3/8
155	Bry Webb	West Alabama	5085	191	4.67	2.73	1.58	32 1/2	10'0"	4.44	7.31	8	8 5/8	30 1/4	71 1/2
156	Gerald Green	Troy	5080	198	DNP	DNP	DNP	34 1/2	10'5"	DNP	DNP	18	8 7/8	30 1/2	74
157	Jamal Johnson	Bowling Green	5100	203	4.67	2.65	1.69	33 1/2	9'6"	4.44	7.32	23	9 1/2	30	73 3/8
158	Zahir Abdus-Salaam	Western Michigan	5082	195	4.77	2.73	1.70	32	9'2"	4.57	7.25	16	9 1/2	30 1/8	71 1/8
159	Howard Russell V	CSU Pueblo	5113	192	4.62	2.69	1.71	32 1/2	9'9"	4.31	7.76	17	9	31	73 7/8
160	Jordan Castleberry	Akron	5052	182	4.77	2.80	1.64	31	9'4"	4.57	7.25	17	8 5/8	28 3/8	67 1/2
161	Deon Silas	Rhode Island	5044	180	4.56	DNP	1.54	36	9'8"	4.36	7.41	14	8 1/2	27 3/4	66
162	Brandon Cade	Berry	5090	188	4.72	2.75	1.71	36 1/2	10'4"	4.49	7.25	22	10 1/2	31 1/8	74
163	Justin Edwards	Claremont-M-S	5090	211	4.73	2.75	1.56	35 1/2	9'10"	4.35	7.20	23	9 7/8	28 3/4	72 1/4
164	Kelvin Dean	Florida A&M	5103	202	4.74	2.79	1.70	34	9'10"	4.45	7.27	DNP	8 5/8	32 5/8	76 1/4
165	Curtis Hosea	Rockford	5092	233	4.84	2.77	1.74	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	31 1/2	75 3/8
166	Jalen Mitchell	Tennessee Tech	5096	210	4.63	2.70	1.65	38 1/2	10'7"	4.29	7.47	22	8 3/4	31 1/4	75
167	Donald Austin	Idaho State	5102	207	4.77	2.77	1.66	30 1/2	9'5"	4.65	7.14	19	9 3/8	27 7/8	71
168	Johnny Richardson	UCF	5063	168	4.59	2.64	1.55	32	9'2"	4.35	7.13	DNP	9 1/4	28 1/2	69 1/2
169	Chaz Ward	Louisiana	5110	234	4.83	2.83	1.72	30 1/2	9'3"	4.40	7.25	12	9 1/8	31	74 5/8
170	Moni Jones	Vanderbilt	5117	219	4.90	2.78	1.67	28	9'5"	4.52	7.27	14	8 3/4	31 5/8	73 1/4
171	Idris Lawrence	Slippery Rock	5086	188	4.78	2.72	1.72	30 1/2	9'7"	4.44	7.26	10	8 1/8	31	72
172	Brandon Marshall	Fort Valley State	5061	166	4.78	2.76	1.64	28	8'6"	4.61	7.25	15	8 1/8	28 1/4	68 1/4
173	Jaylon Jackson	Iowa State	5063	182	4.57	2.65	1.57	31	9'3"	4.39	7.10	16	8 1/2	28 3/4	68 5/8
174	Velton Gardner	Texas	5080	192	4.75	2.66	1.59	DNP	DNP	4.75	7.50	DNP	8 1/4	28 3/4	70 1/2
175	Amauri Pesek-Hickson	Northern Iowa	5116	236	4.70	2.63	1.60	37 1/2	10'0"	4.45	6.94	16	8 3/4	30 3/4	75 1/2
176	Jeremiah Bryant	Cumberland (Tenn.)	5075	218	4.87	2.88	1.72	29	9'2"	4.68	7.45	15	9 3/8	31 1/4	73 7/8
177	Keshawn Wicks	Florida A&M	5116	193	4.76	2.68	1.61	33	10'2"	4.59	7.90	11	8 7/8	32 1/4	76
178	Colby McDonald	Maryland	5097	207	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	28 1/2	70 1/2
179	Darien Gill	NW Oklahoma State	5071	171	4.73	2.71	1.58	30	9'4"	4.31	7.20	10	8 7/8	29	69
180	Trey Sanders	TCU	5116	215	4.80	2.74	1.72	28 1/2	9'0"	4.60	7.47	DNP	9 3/8	31	76 1/2
181	Patrick Charles	Judson	5074	190	4.87	2.86	1.71	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	28 5/8	71 3/8
182	AJ Gates Jr.	Alabama State	5052	170	4.65	2.72	1.62	26 1/2	8'11"	4.37	7.19	DNP	8 5/8	28 1/2	68 7/8
183	Daba Fofana	Navy	5067	209	4.61	2.69	1.64	30	9'7"	4.41	7.30	26	9 1/2	30 1/8	71

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
184	Jalen Madison	Sacred Heart	5071	186	4.70	2.71	1.65	32 1/2	9'5"	4.37	7.16	15	9	31	71 1/8
185	Rahmir Johnson	Nebraska	5095	201	4.55	2.66	1.67	32	9'7"	4.28	7.22	19	9	30 5/8	74
186	J.J. Davis	Morgan State	5082	182	4.63	2.70	1.60	32 1/2	9'2"	4.35	7.37	14	8 5/8	32 1/4	73 1/8
187	Damonta Witherspoon	Samford	5080	206	4.82	2.78	1.63	34	10'0"	4.63	7.70	18	9 1/4	29 1/8	73 3/8
188	TK Marshall	North Dakota State	5117	205	4.62	2.70	1.63	35 1/2	9'11"	4.39	7.03	19	9	30 3/8	73 3/4
189	Jaylin Richardson	Concordia St. Paul	5110	214	4.88	2.75	1.65	32	9'0"	4.50	7.45	16	8 1/8	30 5/8	73 5/8
190	Ta'Ron Keith	South Florida	5080	186	4.60	2.73	1.62	33	10'8"	4.55	7.37	15	8 5/8	30 1/2	73
191	Darwin Barlow	North Carolina	5113	223	4.58	2.62	1.60	30 1/2	9'2"	4.54	7.39	23	9 1/2	29 5/8	73 1/2
192	Chauncey Martin	Harding	5097	210	4.64	2.73	1.59	33 1/2	10'0"	4.27	7.22	21	9	30 3/4	73 3/4
193	Jaharie Martin	Maine	5103	220	4.85	DNP	1.58	37	9'9"	4.54	7.59	26	8 1/4	30 1/2	74 1/2
194	Gabe Sloat	Rhode Island	5117	195	4.66	DNP	1.59	35	9'9"	4.25	6.97	13	9 7/8	29 1/2	74 1/8
195	Jakobe Thomas	Mississippi Valley	5097	222	4.82	2.82	1.69	DNP	9'2"	4.64	7.68	DNP	8 1/2	30 3/4	73 5/8
196	Demarcus Jones II	NC State	5094	214	4.87	2.81	1.60	31	9'1"	4.51	7.22	22	8 1/8	31 5/8	72 5/8
197	Elijah Burris	Hampton	5081	205	4.84	2.77	1.65	29 1/2	9'0"	4.66	7.56	17	9 3/8	30 1/4	71 1/2
198	Rajaez Mosley	West Georgia	5060	194	4.78	2.82	1.69	30	8'8"	4.66	7.47	20	8 1/2	29	70 3/4
199	Ethan Payne	Marshall	6003	222	4.86	2.75	1.63	30	8'11"	4.68	7.51	14	9 1/8	30 1/8	72 3/8
200	Korien Burrell	CSU Pueblo	5101	225	4.89	2.88	1.76	27 1/2	8'7"	4.65	7.50	17	8 1/2	31 3/8	73 3/4
201	Derrel Kelley III	Tarleton State	5085	195	4.65	2.63	1.70	29 1/2	9'4"	4.47	7.72	18	7 3/4	29 3/8	71
202	Caden Meis	Northern Colorado	5087	207	4.89	2.88	1.63	32	8'10"	4.46	7.13	15	8 5/8	29	71 3/8
203	Cam Carroll	Florida	5114	224	5.00	2.79	1.75	29 1/2	9'6"	4.78	7.60	18	9	31 5/8	77 7/8
204	Jordan Lowe	Kent State	5066	214	4.64	2.70	1.56	28 1/2	9'2"	4.47	7.35	17	8 3/4	30	72 5/8
205	Jalynnee McGee	Portland State	5092	216	4.87	2.87	1.67	30	9'5"	4.55	7.62	17	9 1/4	31 3/4	75
206	Cortezz Jones	Lindenwood	5112	241	4.72	2.71	1.71	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 5/8	31 5/8	77
207	Cole Fisher	Baker	5090	195	4.89	2.82	1.71	28 1/2	8'5"	4.65	7.51	9	8 1/8	27 3/8	67 5/8
208	Scooter Adams	Prairie View A&M	5074	167	4.62	2.70	1.52	31 1/2	10'0"	4.67	7.80	6	8 7/8	32	72 1/4
209	Jaheim Morris	Millersville	5084	218	4.83	2.75	1.57	DNP	8'10"	4.66	7.70	19	7 3/4	29 1/8	70 3/4
210	Jack Carey	Rockford	5100	204	4.89	2.87	1.73	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/4	29 3/4	70 1/4
211	Jada Byers	Virginia Union	5062	190	4.78	2.75	1.68	29	9'0"	4.58	7.26	10	8 3/4	29	70 1/8
212	Michael Benefield	Kennesaw State	5066	208	4.84	2.81	1.68	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	18	9 5/8	29 3/8	71 1/8
213	CJ Beasley	Georgia State	5085	196	4.82	2.91	1.69	29	9'0"	4.46	7.41	16	9 3/4	29 1/4	71 3/4
214	Tre Peterson	Yale	5076	185	4.74	2.66	1.60	27	9'6"	4.50	7.57	10	8 3/8	29 1/8	70 3/4
215	Jalen Henderson	West Alabama	5092	200	4.87	2.81	1.63	31 1/2	9'8"	4.80	7.88	10	9 1/8	30 3/4	75 3/4
216	Justice Jackson	Idaho State	5110	229	5.00	2.81	1.58	28	8'10"	4.50	7.78	DNP	8 7/8	29 7/8	71 1/8

WIDE RECEIVERS

WIDE RECEIVERS

	NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1.	TETAIROA MCMILLAN	Arizona	1st	3JR	6041	213	4.53 (1.58)	10	31 3/4	78 1/8	22.05
2.	MATTHEW GOLDEN	Texas	1st-2nd	3JR	5110	191	4.29 (1.47)	9 3/8	30 3/4	76 3/8	21.73
3.	LUTHER BURDEN III	Missouri	1st-2nd	3JR	6000	206	4.41 (1.55)	8 1/2	31 1/4	76 1/2	21.36
4.	EMEKA EGBUKA	Ohio State	1st-2nd	4SR	6007	201	4.48 (1.50)	9 5/8	31 1/2	76 5/8	22.53
5.	JAYLIN NOEL	Iowa State	2nd	4SR	5102	194	4.39 (1.52)	9	29 1/2	73 3/4	22.64
6.	JAYDEN HIGGINS	Iowa State	2nd	4SR	6042	214	4.47 (1.54)	9 1/8	33 3/4	80	22.36
7.	JALEN ROYALS	Utah State	2nd-3rd	4SR	6001	205	4.42 (1.53)	9 1/2	30 7/8	73 7/8	22.18
8.	TRE HARRIS	Ole Miss	2nd-3rd	5SR	6023	205	4.54 (1.57)	9 5/8	31 7/8	78 1/2	23.15
9.	JACK BECH	TCU	2nd-3rd	4SR	6012	214	DNP (DNP)	9	31 1/2	75	22.35
10.	ISAAH BOND	Texas	3rd	3JR	5105	185	4.37 (1.52)	8 1/2	30 1/2	76	21.11
11.	ELIC AYOMANOR	Stanford	3rd	3SO	6016	206	4.44 (1.56)	10	32 3/4	78 1/2	21.89
12.	KYLE WILLIAMS	Washington State	3rd	5SR	5105	190	4.40 (1.53)	8 3/4	30 1/8	73	22.44
13.	TORY HORTON	Colorado State	3rd-4th	5SR	6024	196	4.41 (1.53)	9	30 5/8	77	22.40
14.	SAVION WILLIAMS	TCU	3rd-4th	5SR	6037	222	4.48 (1.60)	10 1/4	32 1/2	80 7/8	23.42
15.	JAYLIN LANE	Virginia Tech	4th	5SR	5096	191	4.34 (1.53)	9 7/8	32 1/4	77 1/4	22.98
16.	TEZ JOHNSON	Oregon	4th	5SR	5097	154	4.51 (1.58)	9	30 1/8	74	22.93
17.	KEANDRE LAMBERT-SMITH	Auburn	4th-5th	5SR	6006	190	4.37 (1.52)	9 1/8	32 5/8	78 5/8	23.52
18.	CHIMERE DIKE	Florida	4th-5th	5SR	6006	196	4.34 (1.51)	9 1/8	32 1/8	76 7/8	23.36
19.	TAI FELTON	Maryland	4th-5th	4SR	6011	183	4.37 (1.54)	9	30	72 1/2	22.11
20.	ARIAN SMITH	Georgia	5th	5SR	6003	179	4.36 (1.57)	9 1/8	31 1/2	77	23.53
21.	PAT BRYANT	Illinois	5th	4SR	6022	204	4.61 (1.62)	9 1/2	31 1/8	78	22.37
22.	NICK NASH	San Jose State	5th	7SR	6024	203	4.57 (1.60)	8 7/8	31 3/8	76 1/2	25.79
23.	DONT'E THORNTON JR.	Tennessee	5th-6th	4SR	6045	205	4.30 (1.51)	9 5/8	32 1/4	79	22.40
24.	ISAAC TESLAA	Arkansas	5th-6th	5SR	6035	214	4.43 (1.57)	10	32 1/4	76 3/4	23.17
25.	XAVIER RESTREPO	Miami	5th-6th	5SR	5095	202	4.85 (1.69)	9 1/8	29 5/8	72 1/8	23.03
26.	RICKY WHITE III	UNLV	5th-6th	5SR	6011	181	4.50 (1.58)	9 1/4	31 3/4	76 1/2	23.21
27.	BRU MCCOY	Tennessee	6th	6SR	6024	209	DNP (DNP)	10	32 1/8	78 1/2	24.84
28.	ISAAH NEYOR	Nebraska	6th	6SR	6042	218	4.40 (1.56)	9 7/8	34 1/2	83 1/2	23.88
29.	JORDAN WATKINS	Ole Miss	6th	5SR	5112	196	4.37 (1.53)	9 1/2	31 1/8	73 3/8	23.19
30.	KONATA MUMPFIELD	Pittsburgh	6th-7th	4SR	5113	186	4.59 (1.62)	8 1/2	29 7/8	74 3/8	22.50
31.	DOMINIC LOVETT	Georgia	6th-7th	4SR	5102	185	4.40 (1.55)	9 1/4	31 1/2	75 5/8	22.46
32.	JIMMY HORN JR.	Colorado	6th-7th	4SR	5081	174	4.46 (1.60)	8 3/4	30 7/8	74 1/2	22.61
33.	ELIJHAH BADGER	Florida	7th	5SR	6013	200	4.43 (1.54)	9 1/2	32 1/8	78 5/8	23.69
34.	KOBE HUDSON	UCF	FA	5SR	6006	193	4.57 (1.62)	9	30 5/8	75 1/4	23.62
35.	LAJOHNTAY WESTER	Colorado	FA	5SR	5097	163	4.46 (1.58)	8 5/8	29 3/4	72 5/8	23.07
36.	JA'COREY BROOKS	Louisville	FA	4SR	6020	188	4.65 (1.56)	9 1/4	31 7/8	76 5/8	23.48
37.	DANIEL JACKSON	Minnesota	FA	5SR	5104	194	4.63 (1.60)	9 3/8	31	74	23.00
38.	ANDREW ARMSTRONG	Arkansas	FA	6SR	6036	204	4.50 (1.56)	9 5/8	32 1/2	79 1/2	24.48
39.	SAM BROWN JR.	Miami	FA	5SR	6023	200	4.44 (1.51)	9 1/2	32	77 7/8	22.69
40.	KADEN PRATHER	Maryland	FA	4SR	6034	204	4.46 (1.59)	9 3/8	31 7/8	77 5/8	22.63
41.	DA'QUAN FELTON	Virginia Tech	FA	6SR	6045	214	4.50 (1.60)	9 1/2	32 1/4	79 3/4	24.28
42.	BEAUX COLLINS	Notre Dame	FA	4SR	6031	198	4.54 (1.59)	9 1/2	31 7/8	79 1/2	22.35
43.	ANTWANE WELLS JR.	Ole Miss	FA	6SR	6006	201	4.58 (1.61)	8 7/8	32 5/8	77 1/4	24.06
44.	JACOLBY GEORGE	Miami	FA	4SR	5112	174	4.60 (1.62)	9 1/2	32	75 1/2	22.24
45.	THEO WEASE JR.	Missouri	FA	6SR	6030	200	4.56 (1.63)	9 5/8	32 3/4	78 3/8	23.83

NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
46. EFTON CHISM III	Eastern Washington	FA	5SR	5104	193	4.71 (1.62)	9	30 1/2	73 1/2	23.49
47. WILL SHEPPARD	Colorado	FA	5SR	6026	203	4.59 (1.58)	10	32	77 3/4	23.20
48. JACKSON MEEKS	Syracuse	FA	4SR	6017	213	4.64 (1.62)	9 5/8	32	76 3/4	22.08
49. ROC TAYLOR	Memphis	FA	4SR	6017	213	4.49 (1.57)	9 1/4	33	78 5/8	22.58
50. TRAESHON HOLDEN	Oregon	FA	5SR	6021	205	4.57 (1.61)	9 7/8	32 1/2	79 1/2	23.70
51. JOSH KELLY	Texas Tech	FA	6SR	6006	186	4.70 (1.64)	10 1/2	31	76 5/8	23.81
52. DYMERIE MILLER	Rutgers	FA	5SR	5106	181	4.37 (DNP)	8 5/8	32	76 1/2	23.90
53. MAC DALENA	Fresno State	FA	5SR	5095	180	4.41 (DNP)	9 1/4	28 5/8	70	23.55

WR1 Tetairoa McMillan

Arizona, 3JR

HOMETOWN Waimanalo, HI	HIGH SCHOOL Servite	BIRTHDAY Apr 05, 2003	AGE 22.05	HT 6041	WT 213	NUM #4
---------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Tetairoa (tet-uh-row-uh) "T-Mac" McMillan, was born and raised in Hawaii in a large Polynesian family. Before middle school, his family relocated to Southern California, and he started playing Pop Warner football, initially as a linebacker and cornerback. He also started playing volleyball, a sport his mother (Shawny) played in college. In eighth grade, McMillan joined a youth football team, the Orange County Buckeyes, as a wide receiver and bonded with quarterback Noah Fifita, who also has a Polynesian background. The Buckeyes (a program created and coached by Fifita's father, Les) won a 14U national title in 2017. McMillan and Fifita also competed together on the Turn Up 7-on-7 squad.

McMillan (and Fifita) enrolled at Servite High, an all-boys prep school in Anaheim, Calif., which has produced several NFL players, such as Trent McDuffie, Ryan Kalil, Matt Kalil and others. McMillan was also in the same Servite graduating class as Michigan DT Mason Graham. He initially played on the freshman team in his first season (as a receiver and safety) before a season-ending collarbone injury. McMillan moved up to varsity as a sophomore and caught passes from Fifita, finishing with 65 receptions for 851 yards and 12 touchdowns. He was the only sophomore to make the 2019 all-county first team. As a junior, he was named Orange County Male Athlete of the Year, with 26 catches for 487 yards and four touchdowns during a 2020 abbreviated because of the COVID-19 pandemic. As a senior, McMillan earned first-team all-state honors for the second straight season (88 receptions for 1,302 yards and 18 touchdowns), as he led Servite to a 10-3 record and the third round of the 2021 Division I state playoffs (lost to Mater Dei). He was named 2021 Polynesian High School Player of the Year and 2022 California State Player of the Year. From his freshman year on, McMillan juggled being a multisport athlete — he started on the basketball team in December and January, then played volleyball in February and March. McMillan earned second-team all-conference honors in volleyball as a freshman and as a junior helped lead Servite to the Division II championship match.

A four-star recruit, McMillan was the fifth-ranked wide receiver in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in California. He was ranked as the No. 51 recruit nationally. Even before he became a standout on varsity, his recruitment blew up during the spring of his freshman season, when he received an initial offer from Nevada, followed by offers from Arizona State, BYU, Hawaii, Nebraska, Oregon, Oregon State and Utah (all in May 2019). As a sophomore, McMillan added offers from Florida, Miami, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Penn State, Stanford and Texas. He announced a final three of Arizona, Oregon and USC before committing to the Ducks (Aug. 2021). McMillan has grown up a fan of Marcus Mariota, so Oregon was dream school. But when Mario Cristobal left Eugene for the Miami head-coaching job in December 2021, McMillan had second thoughts about his commitment.

When his "best friend" Fifita and other Servite teammates (tight end Keyan Burnett and linebacker Jacob Manu) committed to Arizona, McMillan flipped to the Wildcats. He was the top-ranked recruit in former head coach Jedd Fisch's 2022 class and the highest-ranked recruit in program history. McMillan could have cashed in on lucrative NIL opportunities via the transfer portal after the 2023 season, but he wanted to play one more season with Fifita. He skipped his senior season to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2022: (12/9)	39	702	18.00	8	3	Led all FBS freshman in receiving; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	90	1,402	15.58	10	2	Third Team All-American; Second Team All-Pac-12; led team in receiving; 21-yard TD pass
2024: (12/12)	84	1,319	15.70	8	7	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big 12; led Big 12 in receiving yards
Total: (37/34)	213	3,423	16.07	26	12

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6041	219	10	31 1/2	77 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout — choice
PRO DAY	6041	213	9 7/8	31 3/4	78 1/8	4.53	2.62	1.58	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, long and limber athlete with a volleyball background
- Exceptional ball skills and consistently stabs away from his body with large hands
- Massive catch radius, with the length and body control to contort his frame to off-target throws
- Catch-point focus looks the same whether he's wide open or in a crowd
- Consistently works back to the pass, instead of waiting for it
- Finishes catches strong to the ground
- Galloping route strides help him reach top speed quickly
- Light feet to cleanly sink and pivot at top of route
- Heightened awareness along sideline to get his feet down inbounds
- Slippery after the catch — has a knack for hitting the brakes post-catch and smoothly redirecting away from pursuit
- Terrific run balance as a ball carrier (No. 3 among FBS receivers with 28 forced missed tackles in 2024)
- Average sustain strength but uses his body well to shield as a blocker
- Sells "NALO" apparel, which refers both to his hometown (Waimanola) and his personal motto ("Negative Attitudes Lose Opportunities")
- Durable — didn't miss a game in his three seasons at Arizona (37 games)
- Ranked No. 1 all-time at Arizona in receiving yards (3,423), No. 3 in touchdown grabs (26) and No. 4 in catches (213)

WEAKNESSES:

- Needs to continue adding bulk and strength to slender frame
- Physical press corners will be a new challenge for him
- Average deep speed and lacks pull-away gear
- Simplistic route tree in college and pattern manipulation needs further maturation
- Many of his big plays on tape came outside of route structure on scramble drills
- Tends to be loose with ball post-catch and needs better security as a runner (two career fumbles)
- Too many passive blocking reps on tape and struggles to sustain on screens
- Acknowledged bad body language had to be addressed during 2024 struggles (McMillan: "I had to fix it and grow up.")

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Arizona, McMillan flexed across the formation (78.1 percent of snaps wide, 21.6 percent slot) in the Wildcats' spread scheme (Dino Babers and Matt Adkins shared play-calling duties in 2024). While catching passes from his longtime best friend, Noah Fifita, the Hawaiian native was one of the most productive players in college football over the past two seasons — he led the FBS in combined receiving yards (2,721), first downs (112) and catches of 20 yards or more (42).

Showing off his volleyball and basketball background, McMillan shines at the catch point and uses his Gumby-like body-adjustment skills to frame the football with his hands, regardless of the placement or action required. With heavy helpings of slants, hitches and go routes on tape, he is at his best when he can stretch out his stride. He has the feet of a smaller athlete but will need time to expand his route tree and pacing to avoid giving away subtle hints that savvy NFL corners will notice. Overall, McMillan is only average in the speed and separation categories, but he is a long and limber athlete with exceptional tracking and ball-winning instincts. He fits the Tee Higgins mold as a unique playmaker, because of his size and catch-point skills.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 12 overall)

WR2 Matthew Golden

Texas, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Houston, TX	Klein Cain	Aug 01, 2003	21.73	5110	191	#2

BACKGROUND: Matthew Golden was born and raised in Houston and primarily lived with his mother (Alicia), who is a former track athlete, and grandmother. The family sometimes was forced to live in hotels and other housing (Golden: "The way we grew up keeps me motivated and driven."). Golden also has two younger sisters on his father's side. He was introduced to football by his uncle (Major) and started playing at age 6. He was primarily a running back in youth football, although he saw time at quarterback and wide receiver. Golden also played AAU basketball during the summers and grew up playing the drums at his church.

Golden enrolled at Klein Cain High in Harris County, where he was a three-year letterman and played with future Longhorns teammate Jaydon Blue. After playing on the freshman team, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore and made an immediate impact, setting the school record with four touchdown catches in his first game. Golden finished that 2019 season with 50 catches for 799 yards and 13 touchdowns (also had a punt return touchdown), which earned him first-team all-district honors. As a junior, he helped the program to an 8-3 finish with 43 receptions for 1,027 yards (23.9 average) and seven touchdowns.

Golden had his best season as a senior (74 catches for 1,416 yards and 12 touchdowns), earning honorable mention all-state and first-team all-district for the third straight year. He also had a 43-yard pass and an interception, as Klein Cain finished 9-3 and advanced to the second round of the 2021 6A state playoffs. Golden was also a standout track athlete in high school — he and Blue teamed up on a relay team that won districts in 2021. Golden had personal bests of 10.93 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.70 in the 200 and 21 feet, 9 inches in the long jump.

A four-star recruit, Golden was the 29th-ranked wide receiver in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 34 recruit in Texas. Once he moved up to varsity as a sophomore, college recruiters quickly took notice — he received his first offer from Tulsa midway through the 2019 season. As a junior, Golden picked up offers from the Power 5 conferences, including the SEC (Arkansas) and Big Ten (Indiana, Wisconsin). After visiting Fort Worth the summer before his senior year, he committed to TCU in June 2021. However, he reopened his commitment toward the end of his senior season and added offers from LSU, Texas and Jackson State. In the end, Golden decided to stay home and committed to Houston (Golden: "Those other schools came in too late. I already had a good relationship with the Houston coaches").

He was the top-ranked recruit in former head coach Dana Holgorsen's 2022 class and the third-highest ranked recruit in the history of the program (behind Ed Oliver and Deontay Greenberry). After Holgorsen was fired, Golden entered the transfer portal in December 2023 and quickly heard from Georgia, LSU and Miami, and he decided he wanted to play in the SEC for his final season. Seeing how Texas used the wide receivers in its offense in 2023, he committed to the Longhorns. After one season in Austin, he skipped his senior season to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2022: (11/8)	38	584	15.37	7	4	Houston; missed two games (ribs); set freshman school record for receiving TDs; enrolled January 2022
2023: (9/9)	38	404	10.63	6	6	Houston; Second Team All-Big 12 (KR); 100-yard KR TD; 98-yard KR TD; missed final three games (turf toe)
2024: (16/16)	58	987	17.02	9	4	Texas; led team in receiving
Total: (36/33)	134	1,975	14.74	22	14

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5110	191	9 1/2	30 5/8	76 3/8	4.29	2.49	1.47	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Only ran one 40 run (choice)
PRO DAY	5110	193	9 3/8	30 3/4	75 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Average size measurables but doesn't play small
- Graceful athlete with outstanding control in release and route breaks
- Uses different techniques to make corner feel his presence, opening comebacks and curls (favorite route is a 14-yard curl)
- Stem burst creates separation on posts and corners
- Above-average focus at catch point with fast, steady hands
- Superb body control to turn and frame the football mid-air
- Tracks ball well downfield (often had to slow and adjust his track with Quinn Ewers' deep balls)
- Much stronger than expected, especially when finishing catches through contact
- Impressive awareness post-catch, immediately changing run angles to make first man miss
- Averaged at least 20.0 yards per catch in 10 of 16 games in 2024
- Returned two kickoffs for touchdowns in 2023; career 25.8 yards per kick return (28 attempts for 722 yards and two touchdowns)
- Very self-confident and embraces competition (emerged as top option in Texas' talent-rich wide receiver room in 2024)
- Coaches trusted him to play every wide receiver position in the playbook

WEAKNESSES:

- Not a dynamic make-you-miss athlete in space (doesn't always play up to his timed speed)
- Can get stuck at top of routes when facing physical defensive backs
- Inconsistent blocker and can get blasted off his spot (NFL scout: "I won't kill him for it, but (I) need to see more grit outta him when he isn't the target.")
- Didn't play on special teams coverages (aside from kickoff returns)
- Missed two games as freshman after suffering rib injury (Oct. 2022); missed final three games of sophomore season (Nov. 2023) because of turf toe injury that required surgery

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas, Golden was the Z receiver in head coach Steve Sarkisian's RPO pro-style spread offense and was used across the formation with heavy motions (76.1 percent of snaps wide, 23.9 percent in the slot). After two promising seasons in Houston's Air Raid scheme, he was an underrated addition for the Longhorns in 2024 and proved especially valuable when it mattered most, averaging 102.8 receiving yards over his final four games (SEC championship and three playoff games).

Fluid in and out of his breaks, Golden shows a plan as a route runner — I love his ability to break down corners by keeping his eyes, hips and feet in sync. That coordination also translates to the catch point with his very natural ball skills to track, frame and finish. Overall, it might bother some teams that he doesn't have better size, but Golden also doesn't have any glaring flaws to his game that would keep him from becoming a productive pro. He can play inside or outside and become the go-to target for an NFL offense.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 15 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
St. Louis, MO	East	Dec 12, 2003	21.36	6000	206	#3

BACKGROUND: Luther Burden III, the only boy of 10 children (eight older sisters, one younger sister), grew up in a neighborhood called "The Ville" in inner-city St. Louis. His mother is Gaye Union. His father (Luther Jr.) was a star guard on the St. Louis University basketball team in the mid-'80s (more than 1,300 career points) and played briefly with the Indiana Pacers. In May 1987, Luther Jr. was arrested for selling cocaine to an undercover police officer and was sentenced to four years in prison (served 12 months). He now works at a supermarket distribution center (Burden III: "My dad is my best friend.").

At age 8, Burden started playing football at the Wohl City Recreation Center. He made such an impact that the coaches at Herbert Hoover Boys & Girls Club asked his parents to work with him. In his first year with the program, he helped lead the team to the league Super Bowl championship as a running back and defensive back (he received the nickname "Touchdown Burden"). From age 9 through middle school, Burden was a standout basketball and football player at Herbert Hoover. He moved to wide receiver in fifth grade.

Burden originally attended Cardinal Ritter College Prep, a private Catholic high school in St. Louis. As a freshman, he paired with senior wide receiver Jameson Williams (2023 first-round pick of the Detroit Lions) and caught 15 touchdown passes. The duo (Williams calls Burden his "little brother") led the program to a 16-1 record, its only loss coming in the 2018 Class 3 state championship game. Burden was in the midst of another productive year as a sophomore when the team's season was canceled after seven games because of the rostering of an ineligible player (the team's coaches were fired). In 2020, Cardinal Ritter played an abbreviated fall schedule because of the pandemic — Burden finished with 35 catches for 747 yards and five touchdowns.

After his junior season, Burden transferred to football powerhouse East St. Louis High in January 2021, primarily so he could graduate early and enroll in college. He finished his three high school seasons at Cardinal Ritter with 124 receptions for 2,941 yards and 39 touchdowns. As a senior, Burden earned All-American and all-state honors and led the team to an 11-3 record and the 2021 6A state championship game (lost to Cary-Grove, 37-36). He was named All-Metro Offensive Player of the Year and finished his final season with 71 catches for 1,174 yards and 20 touchdowns, adding eight punt-return touchdowns and a 54-yard rushing touchdown. Burden was also a top-flight basketball player in middle school and led Cardinal Ritter to the 2019-20 Class 3 state basketball championship as a sophomore. (He didn't play basketball his final two years of high school.)

A five-star recruit, Burden was the No. 1-ranked wide receiver in the 2022 recruiting class and the top-ranked recruit in Illinois. He was ranked as the No. 3 recruit nationally, behind only athlete Travis Hunter and defensive tackle Walter Nolen. Burden also had double-digit basketball offers, and his coaches believed he could have played professional basketball had he gone that route. Missouri was his first offer in October 2018, and he collected over 20 offers in all before the start of his sophomore year, including from Georgia, LSU, Oregon, Tennessee and USC. Burden narrowed his choice to Alabama, Georgia, Missouri, Ohio State and Oklahoma, and he committed to Lincoln Riley and the Sooners in October 2020.

He then decommitted in August 2021 and, two months later, officially announced he would be staying close to home to play for head coach Eli Drinkwitz and Missouri. He was the No. 1 recruit in the Tigers' 2022 class and became just the third consensus five-star recruit in program history. Burden opted out of Missouri's 2024 bowl game and skipped his senior season to enter the 2025 NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2022: (13/10)	45	375	8.33	6	7	78-yard PR TD; 10-yard rush TD; 1-yard rush TD; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	86	1,212	14.09	9	4	Second Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in receiving; 2-point conversion
2024: (12/11)	61	676	11.08	6	3	First Team All-SEC; Led team in receiving; 61-yard rush TD; 3-yard rush TD; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (38/34)	192	2,263	11.79	21	14

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6000	206	8 1/2	31 1/4	76 1/2	4.41	2.58	1.55	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench, second 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Above-average foot speed for a 206-pounder
- Dangerous with the ball in his hands and runs with the physicality and contact balance of a running back
- Lined up in the backfield and threatened defenses with jet-sweep options
- Saw high volume of quick targets and runway routes to give him catch-and-run chances (7.3 career YAC per reception)
- Outstanding lower-body agility to redirect and burst in another direction
- Has ability to stop on a dime and leave defenders falling over themselves (78 career forced missed tackles)
- Strong concentration and control at catch point
- Tracks well over his shoulder to coast underneath the pass

- Doesn't appear bothered with crowded air space downfield
- Flashes play strength to fight through contact and back to the ball
- Averaged 10.5 yards per punt return in his career (23 attempts for 242 yards), with a 78-yard touchdown as freshman
- Caught a pass in 34 straight games, the second-longest streak in school history
- Didn't miss a game because of injury in three college seasons
- Finished No. 4 in Missouri history in career catches (192)

WEAKNESSES:

- Just 10 catches of 20 yards or more in 2024 (110th in FBS)
- Upright route running gives defenders a clear target to redirect or latch onto
- Needs to clean up footwork for better snap at the top of routes
- Looks disinterested on some routes
- Fumbled against Boston College in 2024 and muffed one punt in each of his three college seasons
- More of a get-in-the-way blocker and doesn't consistently latch and control defenders
- Two frustrating 15-yard penalties on 2024 Boston College tape, including one for throwing an opponent's mouthguard in frustration (Burden: "I have to cut the nonsense out.")
- Below-average production in 2024

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Missouri, Burden was predominantly a slot receiver in offensive coordinator Kirby Moore's motion-heavy scheme (85.3 percent of his 2024 snaps came in the slot). With only one 100-yard receiving performance in 2024, he wasn't able to build on his All-America sophomore season as the entire Missouri offense struggled, but there were enough flashes to tease his high-level talent.

With his run-after-catch skills, Burden saw a high volume of quick-hitters and crossers, which showcased his any-direction burst and physicality to give defenders the shake. His route running is best described as a "work in progress" right now, but he appears unfazed when forced to flip his body and track/adjust to errant throws. Overall, Burden is still working on his undergrad degree in route setup and separation, but he holds a master's in creating with the ball in his hands, because of his explosive speed and competitive toughness. For an NFL team targeting a YAC weapon with upside to be more, he will be an appealing option early.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 27 overall)

WR4 Emeka Egbuka

Ohio State, 4SR

HOMETOWN Steilacoom, WA	HIGH SCHOOL Steilacoom	BIRTHDAY Oct 14, 2002	AGE 22.53	HT 6007	WT 201	NUM #2
----------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Emeka (eh-MEH-kuh) Egbuka (eh-BOO-kuh), who has a younger brother (Keanen) and younger sister (Eva), was born in Tacoma, Wash., and grew up south of Seattle, primarily with his mother (Rhonda Ogilvie) and stepfather (Eric Ogilvie). Rhonda was a three-sport standout in high school and played college volleyball at Saint Martin's (Wash.) University. Egbuka also has a close relationship with his father (Henry), who was born in Enugu, Nigeria, and immigrated to the United States in 1996, at age 20. Henry's job with the U.S. military as a civil engineer often took him overseas, including a six-year stretch in Germany, where Emeka spent his summers growing up. Henry played soccer and was invited to try out for the Nigerian junior national team (he is now a tennis player and competes in UTSA matches).

Emeka Egbuka played multiple sports throughout childhood but was a natural on the diamond, and baseball quickly became his go-to (won the 2011 MLB Pitch, Hit & Run event in Phoenix at age 8). He started playing football in second grade, and his love for football started to blossom throughout youth levels and middle school (Egbuka: "My favorite sport was whatever season it was."). He also picked up golf in college and is already down to a 6.6 handicap.

Egbuka attended Steilacoom High and emerged as one of the top wideouts in the state as a freshman All-American, posting 44 receptions for 808 yards (18.4 average) and 13 touchdowns. He led Steilacoom to its second straight district title in 2018 as a sophomore, finishing with 72 catches for 1,492 yards (20.7 average) and 23 touchdowns. Egbuka had his best season as a junior, when he led Steilacoom to an 11-3 record and an appearance in the 2019 2A state championship game (the first in school history). He set a title-game record with 18 catches for 163 yards and three touchdowns (also had an interception). He finished his junior season with 83 receptions for 1,607 yards (19.4 average) and 25 touchdowns, which earned him a number of local and national awards, including 2019 Washington Gatorade Player of the Year and MaxPreps High School Junior Player of the Year. Egbuka didn't play as a senior, because Steilacoom's 2020 season was postponed because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Egbuka finished his three-year prep career with 199 catches for 3,907 yards and 61 touchdown grabs. He was also a standout defensive back, combining for 17 interceptions (three returned for touchdowns) and 74 tackles over three seasons. He added six touchdown returns on special teams (five punts, one kickoff). Egbuka was a standout basketball and baseball player at Steilacoom, too — he hit for the cycle in a game as a sophomore. He maintained a 4.0 GPA throughout high school.

A five-star recruit, Egbuka was the top-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Washington (behind his future OSU teammate JT Tuimolouau). He was the first five-star recruit in Steilacoom history and ranked as a consensus top-10 recruit nationally. After his breakout freshman year of high school, his parents considered sending him to a larger high school for more exposure, but Egbuka wanted to stay with the teammates he'd played with since little league. He attended a 7-on-7 event in Las Vegas after his freshman season and received his first three scholarship offers (Florida State, Oregon and Oregon State) in March 2018. Egbuka received offers from almost every high-profile program, including Alabama, Florida, Georgia, LSU, Michigan, Notre Dame, Stanford, Texas and USC. He cut down his list to four: Clemson, Ohio State, Oklahoma and Washington. Most thought his hometown Huskies would get the nod, but Egbuka chose the Buckeyes because of the program's NFL pipeline at wide receiver.

He was the fifth-ranked recruit in the Buckeyes' 2021 class (10 spots ahead of Marvin Harrison Jr.). Egbuka talked to several schools about playing both baseball and football, but he ultimately decided to focus on the latter. He needed only three years to earn a degree in marketing from Ohio State (Dec. 2023). He was a second-team Academic All-American and two-time Academic All-Big Ten honoree. Egbuka declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (11/0)	9	191	21.22	0	0	Enrolled in January 2021
2022: (13/13)	74	1,151	15.55	10	5	Second Team All-Big Ten; 15-yard rush TD; 3-yard rush TD
2023: (10/9)	41	515	12.56	4	2	Third Team All-Big Ten; Missed three games (left ankle)
2024: (16/16)	81	1,011	12.48	10	5	Third Team All-Big Ten; Led team in catches; Team captain
Total: (50/38)	205	2,868	13.99	24	12

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6007	202	9 5/8	31 1/2	76 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	201	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.48	2.57	1.50	38	DNP	4.12	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Innate ball-judgement skills to track, adjust and corral non-perfect throws
- Limber upper body and above-average hand strength to finish grabs from difficult angles
- Always had feel for commanding catch point (16 combined interceptions as sophomore and junior DB in high school)
- Football IQ and toughness are "already on a pro level," according to Ohio State assistant coach Brian Hartline
- Gains ground quickly versus off-coverage and a magnet to coverage voids
- Knows how to set up defenders and snap off stem, regardless of route
- Consistently works back to football and extends to meet it, especially on crossers/overs
- Finds room to operate even when field shrinks (15 of 24 career touchdown catches came in red zone)
- Showed clear improvements as blocker (asked to be puller to stone middle linebacker on super counter on 2024 Michigan State tape)
- Experienced as punt returner (5.4 yards per attempt) and kick returner (28.2)
- NFL scouts say he competes with "perfectionist mindset" and doesn't waste an ounce of his talent
- Voted a 2024 team captain and veteran presence made the Buckeyes' receivers room better
- Joined Marvin Harrison Jr. as only players in school history with multiple 1,000-yard receiving seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Solid size, strength and speed but not exceptional in any of those areas
- Physical press can slow him early in route and diminish vertical capabilities
- His few drops were result of thinking about first move before securing ball
- Has some wiggle after the catch but didn't force as many missed tackles as one might expect
- Needs to drop pads as a ball carrier and be more physical as a finisher
- Diverse and active as a blocker but needs to do better job controlling and maintaining angles once engaged
- Left ankle injury as junior, which required tigtrope surgery (Oct. 2023), sidelining him for three games and parts of others

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Ohio State, Egbuka worked primarily out of the slot in offensive coordinator Chip Kelly's multiple, heavy-movement scheme (81.1 percent of his 2024 snaps came in the slot). Over his four seasons in Columbus, he played next to four wide receivers who ultimately became top-20 draft picks (Marvin Harrison Jr., Garrett Wilson, Chris Olave and Jaxon Smith-Njigba) and two likely future early-round draft picks (Jeremiah Smith and Carnell Tate), which made it easy to overlook his offensive impact. But Egbuka finished his career with the most receptions (205) in Ohio State history and second in receiving yards (30 yards behind Michael Jenkins).

If you want flashy, skip to another report. If you want a savvy, rugged receiver with NFL-ready instincts, Egbuka fits the bill. He skillfully attacks the leverage of the coverage with manipulative pacing and footwork to cleanly enter/exit the break point. Although his targets will be more crowded in the NFL, his tracking skills and hand strength will be valuable assets. Overall, Egbuka is a very quarterback-friendly target — not because he is bigger, stronger or faster than defenders, but because he understands detailed subtleties to uncover and command the catch point. Though he can line up outside, he would thrive in a Rashee Rice-like slot role, where he can expand a play-calling menu with his diverse skill set.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 28 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Kansas City, MO	Park Hill	Sep 04, 2002	22.64	5102	194	#13

BACKGROUND: Jaylin Noel (KNOLL) grew up in the Kansas City, Kan., area with his mother (Deirdre Cash). He started playing organized sports at a young age, including football in second grade. It wasn't love at first sight, but football gradually became his go-to sport. After initially playing quarterback, he moved to wide receiver and played both ways. Noel played for the Missouri Wolverines youth team for five years, throughout middle school (2012-16). After eighth grade, he convinced his mother to move to Missouri so he could attend Park Hill High and be a part of its football program. His younger brother (James) also played wide receiver at Park Hill and finished his redshirt freshman season in 2024 at Division II Missouri Western State. His older brother (LJ) died in August 2019 at age 26. Noel got engaged to his fiancée (Aliyah Hunter) in October 2024.

Noel enrolled at Park Hill High in northern Kansas City, where he was a four-year varsity letterman at wide receiver. Learning alongside senior wide receiver Ronnie Bell (Michigan/San Francisco 49ers), he made an immediate impact as a freshman, with 15 receptions for 154 yards and two touchdowns. As a sophomore, Noel caught 36 passes for 498 yards and seven touchdowns, adding a 99-yard kickoff return touchdown — he earned all-state honors as a returner. He led Park Hill to an 8-3 record and the 2019 district championship as a junior, finishing with 42 catches for 769 yards and 12 total touchdowns (nine receiving, three rushing). As a senior, Noel earned all-state and his third consecutive all-conference honors. In 10 games his final season, he posted 68 catches for 1,005 yards and 10 touchdowns, adding his first career touchdown pass. He played basketball for two years and lettered in track, including personal bests of 6 feet, 5 inches in the high jump, 11.07 seconds in the 100 meters and 23.84 in the 200.

A three-star recruit, Noel was the 124th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 13 recruit in Missouri. After his sophomore season, he received his first Division I offer (FCS South Dakota State) in June 2019, followed by his first FBS offer a week later from head coach Matt Campbell and Iowa State. After his junior season, Noel announced a top six of Iowa, Iowa State, Kansas State, Minnesota, Nebraska and Wisconsin. Ultimately, he committed to the Cyclones over the Cornhuskers and was the fourth-ranked recruit in Campbell's 2021 class. Noel earned second-team Academic All-Big 12 honors and graduated with a degree in communications (Dec. 2024). He wants to open his own steakhouse after his playing days are over. Noel accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (13/3)	39	269	6.90	0	3	Enrolled in January 2021
2022: (12/8)	60	572	9.53	3	7
2023: (12/11)	66	820	12.42	7	5	Second Team All-Big 12; led team in catches, receiving TDs; team captain; missed one game (food poisoning)
2024: (14/11)	80	1,194	14.93	8	4	Big 12 Co-Special Teams Player of the Year; First Team All-Big 12 (PR/KR); Honorable Mention All-Big 12 (WR); Team captain
Total: (51/33)	245	2,855	11.65	18	19

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5102	194	8 3/4	29 1/2	73 3/4	4.39	2.55	1.52	41 1/2	11' 2"	4.17	6.82	23
PRO DAY	5102	196	9	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Excellent quickness in releases and speed in the open field
- Attacks leverage of cornerbacks to create separation without wasting steps at the break point
- Consistently plucks away from his frame (caught a pass in 46 straight games to finish his career)
- Muscular build with decent play strength to secure passes in traffic
- Route running improved each season — shows an excellent feel on option/jerk routes
- Served as Iowa State's primary punt returner all four seasons, averaging 8.8 yards per return (53 attempts for 466 yards)
- Also averaged 21.1 yards per kick return (39 attempts for 821 yards)
- Durable; missed only one game (because of food poisoning) in four-year career
- Two-year team captain (head coach Matt Campbell: "From Year One to Year Four, he has been one of the most complete football players in the program over that time. Elite competitive excellence.")
- Trained at EXOS during his pre-draft prep and was described as "Valedictorian" of program

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized target and won't win size advantage in coverage
- Catch radius is best described as "average" — playing above the rim will be tougher against NFL defenders
- Lack of size shows up when jammed up at line of scrimmage
- Not as many forced missed tackles on his tape as one might expect, but his elusiveness and contact balance were somewhat disappointing
- Adequate college blocker, but it won't be a strength to his NFL game

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Iowa State, Noel was the M receiver (69.6 percent of his snaps from the slot in 2024) in first-year offensive coordinator Taylor Mouser's scheme (he was also used as a satellite player, motioning into the backfield). After catching passes from Brock Purdy as a true freshman, Noel's production improved each season — he finished with 245 career catches (No. 2 in school history) and 2,851 receiving yards (No. 4).

A sturdy and speedy athlete, Noel is smooth in and out of his breaks and plays with "stickum" hands to consistently secure throws away from his body. Despite not being much of a tackle-breaker, he has a pull-away gear (with or without the ball) that makes him a playmaker (eight catches of 50 yards or more over the past two seasons, third-most in the FBS). Overall, Noel is a smaller target but very quarterback-friendly, because of the confidence he has in his hands and his athletic versatility, which makes him tough to cover. His scouting report and college tape give flashbacks to those of Christian Kirk when he was an NFL Draft prospect. Noel can have a similar pro career.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 42 overall)

WR6 Jayden Higgins

Iowa State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
South Miami, FL	Westminster Christian	Dec 15, 2002	22.36	6042	214	#9

BACKGROUND: Jayden Higgins, who has two sisters (Jade and Angelina), was born in Cobb County, Ga., with his parents (Moses and Holly Poole) before the family relocated to South Miami (and moved into his father's childhood home) when Jayden was 3 years old. Higgins started playing football when he was "little, little" for the South Miami Grey Ghosts and originally was an offensive lineman and defensive lineman before moving to wide receiver and defensive back. Higgins started playing travel basketball on a national level in third grade and led his team at Gulliver Middle School to a South Florida championship, averaging 15.0 points per game. As a seventh-grader, he was the starting point guard on the high school JV basketball team at SLAM Academy, and by eighth grade was considered one of the top young point guards in South Florida (he was honored on the court at a Miami Heat game in 2017).

Higgins originally attended Gulliver Prep's Upper School, a private high school in Pinecrest, Fla., for two years. He played on the JV team as a freshman but didn't play as a sophomore to focus on basketball (and because he "didn't have a great experience" playing football at Gulliver Prep). Before his junior year, Higgins transferred to Westminster Christian School, a private prep school in Palmetto Bay for his final two years of high school. While still focused on basketball, he decided the fresh start would be a good opportunity to play football again. Higgins earned all-county honors as a junior with 27 catches for 490 yards and four touchdowns, helping the team to six wins and a 2019 playoff spot. His senior season was cut short because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but Higgins finished with 23 catches for 430 yards and five touchdowns in five games. He averaged 15.0 points and 6.0 rebounds for the basketball team in 2019-20. Higgins also joined the track team as a senior and qualified for states in the high jump, with a personal best of 6 feet, 5 inches. His personal best in the long jump was 22 feet, and he was also part of the relay team that broke the school's 4x100 record.

A two-star recruit, Higgins was the 459th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 376 recruit in Florida. After focusing primarily on basketball early in high school, he was late to the football recruiting scene. The pandemic and the fact that Higgins played at a small school also were factors in his underrecruitment. Higgins was hoping to play basketball at the college level until he received his first football scholarship offer in May 2020 (FCS Long Island). Between the end of his senior season and signing day, he added offers from Austin Peay, Eastern Kentucky, Houston Baptist and Stetson (all in Dec. 2020). He officially committed to Eastern Kentucky, because it was the "best fit" (only received FCS offers and never heard from any FBS programs).

After his breakout sophomore season at Eastern Kentucky, Higgins entered the transfer portal in December 2022, with his eye on jumping to the FBS. He received offers from Minnesota, Mississippi State, Northwestern, Pittsburgh, Troy, Tulane and Virginia, but he felt his best opportunity was at Iowa State, because of the "family atmosphere." Higgins earned Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll honors. He opted out of Iowa State's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (10/7)	29	394	13.59	3	3	Eastern Kentucky
2022: (12/11)	58	757	13.05	10	1	Eastern Kentucky; First Team All-ASUN
2023: (13/12)	53	983	18.55	6	1	Iowa State; Honorable Mention All-Big 12
2024: (13/11)	87	1,183	13.60	9	2	Iowa State; Third Team All-American; Second Team All-Big 12; led team in catches and receiving TDs
Total: (48/41)	227	3,317	14.61	28	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6041	214	9 1/8	33 1/8	80	4.47	2.62	1.54	39	10' 8"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6042	215	9 1/8	33 3/4	80	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.28	7.05	16

STRENGTHS:

- Height, length and speed combination that NFL teams covet on the outside
- Urgent in the drive phase and uses long strides to eat up cushion quickly
- Has short-area footwork for a variety of releases and stemwork
- Snatches with natural hands and quickly puts the ball away to avoid raking defenders
- Comfortable catching all types of passes — turns contested targets into more than 50-50 shots
- Awesome ball-tracking skills (zero drops on 117 targets of 10 yards or more at Iowa State)
- Quick to find the ball and adjust his path or cut off defenders with hips/shoulders
- Sits down in zones to give quarterback a target
- Competitive after the catch and uses loose movements to make the first man miss
- Prides himself on being able to line up at any receiver position
- Played in 26 straight games at Iowa State; didn't miss a game because of injury
- No. 3 all-time in Iowa State history with eight 100-yard receiving games
- Set Iowa State school record with a touchdown catch in seven straight games

WEAKNESSES:

- Improved route construction and setup, but he's not all the way there yet
- Quick escapes from physical press man will be a challenge — he'll have a shadow on most intermediate routes
- Doesn't have high-end speed to pull away vertically from NFL corners
- Not dynamic after the catch (3.9 YAC per reception in 2024)
- Didn't play on special teams in college

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Iowa State, Higgins was the X receiver (aligned wide on 72.4 percent of snaps in 2024) in first-year offensive coordinator Taylor Mouser's scheme. A basketball-focused athlete much of his life, Higgins' receiving production increased each of his four seasons in college — two in the FCS and the past two with the Cyclones (finished No. 7 on Iowa State's all-time receiving list, despite his limited time in the program).

With the body control and grace of a former point guard, Higgins has the smooth athleticism that translates to his route running, and he is more than just a possession target — even if his tape doesn't show a dangerous playmaker after the catch. He is a big, strong target who is natural at tracking and adjusting to the football, regardless of the placement or coverage (just three drops on 210 targets at Iowa State). Overall, Higgins is an ascending height-weight-speed athlete with the physicality and catch radius to be a productive NFL starter as he continues developing his route/release precision. His game is similar to what Nico Collins put on tape at Michigan.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 45 overall)

WR7 Jalen Royals

Utah State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Powder Springs, GA	Hillgrove	Feb 18, 2003	22.18	6001	205	#1

BACKGROUND: Jalen Royals, who has an older sister, grew up in Cobb County, Ga., just outside of Atlanta with his parents (DeAndre and Tiombre). He has a multisport background, specifically basketball and football. Royals was a talented point guard throughout youth sports and played on several different AAU travel and club teams. He played for the Georgia Xclusive team at age 12 and advanced to the 2015 YBOA Nationals. In eighth grade, he was named a 2016 Cobb County all-star.

Royals attended Hillgrove High in Powder Springs, a program that has produced several current NFL players, including tight ends Evan Engram and Chig Okonkwo and defensive ends Bradley Chubb and Myles Murphy. As a sophomore, Royals played both ways as a wide receiver and cornerback and was part of Hillgrove's 2018 regional title. His senior season was cut short by the COVID-19 pandemic and Hillgrove finished with a losing record, but Royals had his best season (26 receptions for 455 yards and four touchdowns; three interceptions, one returned for a touchdown). He also played basketball all four years of high school and was a high jumper on the track team, finishing sixth at the 2021 7A state championships (6 feet, 4 inches).

A no-star recruit, Royals wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2021 class. Because he spent so much of focus on basketball (and his grades were not where they needed to be), he went overlooked as a football recruit. Royals did draw interest from several lower-level and juco programs, but he didn't receive any FBS or FCS offers during high school. Before the 2022 season, he enrolled at Georgia Military College in Milledgeville, where he played primarily on special teams, recording only seven catches for 92 yards and two touchdowns as a freshman. He also made the dean's list as a freshman and looked to catch on with an FBS program.

In June 2022, Royals took a trip to Logan, Utah, to try out at Utah State's Elite Camp. Although the coaches didn't know him at registration, they soon realized they'd found a gem as he wowed during the workout. Within one week, Royals received a scholarship offer, and within three weeks, he had enrolled at Utah State. He was the lowest-ranked player in former head coach Blake Anderson's 2022 class. After his breakout 2023 season, Royals was courted by several Power 4 programs with larger NIL pockets, but he stayed loyal to Utah State and its coaching staff. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and returned from his injury to participate in the week.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (-/-)						Georgia Military College
2022: (12/1)	0	0		0	0	Utah State; enrolled June 2022
2023: (13/13)	71	1,080	15.21	15	5	Utah State; First Team All-MWC; led team in receiving; single-season school TDs record
2024: (7/7)	55	834	15.16	6	3	Utah State; Second Team All-MWC; missed final five games (right foot)
Total: (32/21)	126	1,914	15.19	21	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6000	205	9 1/2	30 1/8	73 3/4	4.42	2.56	1.53	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	13	No jumps, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6001	204	9 3/8	30 7/8	73 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	36	10'1"	4.25	6.94	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Early acceleration to stack cornerbacks
- Burst to separate and create passing windows out of breaks
- Shimmies feet to shake press or make safeties miss once he gets to open field (17 forced missed tackles in 2024)
- Efficient catch-and-go skills to create on slants, bubbles and tunnel screens
- Tracks football and finishes with strong hands
- Able to flip his hips and maintain focus on throws to his opposite shoulder
- Built to play physical and showed improved run strength on 2024 tape (added 10 pounds of trim muscle between junior and senior seasons)
- Added kick return duties in 2024, averaging 20.4 yards per return (nine attempts for 184 yards)
- Reserved personality and described as an "incredible teammate" with "no ego" by offensive coordinator Kyle Cefalo

WEAKNESSES:

- Wasn't asked to run a diverse route tree
- Will round his breaks at times and needs to better set up route stems
- Inconsistent finishing grabs in traffic
- All three of his drops in 2024 came when he didn't secure the ball before looking upfield on quick hitters
- Needs to improve batting average as a blocker
- Missed final five games of his senior season after suffering a torn deltoid in his right foot (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Utah State, Royals was an outside wide receiver (exclusively to the left of the quarterback) in offensive coordinator Kyle Cefalo's pass-heavy spread scheme. A late bloomer, he exploded onto the NFL radar in 2023 as the only FBS player with 70 catches or more and 15 touchdown grabs or more. He was having another productive season as a senior before a right foot injury sidelined him for the second half of 2024 (No. 4 in the FBS with 119.1 receiving yards per game at the time of his injury).

Thanks in part to his basketball background, Royals has a controlled, fluid stride and natural body coordination to be a weapon before and after the catch (10 catches of 50 yards or more over the past two seasons ranked No. 1 in the FBS). His tape showed heavy helpings of screens, hitches and go routes, and he is still learning the nuances of route running, although he showed improvements during Senior Bowl practices. Overall, Royals combines smooth footwork with athletic body control, physical play strength and tracking skills to be a three-level threat as he expands his route tree. He has the talent to emerge as a team's WR2 within his first few NFL seasons.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 63 overall)

WR8 Tre Harris

Ole Miss, 5SR

HOMETOWN Lafayette, LA	HIGH SCHOOL Comeaux	BIRTHDAY Feb 28, 2002	AGE 23.15	HT 6023	WT 205	NUM #9
---------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Cleveland "Tre" Harris III, the only boy and second-youngest of four children, grew up in Lafayette, La. (55 miles west of Baton Rouge), with his parents (Cleveland Jr. and Delana). Cleveland Jr. has worked for almost 30 years in oil fields, which is where Tre developed his blue-collar work ethic. Tre Harris learned how to play basketball and other sports by playing outside with his three sisters. Harris started playing football at age 6.

Harris attended Ovey Comeaux High in Lafayette, where he was teammates with Malik Nabers (Harris was "like a brother" and "mentor" for Nabers). Harris was expected to be the top wide receiver on varsity as a sophomore, but when the starting quarterback transferred, the coaches looked to Harris to fill that void and run the team's flexbone option offense. He was also a standout basketball player at Comeaux and started from his freshman year on. Going into his junior year, Harris elected to leave the football team to focus on basketball. But after Comeaux lost two of the first three football games, Harris returned and quarterbacked the team to the 2018 state playoffs. Harris said he realized how much he loved football because of how much he missed it (Nabers also pestered him "every day" to come back). As a senior, Harris earned first-team all-district honors and again led Comeaux to the 5A state playoffs, where it secured the school's first playoff win since 2009. He and Nabers (a junior at the time) called themselves "the best duo in the state" and connected 58 times for 1,233 yards and 21 touchdowns. When Harris graduated after the 2019 season, Nabers transferred to Southside High for his senior season. A four-year starter and two-year captain on the basketball team, Harris earned first-team all-district honors as a junior and second-team all-state as a senior, averaging 23.0 points per game in 2019-20.

A three-star recruit, Harris was the 176th-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 96 recruit in Louisiana. After he decided to focus more on football as a junior, he attended several camps following the season. His coaches believed he could be a dual-threat quarterback in college, but Harris was open to making a position change — most programs recruited him at wide receiver. He received his first scholarship offer in May 2019 (FCS McNeese State), followed by offers from Nicholls State and Northwestern State. A few weeks later, Harris picked up his first FBS offer (Louisiana Tech), followed by offers from Louisiana-Monroe and his hometown school, Louisiana. Before his all-district senior season at quarterback, he officially committed to Louisiana Tech as a wide receiver.

After three years with that program, Harris entered the transfer portal following the 2022 season. He picked up several high-profile offers, including from Oklahoma, Penn State and Texas A&M. However, he was drawn to Lane Kiffin's offense and joined Ole Miss in January 2023. Harris took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the pandemic and returned to Oxford for his fifth season in 2024. He graduated with a degree in general business (May 2024). Harris accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl (wasn't medically cleared until January 28).

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	1	20	20.00	0	0	Louisiana Tech; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/9)	40	562	14.05	4	1	Louisiana Tech; Honorable Mention All-CUSA
2022: (12/12)	65	935	14.38	10	6	Louisiana Tech; First Team All-CUSA; Led team in receiving
2023: (12/11)	54	985	18.24	8	3	Ole Miss; led team in receiving; single-game receiving record (4 TDs); missed one game (left knee)
2024: (8/8)	60	1,030	17.17	7	5	Ole Miss; Third Team All-SEC; Led team in receiving; Missed five games (groin)
Total: (51/40)	220	3,532	16.05	29	15

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6023	205	9 5/8	31 7/8	78 1/4	4.54	2.65	1.57	38 1/2	10' 5"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No position drills, SS, three-cone, bench — choice
PRO DAY	6023	207	9 1/8	32 5/8	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, well-built athlete with adequate body thickness
- Natural ball skills and doesn't fight the football
- Plays strong and flashes the ability to use his frame like a low-post basketball player (Harris calls the slant his "money ball" play)
- Maintains focus through and around contact at the catch point (wins over defenders and on back shoulders)
- Graceful strides mid-route to easily transfer momentum or get on top/over cornerbacks
- Smooth in and out of drive phase when technique is sound
- Controlled stem footwork with purposeful steps at the top of routes
- Balanced as ball carrier and will muscle through contact or fend off tacklers with a firm stiff arm
- Started introducing more yoga to his training to help avoid injuries
- The coaching staff speaks highly of the way he carries himself (Lane Kiffin: "He truly prepares like a 10-year NFL vet. ... This guy is all about being a great player and doing whatever it takes. It's very refreshing.")
- Posted ten 100-yard receiving games (in 20 games played at Ole Miss), fourth-most in school history

WEAKNESSES:

- Speed is more build-up than immediate
- Doesn't have suddenness in feet to easily shake open-field defenders
- Drops usually were a result of cradle-attempt catches
- Gives press corners a large target and will need to learn better hand precision to release
- Didn't play in an offense that required a diverse route-running portfolio
- Fumbled twice on 2024 tape
- Flashes play strength to put the clamps on corners as a blocker, but the competitive desire isn't consistently there
- Missed a significant chunk of time in his final season because of groin injury (Oct. 2024), which sidelined him for five games (and parts of others); Missed one game because of left knee injury (Sept. 2023), which required a minor procedure

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ole Miss, Harris was an outside receiver (left and right) in offensive coordinator Charlie Weis Jr.'s spread scheme (aligned out wide for 85.4 percent of his snaps). A Louisiana Tech transfer, he was in the midst of a potentially record-breaking 2024 season with an FBS-best 987 receiving yards by the second week in October (181 yards more than the next-closest player on the list), but he played in just 16 more snaps the rest of the season because of injury.

You know what you're getting on his tape: an outside wide receiver who runs a ton of slants and curls, with a post or crosser mixed in (Ole Miss receivers used post-snap reads). But you still have to stop him, and that was a problem for defenses this season. Though he's not a burner, Harris has the stride speed to be a factor on linear/one-cut routes and displays smooth gear down for clean transitions. The best parts of his game are his hand-eye coordination and finishing toughness to make catches over defensive backs. Overall, Harris doesn't have the explosive speed or separation skills that teams covet in a No. 1 receiver, but he is a controlled athlete with the play strength and ball skills to be a dependable possession target. He projects as an NFL starter and a team's No. 2 target — if he can stay healthy.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 65 overall)

WR9 Jack Bech

TCU, 4SR

HOMETOWN Lafayette, LA	HIGH SCHOOL St. Thomas More	BIRTHDAY Dec 18, 2002	AGE 22.35	HT 6012	WT 214	NUM #18
---------------------------	--------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jack Bech (besh) grew up in Lafayette, La. (west of Baton Rouge), with his parents (Marty and Michelle), both of whom are LSU alums. He has two older sisters (Virginia, Sophie). His older brother (Tiger) was an All-Ivy League return man and wide receiver at Princeton (2016-2019). Tragically, Tiger died as a result of the Jan. 1, 2025, terrorist attack on New Orleans.

The Bech family has produced a number of college athletes, starting with Jack's paternal grandfather (Malchholm), who set school records in the javelin and discus at Southeastern Louisiana and was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 1993. Jack's uncle (Brett) was a walk-on wide receiver at LSU and led the Tigers in receiving in 1993 and 1994. Brett went undrafted in the 1995 NFL Draft but played several seasons in the NFL (1995-99), XFL (2001) and AFL (2002-04); he has been a strength and conditioning coach with the Dallas Cowboys since 2011. Jack's uncle (Blain) was also a walk-on wide receiver at LSU (2000-03). He completed a 29-yard pass as the holder on a fake field goal in the 2003 BCS national championship game (Nick Saban's first national title). Jack's uncle (Malchholm III) played college baseball at Meridian College before walking on at LSU. Jack's aunt (Brenna) was one of the initial signees on LSU's first women's soccer team.

Jack Bech attended St. Thomas More High in Lafayette and was part of five Louisiana Division II state championships. He saw varsity reps as a freshman and sophomore, but he didn't become a starter on a loaded roster until his junior season. After St. Thomas More lost in the state title game in 2018, Bech led the program to an 11-2 finish and the 2019 Division II state championship with 91 receptions for 1,668 yards and 20 touchdowns. As a senior, he led St. Thomas More to an undefeated 10-0 record and the second of its back-to-back state titles — he posted a record 232 receiving yards in the championship game. While catching passes from his best friend and top recruit Walker Howard (now at Ole Miss), Bech finished the 2020 season with 70 catches for 1,362 yards and 10 touchdowns and earned first-team all-state honors for the second straight year. He also lettered in basketball and helped that team to three straight state championships (2019-21). Bech was a standout receiver for the Louisiana Bootleggers 7-on-7 team in high school.

A four-star recruit, Bech was the 54th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 11 recruit in Louisiana (one spot ahead of wide receiver Keon Coleman). Before even starting on varsity, he received an offer from his hometown University of Louisiana in June 2019. During his prolific junior season, Bech added offers from Houston, Louisiana Tech and Tulane, followed by offers from several Ivy League programs (Dartmouth, Harvard, Penn, Princeton and Yale). He received his first then-Power 5 offer from Vanderbilt in February 2020 and committed to the Commodores a month later.

Midway through his senior season, though, Bech finally received an offer from LSU. Several other major programs like Notre Dame, TCU and Texas entered the mix with offers, but Bech's commitment to LSU was a done deal. He was the 19th-ranked recruit in former head coach Ed Orgeron's final class in Baton Rouge (fifth-ranked receiver in the class, behind Chris Hilton, Deion Smith, Brian Thomas Jr. and Malik Nabers).

After two seasons with the program, Bech found himself buried on the depth chart with a new coaching staff and decided to enter the transfer portal in December 2022. He transferred to TCU for his final two years of eligibility. Bech accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the top wide receiver on the American Team during the week of practice. He also caught the game-winning touchdown in the final seconds.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (13/7)	43	489	11.37	3	2	LSU; led team in receptions; Enrolled in May 2021
2022: (12/4)	16	200	12.50	1	0	LSU; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2023: (8/0)	12	146	12.17	0	1	TCU; missed four games (ankle)
2024: (12/12)	62	1,034	16.68	9	1	TCU; Second Team All-Big 12; Led team in receiving; Missed bowl game (knee)
Total: (45/23)	133	1,869	14.05	13	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6012	214	9	31 1/2	75	DNP	DNP	DNP	34 1/2	10' 5"	4.21	6.84	19	No 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Physically strapped together — by the time you're done reading this, he got in another lift
- Impeccable hand-eye coordination to frame the football, regardless of action required
- Uniquely effective catching the football with defenders hanging all over him
- Uses his physicality and focus to shield and force defenders to go through him (led the FBS in slant routes in 2024)
- Coordinated footwork and leverage points help him create a step of space out of route cuts
- Works his eyes and shoulders mid-route and has some savvy to his game
- Strong and balanced post-catch and often makes the first man miss
- Gets after it as a blocker, with plenty of compete in his DNA
- Primarily an inside receiver his first three years in college before moving outside in 2024
- Unmeasurable mental toughness and leans on his faith (regularly attended bible study at TCU) to get him through adversity, including his brother's tragic death

WEAKNESSES:

- Quicker than fast and not a true burner
- NFL corners will squat on his routes until he proves to be a true deep threat
- Needs a beat to get back to full speed after physical defenders grind down his momentum
- Big jam target, so NFL press coverage will require some adjustments
- Struggled to stay healthy in college: MCL injury in the 2024 regular-season finale, which sidelined him for the bowl game (was able to return for the Senior Bowl); lingering injury from the 2022 season at LSU kept him sidelined for 2023 spring practices at TCU and carried into the season; ankle injury (Oct. 2023) that required tighrope surgery and forced him to miss four games.

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at TCU, Bech was an outside receiver (primarily to the right of the formation) in offensive coordinator Kendal Briles' up-tempo, spread attack. As a hybrid receiver/tight end as a true freshman at LSU, he was part of a pass-catching group that included four future NFL Draft picks (Malik Nabers, Brian Thomas Jr., Kayshon Boutte, Trey Palmer), yet it was Bech who led the Tigers in receptions in 2021. After the coaching change in Baton Rouge, he transferred to TCU but battled injuries in 2023 before breaking out as a senior, becoming just the fifth player in program history to surpass 1,000 yards receiving in a season.

Although he isn't super dynamic, Bech is a smooth, physical athlete who can get in and out of breaks with gear change and route savvy (head fakes, body lean, etc.). He is a skilled ball tracker and plays with supreme confidence in his ability to adjust, frame and finish grabs (one drop on 91 targets in 2024). Overall, Bech's acceleration is more build-up than immediate, and he will need to prove himself versus NFL press coverage, but he is urgent as a route runner with the ball-winning skills and competitive personality that will play. He has experience both inside and outside, and his play style is reminiscent of Puka Nacua.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 72 overall)

WR10 Isaiah Bond

Texas, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Buford, GA	Buford	Mar 15, 2004	21.11	5105	185	#7

BACKGROUND: Isaiah Bond was raised in Harris County, Ga., by his parents. He grew up playing every sport he could, including baseball, basketball and football, although track was his best sport early on. While in third grade at New Mountain Hill Elementary School, Bond competed for the West Georgia Jets and won three gold medals at the 2012 USA Track and Field Junior Olympics in Fayetteville, Ga. He clocked the nation's best time in the 200 meters (30.38 second) in the 8-year-old division and qualified for the Region 3 Junior Olympics in Virginia. Bond played primarily at running back and safety throughout Pop Warner for the Wildcats. He later transferred to Mill Creek (in the northern Atlanta suburbs) for middle school and made the switch to wide receiver in eighth grade. Bond continued running track through middle school, although he chose football over opportunities to qualify for Junior Olympic trials.

Bond decided to enroll at Buford High in Gwinnett County, one of the top football programs in Georgia. After starting on the freshman and JV teams, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore and played both ways as a cornerback, wide receiver and running back, helping the program to the 2019 6A state title. As a junior, Bond led the team to a 13-1 finish and another 6A state championship. As a senior in 2021, Bond earned all-state and All-America honors with 11 touchdowns, including a kick return touchdown, and helped Buford to a third straight 6A state championship. Bond was also a record-setting track athlete at Buford — he won multiple 6A state championships in both the 100 and 200 meters, and he ran the second leg of Buford's state title-winning 4x100 relay. He was nationally ranked and finished with personal bests of 10.48 seconds in the 100 meters and 21.04 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Bond was the second-ranked athlete (behind Malaki Starks) in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 6 recruit in Georgia. He was ranked as the No. 52 recruit nationally. The spring after his freshman season, Bond picked up his first scholarship offer from Nebraska (May 2019). He was recruited as a cornerback by some schools and a receiver by others. His recruitment started to take off following his junior season, including offers from Alabama, Georgia, Miami, Pittsburgh, Syracuse, Texas and Wisconsin. Bond added an offer from Florida, and after a visit to Gainesville, he committed in May 2021.

However, after Florida fired head coach Dan Mullen during the 2021 season, Bond reopened his recruitment. Ultimately, he focused on three schools (Alabama, Florida, Georgia) and signed with head coach Nick Saban and the Tide. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in Alabama's 2022 class. After Saban's retirement following the 2023 season, Bond entered the transfer portal and reconnected with Steve Sarkisian at Texas for the 2024 season. He elected to skip his senior year and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2022: (13/1)	17	220	12.94	1	2	Alabama; enrolled June 2022
2023: (14/11)	48	668	13.92	4	2	Alabama; led team in receiving
2024: (14/12)	34	540	15.88	5	2	Texas; missed two games (right ankle); 26-yard rushing TD; enrolled January 2024
Total: (41/24)	99	1,428	14.42	10	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5105	180	8 1/2	30 1/2	75 1/2	4.39	2.60	1.58	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5104	185	8 1/2	30 1/2	76	4.37	2.57	1.52	34	DNP	4.48	7.21	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Vertical stretch receiver who can use his speed to affect the game, even when he's not the target
- Always had the wheels and chose football over a track career (had nation's best track times as early as 8 years old)
- Electric suddenness to beat press with his feet
- Dynamic change of direction to create serious separation off plant foot (blaze outs, daggers, etc.)
- Shows a basic understanding of vertical pacing to set up hitches or double moves (his favorite route is the slot post)
- Tracks the ball well and put some impressive diving catches on tape
- Effective on screens and gadgets because of speed bursts, which create botched pursuit angles
- Lives beyond the sticks (76.5 percent of his 2024 catches resulted in a first down or touchdown)

WEAKNESSES:

- Shorter with an average frame
- Only two drops in 2024 but doesn't show consistent confidence in his hands
- Disrupts his sightlines by unnecessarily jumping for targets to reach his chest
- Unreliable through contact — you can count his contested catches (for his career) on one hand
- Struggled adjusting to deep ball when it wasn't on point (caught only two of 14 targets of more than 20 yards in 2024)
- Not much of a tackle-breaker once defenders get hands on him
- Didn't play on special teams at Texas and lacks extensive return experience
- Missed two games (and parts of others) as junior because of right ankle injury (Oct. 2024), which lingered throughout the season

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas, Bond was an inside-outside wide receiver in head coach Steve Sarkisian's RPO pro-style spread offense and was used across the formation (76.8 percent of snaps wide, 22.6 percent slot). He teased playmaking talent in his two seasons at Alabama, including making the catch on Jalen Milroe's fourth-down game-winner against Auburn). He was expected to become Texas' No. 1 target after transferring for the 2024 season, but Bond's ankle injury and inconsistent chemistry within the offense hampered him, especially over the second half of the season.

A former track star, Bond is a loose, twitchy athlete with big-time speed, which makes him a threat to make a house call every time he touches the ball. Aside from staying healthy, he needs to improve the discipline and rhythm of his routes and break bad habits at the catch point, although he might never have the play strength to win contested targets. Overall, Bond has unquestioned athletic talent and upside, but he will need to prove to be more reliable within the structure of an offense for an NFL coaching staff to trust him. There is a boom-or-bust element to his projection, but the "boom" will be pretty appealing on Day 2.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 88 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Medicine Hat, Alberta	Deerfield	Jun 03, 2003	21.89	6016	206	#13

BACKGROUND: Elic (el-lick) Ayomanor (eye-oh-manner), who has an older sister (Jill), was born and raised in Medicine Hat in southern Alberta, Canada (about 85 miles north of Montana). His first name is a blend of the names Alek and Eric. His parents split up when he was a toddler, and he grew up exclusively with his mother (Pamela Weiterman). Ayomanor spent much of his childhood on his maternal grandparents' cattle farm in Kincaid, Saskatchewan. He started playing hockey at age 6, followed by baseball, basketball, soccer, track and a number of outdoor sports. He still holds multiple Medicine Hat youth track sprinting records. Ayomanor was introduced to football by one of his friends before middle school, and his love for the sport started to grow.

Ayomanor spent his ninth-grade year in Canada at Medicine Hat High, where he earned a spot on the Team Alberta U16 squad and helped lead the team to a 2018 championship as a wide receiver and return man. He drew the eyes of recruiting services and received advice that a move to the United States would help him earn a scholarship and put him on a path to the NFL. For his sophomore season, Ayomanor enrolled at The Peddie School in Hightstown, N.J., and posted 17 receptions for 253 yards and three touchdowns over seven games before breaking his collarbone. After a coaching change, he transferred to Deerfield Academy in central Massachusetts, but his junior season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Ayomanor returned to the field as a senior, but he suffered a torn PCL in the second game, which ended his 2021 season and his high school career. He also lettered in track at Deerfield and placed first in the 100 meters (10.76 seconds), 200 meters (21.66) and long jump (21 feet, 10 inches) at the 2022 track and field championships.

A three-star recruit, Ayomanor was the 132nd-ranked wide receiver in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 8 recruit in Massachusetts. Shortly after transferring to the States as a sophomore, he received his first scholarship offer from Dartmouth (Oct. 2019). Ayomanor then added offers from Penn, Princeton and Yale before picking up his first FBS offer from West Virginia (Oct. 2020). In spring of his junior year, he took a number of official visits and added offers from Arizona, Iowa, Notre Dame, Ole Miss, Penn State and Tennessee. Ayomanor received an invitation to a Stanford camp in June 2021 and received an offer from former head coach David Shaw. Two months later, he committed to the Cardinal and was the 13th-ranked recruit in Shaw's final class at Stanford. Ayomanor was named a first-team Academic All-American. He elected to skip his final two seasons of eligibility to enter the NFL Draft. Ayomanor accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2022: (-/-)						Medical redshirt (knee); Enrolled in June 2022
2023: (12/11)	62	1,013	16.34	6	6	Third Team All-American; First Team All-ACC; led ACC in receiving yards; missed bowl game (opt-out)
2024: (12/12)	63	831	13.19	6	6	Second Team All-ACC; led team in receiving
Total: (24/23)	125	1,844	14.75	12	12

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6016	206	10	32 3/8	78 3/8	4.44	2.59	1.56	38 1/2	10' 7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone or bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6012	207	10	32 3/4	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Impressive physical specimen and uses his frame from snap to whistle
- Builds up speed vertically to get on defenders' toes and overtake coverage
- Uses quick feet to sink, stay tight and break open at the top of the route
- Showed improved salesmanship to get corners off balance
- Tracks the ball well with the body coordination to adjust or high point
- Highlight reel is full of one-handed and high-degree-of-difficulty grabs
- Comfortable playing through heavy contact downfield and will create late space
- Play strength and physicality stand out in his love for blocking and the way he looks to steamroll defenders as a ballcarrier
- Not a trash talker but always looks to impose his will and consistently blocks through the whistle
- Almost identical production the past two seasons, despite inconsistent quarterback play

WEAKNESSES:

- Too reliant on his body and doesn't always trust his hands
- More drops than you'd like to see
- Caught his fair share of 50-50 balls, but he lost more of those battles than he won
- Inconsistent technique getting off press coverage
- Some of his body tightness leads to clunky underneath separation attempts
- Not much of a make-you-miss threat (ran a ton of hitches and stop routes that limited his run-after-catch chances)
- Played on kickoff coverage in 2023 but didn't play on special teams in 2024
- Forced to redshirt during his first year at Stanford after tearing the ACL, MCL and meniscus in his knee (Aug. 2022); missed most of his senior year of high school with a torn PCL (Sept. 2021)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Stanford, Ayomanor was the X wide receiver to the boundary in head coach Troy Taylor's tempo-based RPO scheme. After shifting from hockey to football while growing up in Canada, he emerged as a go-to weapon the past two seasons at Stanford, despite playing for an offense that averaged just 10.3 yards per completion in 2024 (128th in the FBS). His breakout performance came in a 2023 comeback victory against Colorado, in which he set a school record with 294 receiving yards while often facing off against cornerback Travis Hunter.

Despite his lack of technical polish, Ayomanor can be a challenging cover because of his size, toughness and athletic traits. He has outstanding body control when tracking and adjusting to throws, although his aggressive play personality and finishing skills need to be developed for him to earn consistent NFL snaps. Overall, Ayomanor lacks natural refinement but can be a matchup weapon. He is a large, physical target for the quarterback with a sizable catch radius and the ability to challenge vertically. He has yet to play his best football.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 90 overall)

WR12 Kyle Williams

Washington State, 5SR

HOMETOWN Inglewood, CA	HIGH SCHOOL St. Monica	BIRTHDAY Nov 13, 2002	AGE 22.44	HT 5105	WT 190	NUM #2
---------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

Editor's note: An earlier version of this player profile incorrectly reported that Kyle Williams has a daughter. The player profile has been corrected.

BACKGROUND: Kyle Williams, one of four children (two boys, two girls), was born in Baltimore with his parents (Stephen and Erin) before the family relocated to Southern California. Before making the switch to wide receiver, Williams played quarterback and trained at Clarkson Quarterback Club with Steve Clarkson, a longtime private coach for several NFL quarterbacks. His younger brother (Mychai) played defensive back at Colorado State (2022-23) before transferring to Division II Missouri Southern State before the 2024 season.

Williams enrolled at Narbonne High in Los Angeles, where he served as backup quarterback for two seasons. Feeling blocked on the depth chart, he transferred to Hawthorne High before his junior season. Williams won the starting job, and the lefty passer completed 127 of 220 attempts for 2,114 yards, 26 touchdowns and seven interceptions. He also rushed for 941 yards and eight touchdowns as Hawthorne qualified for the 2018 state playoffs. For his senior season, Williams transferred to St. Monica Catholic High to be coached by Anton Clarkson (Steve's son). Not only did Clarkson sway him (and Mychai) to switch schools but also positions, convincing Williams that a move to wide receiver would be his best chance at a college scholarship. Williams made the move (also played cornerback and safety), then accounted for 31 receptions for 763 yards (24.6 average) and nine touchdowns in 2019, adding two touchdown passes and a punt return touchdown. He also ran track at Hawthorne and had personal bests of 11.05 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.83 in the 200.

A three-star recruit, Williams was the 102nd-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 131 recruit in California. After competing at a few recruiting camps, he received his first scholarship offer from FCS William & Mary in April 2019. Soon after, Williams picked up his first FBS offers from Colorado State and Nevada. Once he made the switch to wide receiver, New Mexico, San Jose State and UNLV entered the mix, as well. Williams developed a connection with former UNLV head coach Marcus Arroyo and committed before signing day. He was the sixth-ranked recruit in Arroyo's 2020 class.

After three productive seasons, Williams entered the transfer portal after UNLV fired Arroyo. He received offers from Colorado, Colorado State, Fresno State and Pittsburgh before committing to Washington State. Williams took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a fifth season. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (6/6)	35	426	12.17	2	3	UNLV; Freshman All-American; led team in receiving; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/10)	42	601	14.31	2	5	UNLV; missed two games (injury)
2022: (9/9)	40	541	13.53	5	5	UNLV; missed three games (injury)
2023: (12/12)	61	842	13.80	6	3	Washington State; enrolled January 2023
2024: (13/13)	70	1,198	17.11	14	5	Washington State; led team in receiving
Total: (50/50)	248	3,608	14.55	29	21

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5105	190	8 3/4	30 1/8	73	4.40	2.54	1.53	36 1/2	9' 11"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (right hamstring injury during pos. drills); caught punts
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive driving off line of scrimmage
- Varies release package to shake defenders and get vertical
- Makes dynamic speed cuts to create separation out of breaks
- Short-area burst to skirt tacklers and turn short gains into big plays
- Tracks ball downfield and can take it out of the air
- NFL scouts gave strong character feedback based on how teammates felt about him
- In 2024, posted third-most receiving yards in a season in Washington State history

WEAKNESSES:

- Unassuming size, strength and body bulk
- Small hands and will have occasional concentration drop
- Can get hung up versus press and outdone physically mid-route
- Doesn't have body strength to shake off tacklers
- Hurries into stem releases and will benefit with a more controlled setup
- Mediocre blocker — bigger defenders will discard him
- Didn't play on special teams in college
- Injured his hamstring at the Combine, which sidelined him for the pro day

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Washington State, Williams was the X receiver in offensive coordinator Ben Arbuckle's Air Raid scheme (74.0 percent of snaps wide, 25.3 percent in the slot). He was a steady pass catcher over three seasons at UNLV, then blossomed in Pullman the past two years while catching passes from Cam Ward in 2023 and John Mateer in 2024. He finished the 2024 season No. 4 in the FBS with 14 receiving touchdowns (one behind Colorado's Travis Hunter and Ohio State's Jeremiah Smith).

Williams is quick to uncover near the line or win downfield — he posted an outstanding success rate (58.3 percent) on throws of more than 20 yards in 2024. The next step in his development will be to polish his route steps to better harness his athletic traits. Overall, Williams might not stand out with his size or play strength, but he compensates for that with his ability to accelerate to top gear rapidly and create catchable windows for his quarterback. With more seasoning, he can become a WR 2/3 for an NFL offense.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 91 overall)

WR13 Tory Horton

Colorado State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Fresno, CA	Washington Union	Nov 29, 2002	22.40	6024	196	#14

BACKGROUND: Tory Horton, the youngest of five children (three boys, two girls), was born and raised in Fresno, Calif., with his parents (Tim and Zezette). His older sister (Jeane) was an All-American volleyball player at UTEP (2009-13) and has played professional volleyball in France, Germany, Italy and Peru. His older brother (Tyler) played cornerback at Boise State (2015-18) and signed with the Miami Dolphins after going undrafted in the 2019 NFL Draft — he left the team during mini-camp to pursue a career in law enforcement. Horton grew up playing several sports, including baseball (his first love), basketball (his father's favorite sport), football and soccer.

Horton originally attended Edison High, where he began on the JV football team before getting the call up to varsity late in his sophomore season. As a junior, he posted 37 receptions for 742 yards (20.1 average) and seven touchdowns, adding a rushing touchdown and passing touchdown to earn second-team all-league honors. For his senior season, Horton transferred to Washington Union and helped the team to an 11-2 record and the 2019 league championship. He caught 37 passes for 821 yards (22.2 average) and 15 touchdowns, earning first-team all-league and conference MVP honors. Horton played defensive back as a senior (29 tackles and four interceptions), and he also lettered in baseball (outfielder and pitcher), basketball and track (jumps and relays).

A three-star recruit, Horton was the 204th-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 263 recruit in California. A late bloomer who played most of his senior year of high school at age 16, Horton was "too skinny" and struggled to get noticed at recruiting camps. He received primarily FCS attention with offers from Montana, Montana State and Northern Colorado. He grew up attending Fresno State games, but the Bulldogs never offered. Late in his senior season, Nevada (and lead recruiter Eric Scott) invited him for an official visit and gave him his only FBS offer.

After two seasons at Nevada, Horton transferred to Colorado State, following Jay Norvell, who left Nevada to become Colorado State's head coach before the 2022 season. After a productive season, Horton was recruited by several SEC programs (with NIL opportunities), but he stayed loyal to Norvell and didn't transfer. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted because of the pandemic and returned to Colorado State for a fifth season.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (9/3)	20	336	16.80	5	1	Nevada; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (12/5)	52	659	12.67	5	2	Nevada; 44-yard pass
2022: (12/12)	71	1,131	15.90	8	8	Colorado State; First Team All-MWC; 2-for-2 passing for 35 yards; 72-yard PR TD
2023: (12/12)	96	1,136	11.83	8	4	Colorado State; First Team All-MWC (WR); Second Team All-MWC (PR); 79-yard PR TD; 30-yard TD pass; team captain
2024: (6/5)	26	353	13.58	1	1	Colorado State; 78-yard PR TD; team captain; missed one game (groin); missed final seven games (right knee)
Total: (51/37)	265	3,615	13.64	27	16

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6024	196	9	30 5/8	77	4.41	2.56	1.53	37 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No position drills, BJ, SS, three-cone, bench — choice
PRO DAY	6022	190	8 7/8	31 3/8	76 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10'6"	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Gliding speed and shows go-and-get-it gear (22.5 in-game mph)
- Can stack/separate vertically or sell double moves
- Shows healthy dose of crossers and over routes on film and has feel for where to fit in coverage
- Able to flip hips toward the ball and make smooth body adjustments or climb ladder on throws above line of sight
- Can start/stop in a blink to shake defenders after catch; put more missed tackles on tape than expected
- Offers value as punt returner (three return TDs at Colorado State, of 79, 78 and 72 yards); averaged 16.3 yards per return (26 attempts for 42 yards and three TDs)
- Had a passing touchdown (5-for-6 passing in his career for 151 yards, one TD, one INT)
- Two-time team captain (Norvell: "I've been around the kid for a long time, and he's made of the right stuff.")
- Set CSU single-game record for receptions (16, vs. Colorado in 2023) and finished No. 2 in career receiving yards (3,615) both at Colorado State and in the Mountain West Conference

WEAKNESSES:

- Skinny, lean-limbed frame with limited functional strength
- Too easily jammed, rerouted and forced off intended path
- Rushes as route runner, which leads to drifts and disrupts timing concepts
- Has footwork to snap off sharp route breaks, but cheats and rounds too often
- Improved drop rate in 2023 but also put some frustrating focus drops on tape (see 2023 Utah State tape)
- Struggles to frame and finish on the football with a crowd around him
- More double catches than you'd like to see, especially when working over the middle
- Willing positional blocker but lacks sustain strength
- Despite thin frame, stayed durable most of his career until his final season — missed one game because of groin strain (Sept. 2024); suffered season-ending right knee injury (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Colorado State, Horton was primarily an outside receiver (on the right side of the formation) in Jay Norvell's version of the Air Raid. After ranking top five in the FBS in catches (96) and first-down grabs (57) in 2023, he returned for his "super senior" season in 2024 but played in just five games because of a right knee injury — and fell 35 receiving yards shy of the Mountain West career record. However, he will continue Colorado State's impressive run of producing pass-catching draft picks (Trey McBride, Olabisi Johnson, Michael Gallup, Rashard Higgins).

Horton is field-fast and flashes an explosive gear on downfield and crossing routes (33 combined catches of 20 yards or more over the 2022-23 seasons, seventh most in FBS). His ball skills and route timing can be disrupted by physical defensive backs, but his vertical speed will also open up comebacks, digs and underneath runways. Overall, Horton must tighten his route running and get stronger, but his fluidity, speed and natural tracking skills can be weaponized by the right coaching staff. He projects as a rotational Z receiver/punt returner who can gradually push for starting flanker reps.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Marshall, TX	Marshall	Nov 22, 2001	23.42	6037	222	#3

BACKGROUND: Savion Williams grew up in east Texas, near the Arkansas and Louisiana state lines. He rode horses and played sports as a child and was introduced to football by his grandfather. He was primarily a quarterback throughout little league. Williams married his wife (Jorden), a Texas Tech graduate, in December 2023. The couple has a daughter (Legacy), who was born six weeks premature (May 2023) and spent 17 weeks in the NICU because of a birth defect that required open-heart surgery (Aug. 2023).

Williams attended Marshall High, where he was a three-sport standout. After putting himself on the radar as a sophomore wide receiver, he earned honorable mention All-East Texas as a junior and formed one of area's top receiving duos with Tahj Williams, who went on to play at Memphis and USC before being selected in Round 7 (No. 241) of the 2024 NFL Draft. Savion Williams caught 42 passes for 659 yards and 12 touchdowns as a junior and helped Marshall to a 10-win season and the 2018 district championship. As a senior, he moved to his childhood position of quarterback and led the program to another district title and playoff appearance. He finished his final season with 990 rushing yards, 961 passing yards, 121 receiving yards and 28 total touchdowns (18 rushing, eight passing, two receiving). Williams was also known for his high-flying dunks on the Marshall basketball team and lettered in track, setting a personal bests of 22.70 seconds in the 200 meters.

A three-star recruit, Williams was the 75th-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 59 recruit in Texas. He was recruited primarily as a wide receiver, although Houston did show interest in him as a quarterback (Williams wanted to play wide receiver in college). He received his first scholarship offer from Bowling Green during the spring of his sophomore year (April 2018). As a junior, Williams received his first major offer from Arkansas and former head coach Chad Morris, an East Texas native. He added offers from Baylor, Kansas State, TCU and others during his junior season before committing to Arkansas.

However, he decommitted after Arkansas fired Morris in November 2019. Williams received late offers from Ole Miss and Texas but was already leaning toward TCU and signed with the Horned Frogs. Williams was the fifth-ranked recruit in former head coach Gary Patterson's 2020 class (second-ranked receiver in TCU's class behind Quentin Johnston). He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic returned to Fort Worth for his fifth season in 2024. Williams graduated with a degree in criminal justice (Dec. 2024). He opted out of TCU's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but later pulled out of the event.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	1	8	8.00	0	0	Enrolled June 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (7/0)	6	71	11.83	0	1
2022: (15/15)	29	392	13.52	4	5
2023: (11/11)	41	573	13.98	4	2	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in receiving yards; missed one game (illness)
2024: (12/12)	60	611	10.18	6	8	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; 51 carries, 322 yards, 6 rushing TDs; 6-yard TD pass; missed bowl game (injury)
Total: (52/38)	137	1,655	12.08	14	16

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6037	222	10 1/4	32 1/2	80 7/8	4.48	2.63	1.60	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No bench (med. exclusion: left shoulder); no position drills, jumps, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Looks like Adonis with his large, cut-up frame and long arms
- Moves with short-area quickness and body control of a much smaller athlete
- "Freaks List" alum because of his explosiveness and power (would be favored to win a 2025 NFL Draft prospects' slam-dunk contest)
- Physical to the football, especially on fades, and consistently high points in traffic
- Burst and play strength were on display as a wildcat quarterback (46 snaps in 2024)
- Runs with urgency; combined for 40 forced missed tackles on 111 offensive touches his senior season
- Completed all three pass attempts in 2024 — NFL scouts say he had the strongest arm on the TCU roster (played quarterback in high school)
- Wore the captain's "C" on his jersey
- Receiving production improved each season at TCU

WEAKNESSES:

- Not the most natural hands catcher, especially mid-stride
- Lacks refinement as a route runner
- Gives too many indicators to defensive backs about what he is doing

- Most of 2024 targets (72.3 percent) came within 10 yards of the line of scrimmage (one catch of 30 yards or more)
- Too willing to push off late and needs to be more subtle with physicality down the field
- Initial acceleration pops, but he doesn't have an impressive pull-away gear
- Functional blocker but should be better given his size, strength and coordination
- Hasn't returned kickoffs since the 2020 season (14/312/0)
- Lackluster career production — only one 100-yard receiving game (2023 vs. Texas) in 52 games played

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at TCU, Williams transitioned to a hybrid receiver role ("Frog" package) as a super senior in offensive coordinator Kendal Briles' up-tempo, spread attack. He split his 2024 snaps between wide receiver (exclusively to the left of the formation) and the backfield (84 snaps), as either a running back or wildcat quarterback. With just 23 targets of more than 10 yards (resulting in nine catches), he was basically an extension of the run game on screens and slants. He also averaged eight carries per game over the final six contests of 2024.

A big, physically imposing athlete, Williams has some freaky traits that will tease playmaking flashes (very fitting that he grew up idolizing Calvin Johnson). He can play above the rim and has a knack for pulling in contested catches, but he needs to show better confidence in his hands and improve the details of his routes. Overall, TCU leaned into Williams' unique athletic profile in 2024, and the manufactured touches showcased his ability to create with the ball. However, the move came out of necessity, because of Williams' inconsistencies as a traditional receiver. He projects as more of a "joker" weapon and needs a creative play caller who can utilize him in different ways (similar to Cordarrelle Patterson).

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

WR15 Jaylin Lane

Virginia Tech, 5SR

HOMETOWN Clover, SC	HIGH SCHOOL Clover	BIRTHDAY May 01, 2002	AGE 22.98	HT 5096	WT 191	NUM #83
------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Joshua Jaylin Lane, the youngest of two boys, was born in Spartanburg County, in upstate South Carolina, with his parents (Brian and Kenya). His father has been a high school football head coach since 2007, and the family has moved around South Carolina for his career. He was head coach at South Florence (2007) for one season before moving to Woodruff (2008-13), where he won the 2011 state championship. He then jumped to his alma mater, James F. Byrnes (2014-16), followed by Clover (2017-22) and Westside (2023-present), where he won the 2023 4A state championship.

Starting at age 5, Jaylin Lane helped out as a ball boy for his father — he grew up on high school sidelines and in the locker room. After flag football, he played little league for the Cougars as a do-everything offensive weapon. Lane was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, including baseball and basketball. His older brother (BJ) played defensive back (for their father) at Byrnes before spending the 2015 season at Charleston Southern. Jaylin proposed to his longtime girlfriend (Ariana) in July 2024.

Lane started his prep career at Byrnes High as a freshman before transferring to Clover High as a sophomore when his father was hired as head coach in 2017. He had his breakout season as a junior with 43 receptions for 605 yards and eight touchdowns. As a senior captain, Lane led Clover to a 12-1 record (including the first unbeaten regular season in school history) and a regional championship (first for the program since 2006). He set numerous school records, including his 76 catches for 1,611 yards and 30 touchdowns, which earned him all-state and all-region honors. Lane had 14 catches for 281 yards and four touchdowns in his final game, which came in the third round of the 5A state playoffs — Clover's only loss in 2019. He also lettered in basketball (starting point guard) and track, including personal bests of 15 feet, 8 inches in the long jump, 11.13 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.98 in the 200.

A three-star recruit, Lane was the 251st-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 42 recruit in South Carolina. He went overlooked as a recruit early in high school because of his 5-foot-7, 160-pound frame. After his junior season, he received his first scholarship offer from NAIA St. Andrews, followed by offers from Division II Lenoir-Rhyne and North Greenville. His special senior season drew the attention of several nearby FCS programs, which led to offers from schools including Charleston Southern, Chattanooga, Gardner-Webb, Mercer, Tennessee Tech, Western Carolina and Wofford. Lane's first FBS offer came in October 2019 from Charlotte, followed by offers from Middle Tennessee and Coastal Carolina. A month later, he committed to Middle Tennessee. Lane was the top-ranked recruit in Rick Stockstill's 2020 class.

After leading the team in receiving in 2022, he entered the transfer portal in January 2023 and committed to Virginia Tech. Lane took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Blacksburg for the 2024 season. He graduated with a degree in consumer studies. Lane opted out of Virginia Tech's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	13	122	9.38	1	2	Middle Tennessee; Honorable Mention All-CUSA; enrolled August 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/8)	42	466	11.10	4	1	Middle Tennessee; First Team All-CUSA (PR); missed one game (injury); rush TD; 70-yard PR TD
2022: (11/11)	69	940	13.62	5	3	Middle Tennessee; Honorable Mention All-CUSA (WR, KR); led team in receiving; missed two games (injury)
2023: (12/9)	41	538	13.12	6	3	Virginia Tech; led team in catches; missed one game (hamstring)
2024: (12/11)	38	466	12.26	2	3	Virginia Tech; Third Team All-ACC (PR); 6-yard passing TD; 58-yard PR TD; 2 rushing TDs; missed bowl (opt-out)
Total: (54/39)	203	2,532	12.47	18	12

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5096	191	9 7/8	31 3/4	77 1/4	4.34	2.52	1.53	40	11' 0"	4.12	6.75	14	Caught punts
PRO DAY	5095	192	9 7/8	32 1/4	76 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Speedy athlete and can build his acceleration quickly (remarkable combine performance)
- Keeps coverage honest with his three-level skills
- Quick to read and attack leverage on option routes
- Route pacing clearly improved over his two seasons with the Hokies (trains with former NFL receiver Eric Moulds)
- Adequate hand-eye coordination as a screen target to pluck, put the ball away and go
- Terrific vision on returns or quick hitters to follow blocks and disrupt pursuit angles
- Arm tacklers will slide off him when his motor is running at top speed
- Experienced return man — averaged 10.8 yards per punt return with two touchdowns in college (also averaged 18.2 yards per kick return)
- Son of a football coach; toughness instilled in him early

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized target, although catch radius is slightly bigger than most his size
- Short steps on some route breaks, zapping his snap
- Below-average finishing skills through traffic (didn't have a contested catch on any of 2024 tapes studied)
- Wasn't used much as a deep threat, with only two catches on throws that traveled deeper than 20 yards in 2024 (both were touchdowns)
- Solid effort as a blocker, but there are size/strength limitations
- Two muffs on punt returns in 2024
- Surpassed 50 yards receiving only three times in 12 games in 2024

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Virginia Tech, Lane was primarily the slot receiver in former offensive coordinator Tyler Bowen's balanced scheme (also saw Z and backfield snaps). After three seasons at Middle Tennessee, he posted moderate receiving production in his two seasons in Blacksburg and scored six touchdowns in 2024 (in four different ways: two receiving, two rushing, one passing, one punt return). Lane was a productive punt returner in college and shined on offense with screens, jets, etc., when he could throttle his speed, follow blocks and motor through fly-by tackles.

He is capable of stretching the field vertically (dynamic on slot posts), although he needs work in the intermediate part of the field to better set up defenders, win body position and finish crowded catch points. Overall, Lane is missing the well-rounded effectiveness that teams want in a starter, but his balance and acceleration — especially with the ball in his hands — will give him a chance to impress an NFL coaching staff in camp. His value as a punt returner should boost his chances of securing a roster spot and getting on the field.

GRADE: 4th round

WR16

Tez Johnson

Oregon, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pinson, AL	Pinson Valley	May 18, 2002	22.93	5097	154	#15

BACKGROUND: Keyonteze "Tez" Johnson has three biological siblings and grew up in Birmingham, Ala., with his mother (Shamika Johnson) and stepfather (John Posey). His father committed suicide when Johnson was an infant, and he describes his childhood as a "struggle." He often found himself in trouble for hanging with the wrong crowd, but sports became an escape. During his sophomore year of high school, because Johnson was struggling with grades and rebelliousness, his mother gave her blessing for him to move in with his high school head coach, Patrick Nix, in April 2018. Johnson became an "adopted" son to Patrick and Krista Nix, and was like a brother to their four children, including Johnson's high school quarterback, current Denver Broncos QB Bo Nix. What was originally meant to be a day-to-day living arrangement became permanent. Johnson slept in bunk beds with Bo's younger brother (Caleb), currently a walk-on safety at Clemson. The Nix family did not formally adopt Johnson, but he refers to them as his adopted family and to Krista as "Mama."

Johnson attended Pinson Valley High just outside of Birmingham. After primarily playing quarterback on the JV team as a 120-pound freshman, he moved up to varsity and became a wide receiver for Nix, who had just transferred to Pinson. Johnson helped lead the team to a 15-0 record in 2017, including the 6A state title game. As a junior, he became Nix's go-to weapon and finished with 106 receptions for 1,457 yards and 10 touchdowns, again leading Pinson to the 6A state championship in 2018. Nix graduated and signed with Auburn, but Johnson returned to Pinson for his senior season and recorded 62 catches for 1,140 yards and 12 touchdowns, earning all-state honors and leading the team to the 2019 regional title.

A three-star recruit, Johnson was the 208th-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 57 recruit in Alabama. After his junior season, he received his first scholarship offers from Arkansas State, Middle Tennessee and Western Kentucky, in April 2019. Johnson received attention from Kentucky and a few other then-Power 5 programs after winning Offensive MVP honors at The Opening Regionals that summer. Before the start of his senior season, he committed to Troy, which is a few hours south of Pinson Valley. Johnson was the 11th-ranked recruit in Troy's 2020 class.

After three seasons in the program, he entered the transfer portal in December 2022 and received offers from Cincinnati, Indiana, Oklahoma State and Penn State. But his dream school since age 5 had been Oregon, and the opportunity to again play with his "brother," Nix, made the Ducks an obvious choice. Johnson accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (11/1)	18	211	11.72	0	1	Troy; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/12)	67	735	10.97	4	8	Troy; Third Team All-SBC; led team in receiving
2022: (13/2)	56	863	15.41	4	3	Troy; Honorable Mention All-SBC; led team in receiving; 7-yard passing TD
2023: (14/13)	86	1,182	13.74	10	7	Oregon; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12; single-season Oregon receptions record
2024: (12/12)	83	898	10.82	10	3	Oregon; Second Team All-Big Ten; Big Ten Championship game MVP; 85-yard PR TD; missed two games (right shoulder)
Total: (62/40)	310	3,889	12.55	28	22

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5097	154	9	29 3/8	73 3/4	4.51	2.66	1.58	37	10' 11"	4.15	6.65	DNP	No bench — choice
PRO DAY	5095	156	8 7/8	30 1/8	74	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive burst and open-field speed to dust corners vertically
- Can access another gear with ball in the air
- Comfortably frames football with control to finish full-extension grabs
- Lowest drop rate of his career (3.5 percent) in 2024
- Yards-after-catch threat and can be a weapon on screens and gadgets (No. 2 in FBS with 35 catches behind line of scrimmage in 2024)
- Able to decelerate on command, with balance as a ball carrier to redirect and leave pursuit flying by
- Has springs in calves for quick stop-and-hop moves, easily regaining his top-end juice
- Averaged 8.9 yards per punt return in college, with an 85-yard touchdown (58 attempts for 519 yards and one TD)
- Much tougher over middle of the field than his size would suggest
- Finished top five in Oregon history in career catches (169), despite only two seasons in program

WEAKNESSES:

- Short with an extremely slight frame and skinny limbs
- Marginal play strength when fighting through early and late contact
- Doesn't have power throughout his body to consistently win in traffic (just one contested catch in 2024)
- Drops and double catches are usually a result of him running before securing ball
- Appears to track deep ball well but saw just eight targets of 20 yards or more in 2024
- Tips routes with his eyes and rounds his breaks (needs to tighten up stem footwork, especially on 90-degree stems)
- Doesn't have sustain strength to be a factor as a blocker, especially in the quick game
- Three muffed punts in his two seasons at Oregon
- Right shoulder injury (Oct. 2024) that sidelined him for two games as a super senior; didn't look 100 percent healthy on the 2024 Rose Bowl tape vs. Ohio State

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Oregon, Johnson worked primarily out of the slot in offensive coordinator Will Stein's spread scheme (86.1 percent of his snaps the past two seasons came in the slot). He began living with the Nix family in high school, which gave him much needed structure and helped him earn a shot playing college football. After three seasons at Troy, Johnson joined his "older brother" (Bo Nix) in Eugene,

Ore., and produced the two most productive receiving seasons in school history, with two different quarterbacks (Johnson holds Oregon's No. 1 and No. 2 spots for most single-season catches).

With his explosive speed, Johnson is electric before and after the catch with no gear-down required at the catch point, which makes him a nightmare for open-field pursuit — he can stick his foot in the ground and fly. He tends to drift as a route runner and needs to expand his route tree, especially at the intermediate level (75.2 percent of his 2024 targets came on throws under 10 yards). Overall, Johnson needs to improve on the technical side, and his lack of size and strength are limiting factors, but he is a blur when he runs and catches the ball with confident hands. Though he has NFL starting upside, he is more likely to be a role player who can produce on screens, shallows, deep verticals and as a punt returner.

GRADE: 4th round

WR17 Keandre Lambert-Smith

Auburn, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Norfolk, VA	Maury	Oct 16, 2001	23.52	6006	190	#5

BACKGROUND: KeAndre "Dre" Lambert-Smith, the second oldest of five children (three girls, two boys), grew up in the Norfolk, Va., area with his mother (Karla Lambert) and father (Noah Smith). He was raised in an athletic family and watched his uncle, Kam Chancellor (also a Norfolk native) star at Maury High before playing at Virginia Tech (2006-09). Chancellor then produced a Pro Bowl career with the Seattle Seahawks (2010-18). Lambert-Smith played football "as soon as he could" and suited up for the Crusaders in pee wee. Throughout childhood, he tried playing as many sports as he could during the football offseason, including baseball, basketball, soccer, track and wrestling (Lambert-Smith on wrestling: "That lasted only one day."). His older sister was a track athlete and inspired him to take that sport more seriously.

Like his uncle, Lambert-Smith attended Maury High, where he was a three-year varsity letterman. As a sophomore, he emerged as one of the best players in the program and received first-team all-region honors (60 receptions for 1,069 yards and 11 touchdowns). Lambert-Smith saw snaps at quarterback as a junior and passed for three touchdowns while adding 60 catches for 1,035 yards and 14 touchdowns to earn all-state honors. As a senior captain, he led Maury to an undefeated 16-0 record and the 2019 5A state championship (the school's first title in 80 years). He again earned all-state, all-region and all-district honors. Lambert-Smith finished his final season with 65 receptions for 1,120 yards and 17 touchdowns, adding 245 rushing yards, five rushing touchdowns and two passing touchdowns. Over his final two seasons, he accounted for 58 total touchdowns: 42 receiving, five rushing, five passing, four punt returns, one interception and one fumble recovery. Lambert-Smith also lettered in track.

A four-star recruit, Lambert-Smith was the 37th-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in Virginia. Between his breakout sophomore season and the start of his junior year, he collected more than a dozen offers, including from Clemson, Florida, Michigan, Tennessee, Texas A&M, Virginia and Virginia Tech. Before his senior season, he added offers from Georgia, Ohio State and Miami — and the offers continued to pour in after he was named MVP at The Opening Washington, D.C., in June 2019 (he ranked in the 99th percentile of athletes, including a 39.3-inch vertical and 3.83-second short shuttle). In October 2019, midway through his senior season, Lambert-Smith committed to Penn State (over North Carolina and Virginia Tech). He was the sixth-ranked recruit in James Franklin's 2020 class.

After four seasons with the Nittany Lions, Lambert-Smith took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and transferred to Auburn for his final season. He graduated from Penn State with a degree in recreation, park and tourism management (May 2024). Lambert-Smith accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (9/5)	15	138	9.20	0	3	Penn State; enrolled January 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/13)	34	521	15.32	3	4	Penn State
2022: (13/8)	24	389	16.21	4	2	Penn State; 48-yard TD pass
2023: (13/12)	53	673	12.70	4	5	Penn State; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in receiving
2024: (12/11)	50	981	19.62	8	3	Auburn; Second Team All-SEC; led team in receiving
Total: (60/49)	176	2,702	15.35	19	17

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6006	190	9 1/8	32 5/8	78 5/8	4.37	2.56	1.52	34 1/2	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (Left hamstring injury during pos. drills)
PRO DAY	6005	189	9 1/8	32 1/2	78 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	34	10'7"	3.98	DNP	11

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive athlete — testing numbers show up on tape
- Defenses have to protect against vertical speed (five catches of 50 yards or more, third most in FBS in 2024)
- Sells double moves well to get over the top of coverage

- Baits and gets corners off balance with head bobs and timing (Lambert-Smith: "I love knee driving and being deceitful.")
- Flashed promise as a catch-and-go weapon
- Disproportionately long arms, which expands his catch radius and helps him rescue catches off his cleats
- Body control led to some "wow" catches through contact on tape
- Only player in Penn State history with multiple catches of 80 yards or more, including the longest play in Rose Bowl history (88-yard catch)
- Plays with some noticeable swagger; NFL scouts say he is "very" competitive

WEAKNESSES:

- Adequate height but lean limb/body and lacks ideal bulk
- Can win at the line with speed release but also can be erased if defender lands forceful jam
- Doesn't have natural feel for shielding defenders from throw
- Can slow or hit an extra gear when tracking downfield, but he's occasionally late picking up the ball to make proper adjustments
- Drops more easy passes than you'd like to see
- Can do a better job settling into soft spots mid-zone
- Lack of ideal play strength shows in his blocking responsibilities
- Production last season dipped on the road (280 receiving yards, one touchdown) compared to his numbers at home (701 receiving yards, seven touchdowns)
- Didn't play on special teams in college (as a returner or on coverage)
- Will be 24 as an NFL rookie

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Auburn, Lambert-Smith was the Z receiver (right of the formation) in head coach Hugh Freeze's RPO-leaning offense. After four up-and-down seasons at Penn State, he brought an explosive element to the Auburn offense — he ranked second in the SEC in receiving yards per game (81.8) and top 10 nationally in yards per catch (19.6). Lambert-Smith didn't run a full route tree (mostly hitch, hitch, hitch, with a few go routes mixed in). He was effective at what he was asked to do, however, because he showed the top-end speed to run by defenders and win deep.

Though he did a better job finishing grabs in 2024, his lack of size showed at the line, mid-route and at the catch point — defenders had too much success affecting his adjustments on the football. Overall, Lambert-Smith has the explosive speed to be a big-play threat for a vertical-based offense, although the volatility in his game will pigeonhole him. His lack of special teams experience will need to change for him to secure a roster spot.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

WR18 Chimere Dike

Florida, 5SR

HOMETOWN Waukesha, WI	HIGH SCHOOL Waukesha North	BIRTHDAY Dec 14, 2001	AGE 23.36	HT 6006	WT 196	NUM #17
--------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Chimere (CHIM-ray) Dike (DEE-kay), who has two older sisters (Alexa and Amara), grew up in the Milwaukee suburb of Waukesha with his parents (Uche and Mary). He was a multisport athlete as a child and dreamed of playing college ball. His parents and maternal grandfather all attended Wisconsin, so Dike grew up a diehard Badgers fan.

Dike attended Waukesha North High, where he was a four-sport letterman. He moved up to varsity as a freshman wide receiver and caught 33 passes for 392 yards and three touchdowns. As a sophomore, Dike accounted for 36 catches for 588 yards and six touchdowns. Waukesha North managed just one win in 2018, but Dike had 79 catches for 1,091 yards and 12 touchdowns, earning him all-state honors. As a senior, he again earned all-state honors with 59 catches for 962 yards and 14 touchdowns, adding 318 rushing yards. Dike also earned honorable mention all-state honors on defense with 93 tackles, two forced fumbles and two interceptions as a senior safety. He earned all-conference honors in both baseball and basketball and had a standout track career. Dike qualified for the state championships in track (sprints and relays), with personal bests of 22 feet, 5 inches in the long jump, 10.85 seconds in the 100 meters and 21.95 in the 200.

A three-star recruit, Dike was the 94th-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Wisconsin. After his standout junior season, he received his first FBS offer from Iowa State and head coach Matt Campbell (Jan. 2019). Wisconsin officially offered a week later, and Dike committed within days. He was the sixth-ranked recruit in former head coach Paul Chryst's 2020 class.

He spent four seasons in Madison before entering the transfer portal ahead of his final season in 2024, taking advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Dike listened to offers before committing to Florida, rejoining quarterback and "best friend" Graham Mertz. He was a three-time Academic All-Big Ten honoree and graduated with a degree from Wisconsin in communications (Dec. 2023). Dike accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl and was a late call-up to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (7/6)	12	189	15.75	1	1	Wisconsin; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (13/1)	19	272	14.32	1	3	Wisconsin
2022: (13/13)	47	689	14.66	6	5	Wisconsin; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; 9-yard TD rush
2023: (11/11)	19	328	17.26	1	4	Florida; missed one game (right ankle); missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2024: (13/11)	42	783	18.64	2	4	Florida; led team in receptions; team captain; enrolled January 2024
Total: (57/42)	139	2,261	16.27	11	17

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6005	196	9 1/8	32 1/8	76 7/8	4.34	2.53	1.51	38 1/2	10' 8"	4.27	6.82	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6006	195	9	32	77 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Stopwatch speed reflects his on-field speed
- Fires out of stance and closes cushion in a flash
- At his best on cross-formation patterns from condensed sets, which create a runway for his speed
- Attacks leverage before sinking his hips to drive defenders off the route
- Good use of head bobs and body turn mid-route to bait coverage
- Plays ball fairly well in the air and put examples on film of finishing through contact
- Averaged 11.7 yards on punt returns in 2024 (16 attempts for 187 yards) and was gunner on coverages (downed two punts inside the opponent's 3-yard line)
- An asset in run game with blocking effort
- Became a captain in his one season at Florida, and his past coaches rave about his work habits (NFL scout: "Absolutely an A-plus kid.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Underdeveloped pacing as route runner
- Speeds through breaks and gets his head over his skis, creating stumbles
- Physical defenders can knock him off his path too easily (didn't see a ton of press on tape)
- Relies too much on cradle catches to help secure grabs against his body
- Not as dynamic yards-after-catch option as one might expect
- Inconsistent instincts as a ball carrier — needs to better throttle his speed and avoid tackles

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Florida, Dike worked inside (59.3 percent of snaps) and outside (39.9 percent) in offensive coordinator Rob Sale's scheme. He lived out his childhood dream by playing football for the Badgers in Madison, but he made a business decision by joining the Gators in 2024, which helped him better audition for NFL scouts (led the team in catches).

With speed best described as "easy," Dike accelerates on command to attack defenders at the stem or motor away from trail coverage. To fully weaponize that speed, he needs to improve his route pacing and stride manipulation to detach himself from coverage. He also needs to rely on his gear change to maximize YAC opportunities. Overall, Dike has somewhat of a confused identity as a receiver. He is more than just a field-stretcher, but he also must develop better nuance in his routes and at the catch point to become more reliable as a separator or possession target. There is something here, and his special teams impact (as a returner or gunner) should lengthen the leash as NFL coaching attempts to maximize his talent.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

WR19 Tai Felton

Maryland, 4SR

HOMETOWN Ashburn, VA	HIGH SCHOOL Stone Bridge	BIRTHDAY Mar 15, 2003	AGE 22.11	HT 6011	WT 183	NUM #10
-------------------------	-----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Tai'shar "Tai" (Tie) Felton, who has a younger sister (Jaiyda), grew up in northern Virginia (30 miles outside of Washington, D.C.), with his mother (Shannon) and father (Iteago). He was introduced to football at age 3 by his father, and it quickly became his go-to activity. Felton played youth football for the Patriots. In eighth grade, he caught the basketball bug and dropped football but quickly realized that football was his better sport and returned to the field as a high school freshman.

Felton attended Stone Bridge High, which opened in 2000, and played both ways as a wide receiver and cornerback on the freshman team. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore (wishbone offense) and had a breakout season, helping the varsity team to a 12-3 record and an appearance in the 2018 Class 5 state championship game (lost to Highland Springs). Felton finished his sophomore season with 50 receptions for 1,037 yards and 13 touchdowns (also had an interception in the state title game), which earned him first-team all-state, all-region and all-county honors. He was set for another productive season as a junior but suffered a torn ACL on a punt return midway through the 2019 season and required season-ending surgery. Felton was hoping to return healthy for his senior season, but the 2020 fall season was postponed because of the COVID-19 pandemic, so he graduated and became an early enrollee rather than playing his senior season in spring 2021.

A three-star recruit, Felton was the 144th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 29 recruit in Virginia. After his breakout sophomore season in high school, he received an offer from Virginia Tech (Dec. 2018). Felton was planning to commit to former head coach Justin Fuente and Virginia Tech, but the program rescinded its scholarship offer following Felton's ACL injury in October 2019 (and the family didn't hear from Fuente again). Felton had collected more than 20 scholarship offers, but the interest in him went dark after his injury. However, Maryland and head coach Mike Locksley stayed aggressive — that loyalty led Felton to commit to the Terrapins in November 2019. He was the 15th-ranked recruit in Locksley's 2021 class and enrolled early in January 2021. Felton accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (8/0)	5	51	10.20	0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/6)	23	309	13.43	2	1
2023: (13/13)	48	723	15.06	6	3	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in receiving TDs
2024: (12/12)	96	1,124	11.71	9	8	Third Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; led team in receiving; single-season school receptions record
Total: (46/31)	172	2,207	12.83	17	12

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6011	183	9	30	72 3/8	4.37	2.56	1.54	39 1/2	10' 10"	DNP	DNP	DNP	Left hand measured; no SS, three-cone, bench — choice
PRO DAY	6006	188	8 7/8	29 3/8	72 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.27	DNP	12

STRENGTHS:

- Speedy athlete with afterburners to fly in the open field
- Able to hold vertical stem to break down corners
- Dangerous catch-and-run weapon on screens and quick targets (ranked top five among FBS receivers with 26 forced missed tackles in 2024)
- Flashes fifth gear — tough to catch from behind once he hits his stride
- Put some impressive downfield adjustment catches and over-the-shoulder grabs on film
- Can create pockets of space (eight of nine touchdowns in 2024 came in red zone)
- His coaches say he has never shied away from work
- Primarily played outside, but he credits OC Josh Gattis for developing his slot production in 2024
- Experienced on kick and punt coverages (12 career special teams tackles)
- Fourth player in school history to reach 1,000 receiving yards in a season

WEAKNESSES:

- Slender, stretched-out body type with shorter arms
- Gear-down lacks suddenness, giving corners a chance to drive on his breaks
- Physical corners can knock him off route path or jam him up
- Inconsistent tracking and will fight the ball a little bit mid-air
- Not polished using his body and timing to finish contested balls on tape
- Underwhelming holding the point as a blocker
- Held onto the ball as senior but had three fumbles as junior
- Torn ACL in left knee (Oct. 2019)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Maryland, Felton lined up primarily outside in offensive coordinator Josh Gattis' pro-style spread scheme, although he logged more slot snaps as a senior than in his previous three years combined. After missing almost all of his final two years of high school, he was somewhat of a late bloomer when he joined the Terps and found himself buried on the depth chart, but his impact and production improved each of his four years in the program. As a senior, he was named team MVP after leading the Big Ten in catches (8.0) and receiving yards (93.7) per game and breaking DJ Moore's single-season Maryland record for catches.

A natural field-stretcher, Felton can stay in the corner's pocket before pulling away at the last moment, although his success rate was just 28.6 percent (eight catches on 28 targets) on throws of more than 20 yards in 2024. He can avoid contact with his quick feet, but his mediocre play strength stands out and hurts his ability to play through contact mid-route and at the catch point. Overall, Felton has the explosive speed to be a weapon in the quick game and downfield, which gives him NFL starting potential as a Z receiver. His special teams experience will only boost his chances of cementing a spot on an NFL depth chart.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Bradley, FL	Lakeland	Oct 11, 2001	23.53	6003	179	#11

BACKGROUND: Arian Smith grew up in Polk County, Fla. (east of Tampa). He always knew he was one of the fastest kids in his neighborhood, but he didn't play organized sports until middle school, when he started running track. Around eighth grade, his mom put him in football, which quickly became his focus. Though he developed a love for both sports, he always considered himself a football player who also ran track.

Smith enrolled at Mulberry High, where he was a multisport athlete. He earned a spot on varsity as a freshman and saw action at quarterback, running back, wide receiver and in the secondary. As a sophomore, Smith accounted for 830 rushing yards for 11 touchdowns, along with 21 tackles and two interceptions (one returned for a touchdown). As a junior, he was primarily a wildcat quarterback and was named 2018 Small School Defensive Player of the Year at cornerback. Smith transferred to Lakeland High for his senior season to challenge himself against better competition. After playing mostly quarterback at Mulberry, he moved exclusively to wide receiver in his final year and helped the team to a 12-1 record and the 2019 district championship. Smith finished his senior year with 25 catches for 419 yards and six touchdowns, adding two rushing touchdowns and two kickoff return touchdowns. He earned an invitation to the 2020 Under Armour All-American Game.

Smith also lettered in basketball at Mulberry, but his best sport in high school was track. He burst onto the scene as a freshman by winning the 2017 2A state championship in the long jump (23 feet, 7 inches), then as a sophomore set a new personal best of 25-3, fourth best all-time in Florida and No. 1 in the country in 2018. Smith was also a standout sprinter — he had his best season as a junior, claiming a state championship in the 200 meters and a runner-up finish in the 100. His personal bests of 10.39 seconds in the 100 and 21.14 in the 200 both were nationally ranked. The summer before his senior year, in July 2019, Smith anchored the United States to a World U20 record in the 4x100 relay (38.62) at the Pan American Championship in Costa Rica.

A four-star recruit, Smith was the ninth-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 12 recruit in Florida. He played at a smaller high school program as an underclassman, but his impact in football and track quickly drew the attention of college programs. Smith picked up his first offer from Florida, followed by offers from Alabama, Florida State, Georgia, Miami, North Carolina and Tennessee after his sophomore season. After his junior year, he added offers from Auburn, LSU, Notre Dame and Texas A&M. Ultimately, his decision came down to Alabama or Georgia, and Smith picked the Bulldogs. He was the fifth-ranked recruit in head coach Kirby Smart's 2020 class (behind Kelee Ringo, Jalen Carter, Broderick Jones and Darnell Washington). The opportunity to be a dual-sport athlete in college was a prominent part of his recruitment, and Smith also joined the Georgia track team. As a freshman, he helped Georgia place second at the NCAA Championships in the 4x100 relay (38.54) and set a personal best in the 100 meters (10.10). After the 2022 football season, Smith dropped track to focus on football. He graduated with a degree in housing management and policy (May 2024). Smith accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	2	86	43.00	1	0	Redshirted; enrolled June 2020
2021: (4/0)	3	102	34.00	2	0	Missed 11 games (turf toe, shin contusion, broken leg)
2022: (11/0)	7	198	28.29	1	0	Missed first four games (ankle)
2023: (14/2)	8	153	19.12	2	3
2024: (14/9)	48	817	17.02	4	10	Led team in receiving yards
Total: (47/11)	68	1,356	19.94	10	13

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6001	179	9	31 1/4	77	4.36	2.57	1.57	38	10' 7"	4.19	6.82	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6003	181	9 1/8	31 1/2	76 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Track athlete with rare acceleration
- Shows fluid, galloping strides to eat up grass vertically
- Quick, sudden feet in releases to escape the jam
- Decelerates on command to create space at top of routes
- Sharp, well-paced stem cuts leave cover defenders off balance
- Tracks deep ball well to position his body underneath the throw
- Can stick foot in the ground and fly, if a lane is presented to him
- Feisty competitor; surprisingly effective as a blocker
- Wasn't return man in college but made an impact as a gunner on punt coverages (two tackles in 2024)
- Strong feedback from coaches about his work behind the scenes (Mike Bobo: "I love that kid, because there's not a harder worker on our team.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Shows questionable trust in hands — drops affected confidence
- Only Power 4 player with double-digit drops in 2024 (four came downfield, two on intermediate routes, four within 10 yards of the line)
- Questionable play strength and can be knocked off routes
- Can be slowed by physical defensive backs at top of routes
- Needs to be more subtle in fight back to the ball (flagged three times for offensive pass interference in 2024)
- Limited run strength — wasn't as elusive after the catch as expected
- Fumbled on the 2024 Tennessee tape
- Only one season of steady production
- Didn't miss a game the past two years but dealt with nonstop injuries in first three college seasons: surgery on his wrist (spring 2020) before freshman year in Athens to address fracture from high school; torn meniscus in right knee, which required surgery (July 2020) and delayed debut; battled turf toe and shin contusion throughout first half of 2021 season; broken right fibula (Nov. 2021), which required season-ending surgery; high right ankle sprain and torn ligament during 2022 fall camp, which required surgery and sidelined him for four games as sophomore

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Georgia, Smith was an inside-outside wide receiver in offensive coordinator Mike Bobo's scheme (79.4 percent of snaps wide and 20.4 percent in the slot). He teased his playmaking potential as an underclassman (76-yard touchdown vs. Ohio State in the 2022 College Football Playoff) and became more of a focal point in the offense as a redshirt senior, leading the Bulldogs in receiving yards.

Having averaged almost 20 yards per catch over his career, Smith looks like a blur zooming down/across the field (when untouched) and forces defenders to respect him deep, which creates underneath space when working back to the ball. He isn't a natural catcher of the football, and he left a lot of production on the field because of drops — although, he showed improved confidence finishing grabs away from his body during Senior Bowl practices. Overall, Smith is a vertical target who lacks polish and catch-point consistency, but he has the type of speed to pop a big play or two each game. His potential role as a gunner and decoy will boost his chances of sticking on the back end of an NFL roster.

GRADE: 5th round

WR21 Pat Bryant

Illinois, 4SR

HOMETOWN Jacksonville, FL	HIGH SCHOOL Atlantic Coast	BIRTHDAY Dec 10, 2002	AGE 22.37	HT 6022	WT 204	NUM #13
------------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Patrick "Pat" Bryant, the youngest of four children, grew up in Jacksonville, Fla., with his parents (Patrick Bryant Sr. and Louanne Harris-Bryant). Following in the footsteps of his older siblings, he was active in sports all his life. His older brother (Brandon Harris) was a team captain for his high school football team before walking on as a linebacker at South Florida in 2012. Bryant got his start in flag football at age 3 (his father coached him), then suited up for the Pop Warner Buccaneers. He also played basketball and was a natural in baseball, golf, soccer and tennis. His father served as athletic director for the Police Athletic League of Jacksonville.

Bryant enrolled at Atlantic Coast High in Jacksonville, where he was a multisport standout and played both ways on varsity (wide receiver and safety). After seeing minimal action as a freshman, he was part of the starting rotation as a sophomore and caught 39 passes for 635 yards and five touchdowns. Bryant also had an interception (returned for a touchdown) and punt return touchdown, earning 2018 third-team all-state honors. As a junior captain, he became one of the top receivers in the area (45 receptions for 684 yards and 11 touchdowns). As a senior, Bryant again served as team captain and posted a career-best 942 receiving yards on 44 catches (21.4 average) and seven touchdowns. He also lettered in basketball and track, with personal bests of 34 feet, 3 inches in the triple jump, 18-10 in the long jump, 5-6 in the high jump, 12.18 seconds in the 100 meters and 25.19 in the 200.

A three-star recruit, Bryant was the 148th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 136 recruit in Florida. Despite playing for a team that had a losing record all four years he was in high school, he started to get noticed at recruiting camps and picked up his first scholarship offer from Division II Valdosta State in May 2018. A month later, despite not yet having made an impact on varsity, Bryant received his first FBS offer from Miami. After his sophomore season, he added more than a dozen additional FBS offers, including from several ACC and Big Ten programs. As a junior, Bryant narrowed down his choice to Florida State, Georgia Tech, Nebraska, Penn State, Syracuse and Virginia Tech. But the offers continued to arrive, including a push from Illinois and head coach Lovie Smith. Bryant committed to Illinois the summer before his senior season and didn't waver after the Illini fired Smith following the 2020 season and replaced him with Bret Bielema. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in Bielema's initial class. Bryant opted out of Illinois' 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (10/3)	6	98	16.33	0	1	Enrolled June 2021
2022: (12/11)	34	453	13.32	2	5
2023: (12/9)	43	560	13.02	7	4
2024: (12/12)	54	984	18.22	10	1	Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in receiving; missed bowl game (opt-out); team captain
Total: (46/35)	137	2,095	15.29	19	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6022	204	9 1/2	31 1/8	78	4.61	2.69	1.62	37 1/2	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	Left hand measured; no SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6022	204	9	31 1/4	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with natural coordination and play strength
- Can get off the jam using a variety of different releases
- Showed improved pacing to execute double moves or attack leverage based on coverage reads
- Career high in targets (78) and career low in drops (one) in 2024
- Consistently adjusts to make tough catches away from frame
- Sneaky run-after-catch threat on tape, with nose for maximizing space and avoiding pursuit angles
- Understands situational football and did some of best work in two-minute drills
- Played inside-outside and used in a variety of receiver roles
- Voted a senior captain by teammates and described as "warrior" by Illinois coaches
- Tied Illinois' single-season record with 10 touchdown grabs as senior

WEAKNESSES:

- Marginal deep speed — not going to run by NFL defensive backs
- Doesn't have drive gear to threaten corners
- Average suddenness and must sharpen route breaks in other ways
- Plays a tad upright and would benefit from more consistent body sink at tops of routes
- Eyes will search for lurking defenders over middle of the field
- Played barely any special teams snaps in college

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Illinois, Bryant played the Z position in offensive coordinator Barry Lunney Jr.'s multiple pro-style scheme, although he was flexed across the formation, including to the slot, inline and in the backfield. His production and impact improved each of his four seasons in Champaign, culminating with an All-Big Ten senior year that included three game-winning touchdowns in the final two minutes of regulation or in overtime.

A good-sized target, Bryant plays with quick eyes and confident hands to snare fastballs and get downhill immediately (77.8 percent of his catches in 2024 resulted in a first down or touchdown). He doesn't have a threatening vertical gear, and his separation burst is average, but he skillfully uses his frame and subtle pushes through the route to finish back-shoulder grabs and crowded catch windows don't appear to disrupt his concentration. Overall, Bryant isn't super dynamic, which will be tougher to mask against NFL competition, but his body coordination and ascending technique match well with his natural tracking skills. He projects as a backup possession target who can fight for a WR2 or WR3 role in the right situation.

GRADE: 5th round

WR22 Nick Nash

San Jose State, 7SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Irvine, CA	Woodbridge	Jul 08, 1999	25.79	6024	203	#3

BACKGROUND: Kenneth "Nick" Nash, the sixth of seven children, grew up in Irvine, Calif., with his parents. His father (Kenny) played wide receiver for two seasons at San Jose State (1985-86), catching 43 passes for 589 yards and two touchdowns. Kenny Nash went undrafted in the 1987 NFL Draft and was signed by the Kansas City Chiefs (two catches for 22 yards in one game played). Kenny's brother (Ryan Smith) played wide receiver at UCLA (1999-2002).

Nick Nash started playing football in elementary school and moved to quarterback at age 12 while playing for the Irvine Chargers youth team. He enrolled at Woodbridge High in Irvine, where he was a three-sport standout. He saw action at quarterback but mostly played wide receiver and defensive back as a sophomore and junior (22 receptions for 354 yards and two touchdowns in 2016). Nash became the full-time starter at quarterback as a senior and led Woodbridge to an 8-4 record (the school's first eight-win season in more than a decade). He suffered a meniscus injury in his left knee in the opening round of the playoffs, which required surgery, and without Nash, Woodbridge lost in the second round. In 11 games, he completed 54.9 percent of his passes (117 of 213) for 1,728 yards, 18 touchdowns and six interceptions, adding 1,269 rushing yards (7.6 average) and 17 rushing touchdowns. Nash was named the Pacific Coast League's offensive MVP as a senior. He also lettered in baseball and basketball.

A two-star recruit, Nash was the 273rd-ranked athlete in the 2018 recruiting class and the No. 371 recruit in California. He had a tough time as a recruit getting noticed by Division I college programs. San Jose State, his father's alma mater, was one of the few schools to give him a long look — the Spartans offered him a chance to grayshirt. Nash signed with San Jose State as part of its 2018 recruiting class, but he didn't join the football team until January 2019. He'd hoped to play quarterback in college, but the coaches saw him at safety. However, Nash moved back to quarterback for 2019 spring practices and played well enough to convince the staff he belonged there long-term.

Over the next three seasons, including seven starts, he completed 55.8 percent of his passes (106 of 190) for 1,317 yards, 10 touchdowns and five interceptions. Nash made the transition to wide receiver during his redshirt year in 2022. After San Jose State hired Ken Niumatalolo as head coach in January 2024, Nash briefly entered the transfer portal before returning for his final season. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2018: (-/-)						Grayshirted; didn't enroll until January 2019
2019: (6/0)	1	4	4.00	0	1	QB
2020: (8/1)	0	0		0	0	QB; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/6)	4	36	9.00	0	5	QB
2022: (5/0)	6	62	10.33	1	0	Redshirted; moved to WR full-time
2023: (13/13)	48	728	15.17	8	3	Second Team All-MWC
2024: (12/12)	104	1,382	13.29	16	6	Consensus All-American; First Team All-MWC; missed bowl game (opt-out); led FBS in receiving TDs; 2 pass TDs
Total: (55/32)	163	2,212	13.57	25	15

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6024	203	8 3/4	31	76 1/2	4.57	2.68	1.60	34	10' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6021	201	8 7/8	31 3/8	76 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.37	7.08	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Plays bigger — and stronger — than his measurements
- Mixes things up with corners and knows how to use his frame from snap to finish
- Tracks the ball really well over his shoulder and when front-facing to extend and pull in throws
- Outstanding timing with leaps to battle and win in contested situations
- Experience at quarterback helps him recognize and adjust to coverages
- Touchdown catch in 11 of 12 games in 2024, including an MWC-record 10 straight games
- NFL scouts rave about his football character (2024 team captain)
- Elite 2024 production (8.7 catches per game ranked No. 2 in the FBS)

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average top-end speed by NFL standards
- Doesn't have short-area explosion to easily uncover
- Showed gradual improvements as a route runner, but his technique is still catching up
- Route breaks are more rounded than snappy
- Can shake off tackles with strength but lacks the burst to be a dynamic YAC weapon
- Doesn't have many reps outside the numbers
- Fumbled twice in 2024
- Older prospect — will turn 26 just after draft weekend

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at San Jose State, Nash worked almost exclusively out of the slot in offensive coordinator Craig Stutzmann's version of the run and shoot. A former quarterback, he made the transition to receiver in 2022 and with his productive 2024 campaign (set San Jose State records with 104 catches and 16 touchdown grabs) became the first player in school history named a consensus All-American. He also became just the fourth player in FBS history to earn the receiving Triple Crown (led the FBS in catches, receiving yards and receiving touchdowns at the end of the regular season).

Nash is a gliding, one-speed runner who doesn't have a ton of juice, which will limit the ways he can win at the next level. However, he is a tremendous competitor, on and off the field, with a ball-winning catch radius and coachable skill set that will stand out in camp. Overall, Nash doesn't have the explosive speed to be a high-end separator, but he plays well to his strengths and has the ball skills and physicality that will translate. He projects best as a "big" slot and possession target.

GRADE: 5th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Baltimore, MD	Mount St. Joseph	Nov 30, 2002	22.40	6045	205	#1

BACKGROUND: Dont'e Thornton Jr., the oldest of five children, was born and raised in the Cherry Hill neighborhood of Baltimore with his mother (Taria Felder). His father (Dont'e Thornton Sr.) was incarcerated for most of Dont'e Thornton Jr.'s childhood. Thornton helped raise his younger siblings, and his uncle (Faschall Grade) stepped in as a male figure in his life.

At age 4, Thornton started playing football and quickly developed a love for the sport as a running back and linebacker. He played quarterback throughout pee wee before switching to wide receiver at age 10. He also played basketball growing up.

Thornton enrolled at Mount St. Joseph High, an all-boys Catholic school in Baltimore. After seeing varsity action as a freshman wide receiver and safety, he became a focal point of the offense as a sophomore and helped the team win 10 games, including the 2018 Class A championship. Thornton finished his sophomore year with 51 catches for 960 yards and 12 touchdowns to earn all-metro honors. As a junior, he caught 38 passes for 1,021 yards (26.9 average) and 16 touchdowns to again earn first-team all-metro honors. Thornton also helped Mount St. Joseph capture another Class A state championship, although he missed the title game with a broken collarbone. He opted out of his senior season to prepare for college. Thornton, who graduated with a 3.9 GPA, was elected class president and lettered in track, including personal bests of 22 feet, 3 inches in the long jump, 6-2 in the high jump, 43-4 in the triple jump and 11.02 seconds in the 100 meters.

A four-star recruit, Thornton was the seventh-ranked wide receiver (one spot ahead of Xavier Worthy) in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Maryland (one spot ahead of Chop Robinson). He ranked No. 57 nationally. The summer before his sophomore season, Thornton picked up offers from Michigan, Penn State, Rutgers and Virginia. He "felt the love" from head coach James Franklin and committed to the Nittany Lions after his sophomore season (Feb. 2019). However, his recruitment continued to ramp up with a number of other offers (Auburn, Georgia, Ohio State, Texas), and Thornton elected to decommit from Penn State in August 2019.

He announced a final six of Arizona State, Florida State, Notre Dame, Oregon, USC and Virginia, but the Ducks had been his "dream school" since he was 5. Thornton committed to former head coach Mario Cristobal in October 2020. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in Oregon's 2021 class. After catching passes from Bo Nix as a sophomore, Thornton entered the transfer portal in November 2022. He went on a few visits before committing to Tennessee for his final two seasons. Thornton graduated with a degree in communication studies (Dec. 2024). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (14/2)	9	175	19.44	2	1	Oregon; enrolled February 2021
2022: (11/3)	17	366	21.53	1	1	Oregon; missed last game (transfer portal)
2023: (9/3)	13	224	17.23	1	3	Tennessee; missed four games (injuries)
2024: (13/4)	26	661	25.42	6	2	Tennessee; led FBS in yards per catch
Total: (47/12)	65	1,426	21.94	10	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	205	9 5/8	32 1/8	79	4.30	2.53	1.51	33	10' 6"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (right ankle injury in pos. drills)
PRO DAY	6044	205	9	32 1/4	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Elite combination of height, length and speed
- Covers large area in a short time using incredibly long strides
- Accelerates at top of his routes to create a step of separation on posts and verticals
- Shows sink and gear down when working back to the ball
- Elite success rate on throws of more than 20 yards in 2024 (caught seven of 10 targets)
- Can track, adjust pace and confidently look the ball into his hands
- Keeps his foot on gas pedal through the catch point for YAC opportunities
- 76.9 percent of catches in 2024 resulted in a first down or touchdown

WEAKNESSES:

- Ran a truncated route tree, and there isn't much mystery to the way he wins
- Never caught a high volume of passes (94 career targets over four years)
- Lean, slender body type with average strength
- Telegraphs where he is going at times and needs more refinement
- Not an elusive tackle breaker
- Looked lost playing slot in 2023 — outside-only receiver, at least right now

- Wasn't a special-teamer at Tennessee
- Didn't miss any games in 2024 but was banged up and missed most of playoff game vs. Ohio State (Dec. 2024); missed four games as junior because of injuries

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Tennessee, Thornton was an outside receiver in head coach Josh Heupel's spread scheme (95.7 percent of his 2024 snaps came outside the numbers). A former top high school recruit, he spent two years at Oregon before transferring to Knoxville, where he was a low-volume target but a big-play ignitor (led the FBS with 25.4 yards per catch in 2024).

A nine-route monster, Thornton has easy speed to quickly stack or eat up cushions, often forcing cornerbacks to get stuck when they underestimate the surface area he can cover with his long, powerful strides. His deep acceleration can make him a decoy and help open the underneath passing game, but his incomplete route tree currently limits what he can do. Overall, Thornton lacks versatility, but his gliding speed and ability to find another gear downfield could make him a big-play threat in a specified vertical role. His value as a prospect will vary from team to team.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

WR24 Isaac TeSlaa

Arkansas, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Hudsonville, MI	Unity Christian	Feb 20, 2002	23.17	6035	214	#4

BACKGROUND: Isaac TeSlaa (teh-SLAW), the third of four children, grew up in Hudsonville, Mich. (outside of Grand Rapids), with his parents (Mark and Stephanie). He has three sisters (Maddie, Ellie, Josie). His father played wide receiver at Hillsdale College (1992-96) and was team MVP as a senior. His mother also attended Hillsdale, and his younger sister (Josie) currently plays volleyball at the Division II school. With his father serving as an assistant football coach at Unity Christian High, TeSlaa grew up around the game and started playing organized football in third grade. He was a do-everything athlete and starred in just about every sport he tried, including baseball and basketball.

TeSlaa attended Unity Christian High, a private Christian school. After more than a decade on staff, his father stepped down when TeSlaa started high school and later served as Unity Christian's youth football director. TeSlaa played on offense (quarterback), defense (safety) and special teams (return man) throughout high school. He had his breakout season as a junior, when he started at quarterback on varsity for Unity Christian's Wing-T offense (no wide receivers). He led the team to a 12-2 record and the 2018 Division 5 state championship. As a senior, TeSlaa earned first-team all-state honors with 1,139 rushing yards, 448 passing yards and 24 total touchdowns (14 rushing, 10 passing). He also lettered in basketball and was a part of the team's 2018-19 Division 2 state championship team as a junior. TeSlaa played baseball his first three years as a center fielder. As a senior, he transitioned to track and won the Division 2 regional championship in the long jump (22 feet, 4 inches). TeSlaa graduated with a 4.0 GPA.

A no-star recruit, TeSlaa wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. As a Wing-T quarterback in high school, he didn't have any tape or tangible experience at wide receiver, which made it tough for him to get looks. TeSlaa attended several camps and tested well, but it wasn't enough to interest teams. He received just one Division I offer (FCS Valparaiso), except it wasn't a full scholarship. Instead, TeSlaa accepted a full scholarship offer from Hillsdale, his parents' alma mater.

After three seasons at Hillsdale, including an All-America 2022 campaign, he entered the transfer portal in December 2022. This time around, TeSlaa received dozens of FBS offers, including from Colorado, Iowa, Miami, Ole Miss, Nebraska, Texas A&M, Wisconsin and others. But he connected with the coaches at Arkansas and transferred to Fayetteville for his final two seasons. TeSlaa accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (3/2)	5	93	18.60	0		Hillsdale; season played in spring 2021
2021: (12/10)	45	698	15.51	7		Hillsdale; Second Team All-GMAC; led team in receiving
2022: (11/11)	68	1,325	19.49	13		Hillsdale; Honorable Mention All-American; GMAC Off. POY; First Team All-GMAC; led GMAC in receiving
2023: (12/12)	34	351	10.32	2	0	Arkansas; enrolled January 2023
2024: (13/5)	28	546	19.50	3	0	Arkansas
Total: (51/40)	180	3,013	16.74	25	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6035	214	10	31 1/8	76 3/4	4.43	2.61	1.57	39 1/2	10' 9"	4.05	6.85	17
PRO DAY	6033	215	9 3/4	32 1/4	76 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Crazy impressive athletic profile
- Can really roll, gaining ground quickly with acceleration
- Impressive lower-body twitch

- Tracks ball well over his shoulder or when working middle of the field
- Above-average hand-eye coordination — looks natural catching the ball
- Doesn't shy from working into teeth of the defense; finishes to the ground
- Has potential to be more of a YAC weapon, if given the chance
- Used size well in space as a blocker
- Played on both punt return and punt coverage in 2024
- No questions about his toughness (somehow played through a broken hand during prolific 2022 season)

WEAKNESSES:

- Unimpressive two-year production in SEC
- Despite his size and speed, he struggled to escape press and early contact
- Wasn't asked to run full route tree in 2024 role
- Inconsistent building routes — defenders weren't always buying what he was selling
- Flashes snap out of breaks but needs to pace his stem better
- Has a tough time ridding himself of clinging corners

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Arkansas, TeSlaa was the W receiver (slot) in offensive coordinator Bobby Petrino's spread scheme. A Wing-T quarterback in high school, he got his undergrad in playing receiver at the Division II level before jumping to the SEC (with mixed results) the past two seasons. Showing impressive athleticism for his size, TeSlaa has speed to work vertically or snap off routes, and he has natural catch-point focus (zero drops in 100 targets at Arkansas) — especially for a player who has only been playing the position the past five years.

However, his freaky athleticism doesn't always show within the context of the route. And though his pre-draft process was impressive, NFL scouts are left asking why the production and impact wasn't better on tape. Overall, TeSlaa is still very much a work in progress with his route running and ability to create space, but the athletic tools and ball skills are exceptional and the football character and toughness will help sway doubters. He projects as a depth receiver with upside on offense and special teams.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

WR25 Xavier Restrepo

Miami, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Coconut Creek, FL	Deerfield Beach	Apr 12, 2002	23.03	5095	202	#7

BACKGROUND: Xavier Restrepo, the oldest of three children, was born in Statesville, N.C., before his parents, both South Florida natives, relocated the family to Broward County in 2004. His mother (Ashley Padgett) was 15 and his father (Jaime) 16 when Xavier was born, and they moved in with Ashley's father to raise their infant son. The couple later had two more children (Dominic and Melani). Ashley, who earned a GED and is now an insurance broker, received a softball scholarship offer to Florida State before Xavier was born. Jaime, who works in construction, started training Xavier on a strict schedule at age 6. Xavier was born with vascular malformation, which causes his face to swell when he exerts energy (the defect was caused by forceps pinching a cluster of his nerves at birth, according to his mother).

Throughout childhood, Xavier Restrepo played every sport possible, including track and basketball, but football quickly became his passion. At age 4, he skipped flag football and started playing for the pee wee Mighty Mites in Coconut Creek, Fla. He played running back, linebacker and safety throughout youth football (didn't play wide receiver until high school).

Restrepo enrolled at Monarch High in Coconut Creek and immediately earned a starting role as a freshman. After playing primarily cornerback his first year, he earned first-team all-county honors as a sophomore, lining up at quarterback, running back and wide receiver. Restrepo accounted for 601 all-purpose yards in 2017 (also had 46 tackles and four interceptions) and led Monarch to a 7-2 record (the team had gone 2-7 in 2016). Before his junior season, he transferred to football powerhouse St. Thomas Aquinas High in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and played both ways, helping the team to a 13-2 record and the 7A state championship game (lost to Lakeland). For his senior season, Restrepo transferred to Deerfield Beach High, in order to graduate early. Playing receiver and safety, he helped lead the program to a 10-win season in 2019, finishing with 18 catches for 294 yards and six touchdowns, adding a pair of touchdown passes and an interception on defense.

A three-star recruit, Restrepo was 36th-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 84 recruit in Florida. After his sophomore season, he received his first offers from Kentucky, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Purdue and Vanderbilt in January 2018. He later received high-profile offers from Georgia, Michigan and Texas, along with Ivy League programs Brown, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard and Princeton (he graduated high school with a 4.5 GPA and had a 1300 SAT).

Restrepo, who'd grown up a diehard Miami fan, received an offer from the Hurricanes and then-defensive coordinator Manny Diaz in February 2018 to play nickelback. That summer, he went to a Miami camp and tried to commit, but the coaching staff was having second thoughts and asked him to wait. Coach Diaz made things right in May 2019 and offered Restrepo a scholarship at wide receiver, and he committed. He was the 20th-ranked recruit (out of 21 high school signees) in Diaz's 2020 class. Restrepo took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the pandemic and returned for his fifth season. He was inducted into Iron Arrow Honor Society, the highest honor in the Miami community. Restrepo opted out of Miami's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (9/0)	1	12	12.00	0	0	Enrolled January 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/0)	24	373	15.54	2	3
2022: (7/3)	21	240	11.43	2	0	Missed five games (left foot)
2023: (13/13)	85	1,092	12.85	6	4	First Team All-ACC; single-season school record for catches
2024: (12/12)	69	1,127	16.33	11	2	Third Team All-American; First Team All-ACC; Led ACC in receiving yards; Missed bowl game (opt out)
Total: (53/28)	200	2,844	14.22	21	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5097	209	9 1/8	29 3/8	71 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	17	No 40, jumps, SS, three-cone — choice; caught punts
PRO DAY	5095	202	9	29 5/8	72 1/8	4.85	2.74	1.69	DNP	DNP	4.21	6.83	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tougher than a $2 steak — his coaches say he is the "ultimate competitor"
- Sure-handed receiver with strong fingers to secure passes through contact (2.8 percent drop rate in 2024)
- Quick to snatch throws and bend up the field (76.8 percent of catches in 2024 resulted in a first down or touchdown)
- Uses build-up tempo and head nods to shake free from coverage
- Shows natural feel for finding and settling in space versus zone
- Terrific body balance, both as a route runner and after the catch
- Won't help tacklers do their job, frequently finding ways to pick up extra yards
- Physicality as a blocker shows up on each tape
- Experienced punt and kick returner
- Passion for football and for his teammates is genuine (Miami offensive coordinator Shannon Dawson: "He shows up every day at practice and does the same thing. ... Players respect him.")
- First player in Miami history with multiple seasons of 1,000 receiving yards or more

WEAKNESSES:

- Smaller target with short arms, which restrict his catch radius
- Doesn't have vertical burst to scare defenses as a deep threat (both drops in 2024 came on targets of 20 yards or more)
- Average burst and more of a one-speed athlete
- Lived between numbers in college and needs to develop more diverse route system
- Fumbled in each of final two games, including game-changing 56-yard punch-out, scoop and score on Syracuse tape
- Missed five games as junior after fracturing left foot (Sept. 2022)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Miami, Restrepo was an inside receiver in offensive coordinator Shannon Dawson's version of the Air Raid (91.7 percent of his college snaps came in the slot). With his production the past two seasons, he passed Reggie Wayne for the most receiving yards in school history (2,844) and set the Hurricanes' all-time record for catches (200).

A hard-nosed, physical receiver, Restrepo consistently finds open space, and his efficiency transitioning from pass catcher to ball carrier might be what he does best to maximize each target. Though he is a smallish target and more quick than fast, he knows his physical limitations and doesn't try to be something he isn't. Overall, it can be easy to get caught up in Restrepo's lack of top-tier size/speed traits, but his toughness and dependability securing grabs will give him a chance to carve out a productive slot role in the NFL. His competitive nature and football instincts are similar stylistically to the traits of Julian Edelman.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

WR26 Ricky White III

UNLV, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Marietta, GA	Marietta	Feb 06, 2002	23.21	6011	181	#11

BACKGROUND: Ricky White III, one of 12 children in his family, was born in Dayton, Ohio, with his parents (Tori Butler and Ricky White Jr.). Several of his siblings are also athletes, including his younger sister (Ric'keya), a state-champion sprinter and hurdler at Wayne High (Ohio) and 2023-24

Gatorade Ohio Girls Track & Field Player of the Year as a sophomore. White got involved in team sports while growing up in Ohio, including pee wee football. At age 7, he relocated to Georgia with his mother and became a standout football player at the youth level.

White enrolled at Wheeler High in Marietta, where he played both ways as a cornerback and wide receiver. As a sophomore, he posted 35 receptions for 530 yards and seven touchdowns. His breakout came as a junior in 2018, when he caught 55 passes for 1,005 yards and 13 touchdowns, helping Wheeler to a 6-4 finish. For his senior year, White wanted to challenge himself against a better level of competition and transferred to Marietta High. He was teammates there with several FBS recruits, including edge rusher BJ Ojulari (LSU), tight end Arik Gilbert (LSU) and running back Kimani Vidal (Troy). White helped lead Marietta to a 14-2 record and the 2019 7A state championship. He finished his final season with 103 receptions for 1,519 yards and 19 touchdowns, earning first-team all-county honors. White also lettered in basketball in high school.

A three-star recruit, White was the 70th-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 39 recruit in Georgia. The offers piled up after his junior campaign, starting with a handful from the MAC (Akron, Ball State, Bowling Green and Central Michigan). Several then-Power 5 programs joined the mix that spring, and White announced a final six of Georgia Tech, Louisville, Michigan State, Pittsburgh, Syracuse and West Virginia. After taking an official visit to East Lansing in June 2019, he committed to the Spartans. White was the fourth-ranked recruit in former head coach Mark Dantonio's 2020 class, but Dantonio retired just weeks after White signed his letter of intent. As a true freshman under Mel Tucker, White flashed his potential and led a 2020 upset of Michigan with 196 receiving yards. He was suspended in 2021 for a violation of team rules and subsequently sued the university to have that suspension overturned. After sitting out the entire '21 season, he transferred to UNLV. He was a MWC scholar-athlete and graduated with a degree in human services. White opted out of UNLV's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (4/3)	10	223	22.30	1	3	Michigan State; missed final three games (injury); pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (-/-)						Michigan State; missed season because of suspension
2022: (12/12)	51	619	12.14	4	9	UNLV; led team in receiving
2023: (14/13)	88	1,483	16.85	8	5	UNLV; Third Team All-American; First Team All-MWC; led team in receiving; team captain
2024: (13/13)	79	1,041	13.18	11	7	UNLV; First Team All-MWC; MWC Special Teams POY; led team in receiving; blocked four punts; team captain
Total: (43/41)	228	3,366	14.76	24	24

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6011	184	9 1/4	31 3/4	76	4.61	2.69	1.65	36	10' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6011	181	9 1/4	31 3/4	76 1/2	4.50	2.57	1.58	36	DNP	4.52	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good height and length to expand his catch radius
- Shifty footwork to beat the jam with quickness, stack corners and get vertical
- Attacks leverage early and changes up stride pacing mid-route
- Tracks football well to comfortably adjust and attack throws away from his frame
- Shows vision and foot quickness to make first defender miss and be effective on gadgets
- Very competitive blocker
- Blocked four punts in 2024 (more than any other FBS team); scored a touchdown on another punt block by a teammate
- Very prideful in his special teams impact (also played on kickoff return coverages)
- Two-time team captain, and the UNLV coaches say his "unmatched" leadership and determination make his teammates want to work harder (former UNLV head coach Barry Odom: "He is such a vital part of everything we do.")
- Set UNLV record for single-season receiving yards (1,483)

WEAKNESSES:

- Slender, slight body type with questionable play strength
- Tips off defenders with his eyes, especially in quick game
- Will rush into and through his route breaks and lacks sharpness (too many slips)
- Bad habit of clapping or trapping ball against his body to finish catches, which leads to drops
- Same number of career drops (24) as career touchdowns (24)
- Inconsistent playing through contact at catch point
- In back-to-back games (San Diego State and San Jose State), flagged for an illegal block penalty that took a touchdown off the board
- Character isn't considered a concern, although teams will do extra work on his suspension and subsequent lawsuit against Michigan State in 2021

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at UNLV, White was an inside-outside wide receiver in former offensive coordinator Brennan Marion's "go-go" up-tempo offense, lining up mostly wide (65.5 percent of snaps) with slot reps mixed in (34.5 percent). After an unceremonious end to his time in East Lansing, he landed at UNLV and emerged as the team's top receiving option, eventually becoming the first player in school history with multiple 1,000-yard receiving seasons (also finished No. 2 in program history in career catches).

A tall, thin athlete, White was given the nickname "Slick Rick" by his former Michigan State teammate Jayden Reed. He is a slippery route runner and ball carrier with terrific tracking skills, although he lacks the physicality to be a consistent 50-50 target. He registered four blocked punts in 2024, and his special teams attitude will serve him well in the NFL. Overall, White is a bursty receiving option who can earn meaningful NFL snaps on offense with continued technical fine-tuning of his routes and catch-point consistency. His special teams impact should help separate him on draft boards — and on an NFL depth chart.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

WR27 Bru McCoy

Tennessee, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Palos Verdes Estates, CA	Mater Dei	Jun 22, 2000	24.84	6024	209	#5

BACKGROUND: Horace "Bru" McCoy III, who has an older sister (Alexa) and younger sister (Ava), grew up south of Los Angeles in Palos Verdes. Both of his parents were student-athletes at Northern Illinois: his father (Horace II) played tight end (1994); his mother (Shelby) was a four-time all-conference volleyball player (1991-94). His grandfather (Tom Snyder), who died in December 2023, is a member of the Pepperdine Hall of Fame and was drafted by the San Francisco Giants as an outfielder (1946-47). McCoy was given the nickname "Bruiser" (or "Bru," for short) by his grandmother (Christina), because of all of the bruises he picked up as an active toddler. McCoy, who also played baseball and basketball, started playing flag football and then Pop Warner (wore No. 5 for Reggie Bush), helping his team to the 2012 Pop Warner national championship game. He joined the Inland Empire Ducks youth team in eighth grade, which put him on a path to Mater Dei High, a private Catholic school about an hour away from his home.

At Mater Dei, McCoy was teammates with several top recruits, including QB Bryce Young, QB JT Daniels, WR Amon-Ra St. Brown and CB Eli Ricks. While playing both ways as a wide receiver and linebacker/third-down blitzler, McCoy posted 28 catches for 407 yards and five touchdowns and six sacks as a sophomore. As a junior, he helped Mater Dei to a 15-0 record and the 2017 state championship (the team was also named prep national champions). McCoy finished that season with 46 receptions for 770 yards and 11 touchdowns, earning All-American status. He added 23 tackles and two sacks. As a senior captain, he again led Mater Dei to the state title and prep national championship and won numerous national awards, including the Maxwell Offensive National Player of the Year. McCoy finished his final season with 78 catches for 1,428 yards and 18 touchdowns, along with five sacks and two forced fumbles.

A five-star recruit, McCoy was the second-ranked wide receiver in the 2019 recruiting class (one spot ahead of Garrett Wilson) and the No. 2 recruit in California (behind only Kayvon Thibodeaux). He was ranked as the No. 9 recruit nationally. McCoy already was nationally ranked as a recruit in middle school, and he earned his first offer (Oregon) as a freshman in high school. By the end of his sophomore year, he also had offers from Alabama, Georgia, Michigan, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oklahoma and Tennessee. McCoy had a top three of Texas, USC and Washington and initially committed to the Trojans (his childhood favorite team). He signed with USC in December 2018 and enrolled in January 2019, but he left the program after two weeks when Kliff Kingsbury resigned as offensive coordinator to pursue NFL opportunities.

McCoy entered the transfer portal, ultimately signed with Texas and participated in 2019 spring practices in Austin. However, he had second thoughts (McCoy: "I made a mistake.") and decided to transfer back to USC in June 2019, ending a bizarre six-month recruiting saga. McCoy was ineligible for the 2019 season after transferring twice, but he also dealt with health issues, including mono, lymphoma and a positive test for Legionella (wasn't a full practice participant at USC until Dec. 2019).

After finishing fourth on the team in receiving in 2020, McCoy was suspended from team activities for the 2021 season following an arrest on suspicion of felony intimate partner violence. The Los Angeles County district attorney's office declined to file criminal charges in August 2021, but McCoy remained suspended by USC as the school conducted its own Title IX investigation. McCoy entered the transfer portal in January 2022 and officially transferred to Tennessee in May 2022. He was ruled immediately eligible in August 2022. Because of an injury in 2023, McCoy returned to Tennessee for his sixth season in 2024 (changed his jersey from No. 15 to No. 5 to honor Bush). He graduated with a degree in communications (August 2024). McCoy accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2019: (-/-)						USC; ineligible (transferred twice); Went through 2019 spring practices with Texas before transferring back to USC in June 2019
2020: (6/3)	21	236	11.24	2	3	USC; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (-/-)						USC; suspended from the program (July 2021 arrest)
2022: (12/12)	52	667	12.83	4	1	Tennessee; enrolled January 2022; Missed one game (left arm)
2023: (5/5)	17	217	12.76	1	1	Tennessee; missed the final eight games (right ankle)
2024: (12/12)	39	472	12.10	2	2	Tennessee; led team in receptions; Missed one game (lower body injury)
Total: (35/32)	129	1,592	12.34	9	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6024	209	10	32 1/8	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	10	32 1/8	78 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Imposing size and muscle definition to shield catch point from defenders
- Physical ball carrier and brandishes a powerful stiff arm to fight through contact
- Builds up speed to sneak by corners on vertical patterns
- Able to throttle down on curls/comebacks to separate more effectively than most bigger receivers
- Finds open zones in coverage
- Tracks ball well over his shoulder
- Large hands help him extend and make difficult grabs outside his frame
- Functionally strong blocker to erase defenders in run game
- Physically tough and frequently plays through injuries (modeled his game after Brandon Marshall growing up)

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have athletic twitch to easily escape route squatters
- Needs to tidy up his sink and footwork to better snap out of breaks
- Misplayed a few jump balls on film and can be better climbing the ladder
- Can do a better job using his hands to combat press techniques
- Didn't play on special teams coverage units in college
- Will be 25 as an NFL rookie
- Thorough vetting of his background will be important — in addition to the legal situation mentioned above, a USC office of Student Judicial Affairs and Community Standards ruled McCoy committed six conduct violations stemming from an incident at a fraternity; four days after his arrest on suspicion of felony intimate partner violence, McCoy was banned from USC's campus and facilities.
- Fracture-dislocation of his right ankle (Sept. 2023), which ended his 2023 season and required four surgeries (spent 10 days in the hospital); left arm injury (Sept. 2022), which required offseason surgery that sidelined him for 2023 spring practices; missed one game as a super senior with a lower-body injury (November 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Tennessee, McCoy was the X wide receiver in head coach Josh Heupel's up-tempo spread scheme (only lined up on the left side of the formation). A former five-star recruit at USC, he transferred to Knoxville in 2022 and blossomed while catching passes from Hendon Hooker, although he then struggled to stay healthy and match that same level of play the past two seasons (zero 100-yard receiving performances over his final 19 college games).

A good-sized target, McCoy is at his best using his size and physicality on slants/comebacks and after the catch, where he can barrel through tackle attempts (Bru is short for "Bruiser"). Though he can surprise defensive backs with his vertical speed, he isn't a true technician out of the box or as a route runner and struggles to easily uncover with his feet. Overall, McCoy doesn't consistently live up to the promise of his tools on tape, but he is a big, physical possession target, and his size/speed/strength talent is worth the gamble as a team's potential WR4/5.

GRADE: 6th round

WR28 Isaiah Neyor

Nebraska, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Fort Worth, TX	Lamar	Jun 07, 2001	23.88	6042	218	#18

BACKGROUND: Isaiah Neyor (NAY-er) grew up in Fort Worth, Texas, with his parents (Gabriel Neyor and Patricia Mulubah). He focused more on basketball and track than football in childhood.

Neyor attended Lamar High in Arlington, Texas, and was a multisport letterman. As a sophomore, he decided to join the football team (despite having very little experience) and got his feet wet on varsity as a junior reserve. As a senior, Neyor had his breakout with 39 receptions for 858 yards (22.0 average) and eight touchdowns, which earned him 2018 Class 6A all-district honors. He helped Lamar to an 11-2 record and a spot in the 6A regional state playoffs. Neyor also joined the track team and earned a bronze medal in the triple jump at the 2019 regional championships. He posted personal bests of 16.68 seconds in the 110-meter hurdles, 43.02 in the 300-meter hurdles and 48 feet in the triple jump, which ranked top five in the state.

A two-star recruit, Neyor was the 380th-ranked wide receiver in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 460 recruit in Texas. With little tape or production until his senior year, he struggled to get noticed by Division I programs. As he started to show out during his senior season, he added FCS offers from Henderson State, Incarnate Word and Western Illinois. A week before Neyor's signing day, Wyoming decided to take a chance and offered him a full-ride scholarship — his first and only FBS offer. Neyor was the 18th-ranked recruit in former head coach Craig Bohl's 2019 class.

In his third year at Wyoming, Neyor broke out with a conference-best 12 touchdowns grabs, then jumped into the transfer portal in December 2021. He originally committed to Tennessee over Texas and USC before flipping to the Longhorns a few weeks later. A torn ACL erased his first season in Austin, and he rode the bench during his second season. Neyor transferred to Nebraska for his sixth year, in 2024, and graduated with a degree in child, youth and family studies (Dec. 2024). He opted out of Nebraska's 2024 bowl game and waffled between going pro or transferring, if he could get a seventh season of eligibility. Ultimately, Neyor entered the NFL Draft and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2019: (1/0)	0	0		0	0	Wyoming; redshirted
2020: (6/1)	8	248	31.00	0	1	Wyoming; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/13)	44	878	19.95	12	3	Wyoming; Second Team All-MWC; led MWC in receiving TDs; 5-yard rushing TD
2022: (-/-)						Texas; missed season because of injury (ACL)
2023: (1/0)	1	14	14.00	0	1	Texas
2024: (12/10)	34	455	13.38	5	3	Nebraska; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (33/24)	87	1,595	18.33	17	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	218	9 1/2	34 3/8	82 5/8	4.40	2.55	1.56	38	11' 1"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6040	219	9 7/8	34 1/2	83 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.27	7.00	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Elite athletic profile, especially for a player of his size and stature
- Track background; outstanding turnover in his long strides
- Quickly chews up cushion and can blow past off coverage with go-and-get-it gear
- Springy lower body with terrific coordination to sky/twist for the football
- Crazy wingspan expands catch radius beyond that of most receivers
- Attracts coverage penalties as corners try any means necessary to combat his size
- Uses his big body as a blocker to cover up corners and erase them

WEAKNESSES:

- Unimpressive body of work — only 87 catches in six college seasons
- Inconsistent playing through contact at the catch point, with below-average focus on contested targets
- Vertical speed can be impeded too easily by chippy corners
- Unseasoned route runner and struggles to create his own separation
- Slow to adjust at top of routes
- Offers blocking upside but has inconsistent technique (flagged twice for illegal blocks in 2024)
- Non-contact ACL tear in his right knee during preseason camp (Aug. 2022) and later reinjured the same knee, which kept him shelved for almost all of the 2023 season

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Nebraska, Neyor was an outside receiver (95.7 percent of snaps wide) in former offensive coordinator Marcus Satterfield's pro-style spread. A late bloomer, he was expected to become a playmaking weapon for QB Quinn Ewers at Texas before knee injuries sidetracked that plan. He resurfaced in Lincoln and flashed big-time talent (121 receiving yards in the 2024 season opener), although he was allergic to consistency.

Neyor is an imposing physical specimen with the elite combination of height, weight and explosive speed to be a mismatch. His catch radius is tremendous, especially against air, but he doesn't do enough with his frame to keep smaller cornerbacks from challenging the catch point. Overall, Neyor is arguably the most physically gifted athlete in the 2025 NFL Draft class, but aggressive defenders can negate his physical advantages and the inconsistencies in his game make him a better talent than a football player. He has upside as a receiver and will help his chances if he can prove himself as a gunner on special teams.

GRADE: 6th round

WR29 Jordan Watkins

Ole Miss, 5SR

HOMETOWN Louisville, KY	HIGH SCHOOL Butler	BIRTHDAY Feb 15, 2002	AGE 23.19	HT 5112	WT 196	NUM #11
----------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jordan Watkins grew up in both Ohio and Kentucky with his younger brother (Elijah). Watkins and his brother grew up with their aunt in Ashland, Ohio, where Watkins developed a love for football playing for the Pop Warner Sun Devils. At age 11, Jordan relocated to Louisville, Ky., and moved back in with his mom and stepfather (Austin). Faced with a tough transition, he turned to youth football as his escape. After playing on the offensive and defensive lines in seventh grade, he blossomed as an offensive skill weapon in eighth grade, once the coaches realized the type of athlete they had. He has a daughter (Kamrynn Grae), born in October 2024.

Watkins enrolled at DeSales High, a private Catholic school in Louisville, in order to play as a freshman. He became the varsity team's leading rusher as a sophomore (742 yards and 12 touchdowns, plus 10 catches for 165 yards). Before his junior season, Watkins transferred to Butler Traditional High and moved to more of a wide receiver role. He helped the team to an eight-win season and finished with 34 receptions for 679 yards and seven touchdowns, adding 309 rushing yards, three rushing touchdowns and a 47-yard passing touchdown. As a senior, Watkins caught 37 passes for 712 yards (19.2 average) and seven touchdowns, adding 212 rushing yards and three rushing touchdowns. He also ran track in high school and set a personal best of 10.97 seconds in the 100 meters as a sophomore, which earned him a top-five finish at the state championships.

A three-star recruit, Watkins was the 48th-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 9 recruit in Kentucky. After his standout junior season, he received his first scholarship offer from Kentucky (Feb. 2019). He added several MAC offers, followed by a Louisville offer in June 2019. Watkins originally committed to Kentucky in June 2019 but decommitted four months later, midway through his senior season, and flipped to Louisville. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in former head coach Scott Satterfield's 2020 class.

After two seasons, Watkins entered the transfer portal (Nov. 2021) and fielded offers from Florida State, Memphis and West Virginia before committing to Ole Miss for his final three seasons of eligibility.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (10/2)	8	57	7.12	0	0	Louisville; 23-yard rushing TD; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (12/11)	35	529	15.11	4	1	Louisville; entered transfer portal (Nov. 2021)
2022: (13/10)	40	449	11.22	2	1	Ole Miss
2023: (13/11)	53	741	13.98	3	2	Ole Miss; 70-yard PR TD
2024: (12/8)	49	906	18.49	9	2	Ole Miss; led SEC in receiving TDs
Total: (60/42)	185	2,682	14.50	18	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5112	196	9 1/8	29 3/8	72 1/2	4.37	2.56	1.53	36 1/2	9' 11"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice); caught punts
PRO DAY	5111	188	9 1/2	31 1/8	73 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Short but not small and catches well into contact
- Quick releases with nifty feet to slip and avoid the jam
- Plays with top-end speed to stack corners and alter pacing for late vertical separation
- Tracks with poise over his shoulder
- Plays with hand strength to comfortably finish outside his frame
- Willing over the middle and understands how to work through zones
- Averaged 7.9 yards as a punt returner (37 attempts for 291 yards and one TD)
- Tied for SEC lead in touchdown catches in 2024 (touchdown every 5.4 receptions)
- Stepped up when his team needed him over second half of 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- His 4.3-second timed speed doesn't consistently show in non-vertical routes
- Wasn't asked to run full route tree in Ole Miss offense
- Occasionally rolls into breaks
- Average suddenness hinders his quick window creation
- Doesn't have frame to shield defensive backs from catch windows
- Below-average length takes away from catch radius
- More slippery and physical than truly dynamic with ball in his hands

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Ole Miss, Watkins worked inside and outside in offensive coordinator Charlie Weis Jr.'s spread scheme (68.4 percent of snaps wide, 29.3 percent in the slot in 2024). After Tre Harris suffered an injury midway through October, Watkins became the go-to target for quarterback Jaxson Dart and set single-game school records for receiving yards (254) and receiving touchdowns (five) against Arkansas.

Watkins was productive at every level of the field on tape and did some of his best work stacking corners and winning over the top (only FBS player with five catches of 60 yards or more in 2024). His lack of ideal size will be more noticeable versus NFL corners, but he looks unfazed into contact and displays natural receiving coordination. Overall, Watkins doesn't always play up to his timed speed, but he is athletic and smooth catching on the move and can be as good as his target volume. He projects best in the slot, where he can use the entire field.

GRADE: 6th round

HOMETOWN Hoschton, GA	HIGH SCHOOL Dacula	BIRTHDAY Oct 24, 2002	AGE 22.50	HT 5113	WT 186	NUM #9
--------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Konata (Ko-nah-TAY) Mumpfield, the third of four children (three boys, one girl), was born in a military family in Fort Benning, Ga., with his parents (Ceeprian and Michelle). His father played football at NC State before joining the Army (retired after 21 years of service). Mumpfield grew up moving around to different military bases, including stops in Japan and Korea. He started playing sports at age 3 while his father was stationed in Japan, and he continued to play once his family returned to the States and settled in northern Georgia. He was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, primarily playing baseball, basketball and football. Mumpfield started working with former NFL tight end Alge Crumpler and competed in 7-on-7 with several area football stars, such as Josh Downs and Arik Gilbert. His younger sister (Maia) is a junior pitcher and infielder for the Georgia State softball team.

Mumpfield attended Dacula High, where he was a multisport letterman. After playing on the freshman football team, he joined the varsity squad and played both ways (wide receiver and cornerback), helping lead the program to a conference title in 2017. As a junior, Mumpfield posted 35 catches for 554 yards and six touchdowns, which earned him first-team all-region honors. As a senior, he led Dacula to a 13-1 record — its lone loss came in the 6A state playoff quarterfinals. Mumpfield finished that season with 43 receptions for 820 yards (19.1 average) and 13 touchdowns, adding three interceptions and three punt return touchdowns. He again earned all-region honors and was named honorable mention all-county. Mumpfield also lettered on the Dacula basketball team for two seasons.

A three-star recruit, Mumpfield was the 204th-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 232 recruit in Georgia. He received his first scholarship offer at the start of his senior year from Division II Clark Atlanta. Two months later, on Halloween 2019, Akron gave Mumpfield his first FBS offer. He added other FCS offers from Alabama A&M, Austin Peay, Florida A&M, Mercer, Tennessee State and Western Carolina. He also received interest from other FBS programs, but most schools wanted him at cornerback — Mumpfield was adamant he would be a wide receiver in college. He committed to Akron as part of the 2020 class, but he grayshirted and officially became part of the 2021 class.

After a productive freshman season, Mumpfield entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2021) and received offers from more than a dozen then-Power 5 programs, including Georgia Tech, Indiana, Kentucky, LSU, Louisville, Minnesota, Ole Miss, Utah and USC. He had a relationship with the Pitt coaches from his high school recruiting process, though, and signed with head coach Pat Narduzzi for his final three years of eligibility. Mumpfield opted out of Pittsburgh's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (12/12)	63	751	11.92	8	4	Akron; Freshman All-American; Second Team All-MAC; led team in receiving; enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/9)	58	551	9.50	1	2	Pittsburgh; missed one game (injury); enrolled January 2022
2023: (12/12)	44	576	13.09	5	1	Pittsburgh; led team in catches
2024: (12/12)	52	813	15.63	5	4	Pittsburgh; Honorable Mention All-ACC; led team in receiving; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (48/45)	217	2,691	12.40	19	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5113	186	8 1/2	29 3/8	74 3/8	4.59	2.67	1.62	36	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone or bench (right ankle during pos. drills)
PRO DAY	5112	187	8 1/2	29 7/8	74 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.19	6.77	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Competitive urgency in everything he does on the field
- Sudden in releases and has a few tricks in his bag to win off the ball
- Skilled at swiping corners to gain a vertical step and stack positioning
- Body fluidity shows, mid-route and at the catch point (wears No. 9 because that was Amari Cooper's number at Alabama)
- Subtle details of route running matter to him
- Tracks the football very well and stays focused, regardless of surroundings
- Wore the captain's "C" proudly in 2024 and grew up with a sense of discipline (his father served as a member of the military police in the Army)

WEAKNESSES:

- Height, weight, arm length and hand size all fall below ideal NFL standards
- Average play strength and struggles at times fighting through mid-route contact
- Quicker than fast, and getting vertical against NFL speed will be a tougher challenge
- Does a better job eluding coverage before the catch than he does after it (average yards-after-catch skills)
- Guilty of making a few extra moves in his route plan, which disrupts cadence of the play
- Doesn't offer much experience on special teams

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Pitt, Mumpfield was flexed across the formation in offensive coordinator Kade Bell's up-tempo, spread scheme (62.2 percent of snaps wide, 37.4 percent in the slot in 2024). From the day he joined Pitt's program, he found ways to be productive, regardless of quarterback play.

Mumpfield can skillfully poke holes in coverage, and he constructs routes with pacing, purpose and salesmanship. He has well-developed tracking/ball skills to make challenging catches, although he needs to develop more as a run-after-catch weapon. Overall, Mumpfield doesn't wow with size or vertical speed, but he is a route-running craftsman and finds open windows for his quarterback. His toughness and attention to detail should help separate him in training camp.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

WR31 Dominic Lovett

Georgia, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Belleville, IL	East St. Louis	Nov 08, 2002	22.46	5102	185	#6

BACKGROUND: Dominic Lovett grew up in Venice, Ill., with his parents and started playing football in little league with the Belleville Little Devils. In middle school, he crossed state lines to play youth football in Missouri. He played basketball and multiple other sports, too, but football was always his focus.

Lovett originally attended Belleville West High, where he went from the freshman team to JV to varsity as a wide receiver in his first season. As a sophomore in 2018, he set school receiving records with 45 catches for 1,049 yards (23.3 average) and 24 touchdowns. Following a coaching change, Lovett transferred to East St. Louis High for his final two years. As a junior, he caught 73 passes for 1,541 yards and 16 touchdowns, as he led East St. Louis to an undefeated 14-0 record and the 2019 Class 6A state championship. His senior season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Lovett also lettered in track in high school, including personal bests of 7.18 seconds in the 60 meters, 11.04 in the 100, 23.45 in the 200 and 20 feet, 3 inches in the long jump.

A four-star recruit, Lovett was the 52nd-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 3 recruit in Illinois (one spot ahead of running back Bucky Irving). He received his first offer (Iowa State) after his sophomore season, but his recruitment blew up after he transferred to East St. Louis as a junior — he added offers from Alabama, Auburn, LSU, Georgia, Penn State and several others. He was considering Alabama and LSU, but Arizona State swooped in during the summer of 2020 and he committed to the Sun Devils. However, the week before signing day, Lovett flipped to Missouri (his three older siblings attended the school).

After two seasons with the Tigers, he entered the transfer portal and committed to Georgia for his final two seasons of eligibility. Lovett accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (13/6)	26	173	6.65	0	1	Missouri; 7-yard rushing TD; enrolled July 2021
2022: (12/6)	56	846	15.11	3	0	Missouri; led team in receiving; entered transfer portal November 2022
2023: (14/7)	54	613	11.35	4	4	Georgia; enrolled January 2023
2024: (14/7)	59	607	10.29	6	5	Georgia; led team in catches, receiving TDs
Total: (53/26)	195	2,239	11.48	13	10

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5100	185	9 1/4	31 3/8	75 5/8	4.40	2.57	1.55	33 1/2	10' 0"	4.27	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice); caught punts
PRO DAY	5102	186	9 1/4	31 1/2	74 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Speedy athlete with initial acceleration to eat up cushion
- Dissects coverage and finds spacing
- Urgent in lower half to stem and set up defenders underneath
- Can sink and square off route without notice
- Stabs football without slowing through the catch (long arms for his size)
- Quick transition to ball carrier in order to get last few yards on his own
- Gunner on punt coverage both of his seasons at Georgia

WEAKNESSES:

- Smallish frame; doesn't run or play big
- Can be redirected versus press and at top of routes
- Wasn't a gamebreaker — just five catches of 20 yards or more in 2024 (none longer than 40 yards)
- Moves with some stiffness that hampers lateral agility
- Fumbled twice in 2024
- Low touchdown rate (touchdown every 15 catches in college)
- Blocking likely will never be a strength
- Doesn't have any return experience

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Georgia, Lovett worked mostly out of the slot in offensive coordinator Mike Bobo's scheme (86.5 percent of snaps in the slot in 2024). Although his production was average, he was a reliable target for quarterback Carson Beck the past two seasons and developed under former wide receiver coach Bryan McClendon (now the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' wide receivers coach).

With synchronized shake in his routes, Lovett created quick windows underneath for catch-and-go plays. But he struggled to expand beyond being a singles and doubles hitter, and his average size will be more of an issue working against NFL coverage. Overall, Lovett presents a small-throwing target and likely will be limited to the slot, but he has a fluid stride with solid ball skills to make plays — if given the chance. His speed can be used on special teams, as well.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

WR32 Jimmy Horn Jr.

Colorado, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Sanford, FL	Seminole	Sep 12, 2002	22.61	5081	174	#5

BACKGROUND: Jimmy Horn Jr. grew up in Sanford, Fla. (north of Orlando), with his parents (Jimmy Horn Sr. and Kendra Lewis). His father, who played college football at Bethune-Cookman and first introduced his son to the sport, has been incarcerated since 2021 on multiple drug-related charges; he was sentenced to 87 months in prison (Jimmy Jr. spoke at his father's sentencing). Deion Sanders not only took on a mentorship role as a "father figure" for Jimmy Horn Jr., he also accompanied him to visit his father in prison after he was relocated to a facility closer to Colorado's campus in Boulder.

Growing up, Horn started football at the pee-wee level for the Sanford Noles and continued to play throughout Pop Warner. He grew up studying Antonio Brown and dreamed of playing for the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Horn originally attended Lake Mary High in Seminole County, Fla., and played on the JV football team. He later transferred to Seminole High and was poised for a breakout varsity season as a junior, but he broke his wrist and played in only three games, finishing 2019 with seven catches for 89 yards. Horn returned as a senior and helped Seminole to an undefeated 12-0 record and the 2020 Class 8A state championship (the program's second state title since 2008). He caught 42 passes for 736 yards (17.5 average) and nine touchdowns, adding three rushing touchdowns and a 63-yard punt return touchdown. Horn also lettered in track at both Lake Mary and Seminole and won four medals at the 2021 Class 8A state championships, including the state title in the 4x100 relay and long jump (23 feet, 1 inch). He had personal bests of 10.66 seconds in the 100 meters and 47-5 in the triple jump.

A three-star recruit, Horn was the 128th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 107 recruit in Florida. After being sidelined most of his junior season, he entered his senior year with lukewarm recruiting interest. However, Horn blew up over the second half of his senior season, especially in the playoffs. He initially heard from FCS schools, including Jackson State, where Sanders was coaching at the time. Midway through the playoffs (Dec. 2020), Horn received a blitz of interest, including his first major offer from Georgia. He added offers from Ole Miss, Oklahoma and Tennessee. He wanted to play at UCF because it was close to home but didn't receive an offer. Without much time to take visits or develop a connection with coaches, Horn decided to follow his Seminole quarterback, Timmy McClain, to South Florida. He was the second-ranked recruit in former head coach Jeff Scott's 2021 class.

After two seasons at South Florida, Horn entered the transfer portal in November 2022 and committed to Sanders at Colorado. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (12/5)	30	408	13.60	1	1	South Florida; enrolled July 2021
2022: (11/10)	37	551	14.89	3	4	South Florida; First Team All-AAC (KR); 55-yard rushing TD
2023: (12/12)	58	567	9.78	6	8	Colorado; led team in receiving TDs; 30-yard TD pass
2024: (11/11)	37	441	11.92	1	2	Colorado; missed two games (left ankle)
Total: (46/38)	162	1,967	12.14	11	15

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5081	174	8 3/4	30 3/8	74 1/2	4.46	2.63	1.60	38	10' 8"	4.41	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5076	176	8 3/4	30 7/8	74 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.30	7.32	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Both speedy and shifty (models his game after DeSean Jackson)
- Posted the highest speed (19.81 mph) during the gauntlet drill at the combine
- Impressive balance to snatch without breaking stride and immediately get upfield
- Slippery quickness to evade early contact and burst out of breaks
- Threat of his vertical skills opens easy comeback targets
- Zig-zag ball carrier after the catch to throw off pursuit and create
- Averaged 21.1 yards as a kick returner (34 attempts for 716 yards) and 6.4 yards as a punt returner (14 attempts for 90 yards)

WEAKNESSES:

- Short, light and doesn't have the frame to get much bigger
- Play strength will be challenged very quickly at the next level, especially by press coverage
- Gets in and out of breaks well but needs continued route-running polish
- Always looking to create, which leads to undisciplined habits catching the ball
- Struggled to create explosive plays as senior (just five catches of 20 yards or more in 2024)
- Took points off the board with a taunting penalty on long touchdown run on 2024 Cincinnati tape
- Worked almost exclusively out of slot in college
- Missed two games and parts of others with left ankle injury (Nov. 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Colorado, Horn was a slot receiver in offensive coordinator Pat Shurmur's pro-style spread scheme (94.3 percent of his career snaps came inside). A late bloomer in high school, he flashed at South Florida before joining Coach Prime at Colorado, which put him on the NFL radar. His senior season didn't go as planned, mostly because of an injury that bothered him for a chunk of the year.

Explosive with and without the ball, Horn can turn short throws into big gains when he stays on time with his routes and focused through the catch point. He is at his best on the move, either vertically or on quick hitters, although you'd expect more than 12 touchdowns (11 receiving, one rushing) over four years for a player with his juice. Overall, Horn has size and strength limitations and needs to show better consistency at the next level, but he can be dynamic catching in stride and creating with the ball in his hands. He will need to prove himself as more than just a gadget player, and a return role on special teams will help his chances.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

WR33 Elijah Badger

Florida, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
South Sacramento, CA	Folsom	Aug 15, 2001	23.69	6013	200	#6

BACKGROUND: Elijah Badger, the youngest of five boys, grew up in the Sacramento, Calif., area with his mother (Carissia). He started playing flag football at age 6 and later graduated to tackle football, where he made a name for himself at running back. Badger was a do-everything type of athlete throughout childhood and found success in basketball, track and any other sport he tried. He was a standout sprinter for the Sierra Foothill Track Club. He found his joy on the football field, however, and continued to star, primarily as a running back until middle school, when he moved to wide receiver and played on defense.

Badger enrolled at Folsom High (alma mater of NFL players Jonah Williams and Jake Browning) and was a four-year varsity letterman. After getting acclimated as a freshman, he helped the program finish with an undefeated 16-0 record as a sophomore, including the 2017 Division I-AA state championship. He finished that year with 49 catches for 899 yards and 12 touchdowns. As a junior, Badger caught 55 passes for 1,113 yards (20.2 average) and 20 touchdowns, helping Folsom to the second of its back-to-back state championships. He also had three interceptions (one returned for a touchdown), one forced fumble, three punt return touchdowns and a kick return touchdown as a junior. Badger posted his best numbers as a senior: 79 receptions for 1,386 yards and 20 touchdowns, adding two touchdowns on kickoff returns and earning all-state honors. He finished his prep career with 183 catches and 52 touchdown grabs. Badger also lettered in basketball at Folsom before deciding to focus on football.

A four-star recruit, Badger was the third-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 15 recruit in California. After his productive sophomore season, he picked up his first scholarship offer from USC. Over the next month, Badger added major offers from Florida, Michigan, Nebraska and Oregon. Midway through Badger's junior season, Arizona State and head coach Herm Edwards made a strong pitch and eventually won out (over Oregon and USC). Badger was the second-ranked recruit in the Sun Devils' 2020 class. However, he didn't meet all of the NCAA's academic requirements and spent his first season on the scout team. Badger caught passes from Jayden Daniels in 2021 and had productive 2022 and '23 seasons, despite playing with six different quarterbacks.

In April 2024, he entered the transfer portal for his final season and committed to Florida over Arizona and Washington. Badger received a strong recommendation from his former Arizona State teammate Ricky Pearsall, who also made the Arizona State-to-Florida switch and ultimately became a first-round draft pick. Badger accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (-/-)						Arizona State; academically ineligible
2021: (11/1)	7	61	8.71	0	1	Arizona State; 22-yard rushing TD; 17-yard rushing TD
2022: (12/12)	70	866	12.37	7	5	Arizona State; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12; led team in receiving
2023: (11/8)	65	713	10.97	3	2	Arizona State; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12; led team in receiving; missed one game (back); 6-yard rushing TD
2024: (12/9)	39	806	20.67	4	0	Florida; led team in receiving; missed one game (injury)
Total: (46/30)	181	2,446	13.51	14	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6013	200	9 1/2	32 1/8	78 5/8	4.43	2.60	1.54	35 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No BJ, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6011	196	9 1/2	32	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Can hit the jets and surprise man coverage with afterburners
- One of five FBS receivers to average north of 20 yards per catch in 2024
- Quick deceleration helps him shake free
- Above-average body control to effortlessly locate, adjust and frame the football
- Good-sized hands — had zero drops on 61 targets in 2024
- Crowded catch points don't seem to bother him
- Nifty after the catch and quickly transitions to a runner
- Kick return experience, with an average of 28.9 yards per return in 2023 (20 attempts for 578 yards)

WEAKNESSES:

- Not a natural separator
- Inefficient at top of routes and needs to maintain integrity of the break
- Makes catch points tougher for himself when he freelances footwork and hip turn
- Below-average blocker
- Didn't see much special teams action in 2024
- Back injury (Nov. 2023) that sidelined him for the regular-season finale and lingered into 2024 spring ball

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Florida, Badger was an outside receiver in offensive coordinator Rob Sale's scheme (79.2 percent of snaps wide, 20.8 percent slot in 2024). He led Arizona State in receiving back-to-back seasons before arriving in Gainesville, where he paced the Gators in receiving yards in 2024.

With his speed and ball skills, Badger was a consistent chain-mover and frequently found an extra gear tracking the ball downfield (82.5 percent of his catches in 2024 resulted in a first down or touchdown). He uses his frame and focus to cleanly adjust to the ball, but his route drift creates contested windows. Overall, Badger needs to improve his route awareness for NFL quarterbacks and coaches to trust him, but the athleticism and catch-point talent are there for him to find a role.

GRADE: 7th round

WR34 Kobe Hudson

UCF, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pine Mountain, GA	Troup County	Sep 11, 2001	23.62	6006	193	#2

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (11/0)	7	70	10.00	0	1	Auburn; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (12/5)	44	580	13.18	4	7	Auburn
2022: (12/10)	39	641	16.44	7	5	UCF; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/12)	44	900	20.45	8	6	UCF; led team in receiving TDs; graduated with degree in interdisciplinary studies (May 2023)
2024: (12/12)	47	770	16.38	4	6	UCF; Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in receiving; Senior Bowl
Total: (60/39)	181	2,961	16.36	23	25

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6006	193	9	30 5/8	75 1/4	4.57	2.69	1.62	35	10' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6003	194	10 1/8	31 7/8	74 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.40	7.20	11

SUMMARY: Kobe Hudson grew up in the Atlanta suburbs and played quarterback in youth football. He later played at receiver his first two years at Troup County High before returning to quarterback for his junior and senior seasons (combined for 75 total touchdowns). A four-star recruit, Hudson signed with Auburn (had grown up a Cam Newton fan) and caught passes from Bo Nix. After two years, he transferred to UCF and reunited with his childhood friend, Javon Baker. He led the team in receiving as a super senior.

Hudson quickly enters his routes and works himself open, doing some of his best work selling double moves or forcing corners to commit their hips before making hard left/right turns. On most other routes, however, he finds himself stuck to coverage and struggling to finish crowded targets. I was expecting him to have more juice and elusiveness after the catch, too. Overall, Hudson will face even tighter separation windows against NFL defenders and must improve his catch-point focus, but his toughness and traits suggest he could be productive in a complementary role (similar to K.J. Osborn).

GRADE: FA

WR35 LaJohntay Wester

Colorado, 5SR

HOMETOWN Palmetto, FL	HIGH SCHOOL Palmetto	BIRTHDAY Mar 29, 2002	AGE 23.07	HT 5097	WT 163	NUM #1
--------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: LaJohntay Wester, the middle of three boys, was born and raised in Palmetto, Fla. (south of Tampa), with his parents (John and Laquita). With all three boys close in age, sports and competition were big in the Wester household. John Wester Sr., whom LaJohntay calls his "role model," played cornerback and introduced his sons to football. LaJohntay played pee wee for the Palmetto Trojans and was a natural with the ball in his hands — while two brothers (like their dad) wound up on the defensive side of the ball, he stayed on offense. All three boys played together at Palmetto High and then in college at Florida Atlantic. Wester's older brother (John Jr.) was a cornerback for the Owls (2019-23). His younger brother (Jaylen) played linebacker at FAU (2022-23) before transferring to Colorado with LaJohntay.

Wester was a four-year letterman on varsity at Palmetto High and played primarily at wide receiver, although he also took reps at quarterback and as a return man. He earned honorable mention all-state honors as a sophomore in 2017 and helped Palmetto to an 11-win season. Wester had his best season as a senior when he led the program to a 12-2 finish, including a spot in the 2019 Class 6A state semifinal playoffs. He finished his final year with 35 receptions for 758 yards and eight touchdowns, adding 11.3 yards per carry as a dual-threat quarterback to earn all-region and all-state accolades. He also finished with seven return touchdowns (four kick returns and three punt returns). Wester lettered in basketball, as well as in track as a sprinter.

A no-star recruit, Wester wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. At just 160 pounds, he went widely overlooked during the recruitment process. Wester received his first scholarship offer from FCS UT-Martin during the spring of his junior year (March 2019). His first FBS scholarship offer came from Kansas, followed by another from Toledo. But with his older brother at FAU, that connection led him to sign with former Owls head coach Willie Taggart. After the three Wester brothers played on the same FAU roster in 2023, LaJohntay and Jaylen entered the transfer portal and signed with Deion Sanders and Colorado. Wester lost his No. 1 jersey after his grades dipped, but he earned it back from Coach Prime after getting all A's and B's during the fall 2024 semester. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (9/1)	17	114	6.71	1	1	FAU; CUSA All-Freshman Team; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/8)	65	702	10.80	4	8	FAU
2022: (12/11)	62	719	11.60	8	6	FAU; Honorable Mention All-CUSA; 9-yard rush TD
2023: (12/12)	108	1,168	10.81	8	12	FAU; First Team All-American (PR); First Team All-AAC; AAC Special Teams POY; 67-yard PR TD; 3-yard rush TD
2024: (13/12)	74	931	12.58	10	3	Colorado; Honorable Mention All-Big 12; 76-yard PR TD
Total: (58/44)	326	3,634	11.15	31	30

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5095	163	8 5/8	29 3/4	72 5/8	4.46	2.59	1.58	32	10' 1"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5097	170	8 1/2	29 3/4	71 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Dynamic acceleration to reach top speed in his first and second steps
- Sudden athlete in short spaces to disrupt balance of cover defenders and quickly uncover
- Reads coverages well for abrupt gear changes
- Comfortable ball-tracker over his shoulder
- Small but steady hands and stays focused through his finish (three drops on 92 targets in 2024)
- Electric stop-start skills to force missed tackles in space
- Pair of punt returns for touchdowns in his career and averaged 11.2 yards per return (66 attempts for 740 yards and two TDs)
- Plays with a ton of heart and toughness
- Caught a pass in 50 straight games to end his career
- Finished college career with 326 career catches, No. 6 all-time in FBS history

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized, with slight frame and minimal bulk
- Doesn't have body type to break tackles
- Will have tough time playing through traffic in the NFL
- Gets in and out of breaks quickly but setup and steps lack polish
- Has athletic gifts to expand route tree in the NFL
- A lot of free releases in college
- Benefited from heavy doses of quick targets (only four of his 74 catches in 2024 came on throws of 20 yards or more)
- Worked almost exclusively out of the slot throughout his career

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Colorado, Wester was an inside slot receiver in offensive coordinator Pat Shurmur's pro-style spread scheme (only 2.7 percent of his 2024 snaps came out wide). Despite being a zero-star recruit out of high school, he set FAU's all-time receptions record and was productive in his one season in Boulder, finishing second on the team in receiving (behind Travis Hunter).

Wester plays with explosive acceleration in his routes, and even when he false steps at the break point, his short-area burst is enough to get open.

He tracks the ball well with the concentration to finish, although he doesn't have the size or play strength of a ball-winner. Overall, Wester is a light-framed and light-footed athlete with the stop-start athleticism to get on corners quickly and create his own separation. Most receivers his size have a tough time filling a traditional slot role in the NFL because of the demands in traffic, but his compete skills give him a chance to play a Wan'Dale Robinson-type role.

GRADE: FA

WR36 Ja'Corey Brooks

Louisville, 4SR

HOMETOWN Miami, FL	HIGH SCHOOL IMG Academy	BIRTHDAY Oct 31, 2001	AGE 23.48	HT 6020	WT 188	NUM #1
-----------------------	----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Ja'Corey Brooks, the second oldest of seven children (five boys, two girls), was born and raised in Miami with his mother (Tanisha Thomas) and father (Joey Brooks). He was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, including baseball, track and basketball (Brooks: "I thought I was headed for the NBA, until I stopped growing.") — he played on several travel-league teams. At age 6, he started playing football, and it quickly became his go-to sport. He led the Overtown Rattlers (80-pound division) to the Pop Warner Super Bowl in 2010. Brooks continued playing football through middle school as a wide receiver and cornerback and thrived on the 7-on-7 circuit. In eighth grade, he picked up his first college scholarship offer (Tennessee), thanks to his 7-on-7 performance.

Brooks enrolled at Booker T. Washington Senior High in Miami, a program that has produced several NFL players (most recently, wide receiver Tyquan Thornton). Brooks earned a spot on varsity as a freshman wide receiver and started to blossom as a sophomore, including a game-winning touchdown catch in overtime against cornerback Tyrique Stevenson (now on the Chicago Bears). As a junior, he led Booker T. Washington to a 13-2 record and the 2019 4A state championship. Brooks finished his junior season with 99 receptions for 1,281 yards and 18 touchdowns, earning all-state honors. With the 2020 fall season in doubt because of the COVID-19 pandemic, he transferred to IMG Academy in Bradenton for his senior year. There, Brooks caught passes from quarterback J.J. McCarthy and played alongside several future college teammates, such as Tyler Booker and JC Latham. He helped IMG to an undefeated 2020 season (No. 1 national ranking) and was named first-team all-state. Brooks also lettered in basketball and track at Booker T. Washington, including personal bests of 21.98 seconds in the 200 meters and 20 feet, 11 inches in the long jump.

A five-star recruit, Brooks was the second-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class (behind Emeka Egbuka) and the No. 8 recruit in Florida (four IMG players made the top eight). He was the No. 27 recruit nationally. After receiving the aforementioned Tennessee offer in eighth grade, his recruitment started to take off. Before he enrolled in high school, Brooks added offers from Florida, Georgia and his hometown Miami. He continued to turn heads at 7-on-7 tournaments, including the Adidas National Championship, and picked up offers from Auburn, LSU, Texas A&M and at least a dozen other programs.

However, he was drawn to Alabama — and the history of receivers from South Florida, such as Jerry Jeudy and Calvin Ridley, jumping to the NFL after playing in Tuscaloosa. Brooks committed to Nick Saban in May 2020 and was one of seven five-star recruits in the Tide's 2021 class (including current NFL players JC Latham, Dallas Turner, Kool-Aid McKinstry and Terrion Arnold). After three seasons at Alabama, Brooks transferred to Louisville for his senior season. He opted out of Louisville's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (15/2)	15	192	12.80	2	1	Alabama; blocked punt; led team in targets in 2021 national title game; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/8)	39	674	17.28	8	5	Alabama; blocked punt
2023: (8/0)	3	30	10.00	0	1	Alabama; blocked punt; missed final six games (left shoulder)
2024: (12/12)	61	1,013	16.61	9	7	Louisville; First Team All-ACC; led team in receiving; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (48/22)	118	1,909	16.18	19	14

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6020	184	9	31 3/4	76 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6017	188	9 1/4	31 7/8	76 5/8	4.65	2.47	1.56	30	9'8"	4.35	7.18	12

STRENGTHS:

- Smooth, long strides to quickly accelerate and reach top speed
- Efficiently defeats the jam to get around press and maintain positioning once corner is stacked
- Skillfully tracks the ball over his shoulder, slowing or speeding up to run underneath it
- Light-footed and balanced to hug sideline and stay inbounds
- Puts long arms to good use, extending outside his frame to make highlight-reel grabs
- His run-after-catch strength makes him a threat (see 2024 Stanford tape)
- Twenty catches of 20 yards or more in 2024 (only Travis Hunter and Matthew Golden had more among Power 4 players)
- Blocked three punts in college (one in each of his three seasons in Tuscaloosa)
- Returned kickoffs (16.9 average) and punts (10.6)

WEAKNESSES:

- Slender body type with below-average weight
- Lacks agile footwork or body snap at top of routes
- Will get hung up mid-route by physical cornerbacks
- Can sit down in open zones but needs to develop better quick-game nuance versus man
- Loses focus, leading to drops — or worse (bobbled ball led to interception on 2024 Notre Dame tape)
- Doesn't have fifth gear and can be tracked down by pursuit
- Labrum tear in left shoulder during 2024 fall camp; tried to play through it before shutting it down

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Louisville, Brooks was flexed across the formation in head coach Jeff Brohm's spread offense, lining up mostly outside (89.1 percent of snaps) with some slot work (10.9 percent). After a promising two seasons in Tuscaloosa, he looked poised for a breakout junior year, but a labrum tear spoiled that thought. He arrived in Louisville for the 2024 season and connected with fellow transfer Tyler Shough at quarterback, then became just the eighth player in school history to record a 1,000-yard receiving season.

A tall, lean target, Brooks eats up ground quickly to beat press, stack corners and use vertical pacing to track the ball and create late separation. He does a nice job battling for jump-ball positioning but also fights the ball at times — he needs to improve his finishing focus to earn the trust of his coaches at the next level. Overall, Brooks' lack of short-area agility and pacing allows man coverage to stay attached to him on short and intermediate routes, but his play strength, tracking skills and catch radius could make him a potential WR4/5.

GRADE: FA

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Kansas City, KS	Bishop Miege	Apr 25, 2002	23000	5104	194	#9

BACKGROUND: Daniel Jackson, the youngest of two boys, grew up in the Kansas City, Kan., area with his mother (Jakyta Lawrie) and stepfather (Kenneth Lawrie), as well as his father (Damon Jackson Sr.) and stepmother (Tamika Jackson). His older brother (DJ) played defensive back at Division II Central Missouri before transferring to Kansas for the 2017 season. Jackson followed in his older brother's footsteps and was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, including baseball, basketball, football and wrestling. He also grew up competing with his cousin (Jafar Armstrong), who attended Bishop Miege High before playing four seasons at Notre Dame (2017-20), one at Illinois (2021) and his final season at FCS Western Illinois (2022).

Jackson also attended Bishop Miege High, a Catholic school in Shawnee Mission, and was a part of four straight state championships as a wide receiver and cornerback. After getting his feet wet on varsity as a freshman, he emerged as a starter as a sophomore, catching 54 passes for 1,270 yards and 16 touchdowns. However, Jackson suffered a knee injury in the first quarter of the 2018 season opener, prematurely ending his junior season. He returned healthy as a senior captain and led Bishop Miege to an 11-2 finish and its sixth straight championship. Jackson was named the top wide receiver in the greater Kansas City area and the region's offensive player of the year (74 receptions for 1,511 yards and a state-record 27 touchdown catches). He fell one touchdown shy of matching the state's career receiving touchdown record (set by Armstrong). He lettered in basketball and was part of Bishop Miege's 2017 state title team. Jackson also ran track and had personal bests of 42 feet, 4 inches in the triple jump, 21-8 in the long jump, 11.56 seconds in the 100 meters, 24.05 in the 200 and 57.64 in the 400.

A three-star recruit, Jackson was the 56th-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Kansas. After his breakout sophomore season, he picked up his first scholarship offer in January 2018 from Iowa State. Over the next four months, Jackson added offers from Iowa, Kansas, Kansas State, Missouri, Notre Dame and Texas A&M. Some programs backed off after he missed almost all of his junior season, but Jackson also added offers from Arizona State, Minnesota, Wisconsin, plus a re-offer from Les Miles at Kansas. The summer before his senior season, Jackson committed to head coach P.J. Fleck and the Gophers. He was the sixth-ranked recruit in Fleck's 2020 class. Jackson took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Minnesota for his fifth season. He earned Academic All-Big Ten honors four straight years (2021-24) and graduated with a degree in youth studies (May 2024). Jackson opted out of Minnesota's 2024 bowl game.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	12	167	13.92	0	3	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (11/8)	25	267	10.68	1	3
2022: (11/10)	37	557	15.05	5	1
2023: (13/13)	59	831	14.08	8	7	Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in receiving
2024: (12/12)	75	863	11.51	4	5	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in receiving; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (54/43)	208	2,685	12.91	18	19

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5106	193	9	30 3/4	74 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.07	6.78	DNP	SS, three-cone only (choice)
PRO DAY	5104	194	9 3/8	31	74	4.63	2.64	1.60	38 1/2	10'5"	DNP	DNP	11

STRENGTHS:

- Loose route runner with detailed footwork and quiet upfield strides
- Balanced in setup and breaks, which allows him to hide his intentions
- Instinctive versus zone to leverage defenders out of position
- Drew six pass interference penalties in 2024
- Comfortably makes back-shoulder or front-facing adjustments with a defender on his hip
- Had arguably the catch of the year on the 2024 Michigan tape — you know the one
- Closest thing to a big-play weapon on his team (14 catches of 20 yards or more in 2024)
- Production steadily increased each season

WEAKNESSES:

- Ordinary frame, length and body bulk
- More smooth than sudden in attempts to quickly uncover
- Not going to threaten defenses with top-end speed
- Average separation skills — a high percentage of his targets were contested on tape
- More drops than touchdown catches, both in 2024 and for his career
- Rarely created explosives after the catch in college; usually only gets what is there for him
- Willing but unimposing as a run blocker
- No special teams impact in college

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Minnesota, Jackson worked primarily outside in offensive coordinator Greg Harbaugh Jr.'s scheme (74.0 percent of snaps wide, 25.7 percent in the slot). His role and targets improved each season, and he finished No. 3 in school history in catches (208) and No. 4 in receiving yards (2,685).

Although he is more of a one-note threat downfield, Jackson is an agile athlete with balance in his movements to give his quarterback a workable target. His routes are rhythmic, but his average explosiveness allowed defenders to frequently affect the catch point. Overall, Jackson doesn't jump out with his size, speed or strength, but he is fluid and natural from snap to finish and might find a role in the NFL if he can generate improved separation. His best path to the field likely will be in the slot, where he can exploit open zones.

GRADE: FA

WR38 Andrew Armstrong

Arkansas, 6SR

HOMETOWN Dallas, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Bishop Dunne	BIRTHDAY Oct 31, 2000	AGE 24.48	HT 6036	WT 204	NUM #2
------------------------	-----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Andrew Armstrong, one of five children, grew up in DeSoto, Texas (south of Dallas), with his parents (Kaprishia and Arthur Armstrong). He started football at age 6 and developed through the DeSoto youth football program. Armstrong primarily played quarterback throughout Pop Warner and into junior high. He also played basketball.

Armstrong enrolled at DeSoto High, a powerhouse program at the time. He initially played quarterback before transitioning to wide receiver. DeSoto finished his sophomore season 16-0 and won the 2016 Class 6A state championship — that team included several FBS recruits, including wide receiver Laviska Shenault Jr. He transferred to Bishop Dunne Catholic School in Dallas before his junior season. He earned honorable mention all-district honors as a senior (31 receptions for 422 yards and seven touchdowns) and helped Bishop Dunne finish 11-3, including the 2018 Division I state title.

A no-star recruit, Armstrong wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class — he was undersized (6-foot-2, 165 pounds) with only one season of tape at a smaller program. His first offer came from Division II Texas A&M-Commerce (later renamed East Texas A&M). The program offered only a partial scholarship, but it was Armstrong's best opportunity. After not playing his first two years, he got on the field in 2021 and had his breakout season in 2022.

He then entered the transfer portal in November 2022 and the offers started rolling in, including from Indiana, Louisville, Miami, Missouri, NC State, Syracuse and Wisconsin. But Armstrong enjoyed a visit to Arkansas and committed to the Razorbacks for his final two seasons of eligibility. Armstrong opted out of Arkansas' bowl game and declined an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2019: (-/-)						Texas A&M-Commerce; redshirted
2020: (-/-)						Texas A&M-Commerce; season canceled because of pandemic
2021: (10/3)	15	297	19.80	3		Texas A&M-Commerce
2022: (11/11)	62	1,020	16.45	13	2	Texas A&M-Commerce; First Team All-Southland; led team in receiving
2023: (12/12)	56	764	13.64	5	2	Arkansas
2024: (11/11)	78	1,140	14.62	1	4	Arkansas; Second Team All-SEC; led SEC in receiving; missed one game (hamstring); missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (44/37)	211	3,221	15.27	22	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6036	202	9 5/8	32 1/8	79 1/2	4.51	2.65	1.59	37 1/2	10' 4"	4.18	6.97	11
PRO DAY	6036	204	9 3/8	32 1/2	79 1/2	4.50	2.58	1.56	DNP	DNP	4.26	6.85	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, long athlete who has worked to develop his frame
- Can really roll once he stretches out his stride
- Has some tightness but doesn't move heavily as route runner
- Looks to alter route timing to throw off defensive backs
- Big, strong hands and plays physical to the football
- Able to snatch outside his frame without grinding down momentum of his stride
- Savvy with ways he uses his body to box out defenders
- Has some slippery to him after the catch, with ability to sidestep pursuit
- Chased down fumble return 75 yards to prevent touchdown in blowout loss (2024 Auburn tape)
- Led SEC in receiving yards in 2024 (fifth player in Arkansas history to surpass 1,000 receiving yards in a season)

WEAKNESSES:

- Only one touchdown catch on 118 targets in 2024
- Plays upright, leading to inconsistent sink and snap at top of routes
- Tends to false step against press
- Will struggle to get on top of NFL corners consistently
- No special teams impact
- Missed 2024 season opener because of lingering hamstring injury
- Will turn 25 during rookie season

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Arkansas, Armstrong was the X receiver (slot) in offensive coordinator Bobby Petrino's spread scheme. After four seasons in Division II, he was immediately productive in the SEC — his 78 catches for 1,140 receiving yards in 2024 both rank No. 2 in school history for a single season.

Armstrong is a long, reliable target with the lower-half athleticism to be a factor and the upper-body flexibility to adjust and expand his catch radius. Though he moves well for his size, you won't consistently see his testing athleticism within his route construction, which leads to crowded catch points. Overall, Armstrong has the goods to be an effective possession target, although he will need to prove he can separate against NFL corners to earn a place on a pro depth chart. A lack of special teams impact might hurt those chances.

GRADE: FA

WR39 Sam Brown Jr.

Miami, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Savannah, GA	New Hampstead	Aug 15, 2002	22.69	6023	200	#11

BACKGROUND: Samuel "Sam" Brown Jr., who has two sisters, was born and raised in Savannah, Ga., with his parents (Samuel and Karen). He grew up playing sports for the Windsor Forest Knights youth program, including football starting at age 5. Brown played just about every position throughout Pop Warner before settling on wide receiver and defensive back. He was also a talented basketball player and track athlete throughout middle school.

Brown enrolled at New Hampstead High in nearby Bloomingdale, where he had four different football head coaches in four seasons on varsity. While playing both ways as a wide receiver and free safety, he accounted for 35 tackles and three interceptions as a sophomore. As a junior, Brown saw his role on offense grow (19 catches for 435 yards and four touchdowns), and he added 37 tackles and one interception, helping lead New Hampstead to a berth in the 2018 5A state playoffs. Despite playing for a three-win team as a senior in 2019, he was named 5A region player of the year, with 40 receptions for 731 yards (18.2 average) and 11 touchdowns, plus 308 rushing yards and five rushing touchdowns. Brown also had 69 tackles, two forced fumbles and four interceptions (two returned for touchdowns) to earn first-team all-area honors. He was a standout basketball player, known for his high-flying dunks. Brown lettered in track and finished second in the long jump as a junior at the 2019 5A state championships. He finished with personal bests of 41 feet, 1 inch in the triple jump, 24-1 in the long jump, 6-2 in the high jump, 10.98 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.03 in the 200 and 50.62 in the 400.

A three-star recruit, Brown was the 77th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 46 recruit in Georgia. He was a bit of a late bloomer on the recruiting trail, but that changed when he had a chance to compete at camps after his junior season. Brown picked up his first scholarship offer from South Florida, followed by several ACC, Big Ten and SEC offers. He narrowed his list down to 10 schools: Cincinnati, Colorado, Kentucky, Michigan, Oregon, Purdue, Tennessee, Wake Forest, West Virginia and UCF. Brown originally committed to UCF during his senior season, but he decommitted the week before the early signing period when Jeff Lebby left to take the offensive coordinator position at Ole Miss (Brown received an offer from Ole Miss shortly thereafter). He considered late offers from Florida and Georgia but felt most comfortable at West Virginia. Brown was the second-ranked recruit (two spots ahead of Zach Frazier) in former head coach Neal Brown's 2020 class.

Midway through his second year on campus, he entered the transfer portal and signed with Houston. Brown played two seasons for the Cougars before again entering the transfer portal in April 2024 and signing with Miami. However, he stayed at Houston to graduate and didn't join the Hurricanes until August 2024, thus getting a late start learning the offense. Brown opted out of Miami's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (7/1)	8	92	11.50	0	0	West Virginia; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (2/0)	2	16	8.00	0	0	West Virginia; redshirted; entered transfer portal November 2021
2022: (11/7)	41	471	11.49	4	4	Houston; enrolled January 2022
2023: (12/11)	62	815	13.15	3	4	Houston; Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in receiving
2024: (12/9)	36	509	14.14	2	4	Miami; missed bowl game (opt-out); enrolled August 2024
Total: (44/28)	149	1,903	12.77	9	12

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6022	200	9 3/8	31 5/8	77 7/8	4.44	2.58	1.51	41 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No position drills, BJ, SS, three-cone, bench (right hamstring injury after second 40)
PRO DAY	6023	203	9 1/2	32	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Long, gliding strides to gain ground quickly
- Knows how to attack leverage of the defensive back on vertical routes
- Springy lower body, and it shows in his releases and breaks
- Able to drop his weight and work back to the quarterback
- Dynamic on runway routes, because of his acceleration
- Uses subtle body twitch mid-stride to cut back against pursuit, eluding defenders after catch
- Better blocking effort than expected with his lean body type
- Tall, stretched out frame and occasionally shows high-pointing ability

WEAKNESSES:

- Not very polished with salesmanship as a route runner, especially in the quick game
- Can avoid contact with quickness but has average play strength and struggles to play through contact
- Batting average below the Mendoza line on contested targets
- Struggled with drops over the first few games at Miami, and it took a minute for him to settle in
- Virtually no special teams experience (coverages or return game)
- Lackluster production — fewer than 50 yards receiving in nine of 11 games in 2024, despite playing in the No. 3 passing offense in the FBS

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Miami, Brown was an outside receiver (primarily to the left of the formation) in offensive coordinator Shannon Dawson's RPO-based version of the Air Raid (91.1 percent of his college snaps came out wide). After stints at West Virginia and Houston, he joined the Hurricanes for his final season and flashed his talent, although he wasn't able to fully realize his potential (finished fifth on the team in receiving).

Brown has the speed and stride manipulation to be a field-stretching weapon and the electric potential to force missed tackles in open space. He has adequate tracking skills, although his play strength mid-route and at the catch point is a concern (more drops than touchdown catches in college). Overall, Brown doesn't play with confidence running the full route tree, but he is straight-line explosive with the acceleration to separate vertically or horizontally. He has a promising yet unseasoned skill set, reminiscent of a Dyami Brown-type of target.

GRADE: FA

WR40 Kaden Prather

Maryland, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Montgomery Village, MD	Northwest	Sep 06, 2002	22.63	6034	204	#1

BACKGROUND: Kaden Prather, one of four children, grew up outside of Washington, D.C., with his parents (Kevin Prather and Tandrya Foreman). He played football for the Chiefs in the Montgomery Village Pop Warner program, primarily as a running back. Prather later joined the 480 Club 7-on-7 squad. His cousin (Tyree Foreman) played running back at Virginia (1997-2001) and is now the running backs coach at Temple. His cousin (Gavin) ran track and cross country for University of Maryland, Baltimore County (2017-20).

Prather started his prep career at Watkins Mill High in Gaithersburg, Md., where he had a promising freshman season as a wide receiver on varsity, despite playing in only four games because of injury. He transferred to DMV football powerhouse DeMatha Catholic High for his sophomore season in 2018 and was teammates with several FBS recruits, including MarShawn Lloyd and Kevin Winston Jr.

Prather transferred again as a junior and landed at Northwest High in Germantown, Md., where he helped lead the team to a 12-2 record and the 2019 4A state championship game (had 101 receiving yards in a title-game loss to Wise). He was named second-team all-state and first-team all-metro, posting 42 receptions for 895 yards and nine touchdowns while also playing in the secondary. Prather was poised for a productive final year, but the 2020 season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic. He also lettered in basketball at Northwest.

A four-star recruit, Prather was the 38th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 13 recruit in Maryland. He received his first scholarship offer the summer before his sophomore year from home state Maryland. The following spring, Prather added offers from Kentucky, North Carolina, Penn State and Pitt. During his standout junior season, he started to feel the love from several national programs and received offers from Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Michigan, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas A&M. Despite the draw of those programs, Prather had grown up rooting for West Virginia (in the Tavon Austin days) and developed a close relationship with Mountaineers wide receiver coach Gerad Parker. He was the third-ranked recruit in former head coach Neal Brown's 2021 class.

After two seasons in the program, Prather entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2022). A few weeks later, he returned home, committing to Maryland for his final two seasons of eligibility. Prather accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (12/4)	12	175	14.58	0	2	West Virginia; enrolled January 2021
2022: (11/10)	52	501	9.63	3	6	West Virginia; missed one game (injury)
2023: (13/9)	42	666	15.86	5	5	Maryland; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (12/12)	56	624	11.14	4	1	Maryland
Total: (48/35)	162	1,966	12.14	12	14

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6034	204	9 1/4	31 7/8	77 5/8	4.46	2.64	1.59	30	9' 6"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6033	209	9 3/8	31 1/2	77 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.14	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Long-framed athlete with functional size
- Plays with consistent speed that is solid by NFL standards
- Makes coordinated turns mid-air to frame the football
- Consistently finishes process to the ground
- Showed improved finishing skills in 2024 — true drops were tough to find on tape
- Did a better job hiding route intentions early
- Not afraid to drift into the teeth of coverage

WEAKNESSES:

- Not explosive linearly
- Doesn't have enough juice to easily shed clingy jams
- Poor stack technique when attempting to separate vertically
- Tracks ball well but needs to finish with better pacing and positioning (caught just five of 21 targets of 20 yards or more)
- Catch-point focus can be disrupted by physical defensive backs
- Route breaks aren't very crispy
- Very little "make you miss" to his game, limiting his YAC potential
- Struggled with fumbles earlier in career (didn't have a fumble in 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Maryland, Prather was an outside receiver in offensive coordinator Josh Gattis' pro-style spread scheme. He generated some buzz in NFL scouting circles over the summer, based on his 2023 tapes, although that seemed to cool — there wasn't much of a jump in his 2024 performance.

Working outside the numbers, Prather is a tall target who adjusts well to the football and does a nice job working back to help his quarterback. However, he is a non-explosive receiver with straight-line tendencies, lacking suddenness in his breaks and consistency downfield (two catches of 30 yards or more in 2024; none longer than 35 yards). Overall, Prather has a rangy frame with solid hands and speed, which certainly gives him a chance to stick in the NFL, but the lack of a true distinguishing trait will require him to find a favorable situation.

GRADE: FA

WR41 Da'Quan Felton

Virginia Tech, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Portsmouth, VA	Churchland	Jan 13, 2001	24.28	6045	214	#9

BACKGROUND: Da'Quan Felton grew up in the Chesapeake-Norfolk area in Virginia with his parents (Ronald and Tawana Boone). His father, initially a wide receiver before outgrowing the position, was an all-conference player in high school — he won state titles at Wilson High before playing tight end at Norfolk State (1993-96). Da'Quan's cousin (Shyrone Stith) played running back at Virginia Tech and was a seventh-round pick (No. 243) of the Jacksonville Jaguars in the 2000 NFL Draft. Despite his father's football background, Felton grew up as a hooper, idolizing LeBron James and dreaming of playing in the NBA. He also grew up a fan of Norfolk State because his grandmother used to work there, and he would attend football games.

Felton enrolled at Churchland High in Portsmouth and continued playing basketball. As a sophomore, he decided to give football a chance as a wide receiver and safety. Felton saw his first meaningful action as a junior and showed steady improvement. After Portsmouth won three combined games the prior two seasons, Felton had his best season as a senior, helping the program reach the 2018 state playoffs. Felton was named first-team all-district (43 catches for 741 yards and 10 touchdowns). He also lettered in basketball and track at Churchland and won the 2019 state championship in the 300-meter hurdles (38.82 seconds). Felton had personal bests of 20 feet, 6 inches in the long jump, 41-0 in the triple jump, 6.72 in the 55 meters, 11.82 in the 100 and 15.20 in the 110-meter hurdles.

A no-star recruit, Felton wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class. He didn't receive much recruiting attention until his breakout senior season, when he received his first offer from NAIA Bluefield College (Sept. 2018). A month later, Felton picked up his first Division I offer from FCS Norfolk State, the alma mater of both his father and high school coach. He signed with Norfolk State but saw minimal action his first two seasons, because of a redshirt year and the COVID-19 pandemic. Eventually, though, Felton developed into the team's go-to receiver.

He jumped into the transfer portal in November 2022 after leading the team in receiving. He heard from several Group of 5 programs but was hoping to play in what was then the Power 5. Virginia Tech finally offered him around Thanksgiving. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the pandemic and returned to Blacksburg for a sixth college season. Felton accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	GP	GS	REC	YDS_REC	AVG_REC	TD_REC	DROP	NOTES
2019: (1/0)	1	0	0	0		0	0	Norfolk State; Redshirted
2020: (-/-)	-	-						Norfolk State; Season cancelled because of pandemic
2021: (11/8)	11	8	28	492	17.57	2	7	Norfolk State
2022: (11/11)	11	11	39	573	14.69	7	2	Norfolk State; Second Team All-MEAC; led team in receiving; team captain
2023: (13/13)	13	13	38	667	17.55	8	6	Virginia Tech; Led team in receiving; enrolled January 2023
2024: (12/12)	12	12	32	360	11.25	2	5	Virginia Tech
Total: (48/44)	48	44	137	2,092	15.27	19	20	-

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6045	214	9 1/2	32 1/4	79 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	35	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	-
COMBINE	6046	213	9	32 1/4	79 1/8	4.50	2.64	1.60	32 1/2	10' 2"	4.30	7.10	16	-

STRENGTHS:

- Height-weight-speed traits jump off the page — and the screen ("Freaks List" alum)
- Good turnover in strides to get on top of cornerbacks
- Athletic coordination shows when pivoting at top of routes
- Able to reach back and rescue poorly thrown balls
- Catches ball well mid-stride on in-breaking routes
- Tends to turn 50-50 balls in his favor, because of his to his size and catch radius
- Can sit down versus zone to avoid driving defenders
- Willing to do the dirty work in run game, using his frame to overwhelm corners outside

WEAKNESSES:

- Tends to give indicators to coverage about what he is doing as a route runner
- Leggy in stop-start movements at top of routes
- Needs to be more efficient with his release mechanics to avoid excess contact in first five yards
- More of a cradle catcher — overly reliant on his body to finish
- Receptions of 20 yards or more dropped from nine in 2023 to just three in 2024
- Unless defender misjudges the pursuit angle, he doesn't have much elusiveness as a ball carrier
- Overzealous as a blocker, leading to holds and flags
- Only two games of more than 50 yards receiving in 2024
- Already will be 24 on draft weekend

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Virginia Tech, Felton was exclusively an outside receiver in former offensive coordinator Tyler Bowen's balanced scheme. After establishing himself as one of the top weapons in the MEAC, he transferred up and led the Hokies in receiving in 2023, although his production took a nosedive in his final season.

Felton is a long-framed, nimble athlete at his best when he can stretch out his stride and win over the top or on runway routes. He struggled to find chemistry with his quarterback in 2024, especially on downfield throws (only 43.8 percent of his catches resulted in a touchdown or first down; caught just four of 25 targets of 10 yards or more). Overall, Felton has NFL-level traits, which will get him longer looks at the next level, but he requires refinement with his routes and finishing skills to capitalize on his physical advantages. His upside as a third-level threat will have NFL teams interested.

GRADE: FA

WR42 Beaux Collins

Notre Dame, 4SR

HOMETOWN Los Angeles, CA	HIGH SCHOOL St. John Bosco	BIRTHDAY Dec 16, 2002	AGE 22.35	HT 6031	WT 198	NUM #5
-----------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (11/6)	31	407	13.13	3	5	Clemson; enrolled January 2021
2022: (10/10)	22	373	16.95	5	3	Clemson; missed four games (shoulder surgery)
2023: (11/11)	38	510	13.42	3	5	Clemson; missed three games (plantar fascia)
2024: (16/16)	41	490	11.95	3	7	Notre Dame
Total: (48/43)	132	1,780	13.48	14	20

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6030	201	9 1/2	31 5/8	79 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6031	198	9 1/2	31 7/8	79 1/2	4.54	2.57	1.59	38	10'10"	4.19	7.19	DNP

SUMMARY: Carrington Beaux Collins, the youngest of three children, grew up with his parents (D'Andre and April). His father played linebacker at New Mexico State and later became a coach. Collins prepped at St. John Bosco and had a standout junior season with 41 catches for 1,008 yards (24.6 average) and 14 touchdowns, leading the team to a 13-1 record and state title.

A four-star recruit, he was the third-ranked receiver in California (behind Troy Franklin and Xavier Worthy) and followed his high school quarterback (DJ Uiagalelei) to Clemson. After three years, he transferred to Notre Dame for his senior year and helped the Irish to the national title game.

A loose, limber athlete, Collins can alter his pacing mid-route and flashes a second gear to run under the deep ball. However, while the separation tools are there, the execution is lacking. He has the body control to make back-shoulder grabs look routine, but focus drops were an issue. Overall, Collins doesn't have the tape or production of a playmaker, but he has draftable traits — that might be enough for a team to believe in his potential.

GRADE: FA

WR43 Antwane Wells Jr.

Ole Miss, 6SR

HOMETOWN Richmond, VA	HIGH SCHOOL Highland Springs	BIRTHDAY Apr 02, 2001	AGE 24.06	HT 6006	WT 201	NUM #3
--------------------------	---------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Antwane (AN-twan) "Juice" Wells Jr. grew up in the Richmond, Va., area with his mother (Rachelle Berry) and father (Antwane Wells Sr.). Growing up, Antwane Wells Jr. was the only boy in the house with his mother and seven sisters until age 15, when he moved in with his father. He started playing football at age 5 and lined up at quarterback, wide receiver and fullback (his nickname was "Mack Truck") at the pee-wee level. He earned the "Juice" nickname in youth football, because of his athleticism with the ball in his hands.

Wells originally attended J.R. Tucker High in Henrico, Va., where he played on the freshman and JV teams in his first season. As a sophomore, he played both ways as a wide receiver and safety, although the varsity team managed just one win. Wells transferred to Highland Springs High and earned all-conference honors as a junior, playing both ways and helping the team go 15-1 and capture its third straight 5A state championship. As a senior, Wells earned first-team all-state, all-region and all-conference honors, posting 36 catches for 880 yards and 12 touchdowns. Highland Springs finished 14-0 and won the state title again, its fourth in a row.

A no-star recruit, Wells did well enough in high school to receive scholarship offers from FCS Campbell and Jacksonville State and Division II Virginia State in the 2018 recruiting class. But FBS programs stayed away because of his lackluster grades and SAT score, so he elected to pursue a postgraduate year in 2019 at Fork Union (Va.) Military Academy. Listed as a safety and wide receiver, he started the first few games before a broken foot ended his season. He received offers from FCS programs Maine, Merrimack and Robert Morris. When James Madison and head coach Curt Cignetti offered him a scholarship in December 2019, Wells committed almost on the spot and enrolled in January 2020. He spent two seasons at James Madison and set the school's single-season receiving record in 2021.

Wells entered the transfer portal (Jan. 2022) and committed to South Carolina over Miami, Mississippi State and Virginia Tech. After two seasons with the Gamecocks (he missed several games in 2023 because of injury), Wells again entered the transfer portal (Nov. 2023) and committed to Ole Miss. He graduated from South Carolina with a degree in services management. Wells accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2019: (-/-)						Fork Union Military Academy
2020: (8/4)	33	603	18.27	6	3	James Madison; Freshman All-American; led team in receiving; season played in spring 2021 because of pandemic
2021: (14/14)	83	1,250	15.06	15	5	James Madison; Second Team All-American; First Team All-CAA; set JMU single-season receiving records
2022: (13/6)	68	928	13.65	6	2	South Carolina; First Team All-SEC; led team in receiving
2023: (3/3)	3	37	12.33	1	1	South Carolina; missed final nine games (left foot)
2024: (13/7)	28	553	19.75	6	5	Ole Miss
Total: (51/34)	215	3,371	15.68	34	16

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6006	201	8 7/8	31 1/2	77 1/8	4.58	2.68	1.61	34	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6006	204	8 3/8	32 5/8	77 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Well-built athlete and has physicality to match up with NFL coverage
- Able to adjust and rescue off-target throws
- Helps out his quarterback by working back and extending to meet the football
- Has an idea of how to attack leverage in routes
- Can hold vertical stem (19.8 yards per catch in 2024 ranked No. 7 in the FBS)
- Can make first man miss and disrupt pursuit angles

WEAKNESSES:

- Average speed (I was expecting better juice)
- Lacks crisp quickness in and out of breaks
- Makes himself an easy target when facing press coverage
- Didn't appear comfortable finishing catches in a crowd
- Too many drops, especially in the quick game when he got caught peeking upfield
- Doesn't have any special teams experience
- Fractured left foot in the summer of 2023 during offseason workouts, which required surgery to place screws; rushed his return for the 2023 regular season but reaggravated the injury (Sept. 2023) and missed the rest of the season; missed most of the 2019 season at Fork Union Military Academy with a foot injury

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Ole Miss, Wells was an outside receiver (left and right) in offensive coordinator Charlie Weis Jr.'s spread scheme (86.7 percent of snaps out wide). He looked like a top-100 NFL prospect following the 2022 season at South Carolina, but injuries sidetracked his trajectory and he struggled to sustain a high level of play for Ole Miss.

A good-sized target, Wells is a coordinated athlete who can make natural adjustments on the ball and be a threat after the catch. However, he isn't much of a route technician, wasn't reliable as a finisher and doesn't have a special teams background. Overall, Wells is a confounding prospect, because he looks like a shell of the promising player studied in 2022. There is talent there, but his lack of consistency getting open and finishing catches were a problem in 2024 — and it is hard to see that changing in the NFL.

GRADE: FA

WR44

Jacolby George

Miami, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Lauderhill, FL	Plantation	Jan 25, 2003	22.24	5112	174	#3

BACKGROUND: Jacolby George grew up in Broward County, Fla., with his parents. His father introduced him to football at age 5, and it was "love at first sight." Always an offensive player, George's passion grew throughout pee wee — he became so focused on football that he didn't play any other sport throughout childhood. His older brother (Armani Harrison) was shot and killed in North Lauderdale, Fla. (May 2021), shortly before Jacolby enrolled at Miami.

George attended Plantation High (Ryan Shazier's alma mater). He emerged as an explosive weapon on varsity as a sophomore (28 catches for 620 yards and nine touchdowns), helping the team to a 10-2 record and the 2018 district title. George had his best season as a junior and earned first-team all-county recognition with 43 receptions for 1,030 yards and 12 touchdowns, as Plantation finished 9-2 and advanced to the second round of the 7A state playoffs. His senior season was cut short by the COVID-19 pandemic, but he finished with 31 catches for 463 yards and 10 touchdowns in only five games, and he added a punt return touchdown. George earned an invitation to the 2021 Under Armour All-American Game.

A three-star recruit, George was the 29th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 24 recruit in Florida. His recruitment started to take off after his sophomore season, when he received offers from Indiana, Minnesota, NC State and Syracuse. His hometown school, Miami, offered him in June 2019, and he committed within a few weeks. Six months later, George backed off his commitment and reopened his recruitment, adding offers from Georgia Tech, Penn State, West Virginia and UCF. The summer before his senior season, he committed to the Hurricanes for the second time. George was the 14th-ranked recruit in former head coach Manny Diaz's 2021 class. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (9/0)	7	183	26.14	1	2	Enrolled May 2021
2022: (7/1)	13	130	10.00	0	2	Missed three games (thumb); Two-game suspension
2023: (13/12)	57	864	15.16	8	6	Third Team All-ACC; 14-yard rushing TD
2024: (13/11)	53	752	14.19	8	4	Honorable Mention All-ACC
Total: (42/24)	130	1,929	14.84	17	14

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5110	172	9 1/2	31 3/8	75 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	32 1/2	10' 0"	DNP	6.77	DNP	No 40, SS, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5112	174	9 1/2	32	75 1/8	4.60	2.64	1.62	36	10' 2"	DNP	7.09	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Light-footed mover for abrupt direction changes at top of routes
- Enough juice to work vertically or streak horizontally
- Settles feet at the stem to separate from corners on his hip
- Comfortable making hands catches outside his frame
- Secures ball through contact much better than expected for a player his size
- Works sideline/backline well to toe tap
- Averaged 10.9 yards per punt return (20 attempts for 218 yards)

WEAKNESSES:

- Slight frame with marginal bulk and play strength
- Consistently takes false steps against press, which disrupts play timing
- Below-average instincts after the catch and doesn't maximize available yardage
- Missed three games as sophomore with broken thumb, which required screws (Sept. 2022)
- Arrested and charged with two misdemeanors: racing on the highway and attaching an unlawful registration (Jan. 2024); charges later dropped
- Served a two-game suspension (Sept. 2022)
- Almost dismissed from the team following the 2023 season, for a string of unsportsmanlike conduct penalties — suspended for the first quarter against Boston College (Nov. 2023) after a 15-yard penalty cost Miami its previous game against Louisville; two head-scratching fouls a few weeks later in Miami's bowl game (pushed a defender's facemask after one play; shoved a defender in the back after another)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Miami, George was an outside receiver in offensive coordinator Shannon Dawson's RPO-based version of the Air Raid. He earned All-ACC honors as a junior and senior, although he produced both highs and lows as part of the Hurricanes' receiving rotation.

George uses both quickness and pacing as a route runner and frames the football with steady hands away from his smallish body. He was surprisingly successful at finishing contested catches but lacks physicality in his routes — playing through NFL-level contact will be much tougher. Overall, George has shown improved route polish and ball tracking, which will give him a chance to stick in the NFL. His undisciplined tendencies and lack of size, however, will make it an uphill climb. Proving himself on special teams could help him stand out in camp.

GRADE: FA

WR45 Theo Wease Jr.

Missouri, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Allen, TX	Allen	Jun 25, 2001	23.83	6030	200	#1

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2019: (13/0)	8	136	17.00	2	1	Oklahoma; enrolled February 2019
2020: (11/11)	37	530	14.32	4	4	Oklahoma; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (1/0)	0	0		0	0	Oklahoma; missed almost entire season (foot)
2022: (11/6)	19	378	19.89	4	1	Oklahoma
2023: (13/13)	49	682	13.92	6	1	Missouri
2024: (13/13)	60	884	14.73	4	2	Missouri; led team in receiving yards; team captain
Total: (62/43)	173	2,610	15.09	20	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6030	200	9 5/8	32 1/8	78 3/8	4.56	2.69	1.63	31	9' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	Left hand measured (broken bone in right hand); no position drills, SS, three-cone, bench
PRO DAY	6024	204	9 1/4	32 3/4	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.31	7.15	DNP

SUMMARY: Thelonius "Theo" Wease Jr., who has a young son (Theo III), grew up with his parents (Theo Sr. and Traci) in North Texas. He led Allen High to the 2017 6A state championship as a junior and scored 18 touchdowns as a senior. A five-star recruit, Wease committed to Oklahoma over LSU and was poised for a breakout junior year in 2021 (with Caleb Williams as his QB), but he suffered a foot injury. Looking for more playing time, he transferred to Missouri, where he started all 26 games the past two seasons and formed one of the best receiver duos in college football with Luther Burden III.

Wease is a good-sized, loose athlete who shows outstanding body control as a route runner and when making adjustments mid-air. He has better ability after the catch than one might expect, although physicality mid-route will give him trouble (and I expected more from his blocking). Overall, Wease's speed and explosiveness are underwhelming, but his veteran routes and ball skills will give him a leg up once in an NFL training camp.

GRADE: FA

WR46 Efton Chism III

Eastern Washington, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Monroe, WA	Monroe	Oct 26, 2001	23.49	5104	193	#7

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (7/2)	23	267	11.61	1	2	Season played in spring 2021
2021: (13/7)	57	735	12.89	9	1	Third Team All-Big Sky
2022: (10/10)	62	607	9.79	6	2	Third Team All-Big Sky
2023: (11/11)	84	932	11.10	8	3	Third Team All-American; First Team All-Big Sky; team captain
2024: (12/12)	120	1,311	10.93	13	3	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Sky; led FCS in catches; led Big Sky in receiving yards
Total: (53/42)	346	3,852	11.13	37	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5104	193	9	30 1/2	73 1/2	4.71	2.72	1.62	34 1/2	9'10"	4.06	6.77	16

SUMMARY: Efton (EFF-tun) Chism (Chiz-um) III was born in Kirkland, Wash., with his parents (Efton and Kristy) and started playing football in eighth grade. He was an all-league player in baseball, basketball and football at Monroe High. A three-star recruit, Chism had an FBS offer from Air Force but grew up watching Eastern Washington games, and that program "felt like home." He put together a record-breaking college career, including a catch in 53 straight games to break Cooper Kupp's previous FCS mark.

Chism is a slick route runner with craftsman hands and commendable toughness working into the teeth of the defense. Though he has better play strength than most slots, he is a smaller target and will face a substantial jump in the talent level against NFL defensive backs. He also returned punts in college but averaged just 4.6 yards per attempt. Overall, Chism is the quintessential quicker-than-fast slot receiver, with lagging deep speed but dazzling feet in and out of breaks to give his quarterback quick windows.

GRADE: FA

WR47 Will Sheppard

Colorado, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Madisonville, LA	Mandeville	Feb 11, 2002	23.20	6026	203	#14

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (8/0)	2	30	15.00	0	0	Vanderbilt; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/11)	43	577	13.42	4	5	Vanderbilt; led team in receiving TDs
2022: (12/12)	60	776	12.93	9	3	Vanderbilt
2023: (12/12)	47	684	14.55	8	9	Vanderbilt; Second Team All-SEC; led team in receiving
2024: (13/13)	48	621	12.94	6	2	Colorado; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (56/48)	200	2,688	13.44	27	19

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6026	203	10	32	77 3/4	4.59	2.64	1.58	38 1/2	10'6"	4.31	DNP	DNP

SUMMARY: Will Sheppard, one of three children, was born in Ruston, La., with his parents (Willie Sheppard and Rebekah Boyd), both college athletes at Louisiana Tech. At Mandeville High, Sheppard was a three-sport star (62 receptions for 1,276 yards and 24 touchdowns as a senior). A three-star recruit, he committed to Vanderbilt and produced for three straight years on a struggling offense. He transferred to Colorado for his senior year and was Shedeur Sanders' third-leading receiver in 2024. While seeing heavy doses of slants and back-shoulder throws, Sheppard uses his frame well to shield defenders and catch the football away from his body. That ability shows in the red zone — 17 of his 23 touchdown grabs the past three years came inside the opponent's 20.. Though drops were an issue for him in 2023, his hands were sticky on the 2024 tape and he caught the ball cleanly over/around defenders. Overall, Sheppard doesn't have dynamic speed, and detaching from NFL athleticism won't be easy for him, but he is a seasoned route runner with the hand-eye coordination to be a potential possession target.

GRADE: FA

WR48 Jackson Meeks

Syracuse, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Phenix City, AL	Central	Mar 24, 2003	22.08	6017	213	#7

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (9/0)	3	44	14.67	0	0	Georgia; enrolled January 2021
2022: (15/0)	6	65	10.83	0	0	Georgia
2023: (12/0)	1	23	23.00	0	0	Georgia; entered transfer portal (Dec. 2023)
2024: (13/11)	78	1,021	13.09	7	5	Syracuse; Second Team All-ACC; led team in receiving yards; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (49/11)	88	1,153	13.10	7	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6017	213	9 5/8	32	76 3/4	4.64	2.72	1.62	34 1/2	10'0"	4.25	6.79	15

SUMMARY: Jackson Meeks, the nephew of NFL defensive end Za'Darius Smith, grew up with his mother (Genniefer) in Phenix City, Ala. He posted moderate receiving production at Central High but went overlooked by instate powers Alabama and Auburn. A three-star recruit, he was hoping to play in the SEC and committed to Georgia within a week of being offered his senior season. After three years (and two national championships) as a backup, Meeks entered the transfer portal and found a friendly face in former Georgia assistant Fran Brown, who took over as the Syracuse head coach in 2024. With fellow transfer Kyle McCord at quarterback, Meeks eclipsed 1,000 yards receiving in 2024. He isn't a polished separator in his routes, but he is physical to the football to pluck and finish (No. 2 in the FBS in 2024 with 21 contested catches). His body strength shows mid-route, over the middle and after the catch (Brown: "He's a dog."). Overall, Meeks isn't a burner, which will limit his role at the next level, but he plays with the competitive juices, decisive movements and ball skills to be a chain-moving option.

GRADE: FA

WR49 Roc Taylor

Memphis, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Oxford, AL	Oxford	Sep 26, 2002	22.58	6017	213	#3

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (7/0)	8	117	14.62	0	2
2022: (11/1)	20	225	11.25	1	2
2023: (13/13)	69	1,083	15.70	4	5	Second Team All-AAC; led team in receiving
2024: (13/12)	66	950	14.39	2	4	First Team All-AAC; led team in receiving; Hula Bowl
Total: (44/26)	163	2,375	14.57	7	13

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6017	213	9	32 1/4	78 1/4	4.49	2.61	1.57	30 1/2	10' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6015	212	9 1/4	33	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.31	7.10	DNP

SUMMARY: Rokafewlloa "Roc" Taylor, the youngest of four, grew up in Oxford, Ala., with his mother (Christina). He started playing football at age 4 and was an all-state receiver as a junior at Oxford High (1,291 receiving yards). A three-star recruit, Taylor was committed to Tennessee for more than 18 months, but the school rescinded his offer days before signing day after a coaching change. Taylor landed at Memphis instead and combined for 2,033 receiving yards over his junior and senior seasons. Taylor has the look of an NFL receiver with his long, muscled-up frame — and the way he extends outside that frame to snatch the football. His hand-eye coordination shows in crowded environments, although it also shines a light on his struggles to set up defenders and easily separate at the tops of routes. Overall, Taylor will struggle to escape press and tight coverage over the first two levels, but his competitiveness and ability to adjust to the football will be his tickets to success at the next level, especially in the red zone.

GRADE: FA

WR50 Traeshon Holden

Oregon, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Kissimmee, FL	Narbonne	Aug 12, 2001	23.70	6021	205	#1

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	0	0		0	0	Alabama; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (15/0)	21	239	11.38	1	1	Alabama
2022: (10/5)	25	331	13.24	6	4	Alabama
2023: (14/2)	37	452	12.22	6	2	Oregon; briefly dismissed from team following arrest (Feb. 2023) but wasn't charged
2024: (13/10)	45	718	15.96	5	3	Oregon; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; ejected from Ohio State game (spitting on opponent)
Total: (57/17)	128	1,740	13.59	18	10

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6021	205	9 7/8	31 5/8	78 1/2	4.57	2.69	1.63	32	10' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	Left hand measured; no SS, three-cone, bench — choice
PRO DAY	6021	211	9 3/4	32 1/2	79 1/2	4.59	2.70	1.61	DNP	9'8"	DNP	DNP	DNP

SUMMARY: Traeshon Holden, originally from Florida, played for Biff Poggi at St. Frances Academy in Baltimore. He transferred to Narbonne High in Los Angeles for his senior year and caught 31 passes for 512 yards and seven touchdowns. A four-star recruit, he committed to Alabama, where he was roommates with Bryce Young and filled in when Jaylen Waddle was injured in 2020. After three years in Tuscaloosa, he transferred to Oregon before the 2023 season. Despite a rocky start there, he set career bests as a senior.

Holden gives his quarterback a large target and is at his best on digs and crossers, attacking the teeth of the defense. He stays coordinated in his releases and route entrance but lacks the speed or suddenness to easily separate, especially on the first and second levels. Overall, Holden will have a tough time detaching from NFL corners, but he produces when he plays to his play strength and physicality. The interview vetting process will be pivotal for him.

GRADE: FA

WR51 Josh Kelly

Texas Tech, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Fresno, CA	San Joaquin Memorial	Jul 01, 2001	23.81	6006	186	#3

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2019: (1/1)	1	-10	-10.00	0	0	Fresno State
2020: (6/4)	22	330	15.00	1	0	Fresno State; 9-yard rushing TD; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/9)	52	778	14.96	3	3	Fresno State; Honorable Mention All-MWC
2022: (6/4)	12	207	17.25	0	0	Fresno State; missed eight games (injury)
2023: (12/12)	61	923	15.13	8	3	Washington State; led team in receiving; enrolled January 2023
2024: (12/12)	89	1,023	11.49	5	6	Texas Tech; Second Team All-Big 12; led team in receiving; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (50/42)	237	3,251	13.72	17	12

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6005	186	10 1/2	30 7/8	76 5/8	4.70	2.73	1.64	33	10' 1"	DNP	7.02	DNP	No SS, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6006	186	10 3/8	31	75 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.28	7.13	8

SUMMARY: Joshua "Josh" Kelly, who has an older brother (Chris), grew up in California with his parents (Chris and De'Andra). He moved to wide receiver in high school at Bullard High before transferring to San Joaquin Memorial for his senior year, posting 1,127 receiving yards in 2018.

A three-star recruit, he stayed close to home and played at Fresno State, catching passes from Jake Haener. After an injury-riddled 2022 season, Kelly transferred to Washington State in 2023, then to Texas Tech for his final season — he posted career-best numbers out of the slot in 2024.

Kelly isn't the most detailed or explosive route runner, but his stem breaks are sharp because of his quick, urgent feet. Despite a relatively lean frame, he owns large, confident hands and works well with bodies around him to finish in traffic. Overall, Kelly flashes elusiveness before and after the catch, but his lack of desired speed (on tape and the stopwatch) is a high hurdle that will be tough to clear versus NFL coverage.

GRADE: FA

WR52 Dymere Miller

Rutgers, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Coatesville, PA	Salisbury	May 30, 2001	23.90	5106	181	#0

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	3	7	2.33	0	0	Monmouth; redshirted; season played in spring 2021
2021: (11/0)	20	267	13.35	1	1	Monmouth
2022: (9/9)	55	820	14.91	7	5	Monmouth; Second Team All-CAA; led team in receiving
2023: (11/11)	90	1,293	14.37	9	3	Monmouth; First Team All-American; First Team All-CAA; led team in receiving; 68-yard TD rush; team captain
2024: (13/12)	59	757	12.83	4	10	Rutgers; led team in receiving; enrolled January 2024
Total: (47/32)	227	3,144	13.85	21	19

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5106	181	8 5/8	32	76 1/2	4.37	DNP	DNP	34 1/2	10'4"	4.25	6.76	18

SUMMARY: Dymere (die-meer) Miller grew up outside of Philadelphia, with his mother (Chaquita). After a car accident sidelined him for a stretch at Coatesville High, he attended Salisbury for a post-graduate year in 2019 and put himself on the radar of several FCS schools. He signed with Monmouth and set single-season school records for catches and receiving yards. For his final season, he jumped into the portal and committed to Rutgers over Memphis, Pitt and Texas Tech. He led Rutgers in receiving in 2024.

Miller is both quick and fast to pace his routes, cross up corners and create passing windows for the quarterback, which is necessary since he is a smaller target. Despite his movement skills, he wasn't very elusive on his 2024 tape and got himself in trouble by taking his eyes off the ball too quickly, leading to drops. Overall, Miller needs to be more reliable putting catches away, but the athletic talent is NFL-worthy in the slot and gives him upside on special teams coverages.

GRADE: FA

WR53 Mac Dalena

Fresno State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Fresno, CA	San Joaquin Memorial	Oct 04, 2001	23.55	5095	180	#0

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (6/0)	4	88	22.00	1	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/1)	0	0		0	0
2022: (14/3)	11	99	9.00	1	0	Blocked punt
2023: (13/13)	47	509	10.83	3	1
2024: (13/13)	64	1,065	16.64	8	3	First Team All-MWC; led team in receiving; Tropical Bowl
Total: (59/30)	126	1,761	13.98	13	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5095	180	9 1/4	28 5/8	70	4.41	DNP	DNP	38 1/2	10'5"	4.12	6.89	11

SUMMARY: Mac Dalena, the third of four kids, was raised in Fresno, Calif., by his parents (Brian and Lisa). His older brother (Frank) also played wide receiver at Fresno State (2015-19). Mac Dalena caught 69 passes for 1,212 yards and 19 touchdowns as a senior captain at San Joaquin Memorial High (also had seven interceptions and was the 2018 baseball player of the year).

A three-star recruit, Dalena went widely overlooked, but not by his hometown Fresno State, which was his first offer. After playing mostly on special teams for three years, he became a full-time starter in 2023 and had a career year in 2024.

Dalena has the size of a slot but lined up mostly outside (89.2 percent of his snaps were wide), where he used his speed to create quick separation underneath or win vertically (one of just seven FBS receivers with at least five catches of 50 yards or more in 2024). He has reliable hands and can use his body, when necessary, to finish (only four drops on 178 career targets) His catch radius is small, though, and off-target throws often stay that way. Overall, Dalena can fight for a slot role in the NFL, but his special teams experience (17 tackles, one blocked punt on 605 special teams snaps) will separate him.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
54	Chandler Brayboy	Elon	6002	205	4.47	2.52	1.46	37 1/2	10'2"	4.27	6.90	17	9 1/8	31 1/2	76 3/4
55	Tyrone Broden	Arkansas	6051	194	4.37	2.45	1.51	35	11'4"	4.40	7.07	DNP	9 1/2	33 1/2	78 1/4
56	Luke Grimm	Kansas	5105	189	4.46	2.63	1.52	35 1/2	9'11"	4.11	6.78	DNP	9	29 3/8	72
57	Joaquin Davis	NC Central	6041	194	4.36	2.50	1.51	42	10'4"	4.32	6.94	10	8 7/8	32 7/8	78
58	Blayne Taylor	Abilene Christian	6035	212	4.44	2.57	1.63	39 1/2	10'11"	4.41	7.31	16	9 1/2	34 3/4	81 1/2
59	Collin Brunstein	Illinois College	6002	188	4.51	2.62	1.65	36	10'6"	4.49	6.89	4	8 5/8	31 1/8	74 3/8
60	Bryson Green	Wisconsin	6013	211	4.54	2.55	1.58	39	10'11"	4.36	6.98	18	10 1/4	33 3/8	79 5/8
61	Jamaal Pritchett	South Alabama	5084	175	4.42	2.58	1.50	30 1/2	9'9"	4.46	7.20	DNP	9 1/4	29 1/2	71 1/8
62	Landon Parker	Troy	6022	211	4.40	2.55	1.53	38 1/2	11'1"	4.21	6.68	19	9 1/8	31	77 1/8
63	Jordan Bly	Gardner-Webb	5106	175	4.36	2.50	1.47	36 1/2	10'7"	4.07	6.72	12	8 5/8	30 1/4	72 1/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
64	Eli Pancol	Duke	6013	205	4.40	2.50	1.49	36	10'3"	4.26	6.94	23	9	30	74 3/4
65	Ke'Shawn Williams	Indiana	5090	188	4.50	2.56	1.59	39	10'1"	4.34	6.98	6	9 3/4	30	71 5/8
66	Giles Jackson	Washington	5081	187	4.45	2.58	1.56	37 1/2	10'1"	4.24	6.76	12	8 1/2	29 3/4	71 1/2
67	Taylor Morin	Wake Forest	5101	186	4.49	2.50	1.46	37	10'1"	4.14	6.70	14	8 1/4	29 3/8	70 1/4
68	JP Richardson	TCU	5114	192	4.53	2.59	1.55	33	10'0"	4.19	6.84	12	9	30	72 7/8
69	Kris Mitchell	Notre Dame	5112	182	4.55	2.63	1.56	36 1/2	9'10"	4.45	7.18	9	8 1/8	31 5/8	76 1/8
70	Monaray Baldwin	Baylor	5086	166	4.32	2.52	1.50	34	9'11"	4.47	7.08	10	8 5/8	28 1/8	68 3/8
71	Rashod Owens	Oklahoma State	6020	218	4.53	2.66	1.64	34	10'4"	4.39	7.19	19	9 1/2	32	78 7/8
72	Cam Camper	Boise State	6027	198	4.51	2.60	1.51	33	10'3"	4.26	7.12	DNP	9 1/8	32 3/4	79 1/4
73	Jordan Moore	Duke	6001	191	4.55	2.56	1.53	36	10'3"	4.26	6.91	DNP	9	30 5/8	75 5/8
74	Kyren Lacy	LSU	6020	215	4.58	2.64	1.62	33 1/2	DNP	4.40	DNP	DNP	10	33 3/4	80 1/2
75	Brennan Presley	Oklahoma State	5081	176	4.53	2.66	1.64	34	9'11"	4.07	6.71	DNP	9 1/2	29 1/4	72 1/2
76	Kelly Akharaiyi	Mississippi State	6002	201	4.61	2.67	1.64	40	10'3"	4.31	7.15	13	9 3/8	32 1/4	78 7/8
77	Coleman Owen	Ohio	5101	181	4.53	2.59	1.58	36	10'0"	4.06	6.84	14	9 1/4	29	71
78	Damien Alford	Utah	6050	224	4.46	2.54	1.57	32	10'6"	4.46	7.06	11	10 1/2	34 5/8	81 3/4
79	Luke Floriea	Kent State	5100	184	4.50	2.64	1.57	39 1/2	10'8"	4.35	7.15	DNP	9 1/2	30 1/8	73 7/8
80	Silas Bolden	Texas	5074	162	4.53	2.59	1.62	34	10'2"	4.41	7.30	DNP	8 1/2	29 3/8	71
81	Ife Adeyi	Sam Houston	5082	181	4.35	2.47	1.46	40 1/2	11'1"	4.14	6.74	18	8 1/8	30 3/4	73 1/8
82	Aaron Sexton	Ireland (IPP)	6016	195	4.50	2.65	1.65	32 1/2	9'11"	4.32	7.14	14	10 1/8	32 1/8	76 1/8
83	Devon Frenchko	Alma	5113	180	4.47	2.64	1.56	36 1/2	10'6"	4.45	7.34	11	8	31	72 3/8
84	Melquan Stovall	Arizona State	5083	189	4.44	2.56	1.50	39	10'5"	4.30	6.88	15	9 1/2	30	74 1/2
85	Trey Goodman	UTEP	5111	184	4.60	2.60	1.59	37 1/2	10'4"	4.27	6.82	11	8 3/4	30 5/8	75 1/8
86	Jayden Harrison	Notre Dame	5095	183	4.63	2.72	1.63	36 1/2	10'2"	4.20	6.91	14	9 7/8	30 1/2	73 5/8
87	Jakobie Keeney-James	UMass	5114	190	4.37	2.59	1.54	40 1/2	10'6"	4.07	6.88	17	9 7/8	31 7/8	75 5/8
88	Mario Williams	Tulane	5090	170	4.50	2.57	1.53	33	10'0"	4.16	6.96	DNP	8 5/8	29 3/4	73 3/8
89	Ja'seem Reed	San Diego	6012	190	4.55	2.65	1.64	32	10'7"	DNP	DNP	9	9 3/4	32	76 5/8
90	Omarion Dollison	James Madison	5092	186	4.45	2.59	1.59	37 1/2	10'5"	4.28	6.69	18	9 1/8	30 1/8	73 3/8
91	Gage Larvadain	South Carolina	5083	171	4.46	2.58	1.52	38 1/2	10'2"	4.32	7.20	DNP	9 5/8	30	71 1/2
92	Dante Wright	Temple	5091	180	4.58	2.66	1.59	36 1/2	9'5"	4.21	7.08	16	9	29 1/4	71 1/2
93	Myles Price	Indiana	5084	178	4.41	2.55	1.56	36	10'3"	4.39	7.07	7	9 5/8	30	72 7/8
94	Kyrese White	Utah State	5100	186	4.55	2.56	1.58	37 1/2	10'4"	4.40	6.83	20	9	29 3/4	71 3/8
95	Tyler Kahmann	Emporia State	6015	207	4.50	2.62	1.60	35 1/2	10'2"	4.33	7.09	9	8 7/8	30 1/8	73 3/8
96	Dalevon Campbell	South Carolina	6027	219	4.40	2.58	1.51	35	10'5"	4.66	7.38	17	9 7/8	32	77 5/8
97	Jahmal Banks	Nebraska	6026	218	4.56	2.61	1.64	35	10'5"	4.21	7.19	14	9 1/4	32 3/8	80 1/2
98	Winston Wright Jr.	East Carolina	5092	182	4.55	2.60	1.56	34	9'10"	4.15	7.12	17	8 5/8	31 1/8	72 1/4
99	Jabre Barber	Texas A&M	5084	179	4.59	2.64	1.54	30	10'2"	4.15	6.90	8	8 3/4	30 1/8	72 1/4
100	Courtney Jackson	Arkansas State	5100	183	4.38	2.59	1.50	33 1/2	10'8"	4.27	7.02	14	9 1/2	30 3/4	72 3/4
101	Nate McCollum	North Carolina	5080	184	4.45	2.56	1.47	33	9'5"	4.07	6.95	16	9 3/8	28 7/8	70 5/8
102	Zakhari Franklin	Illinois	6011	204	4.62	2.69	1.66	30 1/2	9'9"	4.38	7.12	DNP	10 1/2	35 5/8	78
103	Tristan Michaud	South Dakota	6056	215	DNP	DNP	DNP	34 1/2	10'1"	DNP	DNP	7	10 3/8	32 3/4	79 1/4
104	Robert Lewis	Auburn	5100	186	4.46	2.58	1.56	32 1/2	9'9"	4.60	7.28	11	9 3/4	31 1/4	74 3/4
105	Keelan White	Montana	6002	190	4.65	2.76	1.65	32 1/2	9'9"	4.25	6.75	DNP	9 3/8	30 7/8	75 1/4
106	Moochie Dixon	SMU	5110	183	4.38	2.59	1.62	36	10'10"	4.37	7.15	14	9 1/2	30 3/8	72 3/4
107	Jared Gipson	Sacramento State	5115	206	4.55	2.68	1.61	32 1/2	10'0"	4.34	7.32	18	9 1/4	30 1/2	75 3/8
108	Darius Cooper	Tarleton State	5111	213	4.49	2.63	1.69	38	10'6"	4.20	7.11	18	9 1/2	32 1/2	78
109	Xavier Guillory	Arizona State	6017	201	4.56	2.59	1.55	39	10'8"	4.34	6.91	15	8 1/2	30 5/8	74 1/2
110	Jahdae Walker	Texas A&M	6027	199	4.45	2.62	1.58	34 1/2	10'3"	4.13	6.71	10	9 7/8	33 1/2	79 1/2
111	Dorian Singer	Utah	5113	191	DNP	DNP	DNP	30 1/2	9'2"	4.46	7.19	11	8 1/4	30 3/8	73
112	Junior Bergen	Montana	5094	184	4.53	2.70	1.59	36 1/2	10'0"	4.22	6.97	17	9	30	72 1/4
113	Ketron Jackson Jr.	Baylor	6012	203	4.53	2.68	1.63	37 1/2	10'3"	4.28	7.20	11	9 1/4	31 1/8	76 3/4
114	Moose Muhammad III	Texas A&M	6002	195	4.63	2.66	1.61	31	10'1"	4.32	6.96	11	9 3/4	30 3/4	73 3/8
115	Treon Sibley	Liberty	5113	205	4.49	2.56	1.53	36	10'3"	4.49	7.09	20	8 3/4	30	72 5/8
116	Ja'Khi Douglas	Florida State	5090	186	4.50	2.57	1.56	35	10'1"	4.25	7.00	10	9 1/4	30	72 3/8
117	Max McLeod	Colorado Mines	6012	194	4.52	2.65	1.59	33 1/2	10'0"	4.22	7.09	12	8 3/4	32	76 3/4
118	Ali Jennings	Virginia Tech	6006	198	4.65	2.75	1.68	32	10'1"	4.39	7.14	16	9 1/2	32 3/8	78 1/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
119	Bo Belquist	North Dakota	6002	190	4.61	2.72	1.62	35 1/2	9'8"	4.25	7.11	N/A	9 1/4	30	71 3/8
120	Landon Ruggieri	Bryant	6005	196	4.53	DNP	1.55	35 1/2	9'10"	4.28	7.03	18	9 1/4	30 5/8	74 1/8
121	Quentin Skinner	Kansas	6037	203	4.51	2.64	1.64	33	10'2"	4.34	6.94	DNP	9 1/2	32 1/2	78 5/8
122	Jerjuan Newton	Toledo	5105	194	4.60	2.58	1.60	36	10'3"	4.13	6.97	19	9 1/2	31 1/8	74 7/8
123	Jonah Panoke	Hawaii	6006	200	4.60	2.67	1.58	36 1/2	10'1"	4.25	7.07	14	10	31 1/2	76 5/8
124	Kisean Johnson	Western Kentucky	6003	216	4.63	2.67	1.57	33	10'2"	4.59	7.26	DNP	9 3/8	31 3/8	75
125	Tru Edwards	Louisiana Tech	6017	198	4.57	2.70	1.59	39 1/2	10'7"	4.27	7.28	18	9 7/8	31 1/2	76
126	Hollis Mathis	William & Mary	6013	174	4.59	2.60	1.59	36 1/2	10'10"	4.43	6.90	DNP	9 3/8	32 3/4	77 1/8
127	Christian Fitzpatrick	Marshall	6040	216	4.69	2.70	1.55	35	9'11"	4.52	7.26	DNP	9 1/2	34	81 1/2
128	Julian Fleming	Penn State	6017	214	4.69	2.71	1.57	34 1/2	10'3"	4.33	7.14	DNP	9 3/4	31 1/4	73 1/2
129	A.J. Henning	Northwestern	5094	188	4.50	2.65	1.58	34 1/2	10'3"	4.07	6.80	16	8 1/2	30 3/4	73 1/2
130	Justin Lockhart	San Jose State	6023	198	4.42	2.55	1.56	32 1/2	9'8"	4.58	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	31	76 1/4
131	Chris Tyree	Virginia	5091	192	4.39	2.53	1.45	42	10'7"	4.15	6.99	19	9	29 1/4	70 1/2
132	Jimmy Holiday	Louisiana Tech	5117	199	4.40	2.57	1.53	36 1/2	10'3"	4.41	6.94	DNP	9 1/8	32 7/8	75
133	TJ Sheffield	UConn	5097	188	4.56	2.58	1.58	40 1/2	10'6"	4.22	7.15	19	9	29 7/8	71 3/4
134	Redd Douglas	Findlay	5112	196	4.52	2.60	1.53	36	10'10"	4.39	6.81	DNP	9	31 7/8	75 3/8
135	Dino Tomlin	Boston College	5113	182	4.45	2.56	1.54	38	10'6"	4.37	7.25	10	9 1/4	31 3/4	75 3/8
136	Stephen Gosnell	Virginia Tech	6015	198	4.56	2.68	1.60	34 1/2	10'0"	4.15	6.96	DNP	9 1/4	32 1/4	77
137	Xzavier Henderson	Cincinnati	6034	204	4.70	2.66	1.63	34 1/2	10'6"	4.25	6.96	14	9 1/4	33 3/8	80 5/8
138	Roderick Daniels Jr.	SMU	5073	180	4.51	2.63	1.64	33	9'10"	4.28	7.28	14	8 3/4	29 1/4	70
139	Lance LeGendre	Louisiana	6013	220	4.63	2.69	1.57	33	9'10"	4.51	7.08	DNP	9 7/8	32 3/4	79 3/8
140	Key'Shawn Smith	SMU	5116	187	4.53	2.64	1.63	37 1/2	11'0"	4.50	7.27	6	9 3/4	33	78 3/8
141	Ethan Jordan	Wilfred Laurier (Can.)	5104	172	4.50	2.59	1.67	30 1/2	10'1"	4.48	6.96	DNP	8 1/2	30 3/8	72 3/8
142	Dante Cephas	Kansas State	5116	191	4.58	2.66	1.50	37 1/2	10'7"	4.33	6.94	7	10	33	80 5/8
143	Mark Mahoney	Brown	6045	239	4.63	DNP	1.65	33 1/2	9'7"	4.48	7.04	22	9 3/4	32 3/8	77 3/4
144	Steven McBride	Hawaii	6003	163	8 7/8	32 1/8	76	35 1/2	10'6"	4.25	7.07	4	4.58	2.67	1.59
145	Cade McDonald	Miami (OH)	5100	196	4.56	2.62	1.64	33	10'0"	4.13	6.75	22	9 1/4	29 1/8	70 5/8
146	Cody Tierney	Grand Valley State	5095	197	4.38	2.58	1.53	36	10'1"	4.34	6.96	15	9	29 3/4	72 3/8
147	Zach Patterson	Central Missouri	5083	179	4.46	2.58	1.64	38 1/2	10'7"	4.42	7.44	20	9 3/8	29 3/8	72
148	Davon Wells	Louisiana-Monroe	5095	175	4.44	2.56	1.52	36	9'11"	4.38	6.95	DNP	8 1/2	30	71 1/4
149	Carter Bell	South Dakota	5085	179	4.53	2.60	1.57	35	9'7"	4.12	6.72	12	8 5/8	29	69 1/4
150	Anthony Sambucci	Western Michigan	6012	193	4.59	2.59	1.60	34	DNP	4.30	6.91	15	8 3/8	31	73 3/8
151	Jeremiah Taylor	Shepherd	6000	190	4.50	2.55	1.55	32	10'7"	4.44	7.13	DNP	8 7/8	32 1/2	74 7/8
152	Justin Shorter	Holy Cross	5106	169	4.50	DNP	1.57	31	9'4"	4.26	7.14	DNP	9 1/8	30 1/4	72 1/2
153	Loic Fouonji	Vanderbilt	6031	209	4.59	2.70	1.55	35	9'6"	4.57	7.11	12	9 3/4	32	77 1/4
154	Darius Lassiter	BYU	6017	203	4.65	2.69	1.68	32	10'0"	4.41	7.09	9	10	32 3/8	79 1/4
155	Montana Lemonious-Craig	Arizona	6010	189	4.54	2.66	1.57	35	9'9"	4.34	DNP	14	9 1/8	30 1/8	74 1/8
156	Demeer Blankumsee	Memphis	5104	192	4.47	2.57	1.54	34	10'2"	4.28	7.03	12	9 1/4	32	74 1/4
157	Kamdyn Benjamin	Tulsa	5084	176	4.56	2.65	1.65	38	10'3"	4.25	6.85	DNP	8 1/2	30	70
158	Onuma Dieke	Elon	6037	210	4.63	2.61	1.56	37 1/2	11'3"	4.47	7.50	16	9 1/4	34 3/4	83
159	Dalen Cambre	Louisiana	5112	189	4.43	2.52	1.53	36	10'3"	4.13	6.88	15	9 1/4	28 3/4	70 3/4
160	Joachim Trouabal	France (IPP)	5116	184	4.46	2.57	1.54	33 1/2	10'0"	4.28	7.09	12	8 5/8	30	73
161	Quincy Skinner Jr.	Vanderbilt	6014	204	4.59	2.62	1.53	32 1/2	10'3"	4.44	7.32	17	9 3/8	33 5/8	77
162	Jaden Smith	Nevada	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A
163	Money Parks	Utah	5093	177	4.53	2.62	1.54	36 1/2	10'7"	4.28	7.11	DNP	9 3/8	31 3/8	76
164	Jack Studer	Wisc.-La Crosse	6005	203	4.69	2.70	1.66	38	10'7"	4.25	7.02	15	9 3/8	29 7/8	73 1/8
165	Joey Hobert	Texas State	5104	183	4.64	2.69	1.58	33	10'3"	4.32	7.45	DNP	9	28	68 1/2
166	Anderson Grover	Sacramento State	6007	197	4.80	2.80	1.69	28	9'1"	4.44	7.02	9	9	30 3/8	74 5/8
167	Austin Jablonski	Concordia (Neb.)	6021	213	4.57	2.67	1.69	36	10'3"	4.53	7.46	15	9 5/8	33	79 1/2
168	Jacari Carter	Albany	5074	158	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	28 1/4	68 3/4
169	Malik Hornsby	Arkansas State	6016	189	4.65	2.73	1.58	32	10'2"	4.47	6.91	DNP	9	32 1/4	76 7/8
170	Elijah Spencer	Minnesota	6006	193	4.83	2.74	1.65	32	10'0"	4.35	7.00	8	9 3/8	31	76 1/2
171	Casey Reynolds	Army	6017	187	4.61	2.68	1.59	33	9'9"	4.45	7.20	DNP	9 1/2	31 1/4	75 7/8
172	Jeremiah Hunter	Washington	6013	208	4.75	2.74	1.68	28 1/2	9'6"	4.44	7.19	11	9 5/8	32	78 1/4
173	Tadd Barr	Buffalo	6002	189	4.58	2.66	1.52	37 1/2	10'2"	4.39	7.15	12	9	30	72 1/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
174	Jontavis Robertson	Duke	5103	194	4.59	2.61	1.54	32	9'5"	4.62	7.38	13	9	29 1/2	74 1/2
175	Montorie Foster Jr.	Michigan State	5115	188	4.63	2.68	1.57	35	9'8"	4.47	7.01	14	9 1/4	29 1/4	71 5/8
176	Jake Coleman	Dayton	6045	214	4.66	2.78	1.72	30	9'11"	4.78	7.42	19	8 7/8	32 7/8	77 1/4
177	Shawn Harris Jr.	Rhode Island	5087	175	4.45	DNP	1.55	32	10'3"	4.31	6.91	11	8 3/4	30 3/8	72 1/4
178	Jayden Horace	Fort Hays State	5114	180	4.49	2.64	1.64	32	9'11"	4.33	7.29	7	8 7/8	31 3/8	74 3/8
179	Nah'shawn Hezekiah	Southern Illinois	6020	200	4.51	2.60	1.54	39	10'10"	4.41	7.23	DNP	9 1/2	32 3/8	77 1/2
180	Kenneth Womack	Western Michigan	5101	194	4.60	2.64	1.58	35 1/2	9'8"	4.40	7.01	13	8 7/8	32	73 1/2
181	Dakota Warfield	North Alabama	6004	200	4.78	2.72	1.62	29	9'2"	4.26	7.00	16	8 7/8	30 3/4	75 1/4
182	Derwin Burgess Jr.	Georgia Southern	5103	187	4.68	2.71	1.65	34 1/2	8'11"	4.75	7.44	DNP	8 3/4	31 3/8	73 1/8
183	Kyle Ford	USC	6015	223	4.72	2.76	1.70	29	9'6"	4.36	6.95	DNP	9 7/8	31 7/8	79
184	Jordin Parker	Western Michigan	5083	159	4.50	2.62	1.54	33 1/2	9'5"	4.42	7.33	17	8 3/4	29 1/4	68 1/8
185	Jaycob Horn	Eastern Kentucky	6004	209	4.57	2.68	1.61	34 1/2	9'10"	4.48	7.57	15	9 1/8	30	72 3/4
186	AJ Jackson	Lake Forest	5112	203	4.62	2.64	1.63	39 1/2	10'10"	4.58	7.44	15	8 5/8	32	75 3/8
187	Dane Olson	Colorado State	5105	185	4.59	2.63	1.58	30 1/2	10'0"	4.41	7.19	10	9 1/2	30 1/8	73 1/4
188	Alex Brown	Wyoming	6036	185	4.58	2.65	1.54	35 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	32	80 5/8
189	Dontae Fleming	Tulane	6005	175	4.44	2.62	1.57	33 1/2	10'2"	4.38	7.07	14	9 5/8	31	76 3/8
190	DeVonte Tanksley	UT Martin	5091	168	4.39	2.53	1.50	37	9'10"	4.26	6.94	DNP	9	29 7/8	72 1/8
191	Jaden Williams	Texas State	5092	170	4.54	2.64	1.53	36	10'10"	4.26	7.00	DNP	8 7/8	31 3/4	74 1/2
192	Scooter Risper	Mercer	5090	163	4.57	2.63	1.56	33 1/2	10'3"	4.53	7.26	8	8 1/2	29 1/2	71 3/8
193	Phil Lutz	Delaware	5117	191	4.57	2.64	1.55	35 1/2	9'11"	4.22	6.72	13	8 3/4	31 1/2	76 3/8
194	Twon Hines	Northwestern State	5100	186	4.57	2.69	1.57	34 1/2	10'2"	4.28	6.98	18	8 3/4	30 1/8	70 3/8
195	Dre' Williams	North Greenville	5084	185	4.58	2.65	1.62	33	9'8"	DNP	7.59	3	9 1/4	29 3/8	72 1/4
196	Abdul-Fatai Ibrahim	Louisiana Tech	6003	201	4.71	2.76	1.66	34	9'10"	4.35	7.32	13	10 1/2	32 1/2	78
197	Dorian Anderson	SE Missouri State	6047	214	4.68	2.78	1.62	33 1/2	10'3"	4.75	7.18	6	8 5/8	33 7/8	80 1/8
198	Sevonne Rhea	Lamar	5100	193	4.45	2.58	1.58	36	10'4"	4.22	6.91	9	9 1/4	31 1/8	72 3/8
199	Jamari Gasset	Florida A&M	5095	169	4.61	2.63	1.62	29	10'3"	4.31	7.32	7	9 1/8	30 7/8	71 5/8
200	Chase Lane	Georgia Tech	5111	186	4.61	2.69	1.62	33	10'1"	4.39	7.34	6	9 3/8	30 3/4	74
201	D.J. Rias	Samford	5077	191	4.52	2.59	1.59	33 1/2	10'2"	4.27	7.00	10	8 5/8	31 1/4	76
202	Demonte Martin	California U. of Penn.	6031	186	4.62	2.77	1.60	33 1/2	10'10"	4.81	7.51	6	9	32 5/8	79
203	Robert McMinn	Alabama State	5082	181	4.50	2.65	1.58	31	10'1"	4.57	7.35	13	9	30 1/8	74 5/8
204	Yulkeith Brown	Tulane	5096	162	4.53	2.55	1.59	31	9'7"	4.50	7.46	DNP	9 3/4	29 3/4	72 1/8
205	Jacob Sharp	Weber State	6007	184	4.66	2.78	1.60	31	9'11"	4.49	7.11	DNP	7 3/4	31 3/8	75 1/4
206	Ahmari Huggins-Bruce	Louisville	5105	176	4.56	2.53	1.50	35 1/2	10'4"	4.28	7.18	DNP	9 1/4	29 7/8	72
207	Christian Horn	Appalachian State	6004	194	4.49	2.67	1.49	34	9'10"	4.47	7.44	14	8 3/4	30 3/4	72 3/4
208	Jadon Jackson	Kansas State	6006	186	4.63	2.69	1.70	33 1/2	9'11"	4.39	7.13	7	8 1/8	30 3/4	75
209	Iaan Cousin	Samford	5107	164	4.55	2.64	1.64	36 1/2	10'3"	4.44	7.15	10	8 5/8	29 7/8	72 7/8
210	Mookie Cooper	Missouri	5087	186	4.62	2.63	1.63	34	10'3"	DNP	DNP	10	8 7/8	30	74 1/2
211	Jeremiah Webb	South Alabama	5114	198	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	30 1/8	73 5/8
212	Nahsir Morgan	Delaware Valley	6026	202	4.53	2.66	1.64	35 1/2	11'0"	4.44	7.19	3	9 1/4	33	80 1/4
213	Blair Conwright	North Texas	5110	188	4.72	2.75	1.71	32 1/2	9'8"	4.69	7.40	7	8 7/8	32 5/8	76 1/4
214	Jacoby Jones	UCF	6010	225	4.68	2.67	1.57	31 1/2	10'2"	4.32	7.06	DNP	10 1/8	31 7/8	76 5/8
215	Lawrence Arnold	Kansas	6024	197	4.73	2.75	1.69	30 1/2	9'9"	4.46	7.21	DNP	10 1/4	32 1/8	79
216	Jamoi Mayes	Cincinnati	5096	206	4.57	2.65	1.58	32 1/2	9'11"	4.28	7.03	15	9 1/4	31	74 7/8
217	Christian Fredericksen	Idaho State	6036	211	4.73	2.70	1.56	33 1/2	10'0"	4.36	7.40	10	9 5/8	31 3/8	77
218	Trevor Wilson	Kansas	5095	188	4.58	2.61	1.52	34 1/2	10'2"	4.35	7.09	17	9 1/2	29 1/4	72 7/8
219	Drae McCray	Texas Tech	5082	182	4.46	2.59	1.57	30 1/2	10'4"	4.31	6.96	DNP	9	30 1/2	74 1/8
220	Kaedin Robinson	Appalachian State	6001	203	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 7/8	29 1/2	72 1/4
221	Kordell David	New Mexico State	6021	197	4.68	2.60	1.60	35 1/2	10'7"	4.45	7.40	DNP	9 1/2	33 1/2	80 3/4
222	Chris Carpenter	UTSA	5097	151	4.44	2.58	1.53	28 1/2	9'5"	4.40	7.08	7	9 1/2	30 3/4	73 1/4
223	Ja'Quavion Frazier	Florida	6033	208	4.64	2.68	1.64	27	9'8"	4.59	7.19	12	9	32 1/4	78
224	Timieone Jackson	Henderson State	5072	171	4.62	2.67	1.58	29 1/2	8'11"	DNP	DNP	17	8 1/4	28 1/2	70 1/2
225	Jalen May	Delta State	5091	167	4.40	2.58	1.51	DNP	10'7"	4.45	7.20	DNP	9 1/8	29 3/4	72 1/8
226	Chandler Pittman	Southern Miss	5093	168	4.53	2.41	1.59	35 1/2	10'4"	4.50	7.13	15	9	30 3/4	74 1/4
227	John Erby	Duquesne	5082	182	4.63	2.69	1.57	34	9'11"	4.40	7.02	12	9 1/8	30 1/4	72 1/8
228	Taji Johnson	Buffalo	6034	209	4.77	2.77	1.53	38 1/2	10'3"	4.43	7.00	15	9 7/8	33	79 3/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
229	Barry Hill	Shepherd	5083	156	4.52	2.58	1.53	31 1/2	9'8"	4.34	7.13	DNP	9 3/4	30 3/8	73
230	Will White	Harding	5090	180	4.37	2.56	1.60	37	10'5"	4.36	7.31	17	8 1/4	28 1/4	68 1/4
231	Matthew Akuchie	William & Mary	6033	209	4.46	2.53	1.52	37	11'0"	4.47	7.31	11	9 7/8	31 1/2	76
232	C.J. Hutton	UC Davis	5077	181	4.58	2.70	1.65	31	9'3"	4.25	6.92	16	8 1/4	27 7/8	68
233	Miles Cross	Indiana	5111	208	4.77	2.70	1.58	36 1/2	10'2"	DNP	DNP	14	9 3/8	32 1/4	75
234	Jack Fisher	Augustana	6012	195	4.53	2.64	1.62	35 1/2	9'11"	4.28	7.00	12	8 3/4	31 5/8	74 7/8
235	Logan Tomlinson	New Hampshire	6022	205	4.81	2.76	1.64	38 1/2	10'6"	4.20	6.98	17	9 3/4	30 1/2	77 1/4
236	Abdul Janneh Jr.	Georgia Tech	6017	187	4.64	2.77	1.59	37 1/2	11'1"	4.49	7.10	10	9 5/8	33 1/4	79 3/8
237	Ty Bowman	Kansas State	6034	210	4.64	2.69	1.58	33	9'9"	4.26	6.88	11	9 1/2	32	77 1/2
238	Braylon Henderson	North Dakota State	5081	183	4.73	2.70	1.64	35	9'9"	4.19	6.80	12	9 3/8	31	74 3/4
239	Montigo Moss	Maine	6011	210	4.70	DNP	1.57	34	9'9"	4.43	7.20	DNP	9 3/4	31 1/2	74 1/2
240	Jacquez Jones	Norfolk State	5090	170	4.68	2.68	1.60	32	9'10"	4.38	7.06	DNP	9 5/8	30 1/4	73
241	Scott Fraser	Youngstown State	6037	197	4.76	2.75	1.64	35 1/2	9'9"	4.17	6.82	5	10 3/4	30 1/2	77 3/4
242	Christian Carter	Pittsburg State	5093	174	4.48	2.57	1.52	36 1/2	9'10"	4.38	7.14	2	9 1/8	31 1/8	71 5/8
243	Sean Atkins	South Florida	5085	177	4.70	2.64	1.59	33	9'10"	4.35	6.89	12	8 7/8	29	69 1/2
244	Dannis Jackson	Southern Miss	5110	154	4.64	2.57	1.58	32 1/2	9'11"	4.30	6.90	DNP	9 1/8	30 1/2	75 1/8
245	Jaih Andrews	Miles	5105	198	4.60	2.77	1.61	34 1/2	10'3"	4.50	7.39	13	8 1/8	31 3/8	77 1/8
246	Adam Jones	Arkansas State	6020	185	4.50	2.64	1.57	36	10'5"	4.37	7.27	DNP	9	32 1/8	74 5/8
247	Malcolm Johnson	Bowling Green	6004	188	4.57	2.65	1.66	33 1/2	9'11"	DNP	DNP	11	8 5/8	30 1/2	73 3/8
248	Jaylen Green	Delta State	6002	183	4.64	2.70	1.60	DNP	10'4"	4.22	7.25	DNP	8 1/4	31 3/4	77 3/4
249	Michael Mathison	Western Kentucky	5087	177	4.54	2.52	1.50	35	10'7"	4.16	6.84	14	8 1/8	30	68 3/8
250	Joe Gillette	Maine	5102	192	4.49	DNP	1.45	40 1/2	10'9"	4.29	7.07	11	9	29 3/4	73 1/2
251	Anton Popov	Warner	5090	204	4.74	2.68	1.53	34	9'8"	4.25	7.35	22	9 1/8	30 5/8	72 1/2
252	Michael Love	Long Island	5083	179	4.54	2.65	1.59	32	9'7"	4.35	6.97	DNP	8 1/8	30	72 3/8
253	Benjamin Omayebu	Tarleton State	5070	193	4.62	2.66	1.67	30	9'6"	4.51	7.29	14	8 5/8	28 5/8	69 3/4
254	Jalen Thomas	Tiffin	5113	186	4.66	2.65	1.57	34	10'0"	4.50	7.30	8	9 1/2	31 3/8	74 5/8
255	Delvin Attafah	Central Conn. State	6002	201	4.67	2.76	1.61	36	9'10"	4.48	7.69	12	9 1/2	33 1/8	78 1/4
256	Quavon Beckford	Tuskegee	5086	170	4.58	2.68	1.58	34 1/2	10'5"	4.78	7.33	DNP	8 5/8	31 1/4	75 7/8
257	Sergio Morancy	Northern Iowa	6015	189	4.58	2.57	1.58	36 1/2	10'6"	4.56	7.21	8	9 1/2	33 1/8	79 3/8
258	Michael Brown-Stephens	South Florida	5102	188	4.63	2.66	1.60	37	10'6"	4.31	7.08	14	9	32	75 3/8
259	Nate Bennett	San Diego State	6013	196	4.66	2.75	1.66	32	10'1"	4.45	7.07	15	9 3/8	31 1/4	76 3/4
260	Josh Letellier	Salve Regina	6021	215	4.69	DNP	1.70	31 1/2	9'9"	4.56	7.32	15	9 1/2	30 5/8	75 1/2
261	Canyon Bauer	Augustana	5113	206	4.56	2.64	1.60	38	10'3"	4.14	7.02	11	9 1/4	29 5/8	72 1/2
262	P.J. Wells	Jacksonville State	6017	194	4.65	2.76	1.58	36	10'7"	4.39	7.44	14	9 7/8	34	83
263	Joshua Aka	Ole Miss	5086	179	4.67	2.68	1.66	31	9'2"	4.43	7.07	9	8 1/4	30 1/8	71 3/4
264	Koby Drake	Memphis	5104	194	4.92	2.79	1.70	32	9'6"	4.28	6.94	16	8 3/4	29 5/8	72
265	Hal Presley	Baylor	6017	201	4.56	2.62	1.62	34 1/2	10'2"	4.35	7.06	11	9 7/8	32 5/8	80
266	Kasey Hawthorne	Howard	5096	196	4.54	2.55	1.40	35	10'5"	4.29	7.10	21	9 1/2	30 5/8	75 7/8
267	Jhari Patterson	East Carolina	5097	193	4.73	2.75	1.59	29 1/2	10'0"	4.60	7.62	7	8 7/8	32 1/8	75 1/4
268	Khريس Binion	West Alabama	6010	193	4.91	2.81	1.63	32	9'10"	4.68	7.60	11	8 1/8	31 5/8	76 7/8
269	Dorrian Moultrie	Hampton	5095	198	4.77	2.67	1.63	32 1/2	9'8"	4.63	7.48	DNP	8 5/8	29 3/8	70 1/2
270	Logan Collier	North Alabama	5113	200	4.36	2.50	1.53	37 1/2	10'9"	4.18	7.10	19	9 3/8	30 3/8	74 3/8
271	Devin Smith	Villanova	5084	184	4.62	2.78	1.59	29 1/2	9'4"	4.34	7.01	18	9	30 5/8	74 5/8
272	Kentron Poitier	Florida State	6023	196	4.69	2.71	1.66	29 1/2	9'4"	4.65	7.31	DNP	9	33 3/4	82
273	Kelin Parsons	Mercer	6005	202	4.62	2.72	1.58	33 1/2	9'6"	4.95	7.63	5	9 3/8	32 3/4	77 1/8
274	Jonas Bennett	Missouri Western St.	5105	197	4.58	2.71	1.62	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 5/8	29 1/8	71 1/4
275	Desmond Hutson	Northern Iowa	6027	219	4.95	2.82	1.69	34 1/2	9'5"	4.40	7.14	15	10 3/8	32 7/8	79
276	Noah Coyne	Case Western	6040	225	4.72	2.81	1.74	33 1/2	9'9"	4.50	7.19	11	9 1/8	33 1/4	78 5/8
277	Wayne Dennis Jr.	Howard	6027	227	4.74	2.71	1.48	37	10'2"	4.52	7.32	DNP	8 7/8	32 1/8	77 1/8
278	Preston Smith	Davenport	6036	205	4.70	2.65	1.68	35 1/2	10'6"	4.21	6.99	15	10 1/4	32 7/8	81 3/8
279	Isiah Paige	Old Dominion	5067	151	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	3	8 3/4	28 5/8	68 1/8
280	Christian Dremel	Rutgers	5087	184	4.58	2.63	1.55	33 1/2	9'8"	4.10	6.72	16	9	30 7/8	71 3/4
281	Naseim Brantley	Rutgers	6013	203	4.80	2.75	1.71	35	9'5"	4.51	7.09	DNP	9 3/4	30 7/8	73 1/4
282	Malachi Holt-Bennett	UAB	6017	183	4.63	2.78	1.64	28	9'11"	4.70	7.35	DNP	9 1/4	32 3/8	79 1/2
283	Steven Peterson	West Georgia	6011	200	4.71	2.70	1.60	29	9'5"	4.51	7.45	13	8	29 3/8	71 1/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
284	Justin Robinson	West Virginia	6040	217	4.88	2.80	1.68	29 1/2	9'9"	4.55	7.65	DNP	9 3/4	32 5/8	80 1/8
285	Milan Tucker	Florida Atlantic	5085	180	4.62	2.69	1.61	30	9'6"	4.22	7.01	10	9 1/8	30 1/4	72 5/8
286	Izayah Reeves	Georgia	5094	171	4.76	2.75	1.60	36 1/2	10'10"	4.56	7.26	7	9	28 3/4	72 1/8
287	Donovan Ollie	Colorado State	6024	205	4.64	2.70	1.59	32	9'6"	4.49	7.61	11	9 5/8	32 5/8	79 1/2
288	Sean Brown	Charlotte	6031	193	4.67	2.74	1.69	32	10'2"	4.37	7.32	DNP	8 1/2	31 3/4	78
289	Keenan Hambrick	Alabama A&M	6033	204	4.95	2.81	1.73	32	9'4"	4.59	7.59	DNP	9 3/8	33 1/4	78 3/4
290	Darius Melton	Oklahoma Baptist	6005	205	4.73	2.70	1.58	36 1/2	10'5"	4.60	7.46	18	10	33 5/8	78 1/2
291	Tyler Walker	West Alabama	5114	194	4.65	2.70	1.63	32	10'0"	4.53	7.45	13	9 1/2	31 3/4	75 5/8
292	Ashton Maples	Tennessee Tech	6026	201	4.63	2.83	1.63	32 1/2	10'2"	4.36	7.17	7	9 1/4	33	78 3/8
293	Sam Davenport	Univ. of B.C. (Can.)	6006	194	4.81	2.76	1.65	33	9'5"	DNP	DNP	11	9 3/4	30 5/8	74 7/8
294	Trevonte' Rucker	UT Martin	5114	168	4.85	2.71	1.62	31	9'6"	4.50	7.24	DNP	8 3/8	30 7/8	72
295	Jaylon Barden	Samford	5100	173	4.60	2.64	1.57	29 1/2	9'10"	4.30	7.13	12	9 3/8	30 1/2	74
296	DeJuan Bell	Fort Valley State	5082	160	4.68	2.75	1.64	30	9'0"	4.45	7.51	8	8 1/8	28 1/2	69 1/2
297	Dalvin Smith	Western Kentucky	6020	178	4.65	2.54	1.59	35 1/2	9'10"	4.59	7.32	DNP	9 1/8	32 3/8	75 5/8
298	Taylor Tosches	CSU Pueblo	6025	212	4.65	2.70	1.65	34	9'11"	4.16	7.06	16	9 1/8	31 1/8	75
299	Ashton Allen	Temple	6022	209	4.56	2.66	1.62	35	10'6"	4.39	6.96	DNP	9	32 1/2	79 3/8
300	Michael Harrison	San Diego State	6025	228	4.68	2.76	1.64	33	9'11"	4.27	7.06	18	9 1/4	32	76 3/8
301	Matt Sykes	Rice	6035	206	4.72	2.79	1.58	31	9'8"	4.28	7.12	14	9	33 1/2	78 1/8
302	Sebastian Macaluso	San Jose State	5113	180	4.61	2.74	1.63	32	9'9"	4.22	7.01	19	9 1/2	29 3/4	72
303	Diante Vines	Old Dominion	5104	181	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/2	30 1/4	73 7/8
304	Andrew McElroy	Northern Illinois	6027	188	4.72	2.70	1.59	36	9'11"	4.20	7.05	8	9 1/4	32 7/8	78 3/8
305	Steven Alaniz	Capital	5080	176	4.85	2.90	1.72	28	8'10"	4.56	6.89	10	8 3/8	28 5/8	69 1/8
306	Dariyan Wiley	Vanderbilt	5110	193	4.66	2.71	1.52	33 1/2	10'1"	4.56	7.58	10	9 1/2	32 3/4	76 5/8
307	Jacob Bernard	Louisiana	5092	186	4.50	2.56	1.58	34 1/2	9'4"	4.37	7.20	DNP	9 1/2	29	70 7/8
308	Damon Ward Jr.	North Texas	5114	202	4.69	2.69	1.63	33 1/2	9'7"	4.32	7.53	8	9 1/2	32 3/8	77 1/2
309	Trejon Spiller	Prairie View A&M	6012	173	4.58	2.60	1.58	34	10'1"	4.58	7.63	2	9 1/4	34 1/4	80
310	Trey Cleveland	Abilene Christian	6016	195	4.62	2.71	1.60	29	9'4"	4.48	7.69	9	8 1/8	32 1/8	78 1/8
311	Senika McKie	Coastal Carolina	6005	191	4.78	2.78	1.57	36 1/2	10'0"	4.43	7.32	15	9 1/4	32 1/2	76 3/4
312	Bryce Childress	Western Kentucky	5076	176	4.69	2.61	1.58	31 1/2	9'7"	4.43	7.28	DNP	8 1/8	29 1/2	66 5/8
313	Deon Cook	Texas Permian Basin	6011	181	4.65	2.68	1.60	30	9'5"	4.38	7.01	4	8 3/8	31	76 3/4
314	Isaac Boston	Central Conn. State	5092	183	4.70	2.66	1.60	29 1/2	9'0"	4.31	7.32	8	9	29	66 7/8
315	Torry Locklin	Kansas	6011	203	4.81	2.78	1.68	29 1/2	9'4"	4.38	7.03	12	9 1/8	30 1/4	74 1/2
316	J.J. Jones	North Carolina	6015	198	4.67	2.62	1.56	32 1/2	10'1"	4.31	7.01	DNP	9 1/2	32 3/8	78
317	Shunto Mizoguchi	Mt. San Antonio	5090	177	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 5/8	28 3/8	69
318	Derin McCulley	Indiana	5115	167	4.70	2.68	1.56	34	9'10"	4.56	7.26	5	8 7/8	30 3/4	75 3/8
319	Shemar Savage	Prairie View A&M	6025	213	4.60	2.63	1.60	31	8'11"	4.68	7.80	8	9 1/8	31 3/8	73 1/2
320	Tyler Smith	Valdosta State	5114	183	4.72	2.70	1.59	29 1/2	9'9"	4.59	7.15	10	9 1/8	30 1/4	74
321	Jeremiah Cooley	Texas Permian Basin	6022	219	4.80	2.79	1.79	32	10'1"	4.53	7.27	15	8 1/4	32 3/8	79 3/4
322	Kurtis Ravenel Jr.	Kutztown	5091	181	4.63	2.65	1.52	DNP	10'0"	4.35	7.18	10	9 1/4	30 3/8	73 1/8
323	Mason Pierce	Incarnate Word	5060	160	4.70	2.69	1.67	30	9'6"	4.45	7.28	11	8 3/4	28 3/8	69 1/4
324	Nigel Mitchell	CSU Pueblo	5101	187	4.52	2.62	1.58	33	10'1"	4.32	6.97	15	8 3/4	30 1/8	73 1/4
325	James Burns	Prairie View A&M	5082	154	4.48	2.59	1.65	31 1/2	9'10"	4.44	7.36	DNP	8 1/2	31 1/4	72 1/4
326	Ja'Cyais Credle	Georgia State	6032	214	4.82	2.77	1.59	28	9'0"	4.57	7.34	10	9 1/4	32 5/8	79 5/8
327	Brendan Teal	Northwood	5096	169	4.58	2.69	1.62	32 1/2	9'9"	4.56	7.25	16	9 1/8	30 1/2	70 1/2
328	Javon Ivory	South Alabama	6014	200	4.59	2.69	1.64	35 1/2	10'0"	4.38	7.15	DNP	9 1/4	32	77 7/8
329	Emari O'Brien	Ferris State	5081	169	4.65	2.64	1.65	32	9'3"	4.35	7.41	4	9 1/8	28 1/2	69 1/2
330	Darius Lewis	SE Louisiana	5060	162	4.63	2.66	1.57	32	10'1"	DNP	DNP	7	8	29	69 7/8
331	Za'Tarious Anderson	Fort Valley State	6010	213	4.75	2.69	1.65	27 1/2	9'5"	4.48	7.80	6	9 1/8	32 1/8	78 1/4
332	Jason Soriano	Univ. of B.C. (Can.)	5087	183	4.56	2.66	1.57	33 1/2	9'6"	4.50	7.78	9	8 1/2	29 3/4	70 1/2
333	Kyle Nott	Grand Valley State	5093	201	4.57	2.65	1.64	33 1/2	10'0"	4.28	7.08	12	8 1/2	30	72 3/4
334	Yogi Flager Jr.	McKendree	5087	175	4.62	2.66	1.63	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 7/8	29 1/4	72
335	Tyshun Jordan	Reinhardt	5062	166	4.65	2.71	1.63	33	9'9"	4.30	7.30	10	8	29 3/4	69 1/8
336	Jacob Gathright	Benedictine (Kan.)	5087	172	4.50	2.56	1.64	32	9'5"	4.40	7.33	4	8 3/8	29	71 5/8
337	Dylan Wright	TCU	6024	208	4.80	2.75	1.60	32	9'5"	4.45	7.21	DNP	9 1/4	32 1/2	78 3/8
338	Spencer Curtis	Hawaii	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
339	Andre Johnson	Miami (OH)	6031	215	4.69	2.74	1.68	33 1/2	9'9"	4.21	DNP	14	9	32 1/4	78 1/8
340	Jesse Prewitt III	Central Michigan	5110	181	4.65	2.72	1.61	31	9'3"	4.54	7.18	6	8 3/4	30 1/4	74
341	AJ Coons	South Dakota	6041	214	4.70	2.74	1.69	34	9'8"	4.20	7.16	5	9	33 5/8	77 7/8
342	Ismael Fuller	Houston Christian	6004	194	4.72	2.65	1.58	34 1/2	10'1"	4.45	7.09	DNP	9 3/8	34 1/2	79 1/2
343	Virgil Young Jr.	Clark Atlanta	5113	174	4.68	2.69	1.55	28	8'10"	4.75	7.50	DNP	9	30 3/4	74 1/8
344	Frank Ladson Jr.	UMass	6035	203	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	9'0"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	32 5/8	78 1/8
345	JR Waters	Grambling	6030	187	4.67	2.78	1.62	33 1/2	9'9"	4.55	7.27	DNP	8 7/8	32 1/8	79 1/4
346	Brett Buckman	UConn	6000	195	4.72	2.69	1.59	34	9'9"	4.21	7.06	DNP	9 1/8	31 3/8	74 1/8
347	DeMarcus Harris	Marshall	6003	181	4.71	2.72	1.64	28	10'0"	4.43	7.10	8	9 1/8	32 3/8	78 1/8
348	Tedy Afful	Duquesne	5101	167	4.86	2.77	1.63	31 1/2	10'2"	4.24	7.03	DNP	8	30 1/4	73 3/4
349	Chris Houston	Chattanooga	5082	171	4.74	2.69	1.59	40 1/2	10'5"	4.31	7.27	13	9 5/8	29 3/4	70 7/8
350	Jacolby Hewitt	Alabama A&M	6003	205	4.77	2.70	1.59	29 1/2	9'4"	4.44	7.40	14	9 1/2	30 1/2	73 1/2
351	AJ Bennett	Texas Southern	6003	187	4.45	2.56	1.59	37	10'9"	4.46	7.26	10	9 3/4	33	78 1/8
352	Romon Copeland Jr.	Austin Peay	5055	151	4.59	2.59	1.54	34 1/2	9'5"	4.27	7.16	DNP	8 7/8	27 7/8	67 7/8
353	Kobie Campbell	Rice	5061	176	4.64	2.70	1.65	38	10'5"	4.37	7.19	18	8 1/4	29	71 1/8
354	Abdul-Mujeeb Rufai	Mary	6004	230	4.84	2.69	1.72	32 1/2	9'6"	4.83	7.52	24	9 3/4	31 1/2	76 7/8
355	Reagan Ealy	Arkansas State	5087	177	4.70	2.67	1.62	30	9'1"	4.58	7.37	7	7 7/8	28 1/2	67 3/4
356	Da'Shun Mitchell	Savannah State	6011	211	4.85	2.77	1.68	31 1/2	10'1"	4.61	7.56	12	9 1/8	31 5/8	78 1/4
357	Calvin Wiggins	Houston Christian	6031	213	4.59	2.56	1.57	33 1/2	9'9"	4.60	7.13	12	9 1/4	33 1/2	79 3/4
358	Zoe Roberts	UT Martin	5094	192	4.42	2.50	1.50	33 1/2	9'11"	4.41	7.35	11	8 5/8	31 1/4	73 1/4
359	Jalen Jones	Limestone	5096	168	4.57	2.65	1.62	35 1/2	9'0"	4.64	7.50	DNP	8 3/4	30 3/4	72 5/8
360	Darrell Johnson	Grand Valley State	5071	167	4.55	2.59	1.50	32 1/2	9'7"	4.43	7.07	16	8 3/4	28 1/2	69 1/4
361	Jay Parker	Tennessee Tech	5042	146	4.57	2.64	1.53	34	9'8"	4.52	7.14	3	8 3/8	28 1/4	69 3/8
362	Tallon Garrett	Hardin-Simmons	5040	147	4.59	2.63	1.58	33	9'8"	4.29	7.25	10	8 5/8	26 3/4	65 7/8
363	Collin Goldberg	Washington (Mo.)	5103	186	4.79	2.68	1.62	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	30 5/8	74 1/4
364	Ty Arrington	Duquesne	5104	184	4.70	2.73	1.63	32 1/2	9'4"	4.45	6.94	13	8 5/8	29 1/2	71 1/2
365	JJ Jenkins	Buffalo	6017	195	4.71	2.65	1.52	31 1/2	10'5"	4.58	7.07	12	8 3/4	31 3/4	76 1/2
366	Michael Monios	Maine	5090	181	4.69	DNP	1.50	34	DNP	4.25	DNP	12	9 1/2	29 3/8	70 7/8
367	Joey Felton	Yale	5084	176	4.63	2.60	1.59	33	9'7"	4.25	7.39	16	8 3/8	29 3/4	72 1/2
368	Michael Marshall	Oklahoma Baptist	6006	187	4.76	2.71	1.60	32 1/2	10'4"	4.58	7.50	DNP	8 7/8	32 1/4	75 1/2
369	Takairee Kenebrew	North Alabama	6013	201	4.90	2.81	1.69	33	9'8"	4.45	7.77	DNP	9 3/8	32 7/8	79 7/8
370	Jeremiah Edwards	UT Martin	5083	144	4.59	2.56	1.50	34	10'3"	4.47	7.18	DNP	8 1/8	29 3/4	70 5/8
371	Ethan Wilborn	Hastings	6017	203	4.64	2.66	1.70	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/2	31	75 1/2
372	Jai Haynes	Washburn	5076	177	4.62	2.56	1.59	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/2	28 5/8	69 3/8
373	Isaiah Wilson	Richmond	6003	205	4.76	2.68	1.65	31	9'6"	4.46	7.09	12	9 1/4	32 3/8	77 3/8
374	Jamaal Bell	Baylor	5086	178	4.62	2.73	1.65	29	9'10"	4.49	7.40	13	8 7/8	29 1/4	71 1/2
375	Nehemiah Martinez I	Abilene Christian	5080	203	4.48	2.56	1.64	37 1/2	10'8"	4.39	7.24	22	9	30 1/8	73 1/2
376	Dameon Gomes	Hardin-Simmons	5036	151	4.54	2.64	1.69	32	9'9"	4.46	7.44	13	8 1/2	27 1/2	66 7/8
377	Peter Udoibok	Concordia St. Paul	6032	222	4.81	2.76	1.69	34	9'10"	4.38	7.01	9	9 1/4	32 3/8	78 7/8
378	Sylvere Campbell	Winona State	6007	221	4.89	2.72	1.70	35	9'8"	4.37	7.46	10	9 3/4	32 3/8	79 1/2
379	Zach Gibson	Benedict	6036	214	4.89	2.82	1.71	29 1/2	9'7"	4.60	7.45	14	9 3/4	33 5/8	79 1/8
380	Isiah Williams	Howard	5101	181	4.80	2.75	1.54	33	9'6"	4.26	7.16	7	9 1/4	29 3/8	72 1/4
381	Jacob Flynn	Stonehill	6000	194	4.59	2.63	1.60	35	9'10"	4.40	7.57	13	9	29 3/4	71 1/4
382	Darius Hyde	San Diego	5106	195	4.85	2.88	1.73	31	9'10"	4.51	7.44	16	9 5/8	31 1/4	75
383	Nate Monroe	Bluefield	5075	176	4.84	2.65	1.68	29	9'1"	4.40	7.41	9	9 1/8	29 1/4	69 1/4
384	Mikey Jones	Limestone	6010	194	4.69	2.70	1.65	31 1/2	9'9"	4.40	7.33	8	9 5/8	33	79 1/4
385	Isaiah Davis	Baylor	5095	174	4.54	2.57	1.58	37	10'8"	4.37	7.01	9	9	30 1/2	71
386	Noah Smith	Sam Houston	5085	181	4.84	2.80	1.65	31	9'3"	4.50	7.32	14	8 3/4	30 1/8	72 3/8
387	Ezeriah Anderson	UConn	6041	218	4.78	2.66	1.58	36 1/2	10'6"	4.78	7.39	DNP	9 3/4	34	83 1/4
388	Travis West	Portland State	5067	176	4.59	2.69	1.59	36	9'9"	4.38	7.09	14	8 1/2	29 3/8	70
389	Ty Pruett	Aurora	6010	205	4.72	2.75	1.60	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	30	73 5/8
390	Kendall Abdur-Rahman	McKendree	5115	182	4.59	2.70	1.67	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 7/8	30 3/8	74 3/8
391	Fred Brown II	Tarleton State	5066	182	4.71	2.65	1.70	27 1/2	9'3"	4.59	7.64	11	8 1/8	28 3/8	67 1/2
392	Brandt Stare	Wisc.-Platteville	5091	179	4.75	2.76	1.68	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/8	28	69 1/2
393	Jordan Kempf	Peru State	5102	192	4.63	2.62	1.64	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	28 5/8	71 1/2

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
394	Anthony Williams Jr.	Alcorn State	6003	193	4.78	2.69	1.57	DNP	10'2"	4.43	7.08	DNP	8 7/8	31 3/4	75 1/2
395	Chris Charles	Wheeling	6017	195	4.82	2.61	1.63	30 1/2	9'4"	4.50	7.12	DNP	9 3/4	32 7/8	77 1/4
396	Chris Herron	Prairie View A&M	6005	223	4.71	2.75	1.62	32	9'6"	4.53	7.07	8	9 1/8	32 1/8	74 7/8
397	Derrick Rose	Central Missouri	6023	206	4.76	2.70	1.65	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	33 1/8	76 3/4
398	Beau Burk	Northwestern (Minn.)	5111	175	4.75	2.75	1.76	31	8'10"	4.52	7.38	DNP	8 3/4	29 5/8	71 7/8
399	Julian Clarke	Henderson State	6013	185	4.65	2.81	1.72	31	9'8"	DNP	DNP	8	8 3/4	32 3/8	75 1/4
400	Julian Ferguson	Western Conn. State	5090	180	4.80	2.80	1.71	32	9'3"	4.40	7.52	14	8 3/4	30	71
401	Marquez Phillips	Morgan State	6017	171	4.95	2.85	1.70	30	9'10"	4.56	7.47	DNP	9 1/8	32 5/8	76
402	Josh Cobbs	South Florida	6025	204	4.83	2.78	1.63	33	9'8"	4.34	7.10	DNP	9 1/4	33 3/8	78 5/8
403	Bryce Kirtz	Northwestern	5112	191	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	29 3/4	72
404	Hunter Wood	Missouri State	6007	203	4.81	2.71	1.65	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	30	72
405	Anthony James Jr.	Morgan State	5102	211	4.86	2.75	1.69	34 1/2	9'3"	4.68	7.66	13	9 7/8	32 5/8	78
406	Anthony Stell	Incarnate Word	5097	177	4.59	2.59	1.58	32	9'8"	4.55	7.25	11	8 7/8	29 1/2	69 5/8
407	Jordan Bingham	Moravian	5107	196	4.96	2.75	1.70	DNP	9'4"	4.45	7.71	DNP	8 1/4	31 7/8	75 3/4
408	Jig Williams	Rhode Island	6012	202	4.70	DNP	1.59	32 1/2	9'5"	DNP	DNP	15	8 3/4	30 1/2	74 1/8
409	Zach Norton	Morningside	5103	180	4.85	2.76	1.69	30 1/2	9'7"	4.47	7.35	DNP	9 3/8	30 1/8	72 1/2
410	CJ Wiggins	Missouri S&T	6030	217	4.70	2.75	1.68	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10 3/8	33 3/8	79 5/8
411	Damon Hickok	Western Oregon	5110	211	4.85	2.85	1.71	34	10'0"	4.87	7.66	7	9 3/4	31 5/8	75 3/8
412	Jaylon Smith	DePauw	5074	185	4.71	2.71	1.63	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 7/8	30	72 7/8
413	LV Bunkley-Shelton	Georgia Southern	5111	212	4.95	2.83	1.69	29	8'10"	4.63	7.44	13	9 1/8	31 1/4	72 5/8
414	Donald McKinney	Texas Southern	6022	195	4.79	2.68	1.62	28 1/2	9'10"	4.48	7.21	DNP	9 3/4	33 1/4	79 1/2
415	Adrian Adams	Concordia St. Paul	6001	193	4.84	2.75	1.71	31 1/2	8'7"	4.81	7.53	12	9 1/4	30 1/2	74 1/8
416	Terry Matthews	Nicholls State	5071	148	4.60	2.68	1.59	35 1/2	9'6"	DNP	DNP	7	8 3/8	28 5/8	69 1/2
417	Da'Quan McIntosh	Rockford	5071	179	4.72	2.70	1.69	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	7 3/4	29 5/8	71 3/8
418	T.J. Jones	UAB	6002	197	4.70	2.69	1.62	32	9'5"	4.37	7.01	10	9 3/4	30 7/8	76 3/8
419	Brazos Gadler	Wooster	5114	198	4.86	2.76	1.82	31 1/2	9'10"	4.52	7.08	14	8 7/8	29 3/4	72 5/8
420	O'Vauntay Vickers	St. Francis (Ind.)	6001	201	4.89	2.85	1.70	32 1/2	9'4"	4.68	7.39	13	9	31 1/2	75 7/8
421	Seth Johnson	Southern Arkansas	6014	214	4.75	2.72	1.67	28 1/2	9'3"	DNP	DNP	19	9 1/4	31 3/8	72 3/8
422	Khatib Lyles	Austin Peay	6003	207	4.81	2.77	1.75	34	9'6"	4.56	7.64	18	9 1/4	31	75 7/8
423	Gus Charles	Howard Payne	6000	188	4.76	2.78	1.64	25 1/2	9'5"	4.80	7.95	9	8 3/4	32 3/4	76
424	Terez Traynor	Idaho	6025	194	5.08	2.96	1.75	27	8'6"	4.74	7.60	3	8 7/8	32	80
425	Cadarrius Thompson	Georgia State	6024	194	5.14	3.03	1.75	27	9'3"	4.73	7.69	6	9 1/4	32 3/4	78 3/4

TIGHT ENDS

TIGHT ENDS

NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1. TYLER WARREN	Penn State	1st	5SR	6054	256	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	31 3/4	76 1/2	22.92
2. COLSTON LOVELAND	Michigan	1st	3JR	6056	248	DNP (DNP)	10	32 3/4	DNP	21.04
3. MASON TAYLOR	LSU	1st-2nd	3JR	6052	246	4.68 (1.64)	10	32 1/4	79	20.96
4. ELIJAH ARROYO	Miami	2nd	4JR	6053	254	DNP (DNP)	10	33 1/4	82 1/4	22.05
5. TERRANCE FERGUSON	Oregon	2nd-3rd	4SR	6053	247	4.63 (1.61)	9 1/2	33 1/4	81	22.13
6. HAROLD FANNIN JR.	Bowling Green	3rd	3JR	6032	241	4.71 (1.66)	9 1/4	32 5/8	79 1/4	20.76
7. GUNNAR HELM	Texas	3rd-4th	4SR	6050	241	4.84 (1.70)	9 7/8	33	79 3/4	22.63
8. ORONDE GADSDEN II	Syracuse	4th	4JR	6045	241	4.65 (1.62)	10	33 5/8	83 1/8	21.83
9. MITCHELL EVANS	Notre Dame	4th	4SR	6052	253	4.72 (1.65)	9 1/2	31 7/8	77	22.10
10. JAKE BRININGSTOOL	Clemson	5th	4SR	6055	241	4.75 (1.66)	8 7/8	31 3/4	78 5/8	22.37
11. MOLIKI MATAVAO	UCLA	5th	4SR	6055	260	4.81 (1.70)	9 5/8	32 1/2	78 7/8	22.10
12. CJ DIPPRE	Alabama	5th-6th	4SR	6047	256	4.69 (1.65)	9 5/8	32	80 3/4	22.99
13. THOMAS FIDONE II	Nebraska	5th-6th	4JR	6050	243	4.70 (1.61)	10 5/8	34 1/4	83	22.59
14. JACKSON HAWES	Georgia Tech	5th-6th	6SR	6044	253	4.82 (1.67)	9 1/8	32 5/8	79	24.38
15. JALIN CONYERS	Texas Tech	6th	5SR	6034	260	4.74 (1.65)	9 7/8	33 1/4	80 7/8	23.75
16. GAVIN BARTHOLOMEW	Pittsburgh	6th	4SR	6045	246	4.70 (1.64)	9 7/8	32	79 1/4	21.98
17. JOSHUA SIMON	South Carolina	6th-7th	6SR	6041	239	4.65 (1.62)	10 1/4	33 7/8	83 1/4	24.41
18. LUKE LACHEY	Iowa	6th-7th	5SR	6056	250	4.85 (1.69)	10	32 1/2	79 1/4	23.82
19. CADEN PRIESKORN	Ole Miss	7th	6SR	6057	246	4.77 (1.65)	10 1/8	33 1/2	80 1/2	25.59
20. RIVALDO FAIRWEATHER	Auburn	FA	5SR	6033	242	4.72 (1.63)	9 5/8	34 1/4	83 5/8	22.76
21. ROBBIE OUZTS	Alabama	FA	4SR	6030	274	4.91 (1.76)	9 3/4	31 1/4	78 1/4	22.63
22. BENJAMIN YUROSEK	Georgia	FA	5SR	6042	245	4.64 (1.58)	9 5/8	33 1/8	80 7/8	23.10
23. BRANT KUITHE	Utah	FA	7SR	6020	236	DNP (DNP)	10 1/2	31 5/8	76 3/4	25.35
24. BRYSON NESBIT	North Carolina	FA	4SR	6050	238	4.88 (1.68)	9 3/4	33	79 1/4	22.58

TE1 Tyler Warren

Penn State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Mechanicsville, VA	Atlee	May 24, 2002	22.92	6054	256	#44

BACKGROUND: Tyler Warren, one of three children, grew up just outside of Richmond, Va., with his father (Terry) and mother (Sandy). Terry was an all-state football player at Chantilly High before playing at Richmond (1987-90), initially as a running back before moving to strong safety (his nickname was "The Hitman"). Tyler's older sister (Kelly) was an all-conference softball player at East Tennessee State (2018-22). He has several extended family members who played college sports, including his grandfather (Steve Warren, Wake Forest football), grandmother (Julia Warren, Carson-Newman basketball) and aunt (Tracey George, Delaware soccer). Tyler Warren was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, primarily playing baseball, basketball and football (also an avid fisherman). He started playing youth football for the Blue Star Cowboys, lining up on offense, defense and as a standout punter.

Warren enrolled at Atlee High, where he was a three-sport standout and made an immediate impact on the varsity football team. Given his size and athleticism, the coaches wanted to get the ball in his hands as much as possible, so they put him at quarterback. After passing for 733 yards as a freshman, Warren totaled 891 passing yards and 722 rushing yards as a sophomore. As a junior, he passed for 881 yards and rushed for 553 yards, leading Atlee to a 7-4 finish (only winning record in his four seasons of high school). As a senior, Warren was a team captain for the third straight year. He was named all-state and team MVP, with 1,149 passing yards, 677 rushing yards and 24 total touchdowns (14 passing, 10 rushing). He also earned all-state honors three straight years as a punter. Warren was a four-time all-region honoree in basketball and earned second-team all-metro honors as a senior power forward (20.0 points and 9.4 rebounds per game). He was also an all-state outfielder for the Atlee baseball team.

A three-star recruit, Warren was the 22nd-ranked tight end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 16 recruit in Virginia. He was initially recruited as a quarterback and committed to Virginia Tech in August 2018. But once programs understood he was open to changing positions (and saw his athleticism on his basketball film), his offer sheet filled up with scholarship offers from Louisville, Michigan, South Carolina and Syracuse. Because of his baseball and basketball time commitments, Warren didn't attend many recruiting camps — but he did take an official visit to Penn State and connected with the coaching staff. He decommitted from Virginia Tech in May 2019 and flipped to Penn State a month later. Warren was the 20th-ranked recruit in head coach James Franklin's 2020 class (one spot ahead of Olu Fashanu). A four-time Academic All-Big Ten honoree, he graduated with a degree in advertising/public relations (Dec. 2023) and earned a second degree in telecommunications (Dec. 2024). Warren declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (2/0)	0	0		0	0	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (13/0)	5	61	12.20	1	0	Two rushing TDs
2022: (12/3)	10	123	12.30	3	2
2023: (13/12)	34	422	12.41	7	6	Third Team All-Big Ten
2024: (16/16)	104	1,233	11.86	8	3	First Team All-American; Mackey Award (nation's top TE); Big Ten TE of the Year; First Team All-Big Ten; four rushing TDs; one passing TD
Total: (56/31)	153	1,839	12.02	19	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6054	256	9 1/2	31 3/4	76 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Well-built athlete with a prototypical frame for tight end duties
- Builds acceleration quickly to enter his route and attack coverage
- Fluid movement skills for a big man, with the foot quickness to get in and out of breaks
- Above-average hand-eye coordination to securely snatch the football in stride
- Had more one-handed grabs than drops on his 2024 film
- Maintains focus with congested catch points or impending contact
- Comfortable leaving his feet and has the body flexibility to high-point or adjust to off-target throws
- Has some wiggle after the catch (56.2 percent of receiving yards in 2024 came post-catch)
- Lowers pads to finish through contact — it often required gang tackles to get him down
- Effective wildcat option; averaged 8.4 yards per carry in 2024 (26 carries for 218 yards and four touchdowns)
- Lefty passer; completed three of his six passes for 35 yards in 2024, including a 17-yard touchdown
- Takes pride in blocking responsibilities (models his game after George Kittle)
- Delivers pop on wham blocks and looks to drive his legs in the run game
- Laid-back, unassuming and avoids the spotlight (not on social media), but he's competitive on the football field (nickname in the Penn State tight end room was "Psycho T").
- Fourth tight end in FBS history to reach 104 catches in a single season
- Routinely plays through minor injuries and doesn't miss games

WEAKNESSES:

- Average arm length and needs to be quicker with his hands into blocks
- Guilty of head ducking and sacrificing his balance once engaged with defenders
- Only 5.9 percent of targets the past two seasons came 20 yards or more down the field (64.1 percent came within 9 yards of the line)
- Occasionally will hurry through routes, rounding breaks and giving clues to defenders
- Attempts to match physical coverage, which causes him to be late turning his head for the football

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Penn State, Warren was used across the formation in offensive coordinator Andy Kotelnicki's scheme and saw manufactured touches, splitting his snaps between inline, slot, wide and in the backfield (also took 40 wildcat snaps in short-yardage or goal-line situations in 2024). A high school quarterback, he joined a Penn State tight end room that included four future NFL Draft picks (Pat Freiermuth, Brenton Strange, Zack Kuntz and Theo Johnson) and became the best college player of the group. He rewrote the tight end record books at Penn State, including the single-game, single-season and career receiving records (finished seventh in 2024 Heisman Trophy voting, highest for a tight end since 1977).

A high-efficiency pass catcher, Warren moves with light feet, fluid body movements and natural balance, all of which helps him instantly transition from receiver to runner and become a threat with the ball in his hands. He showed improved trust in his hands as a senior and now calmly adjusts to finish catches regardless of the traffic around him (three drops on 135 targets in 2024). Though he's aggressive as a blocker, he will fall off run blocks and needs improved positioning/footwork through contact. Overall, Warren still has developing to do as a route runner and blocker, but he is an agile-footed big man who naturally tracks the football with dependable hands and a hunger to create after the catch. He projects as a rookie NFL starter with traditional qualities, as well as the schematic versatility to be a multi-tool weapon for a play caller.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 8 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Gooding, ID	Gooding	Apr 09, 2004	21.04	6056	248	#18

BACKGROUND: Colston Loveland, the second of three boys, grew up in Gooding, a small (around 3,500 people), tight-knit community in southern Idaho. He was raised by his father (Chad) and mother (Rachel Faulkner) on the family farm and grew up tending to animals, building fences and performing other chores. Loveland raised animals as part of the local 4-H program, competed in rodeo and missed some school each spring to help brand calves for his uncle. He grew up dirt biking and playing sports, especially football (started flag football in first grade and tackle football in second grade). With a brother (Cayden) three years older, Loveland often played up levels in football and basketball — because of both his desire to keep up with his brother, and his size and ability. In first grade, he saw minutes on the fifth grade basketball team; he played on the middle school football team while still in fourth grade. Because of his size, Loveland started out as a lineman in youth football before moving to skill positions. Cayden played wide receiver at NAIA Carroll (Mont.) College in 2019. Loveland also has a younger brother (Cash).

Loveland attended Gooding High. After a few games on JV as a freshman, he moved up to varsity, where he played alongside his brother in 2018. He started out as a wide receiver and defensive back, catching 13 passes for 210 yards and one touchdown as a freshman. Loveland hit a growth spurt during his sophomore year and started his transition to tight end. He earned all-state honors as a sophomore (91 catches for 1,147 yards and 14 touchdowns), leading Gooding to the 2019 conference title. As a junior, Loveland recorded 69 receptions for 816 yards and six touchdowns. As a senior, he led Gooding to an undefeated regular season (lost in the semifinals of the 2021 state playoffs) and caught 62 passes for 968 yards and 14 touchdowns, adding 352 rushing yards and four rushing scores. He also had 66 tackles, 18 tackles for loss, 5.5 sacks, two interceptions and one forced fumble as a defensive end and linebacker that year.

Loveland was named Gatorade Football Idaho Player of the Year and earned all-state and all-conference honors for the third straight season. He set school records for catches in a season (91) and a game (19). He was a standout basketball player at Gooding, too, and was named first-team all-state as a junior (12.8 points, 8.5 rebounds and 2.4 steals per game). Loveland also lettered in track and placed fourth in the discus (143 feet, 6 inches) and sixth in the shot put (46-0) as a junior at the 2021 state championships. He ran the 100 meters in 12.54 seconds.

A four-star recruit, Loveland was the 14th-ranked tight end in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Idaho (the only Idaho recruit ranked in the top 750 of the 2022 class). Toward the end of his sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer from FCS Idaho State. After dominating at a 7-on-7 camp in Seattle the summer before his junior year, Loveland started to hear from FBS programs and received offers from Arizona State, Nevada, Oregon State, Utah and Utah State. After Loveland's junior season, Alabama, Auburn, Boise State, Colorado, Michigan and UCLA all offered and made trips to Idaho. He "felt at home" during his visit to Ann Arbor and committed to Michigan head coach Jim Harbaugh the summer before his senior year. He was the eighth-ranked recruit (one spot behind Mason Graham) in Harbaugh's 2022 class. He earned Academic All-Big Ten honors in 2024. After his junior season, Loveland elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2022: (14/5)	16	235	14.69	2	2	Enrolled January 2022
2023: (15/12)	45	649	14.42	4	5	First Team All-Big Ten; led team in receiving in 2023 national championship game
2024: (10/7)	56	582	10.39	5	2	Second Team All-American; Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in receiving; missed three games (right shoulder)
Total: (39/24)	117	1,466	12.53	11	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6056	248	10	32 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med exclusion: right shoulder)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Fluid, fast athlete who is graceful down the seam
- Explosive in releases to quickly enter routes and give quarterback a target
- Can win on slants or posts one-on-one against cornerbacks
- Makes deft moves to set up defenders, snap breaks and create versus man coverage
- Efficient on slam-flat plays to engage/sell edge defenders before releasing into space
- Sticky hands — catching radius and leaping ability were tested often by erratic quarterback play
- Plays with toughness over the middle and bounces back after hits
- Can leapfrog defenders or use stiff arm to battle for extra yards
- Shows good fight as blocker in run game
- Penalized just once over past two seasons (illegal formation that wasn't his fault)
- His coaches praise how much he puts into craft (Michigan coach Sherrone Moore: "The guy just works, he works, he works. Reminds me of Blake Corum.")
- Set Michigan single-season record for catches by a tight end (despite missing chunks of time)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean body type, lacking ideal mass for NFL inline work
- Mediocre play strength limits effectiveness as sustain blocker
- Needs to focus on keeping low base and tighter hands as run blocker
- Can be displaced from spot by middling contact in pass protection
- Low batting average in contested situations (caught only two of 10 contested targets in 2024)
- Struggles to avoid tacklers after the catch without a runway
- Just 12.5 percent of 2024 catches resulted in 20 yards or more
- Missed three games (and parts of several other games) because of right shoulder injury (Sept. 2024); AC joint surgery in Jan. 2025, which sidelined him for the draft process (on track to be cleared for training camp); missed Ohio State game because of concussion (Nov. 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Michigan, Loveland was a versatile tight end in head coach Sherrone Moore's pro-style scheme, lining up primarily in the slot (47.6 percent of the time) and inline/wing (32.5 percent) as a junior. From the moment he arrived in Ann Arbor, he was one of the most talented players on the roster and made an immediate impact his first two years, including as the Wolverines' leading receiver in the 2023 national championship game. His final season was marred by injury and below-average quarterback play, but he still led the team in receiving in nine of the 10 games he played and set Michigan records for the tight end position.

With his speed and ball skills, Loveland can line up anywhere on the field and win as a quarterback-friendly, multilevel receiving threat. He isn't a liability as a one-pop, get-in-the-way blocker but will struggle to sustain or control NFL edge defenders. Overall, Loveland doesn't have the skill set for full-time inline responsibilities, but his dynamic movements, natural hands and football awareness should make him one of the primary targets in an NFL offense. His tools and upside are reminiscent of Zach Ertz.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 11 overall)

TE3 Mason Taylor

LSU, 3JR

HOMETOWN Plantation, FL	HIGH SCHOOL St. Thomas Aquinas	BIRTHDAY May 08, 2004	AGE 20.96	HT 6052	WT 246	NUM #86
----------------------------	-----------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Mason Taylor, the second of three children, was born and raised in South Florida with his parents (Jason and Katina), who divorced in 2015. Jason was a six-time Pro Bowl pass rusher and played 15 seasons in the NFL (1997-2011), primarily with the Miami Dolphins. He produced 139.5 career sacks and was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2017. Jason was a defensive coach at St. Thomas Aquinas for five seasons (2017-21) and currently serves as the Miami Hurricanes' defensive line coach. Katina is the sister of Jason's former teammate, Zach Thomas, who was a seven-time Pro Bowl linebacker and earned Pro Football Hall of Fame induction in 2023.

Mason's aunt (Joy), Jason's sister, is a sports television host for FS1. Mason's older brother (Isaiah) played safety at Arizona (2021-23) before transferring to Miami for the 2024 season. His younger sister (Zoe) was named the 2023 Miami Beach Volleyball Player of the Year as a senior in high school and signed with the LSU beach volleyball team in 2024. With his father in the NFL, Taylor grew up around the game and in NFL locker rooms. He started his own journey via flag football and then Pop Warner in Davie. Taylor suited up for the Davie Broncos, followed by the Davie/Cooper City Colts as part of American Youth Football (Jason was the Colts' head coach). Growing up, Taylor attended St. Bonaventure Catholic School, where he also played basketball.

Taylor enrolled at St. Thomas Aquinas, a football powerhouse in Fort Lauderdale that has produced dozens of NFL players, including Dallas Turner, Nik Bonitto and the Bosa brothers. Taylor's older brother and father were also part of that program. Taylor bided his time on a stacked roster, not recording any varsity stats as a freshman or sophomore. As a junior, he played both ways as a tight end and defensive end and helped the team to its second straight 7A state championship in 2020. As a senior, he led St. Thomas Aquinas to a 14-1 record and a third straight state title. Taylor finished his final season with 35 receptions for 403 yards and two touchdowns, earning first-team all-county honors.

A three-star recruit, Taylor was the 24th-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 67 recruit in Florida. Even before he made an impact on varsity, he picked up his first offer (Florida International) after his sophomore season, in January 2020. His recruitment started to pick up following his junior season, as he added full-ride offers from Auburn, Illinois, Miami, Texas A&M and West Virginia. During the summer of 2021, Taylor received offers from Alabama, Florida and LSU and took visits to all three programs. But the atmosphere in Baton Rouge and a connection to former head coach Ed Orgeron led him to commit to the Tigers in July 2021. Taylor stayed committed after Orgeron was let go that fall and became the 13th-ranked recruit in Brian Kelly's first class at LSU. He twice made the SEC Academic Honor Roll. Taylor elected to skip LSU's 2024 bowl game and his senior season to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2022: (14/13)	38	414	10.89	3	3	Freshman All-SEC; enrolled June 2022
2023: (12/12)	36	348	9.67	1	3	Missed one game (ankle)
2024: (12/12)	55	546	9.93	2	1	Third Team All-SEC; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (38/37)	129	1,308	10.14	6	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6051	251	10	32 1/4	78 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6052	246	9 3/4	32 1/4	79	4.68	2.77	1.64	DNP	DNP	4.54	7.06	28

STRENGTHS:

- Athletic big man who is still growing into his frame
- Dependable hands and naturally adjusts to throws away from his body
- Focus doesn't flinch in traffic
- Cleanly frames and catches in stride for quick transitions to running after catch
- Secures through contact to withstand crushing hits
- Runs smooth routes and quickly gets his head turned to make himself available
- Strong positional blocker to shield and steer
- Understands angles and is effective as a stalk blocker, especially on the perimeter
- Started right away in the SEC and caught a pass in 37 of 38 career games
- Ranks first (55), third (38) and fourth (36) in single-season catches by an LSU tight end

WEAKNESSES:

- Shaky base and anchor in pass protection
- Too easily bullied or tossed aside by defensive ends, especially when his hands land wide
- Found end zone only once every 21.5 catches
- Follows blocks well as a ball carrier but didn't create much yards after catch in 2024
- Didn't create many explosive plays (six of 55 catches in 2024 went for 20 yards or more)
- False starts on back-to-back snaps against UCLA (and another against Arkansas)
- Never recorded a 100-yard receiving game in college
- Missed one game as sophomore and parts of others because of ankle sprain (Sept. 2023)
- Didn't play on special teams in college

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at LSU, Taylor was a versatile tight end in offensive coordinator Joe Sloan's pass-happy offense (55.7 percent of snaps inline, 37.0 percent in the slot in 2024). Known more for being the son of a Pro Football Hall of Famer when he enrolled, Taylor made a name for himself by becoming the most productive tight end in LSU history — he set records for career catches (129) and receiving yards (1,308). Despite those achievements, his single-game high in receiving yards was just 63 (vs. Georgia in 2022).

Taylor is a loose mover, which shows in his route running and at the catch point, and he has the hand-eye coordination to make natural adjustments and finish in traffic. In the run game, he is more of a wall-off blocker than a violent people-mover, but his toughness and athleticism at the point of attack help him execute his assignments, especially out in space as a move blocker. Overall, Taylor was Mr. Reliable in the LSU offense — and can be the same for an NFL team, because of his his good-sized athleticism, reliable ball skills and competitive blocking. He projects as a solid NFL starter who doesn't have to leave the field and has some similarities to Hunter Henry.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 33 overall)

TE4 Elijah Arroyo

Miami, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Frisco, TX	Independence	Apr 05, 2003	22.05	6053	254	#8

BACKGROUND: Elijah Arroyo, the oldest of three children, was born in Orlando, Fla., before moving to Palmetto Bay in Miami-Dade County when he was a baby. Both of his parents are Miami natives. Arroyo started playing sports in elementary school and suited up in football for the first time at age 6. The next year, his family moved to Mexico for his father's job (selling timeshares) and settled in Cancun. Arroyo was worried he wouldn't be able to play football anymore, but the family found a local pee-wee team (Los Troyanos), which helped Arroyo learn the Spanish language and local culture. He played quarterback, running back and linebacker throughout youth football. After six years, the family relocated back to the United States when Arroyo was in seventh grade and moved to the Dallas area, where he continued playing football. His younger brother (Santana) signed to play basketball at Schreiner (Texas) University in 2023.

Arroyo enrolled at Frisco Independence High, north of Dallas, and was a left-handed quarterback on the freshman team in Year 1. As a sophomore, he started three games at quarterback on the JV squad before getting called up to varsity. He transitioned to a hybrid pass-catcher role and was used all over the offense. Arroyo became a varsity starter as a junior and earned first-team all-district honors with 48 catches for 648 yards and five touchdowns, helping Independence to a 10-win season and the 2019 5A state playoffs. Arroyo's senior season was limited to just 10 games because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but he still set several career-best marks with 31 catches for 690 yards (22.3 average) and 13 touchdowns. He also lettered in track and had personal bests of 6 feet, 2 inches in the high jump and 9-6 in the pole vault.

A four-star recruit, Arroyo was the sixth-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 33 recruit in Texas. He was the second-ranked tight end in Texas behind only Ja'Tavion Sanders. Midway through his junior season, Arroyo received his first scholarship offer from UConn (Nov. 2019). Soon after, the recruiting floodgates opened — in the three months after his junior season ended, Arroyo added offers from Alabama, Georgia, Michigan, Penn State, Texas, Texas A&M and USC. Rhett Lashlee, the offensive coordinator at SMU in 2019, was one of the first coaches to recruit Arroyo. When he left to become Miami's offensive coordinator in January 2020, he offered Arroyo as one of his first moves. Arroyo, who'd grown up a Hurricanes fan and attended games with his father and grandfather (Marvin Hudson), called Miami his "dream school" and officially committed in May 2020. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in former head coach Manny Diaz's 2021 class. Arroyo elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (12/1)	5	86	17.20	1	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (4/3)	5	66	13.20	0	0	Redshirted; missed final eight games (left knee)
2023: (5/0)	1	11	11.00	0	0	Missed eight games (left knee)
2024: (13/13)	35	590	16.86	7	1	Second Team All-ACC; 7-yard TD pass
Total: (34/17)	46	753	16.37	8	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6051	250	10	33	81 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	22	Bench only (choice)
PRO DAY	6053	254	9 7/8	33 1/4	82 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Fluid, loose athlete for the position with above-average speed
- Strides are light and long, which allows him to eat up ground quickly and be a factor on seams, posts and fades
- 34.3 percent of his catches in 2024 went for 20 yards or more (for context, Brock Bowers finished his final season at Georgia at 23.2 percent)
- Impressive pacing on one- and two-cut routes, where he can shake and separate
- Strong focus and hands (only one career drop), no matter the action required
- Secures ball well in stride to be a catch-and-go weapon (led FBS tight ends in 2024 with 9.1 yards after catch/reception)
- Competes as a blocker, both when driving inline or out in space
- Was 220 pounds when he enrolled in college and found good balance of adding weight without sacrificing speed
- Served as a team captain for four games in 2024 (Mario Cristobal: "That guy's the ultimate team player. He's been through a lot, and he's seen ups and downs. He's just really hungry for team success.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have the most expansive college resume (46 catches over four seasons)
- Saw a lot of free releases in college
- Often revealed his intentions too early and has room to grow as a route runner
- Hardly any examples on tape of him making grabs in traffic
- Positions himself to stalemate defenders as a blocker, but he's not a power player
- Needs more consistent technique as an on-the-move blocker on split zones
- Missed most of the 2022 and 2023 seasons after suffering torn ACL in his left knee (September 2022)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Miami (Fla.), Arroyo was an F tight end in offensive coordinator Shannon Dawson's RPO-based version of the Air Raid, lining up mostly in the slot (51.6 percent of snaps) and occasionally inline (39.4 percent). He had just 16 combined targets over his first three seasons with the Hurricanes as he battled a knee injury, but then delivered a breakout 2024, leading the FBS in yards per catch among tight ends (16.9).

An awesome athlete at 250 pounds, Arroyo gets in and out of his breaks with efficiency and speed to consistently create separation, which makes him a threat to score any time he touches the ball (71.4 percent of his catches in 2024 resulted in a first down or touchdown). He will need to prove himself through contact in the passing game at the next level, where he won't be given as much space to operate. Overall, Arroyo needs further development as a route runner and blocker to reach his ceiling, but he can bring an immediate vertical element to an offense with his speed, fluidity and focused ball skills. He is easy to project as an NFL starter and a weapon for which defenses must account.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 41 overall)

HOMETOWN Littleton, CO	HIGH SCHOOL Heritage	BIRTHDAY Mar 07, 2003	AGE 22.13	HT 6053	WT 247	NUM #3
---------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Terrance Ferguson, who has two older brothers, grew up in Littleton, Colo. (south of Denver), with his parents (Cody and Dawn Ferguson). His younger brother (Phillip) played linebacker at Heritage High before signing with NAIA Presentation (S.D.) College in 2019. Ferguson was a multisport athlete throughout childhood and played for the Patriots and Eagles at the Pop Warner level. He grew up competing in the Arapahoe Youth League with the Littleton Thunder as a tight end, defensive end and linebacker, and he helped the team to a 2014 league super bowl. Ferguson also played basketball and lacrosse for the Thunder throughout middle school. He proposed to his high school sweetheart (Sophia Meyer) in July 2024.

Ferguson enrolled at Heritage High in Littleton (his father was on the coaching staff) and was a four-sport athlete. After seeing varsity action as a freshman wide receiver and tight end, he had a breakout sophomore season (69 receptions for 972 yards and nine touchdowns). Ferguson earned 2018 Metro Player of the Year and all-conference honors, as he helped Heritage improve from two wins in 2017 to eight. As a junior, he again earned Metro Player of the Year and added all-state honors with 54 catches for 929 yards and 14 total touchdowns (11 receiving, two rushing, one passing). As a senior captain, Ferguson caught 30 passes for 472 yards and two touchdowns in a schedule shortened to six-games because of the COVID-19 pandemic. He played more of a role on defense that year as well, posting 49 tackles, four tackles for loss, 1.5 sacks and a forced fumble at outside linebacker. Ferguson finished his prep career with 2,373 career receiving yards. He also lettered in lacrosse, track and basketball — he averaged 9.4 points, 6.7 rebounds, 2.0 assists and 1.3 blocks on the hardwood as a junior.

A four-star recruit, Ferguson was the ninth-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Colorado. His recruitment took off after his productive sophomore season, with offers from Arkansas, LSU, Ohio State and Colorado in the spring of 2019. As a junior, Ferguson added several national offers before narrowing his choice to five programs: Auburn, Oregon, Tennessee, USC and Wisconsin. The summer before his senior year, he committed to the Ducks and was the 14th-ranked recruit in former head coach Mario Cristobal's 2021 class. He was the second-ranked tight end in that class, behind Moliki Matavao, but Ferguson jumped to the top of the tight end depth chart as a freshman. (Matavao later transferred to UCLA and is also in this year's NFL Draft class.) Ferguson accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (14/8)	17	141	8.29	2	0	Enrolled February 2021
2022: (13/6)	32	391	12.22	5	1	Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2023: (14/12)	42	414	9.86	6	2	First Team All-Pac-12
2024: (12/11)	43	591	13.74	3	4	Missed two games (appendix surgery)
Total: (53/37)	134	1,537	11.47	16	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6053	247	9 1/4	32 7/8	80 1/8	4.63	2.66	1.61	39	10' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6052	249	9 1/2	33 1/4	81	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	15

STRENGTHS:

- Athletic pass catcher to snatch and immediately get upfield
- Natural hand-eye coordination to scoop or reach back and bring in throws
- Knows where the sticks are and consistently gets hidden yards (72.1 percent of his catches in 2024 resulted in a first down or touchdown)
- Runs physical routes and doesn't allow safeties to muscle him off his path
- Subtle foot quickness in and out of breaks — able to sink and break opposite to create a passing window
- Functional strength as a base blocker, inline and out in space
- Shows blocking range out of the slot on swing screens
- Willing run blocker who will get his face dirty and showcase toughness at the point of attack

WEAKNESSES:

- Too much of one-speed athlete
- Needs better salesmanship and pacing to hide route intentions
- Physical finisher as a ball carrier but needs to use athleticism more to sidestep tacklers
- Below average in contested situations senior season
- Engages well as blocker but will struggle to control defenders
- Put some weak, chicken-wing chips on tape
- Much better home-game performer (80 percent of catches in 2024 and 13 of 16 career touchdown grabs came at Oregon's Autzen Stadium)
- Missed two games as senior because of appendectomy (Oct. 2024); missed second half of UCLA game with head injury (Sept. 2024)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Oregon, Ferguson was a versatile tight end in offensive coordinator Will Stein's spread scheme, lining up for 42.0 percent of his 2024 snaps in the slot and 40.5 percent inline/wing (often used as a blocker for a two count before releasing as a target). Although his senior season didn't quite reach the heights scouts were hoping for, he was a dependable target and his role continued to expand.

A high school hooper, Ferguson displays athleticism both as a route runner and after the catch, along with steady ball skills (25.6 percent of his catches in 2024 resulted in 20 yards or more). He needs technical work (tighter hands and feet) as a blocker but finds ways to stalemate defenders. Overall, there isn't much about his game that screams "exceptional," but Ferguson is solid across the board and should continue to ascend as he adds consistency to his blocking and patterns. He has the foundational traits to carve out an NFL career similar to that of Jake Ferguson (no relation).

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 75 overall)

TE6 Harold Fannin Jr.

Bowling Green, 3JR

HOMETOWN Canton, OH	HIGH SCHOOL McKinley	BIRTHDAY Jul 20, 2004	AGE 20.76	HT 6032	WT 241	NUM #0
------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Harold Fannin Jr., one of four children, grew up in Canton, Ohio, primarily with his mother (Lakeesha Wise). Fannin had a close relationship with his older sister (Haria Wise), his closest sibling in age — his mother referred to Haria as Harold's "twin." Haria was diagnosed with leukemia in 2021 and died at age 20 in October 2023.

Growing up, Fannin played multiple sports and developed a love for football playing running back at the youth level. He enrolled at McKinley Senior High in Canton, where he was a four-year varsity letterman and played both ways. He became a starter as a sophomore and played primarily as a safety, posting 42 tackles and two interceptions. Fannin missed a chunk of time as a junior in 2020 because of injuries, but he still finished with eight passes defended. He had his best season as a senior while leading McKinley to an 8-5 record and was named the league's 2021 player of the year. He earned first-team all-state honors at safety with 106 tackles, six forced fumbles, two interceptions and two defensive touchdowns (one interception return, one fumble return). He also saw action at wide receiver (36 receptions for 601 yards and six touchdowns, plus a 78-yard rushing touchdown and 15.7 average on punt returns). Fannin lettered in baseball at McKinley.

A no-star recruit, Fannin wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2022 class. He started to receive recruiting attention from FBS programs as a sophomore and picked up offers from MAC schools such as Akron, Kent State and Toledo. However, Fannin struggled with academics when classes moved online during the COVID-19 pandemic, and those college programs moved on to other options. He refocused during his senior season and improved his grades, but by the time he became an academic qualifier, the schools that had shown interest in him already had full recruiting classes.

Two months after signing day, Bowling Green head coach Scot Loeffler made room for Fannin, offering him a scholarship in April 2022. Despite Fannin having played primarily safety in high school, the Bowling Green coaching staff saw him as a tight end — and convinced Fannin of that vision. His transition to a new position went better than anyone could have predicted, and Fanning elected to enter the NFL Draft after three seasons in the program. Fannin accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2022: (12/1)	19	218	11.47	1	1	Missed one game (injury)
2023: (11/8)	44	623	14.16	6	0	First Team All-MAC; missed two games (injury)
2024: (13/12)	117	1,555	13.29	10	4	Consensus All-American; MAC MVP; MAC Off. POY; First Team All-MAC; led FBS in catches, receiving yards
Total: (36/21)	180	2,396	13.31	17	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6032	241	9 1/4	32 1/4	79 1/4	4.71	2.75	1.66	34	9' 10"	4.39	6.97	22
PRO DAY	6033	237	9 1/4	32 5/8	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Straight-line explosiveness; plays with athletic urgency into routes
- Uses speed to challenge defenses, vertically and horizontally
- Run after catch was a key ingredient to his college success
- Body quickness to manipulate space, which helps him get free or force missed tackles
- Physical stiff arm with run balance to carry tacklers for extra yards
- Secure hands catcher and comfortable playing through contact
- Catches just about everything in catch radius, because of his adjustment skills
- Nice range as a puller on sweeps/pitches or as a lead blocker on split zone or iso

- Set almost every Bowling Green receiving record for a tight end
- Dominated against MAC competition; also played at a high level vs. Penn State (11 catches, 137 yards, one TD) and Texas A&M (eight catches, 145 yards, one TD) in 2024
- Moved all around in Bowling Green's scheme (third-highest rate for lining up wide among all FBS tight ends in 2024)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks desired size for inline work
- Duck-footed — often runs with feet often pointed outwards, which dulls route breaks
- Route movements appear stiff and rigid, with excess limb waste
- Physical defenders can too easily grind his momentum down at top of the route
- Doesn't have stout frame or body strength to consistently seal NFL ends
- Inconsistent breaking down as a blocker in space

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Bowling Green, Fannin played the "A" tight end position in head coach Scot Loeffler's pro-style spread offense, splitting his snaps between inline/wing (38.3 percent), slot (31.7 percent) and out wide (26.2 percent). In an offense designed to weaponize its tight end, Fannin transitioned from high school safety and had arguably the greatest tight end season in FBS history in 2024, setting single-season records for catches (117) and receiving yards (1,555). He became the first consensus All-American in Bowling Green history (and just the school's second in any sport).

With his strong hands and urgent athleticism, Fannin is at his best as a pass catcher and shows a unique feel for creating as a ball carrier. He is still very young — and it shows, especially in his blocking and route running. Overall, Fannin is somewhat of an unconventional prospect. He is awkwardly athletic with stiff, restricting movements, but he plays with straight-line explosiveness, outstanding tracking skills and threatening run-after-catch ability. He fits best as a hybrid H or F tight end and offers three-down potential.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 82 overall)

TE7 Gunnar Helm

Texas, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Englewood, CA	Cherry Creek	Sep 06, 2002	22.63	6050	241	#85

BACKGROUND: Gunnar Helm, one of four children, was born and raised south of Denver with his parents (Blake and Patti). His paternal grandfather (Roger Helm) played tight end at Iowa and his maternal grandfather played both ways at Illinois and was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles. Growing up, Gunnar was a multisport athlete, and his father coached him throughout little league.

Helm attended Cherry Creek High (his father's alma mater), the largest high school in the Denver area (80-acre campus and an enrollment of 4,000). After playing on the freshman team his first year, he moved up to varsity as a 175-pound sophomore wide receiver. Helm continued to work in the weight room and bulked up to 215 pounds the summer before his junior season. The coaches moved him to tight end two weeks before the start of that season, and he helped lead Cherry Creek to an undefeated 14-0 record and the 2019 5A state championship. He finished his junior year with 25 receptions for 370 yards and eight touchdowns (plus a passing touchdown). As a senior, Helm again led the team to an undefeated record and the second of its back-to-back 5A state championships. He earned first-team all-state and all-league honors with 33 receptions for 411 yards and seven touchdowns. Helm also lettered in basketball and lacrosse, helping lead Cherry Creek to the 2019 lacrosse state championship.

A three-star recruit, Helm was the 33rd-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 6 recruit in Colorado. Once he added weight and moved to tight end as a high school junior, his recruitment took off — he received more than a dozen offers in a two-week period in January 2020, including from Auburn, Iowa State, Kansas State, Tennessee and Utah. Several SEC programs, including Alabama, Georgia and LSU, joined the mix during the spring of 2020. Helm had family connections at Colorado and might have gone to Boulder had Mel Tucker stayed as head coach. The summer before his senior season, however, Helm announced a final five of Auburn, Iowa, Texas, UCLA and Wisconsin. He committed to Texas, which was the last program to offer him. Two weeks after Helm signed, Steve Sarkisian replaced Tom Herman as Texas' head coach. That change worked out for Helm because he had a relationship with Sarkisian, who had recruited him at Alabama. Helm was the 22nd-ranked recruit in Sarkisian's first class at Texas (only punter Isaac Pearson ranked lower in the class). He earned Academic All-Big 12 honors three times. Helm accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but later pulled out of the event.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (12/0)	0	0		0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/4)	5	44	8.80	0	0
2023: (14/6)	14	192	13.71	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big 12
2024: (16/16)	60	786	13.10	7	2	Second Team All-SEC; led team in receptions
Total: (55/26)	79	1,022	12.94	9	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6050	241	9 7/8	32 3/4	79 1/2	4.84	2.84	1.70	30	DNP	4.40	7.15	DNP	No BJ, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6047	245	9 7/8	33	79 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Balanced big man with a workable frame and length
- Quick out of his stance and very efficient with releases, regardless of where he lines up
- Creates leverage out of breaks
- Has a knack for working himself open in the scramble drill
- Natural catcher of the football and very confident at the catch point (2.5 percent career drop rate)
- Outstanding vision to be a threat after the catch (420 yards after catch in 2024, third most among FBS tight ends)
- Has natural coordination to elude, hurdle or slip tackle attempts
- Physical, try-hard blocker who loses slowly in pass protection
- Comfortable getting to the second level and walling off linebackers
- Not the most vocal but prototypical "lead by example" guy — doesn't have any knucklehead in him
- Smart and competitive (tight end is the second-hardest position to grasp in Sarkisian's offense, behind quarterback)

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average speed for the position, especially for a player with his size profile
- Doesn't have pop or power to consistently overwhelm and move defenders in run game
- Head-ducker into contact as a move blocker, often losing sight of his target
- Vastly improved hand placement on 2024 tape, but there is still room to get better (flagged for holding three times in 2024)
- Sack allowed against Georgia in the SEC Championship Game showed some of his issues in pass pro
- Occasionally rounds his stem — still fine-tuning his route-tree footwork
- Only one season of high-level receiving production

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Texas, Helm was a versatile tight end in head coach Steve Sarkisian's RPO pro-style spread offense and was used across the formation with heavy motions (68.3 percent of snaps inline, 22.0 percent slot, 9.7 percent wide). With just 22 combined targets over his first three seasons in Austin, he went overlooked in the shadow of Ja'Tavion Sanders, but the coaches say he maxed out his work each day to steadily improve and be ready for his moment. He became "the guy" as a senior and didn't disappoint, emerging as the offense's most consistent aspect and leading the team in receptions.

More balanced than explosive as an athlete, Helm does a great job finding space in coverage and contorting his body to adjust and finish the catch. With his knack for giving defenders the slip, he is one of the best tight ends in this draft class after the catch. Overall, Helm will need time to adjust to NFL physicality as a blocker, but he has the toughness and pass-catching talent to potentially become a three-down player. His tape shows a possible mismatch weapon, but his lackluster combine performance will give NFL teams pause.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round (No. 96 overall)

TE8 Oronde Gadsden II

Syracuse, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Fort Lauderdale, FL	Heritage	Jun 25, 2003	21.83	6045	241	#19

BACKGROUND: Oronde Gadsden II, who has a younger sister (Gabby), was born and raised in South Florida with his parents (Oronde and Bianke). Oronde Gadsden was an undrafted free-agent wide receiver out of Winston-Salem State in 1995 and signed with the Dallas Cowboys (won Super Bowl XXX). He bounced between teams and won Rookie of the Year honors in the AFL before finding a home with the Miami Dolphins (1998-2003). He finished with 3,252 receiving yards before he was forced to retire because of injuries. Oronde Gadsden II grew up around the game of football in Davie, Fla. (home of the Dolphins' training facility), and he started playing for the Pop Warner Davie Broncos, which had an NFL player-led coaching staff that included head coach Sam Madison, offensive coordinator Dan Marino, defensive coordinator Jason Taylor and his father, who was an assistant. Gadsden played both ways and helped lead the team to the AYFL Championship in 2014. He also played lacrosse throughout childhood, initially for the Barracudas before playing club lacrosse for the Florida Surge.

Gadsden enrolled at American Heritage School, a private college prep school, where his head coach all four seasons was former NFL Pro Bowl cornerback Patrick Surtain. As a freshman, Gadsden was part of a team that finished 14-0, won the 2017 state championship and boasted future NFL draft picks Patrick Surtain II, Tyson Campbell, Dallas Turner and Anthony Schwartz on its roster. As a wide receiver and safety, Gadsden finished his junior season with 21 receptions for 428 yards and six touchdowns, as American Heritage went 10-2, falling to Miami Northwestern in the 2019 5A state playoffs. As a senior captain, he posted 16 catches for 180 yards and seven touchdowns and helped the program to the 2020 5A state title (the fifth in school history), including a touchdown catch in the championship game. Gadsden also lettered in track at American Heritage and had personal bests of 11.84 seconds in the 100 meters, 53.24 in the 400, 16.61 in the 110-meter hurdles and 40.42 in the 300-meter hurdles.

A three-star recruit, Gadsden was the 146th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 129 recruit in Florida. His recruitment started to take off during his junior season, and he finished with more than 20 scholarship offers. Gadsden narrowed his final choice to four programs: Arizona State, Penn State, South Florida and Syracuse. Early in his senior season, he committed to Syracuse, mostly because of his relationship with the coaching staff (specifically, his primary recruiter, Nick Monroe, who's now the co-defensive coordinator at Minnesota). Gadsden was the 10th-ranked recruit in former head coach Dino Babers' 2021 class. He signed as a wide receiver before moving to hybrid tight end in his second season. Gadsden skipped his final season to enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (8/0)	2	24	12.00	0	0	Missed four games (injury); enrolled July 2021
2022: (13/13)	61	969	15.89	6	4	First Team All-ACC; led all FBS TEs in receiving yards; led team in receiving; moved from WR to TE
2023: (2/2)	7	67	9.57	1	0	Redshirted; missed final 11 games (right foot)
2024: (13/13)	73	934	12.79	7	3	First Team All-ACC
Total: (36/28)	143	1,994	13.94	14	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	243	10	33 3/8	81 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	34	9' 6"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6045	241	10	33 5/8	83 1/8	4.65	2.73	1.62	34 1/2	9'9"	DNP	DNP	19

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, rangy athlete who has worked hard to add bulk
- Terrific hand strength to finish catches through contact
- Coordinated body control to locate and adjust to throws mid-route
- Ranked second in 2024 among FBS tight ends with 17 contested catches
- Foot quickness helps him enter routes and create separation out of breaks
- Displays overall movement skills of former wide receiver
- Responsible for 16 catches of 20 yards or more in 2024 (fourth most among FBS tight ends)
- Willing positional blocker — can get in the way and seal off
- At best as backside run blocker or on the move
- Most productive tight end in Syracuse history

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have desired frame or body mass for the position
- Relies more on athleticism than pacing or technique in route stems
- Marginal after-the-catch threat with ball in his hands
- Not the type of ball carrier who will frequently run through tackles
- Needs to continue developing football-playing strength to sustain (never lined up inline until 2024)
- Works to keep hands tight and chop feet but not a people mover in run game
- Lisfranc injury in right foot (Sept. 2023), which required season-ending surgery

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Syracuse, Gadsden was a joker tight end in offensive coordinator Jeff Nixon's pro-spread system (58.3 percent of his snaps aligned in the slot, 32.6 percent inline, 8.7 percent wide in 2024). A wide receiver when he enrolled, Gadsden transitioned to a hybrid tight end role as a sophomore and had the two most productive seasons (2022, 2024) for a tight end in school history (with a season-ending injury in between, in 2023). Like his father, who played in the NFL for several seasons,

Gadsden is the type of target who doesn't require his quarterback to be perfect because of the way he uses his frame, focus and long arms to pull in throws. Though he has functional athleticism as a route runner, his setup and pacing are still in the developmental phase. I was expecting more after the catch, too (just 27.5 percent of his yards in 2024 came with the ball in his hands, one of the lowest rates in the FBS). As a blocker, he gives quality effort and can get in the way, but he won't consistently move defenders at the point of attack in the run game. Overall, Gadsden is an athletic pass catcher with the adjustment skills and catch radius to be a possession target in an NFL offense, although his average frame and marginal ability to sustain blocks create questions about his role. He projects best as an F tight end who can be flexed across the formation and should continue to get better.

GRADE: 4th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Wadsworth, OH	Wadsworth	Mar 18, 2003	22.10	6052	253	#88

BACKGROUND: Mitchell Evans, the youngest of two children, grew up in Wadsworth, Ohio (outside of Akron), with his parents (Adam and Jodi). Adam played football at Penn and Kent State and is a club and high school volleyball coach. Jodi, a teacher and coach in the Akron area, was an all-conference volleyball player at Akron (1986-89) and was honored with a spot in the school's Hall of Fame in 2002. Mitchell's older sister (Kacie) was an All-America volleyball player at Wadsworth, earned All-SEC honors at Georgia (2019-23) and broke the school record for sets played (517). Kacie currently plays professionally for the Atlanta Vibe in the Pro Volleyball Federation. Mitchell Evans grew up playing basketball, lacrosse and track, but football was his favorite sport. He was primarily a running back throughout youth football before moving to quarterback and the defensive line in middle school.

Evans enrolled at Wadsworth High, where he started out as a 5-foot-9 quarterback before going through a major growth spurt. He was a backup quarterback as a freshman and sophomore and also handled punting duties, averaging 38.1 yards in 2018. Wadsworth had record-setting quarterback Joey Baughman (signed with Elon, currently plays in the Italian Football League) entrenched as its starter in 2019, so Evans moved to tight end as a junior. He battled injuries throughout the 2019 season and finished with 19 receptions for 306 yards and seven touchdowns, adding a rushing touchdown and averaging 40.2 yards per punt. When Baughman graduated, Evans moved back to quarterback for his senior season and earned all-state honors (2,132 passing yards and 23 touchdowns). He also lettered in basketball.

A three-star recruit, Evans was the 23rd-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 16 recruit in Ohio. He didn't have any scholarship offers until Toledo offered him after his junior season (his only season at tight end), followed by offers from several then-Power 5 schools such as Iowa State, Michigan State, Purdue, Syracuse and West Virginia. That summer, Florida State and Notre Dame entered the mix (although, nearby Ohio State didn't recruit him). Shortly after his visit to South Bend, Evans announced his commitment to the Irish in July 2020. He was the 16th-ranked recruit in former head coach Brian Kelly's 2021 class. Evans accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (13/0)	2	21	10.50	0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (8/7)	3	39	13.00	1	0	Missed first five games (left foot)
2023: (8/7)	29	422	14.55	1	2	Missed one game (concussion); missed final four games (left knee)
2024: (16/11)	43	421	9.79	3	3	Led team in receptions
Total: (45/25)	77	903	11.73	5	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6053	258	9 1/2	31 7/8	77	4.74	2.76	1.66	31	9' 7"	4.40	7.25	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6052	253	9 1/2	31 7/8	77	4.72	2.74	1.65	33 1/2	9' 10"	4.38	7.14	17

STRENGTHS:

- Functional athlete for his size and can attack vertically
- Not fluid but fast and nimble enough to work himself open
- Attacks the ball with strong hands and focus, which allows him to maximize his catch radius
- Impressive play strength in the passing game, excelling through contact mid-route and at crowded catch points
- Fearless working the middle, finding soft spots and securing through traffic
- Flashes point-of-attack strength and physicality blocking inline
- Good base and upper-body pop to create movement on down blocks
- Doesn't consistently sustain but is quick to attack defenders again to keep them occupied
- Added to kick return unit senior season
- NFL scouts say his mental approach will fit a pro locker room

WEAKNESSES:

- Average quickness in and out of breaks and will stumble at times on athletic moves
- Not currently a route technician; can improve his salesmanship
- Wasn't asked to run a variety of downfield routes (only two of his 43 catches in 2024 were for 25 yards or more — both came in the final two games)
- Shows only one gear and wasn't a factor after the catch on tape
- Can slide to protect the corner but will be jolted at contact
- Battled several injuries over his high school and college careers: broken left foot during offseason workouts (July 2022), which required surgery to repair fifth metatarsal and kept him out for first five games of 2022 season; torn MCL and partially torn ACL in left knee (Oct. 2023), which forced him to miss final four games; missed one game as junior because of a concussion (Sept. 2023)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Notre Dame, Evans was a versatile tight end in offensive coordinator Mike Denbrock's zone-based, run-heavy scheme, splitting his snaps between the slot (47.2 percent) and inline (42.1 percent) over his career. Despite multiple injuries that kept him from becoming a more productive weapon, he proved to be a dependable option whom the quarterback could lean on when needed.

Though not particularly explosive or fluid as a route runner, Evans quickly attacks open voids and has passer-friendly ball skills to consistently win through contact or come down with difficult grabs. He often went quiet in the red zone, which needs to change in the NFL (only five of his 77 career catches came inside the opponent's 20-yard line). He might not be a technician as a blocker, but he is competitive at the point of attack. Overall, Evans might not be special in any one area, but he has a well-rounded game with the tools to be a solid secondary option in an NFL passing offense. As long as he stays healthy, he can earn his way onto the field in "12" personnel packages.

GRADE: 4th round

TE10 Jake Briningstool

Clemson, 4SR

HOMETOWN Brentwood, TN	HIGH SCHOOL Ravenwood	BIRTHDAY Dec 09, 2002	AGE 22.37	HT 6055	WT 241	NUM #9
---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Jacob "Jake" Briningstool, who has an older brother (Mitch) and younger sister (Julia), grew up in East Lansing, Mich., with his parents (Tony and Tricia), who both attended Michigan State. Tony, a board-certified emergency medicine physician, played linebacker for the Spartans (1987-92). Jake grew up playing multiple sports, including baseball, basketball and football, and he attended several Michigan State youth camps. He often played with his older brother, with whom he shares a special bond. At age 2, Mitch was diagnosed with juvenile arthritis. When Jake was 9, his family moved to the Nashville area, where he attended Clarksville Academy for middle school.

Briningstool started his prep career at Clarksville Academy, a smaller private school. As a freshman, he played both ways as a wide receiver and linebacker and was teammates with his older brother, who was a senior. Before his sophomore year, Briningstool transferred to Ravenwood High, a larger public school known for its football program, and was teammates with offensive lineman Graham Barton and linebacker Junior Colson, both future NFL draft picks. As a junior tight end, Briningstool earned all-region honors (49 catches for 863 yards and nine touchdowns) and led Ravenwood to a 13-2 record, including a runner-up finish in the 6A state championship. As a senior, he caught 39 passes for 774 yards and 12 touchdowns, adding 38 tackles, 11 tackles for loss, seven sacks and one forced fumble. Briningstool was named 2020 co-MVP in the region and was a finalist for Tennessee's Mr. Football. He finished his prep career with 111 catches for 1,955 yards and 22 touchdown receptions.

A four-star recruit, Briningstool was the top-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Tennessee (one spot ahead of Colson). He received his first scholarship offer from then-FCS Jacksonville State in June 2018, followed by his first FBS offer from Michigan State in April 2019. Soon after, several other high-profile schools reached out with offers, including Alabama, Georgia, Michigan, Oregon and Tennessee. As a Michigan State legacy (his parents and grandparents attended the school, and his younger sister is currently a student there), Briningstool was drawn to the Spartans, but with their coaching staff in flux, he looked elsewhere. He took visits to Alabama and Ohio State, among other schools, but connected with the coaching staff at Clemson and committed in January 2020. Briningstool was the sixth-ranked recruit in head coach Dabo Swinney's 2021 class, one spot behind cornerback Nate Wiggins. He was a two-time Academic All-ACC and graduated with a degree in sociology (Dec. 2024). Briningstool accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (8/0)	3	67	22.33	1	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (14/1)	25	285	11.40	4	1
2023: (13/12)	50	498	9.96	5	2	Third Team All-ACC; Clemson single-game TE receiving yards record (126)
2024: (13/13)	49	530	10.82	7	4	Third Team All-ACC; team captain; missed one game (injury)
Total: (48/26)	127	1,380	10.87	17	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6055	241	8 5/8	31 1/2	77 5/8	4.75	2.77	1.66	31	9' 7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6055	240	8 7/8	31 3/4	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Above-average athlete for the position with seam speed to attack vertically
- Efficient in releases to quickly enter routes
- Eats up ground as a route runner but also throttles down quickly to break off the top of stem
- Plays the ball well in the air with quick reflexes to adjust mid-flight and contort reach
- Strong hands — one-handed grabs appear routine
- Willing to mix things up; physicality as a blocker improved each season
- Aggressive lead blocker on counters and leads, where he can build up momentum
- Durable — missed only one game over the past three seasons
- Voted a 2024 team captain

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean build and needs to continue adding mass and strength
- Can do better job using his hips, eyes and strides get open, especially in intermediate game
- Expected more of him after the catch — isn't much of a tackle-breaking threat
- Needs to do more to avoid contact mid-route
- Maintains focus in traffic but can be outmuscled by more aggressive defenders
- Works hard at blocking technique but not a true drive blocker in the run game
- Can be uprooted and outleveraged as a blocker
- Missed one game because of injury (Nov. 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Clemson, Briningstool was a hybrid tight end in offensive coordinator Garrett Riley's up-tempo scheme (59.3 percent of his snaps from the slot, 33.6 percent inline). He combined for 99 catches over two seasons as a starter and left Clemson as the program's all-time leader for catches by a tight end (127), breaking the mark set by Jordan Leggett.

With his stride and burst to eat up ground quickly, Briningstool is an athletic route runner, and he has the tracking and ball skills to work the seam or present a large target in the red zone. He needs to continue improving his play strength as a blocker, but he is effective on the move in split zones or wham opportunities, on which he can build momentum and finish. Overall, Briningstool is a tall, lean athlete who understands how to maximize his catch radius and offers enough competitiveness as a blocker to fight for playing time once on an NFL roster. He projects as an "F" tight end, similar to Josh Whyle.

GRADE: 5th round

TE11 Moliki Matavao

UCLA, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Henderson, NV	Liberty	Mar 17, 2003	22.10	6055	260	#88

BACKGROUND: Moliki (Mo-lee-key) "Mo" Matavao (Mah-tah-vow), the oldest of five children (three boys, two girls), was born and raised in the Las Vegas area with his parents (Newel and Leslie). His father, a high school assistant principal, was an offensive tackle at Ricks College (now BYU-Idaho) and Division II Northern State, then had a short stint with the Baltimore Ravens after going undrafted in 2002. Several of Moliki Matavao's extended family members also played college football, including an uncle who played at Arizona and another uncle who played left tackle at Florida International (2008-09). His younger sister (Ali'a) was back-to-back Nevada Gatorade Player of the Year (2022-23) at Liberty High as a four-sport athlete. She signed with BYU to play college basketball (2023-24) before transferring to Loyola Marymount for the 2024-25 season.

Moliki Matavao grew up in a football family, but he started out playing soccer, baseball and later fell in love with basketball. Football was the last sport he tried in elementary school, but he decided it was the most fun. He was primarily a quarterback and played that position until freshman year of high school, when he transitioned to tight end.

Matavao started his prep career at Centennial High in Las Vegas and played on varsity as a freshman. Before his sophomore year, he transferred to Liberty High in nearby Henderson, which had a larger football program and was where his father worked. Matavao, who was teammates with offensive lineman Troy Fautanu in 2018, hoped to play quarterback at his new school but was blocked on the depth chart. Rather than play JV, he moved to tight end full-time at his coaches' suggestion and claimed a starting spot on varsity. Matavao almost instantly became a sought-after recruit, recording 18 catches for 327 yards and five touchdowns as a sophomore. Liberty limped to an 0-5 start in 2019 (including a loss to Centennial), but Matavao then helped the program rattled off 10 straight wins, including a quarterfinal playoff overtime victory over national power Bishop Gorman. Matavao finished his junior year with 47 receptions for 718 receiving yards and five touchdowns, including 123 receiving yards and a touchdown grab against his old school in the 2019 4A state championship game. He earned first-team all-state honors. Despite not playing as a senior because of the COVID-19 pandemic, he was selected to play in the 2021 All-American Bowl. Matavao was also a standout basketball player at Liberty.

A four-star recruit, Matavao was the fifth-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Nevada. Soon after he made the transition to tight end as a sophomore, he picked up his first offer from Nevada (Oct. 2018). The recruiting floodgates burst open following his sophomore season, as he collected more than 30 FBS offers before the start of his junior year, including from national powers such as Alabama, LSU, Michigan, Ohio State and Texas. After his junior season, Matavao announced a final four of Georgia, Oregon, Penn State and UCLA. He officially committed to the Ducks and was the eighth-ranked recruit in former head coach Mario Cristobal's final class in Eugene (same class as tight end Terrance Ferguson).

After two seasons at Oregon, Matavao entered the transfer portal and committed to UCLA. He graduated with a degree from UCLA (June 2024). Matavao accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (14/2)	9	75	8.33	1	0	Oregon; enrolled February 2021
2022: (12/6)	10	134	13.40	1	1	Oregon
2023: (13/6)	14	283	20.21	2	2	UCLA; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2024: (11/8)	41	506	12.34	2	1	UCLA; led team in receiving; missed one game (injury)
Total: (50/22)	74	998	13.49	6	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6055	260	9 1/2	32 1/2	78 7/8	4.81	2.84	1.70	32 1/2	9' 6"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6055	261	9 5/8	32 1/2	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Outstanding size with strong bone structure and proportionate bulk
- Good sink in his release to quickly enter and set up routes (he loves a good sail route)
- Cleanly squares off 90-degree route turns
- Basketball background, and that hand-eye coordination translates to the catch point
- Quick to return his eyes to the pocket when he keys blitz, giving his quarterback somewhere to go
- Not a pushover with the ball — would-be tacklers will fall off him
- Loves to be aggressive as a receiver, blocker and ball carrier
- Strong base as a run blocker and consistently strains to drive/finish

WEAKNESSES:

- Didn't put seam-stretching speed on college tape
- Exposes his chest at times at the line and needs to improve hand technique against early jams
- Little bit of a windup with his hands before engaging as a blocker
- Needs to better shift his weight to stay centered and avoid getting jolted by defensive ends
- Inconsistent adjusting to moving targets
- Only one season of adequate receiving production, including just six career touchdown catches

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at UCLA, Matavao was a flex tight end in former offensive coordinator Eric Bieniemy's balanced scheme (37.2 percent of his snaps in the slot, 32.3 percent inline, 30.5 percent wide). A former top recruit at Oregon, he transferred to UCLA as a junior, and his production steadily increased as a senior (71 percent of his receiving yards in 2024 came over the final five games).

Using size as a tight end is an underrated skill, and Matavao does this very well, especially at the catch point, using body quickness and natural hands to frame the football. He has the size to match up as a blocker, although he needs technique work with his hands and posture for a more sustained finish. Overall, Matavao won't wow with long speed, but he offers more as a pass catcher than his college stat line suggests and shows promise as a blocker. He can secure an NFL roster spot as a backup and work his way up from there.

GRADE: 5th round

TE12 CJ Dippre

Alabama, 4SR

HOMETOWN Scranton, PA	HIGH SCHOOL Lakeland	BIRTHDAY Apr 29, 2002	AGE 22.99	HT 6047	WT 256	NUM #81
--------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Christopher "CJ" Dippre Jr. (dih-PREE), who has an older sister (Cheyenne) and younger brother (Lacota), grew up in eastern Pennsylvania with his parents (Chris and Julie). His father played linebacker at Lackawanna College (1994-95) and UConn (1996-97), then became a competitive powerlifter. He placed sixth at the 2000 national championships and finished his professional career with a personal-best squat of 843 pounds, bench press of 479 and deadlift of 716. CJ Dippre's younger brother was a redshirt freshman defensive end at Charlotte in 2024. Dippre played multiple sports throughout childhood, including basketball and football. He played quarterback in junior football in the Scranton area.

Dippre enrolled at Lakeland High in Jermyn, Pa., where he was a four-year varsity starter at quarterback and defensive end. He led the team to a nine-win season and the 2018 conference title, with 1,382 passing yards and 18 total touchdowns (12 passing, six rushing). As a senior, Dippre helped Lakeland to a 5-1 record and the 2020 district title (first for the program since 2006) in a season abbreviated by the COVID-19 pandemic. He also saw action at tight end as a senior, catching 16 passes for 212 yards and two touchdowns. On defense, Dippre earned all-region honors three straight seasons and finished his career with 124 tackles, 40 tackles for loss, 12 sacks, four forced fumbles and two interceptions. He also lettered in basketball and track, placing third in the discus at the state championships as a freshman and sophomore (his junior season was canceled because of the pandemic, and he didn't participate as a senior because he graduated early). Dippre set the school record in the discus (171 feet, 7 inches) and had personal bests of 166-0 in the javelin, 51-7 in the shot put and 7.13 seconds in the 55-meter dash.

A three-star recruit, Dippre was the 45th-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 24 recruit in Pennsylvania. After his sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer from Bowling Green (May 2019). Dippre received recruiting interest as a quarterback, defensive end and tight end, and Penn State even looked at him as a potential convert to offensive tackle. He narrowed his top seven to Boston College, Kentucky, Maryland, Pittsburgh, Rutgers, Syracuse and Virginia. He committed to the Terrapins (as a tight end) in May 2020 and was the 10th-ranked recruit in head coach Mike Locksley's 2021 class.

During Dippre's freshman season, senior Chig Okonkwo took him under his wing and helped his transition to tight end. After two seasons at Maryland, Dippre entered the transfer portal in December 2022. He received several ACC, Big Ten and SEC offers before narrowing down his choice to Alabama or Ohio State (his childhood team). Dippre committed to the Crimson Tide for his final two seasons of eligibility. He graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024) and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (13/1)	3	25	8.33	0	0	Maryland; first start came in bowl game; enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/12)	30	314	10.47	3	1	Maryland; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2023: (14/11)	11	187	17.00	0	2	Alabama; enrolled January 2023
2024: (13/13)	21	256	12.19	0	2	Alabama
Total: (52/37)	65	782	12.03	3	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6047	256	9 5/8	32	79 3/4	4.69	2.77	1.65	34 1/2	10' 0"	DNP	DNP	32	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6047	255	9 5/8	31 7/8	80 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.58	7.27	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with adequate speed
- Fits up his blocks with strong body positioning
- Generates pop into initial contact with firm hands
- Able to cave in down blocks to clear running room behind the tackle
- Feel for finding soft spots improved throughout the season
- Small sample, but caught the ball well with defenders crowding his air space (see 2024 Vanderbilt tape)
- Has run balance to break initial tackle
- Grew up with a powerlifting father and developed a passion for weight training in high school (wants to be a strength and conditioning coach after his playing days)
- Repped 225 pounds on the bench press 32 times at the combine (fifth most by a tight end since 2000)
- Played on kick return and punt coverages all four years (529 career special teams snaps)

WEAKNESSES:

- Late and stiff when adjusting to throws outside his frame
- Doesn't explode off the ball or at the top of routes
- Wasn't a vertical seam threat in 2024 (zero catches on one target of 20 yards or more)
- Can be slowed early and late, and his route speed won't strike fear
- Non-factor in the red zone at Alabama (zero catches inside the opponent's 20-yard line in 2023-24)
- Late to move his feet and react to inside moves on pass-pro reps
- Would like to see more finishing passion in his run blocking

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Alabama, Dippre was a Y tight end in head coach Kalen DeBoer's run-heavy, RPO-based scheme (48.4 percent of snaps inline, 29.8 percent in the slot, 17.7 percent wide in 2024). After two seasons at Maryland, he transferred to Alabama, where he was used primarily as a blocker in the Tide's base offense (averaged 38.2 offensive snaps per game).

Comfortable with his hand on the ground, Dippre has a developed feel for blocking landmarks and can create momentum to execute lead/down blocks (zero penalties in 2024). He isn't a zero as a pass catcher and has more talent than his stat line suggests (zero touchdown catches at Alabama), but he needs to be more consistent snapping breaks and finishing catches that require quick adjustments. Overall, Dippre doesn't have a true distinguishing trait as a blocker or receiver, but he is good enough in both areas to have a fighting chance at a roster spot. His special teams experience will be an asset in camp.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Council Bluffs, IA	Lewis Central	Sep 20, 2002	22.59	6050	243	#24

BACKGROUND: Thomas Fidone II was born and raised in Omaha, Neb., with his father (Thomas Jay "T.J.") and mother (Jennifer Ernste), as well as his stepmother (Elizabeth Simon). His father, a high school wrestler, was a defensive end at Air Force before playing semi-professional arena football. His uncle (Sal), a "second father" and role model for Thomas, died in January 2017 after being struck by a car while doing road repairs as part of his job with Omaha Public Works.

Raised in a large Italian family of diehard Nebraska fans, Fidone grew up wearing Huskers red and playing football (plus riding dirt bikes and playing other sports). He started playing organized football at age 6 and continued playing through Pop Warner and middle school. As a hobby, Fidone is a tattoo artist — he has inked several tattoos on his father and teammates.

Fidone attended Lewis Central High, across the state line in Council Bluffs, Iowa (less than five miles from Omaha). Over his first two high school seasons, he caught passes from quarterback Max Duggan, who later led TCU to the national championship game and then was selected in the seventh round of the 2023 NFL Draft. As a sophomore, Fidone posted 311 receiving yards and three touchdown grabs, as Lewis Central captured the 2018 district championship. As a junior, he caught 39 passes for 576 yards and seven touchdowns, helping Lewis Central to the semifinals of the 2019 3A state playoffs. Fidone, who added 40 pounds between his junior and senior seasons, was named a first-team All-American in 2020. He posted 43 receptions for 845 yards (19.7 average) and 10 touchdowns in 10 games, including a program single-game record 244 receiving yards in the opener. He competed for the Warren Academy 7-on-7 football team. Fidone, the school's homecoming king as a senior, was also a standout basketball player (registered 27 dunks during his junior season) and track athlete (jumps and hurdles). As a sophomore, he finished seventh in the high jump at the state championship (6 feet, 3 inches).

A four-star recruit, Fidone was the second-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Iowa. A lanky wide receiver as a high school sophomore, he was widely unknown on the recruiting trail, but his play in 7-on-7 football helped put him on the map before his junior season. Fidone impressed at summer camps and received his first offer from in-state Iowa (July 2019), followed by offers from Iowa State and Nebraska. LSU and Michigan each offered him a scholarship during his junior season, then his recruitment skyrocketed after his performance at the National Combine. Fidone added offers from Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Miami, Notre Dame, Penn State, Texas, USC and others. In the end, his Nebraska roots — and the connection he'd developed with former head coach Scott Frost — led him to Lincoln. Fidone was the top-ranked recruit in the Huskers' 2021 class. He earned Academic All-Big Ten honors three straight years (2022-24). After four seasons, he elected to skip his redshirt senior season and enter the NFL Draft. Fidone accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (1/0)	0	0		0	0	Redshirted; missed almost entire season (ACL); enrolled January 2021
2022: (-/-)						Missed season because of injury (ACL)
2023: (12/8)	25	260	10.40	4	3
2024: (13/9)	36	373	10.36	0	1
Total: (26/17)	61	633	10.38	4	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6050	243	10 5/8	34	82 5/8	4.70	2.74	1.61	35 1/2	10' 6"	4.29	7.01	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6056	245	10 5/8	34 1/4	83	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	17

STRENGTHS:

- Runs routes with the acceleration of a big wide receiver
- Releases cleanly and doesn't lose momentum in and out of breaks
- Adequate foot speed to stretch the seam
- Uses long arms to cast a wide net and pull in catches
- Comfortable working over the middle and taking a hit (see 2024 Indiana tape)
- Persistent effort as a move blocker
- Competitive at the point of attack and attempts to run his feet
- Played in all 25 games the past two years after injuries robbed him of his first two college seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't sport ideal bulk/girth on his frame
- Lacks the base strength or core power to battle NFL defensive ends
- Too upright as a blocker and route runner
- Average separation skills, because of his straight-linish tendencies
- Wasn't enough of a factor after the catch
- Just 41.7 percent of his catches in 2024 resulted in a first down or touchdown

- Non-contact torn ACL in his left knee during spring practices (April 2021), which sidelined him for his first season in Nebraska's program (played three snaps); tore ACL in his left knee again the following spring (March 2022) and missed a second straight season
- Below-average career production

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Nebraska, Fidone was a Y tight end in former offensive coordinator Marcus Satterfield's pro-style spread (61.5 percent of snaps inline, 35.1 percent in the slot). Highly recruited out of high school (ranked one spot ahead of Brock Bowers in the 2021 tight end recruiting class), his career was sidetracked by two major knee injuries, although he returned to the field and flashed that high-level ability.

Fidone is at his best on a linear plane, where he can get down the seam and utilize maximum extension with his arm length to pull in throws away from his body. He is cognizant of his hands and positioning as a blocker, but he is more of a "lose slowly" player than an overwhelming force. Overall, Fidone is a plucky athlete with appealing length and speed, but he hasn't yet played his best football and will need to develop quickly once in an NFL camp to earn a role. He didn't play much special teams in college, which will need to change at the next level.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

TE14 Jackson Hawes

Georgia Tech, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Salt Lake City, UT	Highland	Dec 06, 2000	24.38	6044	253	#85

BACKGROUND: Jackson Hawes, the oldest of four children (two boys, two girls), grew up in the Salt Lake City area with his parents (Justin and Lucy). He played multiple sports as a child, including basketball, football, skiing and different water sports.

Hawes enrolled at Highland High in Salt Lake City, a program that produced defensive lineman Haloti Ngata. Hawes was a four-year varsity letterman, although he played mostly on special teams and as a backup during his freshman and sophomore seasons. As a junior captain, he became a starter at wide receiver and outside linebacker/defensive end and earned second-team all-region honors (22 tackles, 13 tackles for loss and five sacks). As a senior captain, Hawes helped Highland to an 8-3 finish and posted 29 tackles, 10 tackles for loss and four sacks, adding 11 receptions for 227 yards and three touchdowns. He earned first-team all-region and second-team all-state honors. He also lettered all four years in basketball at Highland, earning second-team all-region honors.

A three-star recruit, Hawes was the 149th-ranked outside linebacker in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 28 recruit in Utah. Before his senior season, he picked up offers from Air Force, Southern Utah and Utah State, but an Ivy League offer from Yale most interested him. Hawes was more of a defensive player in high school, but he signed with Yale as a tight end.

After five years with the program, he graduated with a degree in economics and entered the transfer portal after the 2023 season. Hawes received interest from Florida and South Carolina before committing to Georgia Tech, both because of the school's academic reputation and the path to playing time he had for his final season. Hawes accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2019: (-/-)						Yale; enrolled January 2019
2020: (-/-)						Yale; Ivy League fall sports canceled because of pandemic
2021: (10/0)	13	135	10.38	1	1	Yale
2022: (10/10)	13	139	10.69	4	3	Yale
2023: (9/9)	9	97	10.78	1	1	Yale
2024: (12/10)	16	195	12.19	0	2	Georgia Tech; enrolled January 2024
Total: (41/29)	51	566	11.10	6	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6044	253	9 1/8	32 1/8	79	4.82	2.79	1.67	34 1/2	10' 1"	4.40	DNP	16	No three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6042	248	8 7/8	32 5/8	78 3/4	4.94	2.86	1.64	DNP	DNP	4.70	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with developed muscle on his frame
- Squares up well as a blocker and keeps his hands inside to stay attached
- Above-average balance to turn out edge defenders on front-side zone
- Works well laterally on outside zone to maintain body positioning
- Physical and persistent on down/scoop blocks
- Finishes with an intense demeanor (almost double-digit knockdowns on the 2024 Florida State tape)
- Breaks down well on the move to roll his hips into contact
- Above-average catch radius

WEAKNESSES:

- Poor receiving production and undeveloped as a route runner
- Inefficient footwork in releases and at the top of the route, leading to wasted movements
- A tad stiff when adjusting to throws or redirecting out of breaks
- Unproven pass catcher in high-traffic situations (zero catches on two contested targets in 2024)
- Wasn't used as a red zone threat on tape (zero catches inside the opponent's 10-yard line in 2024)
- Drops his eyes at times in pass protection, losing sight of his target
- Will turn 25 during his rookie season

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Georgia Tech, Hawes was an inline tight end in offensive coordinator Buster Faulkner's run-heavy scheme (65.0 percent of snaps inline, 28.3 percent in the slot). He spent five years at Yale and picked up an Ivy League degree before spending his final college season with the Yellow Jackets in 2024. His performance at Georgia Tech earned him draftable grades from NFL teams. As a pass catcher, Hawes tracks and catches the ball well, but he wasn't a high-volume target in college — that is reflected in his inefficient route running and choppy attempts to separate at the stem. Where he shines is as a versatile, throwback blocker who can dig out defenders and stay between his target and the football. Overall, Hawes is a one-speed athlete and has a low ceiling as a passing target, but his functional athleticism, technical approach and competitive attitude should be enough to keep him on an NFL roster. He is a classic Y tight end prospect.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

TE15 Jalin Conyers

Texas Tech, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Gruver, TX	Gruver	Jul 26, 2001	23.75	6034	260	#12

BACKGROUND: Jalin Conyers, the oldest of five children, grew up in Stinnett, a small town in the Texas panhandle, with his mother (Kimberly) and stepdad (Cory) — he refers to his mother as his "hero." Conyers grew up playing multiple sports, but his go-to was basketball, and he had dreams of making it to the NBA (his mother played college basketball). Conyers also played football throughout childhood, and it eventually became his favorite sport.

Conyers enrolled at West Texas High in Sinnett, where he saw starting varsity reps at quarterback as a freshman. As a sophomore, he became the full-time starter and led West Texas to an 8-3 finish and a spot in the 2017 Class 2A state playoffs. Before his junior year, his mother accepted a job at Gruver High, an even smaller school north of Sinnett (he graduated with approximately 20 students in his class). Gruver had a quarterback in place, so Conyers moved to wide receiver for his junior season and helped the team to a 14-2 record and the 2018 Class 2A Division II state championship game. He set title-game records with 12 catches for 224 yards and three touchdowns. He finished his junior season with 37 receptions for 690 yards and 10 touchdowns, and he also played safety, earning all-district honors on both sides of the ball. As a senior, he earned first-team all-state honors (61 catches for 1,225 yards and 19 touchdowns).

On the basketball court, Conyers averaged 21 points and 10 rebounds as a sophomore, leading West Texas to the 2017-18 state title. He posted 20.5 points and 11.7 rebounds per game as a senior and helped the team to back-to-back state title game appearances. Conyers, who also participated in school theater, lettered in baseball, golf and track. He set personal bests of 45 feet, 1 inch in the triple jump, 20-7 in the long jump and 24.14 seconds in the 200 meters.

A four-star recruit, Conyers was the fifth-ranked tight end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 28 recruit in Texas. He always dreamed of playing college basketball but started to shift his focus to football as a junior, during his Gruver's state title pursuit. Two months after the season, in February 2019, Conyers picked up a football offer from Texas Tech — the school he and his family rooted for back home. Over the next few months, he added scholarship offers from major programs such as Arizona State, LSU, Michigan, Oregon, Penn State and Texas A&M. The summer before his senior season, Conyers narrowed his final three to Georgia, Ohio State and Oklahoma and committed to the Sooners as a senior. He was the third-ranked recruit in former head coach Lincoln Riley's 2020 class (one spot ahead of wide receiver Marvin Mims Jr.). After redshirting his first season in Norman, Conyers entered the transfer portal. He heard from several schools that wanted him to switch back to basketball, but he stuck with football and committed to Arizona State.

After playing three seasons for the Sun Devils, including catching passes from QB Jayden Daniels, Conyers graduated with a degree in liberal studies (May 2023) and looked to play closer to home in his final season. He transferred to Texas Tech in December 2023. Conyers accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (0/0)	0	0		0	0	Oklahoma; enrolled August 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/1)	6	62	10.33	1	1	Arizona State
2022: (12/1)	38	422	11.11	5	2	Arizona State
2023: (11/5)	30	362	12.07	0	2	Arizona State
2024: (13/3)	30	320	10.67	5	2	Texas Tech; Second Team All-Big 12; 3-yard rush TD; 2-yard rush TD; 20-yard TD pass
Total: (47/10)	104	1,166	11.21	11	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6034	260	9 7/8	33 1/4	80 7/8	4.74	2.76	1.65	35 1/2	10' 1"	4.27	6.94	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6033	261	9 3/4	33 1/4	80	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Impressive athlete for his size (outstanding tester at the combine)
- Outstanding short-area quickness and balance for easy direction changes
- Versatile route tree to make plays at all three levels
- Displays coordination to position himself, elevate and adjust to catch the ball away from the defender
- Works with bodies around him — wins 50-50 balls with timing and toughness
- Can body sell and burst off his plant foot at top of the route
- Finishes with physicality and play strength as a ball carrier
- Rangy blocker to hook linebackers or cover up safeties on the move
- Effective as a wildcat option; scored three different ways in 2024; had five catches, two carries and a TD pass on the Baylor tape

WEAKNESSES:

- Speed is more build-up than immediate
- Fluid in and out of breaks but would benefit from better throttle and control in route construction
- Drops are usually a result of trying to trap/clap the football
- Inconsistent in the open field — was hoping to see more run-after-catch work on his tape
- Has juice to make tacklers miss, but his setup is disjointed
- Solid pop as a blocker but inconsistent sustain
- Inconsistent technique hinders his ability to move bodies or anchor
- Average production; never reached 500 receiving yards in a season

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas Tech, Conyers was a hybrid tight end in former offensive coordinator Zach Kittley's version of the Air Raid (55.9 percent of snaps in the slot, 34.6 percent inline/wing, 7.1 percent wide). A Red Raiders fan growing up in West Texas, he made stops at Oklahoma and Arizona State before finding his way to Lubbock for his fifth season — he finished second on the team in touchdowns in 2024.

Conyers has a basketball background, which shows in the quick-footed movements in his lower body and the flexibility in his upper half to easily adjust at the catch point. He isn't polished as a route runner or blocker, but he can sink, and there is plenty of room for maturation in both areas.

Overall, Conyers has NFL athleticism and talent. Whether or not he can fine-tune the details will determine his chance of carving out a long-term role as a No. 2 TE option. He has the versatility to be flexed around the field as a steady blocker and target.

GRADE: 6th round

TE16 Gavin Bartholomew

Pittsburgh, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Schuylkill Haven, PA	Blue Mountain	Apr 30, 2003	21.98	6045	246	#86

BACKGROUND: Gavin Bartholomew, who has a younger sister (Jaedyn), grew up in central Pennsylvania with his parents (Eric and Diane). Following in his father's footsteps, he started playing football in third grade and lined up at multiple different positions, from quarterback to linebacker, throughout Pop Warner. Baseball was "probably" his best sport growing up — he pitched multiple no-hitters and shutouts in Little League. In 2015, Bartholomew helped lead his Cressona team (11- and 12-year-old division) to the district 24 Little League championship.

Bartholomew enrolled at Blue Mountain High in Schuylkill County, where he played on both sides of the ball. The coaches started him out at quarterback as a freshman, but he found his path to varsity playing defensive end as a sophomore — he started at that position the next three seasons. He also moved to tight end as a sophomore, then became the starter as a junior and led the team in receiving with 27 catches for 527 yards and five touchdowns, helping Blue Mountain to the 2019 state playoffs. As a senior captain, he started out at tight end and posted six catches for 131 yards and two touchdowns before the coaches moved him to quarterback for the second half of the season. They would have made that change sooner but wanted to respect that college recruiters were coming to games to see Bartholomew play tight end. Back at QB, Bartholomew completed 36 of 66 passes for 521 yards and four touchdowns, adding 145 rushing yards, three rushing touchdowns and an interception return for a touchdown on defense. He was suspended one game as a senior because of a postgame incident. Bartholomew also lettered in track at Blue Mountain and played baseball before giving up the sport to focus on football.

A three-star recruit, Bartholomew was the 68th-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 32 recruit in Pennsylvania (some schools recruited him as a potential left tackle). After his breakout junior season, his recruitment started to take off, including his first Division I offer from FCS William & Mary. In the spring of 2020, Bartholomew received his first FBS offers (Army and Bowling Green) and several more FCS offers (Delaware, Elon, Fordham, Furman, Lafayette, Maine, New Hampshire and Villanova). He was leaning toward Villanova until he took a visit to Buffalo and picked up an offer from former offensive coordinator Andy Kotelnicki (now at Penn State). Bartholomew committed to Buffalo the summer before his senior year, but Pittsburgh entered the mix in the fall of 2020 and offered him a chance to play major college football. He flipped to Pittsburgh in November 2020 and was the 15th-ranked recruit in head coach Pat Narduzzi's 2021 class. Ahead of the 2024 season, Bartholomew was offered substantial money to enter the transfer portal, but he took a hometown NIL discount to stay at Pitt. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (14/8)	28	326	11.64	4	0	Freshman All-American; Honorable Mention All-ACC; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/10)	21	283	13.48	2	2
2023: (10/10)	18	326	18.11	1	2	Missed final two games (left ankle)
2024: (13/13)	38	322	8.47	4	3	Team captain
Total: (50/41)	105	1,257	11.97	11	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	246	9 7/8	31 3/8	78 3/8	4.70	2.76	1.64	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6046	249	9 3/4	32	79 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	36 1/2	10'2"	4.30	7.00	16

STRENGTHS:

- Tall target with room to get stronger
- Efficient releases to avoid early contact
- Smooth linear acceleration with subtle body movements as a route runner
- Tracks the football well mid-route and has the focus to win contested windows
- Loves to stiff-arm defenders post-catch
- Functional lead blocker who gives effort through the whistle
- Stays low into engagement, creating upward strikes to neutralize at point of attack
- Team captain and positive influence in the program
- A regular on punt coverages in 2024 (one tackle)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lighter than ideal with disproportionately short arms
- More quick than explosive in short areas
- Doesn't play with harmony between his feet and hips to sink and break off routes
- Yards per catch dropped by nearly 10 from his junior (18.1) to senior (8.5) seasons
- Needs to better use his frame to shield defenders from the ball
- Doesn't have ideal anchor for pass-pro duties
- Body control breaks down as a run blocker
- Missed final two games of his junior season because of a high left ankle sprain (Nov. 2023)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Pittsburgh, Bartholomew was a wing/slot tight end in offensive coordinator Kade Bell's scheme. With Kenny Pickett at his quarterback in 2021, he put himself on the NFL radar as a freshman, although he struggled to build on that early success over the past three years (never reached 350 receiving yards in a season).

Bartholomew plays with promising speed and toughness over the middle and can chew up yards versus zone, but he lacks the explosive traits to effortlessly separate from man coverage. His blocking improved incrementally each season, turning from a glaring weakness to a serviceable piece of his game — a reflection of his hard work and tenacious attitude. Overall, Bartholomew needs to continue getting stronger and sharpening his routes to find a permanent home in the NFL, but he has better pass-catching traits than his stat line would suggest. His intangibles will make it tough for a coaching staff to cut him.

GRADE: 6th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Dalzell, SC	Crestwood	Nov 27, 2000	24.41	6041	239	#6

BACKGROUND: Joshua Simon was born and raised in South Carolina with his parents. He started playing football after moving to Sumter at age 7, first simply as something to do over the summer before the sport grew to be his favorite activity. His father (Chris), who served in the military, also got him involved in baseball, basketball and track, as well as hunting, fishing and riding four-wheelers (Simon describes himself as a "country boy").

Simon enrolled at Crestwood High in Sumter County and saw varsity snaps as a freshman wide receiver and wildcat quarterback. He posted 25 receptions for 536 yards (21.4 average) and seven touchdowns as a sophomore, helping his team to the 2016 4A state playoffs. As a junior, Simon also saw snaps on defense and led Crestwood to nine wins. He earned an invitation to the North-South All-Star game as a senior, with 34 catches for 932 yards and eight touchdowns. Simon also played baseball as a freshman before focusing on football.

A three-star recruit, Simon was the 298th-ranked wide receiver in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 51 recruit in South Carolina. While growing up near Columbia, S.C., he always had his eyes on South Carolina, but an offer from the program never arrived. Simon entered his senior season with offers from Charlotte, Old Dominion and Wake Forest. He added one from Western Kentucky and committed to the Hilltoppers. Simon was the 15th-ranked recruit in Tyson Helton's first class as head coach, and he moved to tight end once he arrived. After producing in his first two seasons, Simon was poised for his best season in 2021 with Bailey Zappe at quarterback, but he suffered a season-ending knee injury in the opener.

He graduated Western Kentucky with a degree in sport management, then entered the transfer portal following the 2023 season and finally received that offer from the Gamecocks. Simon took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his sixth college season. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2019: (13/6)	30	430	14.33	4	5	Western Kentucky; Freshman All-American; Honorable Mention All-CUSA; CUSA All-Freshman
2020: (12/12)	33	370	11.21	3	6	Western Kentucky; Honorable Mention All-CUSA; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (1/1)	3	73	24.33	2	0	Western Kentucky; redshirted; missed final 13 games (knee)
2022: (14/6)	20	273	13.65	7	3	Western Kentucky; Second Team All-CUSA; 2-point conversion catch
2023: (12/4)	28	256	9.14	2	0	South Carolina
2024: (12/11)	40	519	12.97	7	2	South Carolina; led team in receiving; missed one game (injury)
Total: (64/40)	154	1,921	12.47	25	16

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6041	239	10 1/8	33 7/8	83	4.65	2.72	1.62	38	10' 4"	4.40	7.22	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6041	247	10 1/4	33 7/8	83 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Decent-sized athlete with long arms to match
- Pushes off the line and creates quick catching windows
- Gliding straight-line speed and tracks the ball well in stride
- Only two drops on 90 targets during his two seasons at South Carolina
- Strong pluck-and-tuck skills; uses his length to turn incompletions into catches
- Motors like a bull and looks unfazed running through arm tackles
- Caught a touchdown every 6.2 receptions
- Shows promise in pass pro (aside from a whiff on the 2024 Kentucky tape)
- Able to create movement in the run game when he stays low and drives his legs

WEAKNESSES:

- Frame appears near maxed out, and he can be overmatched by size at the point of attack
- Not a technician as a run blocker, especially when working inline
- Needs more reliable life in his feet once engaged, to be a better finisher
- Clunky feet in his stop-start route redirection
- Didn't put many vertical-seam routes on tape
- Fumbled five times over the past three seasons (three fumbles in 2024)
- Season-ending knee injury in the 2021 season opener
- Didn't play on special teams in 2024
- Will turn 25 during his rookie season

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at South Carolina, Simon was a wing/slot tight end in former offensive coordinator Dowell Loggains' zone-based run scheme (heavy pre-snap motions with the tight end). He put himself on the NFL radar with his production at Western Kentucky (school record for touchdowns by a tight end) before his 2021 knee injury sidetracked things. He got back on track with the Gamecocks and set career bests in 2024, becoming the first tight end in school history to lead the team in catches, receiving yards and touchdowns in a single season.

With 87 percent of his catches in a South Carolina uniform coming within 10 yards of the line of scrimmage, Simon wasn't asked to stretch the seam. He did show his speed on drags/crossers designed to stretch out his stride and break tackles (No. 9 among FBS tight ends in yardage after the catch in 2024). As a blocker, he will get his nose dirty but needs improved technique to help compensate for his average size. Overall, Simon has explosive elements to his profile, along with the ball skills and toughness that will serve him well in an NFL tight end room. He projects as a reserve F tight end.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

TE18 Luke Lachey

Iowa, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Columbus, OH	Grandview	Jun 29, 2001	23.82	6056	250	#85

BACKGROUND: Luke Lachey (luh-SHAY), the youngest of five children (three girls, two boys), was born and raised in the Columbus, Ohio, area with his parents (Jim and Ann), who met at Ohio State in 1984. Jim was an All-America offensive tackle for the Buckeyes (1981-84) before being selected by the San Diego Chargers in the first round (No. 12) of the 1985 NFL Draft. Jim played 11 seasons in the NFL, earned first-team All-Pro honors three straight years (1989-91) and won a Super Bowl with Washington in 1991. Jim has been the Ohio State radio network's color analyst for the last 28 football seasons and was part of the ownership group of the Columbus Destroyers in the Arena League (also coached the offensive line). Luke Lachey played football growing up but was focused more on basketball, his first love.

Like his four older siblings, Lachey attended Grandview Heights High, where he was a star athlete. He was a varsity starter for the basketball team as a freshman and shared the court with his older brother (James) for two seasons. He also played with James on the football field, although Luke didn't see as much action as a freshman or sophomore (16 combined catches). James signed with Bowling Green as a tight end in the 2018 recruiting class but played only one season, because of issues related to concussions. As a junior captain, Luke Lachey became a varsity starter and played both offense (wide receiver and tight end) and defense (cornerback). He earned second-team all-state in 2018 with 45 catches for 763 yards and 12 touchdowns, adding three interceptions and two kickoff returns for touchdowns. As a senior captain, Lachey led Grandview to the 2020 Division 6 playoff semifinals and was named first-team all-state, all-district and all-conference. He caught 57 passes for 741 yards and seven touchdowns while also filling in at quarterback and running back, adding 357 rushing yards and three touchdowns. Lachey also collected five interceptions in 2020. He was a four-year starter on the basketball court and averaged 18.0 points per game as a junior, earning honorable mention all-state honors. As a senior, he averaged 16.7 points, 9.2 rebounds and 2.7 blocks per game and surpassed 1,000 career points. Lachey also joined the track team for his final two years of high school. He had personal bests of 23.84 seconds in the 200 meters, 50.92 in the 400 and 6 feet, 6 inches in the high jump.

A four-star recruit, Lachey was the 11th-ranked tight end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 7 recruit in Ohio. He received recruiting looks for basketball, including an offer from Bowling Green. During his junior season, though, Lachey decided to go the football route in college. He grew up in the shadows of Ohio Stadium, with plenty of connections to the Buckeyes — his parents, three sisters and several extended family members graduated from Ohio State; his older sister (Emily) married former Ohio State offensive lineman Pat Elflein; Luke's girlfriend (Emma Hall, who also attended Grandview Heights) is an honors student at Ohio State. He also has two uncles (Jim's brothers) who have been part of the program: Ron, a walk-on long snapper (1988-90); Rob, Ohio State's head equipment manager since 2004.

However, Ohio State saw Luke Lachey as a 210-pound project and asked him to grayshirt. Instead, Lachey looked elsewhere and picked up more than 20 offers, including from LSU, Michigan State and Wisconsin. But he was drawn to the tradition of tight ends at Iowa and committed to head coach Kirk Ferentz the summer before his senior season. Lachey was the top-ranked recruit in the Hawkeyes' 2020 class. He was a dean's list student at Iowa and a four-time Academic All-Big Ten honoree. Lachey graduated with a degree in enterprise leadership (May 2024). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	0	0		0	0	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (13/3)	8	133	16.62	0	0
2022: (13/7)	28	398	14.21	4	1
2023: (3/3)	10	131	13.10	0	1	Missed final 11 games (right ankle); team captain
2024: (12/11)	28	231	8.25	0	1	Missed one game (quad); team captain
Total: (42/24)	74	893	12.07	4	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6056	251	10	32 1/8	78 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	35	10' 0"	4.47	7.18	DNP	No 40, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6045	250	10	32 1/2	79 1/4	4.85	2.81	1.69	DNP	DNP	4.33	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Decent-sized frame for the position, with room for additional bulk
- Smooth athlete; transitions weight well out of breaks to create quick windows (could have played college basketball)
- Deliberate with route footwork to affect coverage (loves circus routes)
- Strong, dependable hands (only three drops on 111 career targets)
- Consistently catches the ball off his shoe tops or outside his frame
- Willing inline blocker who keeps edge defenders occupied
- Shows fight after the catch and always has his eyes on the sticks
- Latches onto defenders in motion and escorts them away from the ball
- Work ethic and commitment were ingrained in him early as the youngest in a family of athletes
- Senior captain and "the same guy every day," according to NFL scouts

WEAKNESSES:

- One-speed athlete who lacks suddenness in his movements
- Wasn't a factor downfield (only four of 28 catches in 2024 came on targets of 10 yards or more)
- Occasionally gives first defender the slip but doesn't have breakaway capabilities
- Late sifting through traffic near the line and when entering his route
- Average balance through contact as a blocker — ends up on the ground more than you'd like
- Would like to see him tighten up his blocking hands
- Broken fibula in right ankle, which required season-ending surgery (Sept. 2023) and six months of rehabilitation; missed one game (and parts of others) as senior because of quad injury (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Iowa, Lachey was a Y tight end in offensive coordinator Tim Lester's pro-style scheme (63.8 percent of snaps inline; 29.4 percent in the slot). The top-ranked recruit in the Hawkeyes' 2020 class, he is next up in the Iowa-to-NFL pipeline, despite below-average college production caused by injuries and a listless passing offense (only one red zone catch and zero touchdowns over his final two seasons).

Strictly an underneath target in 2024, Lachey is an average speed player and more smooth than explosive, but he efficiently transfers his momentum in and out of breaks to give his quarterback a target on stick routes. Bigger defenders will give him trouble inline in the run game, but he is at his best when he can latch and drive on the move. Overall, Lachey doesn't have any dynamic elements in his game, but he catches the ball cleanly and is willing to do the dirty work in the run game. His competitive wiring will help him compete for a backup role in the NFL.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

TE19 Caden Prieskorn

Ole Miss, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Lake Orion, MI	Orchard Lake	Sep 21, 1999	25.59	6057	246	#86

BACKGROUND: Caden Prieskorn, the oldest of four children (three boys, one girl), was born and raised just north of Detroit with his parents (Jerry and Jill), who both played college basketball at Northwood University. Jerry, who also played golf in college and owned the Bald Mountain Golf Course, died in October 2023 at the age of 52 after a two-year battle with colon cancer. Before his passing, Jerry was able to see Caden marry his longtime girlfriend (Cali) in July 2023. Caden and Cali have two young children who are beloved around the Ole Miss program — their son (Mac) was born in August 2021; their daughter (Romy) was born in May 2024.

Caden Prieskorn was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, but he usually gravitated toward basketball, football or golf. He started playing quarterback at the pee wee level and continued at the position throughout middle school for the Rochester Redskins. Both of Prieskorn's younger brothers went on to play sports after high school, as well — Peyton played basketball at the community college level; Brady signed with Michigan as a tight end in 2024 and redshirted his first season.

Prieskorn started his prep career at Lake Orion High, where he was a standout athlete on the football field and basketball court. After starting at quarterback as a sophomore in 2015, he transferred to Orchard Lake Saint Mary's for his final two seasons. As a junior, Prieskorn led the program to a 10-win season and the 2016 Division 3 state championship at Ford Field. He threw for 200 yards in the title game, including a touchdown pass in the final seconds to give Orchard Lake a 29-28 victory. As a senior, Prieskorn earned first-team all-league honors. He was also a starting forward on the Orchard Lake basketball team.

A no-star recruit, Prieskorn received interest from basketball programs and lower-level football programs — some of the latter wanted him to change positions. But he was determined to stay at quarterback and play at the FBS level. To try to get noticed, he enrolled at Fork Union (Va.)

Military Academy for a postgraduate year. He started the first eight games of the 2018 season before being sidelined with a broken foot. When one of his teammates (Harold Nash) walked on at Memphis, Prieskorn also sent his highlight tape to the coaches there, and they offered him a walk-on spot as a tight end. He enrolled for the 2019 season and spent his first season packing on weight and learning his new position. Prieskorn slowly worked his way up the depth chart and was put on scholarship in August 2021 (the same month his son was born).

After his breakout 2022 season, he entered the transfer portal and committed to Ole Miss over Louisville, Miami, Oregon and several others. Prieskorn took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a sixth season. He graduated with a degree in multi-disciplinary studies (Dec. 2023). Prieskorn accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2018: (-/-)						Fork Union Military Academy; played quarterback in eight games before season-ending foot injury
2019: (-/-)						Memphis; walk-on; transitioned to tight end
2020: (4/0)	3	33	11.00	0	1	Memphis; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/0)	4	46	11.50	0	0	Memphis; put on scholarship
2022: (13/13)	48	602	12.54	7	2	Memphis; Second Team All-AAC; led team in receiving
2023: (10/10)	30	449	14.97	4	2	Ole Miss; Second Team All-SEC; bowl game MVP; missed first three games (left foot); enrolled January 2023
2024: (13/10)	27	401	14.85	3	1	Ole Miss
Total: (52/33)	112	1,531	13.67	14	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6057	246	10 1/8	33 1/2	80 1/2	4.77	2.75	1.65	31	8'11"	4.54	7.19	18

STRENGTHS:

- Prototypical size dimensions by NFL standards
- NFL-level hand-eye coordination to snare the ball away from his body
- Finishes with big, strong hands (sometimes too comfortable using only one hand)
- Tracks the ball beautifully down the seam and can high point when needed
- Skillfully uses his frame to out-angle defenders and lay claim to air space
- Former quarterback — shows a natural feel for route pacing
- Efficient enough to execute combo blocks and keep defenders occupied
- Mature personality and has overcome adversity (former quarterback, former walk-on, father's death, etc.)

WEAKNESSES:

- Average speed and burst limit the ways he can separate versus man
- Not very loose at the break point
- Doesn't offer much elusiveness after the catch and will be caught from behind
- Limited hip snap as an inline blocker
- Base narrows at contact, zapping any lower-body power as a drive blocker
- Wasn't used on special teams, outside of field goal attempts
- Will be 26 as a rookie
- Missed first three games of his senior season because of a left foot injury, which required minor surgery (Aug. 2023)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ole Miss, Prieskorn was a flex tight end in offensive coordinator Charlie Weis Jr.'s spread scheme (44.1 percent of snaps in the slot, 34.3 percent inline/wing, 11.9 percent wide). An older prospect who is married with two young children, he has taken a long journey to this point — quarterback in high school and at Fork Union Military Academy, walk-on (with a position switch) at Memphis, final stop of his college career at Ole Miss.

Prieskorn doesn't have the speed to easily separate (before or after the catch), but he can be more physical than defenders at the top of routes and displays outstanding hand-eye coordination (caught 11 of 13 contested targets with the Rebels). He can cover up defenders as a blocker in the run game, too, but doesn't have the lateral agility or power to re-establish the line of scrimmage. Overall, Prieskorn is a vacuum-handed, dependable pass catcher who can be a chain-mover, but he isn't an explosive threat and has limitations to how he can impact the game. He is an easy player to like but has a low ceiling as a pro.

GRADE: 7th round

TE20 Rivaldo Fairweather

Auburn, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Lauderhill, FL	Boyd Anderson	Jul 19, 2002	22.76	6033	242	#13

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	10	165	16.50	1	0	FIU; led team in receiving; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (9/5)	16	247	15.44	1	2	FIU
2022: (12/6)	28	426	15.21	3	5	FIU
2023: (13/11)	38	394	10.37	6	6	Auburn; school single-season record for catches by TE
2024: (12/11)	31	372	12.00	2	2	Auburn; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (51/33)	123	1,604	13.04	13	15

HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6033	242	9 5/8	34 1/4	83 5/8	4.72	2.71	1.63	30	9'2"	4.40	7.10	17

SUMMARY: Rivaldo Fairweather grew up playing different sports, but his "first love" was basketball. He gave football a chance as a junior at Boyd Anderson High, starting out as the punter. He moved to a pass-catching role as a senior and exploded with 812 receiving yards and 15 touchdowns (also lettered in basketball, soccer and track).

A three-star recruit, he was late to enter the recruiting process, but Florida International took a chance on his senior-year flashes. After three productive seasons with the Panthers, he joined Auburn for his final two college seasons.

Still a relatively unpolished player, Fairweather does a nice job with blocking angles to shield defensive ends from the ball, but he needs to be more consistent executing second-level blocks. He was very effective blocking for a two count before releasing as a target, showing his natural body control to easily adjust to errant throws. Overall, Fairweather doesn't create as much as I was hoping after the catch, but he is athletic at the catch point and has upside as a blocker that will interest NFL teams.

GRADE: FA

TE21 Robbie Ouzts

Alabama, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Rock Hill, SC	Rock Hill	Sep 06, 2002	22.63	6030	274	#45

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (11/0)	1	8	8.00	0	1	Missed three games (leg injury); enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/3)	4	43	10.75	0	0
2023: (14/7)	3	33	11.00	1	1
2024: (13/6)	8	108	13.50	2	0	Graduated with degree
Total: (51/16)	16	192	12.00	3	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6030	274	9 3/4	31 1/4	78 1/4	4.91	2.88	1.76	34	9'11"	4.45	7.34	26	Left hand measured; right hand 9 3/8
PRO DAY	6030	278	9 1/2	31 1/4	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

SUMMARY: Robbie Ouzts (OOTS) grew up playing sports in Rock Hill, S.C., and developed a love for football, because of the physicality. His favorite player growing up was fullback Brad Hoover (which is why Ouzts wears No. 45). He was a fullback/tight end at Rock Hill High and posted 465 receiving yards as a senior. A three-star recruit, Ouzts committed to Alabama over other SEC programs and played a variety of roles, from aligning in the I-formation under Bill O'Brien to the "H" tight end position in Kalen DeBoer's scheme. With his trademark mustache, he has always been wired to be the hammer and not the nail — he plays with immense pride in laying out his body on every play and finishing his block by whatever means necessary. He saw just 21 career targets but showed good hands and body control when he got chances (also played 537 snaps on special teams). Overall, Ouzts is a throwback player with a gladiator mentality. He would have more opportunities in NFL offenses of 30 years ago, but he has a chance to make a roster as an H-back "sniffer" and goal line tight end.

GRADE: FA

TE22 Benjamin Yurosek

Georgia, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Bakersfield, CA	Christian	Mar 17, 2002	23.10	6042	245	#84

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2020: (6/0)	0	0		0	0	Stanford; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/11)	43	658	15.30	3	3	Stanford; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2022: (12/12)	49	445	9.08	1	0	Stanford; Second Team All-Pac-12
2023: (6/6)	16	239	14.94	1	2	Stanford; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12; missed final six games (shoulder)
2024: (14/6)	15	185	12.33	0	1	Georgia; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (49/35)	123	1,527	12.41	5	6

HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6042	245	9 5/8	33 1/8	80 7/8	4.64	2.70	1.58	31 1/2	9'7"	4.39	7.16	DNP

SUMMARY: Benjamin Yurosek, one of five children, grew up in Bakersfield, Calif., and both his parents (Derek and Kellie) were athletes at Colorado State. Yurosek was an all-state tight end and defensive end at Bakersfield Christian High. As a senior, he led the team to its first state title.

A three-star recruit, Yurosek committed to Stanford over Washington and was a productive pass-catching tight end. After missing half of his 2023 season, he jumped in the transfer portal and landed at Georgia, hoping to help fill the void left by Brock Bowers. Instead, he was used more as a blocker in 2024 (just 20 targets in 14 games).

Yurosek didn't back down when asked to get his nose dirty as an inline blocker and executed well on the move (leads, screens, etc.). He tracks the ball well mid-route, with the body control to adjust, although I wanted more out of him on red zone snaps (only two career red zone touchdowns).

Overall, Yurosek doesn't have the type of exceptional size or power that will stand out on an NFL field, but he is assignment sound and a good enough athlete. He can make an NFL roster with continued fine-tuning of his run-blocking technique.

GRADE: FA

TE23 Brant Kuithe

Utah, 7SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Katy, TX	Cinco Ranch	Dec 19, 1999	25.35	6020	236	#80

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2018: (14/2)	20	227	11.35	1	2	Enrolled June 2018
2019: (14/9)	34	602	17.71	6	4	Second Team All-Pac 12; 3 rushing TDs
2020: (5/3)	25	236	9.44	0	1	Second Team All-Pac-12; led team in receiving; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/9)	50	611	12.22	6	7	Second Team All-Pac-12; 11-yard rushing TD
2022: (4/3)	19	206	10.84	3	2	Missed final 10 games (right ACL)
2023: (-/-)						Missed season because of injury
2024: (9/5)	35	505	14.43	6	4	2 rushing TDs; missed final three games (knee)
Total: (60/31)	183	2,387	13.04	22	20

HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6020	236	10 1/2	31 5/8	76 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: right knee)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

SUMMARY: Brant Kuithe (keeth-ee), whose twin brother (Blake) also played at Utah, grew up outside of Houston with his parents (Dennis and Debbie). He started playing football in grade school (on the offensive line) and grew into a do-everything weapon (including punting) at Cinco Ranch High. As a senior, he rushed for more than 1,000 yards in seven games and was named district MVP.

A three-star recruit, Kuithe made an immediate impact for the Utes as a hybrid tight end and received draftable grades from NFL scouts. But he suffered a torn ACL (Sept. 2022), which required multiple surgeries — the setbacks kept him sidelined for 2023, as well. He returned in 2024, only to suffer another season-ending injury.

When healthy, Kuithe is an NFL-caliber athlete and a matchup weapon out of the slot. He stems and creates separation, especially on in-breakers, which also gives him a chance to show off his YAC talent. He is a more physical blocker than one might expect, but he will always be limited by his size. Overall, Kuithe has draftable talent with the athletic versatility and pass-catching ability to help an offense and play special teams. His durability, though, is the chief concern.

GRADE: FA

TE24 Bryson Nesbit

North Carolina, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Charlotte, NC	South Mecklenburg	Sep 25, 2002	22.58	6050	238	#18

BACKGROUND: Bryson Nesbit (Nez-bit), the oldest of two boys, was born in Charlotte, N.C., and grew up in New Orleans with his parents (Jamar and Tara). Jamar was a three-time All-SEC offensive lineman at South Carolina (1995-98). After going undrafted in 1999, he signed with the Carolina Panthers (1999-2002), then played for the Jaguars (2003) and Saints (2004-09). He had his best seasons in New Orleans, including winning a Super Bowl ring in his final season. Jamar was inducted into the Gamecocks' Hall of Fame in 2017 and now serves as a sideline reporter for the team's radio network. He met Tara at South Carolina, where she played soccer for the Gamecocks. Bryson's younger brother (Michael) just finished his sophomore season as a wide receiver at Brown. After Jamar retired, the family returned to Charlotte, and Bryson Nesbit started to become more involved with sports. He played flag football and in a controlled AAU football league when he was young, but his parents did not allow their boys to play tackle football in Pop Warner or middle school (despite Bryson begging to play). Instead, Nesbit focused on basketball as his main sport, along with outdoor activities such as fishing.

Nesbit enrolled at South Mecklenburg High in Charlotte, where his parents continued to rebuke his desire to join the football team — Jamar had grown up in a military family and didn't start playing football until late in high school. Instead, Nesbit showed potential on the basketball court, as he led the team in shooting percentage as a sophomore. In 2019, his parents finally allowed him to join the ADP Knights, a 7-on-7 football team coached by former Carolina Panthers receiver Austin Duke. As a junior, Nesbit joined the South Mecklenburg football team. The program didn't win a game (0-11) that season, but Nesbit quickly flourished as a wide receiver and tight end with 532 receiving yards and four touchdowns (Jamar also joined the coaching staff). His senior season was cut down to seven games and moved to the spring of 2021 because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Nesbit finished with 31 catches for 400 yards and five touchdowns, which earned him conference offensive player of the year honors. He continued playing basketball at South Mecklenburg through his senior season, earning all-conference honors as a forward.

A four-star recruit, Nesbit was the 13th-ranked tight end in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 19 recruit in North Carolina. He received some interest as a basketball recruit from major programs such as Tennessee, but once he joined the football team in 2019, his recruitment started to take off. After his third varsity game, Nesbit received an offer from LSU, followed by offers from South Carolina and NC State. After his junior season, several other big-name programs reached out with an offer, including Auburn, Michigan and Ohio State. In October 2020, Nesbit announced a top five of North Carolina, Ole Miss, South Carolina, UCLA and Virginia Tech, and he officially committed to the Tar Heels in December 2020. He was the 13th-ranked recruit in head coach Mack Brown's 2021 class (Drake Maye was No. 1) but didn't enroll until May 2021, so he could finish his high school basketball and spring football seasons.

YEAR (GP/GS)	REC	YDS	AVG	TD	DROP	NOTES
2021: (11/1)	7	154	22.00	1	0	Enrolled May 2021
2022: (14/1)	35	507	14.49	4	3	Honorable Mention All-ACC; returned onside kick for 43-yard TD
2023: (12/2)	41	585	14.27	5	2	First Team All-ACC; missed bowl game (left knee)
2024: (7/3)	24	264	11.00	3	5	Missed final six games (wrist)
Total: (44/7)	107	1,510	14.11	13	10

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6050	238	9 3/4	31 3/4	77 3/8	4.88	2.83	1.68	32 1/2	9' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No bench (med exclusion: right wrist); no SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6050	238	9 5/8	33	79 1/4	4.95	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	9'0"	4.48	7.28	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Not explosive but has practical speed down the seam (better than his timed speed would suggest)
- Natural coordination when adjusting to imprecise passes
- Workable catch radius to spear the ball, despite average arm length
- Efficient outside-in breaks to cross the face of coverage

- Can sink pad level into his stem to plant and break off route
- Decent job as a move blocker on split-zone
- Grew up around the New Orleans Saints' locker room and knows what to expect from NFL life

WEAKNESSES:

- Light in his lower half, with lean muscle tone
- Can be dominated at the point of attack as a play-side blocker
- Wide, wild hands with initial engagement and struggles to stay latched
- Rarely used in pass protection on 2024 tape
- Battled focus lapses, which led to drops on almost every tape studied
- Not sudden or twitchy in his movements, limiting his separation before and after the catch
- Want to see better physicality from him mid-route
- Final two seasons were marred by injuries: played through a partially torn meniscus in his left knee (Nov. 2023) over the final month of the regular season before undergoing surgery (Dec. 2023), which sidelined him for 2024 spring practices; fractured wrist (Oct. 2024), which required surgery and sidelined him for the final five games

SUMMARY: A part-time starter at North Carolina, Nesbit was a "joker" tight end in former offensive coordinator Chip Lindsey's spread pro scheme (80.1 percent of his 2024 snaps came in the slot). He didn't start playing football until his junior year of high school but quickly put himself on the NFL map while catching passes from Drake Maye, before injuries disrupted his final two seasons.

Nesbit has functional athletic traits in his routes and at the catch point, but his NFL paycheck will depend on his receiving impact — he needs to play stronger through contact and button up his catch-point focus. Though he flashed promise as a move blocker in college, he consistently punches below his weight class with below-average sustain/finish strength. Overall, Nesbit has silky adjustment skills and is more of a large-framed wide receiver than traditional tight end. He doesn't have much to offer as a blocker, however, and might have a tough time convincing an NFL coaching staff that his receiving upside is enough to compensate. His best chance at the next level might be as a big slot.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
25	Carter Runyon	Towson	6045	243	4.63	2.76	1.69	36 1/2	10'3"	4.30	7.20	22	10	32 7/8	81 3/8
26	Holden Willis	Middle Tennessee	6032	220	4.56	2.65	1.54	36	10'0"	4.33	7.00	12	9 5/8	33 7/8	79 5/8
27	Keleki Latu	Washington	6066	249	4.89	2.81	1.63	30	9'1"	4.37	7.07	13	10 1/4	33 5/8	82 5/8
28	Gee Scott Jr.	Ohio State	6025	238	4.62	2.66	1.64	35	9'11"	4.47	7.28	25	10 1/8	32 3/8	77 1/2
29	Tre Watson	Texas A&M	6042	247	4.68	2.72	1.64	35	10'4"	4.50	7.14	19	9	33	78 1/8
30	JJ Galbreath	South Dakota	6033	231	4.67	2.67	1.62	38	10'3"	4.20	6.82	12	9 1/2	32	78 3/8
31	Mark Redman	Louisville	6060	263	4.95	2.73	1.66	32	9'4"	4.52	7.25	21	9 5/8	33	81 1/4
32	Beau Johnson	Georgia Southern	6001	222	4.75	2.68	1.60	29 1/2	9'3"	4.62	7.46	16	9 3/8	32 1/4	78 7/8
33	Nick Kallerup	Minnesota	6047	266	4.74	2.73	1.67	33 1/2	9'4"	4.57	7.59	16	10 1/8	32 1/2	80 3/8
34	Mitch Van Vooren	St. Norbert	6044	237	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/8	33 1/8	81
35	Sam Pitz	Minnesota Duluth	6054	248	4.75	2.77	1.70	34	10'1"	4.34	7.07	24	9 1/2	32 7/8	78 1/4
36	Chris Carter	Northern Illinois	6066	241	4.62	2.61	1.53	35	10'4"	4.22	7.30	21	9	34 1/8	84
37	Kamari Morales	Boston College	6020	241	4.78	2.73	1.65	34 1/2	9'6"	4.30	7.13	26	9 1/2	31 3/4	77 3/4
38	Shane Calhoun	Texas A&M	6020	245	4.48	2.56	1.58	39	11'0"	4.39	7.46	DNP	9 3/4	32 3/4	78 1/2
39	Tyler Fromm	Georgia Southern	6045	238	4.75	2.76	1.63	32	9'9"	4.42	7.18	16	8 5/8	33	77 1/4
40	Mason Tharp	Texas Tech	6087	264	4.88	2.82	1.63	33 1/2	9'6"	4.66	7.38	19	10 1/4	34 1/4	83 1/4
41	Josiah Miamen	Florida International	6041	252	4.80	2.76	1.74	38 1/2	10'5"	4.59	7.18	21	10 1/8	32 3/4	79
42	Avery Boyd	Georgia Tech	6015	239	4.53	2.67	1.56	33 1/2	10'6"	4.51	7.64	24	9 3/4	32 1/8	77 3/4
43	Anthony Torres	Toledo	6067	251	4.72	2.81	1.72	34	9'10"	4.44	7.18	19	10 1/8	33 1/2	80 3/4
44	Maliq Carr	Houston	6035	250	4.63	2.70	1.65	31 1/2	9'5"	4.68	7.62	17	10 3/8	34 1/2	82 3/8
45	Bryzai White	Northern Arizona	6017	247	4.77	2.77	1.68	30	9'10"	4.58	7.57	16	9	31 3/8	78 5/8
46	Dominick Mazotti	UMass	6040	245	4.80	2.91	1.66	31	9'10"	4.45	7.13	16	10	32 3/8	78 5/8
47	Corey Dyches	California	6007	209	4.76	2.65	1.53	35	9'11"	4.38	7.08	DNP	9 3/8	31	79 3/4
48	Jermaine Terry II	Oregon State	6040	241	4.90	2.86	1.73	30	9'5"	4.45	7.02	17	9 3/8	33 1/8	80 5/8
49	Caeleb Bass	West Alabama	6055	250	4.75	2.78	1.57	34	9'8"	4.50	7.52	19	9 3/4	32 1/8	80 1/8
50	Stevo Klotz	Iowa State	6037	247	4.80	2.80	1.65	34	9'3"	4.44	7.52	12	9 5/8	32 5/8	78
51	Pat Conroy	Old Dominion	6021	240	4.72	2.62	1.56	37	10'0"	4.21	6.84	23	9 1/4	31 3/4	77 3/8
52	Layne Pryor	Northern Iowa	6023	260	4.70	2.70	1.64	36 1/2	9'3"	4.53	7.37	31	9 3/4	32 5/8	79 3/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
53	DJ Thomas-Jones	South Alabama	6015	250	4.63	2.73	1.71	35	10'0"	4.21	7.02	18	10	33 1/8	78 7/8
54	Carson Goda	Illinois	6020	234	4.89	2.84	1.71	31	9'5"	4.48	7.45	14	9 1/2	31 3/8	74 1/8
55	Patrick Herbert	Oregon	6050	249	4.79	2.83	1.79	31	9'6"	4.45	7.09	13	9 7/8	33 1/8	78 3/4
56	Drake Dabney	TCU	6045	246	4.77	2.75	1.66	34	9'5"	4.54	7.44	13	9 5/8	33 5/8	81 5/8
57	Caleb Lohner	Utah	6072	256	4.69	2.78	1.70	37	10'6"	4.53	7.15	19	9 1/2	32 1/2	80
58	Laitia Moceidreke	Australia (IPP)	6054	245	4.76	2.76	1.63	32	9'9"	4.57	7.43	18	9 7/8	35 1/4	81 7/8
59	Cam McCormick	Miami	6046	248	4.89	2.89	1.73	31 1/2	9'4"	4.52	7.70	DNP	10 3/8	32 3/4	80
60	Kole Taylor	West Virginia	6070	249	4.93	2.86	1.70	31 1/2	9'7"	4.53	7.52	21	9 1/4	33 1/2	81 7/8
61	Jake Roberts	Oklahoma	6044	246	4.96	2.82	1.79	31 1/2	9'6"	4.53	7.28	18	9 1/2	33 3/8	78
62	Tommy Smith	Rhode Island	6030	220	4.59	DNP	1.58	33	9'10"	4.34	6.79	13	9 5/8	31 1/2	74 1/2
63	Anthony Landphere	Memphis	6042	251	4.85	2.89	1.68	30 1/2	9'5"	4.59	7.67	13	9 1/2	32 1/2	76 3/4
64	Joe Stoffel	North Dakota State	6034	237	4.90	2.82	1.69	31 1/2	9'3"	4.34	6.95	23	9	33 3/8	79 5/8
65	Thomas Gordon	Northwestern	6043	245	4.87	2.84	1.71	29 1/2	9'8"	4.51	7.32	18	9 3/8	31 3/8	74 3/4
66	Bryce Pierre	UCLA	6047	246	4.91	2.85	1.74	29	9'2"	4.60	7.47	15	9 1/2	33 3/8	78 1/2
67	Tristen Tewes	Northern Illinois	6020	243	4.90	2.88	1.70	33	9'2"	4.55	7.57	22	8 7/8	30 1/4	73
68	Maximilian Mang	Syracuse	6064	263	5.00	2.85	1.75	33 1/2	9'7"	4.52	7.31	20	11 1/8	33 1/4	81 1/4
69	Marshall Lang	Northwestern	6041	249	4.85	2.83	1.67	31 1/2	9'11"	4.25	7.18	18	9 3/4	32 3/4	76 3/4
70	Cole Grossman	Montana	6043	241	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	31 7/8	79 1/2
71	Kyle Morlock	Florida State	6054	241	4.85	2.75	1.65	28 1/2	9'1"	4.60	7.34	21	9	32 3/8	77 1/2
72	Tyler Neville	Virginia	6030	239	4.80	2.72	1.62	33	9'10"	4.32	7.12	22	9 1/2	31 3/8	76 3/8
73	Konner Fox	Texas State	6040	249	4.72	2.78	1.62	31	9'5"	4.52	7.33	16	9 1/4	31 5/8	76
74	Luke Deal	Auburn	6050	247	5.14	3.01	1.79	29 1/2	9'3"	4.47	7.39	24	10 1/8	31 5/8	78 3/8
75	Jeremiah Pruitte	Florida A&M	6046	232	4.70	2.69	1.57	31	10'6"	4.40	7.59	15	9 3/4	33 3/4	79 3/4
76	Bentley Hanshaw	Liberty	6036	241	4.90	2.72	1.65	28	9'4"	4.51	7.46	11	9 3/4	33 1/8	74 5/8
77	Sean Brown	Jacksonville State	6050	244	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	15	11	30 5/8	79 3/4
78	Justin Ball	Mississippi State	6061	250	4.97	2.80	1.70	33 1/2	10'1"	4.58	7.25	13	9 1/2	34 7/8	83 7/8
79	Elijah Sohn	Sam Houston	6036	239	4.90	2.81	1.77	32	9'8"	4.69	7.52	17	10 1/8	32 1/2	78 7/8
80	Nathaniel Salmon	New Zealand (IPP)	6060	261	4.71	2.71	1.70	31 1/2	9'4"	4.60	7.47	17	9 1/8	32 7/8	78 5/8
81	Jake Schultz	Oklahoma State	6021	247	4.78	2.71	1.65	32 1/2	9'4"	4.65	7.38	31	9	31 1/4	75 7/8
82	Jared Casey	Kansas	5106	230	4.97	2.88	1.74	30 1/2	9'0"	4.51	7.15	18	9 7/8	30 5/8	73 1/8
83	Jere Getzinger	Eastern Michigan	6033	246	4.90	2.84	1.63	29 1/2	9'3"	4.64	7.26	13	9 3/4	30 1/2	74 5/8
84	Eli Wilson	Appalachian State	6024	239	4.71	2.78	1.64	34 1/2	9'10"	4.59	7.22	20	9 1/4	30 7/8	75
85	Casey Kelly	East Carolina	6025	243	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	31 7/8	DNP
86	Tuni Fifita	Nebraska-Kearney	6022	245	4.70	2.69	1.64	30 1/2	10'0"	4.78	7.41	13	9 3/4	31 5/8	77 1/4
87	Kaleo Ballungay	UNLV	6052	252	4.96	2.90	1.78	32	9'7"	4.62	7.41	18	9 5/8	33 3/8	80 1/8
88	Jake Orlando	Buffalo	6055	251	5.17	3.00	1.71	31	10'0"	4.67	7.45	16	10 1/4	33 3/8	79 1/8
89	Tavarious Griffin	Alcorn State	6007	216	4.83	2.84	1.68	30	9'10"	4.47	7.52	DNP	8 1/2	30 5/8	75 3/8
90	Malik Jackson	Towson	6025	230	4.91	2.87	1.68	27	8'11"	4.65	7.60	17	9 1/8	31 1/8	77 1/8
91	Andrew Bench	South Alabama	6036	250	4.81	2.77	1.70	33	9'3"	4.43	7.29	DNP	9 3/4	33	77
92	Thomas Burke	College of New Jersey	6041	247	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	8 3/4	32 1/2	78 1/4
93	Zach Horton	Indiana	6033	251	4.95	2.87	1.64	29 1/2	8'10"	4.69	7.69	19	9 3/4	30 5/8	74 3/8
94	Peter Montini	Colorado State	5115	233	4.72	2.67	1.66	35 1/2	9'4"	4.48	7.07	21	10	30 1/4	74 1/4
95	Nicky Dalmolin	Duke	6032	231	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	31	76
96	Miki Suguturaga	Utah	6036	249	4.84	2.75	1.59	34	10'1"	4.44	7.18	18	10 1/8	33 1/2	80 1/8
97	Mason Fakahua	BYU	6012	237	4.82	2.79	1.63	29	9'9"	4.44	7.27	14	9 3/4	31 1/8	75 1/4
98	Chris Hicks	Lock Haven	6017	220	4.76	2.69	1.66	DNP	9'2"	4.39	7.51	9	8 7/8	31 7/8	78
99	Payten Singletary	South Florida	6040	237	4.85	2.78	1.69	30	9'2"	4.60	7.26	18	10 1/8	32 1/8	79
100	Deontay Campbell	Mo. Southern State	6037	245	4.94	2.88	1.71	30 1/2	9'8"	4.87	7.64	17	10 1/8	34 5/8	82 3/4
101	Tyler Savage	East Carolina	6021	239	5.11	3.01	1.69	27 1/2	9'0"	4.68	7.60	DNP	10 1/2	33 3/4	80 3/8
102	John Goodwin	Concordia (Neb.)	6023	243	4.87	2.74	1.71	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10 1/8	31 1/4	77 7/8
103	Juan Davis	Texas	6022	235	4.77	2.72	1.68	30 1/2	9'9"	4.56	7.27	14	9 5/8	32 1/8	78 3/4
104	Trevor Kardell	Kansas	6044	255	4.90	2.81	1.70	33 1/2	9'11"	4.50	7.26	13	9 5/8	32 1/4	78 7/8
105	Reggie Brown	Tulane	6020	241	5.03	2.84	1.77	27 1/2	8'10"	4.70	7.63	DNP	8 1/4	30 3/8	75 3/8
106	Levaughn Lewis	Delaware	6021	241	4.96	2.89	1.66	27	9'7"	4.83	7.58	DNP	9	33 1/2	81

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
107	Keanu Hill	BYU	6033	232	5.00	2.89	1.71	26	9'0"	4.57	7.27	DNP	8 1/2	31 3/4	75 7/8
108	Conner Muldowney	Kent State	6046	248	4.89	2.89	1.66	30 1/2	9'3"	4.71	7.48	17	8 5/8	33 1/4	78 1/4
109	Jordan Davis	Wofford	6012	224	4.63	2.71	1.63	33	9'9"	4.50	7.94	21	10 1/4	32	77 1/8
110	Ray Paulo	BYU	6023	248	5.02	2.93	1.76	26	8'10"	4.75	7.65	24	9 3/4	31 5/8	75 1/2
111	Katerian LeGrone	UT Martin	6021	248	4.70	2.68	1.62	31	9'5"	4.34	7.57	22	9 7/8	33 1/2	78
112	Blake Daniels	Eastern Michigan	6062	251	4.98	2.92	1.56	33 1/2	9'4"	4.75	7.70	15	10 3/4	33 5/8	82 7/8
113	Matthew Whitten	Southern Arkansas	6022	232	4.72	2.76	1.59	30 1/2	9'4"	DNP	DNP	17	10	31 3/8	75 3/4
114	Gavin Yates	Baylor	6021	232	5.01	2.86	1.57	25	8'10"	4.50	7.57	14	9 1/2	31 1/2	76 3/8
115	Xander Werner	Northern Arizona	6014	242	4.82	2.82	1.76	32	9'7"	4.76	7.55	18	10	33 3/4	79 1/8
116	Keshawn Toney	South Carolina State	6021	251	5.03	2.91	1.75	29	9'0"	4.82	8.50	16	10 1/8	33 1/8	78 3/4
117	Manny Stevenson Jr.	Arkansas State	6025	238	4.84	2.67	1.63	32	9'0"	4.44	7.64	DNP	8 7/8	32 7/8	79 1/4
118	Drew Peterson	Grand Valley State	6022	248	4.99	2.89	1.64	33	9'6"	4.52	7.13	9	9 3/8	32 5/8	80 3/8
119	Herman McCray IV	Limestone	6031	237	5.11	2.96	1.78	27	9'0"	4.81	7.63	17	10 3/4	34 1/4	82 1/4
120	Joey Beljan	Cincinnati	6025	237	4.79	2.76	1.63	29	9'0"	4.62	7.53	13	9 1/2	31 1/4	76 1/2
121	Matt Robbert	Richmond	6025	238	DNP	DNP	DNP	23 1/2	8'10"	DNP	DNP	12	9 3/4	31 1/2	75 3/4
122	Graham Walker	Rice	6030	243	4.82	2.75	1.63	34 1/2	9'4"	4.43	7.16	18	8 3/8	33 3/4	76 1/4
123	Marcus Phillips Jr.	Austin Peay	6017	234	4.99	2.90	1.73	29 1/2	9'3"	4.43	7.22	18	9 1/4	33	77 1/2
124	Oscar Cardenas	UTSA	6033	263	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	22	9 1/2	32 7/8	78 3/4
125	Tyler Stephens	Missouri	6052	243	5.07	2.90	1.91	26	9'4"	4.70	7.50	15	9 5/8	34	82 5/8
126	Kevin Brenner	South Dakota State	6015	237	5.113	2.94	1.76	28	8'9"	4.65	7.73	14	9 1/2	29 7/8	75 5/8
127	Tommy Washington	Newberry	5114	254	4.87	2.83	1.75	29 1/2	9'4"	4.75	7.94	22	10 1/2	33	78 1/4
128	Marc Taglieri Jr.	Bryant	6034	243	4.86	DNP	1.71	31 1/2	9'4"	4.70	7.74	15	9 7/8	31 3/4	78 1/8
129	Jaelyn Lay	UMass	6054	271	5.04	2.88	1.67	27	9'9"	4.85	7.66	18	9 7/8	32 3/4	77
130	Nick Miles	Wyoming	6050	249	4.94	2.88	1.76	32 1/2	9'10"	4.58	7.34	20	9 1/8	31 7/8	78 1/8
131	Jude Wolfe	San Diego State	6053	241	4.87	2.80	1.75	27 1/2	9'7"	4.50	7.25	22	9 3/4	33 3/4	82 1/2
132	Michael Churich	UCLA	6061	231	5.15	2.96	1.84	27	8'7"	4.73	DNP	11	9 7/8	32 3/4	81 1/2
133	Trayvon Moore	Nebraska-Kearney	6034	227	4.88	2.76	1.75	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	32 7/8	81 3/8
134	Mike Martinez	Idaho	6060	264	5.02	2.88	1.78	27 1/2	9'1"	4.84	8.00	13	10	35 1/2	88 3/8
135	Cooper Mathers	Washington State	6021	233	4.94	2.83	1.75	28 1/2	9'2"	4.72	7.52	15	8 1/2	31 3/4	75 5/8
136	James Della Pesca	Temple	6026	248	4.87	2.80	1.68	32 1/2	9'8"	4.50	7.45	21	9 3/4	33 3/8	79 1/2
137	Evan Morris	UCF	6044	243	4.94	2.83	1.69	28	9'0"	4.48	7.45	31	10	31	76
138	Tevita Ahoafi-Noa	Kansas	6017	245	5.03	2.86	1.70	30	9'5"	4.80	7.71	18	9 1/8	32 1/8	78
139	Jake Boust	Fresno State	6031	243	4.84	2.82	1.63	34	9'10"	4.56	7.46	13	9 1/8	32 1/8	79
140	Duane Martin	Louisville	6014	270	4.85	2.59	1.57	26	9'6"	4.57	DNP	28	10	33 1/4	81
141	Connor Mullins	Stephen F. Austin	5112	237	5.00	2.88	1.76	27	8'6"	4.64	7.85	22	9 3/8	31	75 3/4
142	Quincy Vaughn	North Dakota	6042	248	5.03	2.90	1.69	29	9'3"	4.46	7.46	8	9 5/8	32 5/8	78 7/8
143	Bryce Damous	UAB	6016	237	5.09	2.89	1.71	30 1/2	8'9"	4.66	7.39	12	9	31	77 1/8
144	Mark Leonard	Sioux Falls	6047	246	4.90	2.85	1.69	30	9'1"	4.57	7.31	19	9	31 3/4	76
145	Cameron Gardner	Mississippi Valley St.	6040	208	4.82	2.81	1.79	DNP	9'10"	4.40	7.34	DNP	8 7/8	32 1/4	79 7/8
146	Gunnar Greenwald	South Florida	6032	238	4.95	2.82	1.69	32	9'10"	4.38	7.34	17	10	30 1/2	75 3/8
147	Skylar Loving-Black	San Jose State	6021	253	4.77	2.75	1.67	30	9'6"	4.91	7.71	21	8 3/4	31 3/4	76 1/2
148	Davis Sherwood	Notre Dame	6026	237	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/4	31	75 1/4
149	Tyler Foster	Oklahoma State	6054	259	5.03	2.90	1.80	26	9'5"	4.63	7.42	15	9 1/8	33 1/4	80 1/2
150	Cal Redman	Stony Brook	6043	254	4.91	2.83	1.69	32 1/2	9'9"	4.43	7.52	22	9 3/8	31 1/2	78 5/8
151	Joseph Bongono	Texas Southern	6040	226	4.90	2.81	1.69	25 1/2	9'2"	4.80	7.33	13	9 1/2	34 1/2	80 1/2
152	Terrell McDonald	UAB	6002	227	4.94	3.00	1.78	24 1/2	8'3"	4.81	7.83	12	9 1/8	30 1/2	73 5/8
153	Ivan Drobocky	SE Louisiana	6033	233	4.82	2.76	1.61	30 1/2	9'7"	DNP	DNP	10	9 1/8	32 7/8	77 3/4
154	Cameron Lewis	East Tennessee State	6026	253	4.94	2.90	1.71	27	9'0"	4.93	7.80	DNP	9 1/4	34 3/8	83 1/2
155	Travis Yohnke	Sioux Falls	6042	240	5.03	2.84	1.70	30 1/2	8'10"	4.64	7.83	23	9 3/8	31 1/4	76 3/8
156	Nicholas Dobson	North Carolina A&T	6015	271	5.20	3.07	1.88	25 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	18	9 3/8	33 3/8	79 7/8
157	Brandon Niemenski	Long Island	6050	240	5.01	2.84	1.70	33 1/2	9'9"	4.66	7.76	16	9 7/8	32 3/4	79 1/4
158	Quamel Jarvis	SUNY Morrisville	6010	201	4.95	2.83	1.75	29 1/2	9'4"	4.57	7.24	DNP	9 1/2	32 1/4	78
159	Gavin Cossou	Grand Valley State	6057	267	4.96	2.81	1.70	33 1/2	10'1"	4.83	7.40	12	9 3/4	33 1/8	79 1/4

OFFENSIVE TACKLES

OFFENSIVE TACKLES

NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1. WILL CAMPBELL	LSU	1st	3JR	6057	319	4.98 (1.75)	9 1/2	33	77 3/8	21.30
2. ARMAND MEMBOU	Missouri	1st	3JR	6042	332	4.91 (1.74)	9 3/4	33 1/2	82	21.08
3. JOSH SIMMONS	Ohio State	1st-2nd	4JR	6047	317	DNP (DNP)	10 3/8	34 1/8	82	22.33
4. JOSH CONERLY JR.	Oregon	1st-2nd	3JR	6045	311	5.05 (1.70)	10 3/8	34 1/4	82 1/4	21.47
5. AIREONTAE ERSERY	Minnesota	2nd	5SR	6060	331	5.01 (1.74)	9 7/8	33 1/2	81 1/2	23.18
6. DONOVAN JACKSON	Ohio State	2nd	4SR	6035	317	DNP (DNP)	10 1/8	34 1/2	83 3/4	22.39
7. OZZY TRAPILO	Boston College	3rd	5SR	6081	316	5.21 (1.76)	10 3/8	33 1/2	82 1/4	23.52
8. CHARLES GRANT	William & Mary	3rd	5SR	6047	309	5.09 (1.80)	10 3/8	34 7/8	82 1/2	23.09
9. ANTHONY BELTON	NC State	3rd-4th	6SR	6060	336	5.26 (1.82)	10 1/4	34 5/8	84 1/8	24.16
10. CHASE LUNDT	UConn	4th	6SR	6074	303	5.40 (1.76)	9 5/8	32 7/8	78 1/4	24.85
11. CAMERON WILLIAMS	Texas	4th	3JR	6056	334	DNP (DNP)	11 3/8	34 7/8	85	21.52
12. LOGAN BROWN	Kansas	4th-5th	6SR	6063	311	5.18 (1.75)	10	34 1/4	84 1/2	24.02
13. CARSON VINSON	Alabama A&M	5th	5SR	6071	314	5.12 (1.80)	10 1/4	34 5/8	84 3/4	23.44
14. MYLES HINTON	Michigan	5th	5SR	6066	325	DNP (DNP)	10 1/4	34 1/8	82 3/4	23.29
15. HOLLIN PIERCE	Rutgers	5th	5SR	6083	341	DNP (DNP)	9 7/8	36	88 1/4	24.01
16. JALEN TRAVIS	Iowa State	5th-6th	5SR	6076	339	5.14 (1.80)	10 1/2	34 7/8	83 1/2	23.01
17. JACK NELSON	Wisconsin	5th-6th	5SR	6070	318	DNP (DNP)	10	33 3/4	81 3/8	23.27
18. BRANSON TAYLOR	Pittsburgh	6th	5SR	6060	315	5.28 (1.82)	9 3/4	33 5/8	82 1/4	23.19
19. ESA POLE	Washington State	6th-7th	4SR	6052	323	5.29 (1.87)	9 7/8	33 5/8	81	23.81
20. AJANI CORNELIUS	Oregon	6th-7th	5SR	6045	312	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	34	83 3/4	22.93
21. XAVIER TRUSS	Georgia	6th-7th	6SR	6071	309	5.24 (1.82)	10 1/2	33 3/8	82 7/8	23.78
22. BRANDON CRENSHAW-DICKSON	Florida	7th	6SR	6072	316	5.33 (1.87)	10 1/2	34 3/4	84 1/8	24.17
23. CALEB ETIENNE	BYU	FA	6SR	6066	329	5.01 (1.77)	10 5/8	36	86	23.65
24. TREY WEDIG	Indiana	FA	5SR	6065	313	5.21 (1.71)	10	33 1/2	82 5/8	23.28
25. JOHN WILLIAMS	Cincinnati	FA	5SR	6041	322	5.17 (1.79)	11	34 1/2	82 1/4	23.27
26. MASON RICHMAN	Iowa	FA	5SR	6053	307	5.34 (1.89)	9 7/8	32 1/8	78	22.96
27. DALTON COOPER	Oklahoma State	FA	6SR	6054	326	4.99 (1.78)	9 3/4	33 1/2	80 3/4	24.11
28. JORDAN WILLIAMS	Georgia Tech	FA	5SR	6052	318	DNP (DNP)	10	34	81 3/4	23.43
29. GERAD CHRISTIAN-LICHTENHAN	Oregon State	FA	5SR	6082	315	5.35 (1.85)	10	35 1/4	85 3/8	23.39

OT1 Will Campbell

LSU, 3JR

HOMETOWN Monroe, LA	HIGH SCHOOL Neville	BIRTHDAY Jan 06, 2004	AGE 21.30	HT 6057	WT 319	NUM #66
------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: William "Will" Campbell, the oldest of two boys, was born and raised in Monroe in northern Louisiana with his parents (Brian and Holly), who are both Monroe natives. Brian (also known as "Bull"), an agricultural farmer who sells seed and chemicals, played offensive line at Neville and collegiately at East Texas State (now known as East Texas A&M). Holly works at the family's sporting goods store, H. Mickel Sports, which opened in 1937 and has been in the family for four generations. Growing up, Will was a multisport athlete and played soccer and baseball throughout childhood. But he started to gravitate toward football before kindergarten, initially as a fullback and defensive end in youth football before his size pushed him to the offensive line (his birth certificate was needed on more than one occasion to prove his age). Aside from football, hunting was Campbell's primary activity growing up, and he took down his first deer at age 5 (he has multiple deer heads mounted on his childhood bedroom walls). His younger brother (Thomas) played tight end at Neville and signed with FCS Nicholls State in the 2025 recruiting class.

Like his parents, Campbell attended Neville High, where he became a four-year starter on the offensive line. As a 14-year-old freshman, he started out on the freshman team before the varsity coaches called him up in Week 2 because of an injury at right tackle. Campbell played so well that the coaches couldn't take him off the field, as Neville won the 2017 district title. He moved to left tackle as a sophomore, which is where he started for the rest of high school. Campbell helped Neville to a 10-win season before a semifinal loss in the 2018 4A state playoffs. As a junior, he earned all-state honors and led Neville to another 10-win season in 2019. For his senior year, Campbell led Neville to a fourth straight district title and earned all-state and Under Armour All-America honors. Campbell, who started playing AAU basketball in eighth grade, also lettered in basketball all four seasons at Neville.

A four-star recruit, Campbell was the fourth-ranked offensive tackle in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Louisiana. He was ranked as the No. 36 recruit nationally. After his sophomore season at Neville, Campbell started to hear from the in-state programs — his first offer came from nearby Louisiana-Monroe, followed by Louisiana Tech and Louisiana. He attended a few camps in Baton Rouge and received an offer from head coach Ed Orgeron in the midst of LSU's 2019 national title run. A wave of national offers soon followed, including from Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, Texas and several others. Campbell considered Oklahoma, but he grew up in an LSU family and always knew he would end up in Baton Rouge. He committed to the Tigers following his junior season.

After LSU fired Orgeron midway through the 2021 season, Campbell stayed committed to new head coach Brian Kelly, who offered him while he was at Notre Dame. Campbell was the third-ranked recruit (Harold Perkins was No. 1) in Kelly's first recruiting class at LSU. Campbell became the highest-ranked Louisiana offensive tackle to enroll at LSU since La'el Collins (2011).

Campbell has hosted several events to promote the Tarver Braddock Foundation, which honors his cousin and close friend who died at age 16 in January 2024 in a campfire accident. Campbell was named to the SEC Academic Honor Roll in 2023. He opted out of LSU's 2024 bowl game and skipped his senior season to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2022: (13/13)	LT	Freshman All-American; Second Team All-SEC; Freshman All-SEC; missed one game (illness); enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	LT	First Team All-SEC; team captain
2024: (12/12)	LT	Consensus All-American; First Team All-SEC; SEC's Jacobs Blocking Trophy; team captain; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (38/38)		LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6057	319	9 1/2	32 5/8	77 3/8	4.98	2.92	1.75	32	9' 5"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6057	317	9 1/2	33	77 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Moves with athletic body control to stay balanced mid-slide and through engagement
- Agile lateral footwork to ride rushers wide of pocket
- Stays controlled and patient versus dynamic pass rushers
- Impressive recovery skills to maintain leverage and stay connected
- Mechanically sound process to gradually anchor against power
- Plays with purposeful inside hands and gets fistful of jersey to control his man
- Makes it look easy on combination blocks
- Comfortably handles games (stunts, loops, etc.), regardless of space given to him
- LSU offense used him much more as puller in 2024, taking advantage of nimble movements and decisive eyes to pick off defenders
- Flips switch on the field and prides himself on playing nasty
- Wired to block through whistle (his high school coaches say he had a hard time avoiding flags because of his aggressive play style)
- Relentless worker and was named a team captain as sophomore and junior (Brian Kelly: "When he speaks, people really listen.")
- First offensive or defensive lineman to be awarded LSU's coveted No. 7 jersey (still wore No. 66 on game day because of SEC rules)
- Never missed a game because of injury, starting 38 straight games at left tackle
- LSU's first consensus All-American on the offensive line since 2004

WEAKNESSES:

- Average arm length — can do a better job compensating for his lack of inches
- Doesn't have much margin for error if his punch extension is mistimed
- Slight stiffness in his lower half shows up when reacting to inside moves
- Routinely able to recover after being driven backward, but NFL leveraged power will bring new challenges
- Penalties increased from one (2022) to five (2023) to nine (2024), including seven false-start flags in final season
- Left tackle only in college and doesn't offer experience on right side or interior

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at LSU, Campbell was a mainstay at left tackle in offensive coordinator Joe Sloan's pass-happy, inside-outside zone scheme. He took starting reps at left tackle from his first day of training camp as a freshman and started 38 straight games, allowing only one sack over his final 30 games with the Tigers (awarded the 2024 SEC's Jacobs Blocking Trophy). He grew up modeling his game after Andrew Whitworth, a fellow West Monroe, La., native. Before the 2023 and '24 seasons, he was awarded the No. 7 jersey, given to LSU's most electric playmaker (the tradition started in 2008 with Patrick Peterson).

Campbell stays balanced in pass protection because of his weight distribution and controlled technique, although he can do a better job protecting versus inside/counter moves (see his reps versus Kyle Kennard on the 2024 South Carolina tape). He is rugged in the run game and offers the body fluidity and explosive power to torque and displace defenders. Overall, Campbell's mediocre arm length lessens his margin for error, but his athletic movements, core strength and competitive finish help him stay connected through the whistle, regardless of the block required. His skill set is reminiscent of a more powerful version of Colts left tackle Bernhard Raimann, although some NFL teams project him best as an interior blocker.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 6 overall)

OT2 Armand Membou

Missouri, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Lee's Summit, MO	North	Mar 27, 2004	21.08	6042	332	#79

BACKGROUND: Armand Membou (MEM-boo) grew up in the Kansas City area with his mother (Annie Melong) and father (Suffo). His parents immigrated to the United States from Cameroon, and he was raised in a French-speaking household. Membou grew up playing multiple sports, including basketball, soccer, tennis and wrestling. He decided to give organized football a chance in eighth grade but was relegated to the middle school "B" team as a backup.

Membou enrolled at Lee's Summit North High, the same program that produced quarterback Drew Lock and pass rusher Felix Anudike-Uzomah. Undersized and not on the radar of the varsity coaching staff, Membou played on the freshman team his first season. The next year, he was primarily a backup on the JV squad but gradually saw more playing time. Before his junior season, he hit a growth spurt, added weight and invested himself in the weight room during the pandemic, to the point of being almost unrecognizable when he returned to the team. Membou started every game at left guard on varsity as a junior and earned 2020 first-team all-district and all-conference honors. As a senior, he moved out to right tackle and helped Lee's Summit to an 11-2 record and a spot in the 2021 state playoff semifinals. Membou earned first-team all-state, all-district and all-conference honors in his final season.

A three-star recruit, Membou was the 21st-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 10 recruit in Missouri. After becoming a varsity starter as a junior, he played next to Cayden Green, a top-100 recruit, and started to attract recruiting attention of his own. Within a month of his first varsity snaps, Membou picked up four major offers (Iowa State, Kansas, Kansas State and Missouri). He later added offers from Arkansas, Nebraska and Oregon, but he built a strong relationship with the Missouri coaches and was drawn to the opportunity of playing close to home. Membou was the seventh-ranked recruit in the Tigers' 2022 class. After three seasons, he elected to opt out of Missouri's bowl game and skip his senior year to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2022: (10/4)	RT	Started final five games; enrolled in January 2022
2023: (13/13)	RT
2024: (12/12)	RT	Second Team All-SEC; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (35/29)	RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	332	9 3/4	33 1/2	82	4.91	2.84	1.74	34	9' 7"	DNP	DNP	31	No SS, three-cone, second 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tremendous body control in his movements
- Explosive out of stance to quickly set up shop
- Equally agile and patient in pass pro to avoid oversetting
- Punch is sharp and generally well-timed, which strengthens his anchor
- Mixes up hand strikes with good length to keep rushers at bay
- Has drive power to wash or take edge defenders for a ride in run game
- Redirects cleanly and is always looking for work
- Will finish defenders into the ground and flashes a nasty demeanor
- Durable — finished college career with 30 straight starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Only average height by NFL standards
- Speed-to-power moves can take him by surprise, so he needs to stay alert
- Hands and elbows tend to start wide
- Penalized three times for holding in 2024, but he often gets a fistful of cloth
- Doesn't have any college experience at left tackle or on the interior (only played right tackle and unbalanced tight end at Mizzou)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Missouri, Membou was a stalwart at right tackle in offensive coordinator Kirby Moore's RPO-heavy zone scheme. Late to the game of football, he blossomed after arriving in Columbia. Once he broke into the starting lineup as a freshman, he didn't give the job back and eventually earned All-SEC honors in 2024.

As a pass blocker, Membou displays above-average balance, quickness and a jolting punch in his sets to mirror up and down the arc. He was equally effective in the run game with Missouri often running it behind No. 79 and his drive power. Overall, Membou might not have ideal height for tackle, but he plays long with exceptional control and finishing skills. His tools remind me of Troy Fautanu from the 2024 draft class, and all the talent is there for him to become a long-term NFL starting tackle.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 7 overall)

OT3 Josh Simmons

Ohio State, 4JR

HOMETOWN San Diego, CA	HIGH SCHOOL Helix	BIRTHDAY Dec 26, 2002	AGE 22.33	HT 6047	WT 317	NUM #71
---------------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Joshua "Josh" Simmons was born and raised in the San Diego area, with his mother (Anna Ma'afala). His father (Nelson), a switch-hitting outfielder, was a second-round pick in the 1981 MLB Draft and was called up to The Show for parts of three seasons with the Detroit Tigers (1984-85) and Baltimore Orioles (1987). Josh's uncle (Chris Fuamatu-Ma'afala) played fullback at Utah and was drafted in the sixth round of the 1998 NFL Draft (No. 178 overall), then played seven seasons in the NFL for the Pittsburgh Steelers (1998-2002) and Jacksonville Jaguars (2003-04). Josh's half-brother (Goldy) played baseball at San Diego State and was selected in both the 2006 and 2007 MLB Draft. He was the Chicago White Sox director of strength and conditioning (2021-24) before being hired as head strength and conditioning coach for the Phoenix Suns (2024).

Josh Simmons started his prep career at James Madison High School in San Diego, where he was a multisport standout. After playing on the freshman football team his first year, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore and played both ways at left guard and defensive tackle (at 325 pounds). Simmons again lined up at left guard (one start at offensive tackle) and defensive tackle as a junior, but he slimmed down to 290 pounds and helped lead Madison to a 7-5 finish and 2019 state playoffs. He transferred for his senior season to Helix Charter High School in La Mesa, Calif., where he was teammates with several FBS recruits, including quarterback Tyler Buchner. However, Helix's 2020 fall season was postponed because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Simmons also lettered in basketball at Madison.

A four-star recruit, Simmons was the 25th-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 30 recruit in California. Primarily an offensive guard and defensive tackle in high school, he was recruited to play offense by some programs and to play defense by others. After his sophomore season, Simmons attended multiple camps and pulled in his first offers from San Diego State and Utah State. He camped with USC and UCLA in the summer of 2019 and received offers from both schools. His "dream school," Oregon, offered him on Christmas Eve 2019, and he committed to former head coach Mario Cristobal a month later. However, Simmons reopened his recruitment in April 2020 as offers poured in, including from Georgia, Miami, Michigan, Oklahoma, Penn State and a dozen others.

Because of the pandemic, he wasn't ready to commit to a school without taking visits and "feeling the energy" in person. Simmons committed to nearby San Diego State, a school he was able to visit. That decision also allowed him to stay close to home, so he could help care for his grandmother (Tala'i), who died during Simmons' freshman year at San Diego State.

After two seasons with the Aztecs, Simmons entered the transfer portal in April 2023 and committed to Ohio State — offensive line coach Justin Frye had first recruited him when Frye was at UCLA. After Simmons' 2024 season was cut short because of a knee injury, he decided to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (-/-)	-	San Diego State; redshirted
2022: (13/13)	RT	San Diego State
2023: (13/13)	LT	Ohio State
2024: (6/6)	LT	Ohio State; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed final 10 games (left knee)
Total: (32/32)		19 LT, 13 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6047	317	10	33	82	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left knee)
PRO DAY	6046	312	10 3/8	34 1/8	81 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	33

STRENGTHS:

- Light-footed in lateral slides, with good size and length
- Took big step between 2023 and '24 seasons with efficiency getting out of stance
- Maintains wide base, with terrific body fluidity
- Shows terrific pacing to stay centered, both on the move and once engaged
- Patient yet direct with hands in pass pro to land accurate punches and stay connected
- Able to rework or chop hands to regain leverage
- Terrific when working in tandem to stymie stunts and games
- Redirects well as run blocker to wall off lanes
- Works in different snatch and slingshot techniques
- Range jumps out on run pulls — often reaches landmarks one step before defender
- Penalized just once in six starts in 2024 (false start vs. Oregon)
- Experienced at both left and right tackle

WEAKNESSES:

- Needs to continue developing anchor to settle down after giving ground to bull rushes
- Occasionally caught over-setting
- Initial handwork needs to be better in run game
- Not a true people-mover once he latches
- Non-contact patella injury in left knee (Oct. 2024), which required season-ending surgery

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ohio State, Simmons lined up at left tackle in former offensive coordinator Chip Kelly's diverse run game (gap/zone, pin-pulls, counters, etc.). After two seasons at San Diego State, he transferred to Columbus and blossomed while moving from right tackle to left tackle the past two seasons. Simmons was on pace over the first five games of the 2024 season to be an All-American and looked like a strong contender for OT1 in the draft class, but he suffered a non-contact knee injury in mid-October, which sidelined him for the rest of the season.

Simmons explodes out of his stance in pass protection and plays with knee-bend, balance and calmness to govern his movements, shoot his hands and stay square to pass rushers. He isn't an overpowering mauler in the run game, but Kelly's offense highlighted Simmons' range when executing pulls, reaches, traps, etc. Overall, Simmons is a nimble, coordinated pass protector with tremendous athletic poise and the body control to be a long-term starting left tackle in the NFL. His pro projection hinges on medical feedback.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 20 overall)

OT4 Josh Conerly Jr.

Oregon, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Seattle, WA	Rainier Beach	Nov 05, 2003	21.47	6045	311	#76

BACKGROUND: Joshua "Josh" Conerly Jr. was raised in the Seattle area by his parents. He started playing football in elementary school and developed a love for the running back position while playing for the Beacon Hill Cowboys. Conerly played multiple positions on both sides of the ball throughout youth football, but he always saw himself as a "big" running back who could run over or past everyone. He played multiple other sports, mainly basketball for the Rotary teams. Conerly started training with Ford Sports Performance and helped the program win back-to-back championships.

Conerly enrolled at Rainier Beach High in Seattle, where he was a four-year varsity letterman. He played running back, tight end and defensive end as a freshman. Going into his sophomore year, though, the team lost almost its entire offensive line and Conerly knew a move to the trenches was his best long-term move. He won the starting left tackle job for the 2019 season and made a quick transition. Conerly earned all-league honors as a junior, during a season abbreviated to four games because of the COVID-19 pandemic. As a senior, he helped Rainier Beach to a 6-4 finish and a spot in the 2021 3A state playoffs. Conerly earned first-team all-state honors as a senior, also seeing snaps on the defensive line. He earned an invitation to the 2022 All-American Bowl and received the Anthony Munoz Lineman of the Year Award. Conerly also lettered in basketball at Rainier Beach.

A five-star recruit, Conerly was the second-ranked offensive tackle in the 2022 recruiting class (just ahead of Kelvin Banks Jr. and Will Campbell) and the No. 1 recruit in Washington. He was ranked as the No. 16 recruit nationally (one spot behind Michigan cornerback Will Johnson). A month into his sophomore season, after making the transition to left tackle, Conerly received his first offer from Tennessee, followed by offers from Nevada and Oregon a few days later (Oct. 2019). Over the next two years, he collected more than 30 scholarship offers, including from national powers from all over the country.

After his senior season, Conerly announced a top-six of Miami, Michigan, Oklahoma, Oregon, USC and Washington. Despite growing up as a Huskies fan, he wanted to leave Seattle for college and ultimately picked Oregon over USC. Head coach Dan Lanning had only been on the job for two months at that point, but he was able to sell Conerly on the Ducks. Conerly was the top-ranked recruit in Lanning's first class. After three seasons in Eugene, Conerly elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the top offensive lineman on the National Team during the week of practice.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2022: (13/0)	-	Caught a 4-yard TD; enrolled in June 2022
2023: (14/14)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2024: (14/14)	LT	Third Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; took direct snap and converted 2-point conversion vs. Maryland
Total: (41/28)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	311	10 3/8	33 1/2	82 1/4	5.05	2.87	1.70	34 1/2	8' 7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6043	313	10 1/8	34 1/4	81 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	24

STRENGTHS:

- Outstanding lateral quicks, change of direction and overall movement skills
- Explosive jump setter to easily cut off pass-rush angles
- Elite recovery balance
- Average height but above-average arm length and big, firm hands
- Keeps head on a swivel to locate blitzes and stunts
- Uses light feet and body control to seal frontside end on zone runs
- Paces speed to shine at the second level and out in space, where he can erase defenders on the move as a lead blocker
- Plays with both raw strength and an aggressive play style
- Allowed only six pressures over his final 12 starts (all coming against Ohio State)
- Durable; finished his career with 28 straight starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Core strength must be addressed and developed
- Hands are all over the place and frequently late, leaving his chest exposed
- Bull rushers are able to rock him on his heels and drive him backward
- Explosive laterally out of his stance, but he'll be early and overset, inviting inside rush moves across his face
- Can be caught leaning in pass pro and needs to find better balance between being patient and aggressive
- Only played left tackle in college and doesn't have functional experience at right tackle or on the interior

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Oregon, Conerly manned the left tackle position in offensive coordinator Will Stein's multiple run scheme with a lot of unbalanced looks. After transitioning to the offensive line as a high school sophomore, he made steady improvements each season, and he played his best ball over the second half of his final year in Eugene. A quick, fluid mover, Conerly has the range to reach his landmarks laterally in pass protection and on the move, at the second level and in the run game.

Because of the underdeveloped parts of his game, he will put himself in some compromised positions, especially against power rushers, but his recovery balance is exceptional. Overall, Conerly must continue refining his hands and core strength, but he is on the right trajectory and enters the NFL with a promising foundation based on athletic movements and body control. Currently a "bend, don't break" blocker, he has the talent to become a solid starter early in his NFL career.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 23 overall)

OT5 Aireontae Ersery

Minnesota, 5SR

HOMETOWN Kansas City, MO	HIGH SCHOOL Ruskin	BIRTHDAY Feb 19, 2002	AGE 23.18	HT 6060	WT 331	NUM #69
-----------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Aireontae (AIR-ee-on-tay) "Tae" Ersery (ER-ser-ee), who is one of six children, was born and raised in Kansas City, Mo., with his mother (Takita Charles). His first love was basketball, which he initially played in pickup games and later in organized leagues. He competed on AAU teams throughout middle school and was looking to play in high school. Growing up, Ersery watched football (mainly the Kansas City Chiefs) but didn't play organized football.

Ersery attended Ruskin High and hit a growth spurt after his freshman year. Behind urging from his uncle (Bill) and the coaches, he joined the football team the summer before his sophomore year. At 240 pounds, he started out as a defensive end, but the coaches needed him on the offensive line — Ersery proved to be a quick study at both tackle spots (bulked up to 265 pounds by the end of the season). Ersery played on both the offensive and defensive lines as a junior and senior, and he was a bright spot for a team that won a combined three games during his three varsity seasons. To stay in shape in the offseason, he joined the wrestling team as a sophomore (285-pound class). As a junior, Ersery joined the track team and placed fourth at the 2019 Class 4 state championships in the shot put (his first year in track). He had personal bests of 53 feet, 10 inches in the shot put, 137-2 in the discus and 108-1 in the javelin.

A three-star recruit, Ersery was the 80th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 18 recruit in Missouri. He started attending recruiting camps after his sophomore and junior seasons and picked up his first offer from FCS Northern Iowa (May 2019). Ersery's recruitment ramped up after he showed out at a satellite camp at Lindenwood University. Within a week of the camp, he picked up over a dozen offers, including from Kansas, Kansas State and Minnesota. A week later, he took a visit to Minneapolis and committed to head coach P.J. Fleck. Ersery was the 17th-ranked recruit in the Gophers' 2020 class. He earned Academic All-Big Ten honors and graduated with a degree (May 2024). Ersery opted out of Minnesota's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (1/1)	RT	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (1/0)	-
2022: (13/13)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2023: (13/13)	LT	Second Team All-Big Ten
2024: (12/12)	LT	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; Big Ten OL of the year; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (40/39) 38 LT, 1 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6060	331	9 1/2	33 1/8	80 7/8	5.01	2.88	1.74	29 1/2	9' 3"	4.82	7.81	25
PRO DAY	6060	330	9 7/8	33 1/2	81 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Imposing size with broad shoulders, long arms and obvious upper-body strength
- Trusts athleticism and feet to stay patient in his process (credits his time in basketball and dance for his footwork)
- Quick out of his stance to jump set, pull or reach and seal three-tech defensive linemen
- Able to quickly access his length to fend off cross-chops and inside counters
- Displays an improved feel for stunts and blitzes compared to 2023 tape
- Flashes square power to move defensive linemen against their will (weight-room strength translates to the field)
- His coaches praise the jump he made during his college career
- Grew into a team leader, according to NFL scouts
- Started 38 straight games at left tackle to finish his career

WEAKNESSES:

- Upright, and his hands are often wide and inaccurate when striking mid-slide, leaving him hugging/hooksing rushers
- False steps at times and occasionally allows his feet to get choppy if he gets stressed
- Can do a better job continuing to work his hips into position as he engages
- His anchor can be diminished when he's late with his strikes
- Comes off the ball high, which leads to waist-bending tendencies
- Can see him finish with grit on some plays but needs to do it more consistently
- Didn't miss any starts because of injury past three seasons but did sit out most of regular-season finale (Nov. 2024) with right ankle sprain
- Almost all of his career snaps (96.3 percent) came at left tackle

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Minnesota, Ersery locked down the left tackle position in offensive coordinator Greg Harbaugh's zone-heavy scheme. Because he did not play football until his sophomore year of high school, he was raw when he enrolled at Minnesota but developed into the Big Ten's Rimington-Pace Offensive Lineman of the Year in 2024.

With his NFL-ready build and length, Ersery has a stiff punch to steer rushers wide of the pocket, and he can anchor down when rushers try to attack him down the middle. Though he moves well for a big man, especially as a zone-blocker, there are some sloppy elements to his game and he is stiff when attempting to redirect or recover, especially when his hands are tardy. Overall, Ersery has the size, strength and movement talent to become an NFL starting tackle — if his timing, angles and overall consistency continue to improve with pro coaching. It might be a bumpy ride early as he transitions to the next level.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 37 overall)

HOMETOWN Cypress, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Episcopal	BIRTHDAY Dec 04, 2002	AGE 22.39	HT 6035	WT 317	NUM #74
-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Donovan Jackson, who has an older sister (Rachel), was born and raised in the Houston area with his parents (Todd and Melanie), who met in the early 1990s at Miami (Ohio). Melanie, a retired elementary school teacher, is originally from Cincinnati. Todd, who was a high school offensive and defensive lineman at Westlake High in the Cleveland suburbs, has worked in the oil and gas field for 30 years (currently serves as director of business operations at Motiva Enterprises). Todd's father (Wilson) was a college referee in various leagues, including the Big Ten, in the 1980s and '90s. Donovan started playing football at age 6 in a flag football league. Once he joined tackle football at 8, he lined up on the offensive line on his pee wee teams and started playing on a select club team (Cy-Fair Ravens) that traveled all over Texas. Jackson started working with offensive line trainer Jonathon Younger in middle school and helped lead his team to division titles in seventh and eighth grade.

Jackson began his prep career at Houston Christian High, a private school. He started at left tackle as a freshman and didn't allow a sack in 2017. Before his sophomore year, Jackson transferred to Episcopal High, a prestigious private school in Bellaire, Texas, that has produced NFL players such as wide receiver Jaylen Waddle and offensive tackle Walker Little. He started at left tackle as a sophomore and was named first-team all-conference. As a junior, Jackson helped Episcopal to a 9-1 record and the 2019 conference title. His senior season was cut short because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but he started all six games at left tackle. He was named a USA Today and U.S. Army All-American and took home the Anthony Munoz Lineman of the Year honors in 2020. Jackson also participated at the AAU Junior Olympics in the discus and shot put, winning multiple conference and area championships (originally wanted to be a multisport athlete in college). He had personal bests at Episcopal of 54 feet, 6 inches in the shot put and a school-record 177-1 in the discus. Jackson played in the marching band for three years and is a talented singer.

A five-star recruit, Jackson was the top-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Texas (behind Quinn Ewers, Tommy Brockermeyer and Ja'Tavion Sanders). He was ranked as the No. 19 recruit nationally. Jackson started taking college visits as early as eighth grade and picked up his first two offers (Memphis and Ohio State) the summer before high school. Already a top recruit, he received more attention after attending the high school showcase The Opening in summer of 2019 and winning the event's offensive line MVP honors. Jackson had a final top 12 of Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Michigan, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Stanford, Tennessee, Texas A&M and Texas.

Because of his family ties to Ohio, he officially committed to Ohio State after his junior season and was the fourth-ranked recruit in head coach Ryan Day's 2021 class behind Ewers, JT Tuimoloau and Jack Sawyer. Jackson twice earned Academic All-Big Ten honors and graduated with a degree in sports industry (Dec. 2024). Jackson declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl, because of Ohio State's deep playoff run.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (13/0)	-	Enrolled June 2021
2022: (13/13)	LG	Second Team All-Big Ten
2023: (13/13)	LG	First Team All-Big Ten
2024: (14/14)	9 LT, 5 LG	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; missed first two games (hamstring)
Total: (53/40)		31 LG, 9 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6035	315	9 7/8	33 1/2	83 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6034	317	10 1/8	34 1/2	83	DNP	DNP	DNP	32	8'11"	4.84	DNP	32

STRENGTHS:

- Workable height, length and girth for NFL trenchwork
- Displayed outstanding control in pass sets at left tackle
- Carries weight well, with core strength that extends to his fingertips and cleats
- Willfully throws punch to keep blockers away from his frame
- Initial quickness helps him close space with defenders to win blocking angles
- Very smooth on pulls/climbs to pick off multiple targets while on the move
- Widens and resets his feet to anchor versus power in pass protection
- Works well in tandem on stunts and sees things well (Ryan Day: "He's very, very intelligent ... (and) processes high levels of information.")
- Only two penalties over final 28 games in college (holding vs. Iowa 2024, block in the back vs. Indiana 2024)
- Has played a lot of football (53 career games)
- Graduated with a 3.85 GPA, highest on the team — his work during the week shows on the field (Texas' Barryn Sorrell called Jackson the toughest tackle he faced in 2024, "because of his preparation.")
- Selfless; willingly returned to his high school roots and played left tackle when Ohio State was hit with injuries (Chip Kelly: "It's a credit to the type of person Donny is — one of the true leaders on our team.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Strong but not overpowering and won't consistently drive or redirect in run game
- Overextends upper half, giving defenders an opportunity to pull his weight against him
- Feet can be tardy catching up after his hands connect
- More false steps than expected, opening the backdoor for defenders
- Sat out first two games of 2024 season after injuring his hamstring (Sept. 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Ohio State, Jackson played both left tackle and left guard in former offensive coordinator Chip Kelly's diverse run game (gap/zone, pin-pulls, counters, etc.). Highly recruited out of Texas, he didn't ascend to meet some of his sky-high expectations at left guard, but he was the unsung hero of the Buckeyes' 2024 national championship run after kicking out to left tackle to replace an injured Josh Simmons for the final nine games. Following a rough first start against Abdul Carter and Penn State, he played at a high level the rest of the way, including an impeccable playoff run.

Long considered an interior prospect by NFL teams, his left tackle tape was better than what he showed at left guard, forcing NFL teams to reevaluate his best positional fit. Though not an overpowering drive blocker, Jackson moves well out of his stance with the flexibility/length/strength combination to latch and occupy defenders with his hands. His processing gradually improved each season, and he didn't look like a fish out of water in space. Overall, Jackson's sustain and recovery hiccups must be addressed by an NFL coaching staff, but his athletic traits and play strength should translate well to the next level. He projects as an NFL starter, and his tape shows a player with true tackle-guard versatility.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 48 overall)

OT7 Ozzy Trapilo

Boston College, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Norwell, MA	Boston College High	Oct 17, 2001	23.52	6081	316	#70

BACKGROUND: Ozzy Trapilo, who has twin older sisters (Jordyn and Devyn), was born and raised in Norwell, Mass. (south of Boston near Cape Cod Bay), with his parents (Steve and Kim). His father, who died of a heart attack at age of 39 in May 2004, was a highly decorated offensive lineman at Boston College High and then Boston College (1982-86). Steve, a three-year starter, provided the key block for Doug Flutie on the "Miracle in Miami" Hail Mary pass in 1984 and was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 2001. He was a fourth-round pick (No. 96) in the 1987 NFL Draft and played five seasons at right guard for the New Orleans Saints (1987-90, 1992) before a knee injury forced his retirement.

The apple didn't fall too far from the tree, as Ozzy Trapilo developed a passion for sports, specifically football, at a young age. His mother didn't allow him to play right away, but he eventually suited up for Norwell Pop Warner (with a birth certificate handy, because of his size). Trapilo also played baseball and was a standout for Metro Boston Basketball Club on the AAU circuit.

Trapilo enrolled at Boston College High, his father's alma mater. After Steve's playing days, he became offensive line coach at the school and donated all of the program's weight room equipment (the weight room is named after Steve). After spending time on the freshman and JV teams, Ozzy Trapilo became a starter on varsity as a junior, initially at tight end before moving to offensive tackle and earning all-conference honors. As a senior captain, he started at left tackle and was named first-team all-state, as he led BC High to a 7-5 record and the 2019 state playoffs. Trapilo also lettered in basketball and was named conference MVP as a junior, leading BC High to the league championship.

A four-star recruit, Trapilo was the 18th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Massachusetts (one spot behind running back Kaleb Mullings and one ahead of guard Zak Zinter, both of whom signed with Michigan). After becoming a starter as a junior, Trapilo earned an offer from Boston College (Nov. 2018). Several other notable programs followed with offers, including Michigan, Nebraska and Virginia. Trapilo, who graduated high school with a 4.0 GPA, also received offers from Northwestern and Yale.

Ultimately, his father's legacy and his love for the program led him to Boston College. Trapilo originally committed to former head coach Steve Addazio, who was fired in December 2019, and stayed committed under Addazio's replacement, Jeff Hafley. Trapilo was the top-ranked recruit in Hafley's first class in 2020. He graduated with a degree in general management with a finance concentration and is working toward his master's degree in finance. Trapilo opted out of Boston College's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (-/-)	-	Redshirted; enrolled August 2020
2021: (10/2)	1 LG, 1 RG
2022: (10/10)	LT	Missed two games (knee)
2023: (12/12)	RT	Second Team All-ACC; missed one game (lower body)
2024: (12/12)	RT	First Team All-ACC; team captain; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (44/36)		24 RT, 10 LT, 1 LG, 1 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6081	316	10 3/8	33	81	5.21	2.98	1.76	DNP	8'10"	4.70	7.71	22	No VJ (choice)
PRO DAY	6080	319	10 1/8	33 1/2	82 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall with functional length and a wide base
- Moves well for his size, with excellent timing to his landmarks in both pass pro and run game
- Has the feet to protect the corner
- Impressive hand usage mid-mirror and resets quickly to knock away advances of rushers
- Hand placement and grip strength are already on an NFL level
- Zero penalties on 772 offensive snaps in 2024
- Fluid out of stance to close space, fit and seal as a run blocker
- Efficient on combos, tandems and when picking off linebackers, because of his body control
- Sees things quickly to handle whatever stunts and games defenses throw at him
- Quality starting experience, including time at both tackle positions (also logged a start at both left and right guard)

WEAKNESSES:

- Plays with a flat back, but he's inconsistent dropping his hips to reanchor versus power
- Caught playing high post-contact
- Battles with quality strength but can continue to get stronger through his core
- Guilty of drifting at times in pass pro, and his knees will buckle trying to recover
- Looked much more comfortable at right tackle than at left tackle
- Missed two games as sophomore because of knee injury (Sept. 2022) and one as junior with lower-body issue (Oct. 2023)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Boston College, Trapilo locked down the right tackle spot in head coach Bill O'Brien's offense, which used a mix of zone and gap schemes. Despite interest from college football powerhouses (both out of high school and in trying to entice him to the transfer portal), the Boston native stayed home and was the most consistent part of the Eagles' offense, earning All-ACC honors as a junior and senior (allowed only two sacks over his final two seasons).

Although he never had the chance to see his late father play in the NFL, Trapilo has the same offensive line talent in his DNA, with the natural movements and technical control. He stays patient and under control in his pass sets and understands hand placement to maintain space between himself and rushers. He needs to be more consistent blocking low to high in the run game, but he quickly establishes body positioning to manipulate spacing and cut off defenders. Overall, Trapilo is a towering athlete and can be jarred at contact on occasion, but he has swing-tackle traits with his smooth weight distribution and the impressive strike timing he uses to consistently complete the mission. It wouldn't be surprising to see him compete for starting right tackle reps as a rookie.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 79 overall)

OT8 Charles Grant

William & Mary, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Portsmouth, VA	Churchland	Mar 22, 2002	23.09	6047	309	#60

BACKGROUND: Charles Grant grew up in the Norfolk-Portsmouth area of Virginia with his parents (Kent and Jacqueline Grant). He watched football (his dad is a Dallas Cowboys fan) but didn't play it during childhood. In seventh grade, Grant picked up wrestling, his "first sport" and his focus going through middle school.

In the spring of 2022, he added his name to the national bone marrow registry and was notified in May 2023 that he was a match for a 29-year-old battling Hodgkin's lymphoma. Grant underwent a daylong procedure called peripheral blood stem cell donation at MedStar Georgetown Hospital in Washington D.C., to help that patient.

Grant enrolled at Churchland High in Portsmouth, where wrestling continued to be his main focus. As he grew, he decided to give football a try going into his junior year. The coaches inserted him at left tackle, and he proved to be a quick study, earning all-district honors in 2018 while also seeing snaps on the defensive line. As a senior, Grant helped Portsmouth to a 10-win season and the quarterfinals of the 2019 Class 4A state playoffs. He again played both ways and earned first-team all-region honors. Grant continued to wrestle and earned all-state honors as a senior. He captured the 2020 regional championship at 240 pounds and qualified for state.

A no-star recruit, Grant wasn't ranked by the online recruiting services in the 2020 class. Because he didn't play football until his junior season, he was easy to overlook on the recruiting trail and didn't attend many camps because he was invested in wrestling. But once Grant realized that football would be his ticket for college and beyond, he started to shift his focus. His first offer came from Division II Virginia-Wise in May 2019, followed by his offer from FCS William & Mary. Grant committed to head coach Mike London at the start of his senior year at Churchland (Sept. 2019).

After he established himself as a starter at William & Mary, he received interest from several FBS programs, but Grant stayed loyal to the program and coaches who believed in him. He is a psychology major and was named to multiple CAA Commissioners Academic Honor Rolls. Grant accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but was unable to participate because of an injury.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	-	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season played in spring 2021
2021: (11/5)	LT
2022: (13/13)	LT	First Team All-CAA
2023: (11/11)	LT	First Team All-American; First Team All-CAA
2024: (12/12)	LT	First Team All-American; First Team All-CAA; team captain
Total: (50/41)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6047	311	10 1/4	34 3/4	81 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	19	BP only (choice)
PRO DAY	6043	309	10 3/8	34 7/8	82 1/2	5.09	2.95	1.80	27	8'11"	4.95	7.88	20

STRENGTHS:

- Fluid athlete with exceptional foot quickness in pass pro and the run game
- Easily redirects laterally with lower-body flexibility and burst
- Long-armed frame with a good feel for strike placement in pass sets to keep rushers off his body
- Persistent hands once connected to push defenders in opposite direction they want to go
- Can see his wrestling background in how he uses body positioning
- Executes backside cut-off blocks with proper angles
- Rangy big man on climbs, screens and pulls
- Cleanly lines up and picks off defenders in space
- Competes hard; consistent block finisher
- Voted a team captain senior season
- Started all 36 games past three seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean body type and doesn't carry ideal mass or girth
- Upper-body strength isn't as impressive as his arm length
- More of a pusher than violent puncher
- Upright in his sets and pad level can work against him
- Narrow base will zap his power in drive phase
- Frantic movements in space lead to breakdowns in his footwork (and grabby holds)
- Most of competition faced in college came at FCS level
- Only played left tackle — didn't log any snaps at guard, center or right tackle for William & Mary
- Injury in his final college game, which sidelined him for Senior Bowl

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at William & Mary, Grant locked down the left tackle position in former offensive coordinator Mario Acitelli's creative, zone-based run scheme (the Tribe ranked fourth in the FCS with 232.8 rushing yards per game in 2024). After enrolling as a 240-pounder with very little football experience, he blossomed into a weapon at the blindside and was the only offensive lineman named a finalist for the 2024 Walter Payton Award, which recognizes the top offensive player in the FCS.

Grant is light-footed, long-armed and flashes a competitive edge through the whistle — a great place to start for an offensive lineman. Though his agility jumps off the screen, savvy edge defenders will key on the unpolished areas of his game, primarily his upright pads and frenetic pacing.

Overall, Grant is a nimble big man with outstanding range, length and movement twitch, but he needs to develop better patience and muscle mass to match up with NFL competition. He has the traits of a future NFL starter and projects best in a zone-heavy offense, similar in ways to Spencer Burford.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 89 overall)

HOMETOWN Tallahassee, FL	HIGH SCHOOL FSU School	BIRTHDAY Feb 23, 2001	AGE 24.16	HT 6060	WT 336	NUM #74
-----------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Anthony Belton grew up in northern Florida with his mother. He played sports as a child, including football, starting as a wide receiver in pee wee. He would later move to linebacker in middle school, then the offensive line before high school. For high school, Belton enrolled at Florida State University School in Tallahassee and became a four-year varsity letterman at tackle. He added almost 50 pounds between his freshman and junior seasons and started at right tackle in 2017. He also played both ways as a defensive tackle his final two seasons, helping Florida State University School to an 8-4 record in 2018.

A no-star recruit out of high school, Belton wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class. Though he received interest from Division I programs, he was a late academic qualifier and didn't have any offers. Belton went the junior college route and signed with Georgia Military College, where he was teammates with defensive lineman YaYa Diaby. He played two seasons at Georgia Military and lined up at both left tackle and right tackle. Belton received his first scholarship offers from FCS schools, such as Albany, Florida A&M and Missouri State, in April 2020.

His first FBS offer arrived from TCU in June 2020, and he committed to the Horned Frogs. Belton added offers from Houston, South Carolina, West Virginia and others during the 2020 season and decommitted from TCU in November 2020. He narrowed his final choice to NC State, Syracuse and UCF, ultimately signing with NC State. He was the 19th-ranked recruit in head coach Dave Doeren's 2021 class. Belton took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his sixth season. He graduated with a degree from NC State (Dec. 2023). Belton opted out of NC State's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (-/-)	-	Georgia Military College
2020: (-/-)	-	Georgia Military College
2021: (2/0)	-	NC State; redshirted
2022: (13/8)	LT	NC State; started first eight games
2023: (13/13)	LT	NC State; Third Team All-ACC
2024: (12/11)	LT	NC State; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (40/32)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6060	336	10 1/4	33 7/8	83 1/8	5.26	3.04	1.82	29 1/2	8' 11"	DNP	7.77	DNP	No SS, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6054	336	10 1/8	34 5/8	84 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	30	DNP	4.69	DNP	20

STRENGTHS:

- Blocks out the sun with massive size
- Adequate lateral movement and relies on long arms to help protect the corner
- Rushers meet hard resistance when attempting to test his anchor
- Plays as powerfully as you would expect to push defenders where he wants
- Washes defenders on down blocks to create running room
- Impressive foot speed on inside zone and blots out defenders on screens
- Plays with an edge and switch stays flipped on the field (it was important to him to have most pancakes each game)
- Actively searches for next victim when uncovered
- Started 32 games at left tackle in the ACC

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average body control is hard to miss
- Weight transfer heavy on his outside foot in slides, leaving him late to answer inside counters
- Inconsistent punch and coil resets to recover after mistimed strike
- Hands get too wide in run game
- Penalized eight times each of past three seasons
- Played 2024 season at 360 pounds and needs to maintain his weight around 340
- Ejected for spitting on Clemson player in September 2024 (Clemson DL T.J. Parker: "Early in the game, he was trying to fight somebody and was talking crazy. ...That's embarrassing for an offensive lineman.")

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at NC State, Belton lined up at left tackle in former offensive coordinator Robert Anae's zone-blocking scheme. After two years at Georgia Military College (where he was teammates with YaYa Diaby), he transferred to the Wolfpack and entrenched himself as the starting left tackle the past three seasons. Because of his size, you don't need to know his jersey number to spot him on film — he received the nickname "Escalade" inside the NC State program, because of the way he can move (at his best on inside zone runs).

He can get in the way as a blocker and control rushers, if his hands are right (big "if"). Overall, Belton uses his size and length to keep the game on his terms, staying centered and forcing defenders to try to go through him. When he is unable to do that, his body control and footwork break down quickly, which needs to be further addressed by NFL coaching. With improved consistency, he has the tools to get on the field and contribute.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round (No. 94 overall)

OT10 Chase Lundt

UConn, 6SR

HOMETOWN Arlington, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Martin	BIRTHDAY Jun 16, 2000	AGE 24.85	HT 6074	WT 303	NUM #75
---------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Chase Lundt, the oldest of three children, grew up in the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex with his father (Chester) and mother (Sheila Womack-Lundt). He was first introduced to organized sports at age 5 at his local YMCA, playing basketball. Lundt then started playing baseball before giving flag football a try in second grade for the Frisco Giants. He played tackle football in fourth grade, primarily at offensive tackle and on the defensive line. He was also a pass catcher in 7-on-7 and played basketball throughout middle school.

Lundt enrolled at James Martin High in Arlington, Texas, the same program that produced NFL All-Pro pass rusher Myles Garrett. He had a rocky first season on the Freshman "B" team, playing tight end and offensive tackle. He moved up to JV as a sophomore tight end in 2016 and was given the nickname "Spider," because he was such a long, lanky athlete. As a junior, Lundt made the jump to varsity as a 235-pound tight end and played predominantly in a three-point stance inline for Martin's power-run offense. He played alongside tight end Brayden Willis, who became a mentor for him before a productive stint at Oklahoma; Willis is now with the San Francisco 49ers. The program posted an 11-win season before falling to eventual state champion Allen in the 2017 state semifinals. As a senior captain, Lundt bulked up to 265 pounds and transitioned to left tackle, helping Martin to the 2018 6A state playoffs. He earned all-district honors in his final season.

A three-star recruit, Lundt was the 204th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 352 recruit in Texas. A late bloomer on the football field, he transitioned from tight end to offensive tackle during spring practices after his junior season in March 2018. Lundt received his first offer from FCS Alabama A&M, then UConn became the first FBS program to show him legitimate interest. After former UConn head coach Randy Edsall offered him in May 2018, Lundt visited Storrs the next month and committed, essentially shutting down his recruitment. He was the 11th-ranked recruit in Edsall's 2019 class. Because UConn canceled the 2020 season because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Lundt returned for his sixth season in 2024.

He graduated with a degree in communications (May 2023) and is pursuing a second degree in urban and community studies. Lundt accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but was a late scratch because of a sprained MCL.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (-/-)	-	Redshirted; enrolled July 2019
2020: (-/-)	-	Season canceled because of pandemic
2021: (11/11)	RT	Missed season finale (ACL)
2022: (13/13)	RT
2023: (12/12)	RT
2024: (13/13)	RT
Total: (49/49)	RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6074	304	9 5/8	32 5/8	77 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	20	BP only (choice)
PRO DAY	6073	303	9 1/2	32 7/8	78 1/4	5.40	2.99	1.76	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Lean, light-footed athlete who looks like a former tight end
- Reaches landmarks in pass pro with lateral range to carry high-side rushers up the arc
- Flies out of stance with outside-zone range

- Displays fluidity through his hips to quickly snap and seal the edge
- Closes space quickly on screens; climbs and collects pancakes on open-side blocks
- Looks to plant defenders on their backs when finishing on the move (models play attitude after Penei Sewell)
- Flagged for holding just once over final 22 starts
- Strong feedback from his coaches (Jim Mora Jr.: "He is very dependable. You can count on him to work hard every day and have a great attitude.")
- Trained his left tackle stance with Alex Boone during pre-draft workouts, to prove his versatility
- Played through bumps and bruises — started every game past three seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks desired girth and thickness for trench play (struggled to add weight; nutrition has become a key focus)
- Average power through core and needs to continue improving play strength
- Tall with high hips, making it tough to reset his anchor versus bull rushers or dig out defenders in run game
- On the ground in recovery attempts more than you'd like
- Inconsistent strike timing mid-slide
- Needs continued technical development to keep rushers from his edges
- Will be 25 when he reports for first NFL training camp
- Torn ACL and meniscus in left knee (Nov. 2021), but he returned from his rehab in eight months and started 2022 season opener; missed Senior Bowl and combine because of sprained MCL
- 99.9 percent of college snaps came at right tackle; doesn't have experience at other positions

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at UConn, Lundt was entrenched as the right tackle in offensive coordinator Gordon Sammis' zone-blocking scheme. A late bloomer on the offensive line, he showed gradual improvements over the past three seasons for the Huskies and was at his best in 2024 (strong run tape, zero sacks allowed).

With his springy athleticism, Lundt shines as an on-the-move run blocker to easily execute short/long pulls and backside cutoffs, although he has trouble unlocking leverage at times because of his tall pads. He shows similar foot quickness in pass protection with a lot of jump sets and purposeful punch, but he needs to calm his feet to more easily drop his anchor against power. Overall, Lundt needs to continue developing his lower body to hold the point and answer NFL power, but he has the athletic movement traits that will be interesting for wide-zone teams. He projects as a potential swing tackle.

GRADE: 4th round

OT11 Cameron Williams

Texas, 3JR

HOMETOWN Duncanville, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Duncanville	BIRTHDAY Oct 16, 2003	AGE 21.52	HT 6056	WT 334	NUM #56
-----------------------------	----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Cameron Williams grew up in Duncanville, Texas (south of Dallas), with his parents. He joined the Mustangs youth football program and also played basketball. Williams enrolled at Duncanville High, where he was teammates with cornerback Ennis Rakestraw Jr.

He started on varsity at right tackle as a sophomore and was named the district newcomer of the year as he helped the team to a 15-1 record (only loss came in the 2019 6A state championship game). As a junior, Williams earned unanimous first-team all-district honors as Duncanville posted another 10-win season. He returned in 2021 as the starting right tackle as a senior and again earned first-team all-district. Williams helped Duncanville to a third straight district championship, 14-2 record, and berth in the 2021 6A state title game (again lost to North Shore). He also used his size on the basketball court for Duncanville and played club basketball for the Dallas Showtyme.

A four-star recruit, Williams was the 35th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 56 recruit in Texas. Because of his rare size, he started to receive offers during his freshman year, including from Oklahoma State and Utah (Jan. 2019). High-profile offers started to pile up during his sophomore year, including from Auburn, Georgia, LSU, Miami, Michigan, Ohio State, Texas A&M, USC and others. As a junior, Williams added an offer from Texas, which immediately jumped to the top of his list. He named a top three of Oklahoma, Oregon and Texas and originally committed to the Ducks (July 2021). However, just days after head coach Mario Cristobal left for Miami, Williams decommitted and flipped to Texas (Dec. 2021). He was the 22nd-ranked recruit in head coach Steve Sarkisian's 2022 class. After three years in Austin, Williams elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2022: (13/0)	-	Enrolled June 2022
2023: (9/1)	RT	First start came in place of injured Christian Jones
2024: (15/15)	RT	Missed one game (right knee)
Total: (37/16)	RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6056	317	11 3/8	34 1/2	84 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (rehabbing right knee injury)
PRO DAY	6056	334	11 1/8	34 7/8	85	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Big-bodied blocker with a broad frame and massive thighs
- Length for days, which helps him latch and drive in run game
- Stays connected through his finish to dump defenders or toss smaller players around like toys
- Functional mobility for his size, executing cross pulls and covering up defenders in space
- Shows basic understanding of leverage in run game
- Comfortable climbing and locating target in space
- Typically times snap well and stays under control in initial sets
- Engulfs rushers in his pass slides with heavy hands to create stopping power
- Still very young — has yet to play his best football

WEAKNESSES:

- Flagged 18 times in 16 career starts (11 false starts, six holding calls, one unsportsmanlike)
- Late to fire hands, allowing defenders to dictate action
- Wild aiming points — hands land wide and off-center
- Doesn't always maximize length, allowing rushers to get underneath, inch him backward and diminish pocket space
- Reaches landmarks as a puller and climber but needs to use better control to execute blocks
- Exceeded 370 pounds during sophomore season at Texas; consistent conditioning will be paramount
- Missed one game as junior because of sprained right knee (Dec. 2024), which required surgery after season — long-term medicals will be critical
- All of starts came at right tackle (primarily a right tackle in high school)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas, Williams stepped into the right tackle role in head coach Steve Sarkisian's multiple-run scheme (RPO, wide-zone offense). Christian Jones' return to Austin for a sixth season in 2023 delayed Williams' time as a full-time starter until the 2024 season, and that inexperience (along with his intriguing talent) showed as the Longhorns made a deep playoff push.

With his wide frame, long arms and functional movement skills, Williams flashes the ability to overwhelm defenders in the run game and force rushers to take a $20 Uber ride to get around him in pass pro. However, there are several basic and non-negotiable details he must develop at the next level, especially his lack of well-timed or repeatable hands — frequently the culprit when he's off balance (and what makes him a flag magnet). Overall, Williams is incredibly raw, which presents itself in several ways, but the physical traits and power are easy to identify and will have NFL offensive line coaches excited about developing him. As long as his knee is healthy, he has down-the-road starting ability at tackle or guard.

GRADE: 4th round

OT12 Logan Brown

Kansas, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Grand Rapids, MI	East Kentwood	Apr 17, 2001	24.02	6063	311	#52

BACKGROUND: Logan Brown grew up in Grand Rapids, Mich., with his mother (Kristyn Miller) and father (Jessie Brown) in a blended family. His father, who encouraged him to try football, died in May 2021. Logan's older sister (Jessica) played college volleyball at Western Michigan (2009-12) and earned first-team All-MAC honors as a middle blocker.

Brown grew up competing in baseball, track and several other sports — he set a shot put record in middle school. But he didn't play organized football, partly because his size disqualified him from participating in youth leagues. In May 2021, Brown proposed to his high school sweetheart (Sarah Stapleton), who was a college sprinter at Davenport.

Brown enrolled at East Kentwood High and decided to join the football team. After working on the basics as a freshman, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore and started six games at left tackle and defensive tackle while battling a stress fracture. When he was a junior, East Kentwood featured one of the best left sides of an offensive line in the country: Brown at left tackle and Mazi Smith at left guard. Brown and Smith became best friends through football, and Smith went on to become a first-round pick of the Dallas Cowboys (as a defensive tackle) in the 2023 NFL Draft. As a senior captain in 2018, Brown earned all-state honors for the second straight year and led East Kentwood to a 9-2 finish, including the school's first league championship in 16 years. He was selected for the All-American Bowl. Brown also starred on the track team and won the Class A state championship in the shot put as a sophomore and junior. He had personal bests of 61 feet, 2 inches in the shot put and 128-8 in the discus.

A five-star recruit, Brown was the fourth-ranked offensive tackle (behind Evan Neal, Darnell Wright and Kenyon Green) in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Michigan (Smith was No. 4 in the state). Brown was the No. 17 recruit nationally. After not playing football until his freshman year in 2015, he picked up his first offer from Akron, followed by another from Wisconsin a week later (June 2016). Brown took multiple visits and started collecting offers during his junior year, including from heavy hitters such as Alabama, Michigan, Ohio State and Penn State. He connected with the Wisconsin coaches and loved his Madison visits, though, which led him to commit to the Badgers toward the end of his junior season. Other programs continued to recruit him, but he essentially shut down his recruitment.

Brown was the top-ranked recruit (Joe Tippmann was No. 2) in former head coach Paul Chryst's 2019 class. However, his Badgers career was marred by injuries, and he struggled to lock down a starting role. He was kicked off the team by interim head coach Jim Leonhard midway through the 2022 season after reportedly striking another player during practice (Leonhard: "It was not a choice. He was dismissed from the program.").

Brown entered the transfer portal in October 2022 and signed with Kansas. He secured a sixth year of eligibility because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Brown graduated with a degree from Kansas (Dec. 2023). Brown accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (-/-)	-	Wisconsin
2020: (7/0)	-	Wisconsin; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/0)	-	Wisconsin
2022: (5/3)	2 RT, 1 LT	Wisconsin; dismissed from program (Oct. 2022)
2023: (2/0)	-	Kansas; missed final 11 games (left foot)
2024: (11/11)	RT	Kansas; Second Team All-Big 12; missed final game (injury)
Total: (38/14)		13 RT, 1 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6063	311	10	33 7/8	84	5.18	2.98	1.75	32	9' 3"	4.51	7.75	26	No second 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	6063	309	10	34 1/4	84 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Athletic big man and efficient on wide zone (frontside and backside)
- Prototypical frame, with length and proportionate mass
- One of just six players at combine with a wingspan at least 84 inches
- Quick setup to answer wide rush speed
- Well-timed with his length to push rushers around the arc
- Firm inside power step and hand response to answer counters
- Base blocks showcase his anchor and grip strength
- Rangy and comfortable on short and long pulls
- Physical hands in run game, creating pop at contact to erase his man in space

WEAKNESSES:

- Only 14 career starts
- Sets tall in pass protection and needs to play with better sink/bend
- Late to anticipate line games and balance can be disrupted in space
- Opens prematurely, leading to lunges or misaligned hip angles
- Hands get grabby (four holding penalties on 2024 tapes studied)
- Inconsistent redirect for timely adjustments on the move
- Dismissal from Wisconsin will require extra digging to understand context
- Left foot injury (Sept. 2023), which required season-ending surgery
- Will be 24 on draft weekend

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Kansas, Brown settled in at right tackle in offensive coordinator Jeff Grimes' RPO-based, zone scheme with some gap principles (previously played in a gap scheme at Wisconsin). A former five-star recruit, he struggled to get on the field in Madison and missed the 2023 season because of an injury, before finally playing a full season in 2024.

With his size and athleticism, Brown reaches his landmarks in pass protection and shows the mobility for reach blocks, kick-outs and skip pulls. However, his upright pads and varying leverage points put him in compromised positions, and he is still learning how to get himself out of those awkward spots (see his inconsistent Senior Bowl performance). Overall, Brown's untidy technique and lack of experience lead to balance issues, but he has an interesting combination of size, quickness and natural power that can be developed by NFL coaching. He projects as a reserve swing tackle with a path to becoming a starter at some point on his rookie deal.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

HOMETOWN Morrisville, NC	HIGH SCHOOL Panther Creek	BIRTHDAY Nov 13, 2001	AGE 23.44	HT 6071	WT 314	NUM #76
-----------------------------	------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Carson Vinson, who has an older brother (Chandler), grew up outside of Raleigh, N.C., with his parents (Del and Tonya). His mother, an English teacher, died in November 2017 at age 46. Vinson played multiple sports throughout childhood and wanted to be a quarterback when he started in football. He then hoped to play wide receiver, but his size led the coaches to put him on the offensive and defensive lines while at Cedar Fork Middle School.

Vinson attended Panther Creek High in Cary, N.C., where he was a four-year varsity letterman. He became the starting left guard on varsity as a sophomore while also seeing snaps on the defensive line. Vinson returned as the starting left guard as a junior and helped lead the team to six wins (after going 0-11 in 2017) and a spot in the 2018 Class 4AA state playoffs. As a senior, he showed off his versatility by splitting his starts between left tackle, left guard and center (as well as some defensive tackle), earning all-conference honors and helping Panther Creek to another postseason appearance. Vinson also lettered in basketball.

A two-star recruit, Vinson was the 247th-ranked offensive guard in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 121 recruit in North Carolina. He received his first scholarship offer at the start of his senior season from Division II St. Augustine's. Vinson played his entire senior season without a Division I offer, until FCS North Carolina Central offered him in December 2019. Over the next few weeks, Alabama A&M and VMI entered the mix, and Vinson officially committed to Alabama A&M on signing day. After his first season was pushed to the spring of 2021 because of the COVID-19 pandemic, he earned the starting left tackle job and helped Alabama A&M to the SWAC championship. Vinson was named to the 2024 NCAA FCS Athletic Directors Association Academic All-Star Team and graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (4/4)	LT	Pandemic-shortened season played in spring 2021
2021: (10/10)	LT
2022: (11/11)	LT
2023: (11/11)	LT
2024: (12/12)	LT	Second Team All-American; First Team All-SWAC; SWAC OL of the year
Total: (48/48)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6071	314	10 1/4	34 1/2	84 3/8	5.12	2.96	1.80	28 1/2	9' 3"	DNP	7.51	DNP	No SS, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6070	321	10 1/8	34 5/8	84 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	28 1/2	DNP	4.85	7.64	14

STRENGTHS:

- Boasts prototypical size measurements with long arms
- Plays balanced on his feet with steady mirror quickness
- Posted fastest pass-rush drop speed (14.79 mph) at combine
- Uses length to establish first meaningful contact and ride rushers up the arc
- Accelerates through run fits and flashes powerful grip at contact
- Accurately locates opponents as a climber to tag linebackers
- Worked hard to add weight and develop his craft (Vinson: "I'm addicted to football.")
- Started every game at left tackle past five seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Needs to pay better mind to his knee bend mid-slide
- Falls off defenders because of sporadic hand placement, either too far inside or outside
- Power rushers will toss him when his technique breaks down
- Needs to revamp engagement mechanics to roll his hips in run game
- Could benefit from additional lower-body mass
- Overaggressive at times — multiple unsportsmanlike conduct flags on his 2024 tape that need cleaned up
- Doesn't have proven versatility at multiple positions on tape

SUMMARY: A five-year starter at Alabama A&M, Vinson was a pillar at left tackle in former offensive coordinator Duane Taylor's balanced run scheme. Lightly recruited out of high school, he was a diamond in the rough and developed into one of the top non-FBS prospects in the 2025 NFL Draft (he is trying to become Alabama A&M's draft pick since 2011 and its first offensive player drafted in over 30 years). He had up-and-down tape against the two SEC opponents on the schedule the past two seasons (Vanderbilt in 2023, Auburn in 2024), but he didn't look out of place during Senior Bowl practices. In pass protection, Vinson has the feet to answer edge rushers and puts his length to good use, although crafty rushers can manipulate him out of position and use his aggressiveness against him. His pad-level issues also show up in the run game, leading to shaky contact balance when attempting to control defenders and draw force through the ground. Overall, Vinson has some habits that must be fine-tuned before he is ready for NFL competition, but he has intriguing physical traits with the energy and desire to get the most out of his ability. There shouldn't be an expectation of an immediate return on investment, but he is a worthy draft-and-develop lineman.

GRADE: 5th round

OT14 Myles Hinton

Michigan, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
John's Creek, GA	Greater Atlanta Christian	Jan 09, 2002	23.29	6066	325	#78

BACKGROUND: Myles Hinton, the youngest of two boys, grew up in the Atlanta suburbs with his parents (Chris and Mya). His father was an All-America offensive tackle at Northwestern (1980-83) and a first-round pick (No. 4) in the 1983 NFL Draft. He was selected by Denver but dealt to Baltimore on draft day as part of the John Elway trade. He went on to be a seven-time Pro Bowler over 13 NFL seasons (1983-95) with the Colts, Falcons and Vikings. Myles' mother, who was a standout basketball player at Northwestern, earned a law degree at Notre Dame and was a prosecutor. His aunt (Anique Whitmore) also played basketball at Northwestern. Chris and Mya launched the "College Football Parents 24/7" advocacy group to help give the parents of college athletes a voice. Myles' older brother (Chris) played nose tackle at Michigan (2019-21) and went undrafted in the 2022 NFL Draft. He bounced around several practice squads before finding a home with the Los Angeles Chargers.

Myles Hinton tried numerous sports growing up, including baseball, basketball, lacrosse, soccer and swimming (he's also an avid fisherman). He also played football, like his father and older brother, and stood out because of his size — but it wasn't love at first sight. Instead, Hinton was more drawn to music (saxophone and electric piano) and art. He attended several art camps throughout childhood, and some of his work was later featured at the Museum of Civil Rights.

As he grew into his body and became more coordinated, he went from "hating" football to embracing it in eighth grade. Hinton attended Greater Atlanta Christian School, a program that has produced several NFL players, including Hinton's high school and college quarterback, Davis Mills. Given his size and ability, Hinton saw varsity reps as early as seventh grade. He played both ways as a tackle and defensive tackle in high school and helped the program to four straight regional championships. He missed his junior season in 2018 because of a shoulder dislocation that required surgery, but he returned healthy as a senior. Hinton also lettered in basketball and track and won the 2018 state championship in discus.

A four-star recruit, Hinton was the sixth-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 9 recruit in Georgia. He started collecting offers as a high school freshman, including from national programs Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Miami, Ohio State and USC. Most expected Hinton to join his older brother at Michigan, but he wanted to forge his own path and committed to Stanford during his junior year (Jan. 2019). He was the top-ranked recruit in former head coach David Shaw's 2020 class.

Following Shaw's resignation after the 2022 season, Hinton entered the transfer portal and signed with Michigan for his final two seasons of eligibility. He is studying environmental science with the goal of becoming a marine biologist after his football career. Hinton opted out of Michigan's 2024 bowl game and declined all-star invites during the NFL Draft process.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	-	Stanford; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/9)	RT	Stanford
2022: (7/7)	6 RT, 1 LT	Stanford; missed five games (injury)
2023: (13/5)	4 RT, 1 LT	Michigan
2024: (10/10)	LT	Michigan; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed two games (injury); missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (46/31)	19 RT, 12 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6066	323	10 1/4	34 1/8	82 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	DNP	4.96	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6066	325	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.94	DNP	19

STRENGTHS:

- Well-built and proportional, with NFL-quality length
- Coordinated mover for 325 pounds and plays well on his feet
- Rarely overextends himself when letting his hands go
- Able to drop anchor against bull rushers, despite average bend
- Very intelligent and appears to have a good handle on line games
- Clinches inside the pads to stand up defenders and wall off lanes

- Flagged just once over two seasons at Michigan (false start vs. Texas)
- Experienced on both sides — double-digit starts at both left and right tackle

WEAKNESSES:

- Needs to be more controlling and forceful in pass pro
- Often plays upright, which prevents ability to win with leverage
- Periodically drifts and has late recovery versus quick-footed rushers (see 2024 Indiana tape)
- Aiming points need better consistency versus post-snap movement and gap exchanges
- Inconsistent drive blocking and sustain, sometimes falling off block
- Durability will be questioned after he missed two games as senior (Oct. 2024) and five as sophomore (Sept. 2022); missed most of junior season in high school because of shoulder surgery (2018)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Michigan, Hinton stepped in at left tackle in head coach Sherrone Moore's run-heavy multiple run scheme. The son of a seven-time Pro Bowler, he had a rocky tenure at Stanford before transferring to Ann Arbor, where he played his best football in 2024 after switching from right tackle to the left side.

In the run game, Hinton ties up and secures on angle blocks and looks comfortable covering up second-level defenders on the move. He has the play strength to finish in pass protection when he stays squared, although his upright posture and average hand use can leave him stressed against crafty pass rushers. Overall, Hinton leaves you wanting more on his tape, but his traits are appealing — he has the length, feet and core strength to stabilize his blocks. He projects as a depth piece for an NFL offensive line, with swing-tackle potential.

GRADE: 5th round

OT15 Hollin Pierce

Rutgers, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Trenton, NJ	Central	Apr 19, 2001	24.01	6083	341	#72

BACKGROUND: Hollin Pierce, who has a sister (Gabrielle), grew up in Trenton, N.J., with his parents (Michael and Tara). He played basketball and soccer as a kid, and his mother made sure he was active and involved with sports throughout childhood. He didn't play organized football growing up but was a Dallas Cowboys fan. His uncle (Hollis Copeland) was a standout basketball player at Rutgers (1974-78) and was drafted by the Denver Nuggets in the third round (No. 46) of the 1978 NBA Draft. When Pierce was 11, his mother died in July 2012 at age 49 after battling an illness. As he battled depression following his mother's death, Pierce put on significant weight during his teenage years.

Pierce attended Trenton Central High, where he planned to play basketball. At 455 pounds going into his junior year, his uncle encouraged him to give football a try, despite not having any experience. Pierce joined a team that included Ji'Ayir Brown (2023 third-round safety for the San Francisco 49ers), and the coaches put him at defensive tackle and offensive tackle. He took another step in his development as a senior and helped the team to the 2018 state playoffs. Still extremely raw and without any scholarship offers, Pierce took the advice of college recruiters and played a post-graduate season on the offensive line at Fork Union (Va.) Military Academy for the 2019 season.

A no-star recruit, Pierce wasn't ranked by online recruiting services and went widely overlooked by FBS programs, even after his post-graduate year. During the 2019 season at Fork Union, he received a few Division II offers and finally picked up his first Division I offer from FCS Morgan State. Although he didn't love the fit, Pierce was ready to commit because it was his best option. However, once the COVID-19 pandemic hit, he decided to spend the spring of 2020 training his body and technique in hopes of getting on the FBS radar.

After sending out video after video, Pierce got a bite from Rutgers (his dream school growing up), which offered a walk-on opportunity. He joined the program in June 2020 at 400 pounds and spent his first season conditioning. The following spring, Pierce was put on scholarship during the 2021 spring game. He earned multiple Academic All-Big Ten honors and graduated with a degree from Rutgers (May 2024). Pierce accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	-	Redshirted; enrolled June 2020 as a walk-on
2021: (13/12)	RT
2022: (12/12)	RT
2023: (13/13)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (13/13)	LT	Second Team All-Big Ten
Total: (52/50)	26 LT, 24 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6083	341	9 7/8	36	88 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Remarkable size and length, with pterodactyl wingspan (88 1/4 inches was largest wingspan at combine)
- Wears his weight comfortably from head to toe
- Functional lateral movements and works hard to keep his man in front of him
- Plays with ready hands to make defenders feel his long arms
- Quickly recoils and peppers with his punch in an attempt to slow rushers
- Plays with power through core in run game
- Rutgers coaches singled out his "dedication to technique" as best part of his game
- Grounded individual; worked exceptionally hard to reshape his body and nutritional mindset
- Started 50 games past four seasons, with his time split almost evenly between left and right tackle

WEAKNESSES:

- Can be caught in compromised positions because of tall hips/pads
- Change of direction lacking because of tall center of gravity
- Over-sets at times, opening door for rushers to skirt across his face
- Needs to shore up punch timing to be more of the aggressor, instead of a catcher
- Inconsistent anchor — will be bullied backward once rushers reach his chest
- Loses control and falls off blocks because of excessive leaning in run game
- Inconsistent climbing angles — quick-footed linebackers can easily avoid his blocks

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Rutgers, Pierce was a steady left tackle in offensive coordinator Kirk Ciarrocca's zone-blocking scheme. One of the best backstories in the class, he was a 455-pound junior in high school when he decided to try football and ultimately transformed himself into an All-Big Ten tackle and NFL prospect after walking on at Rutgers.

In pass protection, Pierce occupies a large surface area with decent feet, long arms and technical focus, but NFL speed will limit his margin for error with punch timing and set points. Though he flashes power to torque in the run game, his tall pads can leave him falling off angle-drive blocks. Overall, Pierce is a towering offensive tackle with rare length to steer and swallow up defenders, although there are drawbacks to his frame that leave him off balance. He projects as a swing backup in the NFL, with a chance to be more.

GRADE: 5th round

OT16 Jalen Travis

Iowa State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Minneapolis, MN	DeLaSalle	Apr 19, 2002	23.01	6076	339	#72

BACKGROUND: Jalen Travis, the fourth of five children, grew up in an athletic family in the Minneapolis area with his parents (Nate and Jackie). His oldest brother (Jonah) played basketball at Harvard (2011-15). His second-oldest brother (Reid) played college basketball at Stanford (2014-18) and Kentucky (2018-19) and currently plays professionally in Japan (Jalen served as the officiant for Reid's wedding in the summer of 2024). His older sister (Olivia) played college basketball at Trevecca Nazarene and Illinois-Springfield before taking an assistant coaching job for Western Illinois' women's basketball team in 2023. His younger sister (Grace) is a junior on the beach volleyball team at St. Mary's (Calif.) College.

Jalen Travis played little league football growing up, but, like his older siblings, he always gravitated toward basketball. He played for several travel teams throughout middle school and competed for Team Sizzle on the AAU circuit in sixth grade — he was teammates with current NBA players Chet Holmgren (Oklahoma City Thunder) and Jalen Suggs (Orlando Magic).

Travis enrolled at DeLaSalle High, a Catholic school in Minneapolis, where his father took a maintenance job to aid in tuition costs. He started his high school career as more of a basketball player, but he also played football and saw varsity action as a freshman. Travis became a starting left tackle as a sophomore, and by the end of the 2017 season, he came to the realization that football would be his best chance at a college scholarship. He served as a team captain over his junior and senior seasons, earning district lineman of the year and all-state honors. Travis also lettered in basketball and helped the team to the 2018-19 state championship as a junior. Travis, who was also an honor roll recipient and student body co-president, was named DeLaSalle's 2020 male athlete of the year.

A three-star recruit, Travis was the 217th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 16 recruit in Minnesota. He received his first offer after his junior season from FCS Indiana State. A few weeks later, Travis picked up his first FBS offer from in-state Minnesota and head coach P.J. Fleck. Despite other offers from the Big Ten and Big 12 (Iowa State), he was drawn to several Ivy League opportunities and committed to Princeton after his senior season. However, Travis remained in Minneapolis because of the COVID-19 pandemic, and the Ivy League canceled all fall sports. He finally stepped foot on campus in the spring of 2021 and joined the football team.

After two seasons as a starter, Travis entered the transfer portal in November 2023. He had plenty of FBS interest but was drawn to Matt Campbell's culture at Iowa State and signed with the Cyclones. Travis is highly accomplished off the field and was awarded the 2024 Coach Wooden Citizenship Cup for his impact in the community, specifically with his foundation "The Just Action Coalition." He interned in the office of Sen. Amy Klobuchar in Washington, D.C., in the summer of 2022 and plans to attend law school after football. Travis graduated with a degree from Princeton (May 2024), where he concentrated in legal, political and economic (LPE) anthropology with a certificate in African American studies. He also received a certificate of education from Iowa State (Dec. 2024). Travis accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (-/-)	-	Princeton; season canceled because of pandemic
2021: (7/0)	-	Princeton
2022: (9/9)	8 RT, 1 LT	Princeton; Second Team All-Ivy
2023: (6/6)	LT	Princeton; Second Team All-Ivy; team captain; missed three games (injury)
2024: (12/11)	LT	Iowa State; Honorable Mention All-Big 12; missed first two games (injury)
Total: (34/26)		18 LT, 8 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6076	339	10 1/2	34 7/8	83 1/2	5.14	2.96	1.80	35	9' 4"	DNP	DNP	26	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6076	341	10 3/8	34 7/8	83	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.94	8.08	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Enormous size with matching arm length and wingspan
- The earth rumbles when he moves, but he has basketball feet
- Light feet out of stance to set up shop in pass pro (see 2024 Miami tape)
- Strong as an ox — looks to get physical with his long arms on every snap
- Can push defenders away from the pocket or into the ground, once he locks on
- Puts that Princeton education to good use when dissecting stunts/blitzes
- Makes heavy contact on down blocks
- Not a slug when asked to execute kick-outs or short pulls
- Described as a "diligent worker" by his coaches
- Experienced on both left and right side

WEAKNESSES:

- Sets tall and often caught lunging with upper half extended over his feet
- Lack of sink/bend leaves him ill-equipped to halt power rushers
- Can do better job power stepping to answer inside counters
- Hands tend to wander in run game, leaving him strained and off balance
- Only one season of experience against FBS competition
- Battled through injuries as junior at Princeton in 2023, which lingered into time at Iowa State and sidelined him for first two games of 2024 season

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Iowa State, Travis manned the left tackle position in first-year offensive coordinator Taylor Mouser's RPO-based multiple scheme. He was a part of the Princeton football program for four years before transferring to Iowa State in 2024 and helping the Cyclones to their first 10-win season in school history.

Travis is quick enough in his pass pro setup to engulf and overwhelm opponents with pure size, although issues with his elevated pads and inconsistent bend will be more pronounced at the next level. He offers functional mobility in the run game as a zone blocker but is more mechanical than instinctive as a finisher. Overall, Travis' balance and anchor issues will be catnip for savvy NFL defenders, but he is relatively athletic for a body that size and strong as hell to secure blocks once in position. He has developmental potential as an NFL swing tackle.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

HOMETOWN Stoughton, WI	HIGH SCHOOL Stoughton	BIRTHDAY Jan 15, 2002	AGE 23.27	HT 6070	WT 318	NUM #79
---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jack Nelson, the oldest of four boys, grew up just outside of Madison, Wis., with his parents (Todd and Sarah). Todd was a three-year starting offensive guard and senior captain at Wisconsin (1984-88), where he was teammates (and roommates) with Paul Chryst; he was selected by the Phoenix Cardinals in the 12th round (No. 318) of the 1989 NFL Draft. Sarah is a chiropractor.

While growing up in a football family, all four of the Nelson boys played on the offensive line at Stoughton High, and Jack's younger brother (Barrett) is a rising junior offensive lineman at Wisconsin. Jack Nelson started playing football at the pee-wee level and was a sponge learning offensive line play from his father, who coached his youth teams all the way through middle school. Nelson played several other sports, including basketball, and is a licensed scuba diver.

He attended Stoughton High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman. He became the full-time starting left tackle on varsity as a sophomore, while also playing on the defensive line. As a junior, Nelson earned first-team all-state and all-conference honors. As a senior, he helped lead Stoughton to eight wins and a share of the school's first conference title since 1975. Nelson again earned first-team all-state and all-conference honors and was named the Joe Thomas Award winner as the state's top senior offensive lineman (also accounted for 46 tackles). He earned an invitation to the 2020 All-American Bowl in San Antonio. Nelson was also a three-time letterman on the Stoughton basketball team.

A four-star recruit, Nelson was the 10th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Wisconsin. He had a very uneventful recruitment — Wisconsin invited him to campus for a visit midway through his sophomore season, he received an official offer while on the visit and committed a week later (first commit of the Badgers' 2020 recruiting class). He heard from several other prominent programs, such as Alabama, Michigan and Notre Dame, but he wasn't interested and shut down his recruitment. A legacy at Wisconsin, he'd grown up cheering for the Badgers and called Wisconsin his "dream school." Nelson was the second-ranked recruit in Chryst's 2020 class. He earned Academic All-Big Ten honors four straight years (2021-24). Nelson accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but pulled out of the event.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	-	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (13/13)	RG	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2022: (12/12)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2023: (13/13)	LT
2024: (12/12)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (51/50)		37 LT, 13 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6070	314	10	33 1/2	81 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left hamstring)
PRO DAY	6070	318	9 7/8	33 3/4	80 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	23

STRENGTHS:

- Frame of an NFL offensive tackle, with functional length
- Efficient out of stance into a ready position as a pass blocker
- Smooth lateral mover in pass pro and as run blocker
- Patient and controlled with his punch
- Strong latch hands, making it tough for defenders to disengage
- Sorts through games and simulated pressures
- Runs his feet to secure washdown blocks on outside zone
- Started 50 games over past four seasons, with time at tackle and guard

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent mirror technique in pass protection
- Plays tall with inconsistent flexibility, which zaps his anchor strength
- Inconsistent reach timing; allows defenders to make first meaningful contact
- Doesn't have core power to easily dig himself out of compromised spots
- Feet slow down once his hands make contact
- Combined for 32 total penalties over past four seasons, including four holding flags in 2024
- Needs better hip roll into run-game engagement

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Wisconsin, Nelson lined up at left tackle in former offensive coordinator Phil Longo's zone-based, Air Raid scheme (although he believes his best position is at right tackle). The son of an NFL draft pick, he grew up in an offensive line family and learned under four offensive line coaches in Madison, making key improvements from his junior to senior seasons.

Nelson has functional athleticism in his setup to handle swing-tackle duties, although reps can get away from him at times because of inconsistent posture and balance. His run-game tape shows better promise with his lateral maneuvers to reach defenders and his range on backside zone and gap-side cutoffs. Overall, Nelson is an instinctive, skilled blocker with the baseline traits for the next level, although he might be a "master of none" type of blocker, which could relegate him to backup status.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

OT18 Branson Taylor

Pittsburgh, 5SR

HOMETOWN Lorain, OH	HIGH SCHOOL Elyria Catholic	BIRTHDAY Feb 13, 2002	AGE 23.19	HT 6060	WT 315	NUM #78
------------------------	--------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Branson Taylor, the youngest of two boys, was born and raised in Lorain, Ohio (west of Cleveland), with his father (Brian Taylor) and mother (Heather Roule). When Branson was 4, his father died at age 40 in June 2006. His older brother (Spencer Roule) is a longtime assistant basketball coach at John Carroll University. Taylor grew up playing basketball, which became his go-to sport throughout elementary and middle school. Taylor got engaged to his high school sweetheart (Kaylyn) in May 2024.

Taylor attended Elyria Catholic High, a private Catholic school. He initially only played basketball after starting high school, but his AAU coach (Donnie Moody) suggested he give football a try. Taylor joined the football team at Elyria Catholic and was a backup tight end as a sophomore, as he gradually acclimated to the new sport. He moved to the offensive line as a junior and started at right tackle (also caught a 10-yard touchdown as a tight end), helping the team to a nine-win season and the 2018 league title. As a senior, Taylor moved to left tackle (earned first-team all-state) and also played on the defensive line, collecting 50 tackles, 7.5 tackles for loss and two sacks. He continued playing basketball at Elyria Catholic and earned first-team all-county honors.

A three-star recruit, Taylor was the 40th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 12 recruit in Ohio (No. 2 offensive lineman in the state behind Paris Johnson Jr.). Despite not playing on the offensive line until his junior season, his recruitment picked up steam quickly — and the offers followed. The summer before his senior season, Taylor narrowed down his choice to Michigan State, Pittsburgh, Purdue, Tennessee or West Virginia. A diehard Steelers fan (his mother's family is from Pittsburgh), he officially committed to Pitt in August 2019 and was the fourth-ranked recruit in head coach Pat Narduzzi's 2020 class (behind Jordan Addison and Israel Abanikanda). Taylor graduated with a degree in law, criminal justice and society. He was unable to participate in any pre-draft all-star games because of a knee injury.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	-	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (12/0)	-
2022: (13/4)	LT
2023: (11/11)	8 LT, 3 RT	Missed one game (injury)
2024: (6/6)	LT	Missed final seven games (left knee); team captain
Total: (45/21)	18 LT, 3 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6060	321	9 3/4	32 3/4	81 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (left knee injury)
PRO DAY	6060	315	9 5/8	33 5/8	82 1/4	5.28	3.01	1.82	28 1/2	8'8"	4.62	7.40	25

STRENGTHS:

- Adequate quickness into kick-out blocks and landmarks to stay on time
- Attempts to close space and make early contact before rushers can set up moves
- Plays with wide base, and his hands stay in sync with his feet
- Shows basic understanding of how to mix up jabs and stay unpredictable
- Has enough contact strength to dig out and dent on down/base blocks
- Enough mobility to execute on pulls/climbs in space
- Team captain; stayed with his teammates despite missing second half of 2024 season with an injury

WEAKNESSES:

- Body looks the part, but his shorter-than-ideal arm length shows in his play
- Has tough time recovering once rushers reach his edge or chest
- Caught oversetting as he looks to protect the corner
- Too many inefficiencies in his run blocking
- Will lose leverage battle early, which leads to undisciplined responses
- Not yet a master craftsman, especially when attempting to refit or reset post-contact
- Torn lateral meniscus in left knee as senior (Oct. 2024), which required season-ending surgery

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Pitt, Taylor lined up at left tackle in offensive coordinator Kade Bell's zone-based scheme with some gap principles. He started the 2023 season at right tackle before moving to the left side when Matt Goncalves (third-round pick in the 2024 NFL Draft) suffered a season-ending injury. He stayed at left tackle as a senior until he suffered his own season-ending knee injury, which also sidelined him for much of the draft process.

More of a basketball player than football player when he started high school, Taylor has pass-slide quickness to answer edge rushers and punch-ready hands, although his lack of length and oversetting tendencies are concerns. He flashes power in the run game but must improve his tempo and pace to stay balanced through the finish. Overall, Taylor has workable tools but needs to iron out the inefficiencies in his game, which would allow him to play with more focus as a finisher. Several teams believe his best pro position will be inside at guard.

GRADE: 6th round

OT19 Esa Pole

Washington State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Hayward, CA	Mt. Eden	Jul 04, 2001	23.81	6052	323	#76

BACKGROUND: Esa (ess-suh) Pole (POH-lay), one of eight children, was born in Hayward, Calif. (south of Oakland), to his parents (Sione and Lola Pole). When he was 1, his parents made the difficult decision to have a cousin (Kalo Muller) become his legal guardian and raise him. Despite the arrangement, Pole remained close with his parents and seven siblings and saw them often. His role model was always his older brother (Toni), who played nose tackle at Washington State (2010-2014) and signed a contract with the Cincinnati Bengals after going undrafted in the 2015 NFL Draft.

Pole grew up playing basketball, but Muller stressed academics over sports throughout his upbringing and did not allow him to play football, despite his repeated pleas. Instead, Pole was a three-year starting power forward on the basketball team at Mt. Eden High, but he wasn't recruited to play basketball in college.

After graduating from Mt. Eden in 2019, Pole attended nearby Cal State East Bay in Hayward (studied computer engineering) and worked odd jobs, including at a local shoe store (Shoe Palace) and construction with Sione and Toni. In September 2020, Pole decided he and Muller needed space, so he moved back in with his biological parents. He dropped out of school and felt "lost," but remembered the joy Toni had playing football and wanted that for himself. Despite having zero experience, Pole met with the football coaches at Chabot College, a community college in Hayward, and joined the team in the summer of 2021 (Toni joined the coaching staff as a defensive line coach). Though he had the frame, it took time for Pole to develop the functional strength to get on the field. After the coaches initially put him on the defensive line, he moved to the offensive line and started at left tackle for the 2021 season. As a sophomore, Pole again started at left tackle and took a substantial jump in his development, earning all-region and all-conference honors.

A three-star junior college recruit in the 2023 recruiting class, Pole had a tough first season, yet he still received his first scholarship offer from FCS Lindenwood. After showing improvements as a sophomore, he received his first FBS offer (Utah State) in September 2022, followed by offers from several notable programs, including BYU, California, Fresno State and Washington State. Though he took visits and considered other programs, he was drawn to Washington State and the idea of playing for the same program in which his brother starred a decade earlier. Pole was the seventh-ranked recruit in former head coach Jake Dickert's 2023 class. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (-/-)	-	Chabot (Calif.) College
2022: (-/-)	-	Chabot (Calif.) College
2023: (9/8)	LT	Washington State; missed three games (knee, ankle); enrolled January 2023
2024: (13/13)	LT	Washington State
Total: (22/21)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6052	323	9 7/8	33 5/8	81	5.29	3.01	1.87	29	8'4"	4.72	8.03	23

STRENGTHS:

- Boasts a large, trim frame with very little excess weight
- Smooth out of stance with natural weight transfer in lateral movements
- Patient pass sets and uses a stout post leg in his response
- Physical punch and knows where to target to disrupt rush cadence
- Showed improved ability to make right adjustments against twisting fronts
- Mobile run blocker to achieve proper positioning on seals and reach landmarks on backside cutoffs
- Keeps feet moving to push defenders
- Nowhere near his ceiling as a football player

WEAKNESSES:

- Still very green and playing catch up on the football field
- Technical breakdowns are common versus speed
- Predictable hand strikes and needs to mix up punches against savvy rushers
- Stiffness in lower body limits quick redirects on combos and pulls
- Still figuring out best way to center and sustain in the run game
- Has never played another offensive line position besides left tackle in his life
- Missed one game because of an MCL injury in his right knee (Sept. 2023) and required double knee surgery after the season; missed the final two games of the season with an ankle injury (Nov. 2023)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Washington State, Pole was an up-and-coming left tackle in former offensive coordinator Ben Arbuckle's balanced run scheme. He has one of the wildest backstories in this draft class and didn't start playing organized football until 2021. His inexperience shows at times, too (see his matchup against Laiatu Latu on the 2023 UCLA tape). But his development as a senior in 2024 (including zero sacks allowed) turned him into a draftable NFL prospect.

A former basketball player, Pole moves with light feet for a human his size. That talent is evident in pass protection, an area in which he took a major jump between his junior and senior seasons. He shows the basic understanding of how to use his hands in all areas, but the muscle memory is still new as he figures out how to counter or recover from compromised situations. Overall, Pole is still very much a work in progress and needs to bank valuable experience. At the end of the day, though, nimble athletes with his size and strength are tough to find. He is worth a draft pick as a developmental option and practice squad candidate.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

OT20 Ajani Cornelius

Oregon, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Harlem, NY	Stepinac	May 21, 2002	22.93	6045	312	#65

BACKGROUND: Ajani (uh-JOHN-ee) "A.J." Cornelius, who has an older brother (Tchiyuka), was born and raised in Harlem, N.Y., with his mother (Yasmin) and father (Tchiyuka). Yasmin has dedicated her life to public service in local and state governments and is currently senior vice president of community affairs for L+M Development Partners. Tchiyuka works in the state's Department of Labor.

Ajani played mostly pickup basketball growing up, with football and other sports not as easily accessible in the city. Given his size, though, a family friend convinced him to join the Harlem Jets at age 9. The coaches put him on the offensive line, and — although it wasn't love at first sight — he developed a passion for football in middle school with the goal of reaching the NFL.

Cornelius attended Archbishop Stepinac High, a Catholic all-boys school in White Plains, N.Y., known for its football program. He had to commute 90 minutes one-way (via bus and train) to attend school each day. After starting out on the JV team as a freshman, Cornelius became a varsity starter as a sophomore and played both ways as an offensive guard and defensive lineman, helping Stepinac to a 10-2 record and the 2017 3A state title. As a junior, he helped Stepinac to another state title. As a senior captain in 2019, Cornelius dropped weight from 340 pounds to 315 pounds and kicked out to right tackle. He was named the Catholic High School 3A Offensive Lineman of the Year.

A no-star recruit, Cornelius wasn't ranked by the online recruiting services out of high school in the 2020 class. He started to attend FBS and FCS camps after his junior season, at which point he began to take the weight room more seriously. Cornelius didn't receive any FBS scholarship offers, but a handful of FCS offers arrived. He originally committed to Howard the summer before his senior season, but a coaching change led him to decommit and re-examine his options. Cornelius considered offers from Hampton and Morgan State before committing to Rhode Island.

After redshirting in his first year, he started for two seasons at right tackle, including a standout performance vs. FBS Pittsburgh in September 2022 that opened some eyes. Cornelius entered the transfer portal following the 2022 season and heard from dozens of FBS programs. He narrowed down his choice to Nebraska, Ohio State, Oregon and Tennessee, and he committed to the Ducks. Having grown up in Harlem, Cornelius relied on public transportation to get around and didn't drive a car, but he learned to drive after getting to Eugene and earned his first license in July 2024. He received an undergraduate degree from Oregon (June 2024). Cornelius accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but pulled out before the event.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	-	Rhode Island; redshirted; season played in spring 2021 because of pandemic
2021: (11/11)	RT	Rhode Island
2022: (11/11)	RT	Rhode Island; First Team All-CAA
2023: (14/14)	RT	Oregon; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12; enrolled January 2023
2024: (14/14)	RT	Oregon; Third Team All-Big Ten
Total: (51/50)	RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	310	9 1/2	33 1/2	82	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Left hand measured; no workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6044	312	9 1/8	34	83 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	8'9"	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- A tad short but has a wide frame with good length
- Functional feet to quick set or slide laterally
- Delivers firm punch in pass pro and looks to jar rushers at contact
- Plays with different backup plans to help him lose slowly
- Comfortable on the move in run game to reach and fit different gaps
- Solid strength through engagement to out-angle defenders
- Has a mean streak to him — won't shy from burying an opponent once he gets upper hand
- Played in all 50 games past four seasons (two at Rhode Island, two at Oregon); didn't miss a game because of injury

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have ideal athleticism for island responsibilities
- Tight and upright when attempting to redirect
- Hands and feet often appear disjointed
- Has a tough time handling power at top of the rush (see reps vs. Ohio State's Jack Sawyer)
- Plays with tall pads and struggles re-leveraging hands to sit down against bull rushes
- Loses drive strength in run game when defenders get into his chest
- Doesn't have proven versatility — all of his college starts came at right tackle

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Oregon, Cornelius held down right tackle in offensive coordinator Will Stein's multiple run scheme with a lot of unbalanced looks. A late bloomer on the football field, he raised his profile at Rhode Island and received multiple Big Ten and SEC offers before landing in Eugene and starting every game the past two seasons (50 straight starts to end his career).

Cornelius has some stiffness in his lower half with average movement control, but he has decent feet to work himself into position in both pass pro and the run game. Despite bad habits with his pad level and timing, he plays with some savvy to access Plan B and Plan C when things fall apart. Overall, it doesn't always look pretty with Cornelius, especially when stressed to protect the edge, but he often gets the job done when he weaponizes his hands to keep defenders occupied. He projects as an NFL backup and will prolong his career if he can provide depth inside as guard as well.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

OT21 Xavier Truss

Georgia, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
West Warwick, RI	Bishop Hendricken	Jul 13, 2001	23.78	6071	309	#73

BACKGROUND: Xavier Truss, who has two younger sisters (Oasis and Jade), was born and raised in Kent County, R.I., with his parents (Steven and Gina). Truss hit a growth spurt in fourth grade and became accustomed to being taller and bigger than everyone else on the field. He started to receive attention in middle school while attending football camps, including an annual camp held by Rhode Island native and former 11-year NFL defensive back Will Blackmon, who played high school ball at Bishop Hendricken School and once was the highest-ranked football recruit in the state's history.

Truss also attended Bishop Hendricken, an all-boys Catholic school in Warwick, R.I. As a 6-foot-6, 300-pound sophomore, he moved up to varsity and played alongside 2021 NFL Draft pick Kwity Paye, who was a senior and won Rhode Island's 2016 Gatorade Player of the Year. Truss became a varsity starter as a junior and played both ways at left tackle and defensive tackle, posting 45 tackles and two sacks in 2017. He earned all-state honors and helped the team to a 9-2 record and the league title. As a senior, Truss led Hendricken to the 2018 Division I state championship and was selected to the 2019 All American Bowl. He was also a standout track athlete and part of three state championships, with personal bests of 51 feet, 3 inches in the shot put and 124-6 in the discus.

A four-star recruit, Truss was the 19th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Rhode Island. He surpassed both Paye and Blackmon to become the highest-ranked football recruit in state history. Truss initially received FCS interest and expected to play for his home state Rhode Island. After his junior season, though, he received his first FBS offer from BYU — and the offers started to pour in after his performance at the All-American high school combine in San Antonio.

In a two-month span (Jan.-Feb. 2018), Truss received offers from Alabama, Auburn, Clemson, Florida State, Georgia, LSU, Michigan, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, USC and several others. He was considered a Penn State lean until committing to Georgia in June 2018. Truss was the 13th-ranked recruit in head coach Kirby Smart's 2019 class. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a sixth season. Truss accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (3/0)	-	Redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (6/1)	LT	First career start in bowl game; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (15/0)	-
2022: (15/14)	LG
2023: (14/13)	10 RT, 2 LG, 1 RG	Second Team All-SEC
2024: (14/14)	13 RT, 1 RG
Total: (67/42)	23 RT, 16 LG, 2 RG, 1 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6071	309	10 1/2	33	82 7/8	5.24	3.02	1.82	26	8' 7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6071	318	10 3/8	33 3/8	82 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	25	DNP	5.01	7.82	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Massive dude with large hands and feet (size 18 cleats)
- Built for heavy contact in the run game
- Plays with grip strength to control blocks once engaged
- Can close space on kick-outs and when climbing on linebackers
- Adequate pass-set quickness off the ball
- Firm with his hands to extend and rudely introduce himself
- Played in 67 games at Georgia, with at least one start at four of five offensive line positions

WEAKNESSES:

- Plays with decent quickness but lacks explosiveness
- Inconsistent contact balance in run game leaves him overextending
- Lack of flexibility puts him in some tight spots
- Can get caught playing too wide or too narrow reacting to elusive pass rushers
- Flagged for holding three times on 2024 tapes studied
- Showed better consistency on 2023 tape, compared to 2024
- Will turn 24 during first NFL training camp

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Georgia, Truss worked primarily at right tackle in offensive coordinator Mike Bobo's multiple-run scheme (zone and gap). Part of the same recruiting class as Nolan Smith, Nakobe Dean and George Pickens, he started 42 games over his college career (at both tackle and guard spots) and became the first Rhode Islander to win a football national championship.

Truss has the tools and play strength to move his man on base blocks, although his below-average body control often leaves him struggling to escape compromised positions. With questionable range and technique on an island, he is a better fit inside, which could hurt his versatility in the NFL. Overall, Truss needs to develop better consistency to stick at the next level, but he is large, competitive and experienced at multiple positions, which likely will get him drafted late. He can fight for a swing backup role, likely at guard.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

HOMETOWN Inglewood, CA	HIGH SCHOOL Narbonne	BIRTHDAY Feb 22, 2001	AGE 24.17	HT 6072	WT 316	NUM #65
---------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Brandon Crenshaw-Dickson was born in Inglewood, Calif., and grew up in south Los Angeles County with his mother (Monica Barrett). When he was 7, his mother introduced him to the game of football, initially as a defensive lineman and tight end. Eventually he "ate his way" into becoming an offensive lineman in seventh grade. He also played basketball throughout childhood and considers it his "first love."

Crenshaw-Dickson started his prep career at Orange Lutheran High, a private school, and played football as a freshman. For his sophomore season, he transferred to Redondo Union High, where he played both basketball and football (part of the team's basketball 2016-17 league championship). Crenshaw-Dickson played on both the offensive and defensive lines, helping his team to a 7-5 record and the second round of the 2016 Division 4 state playoffs. He transferred to Narbonne High and didn't play football as a junior, choosing to focus on basketball. However, he returned to the football team as a senior and started at right tackle, earning first-team all-area honors.

A three-star recruit, Crenshaw-Dickson was the 162nd-ranked offensive tackle in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 182 recruit in California. Somewhat of a late bloomer, he gradually received more looks as a recruit. After he transferred to Narbonne, he picked up his first scholarship offer from FCS Dixie State. Crenshaw-Dickson picked up his first FBS offer the summer before his senior season from San Diego State (June 2018) and committed a few weeks later. Midway through his senior season, Crenshaw-Dickson added his first then-Power 5 offer (Arizona State), but he stayed loyal to the Aztecs.

He was the 11th-ranked recruit in San Diego State's 2019 class. After five seasons in the program, Crenshaw-Dickson entered the transfer portal in November 2023 and received a handful of offers in the first 24 hours, including from California, Louisville, Mississippi State, NC State, Purdue, TCU and Virginia Tech. But he was drawn to an offer from Florida and transferred to Gainesville for the 2024 season. Crenshaw-Dickson accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (-/-)	-	San Diego State; redshirted
2020: (1/0)	-	San Diego State
2021: (14/14)	RT	San Diego State
2022: (13/12)	LT	San Diego State
2023: (10/10)	6 LT, 4 RT	San Diego State
2024: (12/11)	RT	Florida; missed bowl game (injury)
Total: (50/47)		29 RT, 18 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6072	316	10 1/2	34	83 1/2	5.33	3.09	1.87	24 1/2	8' 0"	4.91	8.15	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6071	315	10 3/8	34 3/4	84 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	24 1/2	DNP	4.80	7.72	15

- STRENGTHS:
- Looks the part, with a workable frame and growth potential
 - Long arms help him cover a wide perimeter
 - Enough body quickness to block backside zone or play-side stretch
 - Flashes some power on down blocks, relying on leg churn to generate force
 - Efficient climber to pick off smaller defenders
 - Offers edgy play personality to finish through the whistle
 - Logged a lot of starts (47), with playing time on both left and right sides

- WEAKNESSES:
- High-cut, upright playing style
 - Lower-body stiffness encumbers redirect skills
 - Tends to drift on angled sets, opening inside rush lanes
 - Hands start wide and are often tardy in pass pro
 - Not enough force behind his punch to knock rushers off their paths
 - Mobile in the run game but not explosive at contact
 - Will be 24 on draft weekend

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Florida, Crenshaw-Dickson stepped in at right tackle in offensive coordinator Rob Sale's wide-zone scheme. After playing in more of a dropback offense at San Diego State, he adapted well to heavy split zone and play-action pass with the Gators and held his own against SEC competition.

When his long arms stay on time, Crenshaw-Dickson can keep defenders at his fingertips and stay light on his feet, but his erratic handwork and upright play style can leave his chest exposed. Despite some inconsistencies in the run game, his competitive mindset is clear — he loves pulls and crack-toss plays that allow him to get out in space. Overall, Crenshaw-Dickson is an active blocker who should be able to weaponize his length with further coaching, although the rough patches in his game will require extra patience. He is a developmental option.

GRADE: 7th round

OT23 Caleb Etienne

BYU, 6SR

HOMETOWN New Orleans, LA	HIGH SCHOOL Warren Easton	BIRTHDAY Aug 29, 2001	AGE 23.65	HT 6066	WT 329	NUM #76
-----------------------------	------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (-/-)	-	Fort Scott (Kan.) Community College
2020: (-/-)	-	Butler (Kan.) Community College
2021: (3/0)	-	Oklahoma State; redshirted
2022: (13/13)	LT	Oklahoma State
2023: (11/4)	3 RT, 1 RG	BYU
2024: (13/13)	LT	BYU; First Team All-Big 12
Total: (40/30)		26 LT, 3 RT, 1 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6066	329	10 5/8	36	86	5.01	2.90	1.77	30	9'6"	5.04	7.94	27

SUMMARY: Caleb Etienne (E-tee-en) was born and raised in New Orleans, with his mother (Leslie). He met his fiancée (Sataizha Buckner-White) at Butler (Kan.) Community College in 2020 and the couple has a 3-year-old son (Caleb Etienne Jr.).

After playing right tackle as a high school junior, he started at left tackle as a senior at Warren Easton High in 2018. Etienne was forced to go the junior college route out of high school and became a three-star juco recruit, signing with Oklahoma State. He became the starting left tackle in 2022 but decided to transfer the following spring (Mike Gundy: "He felt he got beat out, so he left."). He transferred to BYU before the 2023 season and struggled at right tackle. But he then replaced Kingsley Suamataia at left tackle in 2024 and played at a high level, putting himself on the NFL radar.

Etienne is a large human who works hard to reach his landmarks and shield defenders with base angles. Though his long arms are a selling point, his hands often land wide and late in pass protection, negating his length advantage. He is a high-cut blocker — pad-level issues frequently pop up for him in both the run game and as a pass blocker. Overall, Etienne doesn't play with the reaction quickness to answer NFL talent, but he is a mountain of a human with intriguing tools that can be cultivated.

GRADE: FA

OT24 Trey Wedig

Indiana, 5SR

HOMETOWN Oconomowoc, WI	HIGH SCHOOL Kettle Moraine	BIRTHDAY Jan 10, 2002	AGE 23.28	HT 6065	WT 313	NUM #75
----------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (-/-)	-	Wisconsin; redshirted; enrolled July 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/0)	-	Wisconsin
2022: (10/8)	5 RT, 2 RG, 1 LG	Wisconsin
2023: (12/0)	-	Wisconsin; graduated with degree
2024: (13/13)	RT	Indiana; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (47/21)		18 RT, 2 RG, 1 LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6065	313	10	33 1/2	82 5/8	5.21	2.95	1.71	31	8'11"	4.90	7.90	17

SUMMARY: Trey Wedig, one of three boys, grew up with his parents (Matthew and Peggy) west of Milwaukee. He started at right tackle at Kettle Moraine High School and earned all-state and U.S. Army All-American honors as a senior. He also wrestled and advanced to states in the shot put. A four-star recruit, he was the top-ranked recruit in Wisconsin and picked the Badgers over Georgia, Michigan and others. He was a part-time player over four seasons in Madison before transferring to Indiana for his final season.

In his pass sets, Wedig works from a stabilized base and uses independent hands to protect the corner. However, choppy steps and inconsistent depth points can be his undoing versus speed (see 2024 Ohio State and Notre Dame tapes). He plays with more confidence in the run game when he maintains his pad level. Overall, Wedig’s consistency in pass pro should improve with more reps. If it does, he has the tools to develop into an NFL swing tackle.

GRADE: FA

OT25 John Williams

Cincinnati, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Bolingbrook, IL	Bolingbrook	Jan 17, 2002	23.27	6041	322	#75

BACKGROUND: John Williams, an only child, grew up outside of Chicago with his parents (John and Lisa). His parents signed him up for football at age 4 (Williams: "It was probably too early, if we're being honest. Not sure you're allowed to do that."). He also played baseball and basketball growing up, but football was his top sport. Because of his size, Williams was an offensive lineman throughout youth football.

Williams attended Bolingbrook High, where he was teammates with cornerback Cameron Mitchell (2023 fifth-round draft pick). He played both tackle and guard over his three seasons on varsity. As a senior, Williams started at right guard, helping Bolingbrook to an 8-4 finish and the quarterfinals of the 2019 Class 8A state playoffs. He didn't play any other sports in high school, aside from football and weightlifting.

A three-star recruit, Williams was the 132nd-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 31 recruit in Illinois. In the spring of 2018, he picked up his first scholarship offer from Cincinnati and Luke Fickell. Soon after, he added offers from the Big Ten (Purdue) and Big 12 (Kansas State). Williams also had an offer from nearby Northern Illinois, but he was drawn to the Bearcats' coaching staff and committed in April 2019. He was the 16th-ranked recruit in Fickell's 2020 class. He is an aerospace engineering major. Williams accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (-/-)	-	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/3)	LT
2022: (12/0)	-
2023: (12/12)	LT
2024: (12/12)	LT
Total: (48/27)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6041	322	11	33 7/8	81 1/2	5.17	3.00	1.79	DNP	DNP	4.72	7.93	29	No jumps (choice)
PRO DAY	6041	322	10 7/8	34 1/2	82 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Owns a wide frame with functional length
- Measured with the largest hands at combine
- Good quickness on base blocks to create a foundation with lower half
- Shows enough pulling range to reach perimeter and erase defensive backs
- Moves light on his feet in pass pro, with decent knee bend
- Looks to lock out mid-slide to push rushers wide of the pocket
- Works well in tandem to locate and adjust to stunts
- Had a strong week at East-West Shrine Bowl practices
- Started every game at left tackle past two seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Shorter than what some teams covet at offensive tackle
- Can be late to sink and halt long-arm moves
- When power hands reach his chest, he can end up in the quarterback's lap
- Prone to catching with those big mitts
- Needs to use better hip roll to generate power from lower half in the run game
- Plays with a tad too much finesse — would like to see him try to assert his will more often
- Didn't have any college snaps at the three interior O-line positions

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Cincinnati, Williams was a steady presence at left tackle in offensive coordinator Brad Glenn's zone-based run scheme with some gap methods. He waited his turn as a reserve over his first few years on campus but was ready for the starting job the past two seasons — he allowed just three combined sacks.

At his best in pass protection, Williams quickly gets out of his stance to close space, stay balanced in his mirror and absorb/fend with his hands. He shows functional mobility and body control in the run game to seal the lane, but he isn't a mauler (physically or mentally) and likely never will be. Overall, Williams has the footwork and pass-blocking instincts that will play well at the next level, but the main concern is about his ability to halt and move NFL defensive linemen. Some of his skills work best at tackle, others at guard — and he might be caught in the middle.

GRADE: FA

OT26 Mason Richman

Iowa, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Leawood, KS	Blue Valley	May 07, 2002	22.96	6053	307	#78

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	-	Enrolled January 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/12)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; required off-season surgery
2022: (13/13)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2023: (14/14)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (13/13)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (55/52)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6053	307	9 7/8	32 1/8	78	5.34	3.02	1.89	28	9'2"	4.63	7.47	21

SUMMARY: Mason Richman grew up outside of Kansas City, Kan., with his parents (John and Kathryn Richman Wallace). His younger brother (Maguire) signed with Kansas State in the 2025 recruiting class at linebacker. Mason Richman moved up to varsity as a sophomore defensive lineman at Blue Valley High and earned all-state honors as a senior, playing both ways as a defensive end and tight end. A three-star recruit, Richman was a 250-pound offensive tackle projection and committed to Iowa over Kansas (he added 60 pounds during his first two years in the program). He earned the starting left tackle job in 2021 and ripped off 52 starts the last four seasons (most by an offensive lineman in the Kirk Ferentz era).

Richman positions himself well to sustain in pass pro and shows good lateral quickness off the snap to reach, seal or cut off speed, although he overshoots his landmarks at times. Though he needs to show better control in space, he gets low in the run game and washes on down blocks. Overall, Richman graded as an NFL camp body last summer, but he worked himself into the conversation as a draftable prospect with his play in 2024 and offers valuable experience for the next level.

GRADE: FA

OT27 Dalton Cooper

Oklahoma State, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Prague, OK	Prague	Mar 15, 2001	24.11	6054	326	#71

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (1/0)	-	Texas State; redshirted
2020: (12/12)	LT	Texas State; Freshman All-American; Honorable Mention All-SBC; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/12)	LT	Texas State; Third Team All-SBC
2022: (12/12)	LT	Texas State; First Team All-SBC
2023: (14/13)	11 LT, 2 RT	Oklahoma State; Honorable Mention All-Big 12
2024: (9/8)	LT	Oklahoma State; missed three games (foot)
Total: (60/57)	55 LT, 2 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6054	326	9 3/4	33 1/2	80 3/4	4.99	2.92	1.78	28	9'0"	4.64	7.90	26

SUMMARY: Dalton Cooper grew up in central Oklahoma, with his parents (John and Stefanie). At Prague High, he played both ways as a right tackle and defensive lineman (147 combined tackles his final two seasons), earning all-state honors in 2018. A three-star recruit, he received just two FBS offers and started out his college career at Texas State. After three seasons as the starting left tackle, he entered the transfer portal and jumped at the chance to move closer to home. He started 21 games over the last two seasons at Oklahoma State, primarily at left tackle. Cooper is quick out of his stance to close space on defenders in the run game or cut off edge speed in pass protection. He gives up initial ground to power rushers, especially when his initial strike placement is off, but he works hard to center his block and sit down, relying on snatch techniques. Overall, Cooper is a cerebral, coordinated blocker, with the spatial awareness and play strength to get the job done. NFL scouts believe he can play tackle or guard.

GRADE: FA

OT28 Jordan Williams

Georgia Tech, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Gainesville, GA	Gainesville	Nov 18, 2001	23.43	6052	318	#54

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (10/9)	RT	Enrolled July 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/9)	RT	Missed two games (injury)
2022: (12/12)	8 RT, 4 RG
2023: (11/10)	9 RT, 1 RG	Missed two games (injury)
2024: (13/13)	RT	Third Team All-ACC; Graduated with business degree (May 2024); East-West Shrine Bowl; Hula Bowl
Total: (56/53)	48 RT, 5 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6052	318	10	34	81 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	32	9'1"	DNP	DNP	23

SUMMARY: Jordan Williams grew up in Gainesville, Ga., and played on both the offensive and defensive lines at Gainesville High. While starting at right tackle as a senior, he earned class 6A all-state honors and helped his team to the 2019 state playoffs. A three-star recruit, he passed on NC State, South Carolina and others to stay close to home at Georgia Tech (same recruiting class as Jahmyr Gibbs). Lining up primarily at right tackle, he set the school record for career starts (53) and was part of a program turnaround, including his best season as a super senior in 2024.

Williams is quick into blocks to reach and engage defenders. Although his range is mediocre, he understands angles to fit up linebackers away from his starting square. He isn't underpowered, but you'd like to see better drive mechanics from him so he could better move defenders in the run game. Overall, Williams can get off schedule when his balance drifts, but he has solid size, length and strain through contact. His experience and tackle-guard versatility work in his favor.

GRADE: FA

HOMETOWN Davis, CA	HIGH SCHOOL Davis	BIRTHDAY Dec 03, 2001	AGE 23.39	HT 6082	WT 315	NUM #71
-----------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (-/-)	-	Colorado; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/0)	-	Colorado
2022: (9/8)	LT	Colorado
2023: (12/11)	LT	Colorado; graduated with degree in communications
2024: (12/12)	LT	Oregon State
Total: (45/31)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6082	315	10	35 1/4	85 3/8	5.35	3.13	1.85	28	9'1"	5.08	7.87	19

SUMMARY: Gerad Christian-Lichtenhan grew up in Vacaville, Calif., with his parents (Tabitha and Teri). He started playing football at age 6 and competed up an age group throughout Pop Warner because of his size (also played soccer and was a swimmer). After relocating to Davis, Calif., he played both ways (offensive tackle and defensive line) in high school and helped his team orchestrate a turnaround from 0-10 his sophomore year to 10-2 his senior season.

A three-star recruit, his goal was to play in the Pac-12 — Colorado gave him that chance. After starting for two seasons in Boulder (including blocking on Shedeur Sanders' blindside in 2023), he transferred to Oregon State for his final season.

Christian-Lichtenhan lives up to his nickname, "Tank," with his massive size and the wingspan of a pterodactyl. His feet are on the heavier side, but he plays controlled in pass protection, using his length and base to slow rushers. Although inconsistent leverage hurts his effectiveness in the run game, his clench strength helps him stay connected through the finish. Overall, Christian-Lichtenhan will have a tough time overcoming some of his athletic limitations, but his size and improvements each season will earn him plenty of chances at the next level.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
30	Brayden Swartout	Central Michigan	6070	303	5.31	3.01	1.85	32	8'11"	4.78	7.65	DNP	9 3/8	32 5/8	79 3/4
31	Gareth Warren	Lindenwood	6054	328	5.22	2.95	1.81	30	9'2"	4.83	8.09	19	9 5/8	33 5/8	79
32	Josh Fryar	Ohio State	6047	318	5.07	2.94	1.72	34	8'11"	4.75	7.69	DNP	9 3/4	34 5/8	82 7/8
33	Marques Cox	Kentucky	6050	312	5.26	3.00	1.82	29 1/2	9'0"	4.90	8.07	23	9 1/8	34 1/4	82 1/4
34	John Campbell Jr.	Tennessee	6053	304	5.46	3.15	1.81	29	8'0"	5.01	DNP	DNP	10 7/8	33 5/8	80 1/4
35	Quinn Carroll	Minnesota	6064	312	5.59	3.06	1.89	27	8'10"	4.81	7.83	29	9 7/8	32 1/4	80
36	Marcus Bryant	Missouri	6071	320	4.97	2.82	1.79	31 1/2	9'3"	5.03	8.08	26	8 7/8	34 5/8	83 1/8
37	Tedi Kushi	Western Michigan	6053	302	5.19	2.95	1.77	34 1/2	9'2"	4.73	7.53	19	9 1/4	34 3/8	80 1/2
38	Amari Kight	UCF	6053	299	5.26	3.09	1.86	28 1/2	9'1"	5.01	8.19	17	9 5/8	33 3/4	81 1/8
39	Gabe Clark	Central Missouri	6047	311	5.06	2.98	1.63	31 1/2	9'4"	4.78	7.50	20	9 3/8	34	80 1/8
40	Valentin Senn	UConn	6066	305	5.13	2.84	1.75	31 1/2	9'0"	4.64	8.00	25	10	33 1/2	79
41	Bryce Benhart	Nebraska	6093	307	5.30	3.07	1.78	24 1/2	8'6"	5.18	8.30	23	9 1/8	32	77 1/2
42	Marshall Foerner	Minn. State-Mankato	6063	308	5.18	3.01	1.74	31 1/2	9'2"	4.72	7.63	28	9 3/4	34 1/8	82
43	Savion Washington	Syracuse	6085	340	5.38	3.05	1.89	25	8'1"	4.93	8.02	19	9 7/8	34 1/4	83 5/8
44	DeVonte Gordon	Wake Forest	6035	307	5.27	3.07	1.76	29 1/2	8'2"	4.73	7.59	15	10 1/8	34 7/8	83 1/8
45	Payton Collins	Eastern Kentucky	6061	299	5.26	3.06	1.83	24 1/2	8'10"	4.82	7.97	17	8 7/8	32 7/8	80 1/2
46	Ben Chukwuma	Georgia State	6056	303	5.34	3.02	1.84	24	8'10"	5.03	8.03	22	10 1/8	33 7/8	83 1/8
47	Corey Stewart	Purdue	6046	314	5.25	3.07	1.83	26	8'6"	4.92	8.01	22	10 1/4	33 1/2	80 1/8
48	Jack Sherwin	Western Michigan	6031	300	5.22	3.00	1.72	28 1/2	8'8"	4.72	7.75	19	9	32 1/2	77
49	Cole Birdow	Merrimack	6046	311	5.01	2.88	1.75	32	8'7"	4.63	7.56	23	10 1/8	33 1/4	82 1/2
50	Grant Starck	Oregon State	6044	301	5.25	3.05	1.82	28	8'11"	4.71	7.37	19	10	33 1/4	80 1/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
51	Jeremiah Byers	Florida State	6042	314	5.22	2.98	1.79	29 1/2	8'7"	4.83	7.93	23	9 3/4	34	81 1/2
52	Leander Wiegand	UCF/Germany (IPP)	6054	318	5.38	3.03	1.84	32	8'10"	4.74	7.67	32	10 7/8	33 1/8	80
53	Elijah Ellis	Marshall	6060	337	5.27	3.06	1.82	24	8'0"	4.99	8.12	21	10 1/4	35 1/2	83 7/8
54	Dayne Davis	Tennessee	6070	305	5.35	3.12	1.93	26	7'11"	4.96	8.09	21	10	34 1/2	83 1/4
55	Spencer Brown	Oklahoma	6063	314	DNP	DNP	DNP	25	7'11"	DNP	DNP	21	9 1/4	35 1/2	83 1/4
56	Jalen Goss	Florida A&M	6070	289	4.92	2.79	1.75	22	9'4"	4.97	8.01	22	9 3/4	35 3/8	83
57	Laki Tasi	Australia (IPP)	6063	347	5.40	3.16	1.93	23 1/2	7'7"	5.20	8.44	18	10 1/2	34 1/8	81 1/2
58	Dom Boyd	Georgia Southern	6035	309	5.25	2.95	1.76	28	9'2"	4.95	7.76	21	9 1/4	32 5/8	80 5/8
59	Jonathan Mendoza	Louisville	6083	322	5.49	3.09	1.87	28 1/2	8'9"	4.93	8.28	29	9 3/4	35	85 3/8
60	Jared Penning	Northern Iowa	6053	319	5.35	3.03	1.87	26	DNP	4.85	7.82	22	9 3/4	32 3/4	78 5/8
61	Tiger Shanks	UNLV	6045	311	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	18	9 3/4	33	79
62	Bryce George	Ferris State	6045	305	5.14	2.89	1.77	29	8'5"	5.01	8.12	28	9 3/4	32 5/8	78 5/8
63	Parker Clements	Virginia Tech	6067	295	5.21	2.99	1.83	28	9'2"	4.50	7.47	26	10	33	79 1/2
64	Brayden Keim	BYU	6084	322	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	22	9 1/8	35	81 1/4
65	Bless Harris	TCU	6040	325	5.16	3.01	1.86	26	8'7"	DNP	DNP	26	9 3/8	34	80 3/4
66	Michael Tarquin	Oklahoma	6050	302	5.57	3.22	1.95	25 1/2	8'3"	5.10	8.21	16	9 3/4	33 3/4	79 7/8
67	Bryson Broadway	Georgia Southern	6043	294	5.25	3.00	1.83	27	8'10"	4.65	7.75	17	9 1/2	32 1/2	76
68	Darius Washington	Florida State	6030	322	5.41	3.10	1.86	24 1/2	8'6"	5.00	8.33	16	10 1/2	34 1/8	82 3/4
69	Malcolm Lamar Sr.	Florida Atlantic	6044	314	5.31	3.01	1.90	24	8'4"	5.14	8.38	25	9 1/8	35 1/8	85 3/4
70	JJ Guedet	Illinois State	6071	311	DNP	DNP	DNP	30 1/2	9'3"	4.85	7.84	27	9 3/8	33 1/2	80 1/2
71	Brandon Baldwin	Michigan State	6056	319	5.65	3.31	2.00	25 1/2	8'2"	5.10	8.41	14	9 5/8	33 5/8	82 5/8
72	Zovon Lindsay	Coastal Carolina	6040	296	5.35	3.10	1.76	28	8'8"	4.78	7.88	13	9 3/8	33 1/4	80 1/4
73	Ben Wrather	Northwestern	6054	302	5.16	3.00	1.79	28	8'7"	4.58	7.76	23	9 1/4	32 3/4	78 5/8
74	Saveyon Henderson	Colorado State	6032	315	5.31	3.05	1.78	DNP	7'0"	4.94	8.27	18	9 7/8	33 1/8	79
75	Janeiro Wakeham	Fiji (IPP)	6092	343	5.69	3.20	1.97	24 1/2	7'7"	5.03	8.27	13	10 1/8	35 5/8	84 7/8
76	DJ Jones	UAB	6054	313	5.56	3.20	1.92	26 1/2	8'0"	5.19	8.22	15	10 3/4	34 1/4	84 7/8
77	Jaison Williams	Youngstown State	6032	298	5.26	2.97	1.81	28 1/2	8'1"	4.56	7.75	14	10 1/4	32 1/2	77
78	Parker Mooror	East Carolina	6042	320	5.37	3.07	1.83	25	9'0"	4.95	8.18	25	9 7/8	33 5/8	81 3/8
79	Kingsley Ugwu	Fresno State	6034	315	5.53	3.28	2.01	23	7'11"	5.14	8.28	22	10 1/8	34 1/8	84 3/8
80	Blaise Sparks	Delaware	6077	325	DNP	DNP	DNP	29	DNP	5.15	DNP	23	9	33 7/8	79 3/8
81	Gerald Mincey	Kentucky	6060	341	6.02	3.40	2.07	29 1/2	8'0"	5.15	8.60	20	10 1/2	34 5/8	84 3/8
82	Alec Rasmussen	St. Thomas (Minn.)	6063	305	5.63	3.25	1.90	26	8'5"	4.88	7.91	18	10 1/4	33 1/8	79 1/2
83	Santana Saunders	Old Dominion	6047	306	5.40	3.08	1.82	23	8'0"	5.16	8.24	31	9 3/4	35 1/8	82 3/4
84	Brayden Rohme	UMass	6046	296	5.64	3.20	1.81	25 1/2	8'10"	4.84	7.62	20	9 1/4	33 1/4	79
85	Brandon Casey	Montana	6055	309	5.46	3.14	1.82	30 1/2	9'0"	4.70	7.93	27	9 3/8	33 1/8	78 1/8
86	Da'Quan Thomas	Akron	6023	285	5.50	3.24	1.90	22 1/2	8'2"	5.15	8.38	DNP	9 5/8	33 1/2	79 3/4
87	Kevin Burkett	Elon	6027	325	5.34	2.93	1.71	32 1/2	9'1"	4.77	8.03	27	9 3/4	32	78 3/4
88	Nate Williams	San Diego State	6052	303	5.44	3.10	1.90	24 1/2	8'2"	4.98	8.03	17	9 3/4	32 7/8	78 3/4
89	Jeremy Jones	Marshall	6046	307	5.59	3.26	1.91	22	8'7"	4.80	7.90	19	10 1/2	32 1/2	79 3/4
90	Mason Miller	North Dakota State	6064	306	5.32	3.00	1.81	28	8'8"	4.79	7.90	29	10	33 1/2	82 5/8
91	Travon Taylor	Western Kentucky	6045	311	5.72	3.12	1.88	23 1/2	8'11"	DNP	DNP	17	10	35 1/8	82 7/8
92	Allen Jones Jr.	Toledo	6065	315	5.59	3.21	1.97	22	7'9"	5.14	8.36	17	10 3/8	36 1/2	87 3/4
93	Brant Banks	Rice	6071	306	DNP	DNP	DNP	27 1/2	9'0"	4.95	DNP	23	9 3/8	33 5/8	82 1/4
94	Daniel Keys	Louisiana Tech	6042	322	5.60	3.15	1.97	28	8'2"	5.01	8.02	16	9	34 1/8	83 7/8
95	Josh Blanchard	Akron	6045	287	5.55	3.25	1.88	28 1/2	8'8"	5.06	8.65	DNP	9 1/4	35 1/2	83 5/8
96	Phillip Wilder	Cincinnati	6042	329	5.59	3.22	1.93	27	8'4"	5.09	8.01	23	10 1/4	33 1/4	80 1/4
97	Luke Felix-Fualalo	Hawaii	6071	318	5.49	3.15	1.91	25	DNP	4.95	8.47	25	10 1/2	32 3/4	82
98	James Middleton	Newberry	6034	293	5.58	3.23	1.96	22	7'8"	5.37	9.00	DNP	9 1/4	33 1/8	78 7/8
99	Emmit Bohle	Arizona State	6063	306	5.22	3.00	1.80	30	9'5"	4.95	7.83	DNP	9 3/8	32 7/8	80 1/2
100	Tucker Kinney	Wartburg	6031	302	5.30	2.98	1.82	28 1/2	8'5"	4.76	7.68	DNP	9 1/4	34	81 1/2
101	Isaiah Wright	UTEP	6030	309	5.47	3.10	2.05	26 1/2	7'10"	5.04	8.34	18	9 1/4	32 1/2	79 3/4
102	Fred Norman	Valdosta State	6055	361	5.95	3.52	2.08	20 1/2	7'0"	5.47	8.41	19	10 3/8	33 5/8	82 5/8
103	RJ Perry	South Florida	6055	341	5.74	3.16	1.93	21	7'4"	5.19	8.33	17	10 1/4	35	84 3/4
104	Jake Wiley	Houston	6054	313	5.39	3.16	1.82	25	8'11"	4.88	7.82	20	10 5/8	33 3/8	80 5/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
105	Rey Burnett	Tulsa	6043	319	5.76	3.29	1.84	22	7'10"	5.18	8.59	24	9	33 1/4	80 1/8
106	Cole Motes	Utah State	6053	296	5.21	2.97	1.88	27 1/2	8'7"	4.91	7.75	DNP	9 7/8	32 7/8	80 3/8
107	Jason Ivey	North Carolina A&T	6045	287	5.16	2.93	1.70	26 1/2	8'7"	4.92	7.90	19	10 5/8	35 5/8	84 1/2
108	Braylen Nelson	Fresno State	6056	321	5.52	3.24	2.00	19	7'9"	5.00	8.33	19	9 3/4	32 1/4	79 3/8
109	Marcus Hicks	South Dakota State	6051	303	5.34	3.05	1.82	34 1/2	9'5"	5.12	8.08	21	9 7/8	33 1/2	81
110	Malik Pete	Tarleton State	6036	297	5.22	3.01	1.91	23 1/2	8'8"	5.00	8.09	18	9 1/2	35 3/8	83 3/8
111	Cam Johnson	South Carolina State	6024	312	5.37	3.09	1.89	23 1/2	8'2"	5.09	8.91	23	9 1/2	34 1/2	84
112	Nick Kidwell	Indiana	6044	319	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	33 3/4	80 3/8
113	Caelan Shepard	Buffalo	6064	322	5.55	3.16	1.88	24	8'1"	5.09	8.04	22	10	32 1/8	77
114	Bryce Hampton	Murray State	6023	323	5.49	3.07	1.85	24	8'8"	5.03	8.20	13	10	33 7/8	82 1/8
115	Christian Twymon	Miles	6022	317	5.39	3.03	1.85	25 1/2	8'0"	5.39	8.72	17	8 7/8	33 1/8	80 1/4
116	Kyler Edwards	Eastern Kentucky	6050	322	5.92	3.39	2.01	23	8'1"	5.27	8.50	15	9 1/4	33 3/8	80 3/8
117	Austin Euler	Clark Atlanta	6027	300	5.33	3.15	1.95	22 1/2	7'6"	5.14	8.20	18	9 5/8	33 1/2	80 1/4
118	Joey Capra	Arizona	6025	307	5.55	3.16	1.86	27	8'3"	4.84	8.44	21	10 1/4	32	77 3/8
119	Dakota White	Houston	6022	325	5.37	3.10	1.84	27	8'2"	4.95	8.18	11	9 1/2	33 1/2	80 1/4
120	Quez Yates	UAB	6050	320	5.27	2.98	1.88	23 1/2	7'11"	4.91	8.60	21	9 3/4	33	81 1/4
121	Donnell Wilson	Tennessee Tech	6043	312	5.53	3.20	1.86	25	8'2"	4.65	8.21	17	10 7/8	35 7/8	85
122	Payton Hawkins	Glenville State	6062	313	5.39	2.96	1.84	24 1/2	8'7"	4.88	7.94	14	9 1/2	33 3/4	82 5/8
123	Trey Wells	West Chester	6050	297	5.36	3.08	1.87	25 1/2	8'3"	5.11	8.28	24	9 1/4	33 1/2	78 5/8
124	Tristan Roper	Northern Iowa	6040	311	5.38	3.04	1.87	24	8'2"	4.81	7.69	16	10 1/4	33 5/8	80 5/8
125	Stacey Wilkins	Western Kentucky	6056	312	5.31	3.08	1.83	23 1/2	8'1"	4.86	8.12	DNP	9 1/8	34 1/8	83 1/8
126	Jaxon Hughes	Texas Tech	6040	301	5.28	3.10	1.83	26	8'0"	4.90	8.31	DNP	10	34	80 3/4
127	Reggie Sutton	Rutgers	6030	308	5.65	3.15	1.87	25 1/2	8'1"	5.25	8.22	28	9 7/8	33 1/4	80 1/4
128	Mitchell Walters	Missouri	6070	327	5.45	3.13	1.94	25	8'6"	5.10	8.27	15	10	33 7/8	82 1/8
129	Hunter Poncius	North Dakota State	6084	315	5.39	3.13	1.90	29 1/2	8'8"	4.68	7.64	26	10 3/8	33 5/8	80 3/4
130	Vashon Bailey	Central Michigan	6060	330	5.63	3.29	1.90	22 1/2	8'0"	5.03	8.52	10	10 3/8	35 3/8	85 3/8
131	Melvin Hudson	Mary	6031	334	5.77	3.32	2.01	23 1/2	7'0"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	33	80 3/8
132	Justin Collier	Glenville State	6011	305	5.53	3.00	1.82	24 1/2	7'6"	5.50	8.41	21	9 7/8	33 7/8	81 7/8
133	Jalan Robinson	Emporia State	6042	309	5.40	3.13	1.75	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10 1/2	33 7/8	79 5/8
134	Thomas Le Boucher	Lamar	6040	314	5.40	3.04	1.85	24	7'5"	4.89	8.30	20	9 5/8	33 5/8	80
135	Shamar Hobdy-Lee	Houston	6035	301	5.26	3.03	1.84	22	7'10"	5.20	8.00	22	8 5/8	32 1/2	79 3/4
136	Stevie Byron	Western Colorado	6045	306	5.70	3.41	1.98	24 1/2	7'11"	5.27	9.00	23	9 1/2	32 1/4	76 3/4
137	Cain Johnson	Augustana	6026	300	5.76	3.21	1.97	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	33	78 1/2
138	Michael Ondelacy	Western Kentucky	6071	322	5.52	3.14	1.90	29 1/2	8'2"	4.80	7.63	14	10	32 5/8	81 1/2
139	Darius Baker	Benedict	6027	320	5.96	3.38	1.96	19	6'3"	5.50	9.00	10	9 7/8	34 7/8	83 1/2
140	Peter Schmitt	Wheeling	6034	325	5.80	3.19	1.98	26	7'11"	5.19	8.78	23	9 3/4	33 1/2	79 5/8
141	Ty Hyde	Idaho State	6064	303	6.10	3.41	2.00	23	8'10"	5.28	8.82	DNP	9 5/8	32 3/4	81

GUARDS

OFFENSIVE GUARDS

	NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1.	TYLER BOOKER	Alabama	1st-2nd	3JR	6047	321	5.38 (1.95)	11 1/8	34 7/8	84 1/4	21.03
2.	KELVIN BANKS JR.	Texas	1st-2nd	3JR	6051	315	5.16 (1.78)	10 1/2	33 1/2	84 3/8	21.12
3.	TATE RATLEDGE	Georgia	2nd	5SR	6064	308	4.97 (1.72)	10 3/8	32 1/2	79 3/4	23.99
4.	JONAH SAVAIINAEA	Arizona	2nd	3JR	6041	324	4.95 (1.72)	10 3/8	34	82 1/4	21.28
5.	MILES FRAZIER	LSU	3rd	5SR	6055	317	5.24 (1.79)	9	32 7/8	81 1/4	23.61
6.	MARCUS MBOW	Purdue	3rd	4JR	6042	302	DNP (DNP)	10 1/2	32 1/2	80 3/4	22.06
7.	DYLAN FAIRCHILD	Georgia	3rd-4th	4JR	6052	325	DNP (DNP)	10	33 3/8	81 1/8	21.96
8.	WYATT MILUM	West Virginia	3rd-4th	4SR	6064	313	5.27 (1.83)	10 1/4	32 5/8	80	22.32
9.	JALEN RIVERS	Miami	4th	5SR	6062	319	5.29 (1.85)	10	35 1/4	84	22.61
10.	EMERY JONES JR.	LSU	4th-5th	3JR	6052	315	DNP (DNP)	10 3/4	34 1/4	81 1/2	21.14
11.	CALEB ROGERS	Texas Tech	4th-5th	5SR	6045	312	5.10 (1.78)	10	32 1/2	79	23.56
12.	BRYCE CABELDUE	Kansas	5th	5SR	6044	308	4.95 (1.73)	9 1/2	33 1/4	79 3/8	23.64
13.	JOE HUBER	Wisconsin	5th-6th	5SR	6051	310	5.20 (1.80)	9 3/4	32 1/2	79 1/2	22.98
14.	HAYDEN CONNER	Texas	6th	4SR	6060	322	5.23 (1.75)	9 5/8	33 1/2	79 7/8	22.99
15.	CLAY WEBB	Jacksonville State	6th	6SR	6035	312	5.11 (1.72)	10	32 1/2	79 1/2	25.07
16.	LUKE KANDRA	Cincinnati	6th-7th	5SR	6046	320	5.17 (1.78)	10	32 3/8	80 5/8	23.71
17.	GARRETT DELLINGER	LSU	6th-7th	4SR	6046	320	5.15 (1.73)	9 3/4	33	79 7/8	23.18
18.	MARCUS TATE	Clemson	7th	4SR	6052	321	DNP (DNP)	9	32 3/4	82	22.23
19.	TORRICELLI SIMPKINS III	South Carolina	FA	5SR	6045	312	5.45 (1.84)	10 1/4	33 3/8	82 1/2	22.88
20.	CONNOR COLBY	Iowa	FA	4SR	6056	309	5.11 (1.77)	10	32 1/4	78	22.27
21.	MARCUS WEHR	Montana State	FA	6SR	6023	295	N/A (N/A)	8 3/8	31 7/8	78	24.39
22.	LUKE NEWMAN	Michigan State	FA	5SR	6034	308	5.08 (1.76)	9 1/4	31	76 1/4	23.14
23.	EASTON KILTY	Kansas State	FA	5SR	6047	308	5.52 (1.91)	9 3/8	32	78	22.98
24.	NISHAD STROTHER	Oregon	FA	6SR	6033	309	5.28 (DNP)	9 1/4	32	76 1/8	24.24
25.	AIDEN WILLIAMS	Minn.-Duluth	FA	6SR	6056	315	5.17 (1.75)	10	32 3/4	79 1/8	24.65

OG1 Tyler Booker

Alabama, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
New Haven, CT	IMG Academy	Apr 12, 2004	21.03	6047	321	#52

BACKGROUND: Tyler Booker, the middle of three children, was born and raised in New Haven, Conn., with his parents (William and Tashona). He has an older sister (Jailen) and younger brother (Mason). Booker started playing football as a Mighty Mite at age 7 and suited up for the New Haven Steelers throughout Pop Warner. When Tyler was 9, his father (who put a plush football in Tyler’s crib days after he was born) signed him up to work out with athletic trainer Frank Quido at Break Out Athlete. Booker attended St. Luke’s for middle school and played on an undefeated seventh/eighth grade team as a fifth-grader. At age 11, he attended a Nick Saban football camp in Tuscaloosa, Ala., and set his mind on making it to the NFL.

Booker grew up in an athletic family, including an uncle (Ulish Booker) who started at left tackle at Michigan State (1998-2002) before a stint in NFL Europe; he then joined the Pittsburgh Steelers (2005-06) and won a ring in Super Bowl XL. Before deciding to focus on football, Tyler Booker was also an accomplished track athlete throughout childhood, medaling in shot put, discus and javelin.

Booker elected to attend high school at Bergen Catholic in Oradell, N.J., an all-boys Catholic school with a top-flight football program. Bergen was a 90-minute drive (without traffic) from New Haven, so Booker stayed with teammates, coaches and friends during the week. He played on both the offensive and defensive lines as a freshman on varsity in 2018. Before his sophomore season, Booker transferred to IMG Academy in Bradenton, Fla. and joined a loaded roster, which included JC Latham, his future teammate at Alabama. After shining on defense as a freshman, Booker’s focus shifted to the offensive line, where he started at right tackle as a sophomore. As a junior captain, he helped IMG finish 8-0 and capture the 2020 national championship — Latham played left tackle; Booker played right tackle. Booker moved over to left tackle as a senior and again served as a team captain.

A four-star recruit, Booker was the seventh-ranked offensive tackle in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 10 recruit in Florida (No. 1 offensive lineman in the state). During his freshman year at Bergen Catholic, he picked up his first scholarship offer from nearby Rutgers (Sept. 2018). After he announced his transfer to IMG Academy, the offers started to pour in, including from Florida State, Georgia, LSU, Miami, Oklahoma, USC and others. He took visits to Florida, Georgia and Ohio State but ultimately decided Alabama — and Saban — was his best route to an NFL future. Booker was the ninth-ranked recruit in the Crimson Tide's 2022 class. He graduated with a degree from Alabama (Dec. 2024). After three seasons in Tuscaloosa, Booker skipped his senior year and declared for the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2022: (12/1)	LG	Freshman All-American; Freshman All-SEC; first start came in bowl game; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	LG	Second Team All-SEC; missed one game (back spasms)
2024: (13/13)	12 LG, 1 LT	First Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; team captain
Total: (38/27)		26 LG, 1 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	321	11	34 1/2	83 1/2	5.38	3.18	1.95	27	7' 10"	4.84	7.96	21
PRO DAY	6047	326	11 1/8	34 7/8	84 1/4	DNP	DNP	1.90	DNP	DNP	4.65	7.90	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Physically imposing size with wide base, long arms and proportional mass
- Repeatable tape — strain and finish, strain and finish, etc.
- Efficient setup to square rushers in pass pro
- Heavy hands to land jarring strikes and crater defenders
- Bends well for his size with hip mobility to anchor and slow down bull rush
- Drives his feet in run game to displace and create lane access
- Controlled and decisive as a puller and will unload when on a single track
- Always looking for work and hunts opportunities to put defenders on their backs
- Describes play style as "legal assault" (Booker: "I make guys not love football anymore.")
- Laser-focused — he's been on a mission to be an NFL player since grade school
- Durable and works hard to stay conditioned — started 27 of his last 28 games at Alabama
- Team captain who describes himself as a "natural born leader" and gets the most out of his teammates (NFL scout: "He keeps everyone accountable in that locker room. ... After (Alabama's) Vandy loss, 'Book' was the guy who got everyone back on track.")

WEAKNESSES:

- More functional than dynamic as an athlete, which shows when he redirects in space
- Lacks suddenness in countering steps/reactions
- Quick out of stance but can be more aggressive in sets to achieve an upkick position
- Hands can get caught outside defender, hurting his ability to latch and control
- Committed seven penalties in 2024, including three false starts
- Saw late-game snaps at right guard as freshman but worked almost exclusively at left guard in college (trained at right guard and center during pre-draft workouts with O-line guru Duke Manyweather)
- Missed one game as sophomore because of back spasms (Sept. 2023)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Alabama, Booker primarily lined up at left guard in head coach Kalen DeBoer's run-heavy, RPO-based scheme. After an inconsistent yet promising first two years in Tuscaloosa, he had an All-America junior season as a critical team leader and made the key improvements NFL scouts were hoping to see.

In pass protection, you want your guards creating the depth of the pocket by answering and anchoring, which Booker does at a high level. In the run game, you want your guards driving and creating room with the intent of dominating their man, which Booker also does consistently. The next step for him is to continue developing his savviness to counter/reach high-end athleticism and blitzes that cross his face. Overall, Booker is built like a bull, with the play strength and finishing mentality to match. His average foot quickness, however, might not be ideal for every scheme. He projects as an immediate starting guard with the tools and competitive character that are easy to bet on.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 24 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Humble, TX	Summer Creek	Mar 10, 2004	21.12	6051	315	#78

BACKGROUND: Kelvin Banks Jr., who has one brother (Jaylon), was raised northwest of Houston by his parents (Kelvin Sr. and Monica). Kelvin Sr. was an offensive lineman at Aldine High and signed with Houston before playing at Coffeyville (Kan.) Community College, Midwestern State (Texas) and then in the arena leagues. Monica has epilepsy and has undergone multiple surgeries over the past few years. In October 2022, she collapsed in the parking lot after Texas' game against Oklahoma State and doctors subsequently found a blood clot in her heart. She slipped into a coma and required a two-month hospital stay in Oklahoma. Restricted to a wheelchair and unable to speak, she spent time in hospice. In July 2024, Monica underwent life-saving surgery to remove her gallbladder.

Kelvin Banks Jr., also a devoted fisherman, grew up playing different sports, including football starting at age 4. Throughout youth football in Humble, Texas, he played quarterback, running back and tight end, leading his team to back-to-back league titles. Given his size, he knew a move to the offensive line was likely in his future, but he stayed at skill positions through middle school.

Banks enrolled at Summer Creek High, moved to the offensive line and was talented enough to start. However, he was ineligible as a freshman because he'd transferred between districts, so he served as a scout-team player on varsity. Banks became the starting left tackle as a sophomore and earned all-district honors in 2019 and 2020. After Summer Creek had back-to-back losing seasons, Banks as a senior in 2021 helped the program to a 10-4 finish and a berth in the 6A state playoff quarterfinals. Banks was named an All-American by multiple outlets and 2021 Offensive Player of the Year in the district. He was selected for the 2022 Under Armour All-America Game. Banks started 34 straight games at left tackle over three varsity seasons.

A five-star recruit, Banks was the third-ranked offensive tackle in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 8 recruit in Texas (one of eight five-star recruits in the state). He was the 33rd-ranked recruit nationally. Despite being ineligible as a high school freshman, Banks impressed in camps and drew offers from Arizona State, Florida State, Houston, Oklahoma State and Utah before he took a varsity snap. Shortly into his sophomore season, Auburn, LSU, Texas and several others joined the mix. Midway through that year, Banks committed to head coach Mike Gundy at Oklahoma State before decommitting nine months later in July 2020. After reopening his recruitment, he narrowed down his list to a top five of LSU, Oklahoma State, Oregon, Texas and Texas A&M.

Banks committed to Oregon in July 2021 and was planning to play there until Mario Cristobal left for the Miami head coaching job in December 2021. Banks decommitted from the Ducks and signed with Texas, the school he'd followed throughout childhood. (Banks: "My heart felt at home there.") He was one of two five-star commits in head coach Steve Sarkisian's 2022 class (the other being offensive lineman DJ Campbell). After three seasons, Banks elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2022: (13/13)	LT	Freshman All-American; Second Team All-Big 12; Honorable Mention Offensive Freshman of the Year; enrolled June 2022
2023: (14/14)	LT	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big 12
2024: (15/15)	LT	First Team All-American; Lombardi Award; Outland Trophy; First Team All-SEC; Jacobs Blocking Trophy; missed one game (left ankle)
Total: (42/42)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6051	315	10 3/8	33 1/2	84 3/8	5.16	3.00	1.78	32	8' 8"	4.66	7.81	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6046	318	10 1/2	33 1/2	83 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Broad-framed with proportionate thickness throughout his body
- Moves controlled with initial lateral steps to reach depth landmarks and stay ahead of rushers
- Patient, skilled hands in pass protection
- Aims strikes at breastplate of defenders to lock out and maintain contact
- Stays square versus wide-rush alignment but also can cut off inside moves
- Rolls hips well at contact to win positioning and create movement in run game
- Athletic puller with body control to pace and pick off space defenders
- Efficient on combinations and pays close attention to blocking geometry
- Durable — missed only one start at left tackle over past six seasons, dating back to sophomore year of high school
- Humble team captain who is all business (head coach Steve Sarkisian: "Whenever somebody comes to me and asks, 'Coach, what do I need to do and how do I need to do it?' I say, 'Be like Kelvin.'")

WEAKNESSES:

- Lack of desired arm length leads to more catch blocks than you'd like to see
- Longer-armed defenders can break him down and access his edges (see 2024 Georgia tape)
- Spends too much time on the ground, falling off drive blocks in run game
- Lacks overpowering strength to redirect defenders
- Flagged seven times in 2024 (four holding calls, three false starts)
- 100 percent of college snaps came at left tackle — any position change would be a projection
- Left ankle sprain vs. Texas A&M and missed 2024 SEC Championship Game vs. Georgia (Dec. 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Texas, Banks was a fixture at left tackle in head coach Steve Sarkisian's multiple-run scheme (RPO, wide-zone offense). Despite not moving to the offensive line until high school, he looks like he has been playing there his entire life — it wasn't a coincidence the Longhorns' rise mirrored Banks' tenure (Texas' wins increased each of his three seasons in the program). With well-timed feet and handwork, Banks is a natural in pass protection and shows an instinctive feel to attack with leverage and create force through his body mechanics. His balance can be too easily disrupted, though, especially in the run game, which can leave him overextended or on the ground. Overall, Banks doesn't have ideal length and needs to improve his sustain tactics to be a consistent finisher against NFL talent, but he has controlled footwork and depth in his pass sets, plus the fundamental know-how to fit and leverage blocks and keep defenders occupied. He projects as an immediate NFL starter who can stay at tackle, although his best long-term position might be guard.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 26 overall)

OG3 Tate Ratledge

Georgia, 5SR

HOMETOWN Rome, GA	HIGH SCHOOL Darlington	BIRTHDAY Apr 26, 2001	AGE 23.99	HT 6064	WT 308	NUM #69
----------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Tate Ratledge, the oldest of two children, was born and raised in Chattanooga, Tenn., with his parents (Dean and Mary Stuart). Dean, who has been a high school football coach for more than 40 years, played college football at Tennessee Tech (1974-77). After a two-year stint (2003-04) as head coach at Bradley Central High in Cleveland, Tenn., Dean accepted a position on the coaching staff at Armuchee High under head coach John Mullinax, a longtime friend and coaching colleague. The family relocated closer to Armuchee in Roma, Ga., when Tate was 4. Stuart teaches world history (AP and honors courses) at Armuchee High. Tate's younger sister (Emmaline) was a standout basketball, softball, volleyball and track athlete at Darlington School — she set the school record in the 100-meter hurdles.

Because his father was a football coach, Ratledge developed a passion for the sport at a young age, but he also played several other sports, including baseball and basketball (an avid hunter, too). Starting in seventh grade, Ratledge attended Darlington School, a private boarding school in Rome (his father became a middle school teacher and assistant varsity coach at Darlington in 2017). He was a four-year varsity starter as an offensive tackle and defensive lineman while also seeing time at tight end and handling punting duties. Ratledge was a standout as a freshman in 2016 and earned an invitation to the Freshman All-American Game (had four sacks). He earned first-team all-area honors on offense as a sophomore and second-team all-state honors on offense as a junior. As a senior, Ratledge led Darlington to a nine-win season and the 2019 regional title. He earned first-team all-state honors and was named a first-team All-American by Sports Illustrated. Ratledge received an invitation to the 2020 All-American Bowl.

He also lettered in basketball and track at Darlington. Ratledge, who finished third at the 2019 state championships in the shot put, set the school record in that event (55 feet, 7 inches) and posted a personal best of 139-10 in the discus.

A four-star recruit, Ratledge was the third-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in Georgia (behind Arik Gilbert, Myles Murphy, Broderick Jones and Will Anderson Jr.). He was the No. 38 recruit nationally. He started receiving FBS scholarships as a freshman, including from SEC powers Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee (finished with a few dozen offers). Ratledge originally was leaning toward Alabama, until Brent Key left for Georgia Tech. Being from Tennessee and having grown up in a family of diehard Volunteers' fans, Ratledge rooted for Tennessee much of his life. There were only two hats on the table during his commitment announcement after his junior season, and he picked the Bulldogs over the Volunteers, in part because of his relationship with former offensive line coach Sam Pittman.

A week before signing day, though, Pittman left to become the head coach at Arkansas and Clemson came close to flipping Ratledge, but he decided to stay committed. He was the seventh-ranked recruit in head coach Kirby Smart's 2020 class. Ratledge graduated with a degree in sports and fitness administration/management (May 2023). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but later pulled out of the event.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	-	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (1/1)	RG	Missed final 14 games (right foot)
2022: (14/14)	RG	Missed one game (shoulder)
2023: (13/13)	RG	Second Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; missed one game (left knee)
2024: (10/9)	RG	First Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; missed four games (left ankle)
Total: (39/37)	RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6064	308	10 3/8	32 1/4	79 1/4	4.97	2.89	1.72	32	9' 5"	DNP	7.38	DNP	No SS, bench, second 40 (choice); did short snaps
PRO DAY	6063	312	10 3/8	32 1/2	79 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	25

STRENGTHS:

- Tall with thick, stout frame and massive hands
- Latches on in run game and flashes strength in legs and hands to create lanes
- Has body quickness and control to stretch front-side and execute short pulls
- Plays with flat back and impressive leverage for his size, helping him reset pass-pro anchor and halt power
- Keeps hands tight in punch to batter and bruise
- Rarely fooled by stunts and plays with vision to identify games and blitzes from depth
- Mean dude — takes it incredibly personally when quarterback gets hit
- Penalized just three times over past two seasons (two holding flags, one false start)
- His coaches rave about his practice habits and love for football
- Very personable; connects well in locker room (NFL scout: "He's a goofball, but the guys over there love him.")
- Kirby Smart said he's as "special as they come," because of his leadership (95 percent of Georgia's 130 players voted him a 2024 team captain)

WEAKNESSES:

- Shorter arms stand out when punch timing isn't on point
- Leaves edges vulnerable when set points are inconsistent
- Has overzealous moments in run game and finds himself overextended
- Occasionally drops his eyes into contact
- Feels most comfortable on right side and doesn't have proven experience across the line (aside from four snaps at left guard, 100 percent of his 2,081 career offensive snaps came at right guard)
- Missed at least one game each of past four seasons: Lisfranc injury to right foot four plays into first career start, which required season-ending surgery; missed one game as sophomore because of shoulder subluxation (Nov. 2022); missed one game as junior because of bone bruise to left knee (Nov. 2023); left ankle injury (Sept. 2024) as senior and required tigh trope surgery, which sidelined him four games

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Georgia, Ratledge established himself at right guard in offensive coordinator Mike Bobo's multiple-run scheme (zone and gap). Despite missing 20 games with injuries over the past four years, he became an All-American and All-SEC first-teamer the past two seasons and an unquestioned leader in the program.

NFL teams are searching for guards who can move defenders with their lower bodies and control them with their upper halves, and Ratledge did both consistently on his college tape, bullying defenders out of gaps to create running lanes. In pass protection, he has the smarts and anchor to maintain the integrity of the pocket, although he needs to improve his punch timing to stay centered versus pass-rush quickness. Overall, Ratledge is a self-described "dirtbag" with the contact power, competitive edge and functional movement skills to match up against NFL defensive linemen. He should compete for a starting role as a rookie and has the necessary tools for a decade-long pro career, if he stays healthy.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 53 overall)

OG4 Jonah Savaiinaea

Arizona, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Tafuna, American Samoa	St. Louis	Jan 13, 2004	21.28	6041	324	#71

BACKGROUND: Jonah Savaiinaea (Savuh-Nye-A-uh), the second oldest of four children (three boys, one girl), was born and raised in American Samoa with his parents (Joe and Annette). He grew up singing in church and playing multiple instruments, including piano and guitar. Savaiinaea didn't play football until seventh grade, when his friends convinced him to join the team. It wasn't love at first sight, but given his size and athleticism, football quickly became his main activity. Savaiinaea convinced his parents to let him attend high school on the mainland, in Hawaii, to get more looks from college football programs. His brother (Julian), who is one year younger, also made the move and is now a rising redshirt sophomore defensive lineman at Arizona.

Savaiinaea moved to Hawaii in 2017 and enrolled at St. Louis High, a Catholic all-boys school in Honolulu that has produced numerous NFL players, including Tua Tagovailoa, Marcus Mariota and Olin Kreutz. After starting at left guard as a freshman, he moved over to right guard as a 365-pound sophomore and helped lead St. Louis to a 12-1 record and the 2019 state championship. It was the school's fourth straight title, and that team included future FBS players such as quarterback Jayden de Laura and linebacker Nick Herbig. The 2020 football season was canceled in Hawaii, so Savaiinaea only saw action in controlled spring scrimmages. For his senior season, Savaiinaea started at right guard (at 345 pounds) and earned all-state honors in 2021. He also played for a club team called the Trench Dawgz.

A three-star recruit, Savaiinaea was the 27th-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 3 recruit in Hawaii. After his sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer from Hawaii, followed by offers from UNLV and Arizona State. With Hawaii native and NFL Hall of Famer Kevin Mawae coaching the offensive line for head coach Herm Edwards' Arizona State staff, the Sun Devils were an early favorite. However, Mawae left Arizona State after the 2020 season, and Arizona ramped up its recruitment of Savaiinaea in spring of 2021. After taking a visit to Tucson and connecting with former offensive line coach Brennan Carroll, Savaiinaea committed to the Wildcats in June 2021 (it helped that Arizona also offered his younger brother).

He was the eighth-ranked recruit in former head coach Jedd Fisch's 2022 class (wide receiver Tetairoa McMillan was No. 1). Savaiinaea was recruited as a guard, but he played the majority of his career at Arizona at tackle. He elected to forgo his final season and enter the NFL Draft. Savaiinaea accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2022: (12/12)	RG	Freshman All-American; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	10 RT, 3 RG	Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2024: (11/11)	6 RT, 5 LT	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; Missed season finale (injury)
Total: (36/36) 16 RT, 15 RG, 5 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6041	324	10 1/4	33 7/8	82 1/4	4.95	2.87	1.72	29	8' 10"	4.66	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6034	325	10 3/8	34	82	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	26

STRENGTHS:

- Massive frame with well-proportioned thickness and long arms
- Plays balanced in pass sets to square and mirror
- Efficient quickness pre- and post-contact and transfers weight well on combos
- Large, physical hands to snatch and stun at contact
- Runs his feet to create movement in run game (1.72-second 10-yard split was fastest at combine among prospects weighing 315 pounds or more)
- Functional pulling range and closes well on targets in space
- Plays hard — eyes are always searching for the next block
- Flagged only once in 2024 (holding on Kansas State tape)
- Didn't start lifting weights until high school and has learned how to take care of his body
- NFL scouts say his swagger helped maintain Arizona's culture after Jedd Fisch left following 2023 season
- Started 36 straight games, spread across three positions

WEAKNESSES:

- Struggles to recover once rushers win inside leverage
- Stiffness in lower half becomes more noticeable when asked to expand lateral range
- Upright with inconsistent knee bend and anchor
- Needs to become more consistent replacing hands as pass blocker
- Inconsistent hip roll when leveraging in run game
- Falls off too many second-level blocks — needs to keep his feet underneath him

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Arizona, Savaiinaea was an interchangeable tackle in former offensive coordinator Dino Babers' pass-heavy spread scheme. Primarily a guard in high school, he was a Freshman All-American guard for the Wildcats before being pushed to tackle the past two seasons. He split his time almost evenly between right tackle (364 snaps) and left tackle (345) in 2024, but he didn't complain about the shuffling (Savaiinaea: "Wherever my coaches want me, I'll play there. Whatever the team needs.").

A physically imposing blocker, Savaiinaea is both alert and powerful, with the competitive demeanor to complete the mission. Though he is a solid athlete, he will struggle versus two-way go rushers and too easily turn his hips and lose positioning in space, opening a path to the quarterback. Overall, Savaiinaea has the length and functional movements to stay at tackle, but his square play style projects best inside at guard, where he can use his bear claws to control the man in front of him. He should compete for starting reps as early as his rookie season.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 55 overall)

HOMETOWN Camden, NJ	HIGH SCHOOL Woodrow Wilson	BIRTHDAY Sep 12, 2001	AGE 23.61	HT 6055	WT 317	NUM #70
------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Miles Frazier, one of three children, grew up in South New Jersey with his parents. At age 5, he developed a love for football by watching his older brother (MJ) star at the little league level. MJ, a defensive lineman, had a winding college football path — he played at Kent State (2017), Albany (2018) and Hudson (N.J.) Community College (2019), where he moved to tight end. He then transferred to North Carolina A&T (2020-21) and later turned down scholarship offers to walk on at LSU and be teammates with his younger brother for the 2022 season. Miles Frazier also has one sister (Ashleigh). He played football through middle school and later joined a 7-on-7 team, the Next Level Greats, and won several championships, including the 2016 national championship at IMG Academy.

Frazier initially enrolled at Cherry Hill West High, where his older brother played his high school ball. After initially playing linebacker and tight end, he started both ways as a junior on varsity as a right tackle and defensive tackle. After his junior year, Frazier transferred to Woodrow Wilson High (later renamed Eastside High) in Camden, N.J. He started at left tackle as a senior and played on the same defensive line as FBS recruit Fadil Diggs. Frazier helped Woodrow Wilson to the South Jersey Group 3 Championship in 2018. He required a prep season and enrolled at Milford Prep Academy in New Berlin, N.Y., in 2019 (he was teammates with Buffalo linebacker Shaun Dolac). Frazier started at left tackle and helped the team to a 7-2 finish.

A two-star recruit, Frazier emerged as the top-ranked offensive tackle at the prep level and the No. 10 prep recruit in the 2020 class. He received his first scholarship offer from FCS Albany during his junior year of high school. He added a few more FCS offers (Morgan State, Wagner) before several MAC programs entered the mix during his prep year, including Bowling Green, Buffalo, Central Michigan and Western Michigan. But Frazier loved his visit to Florida International and committed to former head coach Butch Davis. He was the 13th-ranked recruit in Florida International's 2020 class.

After Florida International and Davis parted ways following a 1-11 finish in 2021, Frazier entered the transfer portal and immediately became a hot target for then-Power 5 programs. He received offers from the ACC (Boston College, Miami, NC State), Big 12 (Iowa State, Kansas), Big Ten (Nebraska, Penn State, Purdue, Rutgers), Pac-12 (Arizona State, Colorado, UCLA) and SEC (Auburn, Mississippi State, Ole Miss, Texas A&M). Ultimately, Frazier narrowed his choice to Florida State, LSU and Ohio State, then committed to the Tigers. He graduated with a degree in sports administration (Aug. 2024) and wants to be a coach (like his brother) after his playing days. Frazier accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted as the American Team's top offensive lineman during the week of practice.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (4/1)	LT	FIU; redshirted
2021: (12/11)	LT	FIU; Freshman All-American; Entered transfer portal November 2021
2022: (14/13)	9 LG, 3 RG, 1 RT	LSU; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	RG	LSU
2024: (13/13)	12 RG, 1 RT	LSU; moved to RT for bowl game after Emery Jones Jr. opted out
Total: (56/51)		28 RG, 12 LT, 9 LG, 2 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6055	317	9	32 3/4	81 1/4	5.24	3.01	1.79	31	9' 0"	DNP	DNP	27	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6054	318	8 7/8	32 7/8	80 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.84	7.76	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Passes eye test with wide, filled-out frame and functional length
- Strong on first contact and can be a bully when he wants
- Developed hand usage in pass sets to feint and answer swipes/swats/chops
- Can sit down and slow bull rushes
- Experience speaks for itself, especially in how he recognizes and answers different games
- Efficient on short pulls and combos to find and occupy moving targets
- Mean play personality (Arkansas defensive lineman Eric Gregory: "He had an extra edge. You could see he was different.")
- Versatile experience across 51 starts, logging time at both tackle and guard spots
- Dependable — played every game past four seasons (3,283 total offensive snaps)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks burst in linear or lateral movements
- Waist bender with taller pads and minimal knee bend in pass sets
- Can get caught flat-footed with an open chest versus speed-to-power moves
- Recovery against NFL twists could be an issue
- Inconsistent run-game footwork — will play out over his toes
- Not as comfortable on long pulls
- Defaults to mauling and throwing body at defenders as puller, instead of getting his hands right
- False starts penalties on 2024 South Carolina and Ole Miss tapes

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at LSU, Frazier was primarily used at right guard in offensive coordinator Joe Sloan's pass-happy, inside-outside zone scheme. After showing promise at Florida International, he transferred to Baton Rouge in 2022 and had his best season as a senior in 2024 (zero sacks allowed, plus a standout week at the Senior Bowl).

As a pass blocker, Frazier's slide quickness will be tested by gap shooters, but his mature hand usage allows him to lose slowly once squared up to defenders. Although he tends to lean into contact and leave his feet behind, he fits with vice grips in the run game to drive defenders from the spot with torque. Overall, Frazier has an NFL body with mauling play strength and competitive toughness, which gives him starting potential — if he can find improved consistency to mask his average athleticism. He best fits teams that prioritize size and mass.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 81 overall)

OG6 Marcus Mbow

Purdue, 4JR

HOMETOWN Milwaukee, WI	HIGH SCHOOL Wauwatosa East	BIRTHDAY Apr 02, 2003	AGE 22.06	HT 6042	WT 302	NUM #63
---------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Marcus Mbow (bow, like "bow and arrow"), one of five children, grew up in the Milwaukee area with his parents (Demba and Elizabeth). His father grew up in Senegal before coming to the United States, where he played basketball at Beloit College (1998-2001). Mbow grew up as a basketball-focused athlete and competed in travel and AAU. He started playing football in middle school, but it wasn't love at first sight (his mother wouldn't let him quit).

Mbow enrolled at Wauwatosa East High, Wis. (west of downtown Milwaukee), where he continued to play football, although basketball remained his top priority. He played on the freshman and JV football teams as an offensive and defensive tackle over his first two seasons. There was a coaching change on the varsity team as he headed into his junior year — the new staff helped him see his potential, plus taught him details of playing offensive tackle and how to develop his body (didn't lift until summer of 2019). As a junior, Mbow started at left and right tackle. He started to get noticed by college programs, despite Wauwatosa East going winless (0-9) in 2019. As a senior in 2020, he played both ways at offensive tackle and on the defensive line, earning all-state honors in a pandemic-shortened season.

After two seasons playing JV basketball, Mbow, who also played for the Wisconsin Swing club team, moved up to varsity for his final two seasons. He was a senior captain and starting center on Wauwatosa East's 2021 Division I state championship team. Mbow also lettered in track and placed third in the shot put at the 2021 state championships with a school-record mark of 56 feet, 1 inch.

A three-star recruit, Mbow was the 91st-ranked offensive tackle in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 7 recruit in Wisconsin (the top six ranked recruits all signed with Wisconsin, including running back Braelon Allen). After switching his focus from basketball to football as a junior, he picked up his first scholarship offer from Matt Campbell and Iowa State in September 2019. After numerous camps and visits after his junior season, Mbow added another dozen offers and narrowed his choice to Arizona State, Iowa State, Michigan State, Nebraska and Virginia. In July 2020, he committed to Herm Edwards and the Sun Devils, but three months later, Arizona State rescinded its offer because it had overcommitted. After reopening his recruitment, Mbow heard from a number of programs and reconnected with Purdue, one of his first offers. He signed with the Boilermakers and was the fifth-ranked recruit in former head coach Jeff Brohm's 2021 class. Mbow elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (4/0)	-	Redshirted; Enrolled July 2021
2022: (14/14)	RG	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2023: (6/6)	RT	Missed final six games (right leg)
2024: (12/12)	RT	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (36/32)		18 RT, 14 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6041	303	10 1/2	32	80	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.67	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (right hamstring)
PRO DAY	6042	302	10 1/2	32 1/2	80 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Moves with basketball footwork and body control
- Loose through hips for smooth pulls, redirects and block adjustments
- Mirrors well in pass pro to cut off edge speed and deter inside counters
- Springs out of stance with lateral quickness to reach backside/play-side runs
- Understands angles in run game
- Snatch-and-secure grip strength to stymie defenders
- Baits with hand strikes to disrupt plan of pass rushers
- Maintains fierce demeanor all four quarters
- His 32 starts in college were split between right tackle (18) and right guard (14)

WEAKNESSES:

- Light-framed and lacks desired length and girth by NFL standards
- Doesn't have ideal mass in lower half to drop anchor and stay square versus bullies
- Average power when attempting to create inline push
- Impatient blocker — can be pulled off balance or end up on the ground
- Gets caught with his eye level dropped
- Doesn't play with noticeable sense of urgency or grit
- Career high with seven penalties in 2024 (five false starts)
- Gruesome broken right leg (Oct. 2023) and missed second half of sophomore season

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Purdue, Mbow was a reliable right tackle in former offensive coordinator Graham Harrell's balanced scheme. A basketball player most of his life, he transitioned his focus to football late in high school and showed steady development each year with the Boilermakers (and gave NFL scouts a reason to make the trip to West Lafayette in 2024 to see a 1-11 Purdue team).

Mbow has the fluid movement skills to win block positioning against different types of defenders, and he uses stiff, independent hands and flexible coil to fend off counters. Because of his core-strength issues, he tends to rely more on angles than power and will get himself in trouble with shaky posture and oversetting/lunging, which diminishes his balance. Overall, Mbow needs to continue developing his play strength and consistency through contact, but his athletic body control and skilled hands are the foundation of a player who will compete for NFL starting snaps, be it at tackle or inside at guard or center. His play style and potential are reminiscent of Zach Tom.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 84 overall)

OG7 Dylan Fairchild

Georgia, 4JR

HOMETOWN Cumming, GA	HIGH SCHOOL West Forsyth	BIRTHDAY May 08, 2003	AGE 21.96	HT 6052	WT 325	NUM #53
-------------------------	-----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Dylan Fairchild grew up north of Atlanta, with his parents. He played little league football, but wrestling was his best sport growing up — he won several state titles in middle school. Fairchild is also an avid fisherman and outdoorsman. He proposed to his fiancée (Elizabeth) in February 2025.

Fairchild attended West Forsyth High School in Cumming, Ga., where he was a multisport standout. Known more as a wrestler early in his high school career, his football path started to take shape during his sophomore season as a 250-pound defensive tackle who worked his way into rotation. Fairchild bulked up to 285 pounds as a junior and stood out at defensive tackle, while also blossoming at left tackle, earning 2019 second-team all-region honors. He again played both ways as a senior and led West Forsyth to a nine-win season and the 2020 7A Region 6 championship. Fairchild earned an invitation to the 2021 All-American Bowl. He had a prolific wrestling career in high school, earning all-state honors all four years. After going 47-0 as a junior, Fairchild repeated as the Class 7A state champion as a senior in the 285-pound division (pinned his opponent in 25 seconds), finishing his final season 22-0 (all pins). He also played baseball in high school but quit as a sophomore because it was "too boring."

A four-star recruit, Fairchild was the sixth-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 11 recruit in Georgia. He was a consensus top-100 recruit nationally. After flashing his ability as a sophomore, Fairchild received his first scholarship offer from Jacksonville State (May 2019). That summer, he took a visit to South Carolina and received an offer on the spot from the offensive line. Fairchild's recruitment took off after his junior season, including offers from Alabama, Arkansas, Auburn, LSU, Penn State, Tennessee, Texas A&M and Virginia Tech. He decided to stay in his home state and committed to head coach Kirby Smart in May 2020. Fairchild was the seventh-ranked recruit in Smart's 2021 class (one spot ahead of Brock Bowers). After an All-America junior season, he elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (1/0)	-	Redshirted; scout team; enrolled June 2021
2022: (5/0)	-	Scout team
2023: (14/10)	LG
2024: (14/14)	LG	Second Team All-American; Second Team All-SEC
Total: (34/24)		LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6052	318	10	33	80 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	27 1/2	9' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	Limited workout (med. exclusion: left pec, left tibia)
PRO DAY	6051	325	9 3/4	33 3/8	81 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Looks the part with a stout, muscular frame and strong trunk
- "Freaks List" alum for work in weight room (440-pound bench, 570 squat, 370 power clean)
- High-level wrestling background — physical mindset translates to the field
- Gritty competitor who wants to make it a bad day for opponent
- Hard guy to move; able to settle down when rushers try to push him
- Hands are both well-paced and powerful to press defenders off him
- Generates ground force to uproot in run game
- Battles through minor injuries — played in all 28 games past two seasons
- Confidence appeared to grow with each start

WEAKNESSES:

- Some movements show hints of lower-body stiffness
- Elevated pads into contact will diminish power on down/drive blocks
- Average range — needs to improve timing and angles working up to linebacker level
- Occasionally over-sets against shifty rushers who cross his face
- Still learning different tricks for easier recoveries
- In-game experience at right guard, but all 24 college starts came at left guard
- Limited throughout draft process because of left calf strain

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Georgia, Fairchild settled in at right guard in offensive coordinator Mike Bobo's multiple-run scheme (zone and gap). He cut his teeth on the scout team (non-travel) over his first two seasons in Athens before earning a starting job and quickly developing into one of the better guards in the SEC.

Fairchild is built to hold his ground and jolt defenders at the point of attack, and he plays with the fierce demeanor to win his individual battles (wrestling mentality). At times, his feet, hands and eyes can get slightly disjointed as he responds to quickness, but he flashes dominance when his moving parts all stay on the same page. Overall, Fairchild lacks experience — and it shows at times — but he is powerful, tough and naturally aggressive. I expect him to continue getting better with additional reps. He is an ascending prospect with NFL starting upside, in the Wyatt Teller mold.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

OG8 Wyatt Milum

West Virginia, 4SR

HOMETOWN Kenova, WV	HIGH SCHOOL Spring Valley	BIRTHDAY Dec 27, 2002	AGE 22.32	HT 6064	WT 313	NUM #74
------------------------	------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: James "Wyatt" Milum (my-lum), who has an older brother (Jeremiah) and older sister (Alex), grew up in Kenova, W. Va., near the Ohio River with his parents (Todd and Francie). He started playing football at age 6 and was coached by his father throughout youth football. However, Milum was also a standout baseball player throughout childhood, and many around him believed that would be his best sport long-term.

A left-handed pitcher and first baseman, Milum started to draw attention on the diamond from pro and college scouts in middle school (had an 80 mph fastball and 78 mph exit velocity as an eighth-grader).

Milum originally attended Wayne High and earned a varsity spot as a freshman. He lined up as a tight end in his first year and had the opportunity to catch passes from his older brother (who was an all-conference quarterback) and led Wayne to a 10-2 record in 2017. The two brothers also teamed up in the spring of 2018 for the Wayne baseball team, which advanced to the 2A state championship game (lost to Bridgeport). Before his sophomore season, Milum transferred to Spring Valley High in Huntington, WVa., and moved to the offensive line (same offensive line as future Mountaineers teammate Doug Nester). He started at right tackle the next three seasons for a run-first offense (only a handful of pass attempts each game), earning second-team all-state honors as a sophomore and first-team all-state as a junior and senior. Milum also saw snaps on the defensive line in 2019 (23 tackles, 7.5 tackles for loss, 1.5 sacks, one forced fumble and a blocked kick). He helped the program to a 29-6 record over his three seasons at Spring Valley, including two appearances in the 3A state title game. He was named a U.S. Army All-American. Milum also continued his baseball career at Spring Valley.

A four-star recruit, Milum was the 13th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in West Virginia. Initially, he was viewed as a better baseball recruit and committed to Marshall as a freshman in high school. However, Milum's mindset switched to football after he transferred to Spring Valley — and the offers started to pour in. Marshall also gave him his first football offer, followed by offers from Ohio State, Penn State, West Virginia and Virginia Tech, all of which offered at the start of his sophomore year (Aug. 2018). Other national programs such as Georgia, LSU, Oregon and Tennessee followed before Milum announced his final six of Alabama, Kentucky, Notre Dame, Penn State, Virginia Tech and West Virginia.

Ultimately, the draw of staying close to family and playing in his home state led him to West Virginia. Milum was the top-ranked recruit in former head coach Neal Brown's 2021 class and one of the highest-ranked recruits in the school's history. He earned first-team Academic All-Big 12 three straight years and graduated with a bachelor's degree (Dec. 2024). Milum opted out of West Virginia's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (12/8)	RT	Freshman All-American; missed one game (leg); enrolled May 2021
2022: (12/12)	LT
2023: (12/12)	LT	Honorable Mention All-American; Second Team All-Big 12; missed one game (eye)
2024: (11/11)	LT	Consensus All-American; Big 12 OL of the Year; First Team All-Big 12; missed one game (injury); missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (47/43)		35 LT, 8 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6064	313	10 1/4	32 1/8	79 1/2	5.27	3.08	1.83	30	9' 0"	4.69	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6057	307	10 1/4	32 5/8	80	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.84	7.59	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Snap quickness and agility to work across backside zone or execute long/short pulls
- Redirects well to catch moving targets at linebacker level
- Stout in pass protection to slow pass rushers who run down his center
- Gets proper depth in pass sets and understands how opponent wants to attack him
- Processes well to anticipate stunts and negotiate block timing
- Physical, fierce hands to jar defenders at contact
- Outstanding sealing edge with movements and grip strength
- Flashes drive power to control and run through contract once locked on
- Consistently finishes blocks with killer instinct
- Naturally left-handed, which helped transition to left tackle
- His coaches describe him as humble and unassuming but vocal when he needs to be
- Experienced resume: 43 career starts, with time at both left and right tackle

WEAKNESSES:

- Shorter arms lower margin for error, especially when he throws his hands too early/late
- Upright pad level and often caught leaning, allowing skilled pass rushers to forklift or give him the slip
- Average lateral athleticism — speed rushers too easily soften his edges
- Mediocre recovery skills when caught off balance
- Lean in lower half and lacks ideal sand
- Penalties declined over past three seasons but still had too many (three holding calls, two false starts in 2024)
- Missed one game as junior after being poked in eye (Oct. 2023); missed one game as senior because of injury
- Only played offensive tackle in high school and college; lacks tangible experience inside at guard

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at West Virginia, Milum was a cornerstone left tackle in former offensive coordinator Chad Scott's run-heavy scheme. After playing right tackle in high school and as a college freshman (joined Zach Frazier as the only true freshmen to start on West Virginia's offensive line in the last 40 years), he moved to left tackle the past three seasons and didn't allow a sack (last sack allowed came in the bowl game his freshman year).

Milum flashes strong hands and a competitive edge in the run game, although his strike placement needs to be tightened up against more skilled interior defensive linemen. As a pass blocker, he feints and fires those same heavy hands to steer or shut down rushers, but his lack of length can easily disrupt his balance if his timing isn't perfect. Coming from a run-heavy scheme, he struggled during pass-pro drills at Senior Bowl practices. Overall, Milum has enough athletic tools and the processing ability to eventually compete for an NFL starting role, but his elevated pad level and average recovery skills are concerns. Despite being a tackle-only in college, his pro projection is inside at guard.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

OG9 Jalen Rivers

Miami, 5SR

HOMETOWN Jacksonville, FL	HIGH SCHOOL Oakleaf	BIRTHDAY Sep 12, 2002	AGE 22.61	HT 6062	WT 319	NUM #64
------------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jalen Rivers, who has two sisters (De'Shonne and Felicia), was born in the naval hospital in Portsmouth, Va., and grew up in a military family. His mother (Donna Daniels) and father (Keith Rivers) both served in the Navy. In 2008, Jalen and his mother moved to Middleburg, Fla. (25 miles outside of Jacksonville), where she married Jalen's stepfather (James Daniels), who served in the Navy for 30 years as an operations specialist and was deployed to 41 different countries.

Rivers started playing sports at age 5, including basketball at the local YMCA (his mother stands more than six feet tall and played basketball in high school). He played AAU basketball for the Jacksonville Nets for three years, followed by the Heart and Hustle AAU organization. Rivers also wanted to play football, but he initially wasn't allowed to because he exceeded the Pop Warner weight limit. At age 7, he joined the Argyle Spartans football team, which didn't have any size restrictions. Two years later, Rivers was able to join the local Pop Warner League in Oakleaf, Fla., and played for the Knights — he was a part of three straight city championships (2012-14) and two different 2014 national championships. He started at left tackle at Oakleaf Junior High, and joined the basketball (center) and track teams (won the county, district and state shot put championships).

Rivers enrolled at Oakleaf High in Orange Park, Fla., where his stepfather was an assistant football coach. As a freshman in 2016, Rivers weighed 357 pounds and earned a starting role on varsity, ultimately earning second-team all-area honors and helping the team to a 7-3 finish. He trimmed down to 320 pounds for his sophomore season and started at left tackle for the next three seasons, earning all-state and all-county honors as a junior and senior and being named a 2020 Under Armour All-American. Rivers was also a standout track athlete at Oakleaf, winning the county championship in shot put as a freshman. As a junior, he won the 2019 shot put state championship with a personal best of 54 feet, 4 inches. He played three years of varsity basketball, helping the program to a district title (didn't play as a senior, because he graduated early). Rivers also lettered in weightlifting and graduated with a 4.3 GPA as part of a college prep program (AICE).

A four-star recruit, Rivers was the 12th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 20 recruit in Florida (No. 2 offensive line recruit in the state). After his freshman season, Rivers attended a camp at Florida and received his first scholarship offer from former head coach Jim McElwain. Three days later, he received an offer from Miami, which was the program his stepfather had grown up following. After Mark Richt stepped down as Hurricanes head coach, Rivers started to focus on his other offers, including those from Alabama, Auburn, Florida State, Georgia, Michigan and Texas. He came close to committing to Georgia, but Manny Diaz was able to keep Rivers' interest after taking over as Miami's head coach. He committed to Miami and shut down his recruitment. He was the fifth-ranked recruit in Diaz' 2020 class (Rivers' best friend and high school teammate, Chantz Williams, was No. 2 in the class). Rivers graduated with a degree from Miami (May 2023). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	-	Enrolled January 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (3/3)	LG	Redshirted; Missed final nine games (right knee)
2022: (9/7)	LG	Missed final three games (lower right leg)
2023: (13/13)	LT	Second Team All-ACC
2024: (8/8)	7 LT, 1 LG	Honorable Mention All-ACC; missed five games (injury)
Total: (40/31)	20 LT, 11 LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6056	319	10	34 7/8	83 7/8	5.29	3.07	1.85	DNP	9' 0"	DNP	DNP	23	No VJ, SS, three-cone (choice); did short snaps
PRO DAY	6062	319	10	35 1/4	84	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Massive, dense body type with long arms and large hands
- Uses length to fend off defenders and maintain space between himself and his target
- Great job timing strikes, using independent hands to reset against highly active rushers
- Efficient out of stance and carries weight well
- Transfers strength from shoulders to hands to stun defenders at contact
- Plays with firm anchor when balanced in sets
- Blocks with rugged demeanor in run game and looks to finish with purpose
- Didn't draw many penalties in college (four career flags)
- Double-digit career college starts, at both tackle and guard, and snapped at center during Senior Bowl practices
- Served as a team captain for four games in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Looks — and plays — tall
- High pads as pass blocker will disrupt balance and diminish chances for quick recoveries
- Can be lured off track — needs to show better awareness versus stunts and games
- Point-of-attack power in the run game can be sapped by lack of bend
- Improved angles will help effectiveness as a move blocker
- Labors a tad against wide speed at tackle; better suited at guard
- Missed five games in final season because of injury (Sept. 2024); right knee injury as sophomore (Sept. 2021), which required season-ending surgery; missed final three games as redshirt sophomore with lower right leg injury (Nov. 2022)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Miami, Rivers lined up at left tackle in offensive coordinator Shannon Dawson's RPO-based version of the Air Raid, although he also shifted inside to left guard on most of his 2024 tapes. Despite missing time throughout his career because of injuries, he showed clear improvements each season — he played his best ball toward the end of the 2024 season and at the Senior Bowl.

When he stays patient in pass pro, Rivers skillfully uses his length to lock out, shuffle and control his man with his power base, although he can get crossed up when caught upright or lunging. He flashes dominance in the run game, and that should continue if he can clean up some technical issues. Overall, Rivers is a large-bodied athlete with the long arms, play strength and functional movements to execute his blocking assignment. His overaggressive tendencies lead to balance issues, however, which must be addressed by pro coaching. He has NFL starting potential and fits best at guard.

GRADE: 4th round

OG10 Emery Jones Jr.

LSU, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Baton Rouge, LA	Catholic	Mar 05, 2004	21.14	6052	315	#50

BACKGROUND: Emery "E.J." Jones Jr. was born and raised in Plaquemine, La., with his parents (Emery Sr. and Tanika) and four sisters. At age 5 five, his father got him involved with organized sports and coached his rec basketball, little league baseball and flag football. teams. Tragically, his father died of a heart attack in February 2021, at age 41. The family later moved to Baton Rouge, La., and Jones continued playing basketball and football throughout youth leagues. He started wearing the No. 50, his father's number from his playing days.

Jones attended Catholic High in Baton Rouge, a powerhouse football program that has produced numerous NFL players, including running back Warrick Dunn. After playing on the freshman team, he got his first chance on varsity as a sophomore right tackle. As a junior, Jones earned first-team all-state and all-district honors at left tackle, helping Catholic to a 9-2 finish and the 2020 Division I state championship. As a senior, he led Catholic to a 12-1 record and back-to-back state titles. Jones again earned first-team all-state and all-district at left tackle and earned an invite to the 2021 Under Armour All-American Game. He was also a standout basketball player at Catholic.

A four-star recruit, Jones was the fifth-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 11 recruit in Louisiana (No. 2 offensive lineman in the state, behind future LSU teammate Will Campbell). He received his first scholarship offer after his sophomore season from Houston (April 2022). A month later, the big boys in the SEC came calling, including offers from LSU and Alabama. Jones added offers from Florida, Georgia, Penn State, Texas A&M and others before narrowing down his final choice to Arkansas, Florida State, LSU and Tennessee. Ultimately, the draw of staying close to home led him to LSU, and he stayed committed after Ed Orgeron resigned and Brian Kelly took over as head coach. Jones was the fifth-ranked recruit in Kelly's first class in Baton Rouge. After three seasons, he opted out of LSU's 2024 bowl game and skipped his senior season to enter the NFL Draft. Jones accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2022: (14/12)	RT	Freshman All-American; Freshman All-SEC; enrolled June 2022
2023: (12/12)	RT	Second Team All-SEC; missed one game (left ankle)
2024: (12/12)	RT	Second Team All-SEC; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (38/36)		RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6052	315	10 3/4	34 1/4	81 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Built well with wide frame and long arms to protect the edges
- Quick vertical sets and relies on punches to maximize length
- Savvy use of independent hands to reset/answer various rush moves
- Patient and anchors at shallow depth
- Play strength evident in run game
- Strains to neutralize and finish move blocks
- Smooth footwork and understands spacing on pulls and combos
- Young player but matured quickly (Brian Kelly: "He is never late to anything. He is reliable. This is a guy that we can count on.")
- Started 36 games in three years

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent landmarks in pass protection (see 2024 Ole Miss tape)
- Late to redirect momentum and counter versus inside moves
- Guilty of throwing his hands too early, which disrupts balance and recovery
- Needs to better keep his head on a swivel, especially against twists and simulated pressures
- Five false start penalties in 2024 (four on the road)
- Want to see him play meaner in run game, instead of just getting in the way
- Late to pick up moving targets on short pulls
- Almost all college snaps (98.3 percent) came at right tackle (also played tackle in high school)
- Missed one game after spraining his left ankle as sophomore (Oct. 2023); Missed part of draft process because of left labrum injury (expected to be cleared June 2025)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at LSU, Jones was a fixture at right tackle in offensive coordinator Joe Sloan's pass-happy, inside-outside zone scheme. He took over the starting right tackle job two games into his true freshman season, and although he wasn't as consistent or celebrated as left tackle Will Campbell, he earned second-team All-SEC honors the past two seasons.

Jones plays with accessible length, which helps him push rushers wide of the pocket when he stays on time, but he plays with inconsistent control on an island. Though his play strength can be showcased in the run game, he needs more consistent technique to keep him from ending up on the ground. Overall, Jones is physically talented, with NFL size, strength and functional movements. The undisciplined balance and recovery skills, however, have been his undoing and need to be developed by pro coaching. He can compete for right tackle reps, although a move inside to guard might smooth his path.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

OG11 Caleb Rogers

Texas Tech, 5SR

HOMETOWN Mansfield, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Lake Ridge	BIRTHDAY Oct 03, 2001	AGE 23.56	HT 6045	WT 312	NUM #76
---------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Caleb Rogers, who has one brother (Elliot), was born in Fort Worth, Texas, and both parents (Archie and Julie) served in the military. During Rogers' childhood, his family moved from Texas to Colorado to Maryland and back to Colorado, followed by a stretch overseas in Germany while Rogers was in middle school. Before eighth grade, the family again relocated to Texas. His father is a retired sergeant major; his mother is a captain in the military (Rogers: "With our last name, my mom is the real Captain America."). Julie, who is also a nurse, didn't allow Caleb to play football growing up, because of her fear of concussions. After the family settled in Texas, however, Caleb Rogers was allowed to join the football team in eighth grade.

Rogers attended Lake Ridge High in Mansfield and played on the freshman team in Year 1. He continued growing into his frame as a sophomore and started on JV at both left and right tackle. Rogers was the full-time starting right tackle on varsity over his final two seasons. As a junior, he helped Lake Ridge to a nine-win season and the third-round of the 2018 5A state playoffs, including a three-overtime win over Guyer. As a senior, Rogers took home first-team all-district honors. He also lettered in track, with personal bests of 41 feet, 2 inches in the shot put and 136-8 in the discus.

A three-star recruit, Rogers was the 90th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 132 recruit in Texas. His recruitment started to gain steam after his junior season, when he received his first FCS offer (William & Mary), followed by his first FBS offer (Louisiana-Monroe). Rogers took a visit to Lubbock, Texas in March 2019 and left with an offer from former Texas Tech head coach Matt Wells. He added offers from Arkansas State and Georgia Tech, but his mother is a Texas Tech alum and he committed to the Red Raiders (on Mother's Day), shortly after receiving his offer. Rogers was the 11th-ranked recruit (just behind wide receiver Ja'Lynn Polk) in Wells' 2020 class.

He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned as a super senior. Rogers earned second-team Academic All-Big 12 honors and graduated with a degree in university studies (Dec. 2023). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (9/3)	LT	Started final three games; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled July 2020
2021: (13/13)	RT
2022: (13/13)	LT
2023: (13/13)	RT	Honorable Mention All-Big 12
2024: (13/13)	9 RT, 2 RG, 2 LG	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; team captain
Total: (61/55)		35 RT, 16 LT, 2 LG, 2 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	312	9 3/4	32 3/8	79	5.10	2.97	1.78	34	9' 3"	4.49	7.43	DNP	No bench (choice); did short snaps
PRO DAY	6043	309	10	32 1/2	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	21

STRENGTHS:

- Impressive initial quicks and plays light on his feet
- Excels on short/long pulls and creates creases on backside gaps
- Stout at contact, with violent hands to drive and finish
- Earned spot on Bruce Feldman's "Freaks List" (406-pound power clean, 600-pound squat)
- Anchors well and has a firm punch (specifically studies Erik McCoy)
- Energetic play personality and doesn't coast
- Durable — didn't miss a start in past four seasons
- Voted a senior captain and was on team's leadership council starting sophomore year (nickname in the program was "Captain Rogers")
- Multiple starts at four different offensive line positions (also practiced at center)

WEAKNESSES:

- Arms fall below desired length to stay at tackle
- Inconsistent base and pads steadily rise, creating leverage disruption
- Needs to protect against powerful defenders pulling his weight away from him
- Initial quickness much better than countering/redirect quickness
- Will slide off blocks when he gets overextended
- Eight penalties in 2024 — way too many, given his experience (four holding flags, three false starts, one personal foul)
- Just four of 55 career starts came on interior
- Will turn 24 during rookie season

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Texas Tech, Rogers worked primarily at right tackle in former offensive coordinator Zach Kittley's heavy-zone/counter scheme with some gap-based principles (pin-pull, etc.). With 4,331 offensive snaps in college, he is one of the most experienced players in this draft class — he made 55 straight starts across four different positions (and developed under three different offensive line coaches).

With his loose movement skills, Rogers is efficient at reaching his landmarks to anchor in pass protection. He is at his best pulling in the run game when he can build momentum, locate targets and thump in space. Though his hands are heavy, his balance and pad level start to work against him when attempting to counter shifty rushers or sustain in the run game. Overall, Rogers needs continued technical refinement with his hands and posture, especially inside at guard, but his blend of foot quickness, play strength and competitive toughness create optimism for his pro transition. He projects as a versatile backup with spot-starter potential.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

HOMETOWN Clovis, NM	HIGH SCHOOL Clovis	BIRTHDAY Sep 04, 2001	AGE 23.64	HT 6044	WT 308	NUM #77
------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Bryce Cabeldue, one of four children, was raised in Clovis, N.M. (near the Texas border), by his parents (Tyler and Brendi). He didn't start playing organized football until 10. His favorite player throughout childhood was Troy Polamalu, before Cabeldue moved to the trenches. Cabeldue enrolled at Clovis High School, where he was a three-sport standout. He played both ways on varsity as a 240-pound left tackle and defensive end. He earned first-team all-state on offense and second-team all-state on defense (43 tackles, 8.5 tackles for loss and one forced fumble). Cabeldue led Clovis to an 8-4 record and the 2019 6A district championship. He was also highly decorated in baseball and basketball, earning all-district honors in both sports.

A three-star recruit, Cabeldue was the 187th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 3 recruit in New Mexico. A late bloomer on the football field, he received his first offer in the spring of his junior season from Division II Eastern New Mexico. He also received interest to play college basketball and received several Division II offers in that sport. He added several other Division II football offers during his senior year, including from Southeastern Oklahoma State, Wayland Baptist and Southwest Minnesota State. As teams caught up on his senior tape, late interest started to pick up in the weeks before signing day, including his first Division I offer (Texas State).

In January 2020, Cabeldue received an offer from Kansas (his lone then-Power 5 offer) and committed after a visit to Lawrence. He was the 25th-ranked recruit (out of 28) in former head coach Les Miles' 2020 class. Cabeldue accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (4/2)	RT	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/12)	RT
2022: (13/13)	RT
2023: (11/11)	RT	Missed two games (right foot)
2024: (12/12)	11 LT, 1 RT	Honorable Mention All-Big 12
Total: (52/50)		39 RT, 11 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6044	308	9 1/2	33 1/4	79 3/8	4.95	2.89	1.73	32	9'6"	4.59	7.71	30

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive out of stance on flat/jump sets to engage rushers
- Tight hands in pass pro and works to center block
- Generates torque from upper-body strength to bury defenders
- Good timing and power to tomahawk reach of defenders
- Alert eyes to quickly react to delays and line games
- Efficient movements in run game (skip-pulls, cutoffs and scoops)
- Physical run-blocking hands to roll his hips and create push
- Added more than 60 pounds since senior year of high school

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have desired length to stay outside at tackle
- Upright setter who plays with tall pads
- Puts too much weight on outside foot, inviting inside counters
- Run-game technique needs better consistency
- Above-average grip strength, which can lead to potential holding calls
- Missed two games as junior because of right foot injury (Nov. 2023); battled left knee injury in first season (2020)
- Only played tackle in college; doesn't have experience on interior

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Kansas, Cabeldue lined up at left tackle (primarily in a two-point stance) in offensive coordinator Jeff Grimes' RPO-based, zone scheme. A late bloomer on the football field, he developed his body and started 50 games for the Jayhawks, initially at right tackle before moving to the left side in 2024 to fill Dominic Puni's shoes.

Cabeldue is quick out of his stance as a pass blocker and gets his hands on rushers early, although his average range and length can leave him compromised on an island. His movement skills are an asset for him in the run game, along with his heavy latch hands to turn and bury his target. Overall, Cabeldue is a college tackle who projects best inside at guard, where his competitive edge, foot quickness and hand strength should translate well. He didn't have any guard reps in college, but he looked comfortable there during East-West Shrine Bowl practices.

GRADE: 5th round

OG13 Joe Huber

Wisconsin, 5SR

HOMETOWN Dublin, OH	HIGH SCHOOL Jerome	BIRTHDAY May 02, 2002	AGE 22.98	HT 6051	WT 310	NUM #60
------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Joseph "Joe" Huber, who has an older brother (John) and younger sister (Shara), was raised in central Ohio, with his parents (Jim and Shanna). He grew up as a multisport athlete. Hubert attended Dublin Jerome High, where he was a late bloomer on the football field. He weighed just 40 pounds as a freshman and 170 pounds as a sophomore, and he played primarily on the defensive line for the JV squad. Huber again played for the JV squad as a 190-pound junior. Before his senior season, he hit a growth spurt and shot up to 220 pounds, which helped him earn a full-time role on varsity as a two-way player on the offensive and defensive lines. Working primarily at right tackle, Huber earned all-state honors and led Jerome to a 9-3 record and the 2019 conference title. He was better known for his accomplishments on the wrestling mat — he improved from having three wins as a freshman to being a district alternate as a junior to qualifying for states in the 220-pound category as a senior.

A no-star recruit, Huber wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. He was undersized and didn't see any varsity action until his senior year of high school, so it wasn't a mystery why he went overlooked during the recruiting process. But Huber caught the attention of Cincinnati, which recruited him as a walk-on (Akron offered his only other walk-on opportunity). He weighed 220 pounds in March 2020 but bulked up to 275 by the time he joined the football team in the summer of 2020. After playing on the scout team in his first season with the Bearcats, Huber was put on scholarship by former head coach Luke Fickell.

He entered the transfer portal after the 2022 season and rejoined Fickell in Madison, choosing Wisconsin over Auburn, Florida, Minnesota, Ole Miss and others. Huber is working toward a degree in mechanical engineering. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (-/-)	-	Cincinnati; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020 as walk-on
2021: (7/0)	-	Cincinnati
2022: (13/13)	RT	Cincinnati; Honorable Mention All-AAC
2023: (13/13)	LG	Wisconsin
2024: (12/12)	RG	Wisconsin; Third Team All-Big Ten
Total: (45/38) 13 LG, 13 RT, 12 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6051	310	9 3/4	32 1/4	79 1/2	5.20	3.00	1.80	28	8'10"	4.78	7.69	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6050	303	9 1/2	32 1/2	79 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.79	DNP	26

STRENGTHS:

- Quality body thickness; has worked hard to add 120 pounds since junior year of high school
- Pushes himself in weight room (565-pound dead lift)
- Short, controlled steps in pass pro and resets feet to anchor (studies Quenton Nelson)
- Fluid hip action and good vision to pick up stunts and delays
- Wrestling background and looks to win hand/leverage battle
- Strong core; stays balanced into contact and when running off the ball
- Durability factor works in his favor — started every game past three seasons
- Versatile experience — college snaps at all five positions

WEAKNESSES:

- Has only been playing on offensive line since 2019
- Struggles to play long, which hurts his ability to rework body positioning
- Power source too easily affected when his base and upper-body technique aren't on point
- Needs to be more consistent with run-game footwork, especially on redirects
- Inconsistent pad level and hand location will leave him sliding off down blocks
- Played tackle in college but will be pushed inside in NFL

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Wisconsin, Huber lined up at right guard in former offensive coordinator Phil Longo's zone-based, Air Raid scheme. After not playing offensive line until his senior year of high school, he showed steady growth each year and honed his craft learning under four different offensive line coaches in college.

Huber grew into his frame without sacrificing his foot quickness. He plays with alert eyes and the physical mentality of a former walk-on (not very outgoing, but he abides by the phrase "From my silence comes violence," which was turned into a popular t-shirt). Though he has some range, he needs to address some of his sloppy tendencies in the run game — he often got too wide or overextended himself, which showed up against the tougher opponents on the 2024 schedule (Alabama, Penn State, Oregon). Overall, Huber might not have a true distinguishing trait, but he also doesn't have any glaring weaknesses that would keep him from becoming a depth piece on an NFL roster. He is best suited for a power-based scheme and offers proven versatility on the interior.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

OG14 Hayden Conner

Texas, 4SR

HOMETOWN Katy, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Taylor	BIRTHDAY Apr 26, 2002	AGE 22.99	HT 6060	WT 322	NUM #76
----------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Hayden Conner was born and raised in Katy, Texas (outside of Houston), with his parents. He grew up playing football in the Katy Youth Football League, and his father (Steve), who played college football at Sam Houston State, often coached him. He was teammates in sixth grade with Jalen Milroe on the FBU Sun Devils and won a national championship, playing tight end and defensive line (idolized J.J. Watt). He later played for the Texas Team Elite 7-on-7 travel team and the Fort Bend Express. He also played AAU basketball and threw shot put and discus while attending Memorial Parkway Junior High. Conner proposed to his girlfriend (Paige) in February 2024, and the couple plans to get married in April 2025 (he chose Gunnar Helm and Quinn Ewers to be co-best men in his wedding). He and his fiancée created the "Paws For A Cause" charity, which helps find homes for dogs.

Conner enrolled at James E. Taylor High in Katy and quickly became the starting left tackle on varsity as a freshman. He earned all-district honors as a sophomore, junior and senior. Conner collected 87 pancake blocks during his junior season, helping lead Taylor to a 9-6 finish and an appearance in the 2019 Class 6A state semifinals. He again led Taylor to the state playoffs as a senior and finished with 49 pancake blocks in an abbreviated nine-game 2020 season. Conner also played basketball before deciding to focus on football.

A three-star recruit, Conner was the 35th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 62 recruit in Texas. He earned his first scholarship offer in eighth-grade from Miami (and Mark Richt) at a camp. The offers started to pour in during his first two years of high school, including from Arkansas, Georgia, LSU, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and others. Conner narrowed his choice to Michigan and Texas, and he picked the Longhorns. He committed to Tom Herman and his coaches, but that staff was let go two weeks after he signed, so he became the 13th-ranked recruit in Steve Sarkisian's first class at Texas. Despite having only played left tackle in high school, Conner moved inside to guard as a freshman. He was a four-time member of the Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll and graduated with a degree in geography (Dec. 2024).

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (8/0)	-	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/13)	LG
2023: (14/14)	LG
2024: (16/16)	LG
Total: (51/43)	LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6060	314	9 5/8	33 1/4	79 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.88	7.90	DNP	No 40, jumps, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6055	322	9 5/8	33 1/2	79 7/8	5.23	3.01	1.75	25 1/2	8'5"	4.72	7.64	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Broad-shouldered frame with proportional weight
- Adequate length but even better hand precision with stiff inside hand
- Contact strength stands out to control rushers in pass pro (see reps against Michigan's Mason Graham)
- Aggressive through point of attack in run game to create push
- Head stays on a swivel — always looking for work
- Football junkie since grade school (NFL scout: "He's more mature than I am, except he is 10 years younger.")
- Dependable — started every game at left guard past three seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Mediocre athlete by NFL standards
- Tightness in hips leaves him off balance
- Recovery quickness was okay in SEC but might be a step behind NFL competition
- Out of control at times, both at second level and on long pulls
- Pad level will get away from him at times in run game
- Doesn't have proven position flexibility on college tape

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Texas, Conner was a mainstay at left guard in head coach Steve Sarkisian's RPO pro-style spread offense. He moved to guard when he arrived in Austin and played more than 3,000 combined snaps the past four seasons, finishing his career with 43 straight starts.

With his experience and savvy, Conner put consistent play on tape in pass protection (zero sacks allowed in 2024), using his strength through engagement to ride rushers to a standstill. He runs his feet to secure blocks in the run game, although inconsistent body control and pad level lead to negative reps. Overall, Conner isn't a slug, but his athletic profile won't be a fit for every scheme. Nonetheless, he is durable, strong and technically steady. He can provide depth on the interior of an NFL offensive line.

GRADE: 6th round

OG15 Clay Webb

Jacksonville State, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Oxford, AL	Oxford	Mar 28, 2000	25.07	6035	312	#74

BACKGROUND: Robert Clayton "Clay" Webb, who has an older sister (Emory), was born and raised in Alabama, primarily by his mother (Dana). Always a bigger kid, he played every sport available throughout childhood, including soccer, baseball, basketball and karate. His mother wasn't thrilled about the idea of him playing football in elementary school, but it didn't matter — he couldn't anyway, because of weight restrictions. Webb finally got a chance to play in fifth grade, often up a grade or two against older competition (he weighed 215 pounds in the sixth grade). He initially played nose guard on defense, until the high school varsity team requested that he move to the offensive line in seventh grade. The following year, Webb was called up to varsity as an eighth-grader. He also started wrestling in middle school and saw varsity reps in that sport, as well, in eighth grade.

Webb attended Oxford High, where his mother was a physical education teacher for 30 years (she also coached varsity softball, volleyball and cheerleading). After getting some varsity reps in eighth grade, he became the starting left tackle as a freshman and sophomore while also seeing reps on the defensive line. As a junior, Webb earned first-team All-America and all-state honors, leading Oxford to an 11-1 record and the 2017 regional championship (only loss came in the state playoffs). He saw time at both tackle and guard as a senior in 2018 and led Oxford to double-digit wins, although the team again fell in the quarterfinals of the state playoffs. Webb earned all-state honors as a senior and was invited to the Under Armour All-American Game. He continued wrestling throughout high school and led Oxford to its second straight Class 6A championship in 2018, winning the final match by pin (finished his prep career with a 45-1 record and 38 pins).

A five-star recruit, Webb was the top-ranked center in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Alabama (one spot behind wide receiver George Pickens; one spot ahead of quarterback Bo Nix). He was the No. 26 recruit nationally. After attending an Auburn football camp in eighth grade, Webb picked up his first scholarship offers from Auburn and Mississippi State. The summer before his sophomore year, he added offers from Alabama and Georgia and later from Clemson and Florida. After numerous visits to all those schools, Webb committed to head coach Kirby Smart in December 2018. He was the seventh-ranked recruit in the Bulldogs' 2019 class.

Webb primarily played on the scout team (at center) and often went up against Jordan Davis in practice. After playing just 38 offensive snaps (and winning one national championship ring) over three seasons in Athens, Webb felt "lost" and decided to enter the transfer portal in April 2022. Because of his tough experience in Athens, he doubted his abilities and considered retiring from the game. After a few months, Webb made the drive to nearby Jacksonville State (his mother's alma mater), where longtime offensive line coach Rick Trickett gave him a tryout on the spot. Webb earned his way onto the roster and started for three seasons. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (2/0)	-	Georgia; redshirted; enrolled January 2019
2020: (3/0)	-	Georgia
2021: (0/0)	-	Georgia
2022: (10/7)	LG	Jacksonville State
2023: (13/12)	LG	Jacksonville State; Second Team All-CUSA
2024: (14/14)	LG	Jacksonville State; First Team All-CUSA
Total: (42/33)	LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6032	312	10	32	79 1/2	5.11	2.90	1.72	31	8'11"	4.90	DNP	29	No three-cone (choice); did short snaps
PRO DAY	6035	303	10	32 1/2	79 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	5.01	8.07	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Burly, compact build and strong as an ox
- Looks effortless throwing plates around in weight room
- Play strength stands out when creating vertical movement on inside zone
- Athletic enough in run game to pull, trap and stretch frontside
- Takes coordinated steps out of stance to quickly get in ready position
- Posted fastest pass-pro mirror speed (13.51 mph) at combine
- Efficiently refits his hands and aims for inside positioning
- Cross-trained at center at both Georgia and Jacksonville State

WEAKNESSES:

- Shorter arms — explosive defenders can attack his chest before his hands react
- Strong grip but can do better job keeping feet underneath him (flagged twice for holding on 2024 Liberty tape)
- Can get a little top-heavy at times when extending in run game
- Tardy at times regaining balance to sit down versus power
- Needs to improve initial angles for easier lateral cutoffs
- All of his on-field snaps in college came at left guard
- During second season at Georgia (Jan. 2020), named in federal lawsuit as part of alleged bullying incident from senior year of high school (lawsuit is still ongoing)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Jacksonville State, Webb was a fixture at left guard in former head coach Rich Rodriguez's run-heavy zone-blocking scheme. A former five-star recruit at Georgia, he struggled to gain any traction on the Bulldogs' depth chart, but he reinvented himself after transferring and developing under highly respected offensive line coach Rick Trickett at Jacksonville State, (an FCS program until making the FBS jump in 2023).

From his college tape to his Senior Bowl performance, Webb has stood out consistently because of his play strength, fitting his hands and working his feet to stabilize the block. When his technique isn't right, he can get stood up at times in pass pro or overextended in the run game — playing with consistent balance will be key for him at the next level. Overall, Webb has the feel and core strength to execute different run-blocking schemes, although answering the length and power of NFL defensive linemen will be a major jump. Convincing an NFL coaching staff that he can provide depth at both guard and center will be critical for his chances of making a roster.

GRADE: 6th round

OG16 Luke Kandra

Cincinnati, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Cincinnati, OH	Elder	Aug 08, 2001	23.71	6046	320	#67

BACKGROUND: Luke Kandra (CAN-druh), who has a twin brother (Collin) and is the youngest of five children, was raised in the Cincinnati area with his parents (Chris and Renee). He played multiple sports as a kid but always gravitated toward football, just like his older brothers, who all went on to play collegiately. The oldest sibling in the Kandra family (Evan) was an offensive lineman at Division II Thomas More (2015-18). Kandra's next-oldest brother (Spencer) played defensive line at Division III Mount St. Joseph (2016-19). Collin Kandra also played at Mount St. Joseph as an offensive lineman (2020-24). Luke Kandra's older sister (Analise) was an accomplished track athlete at Seton High. Luke and his wife (Alex) were married in July 2024.

Like his older brothers, Kandra enrolled at Cincinnati Elder High, an all-boys Catholic school. He was a three-sport standout and a four-year varsity letterman in football. After getting called up to varsity as a freshman, he missed most of his sophomore season because of a bout with pneumonia. Kandra returned as a junior and started on both sides of the ball at guard and defensive tackle, helping Elder to an 8-5 record and the 2018 Division 1 state playoffs. As a senior captain, he earned second-team all-state and first-team all-district honors, as Elder finished 12-3 and advanced to the 2019 state championship game (lost to Pickerington Central). Kandra also played basketball at Elder and was a standout track athlete, earning the 2019 league field athlete of the year honors. He had personal bests of 55 feet, 11 inches in the shot put and 155-11 in the discus (155'11") — both rank top three in school history. Kandra graduated with a 4.0 GPA.

A three-star recruit, Kandra was the 39th-ranked offensive guard in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 19 recruit in Ohio. He received his first scholarship offer after his junior season from Toledo (Dec. 2018). Offers from Boston College, Cincinnati, Indiana, Iowa State, Louisville and Purdue soon followed. The summer before his senior year, Kandra committed to Louisville and was the top-ranked recruit in head coach Scott Satterfield's 2020 class. After three years in the program, he entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2022) but spurned SEC interest to return home and rejoin Satterfield, who'd taken the head coaching job at Cincinnati. Kandra graduated with a bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary studies and a master's in business administration (Dec. 2024). He accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (-/-)	-	Louisville; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/0)	-	Louisville
2022: (8/2)	RG	Louisville; missed four games (ankle); missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2023: (12/12)	RG	Cincinnati; Second Team All-American; Second Team All-Big 12
2024: (12/12)	RG	Cincinnati; Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big 12; Team captain
Total: (45/26)		RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6046	319	10	31 7/8	80 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	33	Bench only (choice)
PRO DAY	6043	320	10	32 3/8	80 5/8	5.17	2.96	1.78	32 1/2	9'5"	4.78	8.33	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Passes eye test with thick, broad-chested frame
- Arms are short but wingspan is large, because of wide shoulders
- Unleashes physical nature on field
- Plays with square power and grip strength to force his will
- Led all players with 33 bench-press reps at combine
- Solid athlete to mirror on interior or climb and cover up linebackers
- Active hands and works hard to reset/refit for optimal positioning
- Penalized just once over two seasons with Bearcats (false start versus Iowa State in 2024)
- Voted a 2024 team captain; didn't miss a game past two seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Stiff in lower half and labors a bit in movements
- Struggles to quickly redirect his hips because of upright, rigid play style
- Works to keep pads low but will struggle with leverage
- Relies more on strength than biomechanics to win point of attack
- Can be late anticipating line games, making block tougher than it should be
- Lined up at center during Hula Bowl practices but only played guard in college

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Cincinnati, Kandra lined up at right guard in offensive coordinator Brad Glenn's zone-based run scheme with some gap methods. After three years at Louisville, he transferred to his hometown Bearcats and quickly established himself as one of the most consistent linemen in the Big 12.

A physical, brawny blocker, Kandra plays with lock-on strength and controlled aggression to dominate in his square by displacing with upper-body torque or absorbing contact against bull rushers. Because of his body tightness, he tends to struggle controlling opponents late in the rep but does find ways to lose slowly. Overall, Kandra is mechanical and upright in his movements, so it doesn't always look pretty, but he finds a way, rarely allowing his quarterback to be pressured and routinely executing his assignments in the run game. If he lands in the right spot, he could stick on an NFL roster.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

OG17 Garrett Dellinger

LSU, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Clarkston, MI	Clarkston	Feb 18, 2002	23.18	6046	320	#72

BACKGROUND: Garrett Dellinger, the fifth of six children (four boys, two girls), grew up in a military family with his parents (Matt and Stephanie). He was born in Maryland before his family moved to Michigan when he was in elementary school. The family then had a six-month stint in Alabama before moving back to Clarkston, Mich. (about 40 miles north of Detroit).

Dellinger started flag football (as a running back and cornerback) before moving up to tackle football and eventually the offensive line in Pop Warner. He grew up playing various sports with his family, which has deep roots in athletics. His parents both played college basketball, initially at Cleveland State (1993-94) and then Towson State (1995-96). His father, who was inducted into the Indiana High School Basketball Hall of Fame in 2017, works for the Department of Defense and served in the military, including deployments in Afghanistan, Africa and Iraq. His mother was the 1992 Gatorade Basketball Player of the Year in Maryland. Garrett's oldest brother (Matt Jr.) was a four-year starting linebacker at Kent State (2012-15) and is now a Navy SEAL. His oldest sister (Stephanie), Matt's twin, was an all-state lacrosse player at Clarkston before joining the National Guard and becoming an officer in the Army. His older sister (Taylor) played college volleyball at Western Kentucky (2015-17) and Oakland (2018). His older brother (Cody) played high school football at Clarkston and served in the Army and Ohio National Guard. His younger brother (Cole) was a three-star recruit in the 2023 class and is an offensive lineman at Michigan State.

Like his older siblings, Dellinger attended Clarkston High, where he was a multisport standout. He not only made varsity as a freshman, he started on the offensive line at right guard, helping Clarkston go 14-2 and capture the 2017 Division 1 state championship. Dellinger moved to right tackle as a sophomore and again helped Clarkston reach the title game, but he missed multiple games after tearing the labrum in each shoulder, requiring multiple surgeries. He returned healthy as a junior in 2019 and moved to left tackle, earning all-league honors. As a senior, Dellinger again earned all-league honors and led Clarkston to the playoff semifinals in an abbreviated 2020 season. He also played AAU basketball and varsity basketball as a freshman. He was unable to play as a sophomore because of his shoulder injuries, then decided to focus on football as a junior.

A four-star recruit, Dellinger was the 12th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in Michigan. He was also a consensus top-100 recruit nationally. The summer after his freshman season, Dellinger attended several recruiting camps and picked up a number of high-profile offers, including from Jim Harbaugh (Michigan) and Urban Meyer (Ohio State). He later added offers from Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Notre Dame and Stanford before narrowing down his final four to LSU, Michigan, Ohio State and Penn State. Before his senior season in June 2020, Dellinger officially committed to LSU (six months after the Tigers won the national championship). He was the eighth-ranked recruit (and top-ranked offensive lineman) in Ed Orgeron's final class as LSU's head coach. Dellinger accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (12/4)	3 LT, 1 LG	Missed bowl game (shoulder); enrolled January 2021
2022: (9/6)	5 LG, 1 OC	Missed one game (right hand); Missed four games (right knee)
2023: (13/13)	LG
2024: (7/7)	LG	Missed final six games (right ankle)
Total: (41/30)	26 LG, 3 LT, 1 OC

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (left combine because of illness)
PRO DAY	6046	320	9 3/4	33	79 7/8	5.15	3.05	1.73	32	9'2"	4.66	DNP	30

STRENGTHS:

- Workable height, weight and frame thickness
- Smart, tough and reliable, with military and athletic roots (NFL scout: "Delly knows how to flip that switch.")
- Physical hands and never stops battering defenders
- Takes pride in uprooting on combos and double teams
- Quick enough on short pulls
- Balances patience and violence to stay on schedule in pass protection
- Can anchor at shallow depth and stay square
- Penalized just once over final 26 games in college (false start versus Ole Miss in 2023)
- Logged starts at left tackle, left guard and center in college
-

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks ideal arm length and can be beaten when strike timing is off
- Inconsistent footwork and body control when reacting to post-snap movement and gap exchanges
- Longer-armed, powerful defenders have found success prying open his edges
- Aggressiveness in run game leads to overextension
- Missed final six games of senior season after undergoing tighrope surgery on right ankle (Oct. 2024); missed five games as sophomore — one to broken right hand that required surgery (returned with a cast), four after suffering with Grade 2 MCL sprain in right knee (Oct. 2022); shoulder surgery following freshman season, which sidelined him for 2022 spring practices; missed part of sophomore season of high school after tearing both labrums and a rotator cuff, which required shoulder surgery (Nov. 2018) and subsequent procedure (Jan. 2019)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at LSU, Dellinger lined up primarily at left guard in offensive coordinator Joe Sloan's pass-happy, inside-outside zone scheme. He worked himself into the starting lineup as a true freshman and, along with Will Campbell, formed one of the best left sides of an offensive line in college football over the past three seasons.

When he returns to his balance, Dellinger can drive his legs and create push in the run game or use his upper-body torque to serve up pancakes. He was playing at a high level before missing the second half of the 2024 season after ankle surgery (missed 11 games over the past three seasons) — staying healthy will be imperative for him at the next level. Overall, Dellinger isn't a top-tier athlete and needs to address some bad habits, but his play strength and smarts can be assets in an NFL offensive line room. He projects as a backup guard, ideally suited for a power scheme.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

OG18

Marcus Tate

Clemson, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Sunrise, FL	NSU University	Jan 31, 2003	22.23	6052	321	#74

BACKGROUND: Marcus Tate, who has an older sister (Jordan), was born and raised in Broward County in South Florida by his mother (Carmen Brady) and grandparents. He grew up playing multiple sports throughout childhood, including football for the pee wee Gators. However, basketball was his go-to sport throughout middle school.

Tate enrolled at NSU University School in Fort Lauderdale, where he was teammates with current Baltimore Ravens wide receiver Zay Flowers. After hitting a growth spurt as a freshman, his focus shifted from basketball to football. He moved from tight end to the offensive line and became the first four-year starter under varsity head coach Daniel Luque. Tate originally started at right tackle as a freshman in 2017, but he moved to left tackle as a sophomore and also played as a defensive tackle, helping NSU University to an 11-2 record and the 2018 regional title. Tate again started both ways as a junior in 2019. His senior season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic, so he joined TRU Prep Academy in Miami Gardens, Fla., and helped the program to the 2020 state championship. Tate also lettered in basketball at NSU University.

A four-star recruit, Tate was the eighth-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 20 recruit in Florida. While still in eighth grade, he picked up his first scholarship offer from Bowling Green (May 2017). He added offers during his freshman year from Alabama, Auburn, Georgia, Louisville, LSU, Miami, Michigan, Ole Miss, Oregon, Syracuse, Tennessee and Texas A&M. After his sophomore season, Clemson, Florida, Florida State and Ohio State entered the mix. Early in his junior season, Tate committed to head coach Dabo Swinney and the Tigers. He was the 13th-ranked recruit in Clemson's 2021 class (one spot behind Andrew Mukuba). Tate completed a micro-internship at NFL headquarters in New York City and graduated with a degree in political science (Dec. 2024). He declined pre-draft all-star invites because he needed surgery.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (13/8)	LG	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (11/11)	LG	Missed final three games (knee)
2023: (8/8)	LG	Missed final five games (knee)
2024: (10/10)	LG	Second Team All-ACC; missed four games (injury)
Total: (42/37)	LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6052	321	9	32 3/4	80 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left knee)
PRO DAY	6052	332	9	32 1/2	82	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall with thick, sturdy frame
- Owns strong body and rarely looks overwhelmed at contact
- Gets out of stance quickly, especially in pass pro
- Moves with light feet and natural bend in mirror mechanics
- Eager punch — stays active and independent through engagement
- Movement ability shows up on lateral pulls and linear climbs
- Solid reaching and working off the hip on combos
- Flagged only once over past two seasons (false start on 2024 Louisville tape)
- Has played a lot of football (37 starts), despite missing time because of injuries

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent leverage in run game, which hinders ability to move people off the ball
- Gets sloppy when he attempts to lunge, leaving him falling off run blocks
- Can get pulled inside on slide protections, widening gap for blitzers
- Will get rocked on heels by long-armed defenders
- All of career starts came at left guard; doesn't offer proven position flex

- Surgery to repair MCL and medial ligament in left knee (Jan. 2025) and was sidelined for the pre-draft process
- Missed multiple games because of injuries each of past three seasons, including back-to-back season-ending knee injuries (Nov. 2022 and Oct. 2023), which required surgeries

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Clemson, Tate was entrenched at left guard in offensive coordinator Garrett Riley's balanced gap/zone run scheme. He became just the third offensive lineman in school history to start a season opener as a true freshman and was a solid part of the Tigers' line, when healthy. He earned second-team All-ACC honors as a senior.

Tate sets up quickly and efficiently in pass protection, although his ability to create movement and sustain in the run game must improve. He didn't look the same down the stretch in 2024, and his ability to stay healthy and effective will be crucial if he is going to make it at the next level. Overall, Tate has an NFL frame with functional mobility and technique but must show he can overcome his questionable balance and body control in the run game. He will boost his chances if he can prove to coaches that he has versatility across the interior. He is expected to be full-go by training camp after January knee surgery.

GRADE: 7th round

OG19 Torricelli Simpkins III

South Carolina, 5SR

HOMETOWN Charlotte, NC	HIGH SCHOOL Olympic	BIRTHDAY Jun 06, 2002	AGE 22.88	HT 6045	WT 312	NUM #76
---------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Torricelli Simpkins III, one of three children, grew up in Aiken, S.C., with his parents. At age 5, his father (Torricelli) introduced him to football (and his Gamecocks fandom. Simpkins wasn't always a big kid, so he started out playing running back, wide receiver and "everything except cornerback." As he started to grow, he moved to the offensive line in fifth grade. Simpkins' first love was basketball, but that switched to football in middle school when he could "start inflicting pain" against opponents. He also developed a love for swimming in middle school. Simpkins relocated to Charlotte, N.C., before high school.

Simpkins initially attended Hopewell High in Huntersville for his freshman football season before transferring to Olympic High in Charlotte for his final three years. He played varsity as a sophomore and took reps at tackle and center. As a junior, Simpkins started at right tackle. Olympic won only three games in each of his first two seasons, but he helped the program to an 8-4 record and a spot in the 2019 Class 4AA state playoffs his senior year. Simpkins played both tackle spots and center as a senior and received all-conference honors.

A no-star recruit, Simpkins wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. The summer before his senior year, he received his first offer from Division II Winston-Salem State. Then, toward the end of his senior season, Simpkins picked up an offer from North Carolina Central — his lone Division I offer. After the 2020 season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Simpkins earned a starting job at center and started three straight years.

Ahead of his senior year, he entered the transfer portal with the hopes of showing his talent at a higher level. He visited Colorado State and received an offer from East Carolina. Once South Carolina offered, though, he committed on the spot. Simpkins accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (-/-)	-	North Carolina Central; season cancelled because of pandemic
2021: (11/11)	OC	North Carolina Central
2022: (12/12)	OC	North Carolina Central; First Team All-MEAC
2023: (12/12)	8 OC, 4 RG	North Carolina Central; Third Team All-American; First Team All-MEAC; MEAC OL of the Year
2024: (13/13)	RG	South Carolina; Third Team All-SEC; team captain; Enrolled January 2024
Total: (48/48)		31 OC, 17 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	312	10 1/8	32 3/8	82 1/8	5.45	3.10	1.84	29	9' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice); did short snaps
PRO DAY	6044	313	10 1/4	33 3/8	82 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	27	DNP	4.90	8.40	18

STRENGTHS:

- Wide-bodied lineman with large, strong hands
- Always looking to snatch or use defender's weight against him
- Plays with an edge — will take any chance he has for knockout blow
- Quick with switch and climb mechanics

- Shows good feel for targets on the move
- Takes command calling out blitzes and communicating with rest of the line
- Became a team captain in only season with Gamecocks
- Durable, with versatile experience at both center and guard

WEAKNESSES:

- Only one season at FBS level
- Upper half will reach landmarks before his feet
- Average slide quickness, with inconsistent body control
- Plays tall — elevated pads will get away from him
- Needs to make better effort to get underneath defenders, rather than go through them
- Late to ID and react to run-game stunts
- Penalized six times senior season, including two 15-yard personal foul flags on 2024 Clemson tape

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at South Carolina, Simpkins settled in at right guard in former offensive coordinator Dowell Loggains' zone-based scheme. Over his first three seasons at North Carolina Central, he developed into one of the best offensive linemen in the FCS (primarily at center), then adapted quickly at right guard against SEC competition in 2024.

Simpkins is a strong, assignment-oriented blocker who always keeps busy and looks to finish in close quarters or out in space. Though he plays with urgency, he often plays rushed, which leads to excessive leaning and shaky technique. He got away with those hiccups in the FCS, but it became more of a challenge while at South Carolina. Overall, Simpkins needs to continue maturing his sloppy habits, but his heavy latch hands and physical brand of football help him execute as both a run and pass blocker. His durability and experience — at center and guard — haven't gone unnoticed by NFL teams.

GRADE: FA

OG20 Connor Colby

Iowa, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Cedar Rapids, IA	Kennedy	Jan 16, 2003	22.27	6056	309	#77

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (14/11)	RG	Freshman All-American; started final 11 games; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/13)	7 LG, 6 RT
2023: (14/13)	RG	Third Team All-Big Ten
2024: (13/13)	RG	First Team All-Big Ten
Total: (54/50)	37 RG, 7 LG, 6 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6056	309	10	32	77 1/8	5.11	2.94	1.77	28 1/2	9' 2"	4.63	7.78	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6055	310	10	32 1/4	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	9' 3"	4.58	7.53	23

SUMMARY: Connor Colby grew up down the road from Iowa's campus, with his parents (Susy and Jeff). Always a bigger kid growing up, he was a standout athlete and moved to the offensive line, where he earned first-team all-state honors as a junior and senior at Kennedy High (played mostly right tackle and guard). A four-star recruit, he entertained offers from Michigan, Ohio State and others, but he had grown up a diehard Hawkeyes fan. He started almost immediately at Iowa and finished with 50 career starts, mostly at guard.

A mean, aggressive run blocker, Colby can sustain and steer on the move, and he takes accurate angles to stay centered on pulls, climbs and screens. In pass pro, he tends to throw his hands too early and skilled defensive linemen won't give him a chance to recover. Overall, Colby gets himself in trouble with timing and pad-level issues, but — as one would expect from an Iowa offensive lineman — he is experienced, quick into his blocks and loves to finish. He is a potential backup in a zone-blocking scheme.

GRADE: FA

OG21 Marcus Wehr

Montana State, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Billings, MT	Central	Dec 02, 2000	24.39	6023	295	#76

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (-/-)	-	DL; redshirted
2020: (-/-)	-	Season cancelled because of pandemic
2021: (3/0)	-	DL; Offseason shoulder surgery
2022: (7/7)	RT	Transitioned to OL; missed final seven games (injury)
2023: (12/12)	11 RT, 1 RG	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Sky
2024: (16/16)	RG	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Sky; team captain
Total: (38/35)	18 RT, 17 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6023	295	8 3/8	31 7/8	78	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A

SUMMARY: Marcus Wehr grew up in Billings, Mont., with his parents (Dave and Teresa). At Billings Central High, he played both ways as a 225-pound blocker in the team's Wing-T offense. As a senior, he helped the team to an undefeated 12-0 record and the 2018 state title. He was recruited as a defensive end and signed with Montana State. He moved to defensive tackle in 2021 but was buried on the depth chart, so the coaches asked him to add weight and transition to the offensive line before the 2022 season. He had his best season as a senior in 2024, helping Montana State to the FCS title game.

Described as a "student of the game" by his coaches, Wehr uses firm, independent hand usage to keep his target occupied and maintain the depth of the pocket. His leg drive helps him create movement in the run game, and he consistently strains to finish. Overall, Wehr is still learning how to maximize his abilities at guard, but he showed consistent improvements and handled himself well against better competition at East-West Shrine Bowl practices. He will help his chances of sticking on an NFL roster if he also can prove himself at center.

GRADE: FA

OG22 Luke Newman

Michigan State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Bloomfield Hills, MI	Brother Rice	Mar 03, 2002	23.14	6034	308	#70

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	-	Holy Cross; season played in spring 2021
2021: (13/13)	LT	Holy Cross; First Team All-Patriot
2022: (13/13)	LT	Holy Cross; First Team All-American; First Team All-Patriot
2023: (11/11)	LT	Holy Cross; First Team All-American; First Team All-Patriot
2024: (12/12)	LG	Michigan State; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; graduated from Holy Cross with economics degree (May 2024)
Total: (52/49)	37 LT, 12 LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6034	308	9 1/4	31	76 1/4	5.08	2.93	1.76	35	9'2"	4.58	7.70	29

SUMMARY: Luke Newman grew up in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., with his parents (John and Tinney). He prepped at Brother Rice High, an all-boys Catholic school, and earned all-league honors at left tackle and defensive tackle. Weighing just 250 pounds, he received only FCS recruiting interest and committed to Holy Cross over Lafayette. He earned the starting left tackle job in his second season and ripped off 37 straight starts. After the 2023 season, he considered going pro but instead jumped into the portal and transferred back home (his parents are both Michigan State alums). Looking to showcase his versatility, he moved to left guard and started every game there in 2024.

Newman is quick in his pass sets to shuffle, slide and mirror while also tracking blitzers. He has the upper-body torque to dump rushers but doesn't show the same power as a drive blocker to displace in the run game. Overall, Newman will have a tough time controlling the point of attack against long-armed defensive linemen, but his movement skills, demeanor and durability should give him a chance to stand out in an NFL training camp.

GRADE: FA

OG23 Easton Kilty

Kansas State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Stratford, WI	Stratford	May 01, 2002	22.98	6047	308	#71

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (3/2)	RG	North Dakota; season played in spring 2021
2021: (11/11)	8 RG, 3 RT	North Dakota
2022: (12/12)	RG	North Dakota
2023: (12/12)	LT	North Dakota; Honorable Mention All-MVFC; entered transfer portal (Nov. 2023)
2024: (13/13)	LT	Kansas State; Second Team All-Big 12; enrolled January 2024
Total: (51/50)	25 LT, 22 RG, 3 RT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6047	308	9 3/8	32	78	5.52	3.18	1.91	25 1/2	8'8"	4.88	7.70	27

SUMMARY: Easton Kilty grew up in an athletic family with his parents (Pat and Keresa). His older sister (Macey) is a wrestler at Iowa and won silver at both the 2019 and 2023 World Championships. His younger brother (Koehler) redshirted in 2024 at linebacker for Division II Bemidji State.

At right guard as a senior, Kilty helped Stratford High to a 14-1 season (only loss came in the 2019 state title game). A no-star recruit, Kilty committed to North Dakota (his only Division I offer) and became a four-year starter. Following the 2023 season, he jumped into the portal and committed to Kansas State over Auburn and others. He won the starting left tackle job and was the Wildcats' most consistent blocker in 2024.

Kilty plays with measured steps and competitive edge in all areas. He is a solid base blocker, although his lack of length will leave him overextended and grabby at times. Overall, Kilty is solid in the run game and moves light on his feet — with a rapid punch and recoil — to be productive in pass protection. NFL scouts frequently mention his versatile experience as the best part of his game.

GRADE: FA

OG24 Nishad Strother

Oregon, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Havelock, NC	Havelock	Jan 26, 2001	24.24	6033	309	#50

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (2/0)	-	East Carolina; redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (7/7)	LT	East Carolina; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/10)	9 LG, 1 LT	East Carolina
2022: (13/13)	LG	East Carolina
2023: (5/0)	-	Oregon
2024: (14/12)	LG	Oregon
Total: (53/42)	34 LG, 8 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6033	309	9 1/4	32	76 1/8	5.28	DNP	DNP	24 1/2	8'3"	5.14	7.97	17

SUMMARY: Nishad (NYE-shod) Strother (STROWE-thur) grew up near the Atlantic coast, with his parents (Mathew and Yadira). He moved up to varsity as a sophomore at Havelock High and became a starter over his final two seasons at both left tackle and along the defensive line. A two-star recruit, Strother flipped from East Carolina to Charlotte, then back to East Carolina, where he played four seasons and started at both left tackle and left guard. In April 2023, he jumped into the portal and committed to Oregon over LSU. A backup in 2023, he became the Ducks' starting left guard (next to Josh Conerly Jr.) his final season.

Strother had some rocky moments early in 2024, but the way he finished gave him a chance to be drafted. He tends to get straight-legged and is only average as an athlete, but his natural power stands out, especially in his ability to deliver a firm punch and refit his hands in pass protection. Overall, Strother's balance wears down late in the rep, but his football-playing strength and experience will smooth his transition. He is a potential backup in the NFL.

GRADE: FA

OG25 Aiden Williams

Minn.-Duluth, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Anchorage, AK	East	Aug 31, 2000	24.65	6056	315	#71

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (-/-)	-	Redshirted
2020: (-/-)	-	Season cancelled because of pandemic
2021: (5/0)	-	Missed five games (right shoulder)
2022: (10/10)	LT	Second Team All-NSIC; transitioned from TE to LT
2023: (11/11)	LT	Second Team All-NSIC
2024: (11/11)	LT	First Team All-NSIC; Honorable Mention All-American; East-West Shrine Bowl; rushing TD (caught throwback pass)
Total: (37/32)	LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6056	315	10	32 3/4	79 1/8	5.17	2.97	1.75	30	8'10"	4.63	7.58	27

SUMMARY: Aiden Williams, the oldest of three children, grew up in Alaska, with his parents (Travis and Sarah). He started playing football in third grade. He was a defensive end and tight end at Anchorage East High and earned all-state honors as a 225-pound senior (also played all four seasons on the basketball team). A no-star recruit, he became the first Alaska native to sign with Division II Minnesota-Duluth. He arrived as a tight end and played the position his first three years before the coaches asked him to shift to left tackle going into the 2022 season. He added more than 50 pounds that offseason and continued filling out his frame.

Williams is quick-footed and agile in his pass sets to cut off rush angles, although his pad level and timing need to be developed to have any chance at slowing down interior power. He missed most of Shrine Bowl practices (and the game) because of a minor toe injury, but he held his own during the first practice. Overall, Williams faces a steep learning curve, but he offers the athleticism and mindset to be a moldable ball of clay for a team willing to develop him. A college tight end and left tackle, he will move inside to guard or center in the NFL.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
26	Micah Mazzccua	Nebraska	6050	331	5.35	3.00	1.81	24 1/2	8'5"	5.06	8.13	DNP	9 5/8	33 1/8	79 3/8
27	Timothy McKay	NC State	6037	311	DNP	DNP	DNP	30 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	16	10 1/8	34 1/8	80
28	Tyler Cooper	Minnesota	6050	302	5.15	2.96	1.82	30	9'0"	4.84	7.77	24	10	32 1/2	80
29	Cam'Ron Johnson	Missouri	6032	305	5.28	3.01	1.84	24 1/2	8'1"	4.95	8.22	19	9 3/4	33 7/8	84 1/2
30	Addison West	Western Michigan	6025	300	5.10	2.96	1.78	33	9'7"	4.74	7.58	23	9 1/2	31 1/2	78 1/2
31	Wyatt Bowles	Utah State	6050	306	5.11	2.89	1.75	26 1/2	9'0"	4.70	7.75	21	9 1/8	31 1/2	78 1/4
32	Nash Jones	Texas State	6040	320	5.32	3.07	1.82	30	9'5"	DNP	DNP	29	10 1/2	33 1/8	82 3/8
33	Jarrod Hufford	Iowa State	6041	322	5.14	3.04	1.81	30 1/2	9'2"	4.87	7.75	31	10	32	79
34	Kaden Moore	Virginia Tech	6021	299	5.18	2.97	1.81	29 1/2	8'8"	4.75	7.97	DNP	10	32 1/2	80 1/8
35	Mehki Butler	Arkansas State	6030	310	5.19	2.92	1.80	27 1/2	8'5"	4.94	8.02	22	9 3/4	34 5/8	82 1/8
36	Josh Priebe	Michigan	6050	305	DNP	DNP	DNP	28 1/2	9'1"	4.73	7.75	33	9 1/8	32 3/4	80 1/2
37	Tyler Elsbury	Iowa	6052	318	5.19	2.95	1.85	30 1/2	8'11"	4.88	7.90	24	9 1/2	31 3/8	77 1/2

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
38	Preston Wilson	Oklahoma State	6037	295	5.15	2.98	1.76	28	9'2"	4.72	7.59	24	9 7/8	32 1/4	79 3/8
39	Cameron Cooper	Lindenwood	6042	300	5.05	2.90	1.68	32 1/2	9'3"	4.77	7.70	31	9 5/8	32	77 1/2
40	Jeremy James	Ole Miss	6054	314	5.28	3.04	1.85	25	8'3"	4.93	7.72	DNP	9 1/2	33 3/4	81 5/8
41	Jack Conley	Boston College	6066	330	5.30	3.04	1.83	28	8'6"	5.35	7.91	DNP	9 7/8	33 1/8	81 7/8
42	Javontez Spraggins	Tennessee	6017	306	5.14	3.03	1.84	26	8'4"	4.91	7.94	27	9 3/4	32 3/8	79
43	Justin Osborne	SMU	6033	307	5.01	2.91	1.83	30	9'0"	4.70	7.88	32	10 1/4	33 1/2	81 1/2
44	Erik Andersen	Western (Can.)	6060	306	5.31	3.08	1.90	26 1/2	7'9"	5.09	7.95	17	9 7/8	31 7/8	80 1/8
45	Sal Wormley	Penn State	6033	317	5.25	3.01	1.70	26 1/2	8'1"	5.06	DNP	19	9 1/8	32 7/8	81
46	J.J. Lippe	Northern Illinois	6051	302	5.45	3.13	1.84	28 1/2	8'10"	4.71	7.73	17	9 1/2	33 1/2	80 1/8
47	Marcus Harper II	Oregon	6027	310	5.13	2.96	1.79	24 1/2	8'4"	5.10	7.81	21	9 3/4	32 1/2	79 7/8
48	Reid Holskey	Miami (OH)	6061	302	5.09	2.90	1.77	28 1/2	9'5"	4.69	7.63	31	9 1/2	31 3/4	78 3/8
49	Rush Reimer	California	6045	304	5.37	3.09	1.87	27 1/2	8'9"	4.96	7.91	16	9 1/4	33 1/8	81 3/8
50	Lucas Scott	Army	6034	278	5.26	2.99	1.75	23	8'0"	4.68	8.01	19	9 7/8	31 1/2	76 3/8
51	Dartanyan Tinsley	Cincinnati	6032	340	5.48	3.14	1.83	27	8'7"	5.20	7.76	30	11 1/2	34	85 1/4
52	Michael Ford Jr.	Kansas	6012	302	5.45	3.10	1.83	27 1/2	8'6"	4.94	8.20	28	10 3/8	34	80 3/4
53	Andrej Karic	Tennessee	6051	305	5.31	3.07	1.94	28	8'7"	4.75	7.79	18	9 5/8	31 7/8	78
54	Nate Kalepo	Ole Miss	6063	323	5.49	3.22	1.91	26 1/2	8'9"	4.87	8.02	20	10 7/8	34 3/8	83 3/4
55	Enokk Vimahi	Washington	6041	308	5.30	3.12	1.87	25	8'4"	4.70	7.69	20	9 3/4	32 5/8	77 1/8
56	Julius Buelow	Ole Miss	6082	305	5.46	3.19	1.90	27	8'7"	4.93	8.15	16	10 3/8	34	82 1/4
57	Josh Carlin	UCLA	6047	315	5.38	3.13	1.89	26 1/2	8'8"	4.82	7.98	28	10 1/8	32 7/8	79 3/4
58	Nick Malone	West Virginia	6046	294	5.06	3.00	1.82	26 1/2	8'9"	4.80	7.66	26	9 3/8	31 1/8	77 5/8
59	Gerquan Scott	Ole Miss	6024	328	5.41	3.07	1.87	27	8'7"	DNP	DNP	20	10	33 3/8	81 1/2
60	Vincent Munlin Jr.	Eastern Kentucky	6050	292	5.49	3.13	1.92	24	8'2"	5.26	8.52	19	9 5/8	33	82 3/8
61	Jon Mucciolo	Ball State	6035	284	5.26	2.98	1.84	24 1/2	8'11"	4.84	8.08	22	10	33	79 1/4
62	Wyatt Hansen	Eastern Washington	6037	303	5.19	3.08	1.86	28 1/2	8'6"	4.80	7.85	29	9 1/4	32 1/4	78 1/8
63	Bardhyl Gashi	Colgate	6024	301	5.46	3.10	1.90	29	8'7"	4.70	7.71	21	9 1/2	31 1/8	76 1/2
64	Marlon Martinez	Mississippi State	6043	323	DNP	DNP	DNP	25 1/2	7'6"	5.07	8.53	21	9 3/4	33 7/8	81 3/8
65	Nick Taiste	South Carolina State	6011	297	5.32	3.06	1.81	24	7'8"	DNP	DNP	22	10 1/8	30 3/4	75 1/8
66	Steven Losoya	Vanderbilt	6032	300	5.32	3.09	1.76	27 1/2	8'10"	5.02	7.84	32	10 1/4	33	79 3/4
67	Jonah Gambill	Memphis	6033	295	DNP	DNP	DNP	27	8'9"	4.65	7.50	17	10	31 1/8	75 3/4
68	Spencer Holstege	UCLA	6044	314	5.38	3.12	1.87	28	DNP	4.96	8.00	33	8 1/2	32 7/8	79 1/4
69	Michael Gonzalez	Louisville	6040	305	5.50	2.96	1.72	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	21	9 1/2	32 1/4	78 3/8
70	Markus Finley	Bluffton	6014	303	5.22	3.02	1.82	26 1/2	8'5"	4.83	7.78	30	8 5/8	32	78 1/4
71	Justin Mayers	Colorado	6026	323	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	33 3/4	80
72	Carson Heidecker	Ohio	6021	300	5.13	2.94	1.78	27 1/2	9'3"	4.57	7.35	DNP	9 7/8	30 3/4	74 1/2
73	Arvin Hosseini	British Columbia (Can.)	6047	307	5.09	2.92	1.70	26	8'7"	4.81	7.90	19	9 3/8	31 5/8	75 3/4
74	Bert Hale	Louisiana Tech	6027	349	5.58	3.19	2.00	25	8'2"	4.95	8.27	25	9 7/8	34	82 1/2
75	Marist Talavou	San Jose State	6026	341	5.43	3.11	1.85	23 1/2	8'2"	4.87	8.52	25	9	32 7/8	78 3/4
76	Ja'Quay Hubbard	West Virginia	6045	328	6.02	3.40	2.00	21	7'5"	5.27	8.53	16	10	35 3/8	85 3/4
77	Alex Westcott	Buffalo State	6034	308	5.44	3.04	1.94	25 1/2	8'5"	5.08	8.26	27	9 3/8	31 7/8	78 3/4
78	Stanley Boatright	North Greenville	6021	269	4.96	2.88	1.76	30	8'9"	4.58	7.83	DNP	10 3/8	33 7/8	80 3/8
79	T.J. Session	California	6035	304	5.43	3.12	1.87	29	8'11"	5.00	7.93	30	10 1/4	31 5/8	77 3/8
80	AJ Gillie	Louisiana	6014	284	5.24	2.99	1.79	27 1/2	8'4"	4.76	7.95	12	9 5/8	33 1/4	79 5/8
81	Josh Remetich	Tulane	6034	309	5.39	3.01	1.82	27 1/2	8'4"	4.88	7.88	18	9 3/4	32 1/2	76 1/4
82	Spencer Lovell	Nevada	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A
83	Ben Dooley	Boise State	6045	300	5.28	3.05	1.83	25	8'8"	4.93	7.94	20	10 1/4	32 1/4	80
84	Christophe Atkinson	Ohio	6030	308	5.33	3.02	1.84	26 1/2	9'0"	DNP	DNP	29	9 5/8	31 1/2	77 3/4
85	Cole Potts	James Madison	6026	321	5.45	3.06	1.90	24 1/2	7'11"	4.63	8.07	19	10	32 1/4	79 5/8
86	Isaac Bunyun	Maryland	6032	315	5.16	2.95	1.76	31 1/2	9'3"	4.66	7.92	23	9 1/2	32 1/8	80 1/2
87	Sam Carson	Louisiana-Monroe	6040	300	5.45	3.15	1.93	28 1/2	8'8"	4.97	8.12	21	8 1/2	31 1/2	75 1/2
88	Cole Birmingham	Oklahoma State	6040	318	5.56	3.19	1.85	20	7'8"	5.02	8.37	DNP	9 3/4	32 3/8	79
89	Jonny Hassard	Charlotte	6052	304	5.50	3.20	1.87	27 1/2	8'6"	5.06	8.04	21	9 1/4	31 5/8	76 7/8
90	Caleb Krings	Duke	6024	312	DNP	DNP	DNP	26	DNP	DNP	DNP	31	9 3/4	32 1/4	77 3/8
91	Christopher Fortin	UConn	6043	300	5.72	3.21	1.96	26 1/2	8'4"	5.06	8.21	DNP	10 1/4	34	81

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
92	Lyle Santos	Southern Utah	6030	292	5.44	3.10	1.85	26	8'5"	DNP	DNP	32	9 1/2	31 7/8	77 3/8
93	Hampton Ergle	East Carolina	6053	305	5.57	3.14	1.81	26	8'9"	4.76	8.02	21	9 1/2	33 1/2	80 1/2
94	Jack Connolly	Brown	6027	309	5.60	DNP	1.89	26 1/2	8'5"	4.76	7.87	14	9 7/8	33	81 7/8
95	Baraka Beckett	New Mexico	6036	327	5.39	3.21	1.81	22	8'3"	4.90	7.97	28	10 1/4	33 1/4	81 3/4
96	Max Yao	SMU	6027	300	5.20	2.98	1.84	29 1/2	9'5"	4.99	8.38	16	9	31 3/4	74 3/4
97	Steven Hubbard	Vanderbilt	6026	307	5.48	3.18	1.82	18 1/2	7'5"	4.90	8.14	24	9 3/4	32 5/8	79 1/8
98	Cam Jones	Jacksonville State	6074	337	6.06	3.53	2.06	23 1/2	7'11"	5.08	8.72	23	10 1/8	32 3/4	80 7/8
99	Taylon Hensley	Concordia St. Paul	6024	307	5.74	3.13	1.89	26 1/2	8'0"	4.95	8.14	26	9 7/8	32	78 5/8
100	Gabe Brown	Grand Valley State	6034	308	5.35	3.12	1.82	31	8'4"	4.76	7.81	22	9 3/8	29 1/2	73 3/8
101	John Paul Flores	Liberty	6041	305	5.42	3.12	1.85	25	7'11"	5.03	7.81	29	9 1/4	31 3/4	75 3/4
102	Hayden Amos	Northern Iowa	6037	320	5.45	3.09	1.90	26	8'7"	4.80	7.90	24	10 1/8	32 7/8	80
103	Jevale Roberson	Lamar	6031	312	5.37	3.01	1.85	28 1/2	8'8"	5.00	7.83	21	10	34 7/8	81 7/8
104	Jake Sitsler	Oklahoma Baptist	6060	372	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	31 3/4	77 1/2
105	Bradly Anyanwu	Delaware	6021	317	5.51	3.08	1.90	26	8'4"	DNP	DNP	21	8 3/4	32 7/8	78 1/2
106	Luke Bond	Limestone	6025	289	5.31	3.00	1.90	25	8'2"	4.90	8.34	21	10 1/4	31 3/8	75 7/8
107	Jordan Daniels	Western Carolina	6034	308	5.38	3.08	1.92	27	8'9"	4.84	7.65	DNP	9 3/8	34 5/8	81 3/8
108	Dontae Lucas	Southern Miss	6033	323	5.45	2.93	1.94	25	8'5"	5.40	8.87	30	10	33 1/2	80
109	Sherman Deaton	Emporia State	6050	313	5.52	3.15	1.78	26 1/2	8'0"	4.84	8.15	20	9 1/2	32 7/8	79 3/8
110	Darrell Simmons Jr.	Kansas	6026	298	5.40	3.11	1.91	29	8'6"	5.05	7.94	24	9 3/8	32 5/8	80 1/8
111	Sebastian Pares	Eastern Illinois	6040	308	5.20	2.99	1.87	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	33 3/8	80 1/8
112	Kamaar Bell	South Carolina	6025	316	5.40	3.03	1.85	25	8'0"	4.84	8.26	31	9 3/8	33 3/4	80 1/4
113	Mathyus Su'a	UNLV	6020	312	5.21	3.03	1.80	26 1/2	8'2"	5.31	8.39	21	10 3/8	32	76 7/8
114	Tank Jenkins	Houston	6021	315	5.45	3.14	1.89	27	7'9"	5.32	8.69	22	9 3/4	33	79 5/8
115	Kardell Thomas	Colorado	6026	315	5.26	3.10	1.83	22	DNP	5.12	8.34	23	9	34 1/8	80 7/8
116	Jason Collier Jr.	Pittsburgh	6055	311	5.26	3.02	1.94	29 1/2	8'9"	4.83	7.70	25	10 1/4	33 7/8	80
117	Brockhim Wicks	SE Louisiana	6012	307	5.12	2.89	1.73	26	8'7"	DNP	DNP	23	8	31 1/4	75 3/4
118	Bryce Ramsey	Marshall	6020	318	5.52	3.03	1.96	23 1/2	8'0"	5.25	8.90	18	10	33 3/8	81 3/4
119	Delfin Xavier Castillo	Vanderbilt	6052	347	5.88	3.40	1.99	19 1/2	7'7"	5.21	8.63	18	9 3/4	34 3/4	83 3/8
120	Marlon Westcott	Bloomsburg	6024	330	5.77	3.28	1.99	DNP	7'11"	5.20	8.75	22	9 3/4	32 1/4	77
121	Connor Cracchiolo-Evans	Saginaw Valley State	6030	288	5.42	3.12	1.76	28 1/2	8'10"	DNP	DNP	28	9	31 1/2	75 3/4
122	Jordan Taylor	Benedict	6027	321	5.78	3.35	2.00	18 1/2	7'1"	5.38	8.82	20	9 3/4	32 1/4	78 1/4
123	Drake Carroll	UT Martin	6014	340	5.68	3.22	1.93	26	7'4"	5.30	8.58	29	9 7/8	30 1/4	74 3/8
124	Billy Lutui	Portland State	6016	306	5.65	3.25	1.95	23 1/2	8'6"	5.00	8.72	16	9 3/4	32	77 5/8
125	Jake Dugger	Harding	6017	305	5.06	2.89	1.73	29	8'9"	DNP	DNP	26	9 1/4	30 1/2	72 7/8
126	Peyton Dunn	Houston	6057	314	5.78	3.30	1.94	DNP	7'9"	5.22	8.15	19	9 3/4	32 1/2	80
127	Wisdom Quarshie	Temple	6020	310	5.40	3.06	1.86	24	7'3"	4.95	8.70	24	9	32 1/4	78
128	Edward Leak	Lock Haven	6012	348	5.62	3.22	1.88	DNP	7'5"	5.33	8.83	23	9 3/8	34 1/8	81
129	Ethan Ellis	Middle Tennessee	6044	294	5.51	3.25	1.92	24 1/2	8'11"	4.97	8.27	22	8 1/8	32 5/8	76 7/8
130	Otis Pitts III	UTEP	6035	319	5.28	3.04	1.98	24	7'8"	5.00	8.03	24	9 1/4	32 1/4	80 1/8
131	Kendall Walker	Ark. at Monticello	6021	277	5.41	3.09	1.84	21	7'11"	DNP	DNP	11	9 3/8	30 3/4	72 3/8
132	Darius Fox	Howard	6015	312	5.76	3.16	2.02	20	7'1"	5.27	9.00	21	8 1/2	33 1/4	80 1/8
133	Donovan Hawkins	Samford	6011	322	5.71	3.18	1.90	24 1/2	8'6"	5.40	8.82	27	10 1/2	32 3/8	78 1/2
134	Brandon Onuorah	Limestone	6047	324	5.75	3.26	1.94	22 1/2	7'1"	5.20	8.78	19	9 1/2	34 1/2	81 3/8
135	Tyler Gmyr	UMass Dartmouth	6033	329	5.66	3.15	1.94	22 1/2	7'11"	DNP	DNP	17	9 3/4	31	74 1/8
136	Evan Henry	Jackson State	6025	321	5.81	3.31	2.03	21 1/2	7'9"	5.45	8.65	19	9 3/4	31 7/8	80 7/8
137	Matt Kickel	Aurora	6037	321	5.87	3.33	1.99	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10	32 7/8	78 3/4
138	Steve Carter	Alcorn State	6023	354	6.20	3.61	2.19	DNP	6'9"	5.50	9.00	DNP	10	33 3/8	80 1/2
139	Mehdi Torrence	Texas Southern	6034	317	6.03	3.34	2.13	22	7'8"	5.40	8.83	DNP	9 3/4	34 1/2	80 5/8
140	Jason Richardson	Arkansas Tech	6034	319	5.88	3.34	1.96	19 1/2	7'5"	DNP	DNP	23	10 1/4	32 1/2	78 1/2

CENTERS

CENTERS

	NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1.	GREY ZABEL	North Dakota State	1st-2nd	5SR	6060	312	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	32 1/4	77 5/8	23.07
2.	JARED WILSON	Georgia	2nd	4JR	6031	310	4.84 (1.71)	11	32 5/8	80 7/8	21.88
3.	SETH MCLAUGHLIN	Ohio State	3rd-4th	5SR	6040	304	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	31 1/4	78 1/4	23.66
4.	DREW KENDALL	Boston College	4th	4JR	6042	308	5.05 (1.78)	9 5/8	32 1/4	78	23.41
5.	JACKSON SLATER	Sacramento State	4th-5th	4SR	6030	311	5.01 (1.78)	10 1/8	32 1/4	78 7/8	21.90
6.	JOSHUA GRAY	Oregon State	5th-6th	7SR	6051	299	5.04 (1.69)	9 1/2	32 1/8	78 3/4	25.12
7.	JONAH MONHEIM	USC	6th	5SR	6042	303	DNP (DNP)	9 1/4	30 1/2	77 1/4	22.88
8.	ELI COX	Kentucky	6th	6SR	6045	306	5.02 (1.75)	9 1/4	31 1/8	77 5/8	24.51
9.	JAKE MAJORS	Texas	6th-7th	5SR	6033	304	5.21 (1.80)	9 7/8	31	76 1/8	23.27
10.	WILLIE LAMPKIN	North Carolina	FA	5SR	5106	279	5.21 (1.76)	10 1/8	31 1/2	78 1/2	23.25
11.	THOMAS PERRY	Middlebury	FA	4SR	6026	310	5.32 (1.78)	9 1/4	31 3/4	78 3/4	21.91
12.	GUS HARTWIG	Purdue	FA	5SR	6052	309	5.27 (1.78)	9 7/8	32 7/8	79 1/2	23.25
13.	DREW MOSS	Colorado State	FA	4SR	6033	303	5.00 (1.70)	9 1/8	32 1/8	78 3/4	21.93
14.	MOSE VAVAO	Fresno State	FA	5SR	6022	305	5.14 (1.76)	10 5/8	31 3/4	78 1/4	23.47
15.	JACOB BAYER	Arkansas State	FA	4SR	6026	306	5.20 (1.79)	10 1/4	32 1/2	78	22.36

C1 Grey Zabel

North Dakota State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pierre, SD	T.F. Riggs	Mar 30, 2002	23.07	6060	312	#74

BACKGROUND: Grey Zabel (ZAY-bull), the second of three boys, grew up in Pierre in central South Dakota with his parents (Mark and Tanna). Mark coached his sons throughout youth sports and played defensive line at Division II Northern (S.D.) State. Tanna was a two-time team captain and all-conference player on the Northern State women's basketball team. She finished her career with 1,192 points and 614 rebounds. She also ran track (won the district 100-meter hurdles) and was inducted into the Northern State Hall of Fame in 2006.

Grey was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, including baseball, basketball and soccer. He started playing tackle football in third grade and often played with his brothers. His older brother (Peyton) was a standout quarterback and baseball pitcher at T.F. Riggs — he was drafted in the 19th round of the 2018 MLB Draft by the Milwaukee Brewers. Peyton chose the college route instead and played baseball and football at Augustana in 2019 before he was dismissed for an off-field incident. He then played at Iowa Western Community College (2020-21) and Texas State (2022-24). Grey's younger brother (Jett) was a three-star tight end recruit with several FBS offers (Memphis, Pittsburgh, Western Michigan), but he chose to follow in his brother's footsteps and sign with North Dakota State (redshirted in 2024).

Zabel attended T.F. Riggs High in Pierre, where he was a three-sport letterman. After seeing varsity reps as a freshman in 2016, he became a starter on both the offensive and defensive lines as a sophomore (blocked for his older brother at quarterback) and helped lead Riggs to a 9-3 record and the 2017 state championship. Zabel earned all-state honors as a junior (36 tackles, 12 tackles for loss, five sacks) and helped the program to a 10-2 finish, including the 2018 state championship. As a senior captain, he finished with 46 tackles, 12 tackles for loss and nine sacks, helping lead Riggs to an undefeated 12-0 record and the 2019 state title, the program's third straight 11AA state championship. Zabel, who again earned all-state honors as a senior, played primarily center throughout high school. He was also an all-conference performer in basketball and baseball at Riggs (led the baseball team in home runs and RBIs).

A no-star recruit, Zabel wasn't ranked by recruiting services in the 2020 class. He took a visit to Iowa after his junior season, but the Hawkeyes didn't offer, and he struggled to get noticed by FBS programs. His first scholarship offer arrived in March 2019 from North Dakota State, and within the next few days, both South Dakota and South Dakota State offered him. (South Dakota State offered him a baseball scholarship, too.) Despite growing up in South Dakota, Zabel had developed a relationship with the North Dakota State coaches and officially committed in July 2019, before his senior season. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his fifth season in 2024.

He received several six-figure NIL offers to transfer up to the FBS level for his final season but returned to Fargo. Zabel graduated with a degree in agribusiness (May 2024) and recently rented 250 acres near his family's farm to plant corn. Zabel accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the overall practice player of the week.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (5/3)	RG	Freshman All-American; pandemic-shortened season; season played spring 2021
2021: (11/0)	-
2022: (15/6)	5 RT, 1 LG
2023: (15/15)	12 RT, 3 LG
2024: (16/16)	LT	Consensus All-American; First Team All-MVFC; team captain
Total: (62/40)	17 RT, 16 LT, 4 LG, 3 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6057	312	9 1/2	32	77 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	36 1/2	9' 3"	DNP	DNP	26	Limited workout (med. exclusion: left pelvis)
PRO DAY	6060	312	9 3/8	32 1/4	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.60	7.66	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Awesome footwork and flexibility to spring out of stance and set up shop (top vertical jump among all offensive linemen at the NFL combine)
- Balanced in pass pro and reaches landmarks square and on time
- Fluid on the fly to adjust through gap exchanges on stunts
- Active and eager with his hands to stun and snatch defenders
- Rolls his hips, drives his feet and maintains strain through contact in the run game
- Efficient tempo on combination blocks and knows when to release and seal
- Light feet on the move with elite range to pick off space defenders on long pulls and screens
- Versatile experience, with college starts at both guard and both tackle positions (also started at center in high school)
- Durable; finished career with 36 straight starts
- Voted a 2024 team captain; quarterback Cam Miller calls him "one of the best leaders I've ever been around."
- North Dakota State coaches rave about his character (NFL scout: "Football, farming and his family — not sure he cares about much else.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks ideal arm length, making it tough for him to maintain connection with speedy rushers who reach his edge
- Guilty of throwing hands prematurely, giving rushers a window to chop/wrap his shoulder
- Lean body type and lacks ideal sand in lower half, which hinders his anchor against power rushers
- No college starts at center, although he played at the pivot during Senior Bowl practices
- Penalized 15 times in past two seasons, including a drive-killing personal foul in 2024 national title game
- Only one of 40 career starts came against FBS competition (Colorado in 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at North Dakota State, Zabel was an All-America left tackle in offensive coordinator Jake Landry's run-focused scheme (previously started at right tackle and both guard spots). He was part of an offensive line room that included Cordell Volson (2022 fourth-round pick) and Cody Mauch (2023 second-rounder).

Whether out in space or in confined areas, Zabel shines as a run blocker with his athletic range and grip strength to connect, strain and seal lanes. In pass protection, he can be walked back and surrender depth versus power, but he mirrors well and stays balanced through contact as he refits his hands to grind bull rushes to a halt. Overall, Zabel must prove he can consistently anchor against NFL power, but his light, flexible movements and strong hands keep pass rushers busy and displace defenders in the run game. A college tackle, he projects best inside, at either center or guard, where he will compete for immediate starting reps and offer Pro Bowl upside.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 32 overall)

C2 Jared Wilson

Georgia, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Winston-Salem, NC	West Forsyth	Jun 05, 2003	21.88	6031	310	#55

BACKGROUND: Jared Wilson, the oldest of four boys, grew up in Winston-Salem, N.C., with his mother (Allie). He has a close bond with his three younger brothers (Marcus, P.J. and Jeremiah). Wilson grew up playing different sports, including basketball for a few years and then soccer (Stars of Piedmont Soccer Alliance) in elementary and middle school. Despite his size, however, he didn't have any interest in playing football and turned down suggestions from his mother and friends to give the sport a chance. His mother ultimately pushed him to join the football team once he reached high school.

Wilson enrolled at West Forsyth High in the Winston-Salem suburb of Clemmons. He joined the football team as a freshman and learned how to play offensive line while on the JV squad in 2017. The coaches moved him up to varsity as a sophomore, and he impressed as the starting right tackle. His weight topped 350 pounds, though, so he needed to learn how to keep his body conditioned and fit. Wilson had his best season as a junior right tackle and led West Forsyth to an 11-2 record and the second round of the 4AA state playoffs. He finished his 2019 season with 71 pancake blocks and didn't allow a sack, which earned him all-state and all-conference honors. His senior season was postponed because of the COVID-19 pandemic; West Forsyth played a five-game schedule in the spring of 2021.

A three-star recruit, Wilson was the 31st-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 23 recruit in North Carolina. After his first season on varsity as a sophomore, he received his first offer from Syracuse (May 2019). That summer, he took visits to Athens (received a Georgia offer from Sam Pittman) and Chapel Hill (received a North Carolina offer from Mack Brown), plus picked up offers from Clemson and NC State. Midway through his junior season, Wilson committed to Georgia (Nov. 2019). However, he decommitted two months later after Pittman took the head coaching job at Arkansas.

Wilson added offers from Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Florida State, LSU and Ohio State, but he committed to North Carolina in April 2020 to stay close to his family. However, Wilson had another change of heart and flipped back to Georgia in August 2020. After four seasons in Athens, he elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. Wilson accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but was unable to participate after suffering a foot injury during training.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (1/0)	-	Redshirted; enrolled June 2021
2022: (7/0)	-
2023: (13/0)	-
2024: (12/12)	OC	Second Team All-SEC; missed two games (foot)
Total: (33/12)	OC

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6030	310	10 3/4	32 3/8	80	4.84	2.86	1.71	32	9' 4"	4.56	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6031	311	11	32 5/8	80 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	23

STRENGTHS:

- Grew up playing soccer — soft footwork shows in his movements
- Led all offensive linemen at combine in 40-yard dash (4.84 seconds) and mph (21.04, fastest ever for a center)
- Large hands to latch underneath defenders with firm base
- Flexible hips help him adjust and stay centered in pass sets
- Maintains outside leverage front-side of run plays
- Initiates contact with tight placement to stay engaged while creating leg churn
- Locates moving targets as a puller
- Admirably filled shoes of Sedrick Van Pran as a team leader (Wilson: "I love people. I think I'll bring chemistry and connect with everyone.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Only one season of starting experience in college
- Average arm length and technique can break down against defenders who make first contact
- Quick to recover when he overextends but needs to avoid awkward positions (see 2024 regular-season Texas tape)
- More of a wall-off blocker than true road grader in run game
- Will overshoot landmarks on climbs and needs to sacrifice some urgency for better control
- Doesn't have proven positional versatility (just 93 career snaps at guard)
- Missed two games in final season because of a foot sprain (Oct. 2024); missed Senior Bowl because of a foot issue

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Georgia, Wilson moved to center in offensive coordinator Mike Bobo's multiple-run scheme (zone and gap). He didn't start playing football until high school and didn't move to center until after the 2022 season, but he played at a high level as a starter in 2024 and earned All-SEC honors. With his athletic traits and play strength, Wilson shines blocking inside zone and has the feet to operate in small quarters or make the backside cutoff/fronside reach.

Still relatively inexperienced, he needs to develop his consistency as a drive blocker in the run game and when working underneath defenders to anchor in pass protection. Overall, Wilson lacks premium size and is fundamentally rough around the edges, but he sports the body control, movement skills and football IQ to lock down a long-term starting center role. His game is reminiscent of Rodney Hudson's, and he should compete for immediate starting reps.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 57 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Buford, GA	Buford	Aug 27, 2001	23.66	6040	304	#56

BACKGROUND: Seth McLaughlin (mih-GLOCK-lin), the youngest of three boys, grew up in Alcoa, Tenn. (south of Knoxville), with his parents (John and Suzy). He started playing football at age 8 and competed at the Pop Warner level for the Alcoa Tornadoes. He also grew up playing the guitar, singing, competing in golf and participating in whatever activities his older brothers (JR and Caden) did. After McLaughlin completed eighth grade, the family relocated to Georgia for John's job (Delta pilot) and settled in Buford (northeast of Atlanta).

McLaughlin enrolled at Buford High, where he was teammates with several FBS recruits, including wide receiver Isaiah Bond. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore and saw most of his playing time at left and right tackle. As a junior, McLaughlin moved around the offensive line and earned reps at tackle, guard and center. When Harry Miller graduated (and signed with Ohio State), McLaughlin moved to center full-time as a senior and helped Buford to a 14-1 record and the 2019 5A state championship (beat Warner Robins in overtime on a last-second score). He earned all-region honors with only one sack allowed in 2019. McLaughlin, who graduated with a 4.0 GPA, was also a tenor in the chorus.

A three-star recruit, McLaughlin was the 11th-ranked center in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 56 recruit in Georgia. After his sophomore season, his recruitment blew up in the spring of 2018, when he received more than a dozen major offers. His first scholarship offer came from South Carolina, followed by offers from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida State, Georgia, LSU, Miami, Michigan and Oklahoma. As a junior, McLaughlin added several other offers, including from Clemson, Nebraska and Texas. During the spring of his junior year, in March 2019, he officially committed to head coach Nick Saban and Alabama. McLaughlin was the lowest-ranked recruit (No. 25) in the Crimson Tide's heralded 2020 class, which also included quarterback Bryce Young, edge rusher Will Anderson and safety Brian Branch.

After four seasons in Tuscaloosa (and escalating fan criticism over his errant snaps), McLaughlin entered the transfer portal in January 2024 and committed to Ohio State for his final season.

He made the SEC honor roll three times and graduated summa cum laude (4.0 GPA) with a bachelor's degree in finance (Aug. 2022), then earned a master's degree in hospitality management with a 3.63 GPA (Dec. 2023). McLaughlin was also named an Academic All-American and a finalist for the 2024 William V. Campbell Trophy ("academic Heisman"). McLaughlin accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl, but he was unable to participate because of his injury.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (2/0)	-	Alabama; redshirted; enrolled January 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/3)	OC	Alabama; first three starts came in SEC title game, playoff semifinals and national championship game
2022: (11/8)	OC	Alabama
2023: (14/14)	OC	Alabama
2024: (10/10)	OC	Ohio State; Rimington Trophy; First Team All-Big Ten; missed final six games (Achilles); enrolled January 2024
Total: (47/35)	OC

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6040	304	9 1/2	31	78 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left Achilles)
PRO DAY	6037	308	9 1/2	31 1/4	77 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Plays with desired initial quickness and play strength for the position
- Explodes into contact to create initial push (Ohio State found a lot of success in short yardage behind its center)
- Latches and works hard to stay attached while on the move
- Efficient working up and picking off linebackers
- Digs cleats in and halts powerful nose tackles
- Consistently refits hands in pass sets to stay square to defenders
- Highly intelligent and communicates well
- Brought a veteran presence to an already experienced Buckeyes line (Donovan Jackson: "Seth is the tip of the spear of our offense — just follow what he says, and I know we'll make a good play.")
- Still attended meetings and became an extra coach after his injury (Lathan Ransom: "It says so much about Seth, the type of leader he is. He could have just been at home right now just in his sorrows. But he's out here helping the team out, man. That says a lot about him.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Solid body frame, but his lack of elite length and knee bend is apparent
- Low snaps were an issue at Alabama, and though it improved at Ohio State, the issue still popped up
- Gets too high at times and is on the ground more than you'd like to see
- Initial strike can be swatted when he throws too early
- Will turn 24 before his first NFL game
- Medical feedback will be key after he tore left Achilles (Nov. 2024), which required season-ending surgery

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Ohio State, McLaughlin acclimated himself quickly at center in former offensive coordinator Chip Kelly's diverse run game (gap/zone, pin-pulls, counters, etc.). He was an established starter for Nick Saban at Alabama but felt his development had become "stagnant," and the backlash from some fans for his errant snaps led him to enter the transfer portal. He rediscovered his confidence in Columbus and thrived until suffering an Achilles injury in mid-November, but he won the Rimington Award as the nation's top center and his second national championship (previously won a title with the Tide).

As a run blocker, McLaughlin flashes power in his hands and is agile enough to consistently reach and cut off defensive tackles to seal run lanes (he sold "Run the Damn Ball" hats in 2024 and gave all the profits to charity). He is stout in pass protection, and although he will misfire with his hands at times, he is quick to recover and stay positioned. Overall, McLaughlin has some overaggressive tendencies and needs to continue improving his snap consistency, but he checks a lot of boxes of a starting NFL center with his body quickness, technical approach and intangibles. His medical grade will impact his final projection.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

C4 Drew Kendall

Boston College, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Norwell, MA	Noble	Nov 27, 2001	23.41	6042	308	#66

BACKGROUND: Andrew "Drew" Kendall, who has an older brother (Peter) and older sister (Madison), grew up in Norwell, Mass. (south of Boston in Plymouth County), with his parents (Pete and Michelle). Pete was an All-America offensive lineman at Boston College (inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 2010) and was a first-round pick (No. 21) in the 1996 NFL Draft. He was drafted by the Seattle Seahawks (1996-2000), then later played for the Arizona Cardinals (2001-03), New York Jets (2004-06) and Washington Redskins (2007-08) over a 13-year NFL career.

Drew Kendall was eager to play organized football, but his father made him wait until fourth grade — Pete retired in 2009, so he could coach his son throughout middle and high school. He played with future Boston College teammate Ozzy Trapilo in middle school for the Pop Warner Clippers. Kendall also played several other sports growing up, notably baseball and basketball. His paternal grandfather (Peter Kendall Sr.) played football at Rhode Island.

Kendall attended The Noble and Greenough School, a private boarding school in the Boston suburb of Dedham, Mass. A four-year varsity letterman, he played on both sides of the ball around 250 pounds throughout his career as a guard, center and defensive end. Kendall led the team to an 8-1 championship season as a sophomore and was a league all-star as a junior. His senior season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic (the program played scrimmages instead). Kendall also lettered in lacrosse as a midfielder and defender.

A four-star recruit, Kendall was the ninth-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Massachusetts. His recruitment gradually increased throughout his freshman and sophomore seasons. Kendall received several attractive offers, including from Duke, Michigan, Nebraska, Penn State, Syracuse, Vanderbilt and Virginia Tech. Ultimately, his decision came down to Boston College or Stanford, and at the wire, Kendall committed to his father's alma mater — the program he'd cheered on as a kid. He was the top-ranked recruit in Boston College's 2021 class and is considered the prize commit of former head coach Jeff Hafley's tenure. Kendall wore No. 66 at Boston College, the same number his father had worn from 1991-95. After four seasons, he elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. Kendall accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (2/0)	-	Redshirted; enrolled January 2021
2022: (11/11)	OC	Missed one game (left hand)
2023: (13/13)	OC
2024: (13/13)	OC	First Team All-ACC; team captain
Total: (39/37)	OC

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	308	9 5/8	31 3/4	77 1/2	5.05	2.95	1.78	DNP	DNP	4.51	7.56	20	No jumps (choice)
PRO DAY	6040	306	9 3/8	32 1/4	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	30 1/2	8'9"	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Fluid athlete with coordinated footwork to be proficient in zone
- Good ankle flexion helps him sharpen angles on pulls or climbs
- Displays lateral agility to handle quick penetrators post-snap
- Doesn't panic and can rediscover balance mid-rep, which helps him settle and reset his base
- Disrupts rush timing with firm, independent hand strikes
- Identifies simulated pressures and delayed blitzes more often than not

- Voted a 2024 team captain and grew up under tutelage of a former NFL offensive lineman
- Started 37 games past three seasons, including 31 straight to finish career

WEAKNESSES:

- Center only in college, with unproven position flex
- Lacks ideal length and body girth
- Not a pure power player and won't overwhelm targets at point of attack
- Room to clean up hand placement on base blocks
- Needs to generate more from lower half, instead of relying on upper-body push
- Quick penetrators can get underneath his pads and immediately challenge his anchor
- Left hand injury (Oct. 2022), which required surgery (missed only one game)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Boston College, Kendall was a fixture at center in head coach Bill O'Brien's run-heavy offense, which used a mix of both zone and gap schemes (100 percent of Kendall's college snaps came at center). The son of a 13-year NFL veteran on the offensive line, he followed in his father's footsteps to Chestnut Hill and became an All-ACC performer and team captain.

Kendall is an athletic mover with the quickness and grip strength to control the point of attack, although he is more likely to force stalemates than create movement. His lack of length and bend will leave him at a disadvantage against long-armed defenders, but he is strong, and his rhythmic jabs help him settle and regain control of the rep. Overall, Kendall might not be a mauler, but he works hard to stay attached using his athletic body control and instinctive technique, which help him finish the mission. He offers NFL starting upside in a zone-blocking scheme.

GRADE: 4th round

C5 Jackson Slater

Sacramento State, 4SR

HOMETOWN Bellevue, WA	HIGH SCHOOL Newport	BIRTHDAY May 30, 2003	AGE 21.90	HT 6030	WT 311	NUM #76
--------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jackson Slater grew up in Bellevue, Wash. (across Lake Washington from Seattle), with his parents (John and Melissa). John was an offensive lineman at Division II Western Washington (1991-96), which dropped its football program in 2009. (Jackson wears No. 76 jersey, his father's old number.) John earned his master's degree from Cal and currently serves as a senior cybersecurity architect at Boeing. Jackson's younger brother (Luke) also played on the offensive line at Newport High and redshirted his freshman season at Sacramento State in 2024.

Jackson Slater played tight end in flag football and wanted to be the next Rob Gronkowski or Drew Sample (another Bellevue native), but he moved to the offensive and defensive lines once he started tackle football in fifth grade for the Newport Junior Knights. He attended Newport High, the lesser-known of the football programs in his hometown (Bellevue High has produced NFL players such as Budda Baker and Myles Jack). He was a four-year varsity letterman on the offensive line and saw time at tackle, guard and center, for a program that won just three games over his career. Slater earned second-team all-county honors as a sophomore and junior and was named a captain for his final two seasons. He also played on the defensive line and collected 19 tackles as a junior in 2019.

Slater lettered in baseball, basketball and track. He took first place in the shot put (48 feet, 3 inches) and discus (135-5) at the 2021 Bellevue Championships (also took fourth in the javelin — 127-6).

A three-star recruit, Slater was the 143rd-ranked interior offensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 44 recruit in Washington. He went overlooked as a recruit, because he was admittedly "raw" as a junior in high school and played for a program that didn't win many games. Slater started to focus more on his training after his junior season (trained with Oregon left tackle Josh Conerly Jr.), but the COVID-19 pandemic kept him from attending recruiting camps and interrupted his senior year. He first heard from Ivy League programs, such as Columbia and Cornell, as well as from Division II Central Washington. He also received preferred walk-on opportunities from Wake Forest and Washington. But Slater's only full-ride offer came from FCS Sacramento State (Eastern Washington offered a partial scholarship), which made his decision easier. He was the third-ranked recruit in the Hornets' 2021 class. Slater accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (9/9)	LG	Redshirt candidate until pressed into action; started final nine games
2022: (13/13)	11 LG, 2 LT	Third Team All-American; First Team All-Big Sky
2023: (13/13)	LG	First Team All-Big Sky
2024: (9/9)	LG	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Sky; missed final three games (right knee)
Total: (44/44)	42 LG, 2 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6030	311	10	32	78 1/2	5.01	2.91	1.78	28 1/2	9' 0"	DNP	DNP	31	No pos. drills, SS, three-cone (right hamstring)
PRO DAY	6026	318	10 1/8	32 1/4	78 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	32 1/2	DNP	4.70	7.69	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Functional size and arm length, plus large hands
- Bursts out of stance with rangy quickness ("Freaks List" alum)
- Did some of best work when he could spring outside runs on pin-pulls and power counter (see 2024 Weber State tape)
- Jump sets with skilled hands to cut off pass-rush angles
- Strong trunk and can tap into power reserves once latched
- Always looking for work and checks "competitive toughness" box with a Sharpie
- One of only five players with at least 30 reps on bench press at combine
- Played predominantly left guard but practiced at all five positions (also repped at center during Senior Bowl practices)

WEAKNESSES:

- Needs to tighten hand placement in pass protection for prolonged engagement
- NFL two-gappers will provide significant challenge
- Gets his pads over his skis and finds himself lunging
- Room to improve combo timing to avoid short-changing his landmark
- Eyes often get too big in space, leading to inaccurate pull angles he won't be able to get away with in NFL
- Missed final three games of college career because of right knee injury (Nov. 2024)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Sacramento State, Slater worked primarily at left guard in offensive coordinator Bobby Fresques' zone-blocking scheme with some gap principles included. After being forced into a starting role as a true freshman, he became a regular starter as a sophomore, on a team that included Cam Skattebo and Marte Mapu and won the 2022 Big Sky Championship. He became the first offensive lineman in school history to earn three first-team all-conference honors.

With his stout frame, Jackson is quick in his setup as a pass blocker to center his blocks, vary his hand strikes and diagnose line games. His aiming points and angles in the run game have room for improvement, but he works hard to stay connected on the move and his range can be weaponized in an outside-zone scheme. Overall, Jackson needs to shore up his technique to better match up with NFL talent, but his movement ability, core strength and active eyes form a solid foundation for the next level. He projects as a guard/center NFL backup with a chance to be more in the right situation.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

C6 Joshua Gray

Oregon State, 7SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Rancho Cucamonga, CA	Rancho Cucamonga	Mar 13, 2000	25.12	6051	299	#67

BACKGROUND: Joshua Gray, who has three brothers and two sisters, grew up in Southern California with his father (Germaine) and mother (Kellie McGee). His father, who works in the Rialto, Calif., school district, played football at USC (1993-97). His mother is an adjunct kinesiology professor at San Bernardino Valley (Calif.) College. His older brother (Josiah) played on the offensive line at Rancho Cucamonga High and then at UTEP (2016-17). Gray followed in his dad's and older brother's footsteps on the football field, starting with flag football at age 5 (he says his father, more than anyone else, helped him with his football career). He also has several other family members who played college sports, including his uncle (Lamarr), a linebacker at Colorado (1987-90), and his cousin (Trace), a linebacker at Colorado State-Pueblo (2012-16).

Gray enrolled at Rancho Cucamonga High, one of the better football programs in California, and was teammates with several future FBS players, including quarterback C.J. Stroud for two seasons. He saw varsity reps as a sophomore before becoming a starter at right tackle as a 235-pound junior and helping the program to a 12-1 record and the 2016 league title (only loss came in the playoffs to Mater Dei). As a senior in 2017, Gray moved to left tackle (at 250 pounds) and earned first-team all-state and all-conference honors, as Rancho Cucamonga won 10 games.

A three-star recruit, Gray was the 64th-ranked offensive tackle in the 2018 recruiting class and the No. 83 recruit in California. He received his first offer (Hawaii) after his junior season (March 2017). Several then-Power 5 programs entered the mix during his senior season, including Arizona, Nebraska and Washington State. After his senior season, Oregon State offered him (Dec. 2017), and his final choice came down to Arizona State or Oregon State. He committed to the Beavers and head coach Jonathan Smith but grayshirted for the 2018 season. Despite Smith moving on to Michigan State in 2024, Gray took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for another season — his seventh with the program. He graduated with a degree in psychology (June 2023). Gray accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2018: (-/-)	-	Grayshirted
2019: (1/0)	-	Redshirted
2020: (7/7)	LT	Second Team All-Pac-12; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/13)	LT	Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2022: (13/13)	LT	Second Team All-Pac-12
2023: (11/11)	LT	Second Team All-Pac-12; 3-yard TD run (caught backwards pass); missed one game (injury); team captain
2024: (12/12)	LG	Team captain
Total: (57/56)		44 LT, 12 LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6051	299	9 1/2	31 3/8	78 5/8	5.04	2.88	1.69	31	8' 8"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6042	300	9 1/2	32 1/8	78 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.65	7.57	18

STRENGTHS:

- Lean-muscled, dancing-bear athlete with good feet
- Posted fastest 5-yard mph (16.21) in O-line wave drill at combine
- Natural bender to spring out of stance and seal targets on angle blocks
- Runs his feet and strains to finish through the whistle
- Reaches proper pocket depth and stays patient in pass pro
- Moves well laterally with the weight distribution to mirror quickness
- Instinctive athlete and moves well in space (see his throw-back touchdown catch on 2023 San Diego State tape)
- Voted a two-year team captain
- Dependable — started 56 games (missing just one) over past five seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Disproportionate arm length for taller frame
- Shaky contact balance when attempting to root himself and combat power
- Doesn't have a ton of force behind his hands, which can diminish his sustain skills
- Does great job getting out in space but needs to be more controlled to break down and square target
- Caught drifting, allowing rushers to set up spin moves and attack his inside shoulder
- Only one season of starting experience on interior (zero snaps at center)
- Older prospect who spent seven years in college

SUMMARY: A five-year starter at Oregon State, Gray kicked inside to left guard in offensive coordinator Ryan Gunderson's multiple-based run scheme. The record holder for career starts (56) in a Beavers uniform, the former left tackle returned to Corvallis in 2024, partly to show NFL teams that he could move inside and play at a high level at guard. That plan produced mixed results.

In the run game, Gray fits with disciplined angles and displays the lateral quickness to expand his range on leads and pulls. A two-time team captain, he has seen a lot of football — and it shows in his processing, but mediocre length, square power and displacement skills will be more noticeable at the next level. Overall, Gray is a fluid big man with the mobility that can be weaponized in a zone-blocking scheme, although the lingering concern is whether or not he will be able to anchor at shallow depth and hold up against NFL power. He should provide depth at both center and guard.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

C7

Jonah Monheim

USC, 5SR

HOMETOWN Moorpark, CA	HIGH SCHOOL Moorpark	BIRTHDAY Jun 07, 2002	AGE 22.88	HT 6042	WT 303	NUM #79
--------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jonah Monheim (MAHN-hime) was born and raised in Southern California with his parents (David and Jessica). His father played linebacker and tight end at Westlake High before a stint at UCLA. Growing up in Moorpark, Calif., Monheim got his start in organized sports in elementary school, including baseball and football. He played little league football for Thomas Overby's J2 Gold youth team. Monheim was youth teammates in multiple sports with fellow Moorpark native Drake London.

Monheim enrolled at Moorpark High, where he was a three-year letterman, primarily on the offensive line (saw some time on the defensive line). After playing on the freshman team in Year One, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore and became a starter at left tackle, helping Moorpark to an 11-3 finish and a spot in the 2017 Division 5 championship game. Monheim again started at left tackle as a junior, as Moorpark made another postseason run in 2018. With London graduating and off to USC, Moorpark managed just three wins in 2019, but Monheim had a highly decorated senior year, taking home first-team all-state and all-area honors. He was also an All-American and the conference's offensive lineman of the year. Monheim graduated with a GPA north of 4.0.

A four-star recruit, Monheim was the 15th-ranked offensive guard in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 29 recruit in California. His recruitment started to blow up in the winter and spring of his junior season. It started with Ivy League offers (Harvard, Princeton, Yale), followed by offers from several high-profile programs (Alabama, Auburn, Indiana, Michigan, Notre Dame, Oregon, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Utah, Washington). Monheim took an official visit to Oklahoma and came close to committing to play for offensive line coach Bill Bedenbaugh. In the end, however, the opportunity to stay close to home and sign with USC was too appealing. He was the third-ranked recruit in former head coach Clay Helton's 2020 class. Monheim once again became teammates with London and also got the chance to play for Lincoln Riley, who became USC's head coach in 2022.

He earned Pac-12 Academic Honor Roll honors three straight years and graduated with a degree in business (currently pursuing a graduate certificate in gerontology). He was also a semifinalist for the 2024 William V. Campbell Trophy ("academic Heisman"). Monheim opted out of USC's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	-	Enrolled August 2020
2021: (12/7)	RT	Started first seven games at RT
2022: (14/14)	11 RT, 3 RG	Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2023: (13/13)	12 LT, 1 RG	Second Team All-Pac-12
2024: (12/12)	OC	Third Team All-Big Ten; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (52/46)		18 RT, 12 LT, 12 OC, 4 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6041	302	9 1/4	30 1/8	77	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left hamstring, left pec)
PRO DAY	6042	303	9 1/4	30 1/2	77 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Outstanding foot quickness and moves well for his size to pull or slide-mirror
- Relies on body angles and knee bend to stay square to rushers
- Continues to refit feisty hands and rely on leverage to counter
- Takes accurate angles up to second level and adjusts well in open field
- Wasn't flagged for holding in 12 games in 2024, which is impressive considering his arm length
- High IQ player — coaches said they were surprised by how "advanced" he is mentally
- Reserved, competitive personality and described as "linchpin" of the line by Lincoln Riley
- Logged 46 career starts — didn't miss a game because of injury past three seasons
- Proven versatility with starting experience at left tackle, right tackle, center and right guard

WEAKNESSES:

- Extremely short arms and doesn't have girthy body type
- Has tough time recovering once powerful defenders gain upper hand
- Chops feet to settle his anchor but can be too easily walked back by power
- Pop in his hands is annoying but not overwhelming for defenders
- Creates average push in run game

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at USC, Monheim moved inside to center in head coach Lincoln Riley's RPO, multiple-run scheme. He was primarily an offensive tackle over his first four years in the program (started at left tackle in 2023) before transitioning to center during 2024 spring practices and earning All-Big Ten honors.

Monheim is fluid out of his stance to pick off defenders on the move in the run game and uses his agile feet and active hands/recoil to pepper defenders in pass protection. However, he is sawed off and breaks down too quickly versus power, lacking the recovery skills to easily get himself out of compromised positions. Overall, Monheim has outstanding makeup and foot quickness, with experience across the offensive line, but his lack of length alone will eliminate him from consideration for several NFL teams. He projects as a depth piece who can earn a roster spot as a backup center.

GRADE: 6th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Nicholasville, KY	West Jessamine	Oct 19, 2000	24.51	6045	306	#75

BACKGROUND: Eli Cox, who is one of three children, was born and raised in Nicholasville, Ky. (south of Lexington), with his parents (John and Katherine). He enrolled at West Jessamine High, where he was a four-year letterman and played multiple spots on the offensive line. After the program had just four total wins over his first two years, Cox helped West Jessamine to six wins and a spot in the 2017 Class 4A state playoffs as a junior. As a senior captain, he lined up primarily at right tackle and was named first-team all-conference.

A three-star recruit, Cox was the 71st-ranked offensive guard in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 13 recruit in Kentucky. His recruitment picked up after his junior season, when he received initial offers from several programs, both in the FCS (Austin Peay, Eastern Kentucky) and FBS (Cincinnati, Georgia State, Liberty, Marshall, Ohio, Western Michigan). But he grew up in a houseful of Kentucky fans (both of his parents were born and raised in Lexington and are longtime football season ticket holders), so he held out for that offer. Once Kentucky officially handed it to him in May 2018, Cox committed almost on the spot. He was the 21st-ranked recruit (out of 22 signees) in head coach Mark Stoops' 2019 class.

Cox took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Lexington for his sixth season. He graduated with a degree in integrated strategic communication (May 2022) and earned a graduate certificate in sport, fitness and recreation management (Dec. 2024).

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2019: (1/0)	-	Redshirted
2020: (8/0)	-	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (9/9)	RG	Missed final four games (left hand); fumble-return TD
2022: (13/13)	OC
2023: (13/13)	10 OC, 3 RG	Second Team All-SEC; team captain
2024: (12/12)	OC	Third Team All-SEC; team captain
Total: (56/47)	35 OC, 12 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	306	9 1/4	31	77 5/8	5.02	2.90	1.75	32 1/2	9' 1"	4.58	7.63	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6045	302	9 1/8	31 1/8	77 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	25

STRENGTHS:

- Athletic movements confirmed by combine testing
- Natural knee bender who is quick into blocks
- Springs laterally to reach and cut off gap shooters
- Efficiently works up levels and shows range on outside tracks
- Stubborn hands to push defenders when he has some momentum
- Has seen a lot of football, which shows in his blitz recognition
- Served on Kentucky's Student Advisory Committee for four straight years
- Started every game past three seasons, with experience at guard and center

WEAKNESSES:

- Average power when attempting to wash or torque defenders
- Frame of an NFL blocker but below-average arm length
- Tends to overextend himself at the waist, falling off blocks
- Only average lower-body girth, which will be challenged quickly by NFL strength
- More wild snaps than you'd like to see
- Missed final four games of sophomore season after tearing tendon in left pinky (Nov. 2021), which required season-ending surgery

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Kentucky, Cox lined up at center in offensive coordinator Bush Hamdan's gap-based run scheme. He realized his childhood dreams when he signed with the Wildcats, and he put 55 games played on his college resume — including 38 straight starts to finish his career.

Cox displays above-average balance and lateral agility to cut off and settle down against penetrating defensive tackles. He can create push in the run game when he has some momentum, but he has only average hip-roll and play strength to move/control defenders. Overall, Cox doesn't have ideal power, which will be noticeable if he's tasked with facing long-armed NFL defenders, but he moves well and could provide depth in the right situation. He projects best in a zone-based system.

GRADE: 6th round

HOMETOWN Prosper, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Prosper	BIRTHDAY Jan 17, 2002	AGE 23.27	HT 6033	WT 304	NUM #65
-------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jakob "Jake" Majors, the youngest of three children, grew up in Prosper, Texas (north of Dallas), with his parents (Brent and Traci), who are both nurses. His father, who overcame leg cancer in 2017, served in the Air Force and took part in Operation Desert Storm. Majors has an older brother (Matt) and sister (Maci). He started out in flag football (as the snapper) at age 7 and won a state championship for the Chargers. He continued playing in Pop Warner and at William Rushing Middle School. Majors grew up an Alabama (his father is from Alabama) and Cowboys fan (Tony Romo and Travis Frederick were his favorite players).

Majors attended Prosper High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman. After seeing action on both JV and varsity as a freshman, he started at left tackle as a sophomore and earned second-team all-district honors, helping the team finish 10-3 and advance to the 2017 regional playoffs. As a junior left tackle, Majors was named an all-district lineman, as Prospect posted a 9-3 record. He again started at left tackle as a senior and earned all-district, all-state and All-America honors (and caught a 5-yard touchdown pass). Majors led Prospect to an 11-3 mark, including a playoff run to the 6A Division-1 quarterfinals.

A four-star recruit, Majors was the fifth-ranked center in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 29 recruit in Texas. After his sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer (Colorado). Majors added offers over the next few months from Arizona State, Boston College, Houston, SMU, Stanford and Washington. During his junior season, he was offered by Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Wisconsin. Majors officially committed to the Longhorns in January 2019. He was the 17th-ranked recruit in former head coach Tom Herman's 2020 class (Bijan Robinson was No. 1).

A three-time first-team Academic Big 12 member, Majors was a finalist for the William V. Campbell Trophy. He graduated with a degree in business management (May 2023), with a 3.65 GPA, and is working on his postgraduate studies in sports management. Majors declined an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl because of the length of Texas' 2024 season.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (3/2)	OC	Enrolled January 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/12)	OC
2022: (13/13)	OC
2023: (14/14)	OC	Honorable Mention All-Big 12
2024: (16/16)	OC
Total: (58/57)	OC

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6033	306	9 7/8	30 3/8	76	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	25	Limited workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6032	304	9 5/8	31	76 1/8	5.21	2.97	1.80	26 1/2	8'8"	4.62	7.72	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Adequate size and functional strength
- Active feet and moves with range to pull/climb (studies Cam Jurgens specifically for his pulling skills)
- Posted fastest speed (15.99 mph) in O-line screen drill at combine
- Recognizes things well inside and IDs blitzes and stunts
- Firm initial strike and works hard to keep hands inside
- Rolls his hips in run game to help his extension
- Extremely reliable — started 57 consecutive games at center

WEAKNESSES:

- Shorter arms fall below the threshold for some schemes
- Mediocre lateral quickness, leaving him late to redirect
- Not a people mover in run game
- Overcommits on the move and can be knocked off balance
- Handled bullies well in college, but NFL nose tackles will be a different story
- Flagged 20 times in career, including five times in 2024 (three false starts, one hold, one illegal snap)
- 100 percent of 3,748 offensive snaps came at center

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Texas, Majors was a staple in the middle of the line in head coach Steve Sarkisian's RPO pro-style spread offense. He snapped the ball to Sam Ehlinger in his first season before ripping off 57 straight starts to set a new Texas record. He was a key part of the Longhorns being finalists for the 2024 Joe Moore Award for the nation's top offensive line.

Majors is a sturdy and steady presence in pass protection and combats longer-armed defenders with timing, nifty hands and firm positioning. He shows off his pulling range in the run game, although he isn't an explosive power player and will struggle to generate drive power versus NFL size. Overall, Majors (who is a left-handed snapper) is a center-only prospect with a relatively low pro ceiling, but there is a consistency to his game that is easy to appreciate, because of his football-playing instincts and competitiveness. He projects as an NFL backup, although his lack of position flexibility will work against him.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

C10 Willie Lampkin

North Carolina, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Lakeland, FL	Lakeland	Jan 22, 2002	23.25	5106	279	#53

BACKGROUND: William "Willie" Lampkin, who has an older sister (Te'Ariana), was born and raised in Bealsville, Fla. (east of Tampa), with his mother (Kyera Joyce) and grandparents (Adrienne and Isaiah Joyce), who lived down the street. He got his start in flag football at age 5 before graduating to tackle football in pee wee. He played in the Wonder Football League and bounced around schools throughout childhood.

Lampkin originally attended Mulberry High, where he played football and decided to try wrestling. He played on the offensive and defensive lines as a freshman and sophomore, posting 46 tackles and one sack in 2017. He started to blossom on the wrestling mat as a sophomore and considered giving up football. Before his junior year, his mother, who wanted more stability for her son, sent Lampkin to live with his father (Willie Lampkin Sr.) in Lakeland, Fla.

Willie Lampkin transferred to Lakeland High but decided to stick with football, playing both ways and helping the team go 16-0 to capture the 2018 Class 7A state championship. As a senior, he led Lakeland to 12 straight wins and a state runner-up finish. Lampkin continued wrestling at Lakeland and finished as state runner-up as a junior, with a 46-4 record. He won the 2A state title as a 285-pound senior with an undefeated 47-0 record (top-ranked wrestler in 2A).

A three-star recruit, Lampkin was the 144th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 272 recruit in Florida. Although he didn't want to transfer to Lakeland (and almost elected to give up football for wrestling), the move raised his recruiting profile. With a handful of FBS offers, Lampkin committed to Coastal Carolina (as an offensive lineman) over Appalachian State, Bowling Green, Middle Tennessee, Southern Miss and South Florida. After the 2022 season, Coastal Carolina head coach Jamey Chadwell stepped down to take the Liberty job.

Lampkin subsequently entered the transfer portal and committed to North Carolina (Dec. 2022). He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Chapel Hill for his fifth season. Lampkin was a late call-up to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (12/12)	LG	Coastal Carolina; Freshman All-American; Second Team All-SBC; enrolled August 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/13)	LG	Coastal Carolina; Second Team All-SBC
2022: (13/13)	OC	Coastal Carolina; First Team All-SBC
2023: (11/11)	8 RG, 2 LG, 1 OC	North Carolina; Third Team All-ACC; missed two games (leg)
2024: (12/12)	RG	North Carolina; First Team All-ACC; Jacobs Blocking Trophy
Total: (61/61)	27 LG, 20 RG, 14 OC

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5106	279	10 1/8	31 1/2	78 1/2	5.21	3.00	1.76	23 1/2	8'8"	4.70	DNP	18

STRENGTHS:

- Leverage-based blocker who uses shorter stature to his advantage
- Quick snap and step with efficient movement skills
- Low pads and base strength help him stop a charge in pass pro
- Large hands; fits his grip inside to steer once locked on
- Flashes competitive mean streak and frustrates defenders with intent
- Described as a leader and one of hardest workers in North Carolina program, according to NFL scouts
- Played a lot of football — 61 career starts across all three interior offensive line positions

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average height and weight
- Lacks ideal mass in lower half and is likely maxed out
- Will get bullied backwards by NFL power

- Can do a better job ID'ing blitz and adjusting
- Has range on pulls and leans, but needs to use better pacing to cut off pursuit angles
- Likely a center only in the NFL, despite his college versatility

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at North Carolina, Lampkin worked primarily at right guard in former offensive coordinator Chip Lindsey's balanced run attack. After going overlooked in high school because of his size, he again flew under the radar when he entered the transfer portal following three years as a starter at Coastal Carolina. But Mack Brown took a chance and Lampkin didn't disappoint, earning the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the top offensive lineman in the ACC.

With his wrestling background, Lampkin displays terrific balance, lateral quickness and agility, and he uses violent handwork to stay centered through engagement. NFL bodies will present a massive challenge each snap, but his refinement and finishing attitude will help him ride the bull. Overall, Lampkin is an extreme size outlier, which will be a non-starter with most NFL teams, but the tape says he can get the job done with his natural leverage and stubborn hands. There isn't much of a size comparison for him currently in the NFL, but he is accustomed to overcoming the odds.

GRADE: FA

C11 Thomas Perry

Middlebury, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Killingworth, CT	Haddam-Killingworth	May 28, 2003	21.91	6026	310	#67

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (7/3)	LG
2022: (9/9)	8 LG, 1 LT	First Team All-NESCAC
2023: (9/9)	LG	First Team All-NESCAC
2024: (9/9)	LG	First Team All-American; First Team All-NESCAC; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (34/30)	29 LG, 1 LT

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6026	310	9 1/4	31 3/4	78 3/4	5.32	2.97	1.78	29 1/2	9'3"	4.53	8.09	31

SUMMARY: Thomas Perry grew up in a football family — both his father (Scott) and uncle (Bill) played the sport. Thomas Perry played guard and defensive tackle at Haddam-Killingworth High, where he was also a state-champion wrestler. Undersized at 6-foot-1 and 260 pounds, he didn't receive any Division I looks and committed to Division III Middlebury, which also offered his major (3.92 GPA in molecular biology and biochemistry). He broke into the starting lineup as a freshman and became an All-American as a senior left guard.

Nicknamed "Thomas the Tank," Perry was dominant against inferior competition on tape and didn't look out of place during East-West Shrine Bowl practices. He is a tireless worker who enjoys the grind — and that translates to his on-field play strength. He is very controlled out of his stance, with spice in his hands to pepper defenders. He is also one of the most competitive finishers in this class. Overall, Perry is undersized and will require development time as he transitions to center (and faces better competition). But he is wired the right way with the intelligence, athleticism and power worth the investment.

GRADE: FA

C12 Gus Hartwig

Purdue, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Zionsville, IN	Zionsville	Jan 21, 2002	23.25	6052	309	#53

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (6/3)	RG	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (13/13)	OC	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2022: (11/11)	OC	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed three games (knee)
2023: (9/9)	OC	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed three games (knee)
2024: (12/12)	OC	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; team captain; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (51/48)	45 OC, 3 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6052	309	9 7/8	32 7/8	79 1/2	5.27	3.03	1.78	29 1/2	8'7"	4.92	7.77	18

SUMMARY: Gus Hartwig, who has two younger brothers, grew up north of Indianapolis with his parents (Myles and Amy). His father played offensive tackle at Ball State. Hartwig became an All-American guard and center at Zionsville High (also a standout in the shot put). A four-star recruit, he received a host of Big Ten and MAC offers and committed to nearby Purdue. Aside from a season-ending knee injury in 2022 (which held him out to start the 2023 season), he was a model of consistency for the Boilermakers, earning honorable mention All-Big Ten honors each of his five college seasons.

With his flexible base and knee bend, Hartwig is quick off the snap and works his feet into position to seal off and control blockers in the run game. His ability to replace his hands and refit improved on his 2024 tape, helping him drop anchor against power. Overall, Hartwig isn't a mauler and blocking NFL bull rushers will be a tough ask, but he plays with the functional size, athleticism and experienced know-how to keep defenders occupied.

GRADE: FA

C13 Drew Moss

Colorado State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Richardson, TX	Richardson	May 21, 2003	21.93	6033	303	#68

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (11/11)	RT	Lamar
2022: (11/11)	RT	Lamar
2023: (12/12)	RT	Colorado State; Honorable Mention All-MWC
2024: (13/13)	RG	Colorado State; Second Team All-MWC; Hula Bowl
Total: (47/47)	34 RT, 13 RG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6033	303	9 1/8	32 1/8	78 3/4	5.00	2.84	1.70	32 1/2	9'3"	4.58	7.65	20

SUMMARY: Drew Moss grew up in North Texas with his parents (Douglas and Regina), both of whom were college athletes at Rice. Drew Moss was a three-year starter on varsity at Richardson High, playing both tackle and guard, and earned all-state honors as a senior (also earned all-district honors for the shot put and discus). A no-star recruit, Moss received mostly Division III offers until FCS Lamar offered late in his senior season. He started all 22 games at right tackle in two seasons at Lamar before entering the transfer portal and landing at Colorado State. After staying at right tackle in 2023, he moved inside to right guard in 2024 and had his best season. Moss is an efficient mover with an assignment-sound mindset to understand his responsibilities. He has a smooth-muscled body with shorter arms and can be troubled by point-of-attack power (flagged 17 times in two seasons at Colorado State). When his technique stays on schedule and he doesn't get overextended, he can show off his finishing grit. Overall, Moss might be a center-only option because of his measurables, but he has the tools and intangibles to develop into a potential reserve.

GRADE: FA

C14 Mose Vavao

Fresno State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Newark, CA	St. Francis	Nov 05, 2001	23.47	6022	305	#51

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2020: (6/2)	LG	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/13)	7 RG, 6 LG
2022: (14/14)	RG	Honorable Mention All-MWC
2023: (13/13)	RG	Second Team All-MWC
2024: (12/12)	OC	Honorable Mention All-MWC; missed one game (injury); team captain
Total: (58/54)	34 RG, 12 OC, 8 LG

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6022	305	10 5/8	31 3/4	78 1/4	5.14	2.96	1.76	29	9'3"	4.75	7.58	26

SUMMARY: Mose (mo-say) Vavao (vah-vah-oh), one of four kids, grew up in Newark, N.J., with his parents (James and Joli). He played both ways at St. Francis High in Mountain View and started three straight years at left tackle, including on a 2017 state title-winning team. A three-star recruit, he committed to Fresno State over several other Mountain West programs, Yale and Columbia. Vavao worked his way into the starting lineup almost immediately and started 54 games over the past five seasons, spread between all three interior offensive line positions.

Vavao has a smaller frame by NFL standards and can be overpowered by long-armed, powerful pluggers (see his reps vs. Kenneth Grant on the 2024 Michigan tape). But he has massive hands and plays quick into his blocks to engage, seal and gain the upper hand early. He works well in tandem and picks up blitzers effectively, plus shows functional mobility to pick off linebackers in the screen game. Overall, Vavao can be rocked by power, but he skillfully uses angles. NFL teams appreciate his durability and efficiency across the interior.

GRADE: FA

C15 Jacob Bayer

Arkansas State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Grandview, TX	Grandview	Dec 12, 2002	22.36	6026	306	#73

YEAR (GP/GS)	POSITION	NOTES
2021: (11/11)	OC	Lamar
2022: (11/11)	OC	Lamar
2023: (12/12)	OC	Arkansas State; First Team All-SBC; enrolled January 2023
2024: (12/12)	OC	Arkansas State; Second Team All-SBC; missed season opener (ACL surgery in April 2024); Senior Bowl
Total: (46/46)	OC

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6026	306	10 1/4	32 1/2	78	5.20	2.92	1.79	28	8'6"	4.83	8.01	32

SUMMARY: Jacob Bayer, one of four kids, grew up south of Fort Worth, Texas, with his father (Jacob) and mother (Mary Boggess), who played college softball at Howard Payne. His younger brother (Caleb) is an offensive lineman at Division III Trinity.

Bayer was an all-state left tackle as a senior at Grandview High. A two-star recruit, he committed to FCS Lamar (over Air Force and Wyoming) and started all 22 games at center his first two seasons. He entered the transfer portal after the 2022 season and signed with Arkansas State, where he was an All-Sun Belt center both of his seasons in the program.

One of the top-ranked powerlifters in Texas while in high school, Bayer has outstanding grip strength to control his man when he keeps his blocks centered. He does a nice job working himself into lateral positioning, although his recovery skills need work. His run-blocking leverage improved throughout the 2024 season, which makes sense, considering that he returned to the starting lineup just five months after ACL surgery last spring (his quick recovery reflects his work ethic). Overall, Bayer was a center-only lineman in college, but he plays with strong, stubborn hands to get the job done and compete for a roster spot.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
16	Ben Scott	Nebraska	6045	306	5.13	2.94	1.80	27	9'0"	4.69	7.66	26	9 3/8	31 1/4	76 5/8
17	Zeke Correll	NC State	6026	303	5.51	3.10	1.78	29	8'11"	4.64	8.28	24	9 7/8	31 1/8	76 1/8
18	Cooper Mays	Tennessee	6023	305	DNP	DNP	DNP	26	8'5"	4.81	8.24	DNP	9 1/2	32 1/4	78 1/4
19	CJ James Jr.	UTSA	6020	286	5.06	2.86	1.65	30	9'4"	4.88	7.72	16	9 1/4	32 1/4	77 1/2
20	Jacob Gideon	Western Michigan	6022	296	5.40	3.03	1.77	28 1/2	8'9"	4.57	7.73	27	9 3/4	32 1/4	77 1/2
21	Dylan Poirier	New Hampshire	6023	303	5.13	2.93	1.72	27 1/2	9'0"	4.55	7.63	25	9 1/4	32 5/8	77 3/4
22	Tanner Miller	Michigan State	6010	283	5.12	3.01	1.75	26 1/2	8'8"	4.74	7.82	25	8 7/8	30 7/8	75
23	Trent Holler	Memphis	6014	291	5.23	3.00	1.77	27	9'1"	4.57	7.67	24	10 1/8	31 3/8	78 1/4
24	Josh Kaltenberger	Maryland	6062	311	5.12	2.75	1.71	32	9'5"	4.87	7.69	26	9 5/8	31 3/4	79
25	Ethan Miner	Mississippi State	6022	295	5.28	2.92	1.81	33	9'2"	4.75	DNP	32	10 1/4	31 1/4	76 5/8
26	Maurice Smith	Florida State	6023	296	5.24	3.00	1.75	25 1/2	8'4"	4.94	7.62	32	9	32 5/8	78 7/8
27	Falepule Alo	Utah State	6015	294	5.07	2.85	1.68	28	8'3"	5.04	7.95	26	9 5/8	30 3/4	76 7/8
28	Leif Fautanu	Arizona State	6011	298	5.18	3.06	1.81	26	8'7"	4.97	DNP	22	10 7/8	34	83
29	Vershon Lee	South Carolina	6031	304	5.17	3.01	1.73	31	8'10"	4.96	8.00	28	10	32 7/8	79 3/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
30	Federico Maranges	Florida Atlantic	6031	302	5.18	2.96	1.75	31	8'5"	4.70	7.80	28	10	33 1/4	79 7/8
31	D'Angalo Titilii	Washington	6003	308	5.52	3.24	1.90	24	7'8"	4.96	8.35	22	9 5/8	30 7/8	74 3/8
32	Joe Michalski	Oklahoma State	6034	297	5.27	3.03	1.77	29	8'11"	4.47	7.47	28	9 3/4	32 1/4	78 3/8
33	Gus Miller	South Dakota State	6020	297	5.05	2.93	1.70	26	8'3"	4.57	7.74	23	9 5/8	29 1/2	74 3/8
34	Brock Gingrich	Delaware	6014	303	5.15	2.98	1.83	25	8'10"	4.64	7.94	28	9	32 1/8	77
35	Tuli Teuhema	Tarleton State	6015	294	4.96	2.84	1.81	31	8'6"	4.65	7.83	22	9 1/2	32 3/8	78 1/2
36	Logan Zschernitz	Northern Illinois	6031	304	5.32	3.05	1.76	26	8'9"	4.83	7.87	23	9 1/8	32 1/2	76 1/2
37	Nofoafia Tulafono	Wyoming	6014	317	5.25	3.02	1.77	29 1/2	8'1"	4.76	7.69	26	10 1/8	30 7/8	75 7/8
38	Jacob Gardner	Colorado State	6037	293	5.15	3.04	1.85	27 1/2	8'4"	4.94	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	32	79 1/8
39	Levi Rogers	Stanford	6037	301	5.72	3.27	1.90	22	7'8"	4.88	8.51	18	9 7/8	32 7/8	81 1/8
40	Weston Franklin	Georgia Tech	6030	318	5.26	3.09	1.81	23	8'3"	4.84	7.90	20	9 1/2	32 3/8	79 1/4
41	Brandon Yates	West Virginia	6033	294	5.27	3.07	1.84	27	8'8"	4.98	DNP	25	9 1/2	33 1/4	79 1/4
42	Ed Gatling	Monmouth	6027	335	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	32 1/8	77 7/8
43	Ethan Hagler	Sam Houston	6010	301	5.17	2.97	1.65	25	8'4"	4.68	7.99	26	9 1/2	31 3/4	77 3/8
44	Landon Burton	Louisiana	6015	304	5.43	3.10	1.84	30	7'11"	4.93	8.01	25	9 3/4	33	78 3/4
45	Jonny Bottorff	Northern Arizona	6024	288	5.65	3.22	1.94	24	8'3"	4.84	8.04	15	9 7/8	32 1/8	78 3/8
46	Zach Carpenter	Miami	6042	298	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	29	8 7/8	31	75 3/4
47	John Thomas	New Haven	6013	296	5.60	3.20	1.94	DNP	DNP	5.00	8.65	21	10 1/8	32 1/2	79 1/2
48	Chayse Todd	Texas State	6016	316	5.21	3.02	1.81	25	9'8"	5.07	DNP	22	9	33 3/4	79 3/4
49	Vincent Murphy	Tulane	6020	300	5.25	3.06	1.86	29	8'7"	4.72	7.76	25	9 7/8	32	76 1/2
50	Joey Lombard	South Dakota	6045	312	5.88	3.39	1.94	26 1/2	8'2"	4.88	7.89	20	10 3/8	32 7/8	82
51	Josh Atwood	UMass	6020	334	5.57	3.17	1.86	31	8'10"	4.88	7.91	34	9 5/8	32 1/2	78 5/8
52	Parker Titsworth	Ohio	5116	288	5.26	3.03	1.87	25 1/2	8'5"	4.82	8.09	23	8 1/2	31	75 5/8
53	Logan Osburn	Marshall	6021	302	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	32 3/8	78 1/8
54	Eric Brown Jr.	South Carolina State	6013	304	5.37	3.09	1.81	23 1/2	7'9"	5.00	8.44	25	10 1/2	33 1/2	81
55	Cole Sain	Montana State	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
56	Canaan Yarro	New Mexico State	6001	302	5.64	3.24	1.99	24 1/2	7'8"	5.19	8.17	27	9 1/2	31	75 1/4
57	Arelious Dunn	Alabama State	6016	291	5.33	3.07	1.82	21 1/2	7'9"	5.00	8.40	13	9 5/8	32 5/8	78 5/8
58	Dustyn Hall	East Carolina	6031	297	5.44	3.14	1.82	25 1/2	9'3"	4.72	7.93	31	9 3/8	33	78 3/4
59	Jakai Clark	SMU	6023	305	5.47	3.10	2.00	26	DNP	5.19	8.27	26	9 3/4	31	77 3/8
60	Desmond Barnes	NC Wesleyan	5111	299	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	31 1/4	76
61	Connor Pay	BYU	6037	310	5.46	3.07	1.88	27 1/2	8'6"	5.06	8.22	23	9	32	78 1/2
62	Kolby Borders	Miami (OH)	6056	303	5.38	3.07	1.91	24 1/2	8'10"	4.76	7.89	19	10	32 3/4	79 3/4
63	Mason Williams	Incarnate Word	6016	293	5.20	3.03	1.90	28 1/2	8'11"	4.75	7.80	27	9 3/8	30 3/4	76 3/4
64	Reece McIntyre	Ole Miss	6045	313	5.71	3.39	2.05	26	8'3"	5.09	8.13	17	9	32 7/8	77 7/8
65	Jack Hasz	UNLV	6025	293	5.57	3.20	1.91	25	8'3"	4.96	8.20	19	9 1/8	31 1/4	74 1/4
66	Dominic Serapiglia III	Central Michigan	6012	300	5.51	3.28	1.89	26	8'2"	4.65	8.09	21	10 1/2	30 3/4	75 3/4
67	Kyler Blake-Jones	Grand Valley State	6022	293	5.42	3.07	1.78	31	8'4"	4.76	7.81	22	9 3/8	29 1/2	73 7/8
68	Ralph Paige Jr.	Towson	6016	308	5.48	3.26	1.91	21 1/2	8'5"	4.99	8.12	23	9 1/2	31 3/8	77 1/8
69	Evan Roussel	Nicholls State	5117	274	5.40	3.15	1.84	26	7'5"	DNP	DNP	15	9	30 3/8	74 3/8
70	Luke Smith	East Tennessee State	6003	297	5.34	2.95	1.76	28 1/2	8'8"	4.72	7.78	30	9 7/8	31 1/4	76 1/2

EDGE
RUSHERS

The title 'EDGE RUSHERS' is rendered in a large, bold, teal-colored font with a slight gradient and a 3D effect. The word 'EDGE' is on the top line, and 'RUSHERS' is on the bottom line. Several white marks are scattered around the text: two 'x' marks to the left of 'EDGE', one 'x' mark above 'EDGE', one 'o' mark to the right of 'EDGE', one 'o' mark below 'RUSHERS', and a white arrow pointing from the bottom left towards the 'R' in 'RUSHERS'.

EDGE RUSHERS

	NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1.	ABDUL CARTER	Penn State	1st	3JR	6036	250	DNP (DNP)	9 3/4	33	79 1/4	21.56
2.	JALON WALKER	Georgia	1st	3JR	6010	243	DNP (DNP)	10 1/4	32 5/8	79 7/8	21.16
3.	SHEMAR STEWART	Texas A&M	1st	3JR	6050	267	4.59 (1.58)	9 5/8	34 3/8	84 3/4	21.45
4.	MIKE GREEN	Marshall	1st	4JR	6031	251	DNP (DNP)	8 1/2	32 3/8	77 3/4	21.74
5.	MYKEL WILLIAMS	Georgia	1st-2nd	3JR	6051	267	4.77 (1.61)	10 1/4	34 3/8	82 7/8	20.82
6.	DONOVAN EZEIRUAKU	Boston College	1st-2nd	4SR	6024	248	DNP (DNP)	9 1/4	34	82 3/4	21.58
7.	JAMES PEARCE JR.	Tennessee	2nd	3JR	6052	245	4.47 (1.56)	10	33	81	21.53
8.	JT TUIMOLOAU	Ohio State	2nd	4SR	6042	264	DNP (DNP)	10 1/2	34 7/8	82 3/8	21.96
9.	LANDON JACKSON	Arkansas	2nd	4SR	6060	264	4.68 (1.65)	10	33 3/4	83 5/8	22.31
10.	JORDAN BURCH	Oregon	2nd	5SR	6041	279	4.67 (1.65)	9 7/8	33 3/4	79 1/4	23.54
11.	JACK SAWYER	Ohio State	2nd	4SR	6042	260	DNP (DNP)	9 3/4	32 1/8	77 1/8	22.97
12.	NIC SCOURTON	Texas A&M	2nd	3JR	6026	257	DNP (DNP)	10	33 1/4	80 7/8	20.66
13.	OLUWAFEMI OLADEJO	UCLA	2nd-3rd	4SR	6032	261	DNP (DNP)	9 7/8	33 7/8	82 1/8	21.59
14.	PRINCELY UMANMIELEN	Ole Miss	2nd-3rd	5SR	6043	244	4.72 (1.61)	9 5/8	34 3/8	82 3/8	23.02
15.	ASHTON GILLOTTE	Louisville	3rd	4SR	6027	264	4.65 (1.59)	9	31 7/8	78 5/8	22.48
16.	JOSAIAH STEWART	Michigan	3rd	4SR	6010	249	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	31 7/8	79	21.99
17.	BRADYN SWINSON	LSU	3rd	5SR	6035	255	DNP (DNP)	9 7/8	33 3/8	81 1/4	22.81
18.	BARRYN SORRELL	Texas	3rd-4th	4SR	6033	256	4.68 (1.65)	9 3/8	32 1/2	78 1/4	22.34
19.	SAI'VION JONES	LSU	3rd-4th	4SR	6054	283	4.75 (1.59)	10	34	82 3/8	21.81
20.	TYRION INGRAM-DAWKINS	Georgia	4th	4JR	6046	276	4.86 (1.69)	10	33 1/2	82 3/4	21.83
21.	DAVID WALKER	Central Arkansas	4th	6SR	6007	263	4.69 (1.65)	9 5/8	31 7/8	77 1/2	24.89
22.	KYLE KENNARD	South Carolina	4th	5SR	6041	254	4.73 (1.63)	10	34	81 1/2	23.36
23.	ELIJAH ROBERTS	SMU	4th-5th	5SR	6035	285	4.78 (1.67)	10 1/2	34	82 1/2	23.33
24.	FADIL DIGGS	Syracuse	4th-5th	5SR	6043	257	4.57 (1.60)	10 3/4	33 3/4	79 3/8	23.52
25.	JARED IVEY	Ole Miss	5th	5SR	6057	274	5.15 (1.84)	8 7/8	34 1/8	82 5/8	23.38
26.	JAH JOYNER	Minnesota	5th	5SR	6042	262	4.60 (1.67)	9 3/8	34 1/8	82 1/2	23.73
27.	ANTWAUN POWELL-RYLAND	Virginia Tech	5th-6th	5SR	6025	258	4.69 (1.63)	9 5/8	31 1/2	76 5/8	23.16
28.	QUE ROBINSON	Alabama	5th-6th	5SR	6042	243	DNP (DNP)	9 3/4	33 1/2	80 5/8	23.95
29.	KAIMON RUCKER	North Carolina	6th	5SR	6012	255	DNP (DNP)	10	32 5/8	79 7/8	23.15
30.	TYLER BARON	Miami	6th	5SR	6045	258	4.62 (1.61)	10 1/8	33 1/8	80 1/4	23.50
31.	AHMED HASSANEIN	Boise State	6th	4SR	6024	267	4.77 (1.69)	9 1/4	32 1/2	80 5/8	22.79
32.	ELIJAH PONDER	Cal Poly	6th-7th	5SR	6027	251	4.63 (1.56)	10 1/8	33 1/8	80	22.67
33.	ETHAN DOWNS	Oklahoma	6th-7th	4SR	6036	269	4.69 (1.61)	10 5/8	31 5/8	77 1/2	22.53
34.	TYLER BATTY	BYU	7th	5SR	6055	271	4.78 (1.69)	9 1/2	33 1/8	81	25.98
35.	STEVE LINTON	Baylor	FA	6SR	6036	248	4.81 (1.64)	9	34 1/2	81 1/2	25.16
36.	JOHNNY WALKER JR.	Missouri	FA	5SR	6025	249	4.82 (1.72)	9 7/8	32 7/8	79 1/2	23.36
37.	CHAZ CHAMBLISS	Georgia	FA	4SR	6022	245	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	31 3/8	76 3/4	22.50
38.	RJOBEN	Notre Dame	FA	6SR	6033	251	4.95 (1.70)	9 1/4	33 5/8	82	23.85
39.	J.J. WEAVER	Kentucky	FA	6SR	6045	251	4.84 (1.67)	9 1/8	33 3/8	81 3/8	25.40
40.	KYDRAN JENKINS	Purdue	FA	5SR	5116	256	4.64 (1.65)	9 1/2	31 1/2	76 3/4	22.81
41.	JASHEEN DAVIS	Wake Forest	FA	5SR	6030	251	4.93 (1.63)	9 1/2	33 1/2	79 3/4	23.35
42.	SETH COLEMAN	Illinois	FA	6SR	6034	246	4.68 (1.62)	9 7/8	34	82 1/4	24.38
43.	GARMON RANDOLPH	Baylor	FA	6SR	6063	265	4.78 (1.55)	9 3/4	33 7/8	83	24.55
44.	ELIJAH ALSTON	Miami	FA	6SR	6024	249	DNP (DNP)	9 3/8	30	74 1/4	23.65

HOMETOWN Philadelphia, PA	HIGH SCHOOL La Salle	BIRTHDAY Oct 03, 2003	AGE 21.56	HT 6036	WT 250	NUM #11
------------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Abdul Carter, the fourth of five children (three boys, two girls), was born and raised in North Philadelphia with his parents (Christopher and Tina). His father played linebacker and defensive end at Bloomsburg University (1994-96). Carter grew up playing Pop Warner football for the North Philly Aztecs at Hunting Park, a program that has produced several college and NFL players, including tight end Kyle Pitts. Carter led the Aztecs to the 2011 Pop Warner Super Bowl at Disney World. He was primarily a running back throughout youth football.

Carter enrolled at La Salle College High, an all-boys Catholic school in Wyndmoor, Pa. He earned a spot on varsity as a freshman defensive end and wide receiver. Carter moved to weakside linebacker as a sophomore and earned all-league honors (53 tackles, seven tackles for loss) while seeing some time on offense. He helped the team to eight wins before meeting St. Joseph's Prep (led by quarterback Kyle McCord and wide receiver Marvin Harrison Jr.) in the 2019 state playoffs. Carter earned all-state honors as a junior in an abbreviated seven-game season and finished with 34 tackles, four sacks and one interception. As a senior captain, Carter earned all-league honors for the third straight season and was named team MVP (78 tackles, 10 tackles for loss, two sacks and one forced fumble). He helped La Salle to a 9-2 finish and the 2021 conference title. Carter also lettered in basketball and set several school weight-room records (squat, high jump, long jump).

A four-star recruit, Carter was the 28th-ranked linebacker in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 10 recruit in Pennsylvania. He became a coveted recruit during his sophomore year when he received an offer from Pittsburgh, followed by offers from Kentucky, Michigan, Penn State, Tennessee and USC. Carter added a few more SEC offers before narrowing his choice to Ole Miss, Penn State and South Carolina. Head coach James Franklin sold the Carter family on the idea of using him in a Micah Parsons-like role, and Carter chose the Nittany Lions in July 2021. He was the 12th-ranked player in Franklin's 2022 recruiting class. The coaching staff initially wanted him to play defensive end, but Carter preferred to stay as an off-ball linebacker. Between his sophomore and junior seasons, he moved to more of a full-time edge rushing role — and worked out with Parsons to help the transition. Carter opted to skip his senior year and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (13/6)	56	10.5	6.5	2	4	0	Freshman All-American; Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in sacks; enrolled June 2022
2023: (13/13)	48	5.5	4.5	1	5	1	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten
2024: (16/16)	68	23.5	12.0	2	4	0	Unanimous Consensus All-American; Big Ten Def. POY; Big Ten DL of year; led FBS in TFL; led Big Ten in sacks
Total: (42/35)	172	39.5	23.0	5	13	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Med. exclusion: left combine early for additional medical exams
PRO DAY	6036	250	9 3/4	33	79 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Well-distributed, athletic body type with functional length
- Sudden burst to quickly reach top speed
- Explosive linearly (attack the corner) and laterally (cross the face) to stress blockers
- Uses forward lean to initiate and drive his legs at contact point
- Put multiple effective moves on tape: ghost rip, inside spin, flash-slap, long-arm bull and plenty of arm-over swims
- Shifty body control allows him to efficiently transition moves
- Got better and better at controlling outside wrist of tackles and throwing them away
- Downhill closing ability allows him to stand up and blitz through different gaps
- Excellent read player on draws and in the run game
- Willingly attacks down to force double teams and free up other defenders
- Former off-ball player; comfortable dropping and covering ground
- Played in all 42 games past three seasons, battling through injuries (see 2024 Notre Dame tape, when he played with a busted left shoulder)
- Highly productive, especially in the backfield (34.6 percent of tackles in 2024 behind the line)

WEAKNESSES:

- Size falls just below what most teams desire on the edge
- Can get twisted up and buried by bigger blockers
- Some spins and chops are predictable and need to be more punctual
- Takes hard-charging pursuit angles, which can open up cutback opportunities for the ball carrier
- Flagged for offside five times in 2024 (though none over the final eight games)

- Charged with misdemeanor assault (March 2024) following an altercation with a tow-truck driver; subsequently accepted into pre-trial intervention program for first-time offenders; served community service and required to complete anger management course
- NFL Combine medical tests flagged stress reaction in right foot, although doctors recommended rest over surgery

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Penn State, Carter lined up as a wide rusher in former defensive coordinator Tom Allen's four-man line, standing up and rushing with his hand on the ground. After initially wanting to stay at off-ball linebacker, he made the transition to an edge role in 2024 and lived up to high expectations, ranking No. 1 in the FBS in tackles for loss (23.5), No. 2 in pressures (66) and No. 7 in sacks (12.5). His production matches his traits, and his impact was best captured in a 2024 Orange Bowl loss to Notre Dame, even though Carter played that game with an injured left shoulder.

With only one season under his belt as a true edge rusher, Carter needs continued polish in his attack. His arrow is pointing sky high, though, because of his get-off burst, body twitch and competitive intensity. Despite having average size for run-game responsibilities, he regains his balance quickly after taking a jolt from blockers and plays with tremendous range to slip blocks and close in a flash. Overall, Carter is a disruptive presence, because of his explosive nature and how he mixes up his rushes to win with speed, force and a budding arsenal of moves. He projects as a 1A pass rusher, with a gift for consistently making the quarterback move his feet and making plays in the run game.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 2 overall)

EDGE2 Jalon Walker

Georgia, 3JR

HOMETOWN Salisbury, NC	HIGH SCHOOL Salisbury	BIRTHDAY Feb 24, 2004	AGE 21.16	HT 6010	WT 243	NUM #11
---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jalon Walker, the oldest of two boys, was born and raised in Conway, S.C., with his parents (Curtis Walker Sr. and LaSheka). His father, an All-American linebacker at Division II Catawba (1989-92), was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 2004. After a short coaching stint at Salisbury High, Curtis was an assistant coach at Catawba (1995-2001) before being hired as defensive coordinator at Coastal Carolina in 2002. The Walker family spent 10 years in Conway, and Jalon grew up around the Chanticleers' program, receiving an early football education by attending daily practices. After one season as an assistant with Western Carolina in 2012, Curtis was hired as head coach at Catawba in 2013, and the family relocated to Salisbury, N.C. — Curtis served as head coach for 10 years (and was named 2015 conference coach of the year) before resigning after the 2022 season. He has worked at the high school level and as an analyst at Livingstone College in Salisbury the past two seasons. LaSheka works as a development officer at Catawba.

Though Jalen Walker grew up around football, he played several other sports throughout childhood, starting with basketball and then soccer and track. He attended a private middle school in Salisbury that didn't offer football, but he got the itch to play in seventh grade and joined a rec league team (Salisbury 49ers). A talented singer, Jalon grew up in the church choir and has performed the national anthem at several games and events. His younger brother (Deuce), who also played at Salisbury, was a freshman cornerback at Georgia State in 2024.

Walker enrolled at Salisbury High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman, playing both offense (tight end) and defense (linebacker/edge). He carved out an immediate role as a freshman linebacker in 2018, then helped the program to a 13-3 record as a sophomore (lost in the 2019 2A state championship game). Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Walker's junior season was pushed to the spring of 2021 — Walker led Salisbury to a 9-2 record, including the 2A state championship (he had 12 tackles and caught a touchdown pass in the title game). He was named 2020 Gatorade Player of the Year in North Carolina (97 tackles, 19 tackles for loss and eight sacks in 11 games). While playing alongside his younger brother as a senior, Walker helped Salisbury to an 11-1 finish and the 2021 conference title. He was named the conference's defensive player of the year for the second straight season and took home all-conference and all-county honors for the fourth straight year. Walker earned an invite to the 2022 Under Armour All-American Game.

He also lettered in basketball at Salisbury and set the school's single-game record for blocks (seven). Walker, who won his first slam dunk contest as a freshman, played for Pro Skills Basketball Elite (now called Team Curry) throughout high school and traveled on the Under Armour circuit. He also ran track and had personal bests of 19 feet, 9 inches in the long jump, 37-7 in the triple jump, 89 feet in the discus and 11.94 seconds in the 100 meters. Walker graduated with a GPA above 4.0.

A five-star recruit, Walker was the fourth-ranked linebacker in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in North Carolina. He was the No. 46 recruit nationally. Walker started to receive recruiting attention as a freshman, including offers from Duke and North Carolina. The recruiting floodgates burst open soon after, and he received dozens more offers, including from Florida State, LSU, Notre Dame, South Carolina, Texas and Texas A&M. During his junior year, Walker announced a top six of Alabama, Auburn, Clemson, Georgia, North Carolina and Ohio State. A few weeks before winning the state championship, he chose the Georgia cap and committed to head coach Kirby Smart. Walker was the fifth-ranked recruit in Smart's 2022 class. After three seasons, he elected to forego his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (15/0)	9	2.0	1.0	0	1	0	Blocked punt; enrolled January 2022
2023: (14/0)	20	5.5	5.0	1	0	0
2024: (14/11)	60	10.5	6.5	0	2	0	First Team All-American; Second Team All-SEC; Butkus Award; led team in sacks, TFL
Total: (43/11)	89	18.0	12.5	1	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6010	243	10 1/4	32	79 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	10 1/4	32 5/8	79	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Long, cut-up physique and fills out uniform well
- Twitched-up and loose-jointed athlete who can turn the corner
- Displays promising feel for rush angles to leverage gaps
- Rushes with forward lean and power in his hips to uproot and drive blockers backward
- Flashes violence in his hands to swipe away reach of blockers
- Easy weight transfer in change of direction
- Skillfully uses his long levers to stack and shed blockers in space
- Efficient working the edge and staying underneath run blocks
- Shows off explosive closing speed as a spy and when chasing backside in the run game
- Experienced box player with coverage snaps over the slot
- Blocked punt in 2022 and played on punt coverage in 2024 (two tackles)
- Chosen to represent Georgia on SEC Leadership Council in 2023
- Son of a coach — Georgia coaches praise his character (Kirby Smart: "You're not going to find a higher quality kid in any organization. ... He is unbelievable in what he stands for and what he represents and how he works.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized for regular edge work by NFL standards
- Will struggle at times against bigger bodies at point of attack
- Works his hands and feet in coordination but rush creativity is still in development phase
- Two offside penalties in 2024, including a costly flag on fourth-and-1 on the 2024 Notre Dame tape
- Gets impatient at times fitting up the run
- Below-average anticipation in coverage — needs to see things quicker on basic tight end or running back routes
- Played in all 43 games past three seasons but missed 2023 spring practices because of labrum surgery

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Georgia, Walker played a hybrid linebacker role (mostly two-point stance) in head coach Kirby Smart's scheme, splitting his snaps between inside linebacker, outside linebacker and edge rusher (Walker: "I'm at my best being a chess piece"). His role and production increased each of the past three seasons, and he led the Bulldogs in almost every pass-rushing metric in 2024, including pressures (34) and pass rush win percentage (17.2), despite ranking seventh on the team in pass-rush snaps.

As a blitzer or wide rusher, Walker can be stonewalled at times, but his arc speed and length can be weaponized as a pass rusher. He is a tremendous space athlete and covers a ton of ground with his fluid change of direction. He plays with the range and physicality to work through the trash and make plays near the line of scrimmage, although offenses know how to occupy his eyes and get him out position in coverage. Overall, Walker doesn't have elite size for edge work, but he is at his best using his long, sleek athleticism to explode downhill and close at the top of his rush to affect the quarterback. There is projection involved with his evaluation, but his pass-rush upside and overall versatility make him one of the best talents in the class.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 5 overall)

EDGE3 Shemar Stewart

Texas A&M, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Miami, FL	Pace	Nov 12, 2003	21.45	6050	267	#4

BACKGROUND: Shemar Stewart, who is of Jamaican descent, was born in the Miami area to his parents (Latoya and Ansell). His grandmother (Margaret Sterling) played a significant hand raising Stewart, who also has a father-son relationship with Moe Marquez, his former defensive line coach in high school. Marquez became Stewart's mentor — both he and his wife refer to Stewart as a son, and their two young children look up to Stewart as an older brother. Despite being a bigger kid, Stewart "never really thought about playing sports" until age 12, when a teacher convinced him to give football a chance. Often being the last kid picked in sixth-grade gym class at Ives Estates Park in Miami motivated Stewart to reach his athletic potential. His attitude toward football and training changed significantly after that time, and he started to get noticed by recruiters near the end of his middle school days. Stewart played on both the offensive and defensive lines for the Hialeah Cougars as an eighth-grader at North Miami Beach Optimist. He also developed into a talented basketball player and competed for the West Park Saints.

Stewart enrolled at Monsignor Edward Pace High, a Catholic school in Miami Gardens. He saw varsity snaps as a 6-foot-4, 215-pound freshman defensive end and blew up immediately on the recruiting trail. As a sophomore, Stewart posted 48 tackles and 15 sacks in 10 games, helping Pace to the 4A state playoffs. He was teammates his junior season with wide receiver Jeremiah Smith (who later transferred to Chaminade-Madonna and then signed with Ohio State), but Stewart played in only two games because of injuries (sprained AC joint and bone bruise in his knee) and the COVID-19 pandemic. As a senior, he earned all-state and all-county honors with 85 tackles, 40 tackles for loss and 14 sacks. Stewart received an invitation to the 2022 Under Armour All-America Game. He also lettered in basketball at Pace, averaging double-digit rebounds per game, and set the school record with a 613-pound deadlift.

A five-star recruit, Stewart was the third-ranked defensive lineman (behind Walter Nolen and Mykel Williams) in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Florida. He was a consensus top-10 recruit nationally. During his freshman year, Stewart's through-the-roof potential reached legendary status, and his recruitment took off. He received his first offer from Pittsburgh and collected more than 15 offers before the start of his sophomore year, including from Florida, Georgia, Oregon, Penn State, Tennessee and his hometown Miami, the program for which he rooted as a child. Several other top programs (LSU, Michigan, Notre Dame) entered the picture during his sophomore year. Going into his senior year, he announced a top five of Clemson, Georgia, Miami, Ohio State and Texas A&M.

After being hired as Miami's head coach in December 2021, Mario Cristobal made Stewart his first call and unleashed a full-court press to keep the local product home. But Stewart's connection with the Texas A&M coaching staff led him to commit elsewhere. (His parents also wanted him to leave the area to avoid any temptations.) Stewart was the third-ranked player in former head coach Jimbo Fisher's famed 2022 class, which included eight five-star recruits — five of them on the defensive line (of the five, only Stewart finished his college career with the Aggies). After three seasons in College Station, Stewart decided to skip his senior year and enter the NFL Draft. He opted out of Texas A&M's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (12/6)	23	3.5	1.5	0	0	0	SEC All-Freshman; enrolled May 2022
2023: (13/1)	11	2.0	1.5	0	2	0	43-yard fumble-return TD
2024: (12/12)	31	5.5	1.5	1	2	0	Third Team All-SEC; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (37/19)	65	11.0	4.5	1	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6050	267	9 5/8	34 1/8	84 3/4	4.59	2.66	1.58	40	10' 11"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No pos. drills, SS, three-cone, bench (right hamstring injury during 40)
PRO DAY	6047	270	9 1/2	34 3/8	84 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Rare athletic balance and fluidity for a 285-pounder
- Explosive off the ball with the flexibility to turn the corner and flatten
- Uses long arms and natural power to stab and separate from initial blocks
- Able to shake free with a cross-chop, club-rip or a variety of different swipes
- Rangy player and doesn't labor in transitions, allowing him to chase down ball carriers
- Smart contain player and sets a hard edge
- Uses wide base and body flexibility to root himself at the point of attack (rarely pushed out of his gap)
- Lateral quickness helps him blow up backside runs
- Surprises pulling blockers and ball carriers with closing burst
- Plays his butt off for all four quarters and competes with competitive edge (nickname is "The Menace")
- Versatile skill set, which allows him to play multiple positions up front (three-/4i-/five-/seven-technique)

WEAKNESSES:

- Major finishing issues (26.9 percent missed tackle rate in college)
- Struggles to break down on the move and stay under control as tackler (too many fly-by misses)
- Move-to-move sequencing as a pass rusher is still in the development phase
- Can get caught upright at times and spends too much time hand fighting, leaving him late to react to the run
- Basement-level sack production (4.5 sacks on 680 career pass rush snaps)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas A&M, Stewart lined up primarily as an edge rusher in head coach Mike Elko's four-man front, also spending time head-up over the tackle and inside over the B-gap. He is the type of prospect who will test the "traits over production" slogan that NFL teams subscribe to, as he never had more than 1.5 sacks in any of his three seasons in College Station. However, his tape shows a far more disruptive player — he led the Aggies in pressures (39) in 2024.

Stewart explodes out of his stance and is capable of creating immediate knockback or winning high-side with upfield burst/flexibility. His counter measures require maintenance, although he finds a lot of success based on his initial swipe or long-arm move. The No. 1 area in which he needs to improve is as a finisher. He has the athleticism to get to the ball but has no business missing as many tackles as he does, especially given his power and movements. Overall, Stewart needs to mature his rush efficiency and finishing skills, but he has a rare combination of talent and motor to be a game-wrecker against both the pass and the run. His best football is ahead of him.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 9 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Williamsburg, VA	Lafayette	Jul 28, 2003	21.74	6031	251	#15

BACKGROUND: Michael "Mike" Green, the youngest of five children, was born in the Newport News area of Virginia, with his mother (Michelle), an in-home nurse. He also has a close relationship with his uncle (Shawn Jones). When he was young, the family relocated to Williamsburg, Va., where Green started playing sports and developed a love for football. His brother (EJ), who is two years older, played football at Lafayette High before attending junior college and later walking on (and eventually earning a scholarship) as a linebacker at Old Dominion (2021-24).

Green enrolled at Lafayette, where he was a three-year varsity letterman. He started out on the JV squad before moving up to varsity as a sophomore, playing both ways as a wide receiver, tight end and linebacker. As a junior, Green collected 70 tackles, 17 tackles for loss and nine sacks in a stand-up linebacker role, while helping Lafayette to a 10-2 finish and the 2019 Class 3 state playoffs. Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, his senior season was postponed until the spring of 2021. A playmaker as both a pass catcher and pass rusher, he helped Lafayette go undefeated with a 9-0 record, including a win in the state championship. Green also joined the wrestling team and won several area and regional tournaments. He finished second at the state championships as a sophomore at 185 pounds and finished third as a junior in the 220-pound division.

A three-star recruit, Green was the 109th-ranked wide receiver in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 15 recruit in Virginia. He received his first Division I offer after his junior season from Boston College (Jan. 2020). Over the next few months, Green added offers from Appalachian State, East Carolina, Kansas State, Kent State, Old Dominion, Pittsburgh, Temple, UMass, Virginia Tech and Western Kentucky, plus his first SEC offers from Kentucky and Ole Miss. (He also received recruiting attention as a wrestler, including an offer from King University.) But he connected with the coaches and culture at Virginia and committed in April 2020.

Green signed as a defensive player and was the seventh-ranked recruit in former head coach Bronco Mendenhall's final class at Virginia. He was suspended entering his second season (Sept. 2022) because of a sexual assault allegation and left the program. (Charlottesville police suspended investigation into the alleged incident; Green denied the allegations at his combine press conference.) Green entered the transfer portal in December 2022 and joined Marshall in the spring of 2023. Following the 2023 season, he turned down several lucrative NIL offers to stay at Marshall. Green opted out of Marshall's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (6/0)	4	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Virginia
2022: (-/-)							Virginia; did not play football; dismissed from school (Sept. 2022)
2023: (12/1)	43	9.0	4.5	1	0	0	Marshall
2024: (13/13)	84	22.5	17.0	3	2	0	Marshall; First Team All-American; SBC Def. POY; First Team All-SBC; led FBS in sacks; missed bowl (opt-out)
Total: (31/14)	131	31.5	21.5	4	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6031	251	8 1/2	32	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	28	Bench press only (choice; tight hamstring)
PRO DAY	6031	248	8 1/4	32 3/8	77 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.25	6.85	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Displays athletic twitch and play violence to live in backfield
- Linear burst to get upfield and explosive lateral steps to create own rush lanes
- Great feel for cross-chop moves and balance at top of rush
- Credits wrestling background for helping him play from low-leveraged positions
- Able to forklift blockers and create force from immediate acceleration
- Bends with body control to dip the corner (can do standing backflips)
- Sets edge with purpose; uses upward hands to out-leverage blockers
- Competes with physicality to work off wham/lead blocks and find ball carrier
- High activity rate helps separate him
- Strong character feedback from coaches at Virginia and Marshall (Charles Huff says he's "the most humble human being" you will ever meet)
- Eye-popping production in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks elite size measurements (average arm length; smaller hands)
- Worked hard to get weight above 250 pounds but doesn't have frame to get much bigger
- Can be engulfed by larger blockers and blotted out in run game
- Understands gap responsibilities but occasionally can be late responding to inside run lanes
- Plays in overdrive at times, overrunning ball carrier (and wearing himself out)

- Not as comfortable working in reverse
- Only one season of starting experience; beat up on mediocre competition in Sun Belt (Played well on 2024 Ohio State tape but had only one pressure)
- NFL teams will put his background under the microscope — suspended at start of second year at Virginia (Aug. 22) following sexual assault allegation (Green was not charged and case was suspended; Green has denied any wrongdoing); sexual assault allegation while in high school (no formal charges filed); shortly before signing day, Virginia requested he sign a zero-tolerance policy

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Marshall, Green was a stand-up edge rusher (field-side) in defensive coordinator Jason Semore's four-man front. After showing flashes on his 2023 tape, he emerged as an All-America defensive lineman in 2024, leading the Herd to a 10-win season and the Sun Belt championship. He finished the season ranked first in the FBS in sacks (17.0), tackles by a defensive lineman (84) and sack yardage (144 — 42 yards more than No. 2 on the list).

A high-activity pass rusher, Green explodes off the ball to win in multiple ways, showing bend, speed and the acceleration force to work through contact. Despite his lack of elite body length, his rush-move arsenal expanded as the 2023 season progressed and he learned how to be effective against frequent chips by running backs and tight ends. He went into the 2024 season focused on developing against the run — that paid off in a major way, as he showed an improved stack and shed and better overall gap awareness. Overall, Green is a twitchy athlete with the burst and body control to win one-on-one as a pass rusher and set a violent edge in the run game. As long as his character checks out, he is one of the top pass-rush prospects in the draft class, with the disruptive ability to be an NFL starter.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 10 overall)

EDGE5 Mykel Williams

Georgia, 3JR

HOMETOWN Columbus, GA	HIGH SCHOOL Hardaway	BIRTHDAY Jun 29, 2004	AGE 20.82	HT 6051	WT 267	NUM #13
--------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Mykel (my-KELL) Williams was born in Warm Springs, Ga. (north of Columbus), and grew up in both Alabama and Georgia. His father (John Johnson) introduced him to sports, including football. Williams started playing organized football at age 8 in the Columbus Youth Football League, and he worked on both the offensive and defensive lines throughout Pop Warner. He also played soccer, but given his size, basketball and wrestling became his secondary sports (dunked a basketball for the first time in eighth grade). Williams later trained with defensive line specialist Chuck Smith, who now serves as the Baltimore Ravens' pass rush coach.

Williams enrolled at Hardaway High School in Columbus, Ga., where he was a four-year varsity letterman. He initially played offensive tackle as a freshman, but he preferred defense and talked to the coaches about switching to the defensive line. Williams missed the first few games of his sophomore season because of a patella strain, but he announced himself as one of the top players in the area over the final nine games — he finished with 57 tackles, 18 tackles for loss, 10 sacks and two forced fumbles. He earned all-state honors as a junior with 69 tackles, 19 tackles for loss, 17 sacks and three forced fumbles. Despite seeing constant double and triple teams, Williams finished his senior season with 81 tackles, 20.5 tackles for loss, 12.5 sacks and three forced fumbles, becoming the first player in school history named a two-time first-team all-state player.

He also played on offense, primarily as a blocking tight end in short yardage, but he did add a 30-yard touchdown catch as a senior. He earned numerous All-America honors in 2021. Williams was also a standout wrestler at Hardaway, initially in the 220-pound division as a sophomore and junior before moving up to the 285-pound division as a senior.

A five-star recruit, Williams was the second-ranked defensive lineman (behind Walter Nolen) in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit of Georgia (behind Travis Hunter). He was the No. 4 recruit nationally (behind Hunter, Nolen and Luther Burden III). The summer before his sophomore season, Williams attended a recruiting camp at Tennessee and picked up his first offer in June 2019. His recruitment skyrocketed after his sophomore season (his first on varsity as a defensive end), and he received numerous SEC offers, including from Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky and South Carolina. After his junior season, Williams announced a top 10 of Alabama, Arizona State, Clemson, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, LSU, Ohio State, Penn State and USC.

He committed to head coach Clay Helton and USC the summer before his senior season. However, his family was caught off guard when USC fired Helton a few months later. Williams decided to reopen his recruitment and flipped to his home state Georgia in October. He was the top-ranked recruit in head coach Kirby Smart's 2022 class. After three seasons in Athens, Williams elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (15/2)	28	6.5	4.5	0	0	0	Freshman All-American; SEC All-Freshman; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/10)	18	6.5	4.5	1	2	0	Second Team All-SEC; led team in sacks; missed one game (illness)
2024: (12/5)	21	8.5	5.0	2	1	0	Second Team All-SEC; led team in FFs; missed two games (left ankle)
Total: (40/17)	67	21.5	14.0	3	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6051	260	10 1/4	34 3/8	82 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice; ankle)
PRO DAY	6051	267	10 1/4	34 3/8	82 5/8	4.77	2.74	1.61	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Looks the part, with an NFL frame and arms the length of an anaconda
- Uses crazy length and raw strength to jar blockers and force through bodies
- Promising bull, swipe and push-pull maneuvers
- Violently tears through tight end blocks
- Loose, flexible athlete with long strides to capture the corner (models game after Myles Garrett)
- Able to slip and circle around guards from inside alignment
- Closes fast on quarterback when he has an open lane
- Functional strength to stay square and anchor down to stop run
- Smart read defender and maintains gap discipline
- Light on feet to drop in flat, bat down passes or track down screen targets
- Flashes secondary motor to chase from the backside
- Defensive coaches cross-trained him at multiple positions in front seven
- Served as a team captain for four games in 2024 — strong character feedback from coaches (Kirby Smart: "He's very versatile for us in terms of on the field, but there is no greater value than what he does in the locker room. ... (He's a) great leader for us.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have consistent rush plan or arsenal of secondary moves
- Too much wasted movements with hands — reverts back to strength
- Gets too upright at snap, which allows blockers to get underneath and halt him
- Low-end tackle production — stats don't match his traits
- Played in deep rotation and averaged just 33.5 defensive snaps per game in 2024 (29.3 in 2023, 27.1 in 2022)
- Missed two games (and parts of several others) because of Grade 2 high left ankle sprain (Sept. 2024); missed 2023 spring practices after aggravating a previous foot injury, which required surgery (April 2023)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Georgia, Williams played Jack edge rusher in head coach Kirby Smart's scheme, aligning all over in the front seven, from three-/five-technique to stand-up outside linebacker. A consensus top-10 recruit out of high school, he made an immediate impact as a freshman (several key plays vs. Ohio State in the playoffs) and consistently flashed over his career. His junior season wasn't the true breakout year many expected on the stat sheet, but he set career bests in sacks and tackles for loss, despite dealing with a left ankle sprain that he reinjured "multiple times" during the season.

Williams has a rare mix of bend and length for a pass rusher and can be a battering ram when he wants to be, but NFL teams want to see him develop finesse and more easily accessible counters in his rush attack. Though there are plenty of examples on tape of Williams maximizing his length and power advantages to push the pocket or set the edge, he needs to do it more consistently for quicker wins and block sheds. Overall, Williams is more toolsy than nuanced and needs to develop a more unified pass-rush plan. The individual traits (length, strength, explosiveness), promising toughness and football character, however, are reasons to bet on his upside. Similar in ways to Jason Pierre-Paul, he projects as an NFL starter on the edge. Overall, Williams is more toolsy than nuanced and needs to develop a more unified pass-rush plan. The individual traits (length, strength, explosiveness), promising toughness and football character, however, are reasons to bet on his upside. Similar in ways to Jason Pierre-Paul, he projects as an NFL starter on the edge.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 21 overall)

EDGE6 Donovan Ezeiruaku

Boston College, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Williamstown, NJ	Williamstown	Sep 25, 2003	21.58	6024	248	#6

BACKGROUND: Donovan Ezeiruaku (Ezz-AH-rah-koo), the third of four boys, was born in Philadelphia to his parents (Sonyx and Cindy). The family later relocated to Williamstown, N.J. (20 miles south of Philadelphia). Ezeiruaku got his start in pee-wee football in Glassboro at age 7. He thought he wanted to play running back and receiver but discovered he had a knack for finding the ball and tackling, which led him to defense. Ezeiruaku also played basketball through middle school and into high school and competed in 7-on-7.

Ezeiruaku attended Williamstown High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman and played both ways as a wide receiver and edge rusher. His role expanded as a sophomore, as he helped the team to an undefeated 12-0 record and the 2018 South Group 5 state championship. As a junior, Ezeiruaku led Williamstown to a 12-1 record and the second of its back-to-back state titles with 53 tackles and 7.5 sacks. His senior season was disrupted by the COVID-19 pandemic, but he finished with 47 tackles and two sacks in nine games, earning all-area honors. Ezeiruaku also played basketball as a freshman at Williamstown and lettered in track. He had personal bests of 17 feet, 5 inches in the long jump, 37-5 in the triple jump, 39-7 in the shot put and 80-11 in the discus.

A three-star recruit, Ezeiruaku was the 132nd-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 23 recruit in New Jersey. He didn't have any recruiting stars following his junior season, but his recruitment started to pick up steam with offers from FCS schools Holy Cross, Stony Brook and Wagner, and Ivy League programs such as Harvard and Princeton. Ezeiruaku received his first FBS offers in May 2020 from Northern Illinois, Old Dominion and nearby Temple, followed by his first then-Power 5 offers from Boston College and Vanderbilt. He was unable to go on visits because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but he took a chance and committed to Boston College and head coach Jeff Hafley. Ezeiruaku was the 22nd-ranked recruit (out of 26) in Hafley's 2021 class. He graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024). Ezeiruaku opted out of Boston College's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (10/0)	21	4.0	3.0	0	0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/11)	61	14.5	8.5	3	2	0	Second Team All-ACC; led team in FFs, sacks and TFL
2023: (13/13)	53	6.5	2.0	2	1	0	Led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (12/12)	80	20.5	16.5	3	1	0	Consensus All-American; Ted Hendricks Award; ACC Defensive Player of the Year; First Team All-ACC; led ACC in sacks, TFL
Total: (47/36)	215	45.5	30.0	8	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6024	248	9 1/4	34	82 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	35 1/2	9' 11"	4.19	6.94	22	No 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Bendy athlete with disproportionately long arms
- Accelerates well around the arc with impressive body dip
- Go-to move is a jab step with a slap/cross-chop to pry open the rush lane
- Uses length to chop down and erase blocking hands
- Explosive laterally to sidestep and maneuver around roadblocks
- Uses quick swim/arm-over moves to blow through tight end blocks
- Long reach helps him maintain space in the run game and stay detached on the move
- Two-year team captain with strong football character
- Durable; started 36 straight games before opting out of the 2024 bowl game
- Led FBS in sacks per game (1.38) and took home the 2024 Ted Hendricks Award as the nation's top defensive end
- Tied Boston College single-season record with 16.5 sacks and joined Mathias Kiwanuka as the only players in school history to reach 30 career sacks

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average height with a very light frame
- Needs to get stronger in both his upper and lower halves to better match up against NFL linemen
- Doesn't have power in his hands to move blockers with a bull rush
- Needs to develop a more effective low-side counter and when transitioning off his long-arm move
- Will have a tough time two-gapping
- Only average speed and struggles to close the gap in pursuit
- Can shake him in the backfield; needs to stay under control breaking down in tight quarters
- Occasionally lined up as a MIKE on third downs — but as a blitz, not dropping or as a coverage player

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Boston College, Ezeiruaku was an outside edge rusher (left and right) in defensive coordinator Tim Lewis' 4-3 base scheme (lined up mostly as a stand-up defender, with 99.7 percent of his snaps coming wide of the tackle as a 7- or 9-tech). After leading the team in sacks and tackles for loss as a sophomore and junior, he became the 13th consensus All-American in school history as a senior and finished top three in the FBS in both sacks (16.5) and tackles for loss (20.5).

As a pass rusher, Ezeiruaku is more "dip-and-rip" than he is a force player, with his natural feel for depth points and the different ways he uses jab steps and cross-chops to soften the corner. He can be overwhelmed at times against the run but flashes the length to get into an opponent's pads, lock out and stalemate at the point of attack, especially on the move. Overall, Ezeiruaku is a tad light for a stack-and-shed edge setter, but rushing the passer is his calling card, and he has the arc acceleration, body flexibility and long, active arms to break down the balance of blockers. He has NFL starter-level talent, and his tape says he is more than a DPR (designated pass rusher).

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 22 overall)

HOMETOWN Charlotte, NC	HIGH SCHOOL Chambers	BIRTHDAY Oct 12, 2003	AGE 21.53	HT 6052	WT 245	NUM #27
---------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: James Pearce Jr. was raised in the Charlotte, N.C., area and started playing football in youth leagues. He grew up a fan of Cam Newton and played mostly offense until switching to the defensive side of the ball in middle school. Pearce attended Zebulon B. Vance High, which was renamed Julius L. Chambers High before his senior year. After the program won the 4AA state title in 2019, Pearce it to a 10-1 record as a junior and another state championship — he had a pair of sacks in the title game win over Rolesville. As a 210-pound senior, Pearce logged snaps at nose tackle, edge rusher, linebacker and safety, and he posted his most productive season (28.5 tackles for loss, 14.5 sacks, three forced fumbles, two interceptions and three defensive touchdowns, including a strip sack in the playoff semifinals). He helped Chambers return to the 4AA state title game in 2021, where it fell short against Cardinal Gibbons. Pearce earned all-conference honors and was selected to the 2021 Carolina Bowl All-Star Game. He also played basketball in high school.

A four-star recruit, Pearce was the 21st-ranked edge rusher in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in North Carolina. A late bloomer on the recruiting trail, he received his first scholarship offer as a junior from Charlotte (March 2021). Pearce added offers in the following weeks from Louisville, Missouri, Oklahoma, Syracuse and UCF. Several more SEC programs entered the mix during Pearce's senior year, including Florida, Georgia, Ole Miss, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Somewhat unceremoniously, Pearce signed with the Volunteers and was the top-ranked recruit in head coach Josh Heupel's 2022 class. He was a pescetarian over his first two seasons at Tennessee. After three years, Pearce skipped his senior season and entered the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (13/0)	5	2.0	2.0	0	0	0	Enrolled June 2022
2023: (13/3)	28	14.5	10.0	2	2	1	First Team All-SEC; Led SEC in sacks; led team in FFs, TFL; 52-yard INT TD
2024: (13/9)	38	13.0	7.5	1	1	0	First Team All-SEC; led team in sacks, TFL
Total: (39/12)	71	29.5	19.5	3	3	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6052	245	10	32 3/4	80 7/8	4.47	2.61	1.56	31	10' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6050	248	9 3/4	33	81	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, athletic build and long arms
- Explosive first step with fast hands and feet to escape blocks
- Gains ground in a hurry to beat tackles to corner
- Chop/rip hands are heavy and help pry open blocker's shoulder
- Rushes to depth of the pocket and works back toward the ball
- Converts speed to power because of immediate acceleration, regardless of the angle
- Shows basic understanding of steps to affect the tackle and create two-way go opportunities
- Downhill speed tests reaction quickness of interior blockers guarding A-gap
- Shows general idea of how to use hands in run game
- Productive — ranks top 10 in school history with 19.5 career sacks

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean, leggy player but has inconsistent bend at top of rush
- Tight through hips, limiting smoothness of redirects
- Fly-by rusher — misses plays in backfield because he's out of control
- Always looking to time up snap, which will backfire at times (flagged for offsides five times in 2024)
- Pad level is inconsistent and gets him in trouble in run game
- Solid play strength but can be neutralized by powerful blockers who cinch him up
- Streaky lock-out and tardy getting off blocks to influence the play
- Arrested on traffic charges (speeding, driving on suspended license, failure to present insurance) after a stop (Dec. 2023); all charges later dismissed
- Interview process will be crucial (NFL scout: "I want to be convinced that he loves this.")

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Tennessee, Pearce played the LEO position in defensive coordinator Tim Banks' scheme, primarily lining up out wide. Despite being in and out of the lineup (35.5 defensive snaps per game in 2023; 35.7 in 2024), he led the Vols in sacks and tackles for loss as both a sophomore and junior. His 107 pressures over the past two seasons ranked No. 1 in the SEC (No. 6 in the FBS).

Although not a technician, Pearce is a fast, linear athlete who can win races to the edge or collapse the pocket with force behind his extended, upward levers (23 percent pass rush win rate in 2024, second best in the FBS). He was steady with his effort against the run in college, but more will be needed of him to hold up against NFL competition. Overall, Pearce is upright and frenetic in his play style, but his blend of explosiveness and power creates consistent disruption as a pass rusher. He shows promise in the run game, too. If he works to maximize his talent, he will be a productive pro.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 36 overall)

EDGE8 JT Tuimoloau

Ohio State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Edgewood, WA	Eastside Catholic	May 10, 2003	21.96	6042	264	#44

BACKGROUND: Jaylahn "JT" Tuimoloau (TWO-ee-mo-lo-ow), who is of Samoan descent, grew up outside of Seattle with his mother (Alofa) and father (Ponce de Leon Faletoi). His mother and aunt (Chenne) played basketball at Moorpark (Calif.) Community College. His younger sister (Zeryhia-Lee Aokuso) just completed her sophomore season playing college basketball at St. Mary's.

A multisport athlete growing up, Tuimoloau's first love was basketball. He played for several high-level programs, including the Seattle Select Warriors, with whom he advanced to the AAU nationals. After trying baseball, Tuimoloau picked up youth football and later starred for FBU Seattle (in the top national youth league) and was coached by 14-year NFL veteran defensive lineman Sam Adams. Tuimoloau led FBU Seattle to back-to-back championship games and earned an invite to the FBU All-American Bowl in eighth grade. He was always a "bigger" kid, so running and exercise (often with his father) became an essential part of his training to stay in shape, although his mother didn't let him lift weights until high school.

Tuimoloau attended Eastside Catholic High and was a four-year varsity letterman at defensive end and tight end. As a sophomore, Tuimoloau helped the program to a 13-1 record and the 2018 3A state championship, accounting for 70 tackles, 17 tackles for loss and seven sacks. In 2019, he again led Eastside Catholic to the 3A state title and caught a touchdown pass in the championship game. Tuimoloau finished his junior season with 18 catches for 235 yards (18.1 average) and four touchdowns, along with 64 tackles and 11 sacks. His senior year was disrupted by the COVID-19 pandemic and the postponement of his 2020 football season, but he was still named the 2020-21 Polynesian High School Football Player of the Year. Tuimoloau also lettered in basketball all four seasons at Eastside Catholic and averaged 11.1 points per game over his career (18 points and eight rebounds per game as a senior). Throughout high school, Tuimoloau trained at Ford Sports Performance with Tracy Ford and several former Seattle Seahawks players, including Cliff Avril and Bobby Wagner.

A five-star recruit, Tuimoloau was the second-ranked defensive lineman (behind Korey Foreman) in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Washington (just ahead of his future Ohio State teammate Emeka Egbuka). He was the fourth-ranked player overall in the class and the 24th-ranked recruit all-time in composite rankings. Tuimoloau received his first scholarship offer from nearby Washington in September 2017, after just the third game of his freshman season. The Huskies also were the first to offer him a basketball scholarship as well (May 2020). Tuimoloau had no shortage of offers, from around the country, before narrowing his final choice to Ohio State, Oregon, USC and Washington. Because of a 15-month recruiting dead period implemented because of the pandemic, he decided to not sign on the December 2020 or February 2021 signing days, in order to take more visits in spring and summer. After his trip to Columbus, Tuimoloau said it "felt like home" — he officially committed to the Buckeyes in July 2021, becoming the highest-ranked defensive recruit in program history.

His Eastside Catholic teammate, tight end Gee Scott Jr., signed with the Buckeyes in the 2020 class. Tuimoloau met with Ohio State basketball head coach Chris Holtmann and considered playing both sports but decided to focus on football year-round. Random fact: He has never seen a horror movie. He declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl after Ohio State's deep playoff run.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/2)	17	4.5	2.5	0	1	0	Enrolled July 2021
2022: (13/10)	28	10.5	3.5	1	6	2	First Team All-Big Ten
2023: (13/13)	38	7.0	5.0	0	2	0	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten
2024: (16/16)	61	21.5	12.5	2	3	0	First Team All-Big Ten; led team in sacks, TFL
Total: (54/41)	144	43.5	23.5	3	12	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	265	10 1/2	33 3/4	82 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6040	264	10 1/2	34 7/8	81 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	35 1/2	9'11"	4.37	DNP	24

STRENGTHS:

- Credits cross-training in basketball for developing his short-area twitch and movements
- Keeps pads/hips low off the snap and skillfully angles his body to leverage his attack
- At his best stabbing with an inside long arm to create movement, then using a physical swipe to clear blockers' outside hands
- His initial take-off and bend help him convert speed to power and jolt blockers into the lap of their quarterbacks
- Strong closing quickness when he has a lane to the quarterback
- Saw the most double teams and chips on a really talented defensive line
- Agile mover in space for quick redirects in the run game
- Skillfully sees through blockers and uses his long arms and timing to punch and detach as a run defender
- Motor runs hot backside — he consistently chases down plays
- His break-down control increased and missed tackles decreased each season
- Shows an instinctive feel for defending quick throws and taking away screens when dropping
- Consistently battles through minor injuries; played in all 55 games over past four seasons, including 35 straight starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Can lose contain responsibilities when blockers get their long arms into his chest
- Talented offensive tackles often find success widening him (see 2024 Oregon tape)
- Struggles to regain pass-rush momentum once his initial move is stymied
- Two-hand swipe move requires better timing to erase the blocker's hands
- Spin move doesn't fool anyone
- Wasn't asked to do much looping/twisting in the Ohio State scheme
- Inexperienced playing over the B-gap (96.3 percent of his defensive snaps came outside the tackle)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Ohio State, Tuimoloau played on the edge in former defensive coordinator Jim Knowles' four-man front, primarily in a two-point crouched stance. The highest-ranked recruit ever to sign in Columbus, he never reached the Bosa brothers or Chase Young level of pass rusher for the Buckeyes, but his flashes evolved into consistent production, and he played the best ball of his career during Ohio State's four College Football Playoff games in 2024 (20 pressures, 10 tackles for loss, 6.5 sacks, one forced fumble).

A flexible, long athlete, Tuimoloau creates lift and extension through contact and uses his football GPS and short-area agility to close on the ball carrier. He frequently saw four hands as a pass rusher (opponents knew he was the main threat on a talented Buckeyes defensive line), but he needs to develop more seamless counter sequencing when left one-on-one on the edge. He has a terrific motor and should continue developing his shed timing to improve his run fits. Overall, Tuimoloau's college tape is more good than exceptional, but he is competitive, skilled and doesn't have major deficiencies that would keep him from being a dependable edge presence in the NFL. He is one of the most well-rounded defensive prospects in the class.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 43 overall)

EDGE9 Landon Jackson

Arkansas, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Texarkana, TX	Pleasant Grove	Jan 02, 2003	22.31	6060	264	#40

BACKGROUND: Landon Jackson, one of four children, was born and raised in Texarkana, Texas (near the Arkansas border), and is close with both his mother (Katie Peek) and father (Larry Jackson). Katie played college volleyball at McNeese State and redshirted her sophomore year while she was pregnant with Landon. Larry, who stands 6-foot-11, played basketball at Texas A&M (1998-2001) before transferring to McNeese State (2001-03), where he met Katie. Larry played professionally in Germany and is now an engineering technician. Landon's younger brother (Lance) is a five-star defensive line recruit in the 2025 class and signed with Texas.

At age 4, Landon was diagnosed with alopecia, an autoimmune disease that causes hair loss. He is open about his struggles being bullied growing up and now serves as an advocate for kids battling the condition. Jackson played every sport he could throughout childhood, including baseball, basketball and soccer. He started playing football at age 7 and usually played up a grade or two because of his size — and because that's what his older brother did. In fifth grade, he moved to Gilmer, Texas, with his mother. He returned to Texarkana and moved in with his father before eighth grade for better football opportunities in the Pleasant Grove school district. He was also active on the AAU circuit in basketball (his "first love") throughout middle and high school.

Jackson enrolled at Pleasant Grove High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman on the defensive line. As a freshman, he was named the district's newcomer of the year with 98 tackles, 11.5 sacks, three forced fumbles and one interception. He helped the program to an undefeated 16-0 record, including the 2017 4A Division II state title (the first championship in school history). Jackson earned first-team all-district honors as a sophomore with 15 tackles for loss and six sacks, despite missing the final seven games of the season because of an ACL injury. As a junior, he led Pleasant Grove to a 15-1 record and the 2019 state championship and was named the 4A Texas Defensive Player of the Year with 17 sacks. His senior season was cut short by a broken ankle. He finished his prep career with 45 sacks. Jackson played as a tight end as well (seven catches for seven touchdowns in 2020). He was also known for his dunking ability on the Pleasant Grove basketball team (started dunking in seventh grade).

A four-star recruit, Jackson was the eighth-ranked edge defender in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 19 recruit in Texas. He was part of a Pleasant Grove graduating class that included several other FBS recruits, including Nick Martin (Oklahoma State) and Marcus Burris Jr. (Texas A&M; transferred to Indiana). Jackson received his first scholarship offer (Texas A&M) in January 2018 after his breakout freshman season. Over the next few years, he collected more than 30 FBS offers and narrowed down his options to Alabama, Arkansas, LSU, Miami, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Texas, Texas A&M and Washington. A few months after LSU won the national championship, Jackson committed to head coach Ed Orgeron in April 2020. He was the 10th-ranked recruit in LSU's 2021 class (two spots ahead of Malik Nabers) and graduated early.

After an injury-riddled freshman season in Baton Rouge (and turnover on the LSU coaching staff), Jackson entered the transfer portal. He rebuffed a lot of calls from other schools, because he knew he wanted to play at Arkansas, a program close to home that he'd strongly considered out of high school (Jackson up a Razorbacks fan). He opted out of Arkansas' 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (5/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	LSU; missed eight games (ankle, ACL); enrolled January 2001
2022: (13/7)	23	3.5	3.0	1	1	0	Arkansas; blocked FG
2023: (12/12)	44	13.5	6.5	0	1	0	Arkansas; First Team All-SEC; led team in sacks, TFL; team captain
2024: (12/12)	49	9.5	6.5	1	3	0	Arkansas; Second Team All-SEC; ted team in sacks, TFL; blocked FG; team captain
Total: (42/31)	116	26.5	16.0	2	5	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6060	264	10	33 1/4	83 5/8	4.68	2.72	1.65	40 1/2	10' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6057	266	9 7/8	33 3/4	83 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.55	7.13	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Imposing size with humongous wingspan because of wide shoulders
- Uses long strides to gain depth and physical swipes to grease the corner
- Most effective move is an outside Euro step with cross-chop action to win the corner (see his reps versus LSU LT Will Campbell)
- Power-packed with the tenacious hands to tear through bodies
- Outstanding backfield vision and activity level to retrace when quarterback climbs
- Above-average run awareness and always looking to rally to the ball
- Drops pads and explodes through the ball carrier as tackler
- Blocked a pair of field goals over past three seasons
- Naturally slim (235 pounds in 2022) and added at least 45 pounds between sophomore and junior years, developing his muscle mass and changing his diet
- Two-year team captain and a positive influence in the building (NFL scout: "I love how he doesn't get obsessed with his own stats. ... (He) just wants to win and impact the game.")

WEAKNESSES:

- High cut and stiff in his lower half
- Body tightness diminishes ability to drop his hips and bend the arc
- Lack of fluidity is highlighted on stunts and loops, giving blockers a chance to regroup
- Speed-to-power conversions will stall, at times, because of upright stature
- Counter moves remain a work in progress
- Taller pad level leads to anchor issues versus drive blocks in run game
- Leggy and late to break down in small areas, leading to missed tackles in backfield
- Tardy read-react on zone-read exchanges
- Had a foolish roughing the passer penalty against Texas A&M in 2024
- Suffered two season-ending injuries in high school — an ACL injury in 2018 and broken ankle in 2020; retore the ACL after arriving at LSU, which limited him during the 2021 season and required surgery (sat out 2022 spring practices at Arkansas)
- Suffered a neck injury in final college game (November 2024) and was carted off the field and taken to a nearby hospital for precautionary reasons

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Arkansas, Jackson was the "Buck" end in defensive coordinator Travis Williams' four-man front (94.6 percent of his snaps in 2024 came over or outside of the offensive tackle). After starting his college career at LSU, he became the first Razorback since Steven Conley in 1994-95 to lead the defense in tackles for loss and sacks in back-to-back seasons.

With his athletic, broad-shouldered physique, Jackson has NFL size and attacks blocks with physical hands and active feet to shock and separate from contact. His tall pads and lower-body stiffness will create occasional issues setting the edge and diminish his ability to counter when his first move is ineffective, but he maintains his vision to the football to clean up plays and constantly be around the action. Overall, Jackson has a different type of pass-rushing skill set because he isn't a super-fluid athlete, but his raw power, strength in his hands and consistent effort make him effective. He should be expected to compete for starter-level snaps as a rookie.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 47 overall)

EDGE10 Jordan Burch

Oregon, 5SR

HOMETOWN Columbia, SC	HIGH SCHOOL Hammond	BIRTHDAY Oct 10, 2001	AGE 23.54	HT 6041	WT 279	NUM #1
--------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Jordan Burch (formerly Askew-Burch) grew up in Florence, S.C. (80 miles east of Columbia), with his mother (Henri). He was an athlete from a young age and naturally gravitated toward basketball and football in rec leagues. A fast, bruising running back in youth football, Burch led the Florence All-Stars to back-to-back Division II CFJFL state championships in 2011 and 2012. He continued playing both sports at Southside Middle School and added varsity basketball as an eighth-grader at South Florence.

He originally attended Wilson High in Florence (where he was teammates with five-star recruit Xavier Thomas, who would go on to sign with Clemson) and started on varsity as a freshman. Playing both ways at defensive end and tight end, Burch earned Freshman All-America honors with 50 tackles, even though Wilson managed just three wins. To gain more recruiting exposure, he moved to Columbia before his sophomore year and transferred to Hammond School. Playing both ways, Burch helped Hammond to three straight 3A state championships and a combined 38-2 record during those seasons. As a junior, he posted 62 tackles and 10 sacks to earn all-state honors, adding 680 rushing yards and 21 touchdowns. Burch earned several All-America honors as a senior, with 18 tackles for loss and nine sacks, adding 14 touchdowns as a running back (including two in the 2019 championship game). He was named a captain at the 2020 Under Armour All-America Game. Burch was a standout basketball player all four years of high school — he was the starting point guard as a freshman at Wilson, then started for three seasons at Hammond. Burch averaged 15.3 points, 9.4 rebounds and three assists per game as a senior, leading Hammond to the 2019-20 playoffs.

A five-star recruit, Burch was the second-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in South Carolina. He was the eighth-ranked recruit nationally and the third-ranked defensive lineman in the class behind Bryan Bresee and Myles Murphy, who both signed with Clemson and went on to be first-round picks in the 2023 NFL Draft. Burch put his name on the recruiting radar as a high school freshman and held offers from Clemson, Georgia, Oregon (his first offer), South Carolina and several others before the start of his sophomore season. He was named the top player at the Elite Under Armour Camp in 2019 and earned his fifth star from recruiting services. Burch narrowed his search to Alabama, Clemson, Georgia, LSU and South Carolina and picked the Gamecocks at a ceremony in December 2019. He took a last-minute visit to LSU a month later, creating controversy about where he would actually sign. But his connections to South Carolina kept him at home — Hammond was six miles from the South Carolina campus, his high school head coach (Erik Kimrey) was a former Gamecocks quarterback and he was high school teammates with Jackson Muschamp, son of former South Carolina head coach Will Muschamp.

Burch was the top-ranked recruit in the Gamecocks' 2020 class and the second-highest-ranked recruit in school history (behind only Jadeveon Clowney). He originally asked colleges to recruit him as a dual-sport athlete, with plans of also playing basketball, but decided to only focus on football. After three seasons in Columbia, Burch entered the transfer portal in January 2023 and committed to Oregon, citing his relationship with head coach Dan Lanning, who had recruited him while at Georgia. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Eugene for his fifth season. Burch accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but pulled out because of injury.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (8/0)	19	2.5	0.0	0	0	0	South Carolina; enrolled June 2020; missed two games (hand); pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/1)	26	2.5	1.0	0	2	1	South Carolina; 61-yard INT TD; first career start came in bowl game
2022: (13/13)	60	7.5	3.5	0	3	0	South Carolina
2023: (14/13)	34	7.5	3.0	0	1	0	Oregon; Honorable Mention All-Pac-12; led team in TFL
2024: (10/9)	31	11.0	8.5	1	5	0	Oregon; Third Team All-Big Ten
Total: (58/36)	170	31.0	16.0	1	11	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6041	279	9 1/2	33	79 3/8	4.67	2.75	1.65	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6041	282	9 7/8	33 3/4	79 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	22

STRENGTHS:

- Dense, good-looking athlete who carries weight well on his NFL-ready body
- Loose-jointed for 279 pounds, with terrific short-area movements
- Put athleticism on display on 36-yard run to convert direct-snap fake punt (2024 Maryland tape)
- Preferred pass-rush tactic is power to disrupt balance or put blockers in reverse
- Also uses violent club-rip and cross-chop when attacking the corner (naturally left-handed)
- Has functional length and upper-body strength as edge setter to bench press bodies off him
- Able to flip hips, chase and contain wide run attempts

- Physical throw-down tackler — long arms help him finish (two seasons at Oregon: 65 tackles, two missed tackles)
- Finds passing lanes at line of scrimmage (11 career passes defended)
- Production improved each season

WEAKNESSES:

- Average burst off the ball
- Inconsistent rush plan and struggles to efficiently work off initial move
- Doesn't play with enough dip in hips/pads to easily turn the corner
- Inconsistent snap timing, which leaves him too easily reached/sealed in the run game
- Can push blockers where he wants but needs to be more explosive with hands for quick sheds
- Average pursuit motor on plays away from him
- Will be 24 as a rookie
- Battled injuries in final season: missed three games after suffering meniscus injury, which required surgery (Oct. 2024); missed another game after rolling ankle (Nov. 2024); missed most of final two games with left knee injury (Dec. 2023); missed two games as freshman because of injury to right hand (Nov. 2020)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Oregon, Burch was the fieldside defensive end in defensive coordinator Tosh Lupoi's multiple fronts, lining up mostly wide outside the tackle (seven- or nine-technique) and sliding inside (three- or five-technique) on some subpackages. A former top-10 overall recruit in the 2020 class (ahead of other five stars, such as Bijan Robinson, Will Anderson and Jalen Carter), he spent three seasons with his home state Gamecocks before transferring to Oregon for his final two years.

Burch is somewhat of a one-trick pony as a pass rusher who creates pocket push with power, although he has the athletic traits to be more if he improves his setup and secondary moves. He needs to be more explosive with his hands to shed blocks in the run game, but he showed much improved awareness and finishing skills on his 2024 tape. Overall, Burch is a smooth edge rusher in a defensive tackle's frame. He probably will never be a star in the league, but he has high-floor talent with his NFL size, power and movements. He projects as a scheme-versatile base end, and it wouldn't be a surprise if he has a similar NFL trajectory to that of John Franklin-Myers.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 52 overall)

EDGE11 Jack Sawyer

Ohio State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pickerington, OH	North	May 06, 2002	22.97	6042	260	#33

BACKGROUND: Jack Sawyer, who has an older sister (Kyla), was born and raised outside of Columbus, Ohio, with his parents (Lyle and Michelle). Lyle was an all-state wrestler in high school and spurned a walk-on offer from Ohio State to be a starting linebacker at Division II Findlay (until an Achilles injury ended his playing days). Michelle was a McDonald's All-American basketball player at Pickerington High before becoming an All-America forward at Bowling Green (1991-95). She was the MAC tournament MVP in 1994 and averaged 16.8 points per game as a senior, then later played overseas in Europe. Jack's grandfather (Michelle's father) played in the Pittsburgh Pirates' minor-league system. Sawyer played multiple sports throughout childhood, including soccer, baseball and basketball. He started playing football in second grade but competed against fifth-graders (his father was one of his coaches). He came up through the PYAA (Pickerington Youth Athletic Association) and played on both sides of the ball, usually as a running back and middle linebacker. Starting in third grade, Sawyer played AAU basketball for the Pumas.

Sawyer enrolled at Pickerington North High, where he became one of the most decorated multisport athletes in the state. As a 190-pound freshman, he started on varsity and made an immediate impact as a defensive end, posting 55 tackles, 3.5 sacks and an interception (also saw time at tight end). As a sophomore in 2018, Sawyer accounted for 62 tackles, 15 tackles for loss, six sacks and one forced fumble, adding seven catches for 103 yards and one touchdown. As a junior, he was named 2019 Division I Defensive Player of the Year (37 tackles, 19 tackles for loss and 13.5 sacks), but he also saw an expanded role on offense. After his team's starting quarterback was injured in the second game of that 2019 season, Sawyer filled in at QB and he led North to six wins and a playoff appearance. He completed 58.5 percent of his passes (79-for-135) for 1,056 yards, nine touchdowns and three interceptions, adding 386 rushing yards and six rushing touchdowns. With the uncertainty of the 2020 season because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Sawyer opted not to play as a senior and instead trained for college. He started on the varsity basketball team his first two seasons at Pickerington North. As a sophomore, Sawyer helped lead the team to a 23-5 record (most wins in school history) while averaging 22 points, 11 rebounds and 2.8 assists per game. He shot 58 percent from the field and 41 percent from behind the arc. He didn't play basketball as a junior (torn left MCL suffered during football season) or senior (graduated early).

A five-star recruit, Sawyer was the third-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Ohio. He was the fifth-ranked recruit nationally behind Quinn Ewers, Korey Foreman, JC Latham and future Buckeyes teammate JT Tuimoloau. Sawyer was also considered a high-profile basketball recruit and started to receive Division I offers as a freshman, but teams backed off when he made it known that football was his future. After his freshman year of high school, Sawyer took several recruiting visits and picked up offers from Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan and Michigan State. His childhood bedroom was painted in Buckeyes colors, though, and he dreamed of playing at Ohio State. He visited Columbus in April 2018 but did not expect an immediate offer, because Ohio State rarely offered in-state freshmen. But Urban Meyer made an exception for Sawyer and offered him on the spot.

Meyer announced his retirement after the 2018 season, but that didn't deter Sawyer, who had developed a relationship with Ryan Day and officially committed in February 2019 — the first commit in Day's first class. He was one of six five-star recruits in Ohio State's 2021 class (Ewers, Tuimoloau, Donovan Jackson, Emeka Egbuka, TreVeyon Henderson) and enrolled early in January 2021. Sawyer earned Academic All-Big Ten honors in 2023 and graduated with a degree in sports industry (Dec. 2024). Sawyer declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl because of Ohio State's deep playoff run.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/0)	13	3.0	3.0	1	1	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/3)	24	6.5	4.5	0	1	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in sacks
2023: (13/13)	48	10.0	6.5	2	2	0	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (16/16)	59	9.0	9.0	3	7	1	Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in FFs; 11-yard FR; 83-yard FR TD; Cotton Bowl Defensive MVP; team captain
Total: (54/32)	144	28.5	23.0	6	11	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	260	9 3/4	31 3/4	77 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6041	260	9 1/4	32 1/8	76 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	21

STRENGTHS:

- Hulking frame and fills out his jersey well
- Physical hands are his weapon of choice to swat, batter and create movement
- Uses two-hand swipe/chop to threaten the edge of blockers
- Not a bursty athlete but rolls into his pass rush with a head of steam
- Some of his best pass-rush reps come when dipping his shoulder to knife inside the offensive tackle
- Ragdolls tight ends when they attempt to square off
- Stays behind his pads and strikes through ball carrier for explosive tackles
- Showed great timing at the line to elevate into passing lanes (five batted passes combined on the 2024 Tennessee and Oregon tapes)
- Always in chase mode and consistently makes plays far from where he started (see his forced fumble on 2024 Northwestern tape)
- Batted down six passes at the line in 2024 (all coming in a three-game span)
- Described as "cold-blooded" with "steely-eyed focus" by former Ohio State defensive coordinator Jim Knowles
- Welcomes high expectations; NFL scouts say he changed his diet and was in the best shape of his career in 2024
- Positive presence in locker room and voted a 2024 team captain (NFL scout: "He's the clear leader in that D-line room.")
- Didn't miss a game in his four seasons in Columbus, including 29 straight starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Not a bendy or loose pass rusher
- Doesn't have burst off the ball or edge speed to cleanly beat tackles around the corner
- Lacks deception in his pass-rush setup
- Doesn't have a deep bag of pass-rush counters to disengage once locked up
- Will be out-levered by long-armed blockers in the NFL
- Stiff in his ankles; struggles to break down and finish on the move, leaving tackle production in the backfield
- Had a set role and was rarely used across the defensive line (97.7 percent of career snaps came outside the tackle)
- Didn't miss any time in college, but suffered a torn left MCL during the last game of his junior year of high school, which required surgery (Nov. 2019)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ohio State, Sawyer was an edge defender in former defensive coordinator Jim Knowles' four-man front. An Ohio kid who grew up to be a Buckeyes captain, his number of pressures created increased from 22 to 37 to 64 over the past three seasons, respectively, and he will forever be remembered in the program for his 83-yard scoop-and-score strip-sack against Texas in the 2024 College Football Playoff.

Sawyer is strong at the point of attack, with the instincts and effort to consistently factor into the play. Though his hands are powerful, they aren't overly skilled, and his body stiffness leaves him a step slow to shed or unlock counter measures once locked up. Overall, Sawyer often plays one-dimensional as a pass rusher and lacks ideal suddenness or length for an edge player, but his activity level and the strength in his hands make him an every-down factor. Similar in ways to George Karlaftis, he has the competitive play personality that NFL coaches will welcome as part of their rotation.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 58 overall)

HOMETOWN Bryan, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Bryan	BIRTHDAY Aug 25, 2004	AGE 20.66	HT 6026	WT 257	NUM #5
-----------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Nictiedric "Nic" Scourton (scor-ton, formerly Nic Caraway), one of three children, grew up in Timpson in East Texas, with his mother (Ashley Caraway). He started playing organized football for the first time in seventh grade. As his mother worked long hours, Scourton later found himself in danger of flunking out of school. At the start of his sophomore year, his best friend (Andrew Bubar) convinced his parents to allow Scourton to live with them temporarily, but that short stay turned into much more. Nic's mother eventually signed over his guardianship to Andrew's father (Lane, the principal at Bryan High) and mother (Cindy), and Nic stayed with the Bubar family for the remainder of high school. In college, he officially changed his last name from Caraway to Scourton to reflect the "best friend" relationship with his biological father (Nicky Scourton).

Scourton attended Bryan High, where he was a three-year letterman and saw time on both sides of the ball. As a sophomore on varsity, he was a defensive lineman at 260 pounds and started to put his name on the map. He also saw snaps at running back and tight end. As a junior, Scourton dropped his weight to 240 pounds and played more of a hybrid linebacker role, posting 39 tackles and helping lead Bryan to a 6-3 record and a spot in the 2020 6A state playoffs. He experienced his best season as a senior pass rusher (back at 260 pounds) and earned first-team all-district honors for the second straight year. Scourton finished his final season with 97 tackles, 16 tackles for loss and four forced fumbles and earned an invitation to the 2022 All-American Bowl. He also lettered in basketball at Bryan before deciding to focus on football.

A four-star recruit, Scourton was the 27th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 33 recruit in Texas. Recruiters started showing interest in him during his sophomore season, although he needed time to get his grades on the right track after moving in with the Bubar family. After his junior season, Scourton received his first offer from UTSA (Jan. 2021). Several other programs followed with offers, including Colorado State, Memphis and SMU. He also heard from several of the larger programs in the state, but the offers didn't follow. Meanwhile, Mark Hagen recruited Scourton while he was the defensive line coach at Texas and continued to recruit him after being named co-defensive coordinator at Purdue in 2021. Scourton committed to the Boilermakers, who ended up being his only then-Power 5 scholarship offer. Scourton was the top-ranked player in former head coach Jeff Brohm's 2022 class.

After two seasons in West Lafayette, he entered the transfer portal to examine his options. He scheduled visits with Florida State, Missouri and Oklahoma, but after his visit to Texas A&M (and an apology from Mike Elko for not offering him out of high school), Scourton was ready to return home (he has the "979" area code tattooed on his arm).

A big Texas A&M fan, his father (a real estate agent) served as his NIL agent. Andrew Bubar, whom Nic Scourton calls his "brother," also enrolled at Purdue for two years, then followed Scourton to College Station in 2024. After one season with the Aggies, Scourton elected to skip his senior year and enter the NFL Draft. He opted out of Texas A&M's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but was a late scratch.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (14/0)	22	2	2	1	0	0	Purdue; enrolled July 2022
2023: (11/11)	50	15	10	1	3	0	Purdue; Second Team All-Big Ten; led Big Ten in sacks; missed one game (injury)
2024: (12/12)	37	14	5	1	2	0	Texas A&M; Second Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in sacks, TFL; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (37/23)	109	31	17	3	5	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6026	257	10	33	80 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6025	255	9 7/8	33 1/4	80 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Thickly-built, especially in his legs and bubble
- Played at 285 pounds in 2024, but he plans to stay at 265 pounds in the NFL
- Physical, attacking hands and tries to run through blockers
- Often hooked/pulled, and his activity attracts holding calls
- Adequate snap anticipation to get rolling downhill
- Rush arsenal is a work in progress, but he'll break out a cross-chop and double-hand swipe at the top of his rush
- Moves with fluidity in his lower body and loves to unleash a spin move (with mixed results)
- Determined in the run game and makes offenses pay for trying to block him front-side with a tight end
- Sniffs out screens and shows good read and react when dropping and covering areas
- Average speed, but his pursuit effort is outstanding, especially from the backside
- Earned captain status as sophomore at Purdue and quickly engrained himself in the Texas A&M culture
- Led both a Big Ten team and an SEC team in sacks over past two seasons
- One of the youngest players in the draft class

WEAKNESSES:

- Has some bad weight on his frame and lacks ideal length
- Body quickness at the top of his rush won't wow anyone
- Can be caught too far upfield, creating an escape lane for quarterbacks
- Poor efficiency setting up or transitioning move to move
- Would benefit from mixing in some finesse to rush attack
- Gives blockers a large target in both run and pass game
- Slow getting off edge blocks, which leaves him late to flow and contain
- Can be overmatched by athletic ball carriers in space, leading to out-of-control tackle attempts

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas A&M, Scourton lined up primarily as an edge rusher (five- or seven-technique) in head coach Mike Elko's four-man front. After his breakout sophomore season at Purdue (Big Ten-best 10 sacks), he was productive for a loaded Aggies defensive line in 2024, leading the team in sacks and tackles for loss.

A thickly built, high-motor rusher, Scourton is quick to shoot his hands, create force and walk blockers into the pocket, but the next step in his development will be diversifying his attack by setting up counters and stacking moves. His hustle also stands out in the run game and directly leads to production (29 tackles for loss over his last 23 games). Overall, Scourton is a banshee off the edge, with the quickness and power to work half-a-man and wear down blockers. His game plan is overly reliant on effort and relatively basic, though, because of his average athletic tools. His aggressive worker-bee play style should translate to starting snaps in the NFL.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 59 overall)

EDGE13 Oluwafemi Oladejo

UCLA, 4SR

HOMETOWN Elk Grove, CA	HIGH SCHOOL Cosumnes Oaks	BIRTHDAY Sep 20, 2003	AGE 21.59	HT 6032	WT 261	NUM #2
---------------------------	------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Oluwafemi (o-loo-WAH-feh-me) "Femi" Oladejo (ole-uh-DAY-jo), one of four children, was born in the Sacramento, Calif., area. His parents were born and raised in Nigeria and immigrated to the United States shortly before Femi was born (his two older siblings were both born in Nigeria). After his parents separated, he spent time in the Houston area with his father before returning to the Sacramento area and settling in Elk Grove with his mother (Victoria Gbodi). Oladejo started playing football at age 9 and "instantly" fell in love with the sport. He played defensive end, nose tackle and linebacker throughout Pop Warner. He was also an avid basketball player growing up, including for the Predators in an AAU league (coached by his uncle). Oladejo's first name means "God loves me" in Yoruba language.

Oladejo attended Cosumnes Oaks High (south of Sacramento), where he was a three-year letterman. After starting out on the freshman and JV teams, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore and played both ways as a linebacker, defensive end and tight end. Oladejo accounted for 40 tackles and four tackles for loss as a sophomore, adding five catches for 74 yards. As a junior, he led Cosumnes Oaks to an 8-4 finish and the semifinals of the 2019 state playoffs. Oladejo posted 84 tackles, 14 tackles for loss, five sacks and four forced fumbles, along with nine catches for 177 yards (19.7 average) and three touchdowns. He was poised for a big senior year, but the 2020 season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

A three-star recruit, Oladejo was the 84th-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 68 recruit in California. His productive junior season put him on the radar of several West Coast schools, including San Jose, which gave him his first offer in December 2019. Oladejo added offers the following spring from Colorado State, Fresno State, Nevada, San Diego State, Utah State and Wyoming. He added his first then-Power 5 offer from Kansas (April 2020) followed by offers from Arizona, Cal and Colorado. Before the pandemic shut down recruiting visits, Oladejo had visited Cal, which ultimately helped him feel comfortable committing to the Bears in July 2019. He was the 10th-ranked recruit in head coach Justin Wilcox's 2021 class.

After two seasons, Oladejo entered the transfer portal and signed with UCLA. He graduated with a degree from UCLA, with a 3.3 GPA (June 2024). Oladejo accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was named the defensive MVP of the game.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (9/1)	36	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	California; enrolled July 2021
2022: (12/10)	91	4.5	1.0	1	2	1	California
2023: (13/4)	54	2.5	0.5	0	4	1	UCLA; enrolled January 2023
2024: (12/12)	57	13.5	4.5	0	2	0	UCLA; led team in sacks, TFL
Total: (46/27)	238	20.5	6.0	1	8	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6032	259	9 3/4	33 3/8	82 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	36 1/2	10' 0"	DNP	DNP	20	No 40, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6030	261	9 7/8	33 7/8	81 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9'10"	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Straight out of central casting with his physique and body type
- Plays with power in his hands to separate from blocks
- Uses length and forward lean to attack the chest and put blockers on their heels
- Flashes developing spin and cross-chop moves that got sharper with each game
- Former off-ball linebacker; plays with range-reaction quickness to slip blocks in the run game
- Plays smart and physical as a contain player and doesn't get pushed around
- Slams into pullers and creates congestion on the edges in the run game
- Mug blitzer — comfortable rushing from different angles
- Teammates rave about his effort and energy, and both show on tape

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have deep bag of rush/counter moves
- Can dip the corner but doesn't consistently flatten and will be pushed past the pocket
- Needs to develop more of a pass-rush plan to keep blockers guessing
- Too easily kneecapped and needs to better protect himself against cut blocks
- Needs to calm momentum as a break-down player to avoid missed tackles
- Peel/drop player in coverage but late to react to running back routes
- Too many undisciplined moments on tape, including a roughing penalty vs. Washington and a taunting penalty on fourth down vs. Nebraska, which gave the Cornhuskers a fresh set of downs and led to a touchdown

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at UCLA, Oladejo moved to a stand-up edge rusher role in defensive coordinator Ikaika Malloe's hybrid front seven, mostly in a two-point stance. After playing Mike linebacker for two seasons at Cal and his first year at UCLA (at 255 pounds), he transitioned to his new position three games into the 2024 season (initially, just for one game, but it turned into a permanent move). Losing the green dot allowed him to "do less thinking and more attacking," and he led the Bruins in tackles for loss (13.5) and sacks (4.5) in 2024.

As a run defender, Oladejo is both physical and rangy, with the violence in his hands to shed and the closing speed to chase down the football from the backside. His pass rush is more basic than advanced right now, but he isn't shy about using speed to power and creating leverage with upward strikes. Overall, Oladejo offers pass-rush upside as he continues to evolve his attack plan and arsenal of moves, but he has the disruptive qualities — his power and effort — to see immediate NFL snaps. He has three-down potential, although convincing NFL teams that he is coachable enough to reach his ceiling will be key for him throughout the draft process.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 64 overall)

EDGE14 Princely Umanmielen

Ole Miss, 5SR

HOMETOWN Austin, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Manor	BIRTHDAY Apr 18, 2002	AGE 23.02	HT 6043	WT 244	NUM #1
------------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Princely Umanmielen (OO-man-me-ellen), the second of four boys, was born in Lagos, Nigeria, before his parents (Austin and Martina) moved the family to the United States. They initially settled in New York, then relocated to the Austin, Texas, area when Princely was in elementary school. His parents own and operate Lady T Kitchen African Restaurant in Pflugerville, Texas. Umanmielen, who grew up 15 miles from Texas' campus, started playing football at age 9. His older brother (Prince) was a defensive end at FCS Tarleton State (2018-22) before transferring to Division II East Central for his last two seasons (2023-24). His younger brother (Princewill) signed with Matt Rhule as one of the top recruits in Nebraska's 2023 class but entered the transfer portal after the 2024 season and enrolled at Ole Miss, following a similar path to his brother's.

Umanmielen enrolled at Manor High, where he was a varsity letterman all four years as a defensive end and linebacker. After becoming a starter as a sophomore, he earned first-team all-district honors as a junior (45 tackles, 21 tackles for loss and 5.5 sacks). Umanmielen put together his best season as a senior with 90 tackles, 27 tackles for loss and 10 sacks, again earning first-team all-district honors. He helped Manor to the 2019 league championship and the quarterfinals of the 5A state playoffs (lost to the eventual state champions). Umanmielen also lettered in track and nearly broke Manor's all-time record in the shot put (49 feet).

A four-star recruit, Umanmielen was the ninth-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 38 recruit Texas. His recruitment started to take off after his sophomore year (first offer was from UTEP), including major offers from Arkansas, Oklahoma and TCU before his junior season even started. Despite rooting for LSU, Miami and Oregon throughout childhood, he initially committed to nearby Texas just before his senior year (Aug. 2019). However, Umanmielen changed his mind after two months and reopened his recruitment. Texas stayed in the picture, and Baylor was thought to be the front-runner until Rhule left for the NFL (Umanmielen: "Rhule is the realest coach I've ever met."). Florida was late to the party, but Umanmielen wanted to play in the SEC to have the most possible exposure to NFL teams and signed with the Gators. He was the 15th-ranked recruit in Florida's 2020 class.

After four seasons in Gainesville, he took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and entered the transfer portal. Umanmielen stayed in the SEC and transferred to Ole Miss for his final season, saying he was "actually developed" by the Rebels' coaching staff. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/0)	4	2.0	2.0	0	0	0	Florida; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (13/1)	17	1.5	1.5	1	0	0	Florida; first career start came in bowl game
2022: (13/11)	39	9.5	4.5	2	0	0	Florida; led team in sacks, TFL
2023: (12/12)	39	11.5	7.0	0	0	0	Florida; Second Team All-SEC; led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (12/6)	37	13.5	10.5	1	0	0	Ole Miss; Second Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in sacks; fumble-return TD; missed two games (ankle)
Total: (56/30)	136	38.0	25.5	4	0	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6043	244	9 5/8	33 7/8	82 1/8	4.72	2.73	1.61	38	10' 6"	4.46	7.33	DNP	No bench (labrum injury)
PRO DAY	6043	241	9 5/8	34 3/8	82 3/8	4.73	2.75	1.65	DNP	DNP	4.48	7.15	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Checks boxes for height, weight and arm length
- Flies out of his stance and can win off the ball with burst and jab steps
- Looks to threaten high-side with speed and well-timed shoulder dips
- Polished up spin move in 2024, giving him backdoor access to the pocket
- Active on stunts and games, which creates openings to show off his closing speed
- Offside penalties dropped from two in 2023 to zero in 2024
- Flashes juice in pursuit to chase down backside runs — his motor was noticeably better in 2024 than 2023
- Additional mass helped him stand his ground as an edge setter
- Used extensively in coverage at Florida; had spot-drops in underneath zone at Ole Miss
- Led team in sacks each of past three seasons (10.5 sacks in 2024 are second most in a season in Rebels history)

WEAKNESSES:

- Plays with middling power and physicality
- Needs to be more proactive with his hands, both as a pass rusher and run defender
- Struggles converting speed to a forceful bull rush
- Needs to continue improving timing when accessing rush counters
- Stack-and-shed skills are delayed and lack suddenness
- Late reading pass-run and mesh points
- Missed two games with a high left ankle sprain (Sept. 2024) and underwent shoulder surgery during the 2024 offseason
- Lost his cool after November 2024 loss to Florida (his former team) and had to be restrained from an off-field altercation with Gators fans (NFL scout: "I hope he convinces us during the process that his emotional maturity and buy-in are things we don't need to worry about.")

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Ole Miss, Umanmielen was a stand-up boundary edge rusher (mostly on passing downs) in defensive coordinator Pete Golding's 4-2-5 base scheme (Umanmielen's fourth different defensive coordinator in five years). After starting two seasons as a 4i defensive end and edge rusher at Florida, he was a hot commodity in the transfer portal and played his best football with the Rebels during the 2024 season, setting a career best with 10.5 sacks (only Kyle Kennard had more sacks in the SEC).

Umanmielen has only average force behind his hands as a pass rusher, but he is at his best from distance, where he can bend and use his movement skills to turn the corner on his way to the quarterback (his number of pressures created increased each season). He has gotten bigger/stronger and is better equipped to hold up against the run, but he still needs to play with more violence and refinement with his shed hands. Overall, Umanmielen won't easily dismantle NFL tackles or tight ends at the point of attack, but his edge speed, body control and flexibility make him a dangerous two-way pass rusher. All the tools are there for him to become a productive designated pass rusher in the NFL.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 71 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Boca Raton, FL	Boca Raton	Oct 30, 2002	22.48	6027	264	#9

BACKGROUND: Ashton Gillotte (jill-LOT-ee), who has an older brother (Devin) and older sister (Alexandria), was born in southern Ohio. At age 3, his family relocated to South Florida. He and his mother (Veronica) then moved to Boca Raton when he was in sixth grade. Gillotte watched his brother, who is almost eight years older, play football and naturally gravitated toward the sport when he was young (played for the pee wee Colts). Devin continued playing in high school and signed with FCS Stetson University (2014-15) as a linebacker before finishing his college career at UTEP (2016-17). Devin is now a professional MMA fighter and trainer in the Ohio Combat League.

Gillotte attended Boca Raton High, where he was a three-sport standout and played both ways in football. After seeing starting reps on varsity as a freshman tight end and linebacker in 2017, he played defensive end as a sophomore and accounted for 29 tackles, 14 tackles for loss, five sacks and four forced fumbles. Gillotte helped Boca Raton to eight wins and a playoff appearance as a junior captain. He earned all-county honors in 2019 and led the district with 16 sacks. He also finished with 87 tackles, 22 tackles for loss, three forced fumbles and a blocked field goal, adding four touchdown catches. As a senior, Gillotte had another standout season, plus filled in at running back for the first time in his prep career — he rushed for three touchdowns in the 2020 8A Silver Bracket championship game of the tri-county playoffs. He lettered in weightlifting and earned first-team all-county honors in 2019 after winning the regional title and qualifying for the 2A state meet with a total lift of 545 pounds (255-pound bench press, 290-pound clean and jerk). An avid CrossFit athlete, Gillotte also lettered in track and set a personal best of 41 ft., 1 in. in the shot put.

A three-star recruit, Gillotte was the 73rd-ranked edge defender in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 164 recruit in Florida. He received his first scholarship offer after his standout junior season from Maryland (Jan. 2020). Several FBS programs followed with offers, including Kansas, Syracuse, Tulane and Wake Forest. He received interest from several Florida schools (FAU, FIU and South Florida), but Gillotte wanted to leave the state for college. He announced a final five of Duke, Louisville, Pittsburgh, UCF and Vanderbilt and officially committed to Louisville in May 2020. Gillotte was the 13th-ranked recruit in the Cardinals' 2021 class. His mother then accepted a job with Strategic Wealth Designers, a financial firm with offices in Louisville and Miami, so she could live part-time in Louisville and be close to her son. Gillotte twice earned ACC All-Academic honors. He was also named a first-team Academic All-American after the 2023 season and a finalist for the 2024 William V. Campbell Trophy (3.69 GPA in communications). He opted out of Louisville's 2024 bowl game and declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/4)	19	8.0	4.0	0	0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/12)	23	7.0	6.0	0	1	0	Honorable Mention All-ACC; missed one game (injury)
2023: (14/14)	45	14.5	11.0	3	0	0	Second Team All-American; First Team All-ACC; led ACC in sacks; led team in TFL
2024: (12/12)	43	10.0	4.5	0	0	0	Second Team All-ACC; led team in sacks, TFL; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (50/42)	130	39.5	25.5	3	1	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6025	264	8 1/2	31 7/8	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	36 1/2	10' 0"	DNP	DNP	24	No 40, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6027	264	9	31 7/8	78 1/4	4.65	2.54	1.59	DNP	DNP	4.35	6.94	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Prefers hand-to-hand combat and plays more powerful than he looks
- Fires off the ball with burst and physicality
- Can rush down the center of blockers, using forward lean and leg drive to create lift and movement at contact
- Effective arm-over techniques; also mixes in double-hand swipe and slap rip
- Creates natural force to squeeze through A/B gaps as an inside rusher
- Plays heavy-handed in the run game
- Shows quality block recognition to avoid obstacles and stay on path
- Weighed 212 pounds when he enrolled and worked hard to add bulk, especially in his legs and lower body ("Freaks List" alum)
- Prides himself on his tenacious motor and backs it up on tape (head coach Jeff Brohm: "He's a fierce competitor and extremely tough. Works very hard at his craft and tries to be a perfectionist.")
- Finished his career No. 5 in school history in tackles for loss (39.5) and No. 6 in sacks (25.5)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks preferred height, length or hand size for edge work
- Can run the hoop but shows only average lower-body flexibility when cornering
- Motor runs on all cylinders, but he has a speed limit
- Can be knocked off balance by angle blocks
- Hands are always working, but he needs to develop more answers when he can't overpower his man
- Drops eye level and gets out of control at times when fighting through contact

- "Tasmanian Devil" play style leads to missed tackles in run game
- Can be late to read keys on misdirection or jet action
- Finished with just 4.5 sacks senior season

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Louisville, Gillotte lined up off the edge (left and right side) in defensive coordinator Ron English's four-man front, also kicking inside as a three-tech on certain sub-packages. He announced himself as a potential top-100 draft pick with his All-America junior season, and although his sack numbers dipped as a senior, he had more pressures created in 2024 (60) than 2023 (58).

His speed and flexibility as a high-side rusher are mediocre, but with the way he fires off the ball and delivers pop at contact, Gillotte creates leveraged power and natural downhill force. He is constantly in pursuit mode with his revving motor, although you'd like to see him play with better control, especially against the run. Overall, Gillotte is a densely built edge defender who might not check every box but is consistently in the sack area and plays fast, physical and persistent — three qualities that will endear him to NFL coaches. He can be an immediate sub-package rusher with long-term starting potential.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 78 overall)

EDGE16 Josaiah Stewart

Michigan, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Bronx, NY	Everett	Apr 26, 2003	21.99	6010	249	#0

BACKGROUND: Josaiah (jo-SY-uh) Stewart, who has 18 siblings in a blended family, was born and raised in the Bronx, N.Y., with his mother (Carmen Diaz) and father (Andre Stewart). He grew up playing basketball and tag outside, running around the neighborhood, but never signed up for an organized sport. Basketball was his go-to sport throughout childhood, and he "never really picked up a football" until he got to high school. At age 10, Stewart relocated to the Boston area.

Stewart enrolled at Everett High (north of Boston) and joined a program that had three other future NFL players on its roster: safety Lewis Cine, tight end Isaiah Likely and cornerback Mike Sainristil. As a freshman, he decided to join the football team, despite having no prior experience in the sport (Stewart: "All my friends were playing, and I just wanted to hop in and play with my guys."). He started out as a part-time contributor on the freshman team in 2017, but he physically matured, learned the fundamentals and became the program's hardest worker, according to the coaches. Stewart started on varsity as a junior and played both ways as a defensive end and tight end. He helped Everett to a 9-3 record and the 2019 league title, finishing with 30 tackles, 14 tackles for loss, seven sacks and two blocks (one punt, one extra point attempt). Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Stewart's senior season was pushed from fall of 2020 to an abbreviated schedule in spring of 2021. Stewart posted 13 tackles, seven tackles for loss and 5.5 sacks in just three games.

A three-star recruit, Stewart was the 43rd-ranked edge defender in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in Massachusetts. After his sophomore season, he received his first Division I offer from FCS Howard (Dec. 2018). The following spring, Stewart received his first major offers from Boston College and Syracuse. He committed to Steve Addazio and Boston College during his junior season, but Addazio and his staff were fired a few weeks later. After Jeff Hafley was hired, both parties agreed to part ways — Boston College pulled its offer and Stewart reopened his recruitment. Several of Stewart's more notable suitors had moved on by then and recruiting was in a strange spot because of the pandemic, which limited his options. Coastal Carolina (where Likely was playing) entered the mix during the summer of 2020, and Stewart committed in August. He was the top-ranked recruit in former head coach Jamey Chadwell's 2021 class.

After two highly productive seasons with the Chanticleers, Stewart entered the transfer portal in December 2022, a few days after Chadwell left for the Liberty job. He received offers from several notable programs and narrowed his final choice to LSU, Michigan and USC. Stewart, who was recruited hard by Sainristil, committed to the Wolverines and joined the team in January 2023. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/6)	43	15.5	12.5	3	0	0	Coastal Carolina; Freshman All-American; First Team All-SBC; led SBC in sacks; enrolled June 2021
2022: (12/11)	36	10.0	3.5	1	1	0	Coastal Carolina; Second Team All-SBC; missed bowl game (transfer)
2023: (15/0)	38	8.5	5.5	0	2	0	Michigan; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; enrolled January 2023
2024: (11/11)	33	13.0	8.5	2	0	0	Michigan; Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in FFs, sacks and TFL; missed two games (injury); team captain
Total: (51/28)	150	47.0	30.0	6	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6010	249	9 1/2	31 7/8	79	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left hamstring)
PRO DAY	DNP	242	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive out of the blocks and attacks with natural leverage
- Lethal speed-to-power move, creating incredible force with the acceleration from his first two steps
- Purposeful hands as a pass rusher, mixing in different varieties of slap-rip, club-rip and flash-chop
- Uses body dip to angle and run the hoop to capture the corner
- Able to spin off contact when blocked high-side
- Better play strength in run game than expected from a player his size
- Physical at the point of attack to battle for positioning and remain a factor on edge runs
- Relentless chase speed from the backside, with closing burst to finish
- Stewart "only knows one speed" and "plays with a chip," according to Michigan defensive line coach Lou Esposito
- Upgraded to team captain midway through the 2024 season because of the way he sparked the defense (Stewart: "I came out of my shell and became more of a vocal leader.")
- Highly productive — only FBS prospect in this draft class with 30 career sacks on his resume

WEAKNESSES:

- Light frame with below-average height and limited room to get bigger
- Strong initial strike, but he can be slowed once powerful blockers get their hands on him
- Hyper-charged in his rush — that momentum will take him past the pocket at times
- Smart contain player, but NFL size will have better luck covering him up in the run game
- High-speed pursuit will leave him out of control as a secure tackler (had a career low in tackles and a career high in missed tackles in 2024)
- Occasionally peeled off or dropped into the flat, but he's not an experienced coverage player

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Michigan, Stewart lined up as a wide edge rusher (two- and three-point stance) in defensive coordinator Wink Martindale's four-man front. Despite being late to the game (didn't play varsity football until his junior year), he was an immediate difference-maker manning the "Bandit" position at Coastal Carolina and led the Sun Belt in sacks as a freshman. He transferred to Ann Arbor for his final two seasons and led the team in sacks, tackles for loss and forced fumbles as a senior.

An explosive pass rusher, Stewart has the arc acceleration and flexibility to win high-side, although his speed-to-power and bull rushes are uniquely effective when he is given a little runway. He plays bigger than he looks in the run game, although he will struggle to disengage when blockers are able to latch on to him. Overall, Stewart's size won't be for everyone, but he is an energetic athlete whose combination of twitchy get-off, crafty hands and relentless finish can make him a pass-rush factor from day one. His talent suggests he can be more than a pass-rush specialist in the NFL.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 80 overall)

EDGE17 Bradyn Swinson

LSU, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Douglasville, GA	Chapel Hill	Jul 04, 2002	22.81	6035	255	#4

BACKGROUND: Bradyn Swinson, who has two older brothers and an adopted younger sister, grew up in Douglasville, Ga. (20 miles west of Atlanta), with his parents (Bryant and Kelli), who met in college and got married in 1997. Bryant, a Fulton County police officer, was an all-conference player at Savannah State (1987-90) and teammates with Hall of Fame tight end Shannon Sharpe. Kelli is an assistant principal at King Middle School in Atlanta. Bradyn Swinson's maternal grandmother died of cardiac arrest on Labor Day weekend in 2024, and he learned the news at halftime of the season opener vs. USC.

Swinson grew up playing multiple sports, often with his older brothers (Brinton and Brandon) and while coached by his father. He started playing football in elementary school and continued playing through Pop Warner for the Rams (mostly as a tight end). For his freshman year, Swinson attended The B.E.S.T. Academy in Atlanta, a STEM all-boys school. He played on varsity for a team that finished 2-9 in 2016 and was teammates with fellow freshman Qwantez Stiggers (fifth-round pick of the New York Jets in the 2024 NFL Draft).

Swinson transferred before his sophomore season to Chapel Hill in Douglasville, where he started out as a three-technique before moving to edge rusher for the next three seasons. He earned honorable mention all-region honors in 2017 (51 tackles, 12 tackles for loss and six sacks). Swinson took his game to another level as a junior and finished with 78 tackles, 25 tackles for loss, eight sacks and two forced fumbles, which earned him honorable mention all-state and first-team all-region. As a senior, he was named 2019 Douglas County Player of the Year and the region's co-defensive player of the year (79 tackles, 16 tackles for loss and 10 sacks). Swinson also lettered in track and had personal bests of 103 feet, 1 inch in the discus and 33-6 in the shot put as a junior.

A three-star recruit, Swinson was the 20th-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 53 recruit in Georgia. As he started to break out as a high school junior, he picked up his first offer from Wake Forest (Sept. 2018), followed by offers from Troy, Georgia Southern and Air Force. Swinson's offer sheet eventually surpassed 40 offers, including several ACC (Boston College, Florida State, Louisville, North Carolina, Pittsburgh) and Big Ten (Indiana, Michigan State, Purdue, Rutgers) schools, but the SEC was quiet — Swinson only received an offer from Missouri. One of his final offers came from Oregon in the summer before his senior season, and he officially committed to the Ducks in September 2019. Swinson was the 11th-ranked recruit in former head coach Mario Cristobal's 2020 class.

After three seasons in Eugene, he entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2022) and received an offer from LSU and newly hired head coach Brian Kelly within 48 hours. Swinson took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Baton Rouge for his fifth season. He graduated with a degree in anthropology (Aug. 2024). Swinson accepted an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl but was a late scratch.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	3	0.0	0.0	0	1	0	Oregon; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (11/1)	24	4.0	3.0	1	2	0	Oregon; missed three games (right knee)
2022: (12/0)	8	1.5	0.0	0	0	0	Oregon; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2023: (12/1)	35	6.5	2.0	2	5	0	LSU; enrolled January 2023; missed bowl game
2024: (13/12)	58	13.0	8.5	2	3	0	LSU; Second Team All-SEC; led team in sacks, TFL
Total: (55/14)	128	25.0	13.5	5	11	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6035	255	9 7/8	33 3/8	81 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.33	7.13	DNP	No bench (wrist injury); no 40s or jumps (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Solid height and length, with room to carry more mass
- Above-average pursuit speed to chase down prey
- Rushes with first-step burst, arc acceleration and bend to run the hoop
- Flashes a chop-rip to pry open blocker's shoulder
- Motor stays gassed up, giving him the chance for clean-up production
- Locks out his arms into the chests of blockers and works hard to set an edge
- Moves with quickness to avoid pulling linemen and change-of-direction skills to play both sides of the pitch
- Carries NFL football around everywhere he goes, because he likes to "keep his dreams close"
- Productive final season in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Lighter than ideal and struggles to anchor against powerful tackles
- Can get pushed around at times in the run game
- Average play strength and can be bumped off his rush too easily
- Gets a bit out of control when attempting to counter; finds himself deeper than the quarterback
- Only one season of starting experience (two starts over his first four years in college), and it shows at times in rush plan
- Meager experience on kick/punt coverages
- "Butted heads" with coaches a few times, according to NFL scouts, so interview process will be key (suspended for first quarter of 2024 Florida game for "not meeting team standards")
- Torn lateral meniscus in right knee (Sept. 2021), which required a scope and sidelined him three games

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at LSU, Swinson was a stand-up edge rusher (mostly to the boundary) in defensive coordinator Blake Baker's 4-2-5 base scheme (100 percent of his snaps in 2024 came wide of the tackle). After accumulating 43 total pressures over his first four years in college (three with Oregon, one at LSU), he played his best football in 2024 and led the Tigers in tackles for loss (13), sacks (8.5) and pressures (59, fifth most in the FBS).

With his edge speed and flexibility, Swinson can threaten the corner. He flashes pop in his hands but will get stuck at the top of his rush too often, and his sequencing needs continued development. He is very cognizant of his role in the run fit, but he will be covered up versus power and does his best work when lined up against tight ends. Overall, Swinson is a green high-side rusher with the athletic tools to threaten the edge and chase down the football. It might be tough for him to sustain three-down responsibilities until he can set a more firm edge, though. He is best suited for a stand-up reserve role on passing downs in a 3-4 scheme.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 100 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
New Orleans, LA	Holy Cross	Dec 22, 2002	22.34	6033	256	#88

BACKGROUND: Barryn (BAER-in) Sorrell (sore-ELL) was born and raised in the New Orleans East neighborhood with his parents. He started playing football at age 5 at the offensive skill positions, including running back (Sorrell: "As soon as I was allowed to sign up, I hopped in there."). Sorrell also grew up playing baseball, basketball and track.

Sorrell attended Holy Cross High, a Catholic school in New Orleans, and was a four-year letterman on varsity. After lining up as a receiver and tight end his first two seasons, he transitioned to defensive end as a junior. Sorrell finished the 2019 season with 44 tackles, four sacks and one forced fumble, as he led Holy Cross to the Division I state playoffs. His senior season was disrupted and shortened because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but Sorrell still posted 53 tackles, 14 tackles for loss, five sacks and one forced fumble in seven games. He earned second-team all-state and first-team all-district honors in his final season. Sorrell also earned academic all-state honors and graduated from Holy Cross with a 4.6 GPA.

A three-star recruit, Sorrell was the 86th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 21 recruit in Louisiana. After moving to the defensive line as a junior, his recruitment started to take off with offers from Kansas, Memphis and Tulane in January 2020. He received an offer from Northwestern in April 2020 and committed a month later, because of the academic and athletic prestige. However, as his recruitment continued to pick up throughout his senior season, Sorrell decommitted from Northwestern (Oct. 2020). He announced a final six of Arizona State, Louisville, Northwestern, Texas, Vanderbilt and Virginia and selected the Longhorns.

Two weeks after Sorrell signed, Texas fired Tom Herman and replaced him with Steve Sarkisian. Sorrell stayed committed to the program and was the 19th-recruit in Sarkisian's first class. He had LASIK surgery during the 2024 offseason. Sorrell twice earned Academic All-Big 12 honors and graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the American Team's top defensive lineman during the week of practice.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (6/0)	7	1.0	0.0	0	0	0	Enrolled July 2021
2022: (13/10)	44	9.0	5.5	1	1	0	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in sacks
2023: (14/14)	37	4.5	4.0	0	0	0	Honorable Mention All-Big 12
2024: (16/16)	44	11.0	6.0	0	1	0
Total: (49/40)	132	25.5	15.5	1	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6032	256	9 1/4	32 1/4	77 7/8	4.68	2.75	1.65	34	10' 1"	4.36	7.06	28
PRO DAY	6033	255	9 3/8	32 1/2	78 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Sports well-developed, NFL-ready frame with massive shoulders (NFL scout: "I wouldn't own any shirts with sleeves if I looked like that dude.")
- Work in the weight room put him on the "Freaks List" (425-pound bench press, 575 squat, 355 power clean)
- Posted fastest mph (15.13) in hoop drill at combine
- Physical, aggressive hands to deliver thunderbolts at contact
- Maintains extension at contact, then disrupts blocker's balance to shed
- Works in variety of swipe/rip moves when he attacks blocker's edge
- Keeps hands tight to hold his ground in the run game
- Quick-thinking player to sniff out screens and chase them down
- Plays hard — motor doesn't run out of gas
- High football character and viewed as a key leader in Texas locker room (team captain for eight games in 2024)
- Durable — didn't miss a game past three seasons, finishing with 30 straight starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Average burst and speed off the line; can be pushed past the pocket
- Long-legged and a tad stiff in his ankles when turning the corner
- Doesn't have a deep toolbox to consistently counter once blockers engage him
- Always plays at 100 mph, which backfires at times — needs to stay disciplined (two roughing the passer flags in 2024)
- Career high in missed tackles in 2024, which affected games (see 2024 SEC championship vs. Georgia)
- Quick to crash down versus the run, abandoning his run fit and creating bounce opportunities
- Functional athlete as a drop defender but too many wasted steps in coverage

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Texas, Sorrell lined up primarily on the edge (five-/six-technique) in defensive coordinator Pete Kwiatkowski's front. A dependable player over his 40 starts in Austin, he showed gradual improvements each season and didn't receive enough credit in 2024 for his impact on Texas' third-ranked defense.

As a pass rusher, Sorrell flashes bully hands and an aggressive snatch attack (which became his signature move), locking out and pulling the balance of blockers away from them (led Texas with 49 pressures in 2024, despite finishing fourth on the team in sacks). He is relentless in the run game, but he will lose contain against cutback runs and needs to play with better gear-down to eliminate missed tackles in pursuit. Overall, Sorrell passes the eye test and the foundation of his game is power, which sets up different ways for him to win, although his average short-area athleticism might limit the frequency of those wins against NFL blockers. His makeup and motor will give him a chance to carve out a role for a 4-3 scheme.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

EDGE19 Sai’vion Jones

LSU, 4SR

HOMETOWN Vacherie, LA	HIGH SCHOOL St. James	BIRTHDAY Jul 03, 2003	AGE 21.81	HT 6054	WT 283	NUM #35
--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Sai'vion (say-vee-ahn) Jones, the oldest of three children, grew up in the small town of Vacherie, La. (west of New Orleans on the Mississippi River), with his mother (Sennecca). He was born with a rare breathing disorder, which required a heart monitor, oxygen machine and tracheotomy tube at 3 months. He almost lost his life after the tube became dislodged, but the medical staff was able to resuscitate him and transfer him to the Children's Hospital in New Orleans for the next few months, as he made a full recovery.

Jones was active in sports throughout childhood, primarily baseball, basketball and football. He called basketball his "first love" until eighth grade, when he realized his football potential. He attended St. James High in Vacherie, which produced former LSU and New York Giants cornerback Corey Webster. After earning a spot on varsity as a freshman, Jones had a breakout sophomore season as a defensive end to put himself on the recruiting map. As a junior, he posted 102 tackles, 17 tackles for loss, 13 sacks and two forced fumbles, earning all-district and defensive MVP honors of the 4A all-state team. Jones led St. James to a 15-0 finish, including the 2019 3A state championship (first for the school since 1979). As a senior, he posted 75 tackles, 20 tackles for loss, 10 sacks and his first-ever interception to earn 3A Defensive Player of the Year. Jones was also an all-district basketball player at St. James and lettered in track. He had personal bests of 39 feet, 3 inches in the shot put, 114-2 in the discus, 5-6 in the high jump, 24.18 seconds in the 200 meters and 53.82 in the 400.

A four-star recruit, Jones was the 10th-ranked edge defender in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 6 recruit in Louisiana (two spots ahead of receiver Malik Nabers). He picked up his first scholarship offer after his sophomore season from Louisiana-Monroe, followed by offers from Kansas, South Alabama, UAB and UTSA. His first major offer (Florida) came early in his junior season, followed by offers from Arkansas and LSU a few months later. Jones announced a final six of Baylor, Florida State, Florida, LSU, Mississippi State and Texas A&M before deciding to stay in state and sign with the Tigers. He was the 10th-ranked recruit in former head coach Ed Orgeron's final class (one spot behind Landon Jackson). Jones accepted an invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (11/0)	3	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Enrolled May 2021
2022: (14/3)	23	6.0	4.5	1	1	0
2023: (13/13)	33	3.5	2.5	0	2	0
2024: (13/13)	40	7.5	4.5	2	2	0
Total: (51/29)	99	17.0	11.5	3	5	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6053	280	10	33 1/2	82 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	33	9' 11"	DNP	DNP	19
PRO DAY	6054	283	9 7/8	34	81 1/2	4.75	2.78	1.59	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Terrific blend of height, weight and length
- Uses his long levers to break down tackles, converting to bull rush quickly and effectively
- Long strides allow him to eat up ground quickly downhill
- Go-to move is physical hand swipe
- Some of best pass-rush snaps came when aligned inside the tackle, barreling through the B-gap
- High-motor chaser and deliberately works to fight through contact
- Sticks to keys in the run game
- Heavy-handed to jar blockers at point of contact
- Durable and tough — finished LSU career with 27 straight starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent burst and pad level off the ball
- Doesn't have rush speed to consistently turn the corner against NFL offensive tackles
- Needs to be more efficient when accessing secondary moves
- High-hipped with lower-body stiffness, creating a hitch when attempting to quickly redirect
- Tad sluggish working back across the faces of blockers
- Can get caught inside and sealed from outside runs
- Active play style will work against him as a finisher (too many missed tackles on his tape)
- Doesn't offer much as a dropper in space
- Mediocre career production — never reached five sacks in a season

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at LSU, Jones was the field-side defensive end in defensive coordinator Blake Baker's 4-2-5 base scheme, taking snaps both standing up and with his hand on the ground. After showing gradual improvement as an underclassman, he made a significant jump as a senior with 43 pressures in 2024 (combined for 38 pressures his first three seasons).

One of the youngest seniors in the draft class, Jones doesn't have top-tier cornering speed and makes himself too big of a target at the top of his rush when attempting to win high-side. But he is at his best when relying on his long levers to work through contact and affect the quarterback or working down the line as a run defender (NFL scouts routinely bring up his toughness as a differentiating factor). Overall, Jones needs continued schooling with his hands and pad level, but he plays long, strong and persistent as a downhill force player against both pass and run. He hasn't yet reached his football ceiling and has the tools to become a solid depth piece on an NFL defensive line.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

EDGE20 Tyrion Ingram-Dawkins

Georgia, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Gaffney, SC	Gaffney	Jun 26, 2003	21.83	6046	276	#93

BACKGROUND: Tyrion (TY-ree-ahn) Ingram-Dawkins grew up an only child in Gaffney, S.C. (50 miles southwest of Charlotte), with his mother (Kidada Dawkins-Tate). His mother, who was a high jumper at Gardner-Webb, had two more sons (England and Donovan). Ingram-Dawkins grew up active in sports, primarily basketball and football. He played football throughout Pop Warner and middle school and was on several club basketball teams, including the SC Spiders, one of the top travel programs in the state.

Ingram-Dawkins attended Gaffney High (alma mater of former NFL wide receiver Sidney Rice), where he was a dual-sport star. After a growth spurt, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore defensive end and put himself on the FBS recruiting radar. Ingram-Dawkins had his best season as a junior with 70 tackles, 17 tackles for loss, eight sacks, plus several carries on offense. He earned second-team all-state honors and led Gaffney to a 10-win season and the 2019 5A state playoff semifinals. As a senior, Ingram-Dawkins finished with 31 tackles and seven sacks in a season shortened to seven games because of the COVID-19 pandemic. He was named 2020 South Carolina Mr. Football, and Gaffney had an undefeated regular season before losing in the second round of the state playoffs. Ingram-Dawkins also played in the post for Gaffney's basketball team.

A four-star recruit, Ingram-Dawkins was the 23rd-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in South Carolina. He received his first scholarship offer the summer before his junior season from Syracuse, followed by an offer from West Virginia. Toward the end of his junior season, Ingram-Dawkins picked up an offer from former head coach Will Muschamp and his home state South Carolina. He finished with more than 30 scholarship offers and narrowed down his choice to Florida State, Georgia, North Carolina, Penn State, South Carolina and Tennessee. He'd grown up a Clemson fan, but the coaches there told him they were "full" at defensive line in the 2021 recruiting class.

Ingram-Dawkins committed to the Bulldogs midway through his senior season and was the third-ranked recruit in Kirby Smart's 2021 class. Ingram-Dawkins graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024). He elected to skip his senior season and enter the 2025 NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (1/0)	2	1.0	0	0	1	0	Redshirted; enrolled January 2021
2022: (14/0)	10	1.5	0	0	0	0
2023: (8/0)	8	2.0	1	1	0	0	Missed six games (foot)
2024: (14/10)	17	8.0	3	1	2	0
Total: (37/10)	37	12.5	4	2	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6046	276	9 3/4	33 1/2	82 3/4	4.86	2.78	1.69	36	10' 4"	4.34	7.28	DNP
PRO DAY	6044	282	10	33 1/2	81 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.50	7.35	23

STRENGTHS:

- Above-average height-weight-speed mix on the edge
- Quick off the ball and flashes ability to convert speed to power or trim the corner
- Active pass rusher and plays with bend to shake loose
- Improved feel for how he is being blocked, which aids his counter transitions
- Can beat blockers with quickness from inside alignment
- Works well laterally to win on games and stunts
- Good-enough mass to stack the edge in an odd front
- "Funniest guy on the team," according to Malaki Starks
- 47.1 percent of tackles in 2024 came in the backfield

WEAKNESSES:

- Some tweener traits and body features
- Pass-rush hands aren't well-schooled just yet
- Elevated pads will zap him of power when attempting to drive through blocks
- Can get washed when he stands up off the snap
- Plays out of control and leaves missed tackles all over the field (see 2024 Kentucky tape)
- Cited for excessive speeding (July 2023) and arrested on a warrant for failure to appear in Athens, Ga., related to a handicap parking violation citation
- Battled left foot fracture throughout the 2023 season, missing six games and undergoing post-season surgery, which held him out of 2024 spring practices
- Only 10 starts and 37 tackles in four seasons in college
- Production doesn't match the talent

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Georgia, Ingram-Dawkins was used across the defensive line in head coach Kirby Smart's scheme, spending most of his time head up on the tackle or outside on the edge. With just 37 tackles in 37 career games, his stat sheet isn't impressive, but he flashed in a rotational role (38.3 defensive snaps per game in 2024). Although his pass-rush instincts are still developing, Ingram-Dawkins (who is naturally left-handed) plays with first-step burst and agility to attack the pocket from different angles (4.34-second short shuttle was third best among all D-line and edge prospects at the NFL combine). In the run game, he can stack blocks with his hands to defend multiple gaps, but he isn't a technician and his struggles as a tackler must be addressed. Overall, Ingram-Dawkins doesn't have a strong body of work, but if you grade to the flashes and trust the size and athletic traits, it is easy to be excited about his pro potential. He offers inside-outside versatility — some NFL teams view him as more of an edge presence; others want his explosiveness over the B-gap.

GRADE: 4th round

EDGE21 David Walker

Central Arkansas, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Stuttgart, AR	Stuttgart	Jun 03, 2000	24.89	6007	263	#8

BACKGROUND: David Walker grew up in Stuttgart, Ark., with his mother (Angela Bradley). He started playing football at age 6, but he considered himself a basketball player first. His younger brother (Arlie Lee) played wide receiver at Division II Arkansas-Monticello (2023) before transferring to Central Arkansas to play with David in 2024.

Walker attended Stuttgart High, where he became a multisport standout. After playing freshman and JV his first year, he saw varsity action on special teams as a 5-foot-9, 170-pound sophomore. After hitting a growth spurt and reaching 220 pounds, Walker started on the defensive line as a junior and had a breakout 2017 season, posting 77 tackles, 24 tackles for loss, seven sacks and one forced fumble. He also played a variety of roles on offense and recorded 331 rushing yards, 129 receiving yards and nine touchdowns (six rushing, three receiving). Walker earned first-team all-state honors and led Stuttgart to a 7-4 record, including a playoff win in the 4A state playoffs. He weighed over 250 pounds entering his senior year, but a torn ACL disrupted his final season. Walker also lettered in soccer and basketball at Stuttgart and averaged more than 18 points per game as a junior.

A no-star recruit, Walker wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class. After his breakout season as a junior, he received his first scholarship offer from Division II Ouachita Baptist (May 2018). His recruitment took a few twists and turns during his senior year, and he ultimately signed with Division II Southern Arkansas. After three years with the program, Walker entered the transfer portal.

Walker had a connection with Central Arkansas cornerbacks coach Kre Trammell, who had been at Southern Arkansas. He transferred to Central Arkansas and became one of the top defensive players in the FCS. After the 2023 season, Walker had the opportunity to transfer to the FBS or leave for the NFL, but he felt he had unfinished business at Central Arkansas and returned for his sixth college season (Walker: "It was about legacy for me. And the chance to play with my brother"). He graduated with a degree from Central Arkansas (Dec. 2023). Walker accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Southern Arkansas; redshirted
2020: (-/-)							Southern Arkansas; season canceled because of pandemic
2021: (11/11)	52	19.5	8.0	0	0	0	Southern Arkansas; First Team All-GAC; led GAC in sacks, TFL
2022: (11/11)	66	22.0	12.0	1	1	0	Central Arkansas; Consensus All-American; ASUN Def. POY; First Team All-ASUN; led ASUN in TFL, sacks
2023: (11/11)	57	18.0	8.5	1	1	0	Central Arkansas; Consensus All-American; UAC Def. POY; First Team All-UAC; Led UAC in TFL, sacks
2024: (12/12)	69	23.0	10.5	4	6	0	Central Arkansas; Consensus All-American; UAC Def. POY; First Team All-UAC; Led UAC in TFL, sacks
Total: (45/45)	244	82.5	39.0	6	8	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6007	263	9 1/4	31 7/8	77 1/2	4.69	2.74	1.65	35	9' 10"	4.39	7.15	26
PRO DAY	6007	262	9 5/8	31 3/4	77 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Quick-reaction athlete with the burst to disrupt gaps
- Uses natural leverage to bend/dip underneath reach of the blocker
- Effective bull-chop move and generates power from lower half to go through blocks
- Can play past blockers with his eyes
- Flashes violence in his hands to punch and separate
- Plays the run well when his hands and feet stay in unison
- Became more of a drop defender in 2024 (17 percent of snaps on passing downs)
- Voted a 2024 team captain (head coach Nathan Brown: "He is as respectful and humble as they come. ... Guys follow him.")
- Historic production and lived in the backfield (made 33.8 percent of career tackles in backfield)
- Sturdy — played a variety of front-seven spots throughout college

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have desired body type, with lack of height and length
- Won't have definitive positional fit for every scheme
- Overeager with his hands, leading to mistimed extension
- Needs to activate rush counters earlier against blockers who close space quickly
- Sinking his weight in tight quarters and setting a hard edge will be challenging versus NFL power
- Faced only two Power 4 opponents (Ole Miss, Oklahoma State) in three seasons in the FCS
- Overaged — will be a 25-year-old rookie

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Central Arkansas, Walker played the "Bandit" edge role in defensive coordinator Greg Stewart's multiple fronts. One of the most productive players in FCS history, he collected 82.5 tackles for loss and 39 sacks over the past four seasons. A three-time consensus All-American, his trophy case got pretty crowded — he won the 2024 Buck Buchanan Award as the top FCS defensive player and conference defensive player of the year honors three straight years.

When studying FCS tape, you shouldn't need to know a player's number — and that is absolutely true with Walker, who quickly jumps out as the best player on the field (even on Central Arkansas' terrible purple and gray field). He bursted off the ball with pop in his hands to bully FCS blockers and didn't look out of place against better competition during Senior Bowl practices. Overall, Walker isn't a one-trick pony. He uses his core strength and body quickness to mix up his rush attack, although his lack of length will be tougher to overcome against NFL tackles. His measurements and play style give off Carl Lawson vibes.

GRADE: 4th round

EDGE22 Kyle Kennard

South Carolina, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Atlanta, GA	Riverwood	Dec 12, 2001	23.36	6041	254	#5

BACKGROUND: Kyle Kennard, who has a younger brother (Kalin), was born and raised in Flint, Mich., with his parents (Kevin and Chan). He started playing football at age 5 and moved around to "every position" throughout pee wee. He was also a talented basketball player throughout childhood. At age 9, his family moved to Savannah, Ga., and he continued his football journey through middle school, mostly as a linebacker. Kennard moved to defensive end in eighth grade and helped his team to the league championship. He moved for his high school years to the Atlanta area in 2016 with his father, whom Kyle credits as the main person who motivated him, on and off the football field. He also played 7-on-7 football for Elite Talent Football. Kennard has two sons who live in Atlanta: Kayden (3) and Karter (1 this summer).

Kennard enrolled at Riverwood International Charter School in Sandy Springs (north of Atlanta) for high school. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore and played both defensive end and defensive tackle. As a junior, Kennard emerged as one of the top defensive linemen in the area (56 tackles, 19 tackles for loss, eight sacks and one forced fumble). He was an all-region performer as a senior and led Riverwood to an 11-1 record, including the first undefeated regular season in school history, and the 2019 regional championship. Kennard finished his final season with 43 tackles, 21 tackles for loss, 11 sacks, two forced fumbles and one interception. He also lettered in basketball.

A three-star recruit, Kennard was the 39th-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 80 recruit Georgia. He received his first major offer from Virginia as a junior, followed by offers Arkansas, Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Tennessee. In the spring of 2019, Kennard took his official visit to Georgia Tech and officially committed to former head coach Geoff Collins in June 2019. He was the 14th-ranked recruit in the 2020 class (running back Jahmyr Gibbs was No. 1). He learned how to improve his work ethic from his "big bro," Keion White, while with the Yellow Jackets.

After four seasons in the program, Kennard took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and entered the transfer portal in December 2023. His choice came down to Missouri and South Carolina, but his connection with defensive line coach Sterling Lucas locked up his commitment to the Gamecocks. Kennard opted out of South Carolina's bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/3)	10	2.5	2.5	0	0	0	Georgia Tech; enrolled July 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/2)	15	3.5	2.0	0	0	0	Georgia Tech
2022: (12/9)	36	4.5	2.0	0	0	0	Georgia Tech
2023: (12/6)	54	11.0	6.0	2	1	1	Georgia Tech; led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (12/12)	28	15.5	11.5	3	1	0	South Carolina; Consensus All-American; Nagurski Trophy; SEC Def. POY; First Team All-SEC; led SEC in sacks
Total: (54/32)	143	37.0	24.0	5	2	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6040	254	9 3/4	34	81 1/2	4.73	2.74	1.63	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	23	No jumps, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6041	262	10	33 3/4	80	4.81	2.83	1.63	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Long-limbed with adequate muscle on his frame
- Gets off the line quickly
- Flashes linear twitch to plant and abruptly change rush path
- Uses forward lean into offensive tackle's chest to convert his speed to power
- Shows closing burst to get on the quarterback before he can unload the ball
- Smartly uses long arms to swat at the football in the pocket (five forced fumbles over past two seasons)
- Upper-body strength to win when left alone against tight ends
- Motor stays fairly consistent, which helps him chase in the run game
- Took the initiative and became a leader on a new team in 2024 (voted a Gamecocks captain)
- Impressive backfield production during senior year

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have cohesive plan beyond initial attack
- Inconsistent attempting to access move-to-move transitions
- Showed improved use of hands at top of his rush, but he's not exactly a technician (yet)
- Slows once engaged; doesn't have power to blow through shoulders of blockers
- Didn't make a ton of plays as a run defender on tape
- Lacks violent stack and shed as an edge setter
- Doesn't have any coverage reps on 2024 tape
- Jumped off the film in September but cooled off late in the season
- Finished with high sack number in 2024 but didn't lead Gamecocks in pressures (39 pressures ranked 50th in FBS)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at South Carolina, Kennard lined up as a seven-/nine-technique edge rusher in defensive coordinator Clayton White's four-man front (stand-up and hand on the ground). After four solid seasons at Georgia Tech, he joined the Gamecocks for his final season and rewrote the trajectory of his college career and draft projection. While becoming the first South Carolina player to win the Bronko Nagurski Trophy as the nation's top defensive player, he led the SEC with 11.5 sacks, falling just shy of Jadeveon Clowney's school single-season sack record (13).

Using more of a "jet mode" stance as a super senior, Kennard was able to improve his takeoff as a pass rusher to be disruptive from wide alignment. He can use his length in different ways to pry open blocks, but he is inconsistent as a point-of-attack player and larger tackles can engulf him. Overall, Kennard has work to do developing his counters and becoming more consistent on run downs to reach his NFL potential, but he brings energetic speed off the edge when he can pin his ears back. He projects as a passing-down specialist, and his role can evolve from there.

GRADE: 4th round

EDGE23

Elijah Roberts

SMU, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Miami, FL	Christopher Columbus	Dec 24, 2001	23.33	6035	285	#5

BACKGROUND: Elijah Roberts, one of seven children, grew up in South Miami with his parents (George and Shanda). Always a bigger kid (almost 10 pounds at birth), he convinced his mother to let him join the football team at age 10 and quickly developed a passion for the sport. Roberts first suited up for the Junior Pee Wee Rams in Goulds and played for several teams (Broncos, Bulldogs) in youth and optimist leagues. He had to drop and manage his weight each week in order to stay within league requirements. His mother was born in the Bahamas. His younger sister (G'yna) received a scholarship to play flag football at Atlantis University.

Roberts initially attended Miami Coral Park Senior High and started on varsity as a freshman linebacker. He transitioned to more of a defensive end role as a 245-pound sophomore, tallying 12 tackles for loss. In February of 2018, Roberts transferred to Christopher Columbus High, a private Catholic school in Miami with NFL alums such as Josh Uche, Brian Griese and Alonzo Highsmith. As a junior, Roberts helped his new team to a 14-1 record, its only loss coming in the 2018 Class 8A state championship game, 37-35, to quarterback Carson Beck and Mandarin. Roberts led Christopher Columbus back to the state title game as a senior, this time coming away with the victory (21-20, over Apopka). He finished his final season with 46 tackles, eight tackles for loss, six sacks and one forced fumble. Robets also lettered in basketball.

A four-star recruit, Roberts was the 13th-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 57 recruit in Florida. After attending Miami's underclassman day as a sophomore in 2018, he picked up an offer from former head coach Mark Richt and his hometown Hurricanes (his dad is a big Miami fan). A few months later, Roberts officially committed (June 2018), but he backed off that pledge a few months later and decommitted in October 2018. He added several high-profile offers throughout his junior year, including from Louisville, Michigan, Penn State, Oregon and others before announcing a top five of Florida, Florida State, Georgia Tech, Miami and South Carolina.

Roberts officially re-committed to the Hurricanes in June 2019 under then-head coach Manny Diaz. He was the 11th-ranked recruit in Diaz's 2020 class. After three seasons in Coral Gables, Roberts entered the transfer portal in December 2022 and rejoined former Hurricanes coach Rhett Lashlee at SMU. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a fifth season. Roberts accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl. He volunteers at a non-profit that raises awareness of domestic violence.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	4	0.0	0.0	1	0	0	Miami; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (7/0)	8	0.5	0.5	0	0	0	Miami
2022: (8/1)	9	1.0	0.0	0	0	0	Miami
2023: (14/14)	37	12.5	10.0	2	2	0	SMU; Second Team All-AAC; led team in sacks
2024: (13/13)	35	11.0	7.5	2	1	0	SMU; Honorable Mention All-AAC; led team in sacks; team captain; missed one game (right hand)
Total: (47/28)	93	25.0	18.0	5	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6035	285	10 1/4	33 5/8	82 1/2	4.78	2.78	1.67	31 1/2	9' 8"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6034	292	10 1/2	34	82 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.78	DNP	25

STRENGTHS:

- Average height, but a wide, thick build and long arms
- Plays with brute strength and force in his hands to jar at contact
- Well-executed speed-to-power moves, using both hands to drive/forklift blockers
- Shows natural feel for hesitation/stutter bulls
- Has lateral agility for inside swipes and chop-cross moves
- Above-average run awareness and quickly reads blocking schemes
- Doesn't allow length go to waste; uses different lock-out techniques to set the edge
- Drops his weight into pullers to create immediate stopping power
- Senior captain and competes with a hungry motor
- Posted consistent backfield production past two seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Average initial burst, with stiffness in his hips and ankles
- Doesn't have lower-body flexibility to easily dip or turn the corner against NFL tackles
- Pass-rush movements tend to be segmented and forecasted at times
- Undeveloped countering technique
- Left too much tackle production on the field on 2024 tape
- Doesn't offer much in reverse; unproven lining up inside the tackle
- Missed one game as a super senior because of a broken bone in right hand (Nov. 2024) — wore a thick cast final four games

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at SMU, Roberts lined up primarily as an edge rusher (seven-/nine-technique) in defensive coordinator Scott Symons four-man base line. He struggled to find a consistent role in three years at Miami, but he flourished with the Mustangs and combined for 131 pressures over the past two seasons (No. 1 in the FBS over that span).

Roberts has a very unique body type for an edge rusher, but he knows how to affect the quarterback by leaning into his strengths — specifically, his long arms and ability to create force at contact (especially if the blocker plays with wide hands and invites Roberts' signature bull rush into his chest). He drops his weight against the run, locks out and holds his own at the point of attack, although his range was inconsistent when working off contact. Overall, Roberts is more deliberate than dynamic as an athlete. He accelerates well in short areas, though, and power is the foundation of his game, which shows both as a pass rusher and edge setter. His uniqueness might scare off some teams, but he has the goods to be a rotational edge with upside on the interior.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

EDGE24 Fadil Diggs

Syracuse, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
East Camden, NJ	Woodrow Wilson	Oct 15, 2001	23.52	6043	257	#10

BACKGROUND: Fadil "Big Frank" Diggs grew up in East Camden, N.J. (five miles across the Delaware River from Philadelphia), with his mother (Toma Robinson) and father (Mark). His older brother (Anthony) was shot and killed in the fall of 2017. The following year, three of Diggs' friends were shot and killed, including his best friend (Sincere Howard). Fadil used sports growing up, specifically basketball and football, to avoid any negative influences. During middle school, he established himself as one of the top youth football players in the area and had numerous private high schools (from Philadelphia to Washington D.C.) recruiting him. Starting in eighth grade, Diggs played both ways on the 7-on-7 team the Next Level Greats and won several championships, including the 2018 national title. His younger brother (Fatim) was a three-star linebacker recruit in the 2024 class and signed with Syracuse (made two tackles in three games in 2024, preserving his redshirt).

Diggs bypassed the attention from the private schools to enroll at Woodrow Wilson High (later renamed Eastside High), a public school. He was high school teammates with several FBS recruits, including Miles Frazier, an offensive line prospect in the 2025 NFL Draft. After earning a varsity roster spot as a freshman, he played both ways (edge rusher and wide receiver) as a sophomore and helped the team to the 2017 league title with 58 tackles, nine sacks and one interception. Over his final two seasons, Diggs led Woodrow Wilson to back-to-back South Jersey Group 3 Championships (first school to win the title in consecutive years. As a senior, he was named New Jersey Gatorade Player of the Year (99 tackles, 41 tackles for loss and 19 sacks). Diggs' role expanded on offense in his final season, and he finished with 65 catches for 1,031 yards and 11 touchdowns in 2019, becoming the first player in New Jersey history with more than 1,000 receiving yards and 15 sacks in the same season. He also lettered in basketball and track at Woodrow Wilson, setting a personal best of 11.53 seconds in the 100-meters (11.53).

A four-star recruit, Diggs was the ninth-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in New Jersey (Ohio State linebacker Cody Simon was No. 1). He received his first scholarship offer in the spring of his freshman year from Rutgers, followed by offers from NC State and Temple. After his sophomore season, Diggs added major offers from Georgia, Notre Dame, Ohio State and Penn State (the school he'd grown up rooting for). He finished with almost 40 offers, including some schools that wanted him as a tight end, including West Virginia. Diggs initially committed to Texas A&M in May 2019, because of his relationship with defensive line coach (and Woodrow Wilson alum) Elijah Robinson. He came close to flipping to Maryland or Penn State (his mom wanted him closer to home), but Diggs "trusted his gut" and signed with the Aggies. He was the 10th-ranked recruit in former head coach Jimbo Fisher's 2020 class, behind running back Devon Achane and linebacker Edgerrin Cooper, among others.

After four seasons in College Station, Diggs graduated with a degree from Texas A&M and entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2023). He followed Robinson to Syracuse, after Robinson was hired as defensive coordinator. Diggs also has a relationship with head coach Fran Brown, a fellow Camden native. Diggs accepted an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	2	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Texas A&M; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (12/0)	9	2.5	1.0	0	0	0	Texas A&M; blocked punt
2022: (8/8)	28	5.0	3.0	3	0	0	Texas A&M; team captain; led team in FFs; missed final four games (injury)
2023: (12/12)	36	11.0	4.0	0	2	0	Texas A&M; team captain; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2024: (12/12)	45	14.0	7.5	1	1	0	Syracuse; Honorable Mention All-ACC; led team in sacks, TFL; missed bowl game (lower-body injury)
Total: (45/32)	120	32.5	15.5	4	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6043	257	10 3/8	33 3/8	79 1/8	4.57	2.67	1.60	30 1/2	10' 1"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6044	259	10 3/4	33 3/4	79 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.39	DNP	26

STRENGTHS:

- Prototypical dimensions with his frame, length and hand size
- Quality athlete in his footwork and moves well in space for his size
- Better bend and flexibility than expected for a player that long
- Syracuse weaponized his downhill burst and physicality as A-gap blitzer from depth
- Nifty inside arm-over move to create a rush lane
- Solid understanding of how to fit the run from stacked position
- Physical mentality — will throw his shoulder into contact to clog lanes or stone pulling linemen
- Twice named a team captain at Texas A&M and ingrained himself quickly in Syracuse culture in 2024
- Set career bests in backfield production in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Average get-off by NFL standards
- Segmented pass rush; not a polished technician
- Can get hung up on blocks when attempting to work off initial strike
- Powerful blockers can break down his anchor and shield him from lanes
- Streaky break down and finish as tackler, leading to misses (see 2024 Ohio tape)
- Had more than 100 coverage reps in 2024 but didn't look natural finding passing lanes
- Missed final four games of sophomore season because of lower-body injury (Oct. 2022); missed bowl game as senior because of lower-body injury (Dec. 2024)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Syracuse, Diggs was an edge rusher in defensive coordinator Elijah Robinson's four-man front, often standing up on sub-package downs and rushing from different angles (28.3 percent of his 2024 defensive snaps came in the box). After four seasons in College Station, he followed Elijah Robinson to Syracuse and led the team in tackles for loss (14) and sacks (7.5) in 2024.

Although his rush attack is a tad predictable, Diggs is a long strider who can eat up ground with a runway and unleash his heavy hands to bulldoze at contact. His inconsistent pad level and lock-out needs work as an edge setter, but he doesn't shy from contact. Overall, Diggs might not have any exceptional traits that separate him, but he is a well-rounded player with enough athleticism and physicality packed into an NFL frame. He projects as a scheme-versatile NFL backup who can provide a nice changeup off the bench.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

EDGE25 Jared Ivey

Ole Miss, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Suwanee, GA	North Gwinnett	Dec 05, 2001	23.38	6057	274	#15

BACKGROUND: Jared Ivey, who has an older brother (Garrison), was born and raised just outside of Atlanta with his parents (Gary and Tracey). When Jared was in second grade in 2009, his father, who had been diagnosed with an enlarged heart, died of a heart attack at age of 36. Jared's mother (who has a twin sister) is a first-generation American — her family is from Jamaica, and she was born in Brooklyn before moving to Houston.

Jared Ivey started playing baseball at age 5 before discovering basketball, his "first love." He played AAU and believed basketball would be his future. At age 9, he started to dive into football and played throughout middle school, except in eighth grade (Tracey wouldn't let him play until he improved his attitude).

Ivey enrolled at North Gwinnett High, where he was teammates with several future FBS players, including wide receiver Josh Downs, safety DJ Turner and linebacker Barrett Carter. After playing on the freshman team his first year, he moved up to varsity as a 175-pound sophomore defensive end and helped North Gwinnett to a 14-1 record and the 2017 7A state championship. As a junior, Ivey posted 46 tackles, 10.5 tackles for loss and six sacks, as North Gwinnett won 10 games and captured the 2018 7A regional title. He had his best season as a 205-pound senior — he was named 7A Defensive Player of the Year and Gwinnett County Defensive Lineman of the Year. He finished his final season with 80 tackles, 32.5 tackles for loss and a school-record 20 sacks. North Gwinnett posted a 36-6 record over Ivey's three varsity seasons. He also started three seasons at center on the North Gwinnett varsity basketball team and was well known for his high-flying dunks. He earned all-state and team MVP honors as a senior in both football and basketball.

A four-star recruit, Ivey was the 17th-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 33 recruit in Georgia. He preferred basketball over football early in his high school career and showed enough promise to earn basketball scholarship offers from Coastal Carolina and Middle Tennessee State (June 2018). But his coaches convinced him that his frame was better suited for football long-term, and Ivey switched his focus as an upperclassman.

His first football offer arrived in September 2018 from Arizona State, followed by offers from Iowa State, Wake Forest and Vanderbilt. The bulk of his offers came from the Big Ten (Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska) and ACC (Duke, Miami, North Carolina, Pittsburgh, Virginia, Virginia Tech). Ivey narrowed down his final five to Colorado, Duke, Georgia Tech, Nebraska and Stanford before choosing to stay close to home and sign with Georgia Tech (the campus was 30 miles from his high school). He was the second-ranked recruit in former head coach Geoff Collins' 2020 class (behind running back Jahmyr Gibbs).

After two seasons at Georgia Tech, Ivey entered the transfer portal in January 2022. He immediately heard from several schools and received offers from Miami and Oregon, but Ole Miss and head coach Lane Kiffin sold him on Oxford and the SEC — Ivey enrolled in classes within a week of entering the portal. He graduated with a degree in general business and accepted an invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (9/2)	8	1.0	0.0	0	0	0	Georgia Tech; enrolled July 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/11)	32	6.0	1.5	1	1	0	Georgia Tech
2022: (13/7)	37	4.5	3.5	1	0	0	Ole Miss; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/12)	46	11.5	5.5	0	1	0	Ole Miss; led team in TFL; 26-yard fumble-return TD; bowl game MVP
2024: (12/11)	42	10.5	7.0	2	3	0	Ole Miss; Third Team All-SEC; missed one game (left foot)
Total: (58/43)	165	33.5	17.5	4	5	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6057	274	9 1/8	33 1/2	82 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6055	274	8 7/8	34 1/8	82 5/8	5.15	3.02	1.84	30 1/2	9'5"	4.68	7.56	16

STRENGTHS:

- NFL-ready frame with functional length/bulk
- Uses long-levered extension to jolt and work off contact
- Leans on various physical swipes to slice the edge with his hands
- Times snap well with lateral agility to jump cut inside/outside
- Consistently rallying to the football to make stops away from his spot
- Can set the edge when he locks out with strain to stay rooted
- Former coaches always bring up his intelligence before physical traits
- Developed love for the weight room to build up body (195 pounds as a high school junior)
- Charismatic and jells well in locker room (also hosted podcast at Ole Miss called "Ivey League")

WEAKNESSES:

- Rushes tall, creating a big target for hands of blockers
- Euro steps and move timing feel rigid at times
- Will drift past the quarterback on high-side rushes
- Can stack, but his shed and secondary quickness off contact lack suddenness
- Plays with competitive edge on some plays — but not every play
- Can be juiced by average athletes in backfield
- Missed one game as super senior with left foot injury (Sept. 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Ole Miss, Ivey lined up primarily on the edge (seven-/nine-technique) in defensive coordinator Pete Golding's 4-2-5 base scheme after splitting his snaps 50-50 inside and outside in 2023. After two losing seasons at Georgia Tech, he transferred to greener pastures in Oxford and logged 16 sacks in a Rebels uniform, which ranks top 10 in program history.

Though not twitchy, Ivey is a graceful athlete for his size, with a basketball background and length for days, which helps him set an edge, spill and chase in the run game. He rolls out of his stance as a pass rusher to build his speed and get his hands involved, but he lacks a consistent plan and struggles to string moves together. Overall, Ivey has the length and versatile skill set NFL teams want in their defensive line rooms, although he needs to play with more consistent violence and rush efficiency to stand out when working alongside proven NFL vets. He can contribute on sub-package downs as a rookie and push for a more meaningful role with added consistency.

GRADE: 5th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Danbury, CT	Danbury	Jul 30, 2001	23.73	6042	262	#17

BACKGROUND: Masta Jahquay "Jah" (jaw) Joyner, one of five children, grew up in Waterbury and Danbury in southwest Connecticut with his father (Matthew) and mother (Rosheena). He played sports throughout childhood, including football starting in fifth grade. However, the sport at that time was more just something to do — he didn’t take it seriously until high school.

Joyner attended Danbury High, where he was a multisport standout. As a sophomore, Danbury managed one win (1-9), but Joyner started to draw attention on the field and earned all-conference honors while playing just seven games. Under new head coach Augustine Tieri, Joyner had his true breakout season as a junior in 2018 when he posted 34 tackles, 11 sacks, three blocked kicks and one interception (Joyner: "I didn't really start to take football serious until my junior year."). Joyner was a first-team all-state performer as a senior with 32 tackles and 13 sacks in eight games. He was also a standout left tackle and suited up for the Danbury basketball team.

A three-star recruit, Joyner was the 23rd-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 7 recruit in Connecticut. Joyner started to take college visits before junior season and received his first scholarship offer from Rutgers in November 2018. He added offers the following spring from Arizona State, Boston College, Connecticut, Indiana and Nebraska. He originally committed to Boston College in June 2019, but after a shake up on the coaching staff, decommitted the day before signing day. Joyner flipped to Minnesota and was the second-ranked recruit in the Gophers' 2020 class. He earned 2021 Academic All-Big Ten honors and graduated with a degree in Criminal Law (May 2024) — he has a goal of becoming a lawyer after his playing days. Joyner opted out of Minnesota's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (0/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (4/0)	1	1.0	1.0	0	0	0	Redshirted
2022: (13/0)	15	2.5	1.5	0	1	0
2023: (13/1)	18	7.5	7.5	2	1	0	Led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (12/12)	32	5.5	4.5	2	7	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (42/13)	66	16.5	14.5	4	9	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	262	9 3/8	34	82 1/2	4.60	2.75	1.67	30	DNP	4.68	7.33	DNP	No BJ or bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6036	261	9 1/4	34 1/8	82	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.55	DNP	22

STRENGTHS:

- Passes the eye test with a long, moldable frame
- Quality athlete who moves well laterally and linearly
- Quick off the ball and gains ground with initial step
- Arsenal of moves expanded as senior, including ghost rip that became effective for him
- Closes fast to the ball and makes plays in backside pursuit
- Shows functional core strength to constrict the edge
- Did a better job maximizing length when setting the edge in 2024
- Uses his long arms to bat down balls at the line
- Came in at 220 pounds and developed his body over the years
- Coaches speak about his maturity and how he grew to be more of a vocal guy in the room

WEAKNESSES:

- Not as powerful as expected (even with a runway), and his bull rush can be neutralized
- Inconsistent setup and pass-rush disguise
- Needs to think less and be more efficient with move-to-move rush sequence
- Finds himself too upright versus the run, with average reaction quickness
- Takes a beat to digest what he sees — needs to be more instant off spots
- Some undisciplined tendencies (two facemask penalties on 2024 tapes studied)
- Just 13 starts over five years at the college level
- Sack and pressure numbers decreased from 2023 to 2024, despite playing more snaps

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Minnesota, Joyner lined up primarily as an outside edge rusher in defensive coordinator Corey Hetherman's four-man front. He was slow to see the field (played behind NFL Draft picks Boye Mafe and Ezezi Otomewo) before showing NFL promise in 2023 and improvements in 2024, despite a production dip the latter year.

A long-framed athlete, Joyner looks the part and does a nice job using his length at the point of attack to set the edge and finish as a tackler. His long strides and levers are assets for him as a pass rusher, as well, but he is too predictable in his attack and needs to develop his sequencing and balance at the top of his rush. Overall, Joyner has impressive physical attributes, with the toolbox that NFL coaches want to work with, but he is still learning the finer points of the pass rush and his impact doesn't currently reflect his traits. He has the upside of an NFL starter, but his tape shows a rotational player — until he proves otherwise.

GRADE: 5th round

EDGE27 Antwaun Powell-Ryland

Virginia Tech, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Portsmouth, VA	Indian River	Feb 23, 2002	23.16	6025	258	#52

BACKGROUND: Antwaun Powell-Ryland grew up in the South Hampton Roads region of Virginia with his father (Antwaun Powell Sr.) and mother (Malina Ryland). Though he grew up playing basketball and football in the backyard throughout childhood, he didn't play organized sports. Then in eighth grade, Powell-Ryland joined the football team, starting out as a stack linebacker before moving to defensive end. His older half-brother (Demontray Ryland) was an all-region player at I.C. Norcom High in Portsmouth before playing linebacker at FCS North Carolina Central (2010-14).

Powell-Ryland enrolled at I.C. Norcom and split his time as a freshman between JV and varsity. He started on varsity as a sophomore and helped the team to a 9-2 finish. As a 220-pound junior, Powell-Ryland gained more attention for his ability to rush the quarterback, posting 17 tackles for loss and nine sacks to earn first-team all-state and all-region honors. He transferred to Indian River High in Chesapeake for his senior year, but he suffered a left shoulder injury six plays into that season, prematurely ending his high school career. He also lettered in basketball in high school.

A four-star recruit, Powell-Ryland was the 10th-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Virginia. His recruitment kicked off after his sophomore season with an offer from Duke. In the midst of his standout junior season, Powell-Ryland added offers from Pittsburgh, Temple, Virginia and Virginia Tech. He then received offers from several national powers in the spring of 2019, including Michigan, Notre Dame, Penn State, Oklahoma and Tennessee. But Powell-Ryland was drawn to the idea of playing "Buck" pass rusher in Todd Grantham's defense at Florida. He committed to the Gators in June 2019, and Florida didn't waver on his scholarship after he was sidelined for his senior season. Powell-Ryland was the 11th-ranked recruit in former head coach Dan Mullen's 2020 class (one spot behind quarterback Anthony Richardson).

After three years in Gainesville, he wanted to be "closer to home," so he transferred to Virginia Tech (May 2023) to play for head coach Brent Pry. Powell-Ryland graduated with a degree in sociology (Dec. 2024). He opted out of Virginia Tech's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (2/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Florida; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (12/0)	5	1.5	1.5	0	0	0	Florida
2022: (13/5)	29	6.0	3.0	3	1	0	Florida
2023: (13/12)	40	14.5	9.5	3	0	0	Virginia Tech; Second Team All-ACC; Led team in sacks and TFL; enrolled May 2023
2024: (12/12)	43	19.0	16.0	3	0	0	Virginia Tech; Second Team All-American; First Team All-ACC; Led team in sacks, TFL; missed bowl (opt-out)
Total: (52/29)	117	41.0	30.0	9	1	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6025	258	9 5/8	31 1/4	76 1/8	4.69	2.72	1.63	36 1/2	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6023	264	9	31 1/2	76 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	38	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Varies rush attack to keep blockers on their toes
- Looks to threaten with speed, force over sets and hit blockers with a counter spin
- Flexibility in lower half as a high-side rusher
- Nice timing with his hands and leverage mechanics to convert speed to power at contact
- Almost half (44.2 percent) of his tackles in 2024 came in opponent's backfield
- Chases in the run game and quickly digests play development
- Has a knack for ripping the football out (nine forced fumbles over past three seasons)
- Blocked extra point attempt on 2024 Syracuse tape

WEAKNESSES:

- A tad lighter than ideal for edge work, with below-average arm length
- Functional strength was okay against ACC competition but will be a potential issue versus NFL blocking power
- Average burst at the line
- Inconsistent working back under once past pocket depth
- Tackles high and looks to throw ball carriers down, which leads to misses (see 2024 Boston College tape)
- Not a player you want dropping into space
- Stayed healthy in college but had multiple shoulder procedures in high school

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Virginia Tech, Powell-Ryland was an edge rusher in head coach Brent Pry's four-man front, lining up exclusively outside the tackle on both base and sub downs. Primarily a reserve over his three seasons at Florida, he transferred back home and led the FBS in sacks over the past two seasons (25.5). He registered four sacks three different times for the Hokies, joining Bruce Smith as the only players in school history with multiple four-sack games.

Despite below-average length and get-off burst, Powell-Ryland was a difficult player to block on tape, because of his ability to mix up his rush attack and detach from blockers (including his signature spin move). He can get pushed around as a run defender when setting an edge, and he might not be ready for early-down snaps in the NFL until he improves his upper- and lower-body strength. Overall, Powell-Ryland posted eye-popping pass-rush production with active hands to slip blocks, but he doesn't offer ideal traits by NFL standards and inconsistent run-game reps leave his NFL role in question. He projects as a potential nickel rusher.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

EDGE28

Que Robinson

Alabama, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Birmingham, AL	Jackson-Olin	May 12, 2001	23.95	6042	243	#34

BACKGROUND: Quandarrius "Que" Robinson, who has two younger sisters, grew up in Birmingham, Ala., with his mother (Tynesha Whatley), who is a nursing assistant. Robinson rekindled a relationship with his father over the last few years, before his father's death in September 2024. Robinson grew up playing different sports in the Ensley neighborhood of Birmingham, mostly basketball and football.

Robinson enrolled at P.D. Jackson-Olin High in Birmingham and played football as a freshman. He didn't receive much playing time, though, and briefly quit the team to focus on basketball. Regretting that decision, he returned to football as a sophomore and started to gain traction as a 6-foot-3, 200-pound safety recruit. Robinson continued to add weight before his junior season and transitioned to an edge role — he had no prior experience at defensive line or linebacker. As a 225-pound junior in 2018, he posted 40 tackles, 13 tackles for loss and eight sacks and led Jackson-Olin to a 10-1 season (its lone loss coming in the 6A state playoffs). Robinson was poised for his best season as a senior, but he was limited to only three games because of an ankle injury. He was able to return for the U.S. Army All-American Bowl.

A four-star recruit, Robinson was the sixth-ranked outside linebacker in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Alabama. He was also the No. 65 recruit nationally. During the summer of his sophomore season, Robinson picked up his first scholarship offer from Auburn (July 2017). He added offers during his sophomore year from Alabama, Ole Miss, Oregon and South Carolina. But he connected with Gus Malzahn and the Auburn coaching staff and was familiar with T.D. Moultry, a Jackson-Olin alum who signed with the Tigers. Robinson committed to Auburn in July 2018, although he continued taking visits, including several stops in Tuscaloosa. The summer before his senior year, he flipped to Nick Saban and the Tide. Robinson was the eighth-ranked recruit in Saban's 2020 class (behind edge rushers Will Anderson Jr. and Chris Braswell, among others). He graduated with a degree in kinesiology (Aug. 2024). Robinson accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Redshirted; enrolled June 2020
2021: (7/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0
2022: (13/0)	6	0.0	0.0	0	0	0
2023: (14/0)	24	2.5	1.5	0	0	0
2024: (9/5)	23	7.0	4.0	1	0	0	Missed final four games (elbow)
Total: (43/5)	53	9.5	5.5	1	0	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	243	9 5/8	33 1/2	80 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice; elbow)
PRO DAY	6041	241	9 3/4	33 1/4	80 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, athletic frame with adequate length
- Flashes get-off and bend
- Lower-body flexibility helps him sink, redirect and make tackles in short spaces
- Eager with his hands to physically escape blockers
- Striding speed helps him close alleys and chase down ball carriers
- Can drop and spy or rush over B-gap
- Described as "mature and humble"
- Core-four special-teamer and an impact performer past three seasons (15 career special teams tackles)

WEAKNESSES:

- Slender for the position and lacks ideal mass
- Blockers can get leverage wins against him
- Needs to school up his hands to help compensate for average strength
- Late to anticipate blocks in the run game, losing sight of the ball in traffic
- Undeveloped pass-rush arsenal
- Just five starts in college — lack of experience is reflected on tape
- Career production wouldn't be impressive in just one season for a pass rusher
- Missed final four games of his final season with an elbow injury (Nov. 2024)

SUMMARY: A part-time starter at Alabama, Robinson played the "Wolf" edge position in defensive coordinator Kane Womack's hybrid front. Buried on the depth chart in Tuscaloosa, he saw just 370 defensive snaps in college, resulting in 5.5 career sacks (just 1.5 against SEC competition). Though he struggled to make an impact on defense, Robinson made the most of his playing time by becoming a key special teams performer across all four coverages.

He flashes range as a run defender and short-area quickness as a pass rusher, but he needs to replace his hands consistently on his get-off and become comfortable countering once initially blocked. Overall, Robinson is a traits-based, tweener prospect with potential as an edge setter, although his lack of development is going to stick out like a sore thumb next to NFL players in training camp. His saving grace is his coverage talent on special teams, which might keep him on a roster as he grows as a defender.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

EDGE29 Kaimon Rucker

North Carolina, 5SR

HOMETOWN Hartwell, GA	HIGH SCHOOL Hart County	BIRTHDAY Feb 28, 2002	AGE 23.15	HT 6012	WT 255	NUM #7
--------------------------	----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Kaimon (KAY-mun) Rucker, an only child, grew up in the small town of Hartwell (northern Georgia near the South Carolina state line) with his parents (Kendell and Kristie). Kendell, a three-time all-conference nose guard at Division II Mars Hill University (1994-97), is a coach, teacher and the director of Hart Academy, a charter school in Hart County. Kristie is a nurse. Kaimon Rucker started playing football at age 7, with his father as his coach. He played mostly offensive line throughout youth football and at Hart County Middle School. Rucker was also active in the church choir throughout childhood — he performed an a cappella version of the national anthem before the 2022 Final Four matchup between North Carolina and Duke. (His dream outside of football is to sing on Broadway one day.)

Rucker enrolled at Hart County High, where he was a two-sport standout. He continued to play on the offensive line, at right guard, splitting his time between the JV and varsity teams. As a sophomore in 2017, Rucker became a starting left tackle. With his eyes on earning a scholarship, he shed weight before his junior season and moved to defensive end. Rucker earned second-team all-state honors in 2018 and was named 3A Defensive Player of the Year (81 tackles, 19 tackles for loss, eight sacks and three forced fumbles). As a senior, he led Hart County to a 10-win season and deep playoff run. Despite missing several games because of injury, he again earned all-state honors with 49 tackles, 11 tackles for loss and 7.5 sacks. Rucker also lettered in track and became the first freshman to qualify for states in the shot put (had a personal-best mark of 52 feet, 10 inches). He finished runner-up at the 2019 3A state championships in the shot put. He set a personal best of 125-0 in the discus.

A three-star recruit, Rucker was the 62nd-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 128 recruit in Georgia. He attended numerous recruiting camps but struggled to get noticed by major programs. After his junior season, Rucker picked up his first scholarship offers from Liberty, Mercer and Tennessee Tech (Feb. 2019). As he showed out on the camp circuit, offers soon followed from Appalachian State, Charlotte, Ohio, Toledo, Tulane and Western Kentucky. His first offer from a power conference came from Louisville in May 2019.

After earning defensive line MVP honors at The Opening in Charlotte, Rucker drew the attention of North Carolina's coaches. He visited Chapel Hill in June 2019 and head coach Mack Brown gave him an offer on the spot — Rucker committed a few days later. He was the 25th-ranked recruit (out of 27) in Brown's 2020 class. Rucker took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to the Tar Heels for his fifth season (turned down lucrative NIL deals from other programs). A finalist for the 2024 Jason Witten Collegiate Man of the Year Award, he donated $10,000 of his NIL proceeds to help victims of Hurricane Helene in Western North Carolina. Rucker graduated with a degree in psychology and aspires to be a sports psychologist after he's done playing football. He declined all-star game invites, because of his injury recovery.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (10/1)	21	3.0	0.0	0	0	0	Enrolled July 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/10)	31	5.5	4.0	1	0	0
2022: (14/4)	37	7.0	3.5	2	1	0
2023: (13/13)	61	15.0	8.5	1	1	0	Second Team All-ACC; led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (8/7)	30	8.0	6.0	0	2	1	Missed four games (knee); missed bowl game (left leg)
Total: (58/35)	180	38.5	22.0	4	4	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6010	254	10	32 5/8	79 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	27	Bench only (choice)
PRO DAY	6012	255	10	32 1/2	79 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Compact, well-proportioned build with strong legs
- Quick off the ball and creates force with initial acceleration
- Natural leverage and body strength don't allow blockers to push him off rush track
- Efficiently toggles between burst and hesitation to weaponize rush pace through soft edges
- Unleashes hand swipe and rip move at the top of the rush
- Keeps outside arm free and maintains block-to-ball contain relationships
- Patient reads; eyes trained on the football help him make run stops at the line
- Prides himself on setting a standard by outworking the guy next to him (head coach Mack Brown: "He's smart, tough and driven.")
- Coaches relied on his leadership (former defensive coordinator Geoff Collins: "He knows which buttons to push.")
- His career total of 22 sacks ranks No. 6 all-time in Tar Heels history

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks ideal height and length by NFL standards
- Mediocre fluidity doesn't help secondary rush moves
- Controlling blocks against NFL offensive tackles won't be a walk in the park
- Hand activity helps keep him free, but he will be moved from his spot when he loses leverage
- Inconsistent reactions handling pullers in run game
- Doesn't have chase-down speed to close the gap in pursuit
- Rarely asked to drop and make plays in space (did have an interception on the 2024 Virginia tape)
- Cracked fibula after an NC State offensive lineman rolled on his left leg (Nov. 2024), which sidelined him for bowl game and part of draft process; reaggravated previous knee injury while lifting weights (Sept. 2024) and required a cleanup procedure to repair a torn meniscus, which sidelined him four games; ruptured tendon in right middle finger (Nov. 2023) — played through it over final two games before getting offseason surgery (April 2024), which sidelined him for spring practices

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at North Carolina, Rucker lined up as the "Rush" end in former defensive coordinator Geoff Collins' four-man front (100 percent of his defensive snaps in 2024 came outside the offensive tackle). Although his super-senior season didn't go as planned because of injuries, his value was never more apparent — the energy on North Carolina's defense was like night and day when he was sidelined or on the field.

Rucker, who received the nickname "The Butcher" after former defensive line coach Tim Cross described him as a "rolling ball of butcher knives," is an explosive linear athlete and attacks the hips of blockers to win with natural leverage. He can be covered up at times in the run game, but his discipline and fast, physical hands help him punch off blocks. Overall, Rucker doesn't have the high-level rush tools to make teams easily overlook his size deficiencies, but he plays with violent energy that gives him a chance to carve out a role. His game resembles that of Ogbo Okoronkwo, who has been a productive NFL pass rusher.

GRADE: 6th round

HOMETOWN Knoxville, TN	HIGH SCHOOL Catholic	BIRTHDAY Oct 22, 2001	AGE 23.50	HT 6045	WT 258	NUM #9
---------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Tyler Baron, the youngest of three boys, grew up in the Nashville, Tenn., area with his parents (Patrick Abernathy and Jessica Baron). Abernathy was an all-state linebacker at Nashville Stratford High before playing at Tennessee State in the early 1980s with future NFL Hall of Famer Richard Dent. After his playing days, he became a football coach for the UNA Bears in the Tennessee Youth Football League for 15 years and won multiple national championships. He then was an assistant at Brentwood Academy (where he coached defensive back Jalen Ramsey) before joining the support staff at Tennessee (2014-22) as director of player development, spanning three different head coaches.

With two older brothers and a coach for a father, Baron was patrolling the sidelines by age 2. He started playing organized football at age 5 and often played up a level throughout Pop Warner. His older brother (Woody), who is eight years older than Tyler, played defensive line at Virginia Tech (2013-16) and was signed by the Dallas Cowboys after he went undrafted in the 2017 NFL Draft. Woody has played the last seven seasons in the CFL for the Montreal Alouettes (2018-21), BC Lions (2022-23) and Toronto Argonauts (2024). Tyler's other brother (Jordan) served in the National Guard.

Baron started his prep career at Ensworth High, a private school in Nashville (Tim Hasselbeck hired as head coach in 2024). Baron saw immediate varsity reps as a freshman defensive end and helped the program to an 8-4 record. As a sophomore, he posted 58 tackles, 8.5 tackles for loss and 2.5 sacks and played both ways as a tight end on offense. As a junior, Baron finished with 47 tackles, 10.5 tackles for loss and 2.5 sacks; he voluntarily moved to left tackle to give that position a boost. He transferred after the 2018 season to Knoxville Catholic High (Jan. 2019) to be closer to his father, who was at Tennessee, and face better competition (matched up against future Volunteers teammates Cooper Mays in practice). In his final season, Baron earned 3A all-state honors with 105 tackles, 22 tackles for loss and nine sacks in 2019. He also lettered in basketball and track.

A four-star recruit, Baron was the fourth-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Tennessee. With his father on staff at Tennessee, the Volunteers were early to Baron's recruitment. He received a scholarship from former head coach Butch Jones in November 2016, and Jeremy Pruitt reaffirmed that offer shortly after replacing Jones as head coach in January 2018. Meanwhile, several other national programs joined the mix, including Alabama, Florida State, LSU, Ole Miss and Texas A&M. As a senior, he announced a final five of Kentucky, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Oregon and Tennessee before officially committing to Tennessee on signing day. Baron was the sixth-ranked recruit in Pruitt's 2020 class.

After the 2021 season, he briefly entered the transfer portal before electing to return to Knoxville (his father resigned from his role following the 2021 season). After four seasons with the program, Baron returned to college football for his fifth season and entered the transfer portal in December 2023. He originally committed to Ole Miss before flipping to Louisville in January 2024. However, Baron reentered the transfer portal in April 2024 and chose Miami over Ole Miss. He accepted an invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (10/0)	21	3.0	1.0	0	0	0	Tennessee; enrolled June 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/5)	30	7.0	4.0	0	2	0	Tennessee
2022: (13/3)	22	6.5	2.5	1	0	0	Tennessee
2023: (12/11)	28	10.5	6.0	0	2	0	Tennessee; 24-yard fumble-return TD; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2024: (13/9)	38	11.0	5.5	1	0	0	Miami (Fla.); Honorable Mention All-ACC; led team in sacks, TFL
Total: (61/28)	139	38.0	19.0	2	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6045	258	10	33 1/8	80 1/4	4.62	2.69	1.61	35 1/2	10' 1"	DNP	DNP	19	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6047	262	10 1/8	33	80 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.53	7.41	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall with decent mass and arm length
- Good first step to build speed and challenge the corner
- Adequate bend to dip, rip and straighten out to the quarterback
- Aggressive hands — uses a variety of cross-chops and stab-rips
- Can keep blockers off him when he properly uses length and keeps his feet alive
- Average quickness to cross the face of blockers and threaten inside gaps
- Plays with quality hustle as a pursuit player
- Learned from Hall of Famer (Jason Taylor) as defensive ends coach in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Streaky competitor with ordinary play strength
- Undisciplined on zone-read assignments
- Caught leaning on blocks as edge setter, instead of consistently locking out
- Pad level gets up and down, which gets him in trouble
- Doesn't protect his chest and can be knocked off path easily
- Finds himself too deep at times as a rusher
- Too many penalties, including a roughing penalty on 2024 Florida State tape
- Left too much tackle production on 2024 tape
- Loses track of targets when spot dropping in coverage
- Missed 2024 spring practices because of labrum surgery

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Miami, Baron was an outside edge rusher (seven-/nine-technique) in former defensive coordinator Lance Guidry's four-man front. Considered a transfer-portal prize for the Hurricanes, he didn't quite live up to expectations in 2024, although he did lead Miami in tackles for loss, pressures and sacks (even if three of his 5.5 sacks came versus an FCS team).

Baron is a charged-up linear athlete who has some tightness but can dip and escape blocks when his hand timing stays on point. Though he has a solid pursuit motor, the inconsistent physicality and discipline at the point of attack was a consistent issue on tape. Overall, Baron has some pass-rush skill, but he's an uneven run performer and there isn't much that distinguishes him by NFL standards, beyond being a potential rotational piece. If he brings his fastball, he is a potential sub-package rusher for an NFL defense.

GRADE: 6th round

EDGE31 Ahmed Hassanein

Boise State, 4SR

HOMETOWN Cairo, Egypt	HIGH SCHOOL Loara	BIRTHDAY Jul 09, 2002	AGE 22.79	HT 6024	WT 267	NUM #91
--------------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Ahmed (ah-MED) Hassanein (HAH-suh-noon) was born in Orange County, Calif., and raised by his father (Sana). At age 6, he and his father moved to Egypt, and Hassanein grew up in Cairo (he experienced the 2011 Egyptian revolution first-hand). He only spoke Arabic growing up and didn't truly learn English until he returned to the United States in 2018. His sister (Gigi Ibrahim) is a journalist who became well known for her human rights activism in Egypt and appeared on the cover of Time Magazine in February 2011.

Hassanein was an active athlete throughout childhood and competed in numerous sports, including boxing, wrestling, judo, jujitsu and swimming. At age 14, he picked up CrossFit Training, and it quickly became his passion — he was the top-ranked CrossFit athlete in his age group in Egypt (ranked No. 14 in Africa and No. 206 in the world).

Hassanein originally attended high school in Egypt, but he expressed interest in returning to the United States. He started looking at military schools before reconnecting with his older half-brother (Cory Besch), who'd visited Egypt in 2018. Besch, an English teacher and football coach at Loara High in Anaheim, Calif., played college football at Division II Azusa Pacific and semi-professionally for the Schwaz Hammers in Austria. In the summer of 2018, Hassanein relocated to the United States and moved in with Besch, who became his legal guardian. Hassanein enrolled at Loara but faced several cultural and linguistic challenges, so he used sports and weight training to help integrate himself in his new home.

Shortly after the move, Hassanein was introduced to football by his brother — he became even more interested after watching Los Angeles Rams defensive tackle Aaron Donald. Before his junior season, he joined the football team at Loara, initially playing wide receiver before moving to the defensive line. Hassanein became a starting defensive tackle and was named all-conference and the league's defensive lineman of the year, helping Loara finish with a 10-3 record and the 2019 league championship. As a senior, he again earned all-conference honors and was named the league's lineman of the year.

A three-star recruit, Hassanein was the 149th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 101 recruit in California. Considering he didn't play football until junior year of high school, he was behind in the recruiting process but attended several camps and trained at Winner Circle Athletics. He didn't have any offers going into his senior season, but that changed when FCS Northern Colorado offered (Aug. 2020). His first FBS offers arrived two months later — Duke and Kansas both offered full-rides. Boise State defensive coordinator (now head coach) Spencer Danielson, who was Besch's teammate at Azusa Pacific, saw Hassanein's highlight clips and offered a scholarship a few weeks before signing day. Because of that connection to his brother, Hassanein felt trust with the coaching staff and committed to the Broncos. He was the ninth-ranked recruit in Boise State's 2021 class (and is believed to be the first Egyptian native to play FBS college football). He was one of three finalists for the 2024 Jason Witten Collegiate Man of the Year Award. He was a four-time Academic All-MWC and 2023 second-team Academic All-American. Hassanein accepted an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (9/0)	5	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Enrolled July 2021
2022: (12/3)	13	2.0	2.0	1	0	0
2023: (14/14)	53	16.5	12.5	2	0	0	First Team All-MWC; led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (14/14)	48	15.5	9.5	0	0	0	First Team All-MWC; led team in TFL; team captain
Total: (49/31)	119	34.0	24.0	3	0	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6023	267	9	32 1/4	78 3/4	4.77	2.80	1.69	32 1/2	9' 5"	DNP	DNP	27	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6024	267	9 1/4	32 1/2	80 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.48	7.19	32

STRENGTHS:

- Owns a compact, developed frame
- Blockers can have a tough time with his motor
- Hands are small but flash violence at contact
- Promising skill as a rusher — has shown key improvements the last few seasons
- Leverages point of attack to set a physical edge
- Voted a team captain in 2024 and genuinely loves to train with his teammates, whom he refers to as his "brothers"
- Tough as nails — played through a torn labrum (Oct. 2023) over final nine games of his junior season (10 sacks in that span)
- Consistent production — only FBS defensive lineman to eclipse 15 tackles for loss each of past two seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Arms fall below desired size measurements
- Average athleticism as a rusher and in open field
- One-speed rusher and will struggle to win the corner versus NFL offensive tackles
- Inconsistent snap anticipation and stiff when attempting to transition and find counter
- Multiple missed tackles on several 2024 tapes studied
- Inconsistent playing through lateral engagements
- Plays in overdrive, taking himself out of run plays at times
- Didn't register a single batted pass in career and doesn't have versatility to play in reverse

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Boise State, Hassanein was a defensive end (five-/seven-technique) in defensive coordinator Erik Chinander's 4-2-5 base scheme. After growing up in Cairo (top-ranked CrossFit athlete in Egypt as a teenager), he moved to the United States in 2018, started playing football in 2019 and became the first player from Egypt to ever play FBS football.

Hassanein is an easy player to appreciate, because he is productive (115 pressures over the past two seasons were third most in the FBS over that span) and his nonstop motor stresses blockers. However, his run-game awareness and immature pass-rush sequencing are underdeveloped. The missed tackles are bothersome, too. Overall, Hassanein is a try-hard edge rusher with plenty of redeeming qualities that will endear him to coaches. He lacks high-level athletic traits, though, and will be low on an NFL depth chart until he improves his predictability as a pass rusher. Given his meager football experience, NFL teams are intrigued by his untapped upside.

GRADE: 6th round

EDGE32

Elijah Ponder

Cal Poly, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pomona, CA	Bishop Amat	Aug 24, 2002	22.67	6027	251	#14

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	3	1.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; season played in spring 2021
2021: (11/11)	35	11.0	8.0	2	5	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Sky; led team in sacks; 75-yard INT TD
2022: (11/10)	36	6.0	1.5	0	1	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Sky
2023: (11/11)	52	13.0	10.0	1	0	0	First Team All-Big Sky; led Big Sky in sacks; blocked PAT
2024: (11/10)	41	12.5	7.0	0	2	0	First Team All-Big Sky; led team in sacks, TFL; Blocked FG; Hula Bowl; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (47/42)	167	43.5	26.5	3	8	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6027	251	10 1/8	33 1/8	80	4.63	2.63	1.56	41	11'0"	4.28	6.99	22

SUMMARY: Elijah Ponder was born and raised in Southern California and was introduced to football by his father (also grew up playing instruments, including the piano, guitar and drums). At Bishop Amat High, he played basketball and track (school-record 47-foot triple jump) and was a do-everything athlete on the football field. He totaled 21 sacks over his final two years.

A two-star recruit, he bypassed a few FBS offers (Colorado State, San Jose State) to sign with FCS Cal Poly. Ponder played a hybrid edge role throughout college, both standing up and putting his hand in the dirt, and ranks third in school history with 26.5 career sacks. Quick off the ball, he can threaten the corner or work across the faces of blockers inside. He uses his hands well to disrupt blockers' balance, although he needs to do a better job with angles in the run game. Overall, Ponder doesn't always play up to his testing numbers, but he rushes with an initial and late burst to affect the quarterback. He projects as a sub-package rusher.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

EDGE33 Ethan Downs

Oklahoma, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Weatherford, OK	Weatherford	Oct 13, 2002	22.53	6036	269	#40

BACKGROUND: Ethan Downs, one of three boys, grew up in Weatherford, Okla., with his parents (Nate and Dee). He started playing flag football before graduating to tackle football for the Eagles in the Weatherford youth league. Downs played other sports, too, but always gravitated toward football. He grew up an Oklahoma fan — starting at age 7, he made it his goal to play for the Sooners.

Downs enrolled at Weatherford High, where he was a multisport standout. Playing both ways as a tight end and defensive end, he posted 72 tackles, 15 tackles for loss, five sacks and one forced fumble as a sophomore. Downs led Weatherford to a 12-win season in 2019, including a trip to the 4A state championship game (81 tackles, 13 tackles for loss, seven sacks and one interception). As a senior, he finished with 50 tackles, 10 tackles for loss, four sacks, one forced fumble and one interception (returned for a touchdown), in an abbreviated 2020 season. Downs also finished his prep career with almost 1,200 rushing yards, 1,000 receiving yards and 29 total touchdowns. He lettered in track and won the 2019 state championship in the shot put (51 feet, 3 inches). He also set a personal best of 141-1 in the discus.

A four-star recruit, Downs was the 12th-ranked edge rusher in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Oklahoma. The summer before his sophomore season, he attended an Oklahoma State camp in June 2018 and earned his first major offer. Over the next year, Downs added offers from Baylor, LSU, Nebraska, Penn State, Texas and Texas A&M. Once Oklahoma offered in June 2019, though, he didn't need long to officially commit and shut down his recruitment. Downs was the seventh-ranked recruit (Caleb Williams was No. 1) in former head coach Lincoln Riley's 2021 class. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl. Downs married his high school sweetheart (Caroline), a member of Oklahoma's rowing team, in July 2023.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/0)	14	3.0	0.5	1	0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/13)	38	13.5	4.5	0	3	0	Second Team All-Big 12; led team in sacks, TFL
2023: (13/12)	29	6.5	4.5	0	1	1	Second Team All-Big 12
2024: (12/12)	29	9.0	3.0	1	2	0	Missed one game (injury)
Total: (51/37)	110	32.0	12.5	2	6	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6036	269	10 1/2	31	77	4.69	2.72	1.61	34	9'11"	4.59	7.58	32
PRO DAY	6041	270	10 5/8	31 5/8	77 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Springs out of stance with oomph to keep blockers on their toes
- Able to beat blockers with quickness when attacking inside gaps
- Large, heavy hands to stack and shed
- Works hard to maintain his gap and pursuit leverage in the run game
- Chases with a head of steam to make effort plays in pursuit
- "Most mature and generous guy on campus," according to a Sooners assistant coach
- Tough — consistently plays through minor injuries (missed one game past four years)
- Ran routes and caught passes for NFL scouts at Oklahoma's Pro Day

WEAKNESSES:

- Sawed-off arms and can be jolted by long-armed blockers
- Below-average flexibility and gives blockers a target at the top of his rush
- Better pass-rush effort than pass-rush instincts
- Current set of counters will be ineffective against NFL tackles
- Can get washed when he gets tall out of his stance
- Outstanding hustle but gets out of control at times, leading to missed tackles
- Wasn't asked to drop much

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Oklahoma, Downs lined up at defensive end in defensive coordinator Zac Alley's 4-2-5 base scheme. A diehard Sooner for as long as he can remember, he put himself on the NFL radar as a sophomore. Although his production dipped slightly the past two seasons, his impact showed on each tape studied.

Downs is gap sound, alert and disciplined in the run game and stacks a ton of effort plays. His tape doesn't show a consistent pass-rush threat, mostly because of his lack of bend and length, but he has the quickness to work half-a-man and his physical hands help him work off blocks. Overall, Downs has some tweener traits and will be caught in between positions for several schemes, but he is a high-motor, blue-collar base end, and coaches will appreciate that they'll know exactly what they are getting every down. His experience on special teams (382 snaps in college) can help him earn a backup role

GRADE: 6th-7th round

EDGE34 Tyler Batty

BYU, 5SR

HOMETOWN Payson, UT	HIGH SCHOOL Payson	BIRTHDAY May 02, 1999	AGE 25.98	HT 6055	WT 271	NUM #92
------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Tyler Batty, one of seven children (four girls, three boys), grew up on his family's farm in Payson, Utah (15 miles south of Provo), with his parents (Layne and Peg). He developed a passion for football almost immediately once he started playing at age 4. His father is a cowboy and runs "Edward's Hands," a nonprofit that provides equine therapy for those with special needs. The organization is named after ex-BYU coach Ed Lamb's son, Edward, who participated in horse-riding therapy on the Batty Farm.

Just before high school, Tyler Batty was in an ATV accident on the farm that resulted in skull and orbital fractures and a brain bleed. He was airlifted to the hospital by Life Flight, and the doctors prepared his family for the worst in case the bleeding didn't stop. Fortunately, it did and Batty recovered, but doctors told him that future concussions could leave him brain dead. Batty, however, never seriously considered walking away from football.

Batty enrolled at Payson High, where he missed his freshman season, because of the ATV accident. Over his final three years, he played both ways as a tight end and defensive end and was recognized as one of the best players in the area, despite enjoying little team success (Payson finished 0-10, 1-8 and 1-10, respectively, in his three varsity seasons). As a senior, Batty received first-team all-region and all-valley honors, along with honorable mention all-state. He graduated with honors and also played basketball at Payson.

A three-star recruit, Batty was the 84th-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2017 recruiting class and the No. 19 recruit in Utah. He received scholarship offers after his junior season from the two heavyweight programs in the state: BYU and Utah. Batty added offers from Air Force, Hawaii, Utah State and several Ivy League programs, including Dartmouth and Princeton. But the chance to stay close to home and play for BYU made the decision easy. Batty was the seventh-ranked recruit in the Cougars' 2017 class — as a member of The Church of Latter-day Saints, he first served a full-time mission in Malaga and Madrid, Spain (2017-19).

Batty returned to the team and played five seasons with BYU. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl. He married his wife (Alaina), who played soccer at Snow College, in June 2021.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	13	5.5	4.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; missed eight games (ankle)
2021: (12/8)	43	5.0	3.5	1	0	0	Missed one game (injury)
2022: (12/12)	52	7.0	2.0	0	0	0	Led team in TFL; team captain; missed one game (abdominal strain)
2023: (12/12)	57	9.0	5.5	2	0	0	Second Team All-Big 12; led team in sacks, TFL; team captain
2024: (13/13)	59	7.0	1.5	0	4	2	First Team All-Big 12; team captain
Total: (53/45)	224	33.5	16.5	3	4	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6055	271	9 3/8	33 1/8	81	4.78	2.81	1.69	34	10' 0"	4.54	7.21	27
PRO DAY	6052	265	9 1/2	33	79 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with functional build and arm length
- Comes off ball with bend and pad level, setting the table for variety of rush techniques
- Functional ankle flexion for tight cornering off jab/Euro steps
- Hand swipes are punctual and married to his footwork
- Physical at point of attack to get into frame of blockers and create movement
- Promising hand-to-hand combat to establish leverage as an edge setter
- His default setting is "relentless"
- Team captain and sets the bar high for himself
- Passionate about football and stubbornly determined (Kilani Sitake: "You can count on him to be one of the hardest working guys on the team")
- Experienced college resume (45 career starts)

WEAKNESSES:

- More worker bee than twitched-up edge screamer
- NFL offensive tackles will pick up on his rush plan much more quickly than college blockers
- Needs to continue developing shed techniques to better unglue once blockers access his chest
- Occasionally trapped by reach blocks
- Left too much tackle production on the field
- Only 1.5 sacks in 2024
- Torn ear, which required stitches but didn't cause him to miss any time (Oct. 2024); missed one game with an abdominal strain (Sept. 2022); sidelined most of his first season with an ankle injury (Sept. 2020) and took a redshirt
- Will be 26 as a rookie

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at BYU, Batty lined up mostly as a five-/seven-technique in defensive coordinator Jay Hill's multiple fronts, also standing up at times or kicking inside to a 4i-technique. An older prospect who's already married, he established himself as one of the leaders in the Cougars' program, and his persistent play personality set the tempo for the rest of the defense.

Although his pass rush doesn't consistently jump off the screen, Batty has a versatile play style with the flexibility to work around blocks or the heavy hands to win with speed to power. He flashes the potential to weaponize his hands/length as an edge setter and block shedder, although he needs to do it on a more regular basis to stay on an NFL field. Overall, Batty might not bring the impact consistency NFL teams want in a starter or high-end backup, but he wins in different ways — defensive coordinators who place premiums on size and motor will welcome him with open arms. He can be a day one depth player.

GRADE: 7th round

EDGE35 Steve Linton

Baylor, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Dublin, GA	Dublin	Feb 24, 2000	25.16	6036	248	#10

BACKGROUND: Steven "Steve" Linton, who is one of five children (three boys, two girls), was born and raised in Dublin (central Georgia) by his parents (Gerrard Sinkfield and Amy Linton). He tried different sports growing up, including basketball and football.

Linton attended Dublin High but had a rocky start, to the point of not being part of the football team as a sophomore. He got back on track as a junior, starting both ways as a defensive end and tight end. Linton finished the 2017 season with 64 tackles, 11 tackles for loss and five sacks, earning all-region honors. As a 190-pound senior, he led Dublin to a 12-2 record and the 2018 regional championship. Linton earned all-state honors as both a defensive end and tight end, accounting for 67 tackles, 18 tackles for loss and nine sacks in his final season. He finished his prep career with 161 tackles and 30 sacks. Linton was a standout on the basketball court, too, helping Dublin to a 23-4 record and the 2018-19 regional title while averaging almost a double-double. He also lettered in track.

A three-star recruit, Linton was the 60th-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 89 recruit in Georgia (he grew up rooting for Georgia Tech). Because of his grades and slender size, his recruitment didn't pick up until after his junior season, when he received offers from Arizona State, UCF and Western Kentucky. He worked hard to qualify academically, and he added 25 pounds (from 190 pounds to 215) before the end of his senior season. Linton finished with 14 offers and narrowed down his final choice to Arizona State, Missouri, South Florida and Syracuse. He committed to head coach Dino Babers and was the ninth-ranked recruit in Syracuse's 2019 class.

After four years with the program (and only two starts), Linton entered the transfer portal in December 2022 and committed to Texas Tech, joining the Red Raiders in the spring. After one season in Lubbock, he again entered the transfer portal and committed to Baylor for his sixth and final year of eligibility (all three of his sacks in 2023 had come against Baylor). Linton graduated with a degree from Texas Tech (Dec. 2023). He accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (3/0)	2	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Syracuse; redshirted; enrolled July 2019
2020: (8/1)	15	0.5	0.0	0	0	0	Syracuse; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (7/0)	6	2.0	1.0	0	1	0	Syracuse; missed first four games (offseason knee surgery)
2022: (11/1)	22	6.0	3.5	1	0	0	Syracuse
2023: (8/4)	22	4.5	3.0	2	0	0	Texas Tech; missed final five games (ankle, back)
2024: (9/5)	25	7.0	3.0	1	0	0	Baylor; missed four games (injury)
Total: (46/11)	92	20.0	10.5	4	1	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6036	242	9	34 1/4	81 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	32 1/2	10' 4"	DNP	7.25	21	No 40, SS (choice)
PRO DAY	6033	248	8 7/8	34 1/2	81 1/2	4.81	2.78	1.64	32	DNP	4.45	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Owns a long, rangy frame and plays with energy
- Quick, both laterally and up the field, to get around the noise
- Get-off speed will put blockers on their heels early (see 2024 Colorado tape)
- Will mix in outside jab steps to wrap shoulders of blockers
- Active hand swipes to stay off blocks
- Nimble feet in the run game with pop in his hands to widen, contain and detach
- Long strides help him close on the ball carrier when chasing
- Still has some upside as he continues to learn how to use his length

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean-muscled and has struggled to add consistent bulk
- High cut with inconsistent dip when turning the corner
- Doesn't have power in his upper half to consistently go through blocks
- Narrow-based edge setter — can be overwhelmed in the run game
- Late to calm his feet and misses too many tackles when he plays too hot
- Multiple offsides and late hit flags on tape
- Struggled to stay on the field — long list of nagging injuries
- Will be 25 on draft weekend

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Baylor, Linton was a wide edge rusher in head coach Dave Aranda's four-man front, lining up mostly in a two-point stance. After playing a 4i-technique at Syracuse, he moved to a more natural seven-/nine-technique role at Texas Tech in 2023 and Baylor in 2024, flashing disruptive ability as a sub-package defender (averaged 33.2 defensive snaps per game over the past three seasons).

Linton is long-limbed and quickly attacks the arc, but he is overly reliant on his speed and doesn't have a deep toolbox as a pass rusher, despite being a sixth-year prospect. Although he can occasionally use his length to stay detached in the run game, his strength breaks down at the point of attack and teams know they can find success running to his side of the field. Overall, Linton is one-dimensional and hasn't proven himself beyond being a flash pass rusher, but his first-step explosion and body length will earn him extended looks. He projects as a designated rusher on sub-downs (if he can stay healthy), in the mold of Arden Key.

GRADE: FA

EDGE36 Johnny Walker Jr.

Missouri, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Tampa, FL	Chamberlain	Dec 12, 2001	23.36	6025	249	#15

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (7/0)	9	2.0	2.0	0	0	0
2022: (7/0)	7	2.0	2.0	0	0	0
2023: (13/12)	43	9.5	5.0	3	0	0	Bowl game Defensive MVP
2024: (13/13)	44	12.5	9.5	3	1	0	Second Team All-SEC; led team in sacks, TFL; team captain
Total: (40/25)	103	26.0	18.5	6	1	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6025	249	9 7/8	32 7/8	79 1/2	4.82	2.69	1.72	32	10'0"	4.58	7.69	21

SUMMARY: Johnny Walker Jr. grew up in Tampa, Fla., with his parents (April and Johnny Walker Sr.). At Chamberlain High, he combined for 41 tackles for loss and 25 sacks over his junior and senior seasons, despite battling a knee issue in 2019. A three-star recruit, he initially committed to Washington State before flipping to Missouri late in the process. Walker bided his time before becoming a starter as a junior and earning second-team All-SEC honors as a senior captain. After recording just one sack over the first six games of 2024, he ripped off 8.5 sacks in the final seven.

Walker has improved year over year as he's learned how to maximize his skill set. He doesn't have top-tier burst or redirect skills for a 250-pound edge rusher, but he is a better football player than a high-end athlete. He keeps his hands and feet in sync and understands how to leverage his pass-rush angles. His run-game awareness also showed improvement from his junior tape. Overall, Walker doesn't play with consistent explosion or bend, but he can dip and rip to affect the quarterback when he times up the snap. He is a potential sub-package rusher in the NFL.

GRADE: FA

EDGE37

Chaz Chambliss

Georgia, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Carrollton, GA	Carrollton	Oct 25, 2002	22.50	6022	245	#32

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (14/0)	11	1.5	0.5	0	1	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/0)	16	3.0	2.0	0	0	0
2023: (14/14)	20	3.0	0.0	0	3	1
2024: (14/11)	40	9.5	6.5	0	0	0	Third Team All-SEC; led team in sacks; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (54/25)	87	17.0	9.0	0	4	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6022	245	9 1/2	31 3/8	76 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	32	10'0"	4.39	7.05	30

SUMMARY: Charles "Chaz" Chambliss (cham-bliss) grew up with his parents (Cliff and Angela) and started playing football at age 5. His father, who spent two decades as a U.S. Army drill sergeant, died of a stroke at age 53 (March 2020).

At Carrollton High, Chambliss combined for a career 251 tackles and 31.5 sacks. A four-star recruit, he committed to Georgia and bounced between inside linebacker and the Jack outside linebacker position. He saved his best for last, posting career-best numbers as a senior in 2024, including a team-high 6.5 sacks.

Compactly built, Chambliss has tweener size and length, but he plays with the physicality in the run game to control the point of attack and string out runs. He makes himself a small target for blockers and uses his flexibility to maneuver his body around the trees. His chase speed stands out, he doesn't miss tackles and his teammates say he's the toughest guy on the team. Overall, Chambliss is a sawed-off edge defender who can provide depth as an outside linebacker in a 3-4, but his ticket to an NFL roster spot will be as a special teams ace.

GRADE: FA

EDGE38

RJ Oben

Notre Dame, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Montclair, NJ	St. Peter's	Jun 17, 2001	23.85	6033	251	#9

BACKGROUND: Roman "RJ" Oben Jr., the oldest of two boys, grew up outside of Newark, N.J., with his parents (Roman and Linda Claude-Oben). His mother, who played volleyball at Division III New York University, is a public interest attorney who works with victims of sexual abuse and domestic violence. His father played offensive line at Louisville (1991-95) and was selected in the third round (No. 66) of the 1996 NFL Draft, becoming the first Cameroonian-born player to be drafted. Roman won a Super Bowl in 2003 and played 12 NFL seasons with the New York Giants (1996-99), Cleveland Browns (2000-01), Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2002-03) and San Diego Chargers (2004-07). He also interned for two U.S. congressmen, worked for the NFL for the past decade and currently serves as the league's vice president of football development.

Thanks to his football-playing father, RJ Oben grew up in locker rooms — he took LaDainian Tomlinson's gloves to school in kindergarten. Despite his exposure to the game, though, Oben didn't start playing organized football until seventh grade. He also has a musical background and played saxophone for six years, starting in third grade. His younger brother (Andre) played one season on the offensive line at Purdue before transferring to FCS Monmouth for the 2024 season. His cousin (Jada Claude) played women's college basketball at Duke (2019-21), Morehead State (2021-22) and Georgetown (2022-24).

Oben attended St. Peter's Prep, an all-boys school in Jersey City, N.J., and played primarily on JV as a 200-pound freshman. After adapting to varsity as a sophomore, he started as a junior and earned all-conference honors with 30 tackles, 10.5 tackles for loss, 2.5 sacks and one forced fumble. As a senior, Oben led St. Peter's to a 2018 league title and was named third-team all-state and secured all-area honors (34 tackles, 11 tackles for loss and five sacks). He also lettered in track, finishing first in the shot put (56 feet, 1.25 inches) at the 2019 state group championships and first at sectionals in the discus (167-0).

A three-star recruit, Oben was the 59th-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 18 recruit in New Jersey. Despite having barely any varsity experience, he received his first FBS offer at the start of his sophomore year from Louisville (his father's alma mater). Oben added offers from Boston College, NC State, Syracuse, Temple and Virginia. With a 3.7 GPA, he also received offers from several Ivy League programs, including Cornell, Dartmouth, Princeton and Yale. Oben received a Duke offer midway through his junior season and officially committed the following summer. He was the 10th-ranked recruit in former head coach David Cutcliffe's 2019 class. After five seasons, Oben took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and entered the transfer portal. He graduated with a degree in economics from Duke (Dec. 2023) before transferring to Notre Dame, where he rejoined his former Duke teammate Riley Leonard. Oben accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	1	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Duke; season-ending injury (left shoulder); redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (9/0)	4	0.5	0.0	0	0	0	Duke; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/10)	25	7.0	5.0	3	1	1	Duke
2022: (13/12)	20	6.5	4.5	2	0	0	Duke
2023: (12/11)	17	6.0	5.0	0	1	0	Duke; led team in sacks; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2024: (16/14)	19	1.5	1.0	1	0	0	Notre Dame
Total: (66/47)	86	21.5	15.5	6	2	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6033	251	9 1/4	33 5/8	82	4.95	2.85	1.70	32 1/2	9'6"	4.60	7.28	26

STRENGTHS:

- Athletic frame with workable arm length
- Functional short-area quickness when working off the edge
- Flashes violent swipes/chops when attacking the corner
- Physical hands to control tight ends at point of attack
- Gap-sound in the run game to force runners laterally
- Feel for finding the football
- Younger for a sixth-year senior (started kindergarten one year early)
- Grew up around the game — won't be any surprises for him about what it takes to make it in the NFL

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average tackle and backfield production, especially in 2024
- Tight-hipped with inconsistent lower-body bend
- Needs to add more ammo to pass-rush arsenal
- Ineffective speed-to-power techniques
- Pads elevate off the snap, and he immediately surrenders point-of-attack leverage
- Wild play style leads to more missed tackles than acceptable
- Missed most of his first season with a left shoulder injury, which required surgery (Oct. 2019)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Notre Dame, Oben was a field edge rusher in former defensive coordinator Al Golden's four-man front. While averaging just 25 defensive snaps per game in 2024, he struggled to make a memorable impact throughout much of the season. However, he had his best performance in an Irish uniform during a playoff game against Georgia and flashed during Senior Bowl week.

As a pass rusher, Oben is more of an "everything but the kitchen sink" type than a crafty artist. He plays with strong hands and a radar for the football in the run game, but he will get pinballed by base blocks when he pops upright at contact. Overall, Oben is an inefficient player, but he offers a consistent football-playing temperament and tools that can be further developed. He is a potential practice squad project for a defensive staff.

GRADE: FA

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Louisville, KY	Marion C. Moore	Nov 30, 1999	25.40	6045	251	#13

BACKGROUND: Justin "J.J." Weaver, who has two brothers (and several half-siblings), was born in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. His father (Terrance Weaver) was a standout high school player and got him involved with football at age 4. Weaver was born with a rare case of central polydactyly, and as a result, had an extra pinky on his right hand. Embarrassed by his condition, the football field became his escape where he could feel "normal." Through his NIL deal with Nike called "Perfect Fit," he had custom gloves made for his six-fingered right hand and has reached out to children facing the same situation. When he was 10, he moved to Louisville, Ky., with his mother (Stacey Sherrell), whom he calls his "best friend." His father was killed during a June 2020 home invasion in Albany, Ga.

Weaver enrolled at Marion C. Moore High (formerly Moore Traditional) and immediately saw varsity reps as a 6-foot-5, 220-pound freshman. Playing both ways as a wide receiver and defensive end, he recorded 38 tackles, three sacks and three forced fumbles as a sophomore. As a senior, Weaver led Moore to an 11-2 record and the 2018 district championship (Moore made it to the state playoff quarterfinals). He earned all-state honors as a senior with 70 tackles, 10 sacks and three interceptions, plus six receptions for 102 yards. Weaver scored a touchdown four different ways in 2018 (rushing, receiving, fumble return, interception return). He was also one of the better basketball players in the Louisville area and lettered all four seasons as a forward at Moore.

A four-star recruit, Weaver was the 24th-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 8 recruit in Kentucky (Wan'Dale Robinson was No. 1). His hometown Louisville gave him his first scholarship offer during his sophomore season, and he heard from several top programs, such as Notre Dame and Tennessee. Weaver collected almost 20 offers, including a scholarship offer from Yale, before narrowing down his choice to Kentucky, Louisville, Miami and Purdue. After connecting with former Kentucky first-rounder Josh Allen and the coaching staff, he committed to the Wildcats and was the third-ranked recruit in the program's 2019 class. Weaver took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Kentucky for a sixth season.

Weaver faced his share of adversity — his father's murder (June 2020), the death of his high school coach Rob Reader (Aug. 2021) and a torn ACL, all in a span of 17 months. He became an advocate for mental health awareness and partnered with the Kentucky Center for Grieving Children and Families to create support groups and help eradicate negative stigmas. Weaver received the 2024 Jason Witten Collegiate Man of the Year Award to recognize his off-field achievements. He graduated with a degree in community leadership and development (Dec. 2023) and is working on a second degree in family science. Weaver accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (3/0)	6	1.0	0.0	0	2	0	Redshirted; enrolled May 2019
2020: (9/1)	33	6.5	0.5	0	1	0	Freshman All-SEC; missed final two games (ACL); pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/6)	34	10.0	6.0	1	3	2	Led team in sacks; missed bowl game (COVID-19)
2022: (11/9)	47	6.0	3.0	2	1	0	Led team in sacks; missed two games (elbow); blocked punt; team captain
2023: (13/13)	45	8.5	7.0	1	2	0	Team captain
2024: (10/10)	32	7.5	5.0	1	1	0	Led team in sacks; missed two games (ankle); team captain
Total: (58/39)	197	39.5	21.5	5	10	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6045	251	91/8	33 3/8	81 3/8	4.84	2.75	1.67	31	9'4"	4.78	7.40	26

STRENGTHS:

- Workable frame, build and length for the position
- Loose-jointed with flexibility in long limbs
- Some twitch in his upper half and uses full extension
- Active on ET stunts, creating holding penalties
- Rangy tackler and has some burst in his close
- Comfortable on his feet to spot drop and cover short zones
- Just the third three-time captain in school history
- Hard worker, in and out of the building, with strong character feedback

WEAKNESSES:

- Poor contact balance and can be knocked off rush path too easily
- Initial rush moves are uninspiring
- Inconsistent anchor strength and ability as an edge setter
- Needs to crank up violence in his shed hands
- Tunnel vision and too easily caught up in the wash

- Torn ACL in right knee in first career start (Nov. 2020), which required season-ending surgery; missed two games as junior because of left elbow injury (Sept. 2022); missed two games as super senior because of ankle injury (Oct. 2024)
- Will turn 26 as a rookie (turned 19 during his senior year of high school)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Kentucky, Weaver was primarily a stand-up edge rusher in defensive coordinator Brad White's 3-4 base scheme. Possessing one of the more unique backgrounds in this class (has 11 fingers, off-field work, etc.), he didn't quite live up to the promise he showed on the field as an underclassman, but he was a steady contributor for the Wildcats.

Weaver is a worker-bee defender who works to get off blocks and make plays. Despite being an older player, there is still some upside there, if he improves some of the technical parts of his game, including improved leverage points as a rusher to fully access his power. Overall, Weaver has athletic and physical tools to work with at the next level, but his below-average contact balance and rush instincts will be tough to overcome against NFL competition.

GRADE: FA

EDGE40 Kydran Jenkins

Purdue, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Louisville, GA	Jefferson	Jul 03, 2002	22.81	5116	256	#4

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted
2021: (13/11)	35	8.0	5.0	0	1	0
2022: (14/14)	32	8.0	4.0	1	1	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in TFL; blocked FG
2023: (12/12)	57	15.5	7.5	1	1	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in sacks, TFL; 55-yard FR TD
2024: (12/12)	83	12.5	7.0	0	1	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in sacks, TFL; team captain
Total: (52/49)	207	44.0	23.5	2	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5116	256	9 1/2	31 1/2	76 3/4	4.64	2.75	1.65	28	9'9"	4.41	7.38	DNP

SUMMARY: Kydran (KAY-dran) Jenkins, one of four children, grew up outside of Augusta, Ga., with his mother (Lisa Valles). He was a running back and linebacker at Jefferson County High, where he earned all-conference honors as a senior (83 tackles and seven forced fumbles). A three-star recruit, he received two then-Power 5 offers (Purdue and Missouri), and he committed to the Boilermakers. He primarily played as an edge rusher in college before moving to stand-up linebacker in 2024. The shift helped show his versatility, but he was still at his best when attacking the pocket. While starting all 38 games the last three seasons, he became the first Purdue player since Ryan Kerrigan to lead the team in tackles for loss three straight seasons. Despite having shorter arms, Jenkins uses his fierce hands to rid himself of blocks and make a beeline to the football. He doesn't have the tape of a playmaker in coverage, but he looks comfortable dropping and chasing. Overall, Jenkins is a force player who can work off contact and be disruptive in the backfield. He has a chance to become a true off-ball linebacker in the NFL, but I think his best fit is as a sub-package rusher on passing downs.

GRADE: FA

EDGE41 Jasheen Davis

Wake Forest, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Snellville, GA	Shiloh	Dec 18, 2001	23.35	6030	251	#30

BACKGROUND: Jasheen Davis grew up outside of Atlanta. He was introduced to football by his uncle (Larry Armour), who was a father figure for him growing up. Davis started playing football at age 6 and continued on through pee wee. He was also big into baseball as a kid and played on several travel teams.

Davis attended Shiloh High, where he lettered in both baseball and football. A four-year varsity letterman at defensive end, he posted 43 tackles as a sophomore and earned second-team all-county honors as a junior with 63 tackles and six sacks. Davis had his most productive season as a senior captain (86 tackles, 35 tackles for loss, 11 sacks and two fumble return touchdowns). He was named regional defensive player of the year, along with first-team all-county and all-region. Shiloh won just five combined games over his first three years, but he helped the team to a 7-4 record in 2019, including a spot in the 7A state playoffs.

A four-star recruit, Davis was the 21st-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 49 recruit in Georgia. His recruitment started to heat up after his sophomore season, including offers from Cincinnati and Syracuse. Davis added several notable Big Ten offers following his junior season, including from Michigan and Penn State. The summer before his senior season, he committed to Wake Forest, because of the coaching staff and academics. Davis was the top-ranked recruit in former head coach Dave Clawson's 2020 recruiting class. He accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (2/0)	3	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled August 2020
2021: (13/5)	34	8.5	5.5	1	0	0
2022: (13/5)	33	14.0	7.0	1	0	0	Honorable Mention All-ACC; led team in sacks, TFL
2023: (12/12)	49	17.0	7.5	1	2	0	Third Team All-ACC; led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (10/10)	33	11.5	5.5	1	0	0	Led team in sacks, TFL; missed two games (injury)
Total: (50/32)	152	51.0	25.5	4	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6030	251	9 1/2	33 1/2	79 3/4	4.93	2.82	1.63	29 1/2	9'3"	4.56	7.11	23

STRENGTHS:

- Workable size and length for edge duties
- Never shuts it down and plays relentless in pursuit
- Leaving him alone on a tight end isn't advised for an offense
- Plants his heels, creates bend and holds up against double teams
- Plays well on his feet and flashes a burst to the football mid-rush
- Violent chops/swipes to break down blockers
- Able to dip inside shoulder underneath the tackle
- Worked in a ghost move to take away his inside hand and dip around blocks
- You can see his passion for football on tape in the way he competes
- Consistent production each season as a starter

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent eyes
- Needs to wide vision in the run game to prevent getting washed by angle blocks
- Has length and strength to set the edge but too often gets stuck inside, losing contain responsibilities
- Doesn't always appear to rush with a plan
- Needs to improve aiming points as a leverage rusher to create movement
- Rarely see him drop into space on tape

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Wake Forest, Davis was an edge defender in former defensive coordinator Brad Lambert's versatile fronts, lining up as a 4i-/seven-technique. The prize of the Demon Deacons' 2020 recruiting class, he led the team in sacks and tackles for loss each of the past three seasons and finished his career No. 2 in school history in tackles for loss (51) and No. 3 in sacks (25.5).

Davis generates impressive force once he gets rolling downhill, flashing the strong hands and contact balance to work off blockers. According to Wake Forest defensive line coach Dave Cohen, his energetic play style and motor compares to that of Kobie Turner as the best he has ever coached. Overall, Davis can get tied up too much in the run game, but his powerful hands/limbs and obsessive effort lead to production, especially as a pass rusher. He can offer an NFL defensive line immediate depth.

GRADE: FA

EDGE42 Seth Coleman

Illinois, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Melbourne, FL	Holy Trinity	Dec 07, 2000	24.38	6034	246	#9

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (3/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted
2020: (8/4)	13	3.5	0.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/3)	22	3.0	2.0	1	2	0	Missed two games (lower body)
2022: (12/12)	45	5.0	4.5	0	6	0	Missed one game (concussion)
2023: (12/12)	50	9.0	6.0	0	4	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in TFL; graduated with degree in tourism (May 2023)
2024: (11/11)	53	7.0	3.0	1	3	0	Missed two games (shoulder)
Total: (56/42)	183	27.5	15.5	2	15	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6034	246	9 7/8	34	82 1/4	4.68	2.75	1.62	36 1/2	10'3"	4.59	7.56	20

SUMMARY: Seth Coleman grew up on Florida's Atlantic coast and started playing football in first grade, although basketball was his focus through childhood. He played both sports at Holy Trinity Episcopal Academy and received several basketball offers, but a big senior year on the football field (101 tackles, 13 sacks) changed his outlook. A four-star recruit, he committed to Illinois (over Utah and others), initially lining up as a defensive end before moving to a stand-up edge role, from which he posted steady backfield production the past four seasons.

Coleman plays with effort and energy to aggressively attack the pocket, although his hands, feet and dip often feel disconnected when attempting different moves. Though his motor also translates to the run game, he has only average strength at the point of attack and can be late unwinding from blocks. Overall, Coleman doesn't bring much deception to his pass rush, but he offers length and burst to wrap the edge and affect the quarterback.

GRADE: FA

EDGE43 Garmon Randolph

Baylor, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Jefferson, GA	Jefferson	Oct 05, 2000	24.55	6063	265	#5

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (2/0)	1	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted
2020: (5/0)	2	1.0	1.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/4)	22	2.0	1.0	0	1	1
2022: (13/11)	43	7.0	4.5	0	0	0
2023: (11/5)	23	0.0	0.0	0	1	0	Missed two games (left ankle); graduated with degree in health, kinesiology studies (Dec. 2023)
2024: (11/7)	29	4.5	3.5	0	2	2	Missed two games (left ankle)
Total: (52/27)	120	14.5	10.0	0	4	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6063	265	9 3/4	33 7/8	83	4.78	2.78	1.55	33	10'1"	4.47	7.16	22

SUMMARY: Garmon Randolph grew up down the road from Athens, Ga., with his parents (Joseph and Monja). His older brother (Joseph) played defensive line at The Citadel (2016-19). Randolph was known more at Jefferson High for what he could do at tight end (14 catches for 205 yards and five touchdowns as a senior), but he also played defensive end (34 tackles, one sack and one interception, which he returned for a touchdown).

A three-star recruit, he committed to Baylor and then-coach Matt Rhule over offers from Alabama, Michigan and others. Randolph moved to defense full time and played a variety of front-seven roles over the past six years for the Bears, primarily as a stand-up edge rusher. He has an explosive first step as a rusher and smooth movement skills when dropping into space. A taller player, he gets upright when setting the edge, but his length and hand strength help him win battles. His motor also jumps out, although his hard-charging style leads to too many missed tackles. Overall, Randolph is still learning how to fully weaponize his size and athleticism, but it feels like there is untapped talent ready to be developed.

GRADE: FA

EDGE44 Elijah Alston

Miami, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Chesapeake, VA	Oscar Smith	Aug 28, 2001	23.65	6024	249	#11

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Marshall; redshirted
2020: (4/0)	6	0.5	0.5	0	0	0	Marshall
2021: (13/6)	34	6.0	3.0	2	0	0	Marshall
2022: (12/2)	23	1.5	0.0	0	2	0	Marshall
2023: (13/11)	45	11.5	6.0	2	3	1	Marshall
2024: (8/4)	19	3.5	2.5	0	2	1	Miami; missed five games (injury); Tropical Bowl
Total: (50/23)	127	23.0	12.0	4	7	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6024	249	9 3/8	30	74 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	31	9'7"	4.45	7.52	17

SUMMARY: Elijah "Eli" Alston grew up in the Chesapeake, Va., area and started playing football at age 5. He was a four-year letterman as a defensive end at Oscar Smith High, helping the team to three straight state title games. A three-star recruit, he received his first offer from James Madison but ultimately chose Marshall, because his mother (La Juan Stepney) encouraged him to leave the state to experience something new. He became a starter at Marshall, then entered the transfer portal after the 2023 season and committed to Miami over Texas A&M and others (Miami's defensive coordinator in 2024 was Lance Guidry, Marshall's defensive coordinator in 2021-22). Playing mostly as a Jack edge rusher, Alston was asked to rush, drop and flatten to make plays down the line. He has enough strength in his frame to set an edge and constrict run lanes. I like his effort on defense and special teams, although I don't think he has the speed for special teams coverages in the NFL. Overall, Alston is only an average athlete, but he plays with energy to make plays against both pass and run, which can earn him a practice squad spot.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
45	Adin Huntington	Tulane	6007	281	4.64	2.65	1.61	38	10'6"	4.41	7.52	30	9 3/4	32	77 7/8
46	BJ Green II	Colorado	6002	252	4.70	2.75	1.61	30	10'2"	4.65	7.33	DNP	10 1/8	32 3/8	76 3/8
47	Jacob Mangum-Farrar	Indiana	6040	236	4.64	2.70	1.58	36	9'10"	4.58	7.38	31	9 5/8	32 7/8	77 7/8
48	Trace Ford	Oklahoma	6023	249	4.64	2.72	1.60	36	10'2"	4.47	7.22	21	9	30 7/8	74 1/4
49	Chico Bennett Jr.	Virginia	6030	249	4.75	2.66	1.62	33	9'6"	4.38	7.14	20	9 3/8	33 1/2	80
50	Anton Juncaj	Arkansas	6036	258	4.87	2.77	1.65	32	9'6"	4.52	7.47	26	10 1/8	33 1/2	78 3/4
51	Matt Harmon	Kent State	6056	245	4.77	2.79	1.68	32	9'10"	4.44	6.95	DNP	10	33 3/4	80 1/8
52	Desmond Little	UAB	6042	242	4.57	2.75	1.64	33	9'11"	4.56	7.19	DNP	10 1/2	33 1/8	82
53	Nate Matlack	Pittsburgh	6045	254	4.75	2.74	1.65	36 1/2	10'2"	4.30	7.10	DNP	10 1/4	33 1/8	79 3/8
54	Paris Shand	LSU	6036	268	4.88	2.87	1.62	33 1/2	9'7"	4.47	7.06	17	9 3/4	34	81 1/4
55	Davin Vann	NC State	6011	269	4.76	2.82	1.62	32	9'11"	4.57	7.45	22	9 7/8	32 7/8	81 1/8
56	Xavier Carlton	California	6056	273	5.08	2.97	1.76	27 1/2	9'5"	4.69	7.64	14	10 1/2	34 5/8	85 1/8
57	John Pius	Wisconsin	6027	242	4.93	2.79	1.68	32	9'8"	4.68	7.48	17	8 5/8	33	79 7/8
58	Danny Striggow	Minnesota	6040	253	4.84	2.76	1.70	33	9'8"	4.33	7.07	21	9 3/4	32 1/4	80 1/2
59	Sione Lolohea	Florida State	6021	262	4.90	2.78	1.74	29 1/2	8'9"	DNP	7.36	21	9 1/4	32	76
60	Charles Rosser	Bowling Green	6022	231	4.74	2.65	1.66	39	10'1"	4.32	7.16	19	9 1/2	32 1/8	77 1/4
61	Hayden Harris	Montana	6051	257	4.81	2.80	1.68	29 1/2	9'7"	4.56	7.31	25	10 1/8	32 1/8	78
62	Joe Rivers	Bentley	6003	246	4.78	2.76	1.61	36	9'9"	4.35	7.28	19	9 1/4	31 1/2	76 1/2
63	Jereme Robinson	Kansas	6022	264	4.83	2.85	1.67	37 1/2	10'0"	4.58	7.62	DNP	9 3/4	34 5/8	83 1/4
64	Connor O'Toole	Utah	6033	248	4.66	2.70	1.63	37 1/2	10'1"	4.30	7.06	DNP	9	32 1/2	79 5/8
65	Nusi Malani	Washington State	6042	263	4.84	2.82	1.69	34 1/2	10'1"	4.57	7.43	18	8 7/8	33 1/4	79 5/8
66	Brody Grebe	Montana State	6012	245	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	10 1/8	31 1/4	77 1/2
67	Jessie Evans	Louisiana Tech	6021	251	4.72	2.70	1.69	38 1/2	10'0"	4.50	7.43	24	10 7/8	32 1/2	77 1/2
68	Ja'Markis Weston	Florida	6025	234	4.65	2.69	1.67	29	9'10"	4.39	7.28	20	8 1/4	32 3/4	77 1/2
69	Kylan Guidry	Western Kentucky	6031	235	4.63	2.49	1.58	34	9'8"	4.53	6.97	20	8 7/8	33 5/8	75 5/8
70	Brendan Mott	Kansas State	6036	251	4.96	2.85	1.63	28	8'9"	4.37	7.05	14	8 5/8	33 1/4	78 3/4
71	TJ Maguranyanga	Zimbabwe (IPP)	6032	248	4.71	2.74	1.65	36	10'5"	4.72	7.50	26	11 1/8	33	77 3/8
72	Phillip Webb	Jackson State	6035	259	4.77	2.75	1.62	33 1/2	9'9"	4.40	6.94	22	9 3/8	34 1/4	81 1/4
73	Bam Brima	Pittsburgh	6047	263	4.88	2.72	1.71	37	9'8"	4.63	7.25	DNP	10 1/4	34	81 7/8
74	Kemari Munier-Bailey	Weber State	6024	230	4.70	2.75	1.62	33	9'3"	4.69	7.57	20	9	32 3/8	78 1/8
75	Mapalo Mwansa	UK (IPP)	6023	230	4.63	2.65	1.66	38 1/2	10'5"	4.40	7.14	25	10	33 1/2	77 1/2
76	Jahfari Harvey	SMU	6024	255	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	10'2"	DNP	DNP	20	9 3/4	32 3/4	78 1/2
77	Obi Ezeigbo	Oklahoma State	6016	248	4.88	2.80	1.63	32 1/2	10'0"	4.62	7.28	22	9 1/4	32 3/4	78 1/4
78	Jalan Gaines	Illinois State	6030	242	4.73	2.74	1.70	30 1/2	9'8"	4.45	7.10	17	10 1/2	33 1/2	80 1/4
79	Brian Ugwu	Miami (OH)	6025	249	DNP	DNP	DNP	35	10'0"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	31 7/8	77
80	Caiden Woullard	Oklahoma	6043	272	4.87	2.78	1.69	DNP	9'4"	4.51	7.50	20	9 1/8	33 7/8	82 1/4
81	Donnell Brown	Maryland	6025	249	4.76	2.70	1.63	30	9'6"	4.57	7.18	28	9 1/2	31 1/2	78
82	Diwun Black	Temple	6035	246	4.89	2.78	1.64	33	10'6"	4.36	7.64	18	10 1/4	33 1/2	79 3/8
83	Isaiah Bagnah	BYU	6026	256	4.97	2.87	1.69	30	8'11"	4.70	7.40	DNP	10	32 1/8	80 1/2
84	Paschal Ekeji	South Africa (IPP)	6044	233	4.75	2.71	1.75	33 1/2	9'9"	4.63	7.29	DNP	10 1/8	34 5/8	82
85	Van Fillinger	Utah	6034	247	4.95	2.88	1.64	34	9'9"	4.50	7.39	30	9 3/4	32 3/4	80 1/2

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
86	Josh Percy	Rice	6021	238	4.99	2.96	1.71	36	10'2"	4.50	7.43	23	9 1/4	34 3/4	81 5/8
87	KT Owens	Austin Peay	6025	236	4.85	2.88	1.75	30	9'6"	4.63	7.85	16	9 1/2	32 3/4	78
88	Dallaz Corbitt	Bethune-Cookman	6037	240	4.75	2.85	1.71	31	9'8"	4.83	8.00	DNP	9 1/2	32 3/8	80
89	Cole Nelson	Virginia Tech	6015	241	4.68	2.90	1.63	32 1/2	9'8"	4.46	7.39	22	9 7/8	33	81 1/4
90	Jaylen Pate	Northwestern	6022	253	4.90	2.73	1.63	36	10'3"	4.42	7.31	18	9	32 1/2	80 3/4
91	Shitta Sillah	Purdue	6046	249	4.77	2.75	1.65	36	10'0"	4.36	7.22	DNP	9 5/8	34 7/8	83 5/8
92	Chris Jones	Florida Atlantic	6036	235	4.77	2.75	1.69	35	10'5"	4.65	7.34	22	8 5/8	32 5/8	77 7/8
93	Jeremiah Ojo	Univ. of Montreal (Can.)	6023	246	4.59	2.63	1.60	35	9'8"	4.40	7.14	25	9 1/2	33 3/4	79
94	Brice Bass	Texas State	6031	248	4.78	2.72	1.63	33 1/2	10'3"	4.37	7.47	20	9 1/2	32 7/8	78
95	Ryan Johnson	Southern Miss	6022	254	4.83	2.63	1.71	37	9'11"	4.60	7.20	20	10 1/2	32 1/8	79 1/4
96	NaNa Osafo-Mensah	TCU	6031	259	4.99	2.89	1.73	30	9'4"	4.77	7.50	23	8 3/4	32 1/2	77 3/8
97	Hunter Allen	Youngstown State	6051	252	4.95	2.88	1.71	32	9'11"	DNP	DNP	DNP	10 1/2	32	77
98	Nchabanu Fortaboh	Towson	6032	235	4.71	2.77	1.58	36	9'11"	4.65	7.46	22	9 7/8	33 1/2	82 5/8
99	Antonio Doyle Jr.	UNLV	6030	264	DNP	DNP	DNP	30	8'10"	DNP	DNP	15	10 1/8	33	79 3/8
100	Tramel Logan	Louisville	6026	240	4.82	2.72	1.63	29 1/2	9'10"	4.45	7.20	17	9 5/8	32	78
101	Kendron Wayman	Wake Forest	6023	245	4.89	2.77	1.60	35	9'5"	4.38	6.89	20	9 3/8	33 3/4	81
102	Nick Gaes	South Dakota	6037	270	4.87	2.82	1.66	33 1/2	9'8"	4.39	6.97	15	9 1/2	33 1/2	81 5/8
103	Antoine Baylis	Louisiana	6016	264	4.71	2.75	1.65	33	9'9"	4.33	7.35	20	9 3/4	32 3/4	79 7/8
104	Fred Stokes Jr.	Prairie View A&M	6055	259	4.82	2.77	1.61	31 1/2	DNP	4.57	7.28	DNP	8 3/4	32 5/8	80 3/8
105	Khairi Manns	James Madison	6017	234	4.76	2.71	1.65	32 1/2	9'4"	4.27	7.02	17	9 1/8	33 1/4	81 1/4
106	Khris Bogle	Michigan State	6033	243	4.87	2.81	1.64	32	9'7"	4.45	7.21	DNP	10 1/4	34 1/2	82 3/8
107	Orin Patu	Bethune-Cookman	6035	241	4.94	2.80	1.69	30	10'3"	4.44	7.30	10	10	32 7/8	79 7/8
108	MJ Sherman	Nebraska	6026	247	4.90	2.85	1.66	29 1/2	10'1"	4.77	7.85	24	8 5/8	31 5/8	76 1/8
109	Kevin Swint	Georgia State	6021	222	4.88	2.87	1.72	27	9'6"	4.79	7.34	19	9 1/2	31 7/8	78 3/8
110	Jamil Muhammad	USC	6006	254	4.83	2.76	1.67	31	9'6"	4.47	7.18	25	10	32 3/4	79 1/4
111	Jack Barton	UConn	6033	270	5.05	2.59	1.71	30	9'6"	4.70	7.87	12	9 3/4	31 3/8	76
112	Tyrin Bradley Jr.	West Virginia	6016	248	DNP	DNP	DNP	30	9'1"	4.58	7.67	17	10	31 3/8	76 3/4
113	Jireh Ojata	Purdue	6032	268	4.75	2.69	1.61	30	10'0"	4.43	7.38	19	9 1/2	33 1/4	81 7/8
114	Maven Kretche	Minn. State-Mankato	6047	261	4.80	2.72	1.56	35 1/2	9'8"	4.63	7.52	DNP	9 1/2	31	76 1/4
115	Neto Okpala	Boston College	6000	243	4.78	2.82	1.61	36	10'1"	4.59	8.33	17	9 1/2	33 1/8	79
116	Cooper McDonald	TCU	6022	235	4.66	2.71	1.55	33	9'1"	4.60	7.19	21	9 7/8	31 3/8	75 3/8
117	Curtis Fann Jr.	Western Carolina	6017	236	4.86	2.81	1.73	29	9'8"	4.59	7.32	17	9 1/8	33 1/4	79 3/8
118	Arnold Young	Montclair State	6024	280	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	32 7/8	80
119	Eric Phillips	Cincinnati	6021	265	4.81	2.83	1.68	28	8'11"	4.45	7.25	DNP	9 1/8	32 3/4	78
120	Josiah Silver	New Hampshire	6006	248	DNP	DNP	DNP	28	9'0"	4.55	7.75	19	10 1/8	31	77 3/8
121	Marcus Brown	Incarnate Word	6037	240	4.83	2.81	1.68	34	9'10"	4.44	7.05	15	9 3/8	33	81 3/8
122	Shaun Balkcom	Delaware Valley	6015	252	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/4	33	80 3/8
123	Marcel Walker-Burgess	Ohio	6015	244	4.76	2.75	1.72	34	9'10"	4.38	7.35	20	10	33 1/4	71 3/8
124	Dylan Wudke	Kansas	6037	261	4.95	2.84	1.62	29 1/2	9'2"	4.53	7.33	19	8 3/8	31 5/8	77
125	Syrus Webster	Washington State	6022	254	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10	33 1/8	78 3/4
126	Desmond Evans	North Carolina	6062	252	4.96	2.81	1.65	29 1/2	9'1"	4.77	7.32	DNP	9 3/8	32 5/8	78 3/4
127	Blake Mangelson	BYU	6050	279	5.01	2.90	1.70	29 1/2	9'3"	4.58	7.56	22	9 5/8	33	79 3/4
128	Ramon Puryear	Louisville	6016	279	5.03	2.83	1.68	25 1/2	8'9"	4.39	7.28	29	10	30 5/8	74 1/2
129	Warren Robinson	East Texas A&M	6015	237	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10 3/8	33 1/8	79 3/4
130	Sean McLaughlin	Northwestern	6055	281	5.08	2.93	1.75	31 1/2	9'5"	4.53	7.37	15	9 3/8	32 7/8	80
131	Ira Armstead II	Eastern Illinois	6034	233	4.77	2.77	1.60	35	10'4"	4.57	7.44	21	9 3/8	33 1/2	78 1/2
132	Ali Saad	Bowling Green	6016	282	5.20	2.91	1.78	30 1/2	8'10"	4.59	7.50	DNP	10 1/4	32 1/8	77 1/4
133	Chris Hardie	Ole Miss	6005	246	4.79	2.75	1.72	26	8'4"	4.63	7.50	13	9 1/2	33 1/8	79
134	Hector Johnson	Endicott	5115	229	4.62	DNP	1.55	36	10'10"	4.14	6.97	15	8 3/4	31 1/8	74 3/4
135	Andy Canonico	Kenyon	6012	235	4.86	2.81	1.65	30 1/2	9'8"	4.50	7.38	18	9 3/4	31 1/2	77
136	Jeremiah Grant	Richmond	6001	267	4.95	2.87	1.76	27 1/2	9'1"	4.46	7.39	17	9 1/2	31 5/8	76 3/8
137	Amin Vanover	Penn State	6034	243	4.75	2.75	1.58	30	9'6"	4.58	DNP	DNP	10 7/8	34 1/2	83 1/4
138	Joe Anderson	Purdue	6026	280	5.27	3.03	1.77	26 1/2	8'5"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 7/8	33 1/2	81 5/8
139	Antonio Colclough	Buffalo	6026	242	5.03	2.78	1.64	27 1/2	9'2"	4.71	7.78	22	10 1/2	32 1/4	77 7/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
140	Deeve Harris	Marshall	6012	230	4.85	2.81	1.63	31	9'8"	4.57	7.28	10	9 3/4	33 1/2	80 3/4
141	Kody Walterscheid	Oklahoma State	6061	285	5.01	2.84	1.65	34 1/2	9'9"	4.76	7.57	20	9 3/4	32 5/8	79 1/2
142	Myles Jernigan	Louisville	6025	240	4.85	2.63	1.69	34 1/2	10'5"	4.41	7.34	15	9 5/8	32 7/8	80 1/4
143	Joshua Robinson	Georgia Tech	6034	256	5.07	3.03	1.76	28 1/2	8'10"	4.79	7.89	21	9 1/2	33 1/8	78 1/4
144	Myles Jackson	Tulsa	6015	240	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	31 3/4	79 3/8
145	Kale Edwards	New Mexico State	6044	241	4.68	2.66	1.67	33 1/2	10'5"	4.49	7.34	20	9 1/4	32 3/8	78 1/8
146	Emmanuel Johnson	Coastal Carolina	6040	270	4.95	2.88	1.61	33 1/2	9'3"	4.81	7.66	22	9 7/8	33 3/8	79 1/8
147	Josh Navratil	North Dakota	6016	234	4.66	2.69	1.63	34 1/2	9'9"	4.33	7.38	20	9 1/8	32 1/8	76 7/8
148	Noah Potter	NC State	6056	262	4.97	2.93	1.71	28	8'9"	4.57	7.39	17	8 3/8	33 7/8	79
149	Aiden Bertuzzi	Univ. of B.C. (Can.)	6051	248	DNP	DNP	DNP	28 1/2	9'1"	4.62	7.62	17	9 5/8	32	76 5/8
150	Jordan Porter	Bowling Green	6021	254	5.06	2.83	1.80	31 1/2	9'2"	4.70	7.81	17	9 7/8	34 3/8	80 3/4
151	Quashon Fuller	Maryland	6030	245	4.76	2.68	1.66	33 1/2	9'8"	4.71	7.68	16	9 7/8	33 1/4	82 3/4
152	Kyler Drake	New Mexico	6027	282	5.02	2.96	1.77	30	9'3"	DNP	DNP	19	8 7/8	33 3/8	79 3/4
153	Elijah Williams	Morgan State	6020	288	5.21	2.97	1.71	31	DNP	4.35	7.40	DNP	9	33 3/4	79 1/8
154	Aaron Lewis	Rutgers	6043	255	5.13	2.90	1.72	30	9'3"	4.66	7.22	DNP	10 1/4	34 3/8	80 3/4
155	Jaylen Hudson	UMass	6030	252	4.82	2.75	1.55	34	10'5"	4.37	7.10	14	9 3/4	34 3/8	83 1/4
156	Michael Fletcher	Appalachian State	6052	288	4.91	2.82	1.61	33 1/2	9'9"	4.73	7.69	25	9	35 7/8	83 3/4
157	Marlon Bradley	Florida Atlantic	6023	243	4.73	2.78	1.65	32 1/2	10'8"	4.68	7.60	18	9 7/8	33 7/8	81 3/4
158	Ryan Smith	Duke	6007	232	4.78	2.71	1.59	31	DNP	4.35	7.37	24	8 7/8	32 3/4	77 3/8
159	Keith Cooper Jr.	Houston	6030	280	5.08	2.94	1.70	30	9'6"	4.73	7.51	24	10 3/4	34 7/8	83 3/4
160	Raymond Cutts	Troy	6014	230	4.56	2.74	1.58	31 1/2	10'3"	4.46	7.41	17	9 3/4	31 1/2	79 1/4
161	Justin Reed	Navy	6021	259	5.14	2.85	1.76	26	9'2"	4.78	7.44	22	9 1/4	33	75 3/4
162	Sylvain Yondjouen	Georgia Tech	6031	245	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	34 1/2	81 1/2
163	Trevon Lambert	West Alabama	6016	210	4.75	2.77	1.60	32	10'4"	4.50	7.65	12	8 5/8	32 1/2	79
164	Tavion Woodard	Boise State	6037	248	5.00	2.80	1.76	31	9'6"	4.65	7.28	15	10 1/8	33 3/8	81
165	Shemar Pearl	SE Louisiana	6035	255	4.69	2.73	1.67	33	8'9"	4.64	7.27	14	9 1/4	33 5/8	80 1/8
166	Jason Vaughn	South Florida	6030	250	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	9'5"	4.56	7.31	11	10	33 3/8	81 1/2
167	Tomas Kenary	Middlebury	6023	257	5.09	2.90	1.81	26	8'7"	4.76	7.80	14	9 3/8	33 1/2	75 1/2
168	Nana Asante	Morgan State	6061	231	4.79	2.84	1.69	35 1/2	9'10"	4.33	7.38	20	9 1/8	33 3/4	80 3/4
169	D'Andre Ragin	Toledo	6021	249	4.93	2.75	1.71	29 1/2	9'8"	4.53	7.43	28	9	32 3/8	75 3/4
170	Sebastian Benjamin	Western Kentucky	6017	232	4.81	2.78	1.64	30	9'6"	4.56	7.15	DNP	9 3/8	33 1/8	78 5/8
171	Richard Kinley	Louisville	6023	244	4.97	2.70	1.66	28 1/2	9'3"	4.61	7.44	DNP	9 3/8	32	77 3/4
172	Nicholas Lenon	Merrimack	6002	245	4.87	DNP	1.69	31 1/2	10'2"	DNP	DNP	26	9	31 7/8	76
173	Chad Stephens	East Carolina	6001	245	4.99	2.89	1.63	30 1/2	9'7"	4.53	7.41	15	9 3/8	32 1/4	79 1/4
174	Zach Kennedy	UC Davis	6056	280	4.92	2.89	1.75	31 1/2	9'6"	4.60	7.45	25	9 1/2	34 3/4	79 1/4
175	Rovell Carter	Ouachita Baptist	6021	290	5.27	3.01	1.81	26	8'7"	DNP	DNP	26	8	31	74 5/8
176	J-Rock Swain	Jacksonville State	5103	278	5.08	2.95	1.78	25 1/2	8'4"	4.56	7.72	32	8 7/8	30 1/2	73 3/4
177	Mylic Ritche	Black Hills State	6026	257	5.11	2.92	1.70	29	9'0"	4.70	7.72	DNP	9 7/8	33 1/4	79 3/8
178	Jalen Howard	Central Conn. State	6002	255	5.01	2.85	1.75	27 1/2	9'3"	4.79	7.95	26	9 1/4	33 3/8	79 1/4
179	Makeah Scippio	CSU Pueblo	6032	236	4.67	2.80	1.71	40	10'2"	4.59	7.42	18	9 3/8	33 3/8	80 1/4
180	Dane Christensen	Midland	6020	225	4.63	2.66	1.64	37	10'7"	4.45	7.06	21	9	31	76 5/8
181	Rakweon Ramsey	Missouri Baptist	6003	273	5.07	2.84	1.84	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	30 5/8	73 1/8
182	Gilber Edmond	South Carolina	6040	253	4.80	2.76	1.64	34	10'8"	4.58	7.52	22	10 1/2	32 5/8	79 3/4
183	Courtney McBride Jr.	South Alabama	6007	241	4.78	2.79	1.62	32 1/2	9'9"	4.66	7.40	DNP	9	32 3/4	80 1/4
184	Chace Davis	Bowling Green	6034	259	4.81	2.75	1.70	31	9'3"	4.50	7.32	27	9 1/2	33 1/8	78 3/4
185	Elijah Robinson	Hawaii	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A
186	Loshiaka Roques	North Dakota State	6024	242	4.93	2.83	1.69	32 1/2	8'11"	DNP	DNP	21	10 1/4	32 1/2	77 7/8
187	Marquise Fleming	Wingate	5117	240	DNP	DNP	DNP	32	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10 1/8	32 3/4	78 5/8
188	Jonathan Hammond	William & Mary	6020	219	4.76	2.66	1.61	30 1/2	9'8"	4.47	7.14	13	10	30 1/4	77 7/8
189	Steven Parker	Texas State	6032	265	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	28	9 1/8	32 3/8	77 1/2
190	DeVonne Harris	Wyoming	6024	231	4.85	2.86	1.78	30	9'4"	4.56	7.30	15	9	31 5/8	78 1/2
191	Deshawn Holt	Toledo	6050	237	4.90	2.83	1.70	29 1/2	9'8"	4.64	7.20	DNP	9 1/4	34	81 3/8
192	Lloyd Summerall III	James Madison	6045	235	4.95	2.88	1.73	29 1/2	9'5"	4.70	7.46	DNP	8 7/8	32 7/8	81 3/4
193	Devo Bridges	Fresno State	6012	246	4.70	2.83	1.66	30	9'5"	4.34	7.21	19	8 1/2	31 5/8	74 7/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
194	Chuck Smith IV	Villanova	6010	249	5.10	2.95	1.75	29 1/2	9'1"	4.62	7.46	19	10	31 1/2	76 3/4
195	Flex Ruiz	New Hampshire	6001	250	4.75	DNP	1.68	31	9'0"	4.60	7.52	23	10 1/4	31 1/8	75 1/2
196	Chris Walker	Tennessee State	6032	235	DNP	DNP	DNP	30 1/2	9'4"	4.76	7.39	DNP	9 3/8	34 1/8	81
197	C.J. Bazile	Buffalo	6022	249	5.20	3.00	1.77	29	8'6"	4.96	7.32	17	9 1/4	32 1/4	77 5/8
198	Trey Laing	Eastern Michigan	6024	239	DNP	2.83	1.56	29	9'3"	4.51	7.31	18	8 7/8	31	74 3/4
199	De'Monte Russell	Mississippi State	6042	286	5.08	2.89	1.81	30 1/2	9'6"	4.78	7.51	19	9 1/2	33 3/8	82 1/4
200	Chantz Williams	Charlotte	6036	265	4.84	2.73	1.56	32 1/2	9'6"	4.66	7.34	16	10	33 7/8	81 5/8
201	Etinosa Reuben	UMass	6024	272	4.97	2.94	1.75	34	9'9"	4.90	7.83	21	10 5/8	33 1/4	82 1/4
202	Zaid Hamden	Kent State	5114	268	DNP	DNP	DNP	28	8'10"	4.71	7.70	31	9 1/4	30 1/4	73 3/4
203	Cheikhsaliou Fall	California	6031	253	4.81	2.76	1.66	29 1/2	9'8"	4.47	7.58	22	9 3/4	33 5/8	79 1/2
204	Alex Williams	Middle Tennessee	6065	315	DNP	DNP	DNP	28 1/2	9'1"	DNP	DNP	27	11	34 3/4	84 1/4
205	Jack Quander	New Haven	6006	229	4.90	2.84	1.70	35 1/2	9'8"	4.58	7.88	30	9 5/8	31	76 1/8
206	Ezekiel Holmes	Illinois	6034	273	4.97	2.88	1.78	32 1/2	9'6"	4.76	7.82	26	9 1/4	32 3/4	79 1/4
207	Jalen Dixon	UNLV	6001	260	4.94	2.89	1.77	25 1/2	8'10"	4.96	7.83	17	8 5/8	31 3/4	77
208	Javon Denis	Memphis	5113	278	5.01	2.95	1.75	28	8'7"	4.51	7.70	20	9 5/8	32 1/8	76
209	Jay Thompson	Merrimack	6003	236	5.13	DNP	1.77	29 1/2	9'4"	4.65	7.71	13	8 5/8	30 7/8	76 3/4
210	Daylan Dotson	UCF	6010	256	5.13	2.96	1.73	31	9'3"	4.85	DNP	14	9 3/8	33	79 1/2
211	Bryce Bobby Hayes	Kentucky State	6015	240	4.94	2.73	1.59	28	9'10"	4.73	7.84	17	9 5/8	32	75 7/8
212	Makius Scott	Georgia Tech	6025	284	5.08	2.98	1.72	31	9'9"	4.82	7.72	DNP	10 3/8	33 3/4	84 5/8
213	JuJu Williams	NC Central	6013	250	4.78	2.75	1.58	32	9'4"	4.47	7.35	20	10 1/2	32 3/8	77 1/4
214	Montez Kelley	Appalachian State	6030	266	5.28	3.05	1.77	28 1/2	9'2"	4.88	7.86	DNP	8 7/8	32 1/8	78 1/8
215	John Ward	San Jose State	6031	259	4.90	2.83	1.70	24 1/2	9'3"	4.71	7.27	22	10 1/4	32 1/4	78 3/4
216	Davonta Jackson	West Alabama	6020	266	5.00	2.91	1.74	25 1/2	8'6"	4.94	7.75	8	10	33 3/8	80
217	Andrew Edson	Washington State	6020	235	4.92	2.85	1.70	29 1/2	9'8"	4.38	7.31	23	9 3/8	30 1/4	74 1/8
218	Jamin Graham	Cumberlands	6030	272	4.85	2.90	1.69	32	9'8"	4.68	7.94	11	9 7/8	35 1/8	84 1/4
219	Joe Moore	Missouri	6026	251	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10	32 5/8	79 5/8
220	Justin Jefferson	Eastern Michigan	5096	224	4.65	2.69	1.61	35 1/2	10'1"	4.51	7.34	21	9 5/8	30 1/4	73 5/8
221	Zack Conner	Idaho State	6053	235	4.76	2.82	1.62	31	9'3"	4.59	7.47	15	8 3/8	32 7/8	79
222	Brandon Ross	Northwood	6015	242	4.98	2.87	1.72	29	9'2"	4.75	7.56	23	9 3/4	32 3/8	77 5/8
223	Blayne Toll	Arkansas State	6047	256	5.06	2.82	1.67	28 1/2	9'6"	4.70	7.69	25	10 3/4	34 3/4	79 5/8
224	Dan Toatley	Central Conn. State	6006	272	5.28	3.01	1.91	27	8'6"	4.95	8.15	14	9 1/2	30 7/8	75 7/8
225	Stone Handy	Charlotte	6042	253	4.78	2.78	1.65	30 1/2	9'11"	4.60	7.53	21	9 1/8	34	80
226	Darion Smith	Missouri State	6023	244	4.93	2.69	1.62	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	32 7/8	79 5/8
227	Kendall Johnson	UAB	6031	245	5.08	3.02	1.77	29 1/2	9'1"	4.64	7.39	16	10 1/2	32	78 3/4
228	Jevon Leon	Sam Houston	6004	250	5.22	2.96	1.70	22 1/2	8'10"	4.53	8.30	DNP	9 3/4	33	76 3/4
229	Treqwan Thomas	Alabama State	6001	231	4.84	2.81	1.68	28	9'5"	4.50	7.47	18	8 7/8	32 3/8	77 1/4
230	Terrell Dawkins	North Texas	6034	255	5.32	2.96	1.84	31 1/2	9'10"	4.40	DNP	21	9	32	77 1/8
231	Amieh Williams	Tulsa	6016	255	5.22	2.98	1.68	30 1/2	8'8"	4.81	7.81	24	9 1/8	32 3/8	76 5/8
232	Kwame Sarkodie Jr.	Prairie View A&M	6005	216	4.76	2.71	1.51	32 1/2	9'8"	4.65	7.73	16	9 1/4	33 7/8	78 3/8
233	Hunter O'Connor	Chadron State	6020	247	4.86	2.75	1.71	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	31	77
234	Austin Alward	Davenport	6044	219	4.83	2.76	1.64	33 1/2	10'5"	4.32	6.70	16	9 5/8	33 3/8	81 1/8
235	Octavious Oxendine	Kentucky	6015	277	5.00	2.79	1.70	30 1/2	9'5"	4.80	DNP	13	10 3/8	33 1/2	79 7/8
236	D.J. Woodbury	Temple	6004	243	4.84	2.75	1.63	34 1/2	9'9"	4.53	7.30	16	9	31 1/4	76 3/4
237	Miles Kauderer	Marist	5115	218	4.89	2.83	1.75	29	9'3"	4.47	7.41	21	9 1/2	30 3/4	76 1/4
238	Aidan Hayward	East Stroudsburg	5115	229	4.94	2.75	1.63	DNP	9'4"	4.58	7.50	21	9 1/2	31 5/8	77 1/2
239	Lanell Carr Jr.	Indiana	6007	244	5.05	2.84	1.73	27	9'3"	4.72	7.71	18	10 1/8	32 3/4	75 7/8
240	KD McDaniel	Georgia State	6016	218	4.95	2.81	1.68	31 1/2	9'10"	4.40	7.38	DNP	9 5/8	32	79 1/4
241	Jalen Williams	Missouri State	6024	269	5.07	2.83	1.75	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	33	75 3/4
242	Cortland Horton	Idaho State	6032	252	4.76	2.65	1.56	34 1/2	10'0"	4.37	7.22	25	9 3/8	30 7/8	76 1/2
243	Jonathan Bunce	South Dakota	6027	236	4.87	2.77	1.64	34	9'6"	4.15	6.97	21	9 3/8	30 1/4	74 7/8
244	Lavell Gibson	Kent State	6015	265	4.87	2.85	1.60	30 1/2	9'4"	4.53	7.45	27	9 7/8	31 7/8	78 1/2
245	Quillan Felton	Nebraska-Kearney	6037	227	4.95	2.79	1.69	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/8	30 5/8	75 1/8
246	Dreydon Hall	Harding	5117	230	4.72	2.71	1.64	32 1/2	10'1"	DNP	DNP	23	9 1/4	32	79 3/8
247	Zykeius Strong	Houston	6040	238	4.97	2.91	1.71	32	9'7"	4.72	7.45	16	9 3/8	33 5/8	81 5/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
248	David Abolarinwa	New Haven	6012	271	5.00	2.88	1.69	33 1/2	8'11"	4.75	7.90	13	9 1/2	31 5/8	78 1/2
249	Jalen Freeman	Lamar	6000	239	4.69	2.77	1.73	32	9'6"	4.55	7.35	20	9 3/8	33 3/4	77 7/8
250	Cody Ramming	CSU Pueblo	6070	259	5.07	2.84	1.78	32 1/2	9'6"	4.64	7.40	14	9 1/4	32 5/8	77 1/4
251	Fisher Jackson	Utah Tech	6040	230	4.85	2.76	1.77	32 1/2	9'5"	4.73	7.07	15	9 7/8	31 1/4	77 5/8
252	Garrett Watson	Missouri Western St.	6017	255	4.97	2.75	1.78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	30 3/4	74 5/8
253	Jalen Brown	Cumberland (Tenn.)	5112	211	4.78	2.75	1.63	30 1/2	9'6"	4.34	7.67	17	9 1/4	31 1/8	74 1/8
254	Chance Knight	Marietta	6025	250	4.78	2.75	1.65	30 1/2	8'9"	4.58	7.31	25	8 7/8	31 7/8	76 1/4
255	Roc Dowdell	Miles	6011	241	5.00	2.90	1.69	29 1/2	9'7"	4.79	7.75	16	9 7/8	32 1/8	78
256	Ronald McGee	Kansas	6017	279	5.07	2.95	1.74	32 1/2	9'8"	4.60	7.54	22	9 1/8	31 3/4	79 3/4
257	Terrell Allen	Tulane	6004	248	5.09	2.90	1.76	29	9'2"	4.58	7.33	15	10 3/8	32 1/2	77 5/8
258	Joshua Bean	Central Missouri	5106	282	5.12	3.13	1.89	27 1/2	9'0"	4.95	8.07	22	8 7/8	29 7/8	75 3/8
259	Jake Shipley	North Texas	6031	258	4.89	2.78	1.69	26 1/2	9'2"	4.72	7.55	22	9 7/8	31 1/2	77 3/4
260	Zach Edwards	Western Kentucky	6015	255	5.00	2.78	1.64	27 1/2	9'4"	4.78	7.63	17	9 3/8	32 5/8	76 7/8
261	Isaiah Bishop	Sacred Heart	6006	264	5.00	2.96	1.75	30 1/2	8'8"	4.58	7.70	19	8	31 5/8	75 1/8
262	CJ Pressley	Prairie View A&M	6033	264	5.12	2.95	1.78	30 1/2	9'2"	4.49	7.47	23	9 1/4	33 5/8	78 7/8
263	Jordan Russell	Samford	5102	246	4.86	2.82	1.64	27	9'0"	4.71	7.72	16	9 1/8	30 1/2	74
264	Hosea Knifley Jr.	Austin Peay	6014	228	5.15	3.01	1.73	26	9'3"	4.67	7.75	DNP	9 1/2	30 7/8	75 3/8
265	Jaymond Jackson	Lamar	6031	275	5.04	2.89	1.75	28	8'9"	4.75	7.45	20	9 3/4	33 1/4	78 7/8
266	Javon Carter	Tulane	6023	276	5.14	2.93	1.76	26 1/2	8'8"	4.84	7.95	DNP	9 1/4	33 5/8	81 1/4
267	Kevin Orange	NW Oklahoma State	6016	222	4.75	2.68	1.60	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/8	33 3/8	78 7/8
268	Cormontae Hamilton	Memphis	6023	281	5.10	2.95	1.75	28	9'2"	4.57	7.43	22	11	32 1/2	80 3/4
269	Calvin Broussard	MidAmerica Nazarene	5110	247	5.35	3.01	1.81	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 7/8	32 1/8	79 1/8
270	Nazir Jones	West Virginia State	5092	265	5.27	2.94	1.72	23 1/2	8'4"	4.88	8.10	17	9 3/8	29 1/2	67 1/4
271	Leonard Henry IV	Saginaw Valley State	6030	261	5.11	2.87	1.63	33	9'0"	DNP	DNP	21	10 1/8	31 3/4	78 3/8
272	Jahmel Flowers	Lock Haven	6035	197	4.94	2.75	1.62	30 1/2	9'9"	4.77	7.70	13	10	32 3/8	77 1/8
273	Asyrus Simon	UTSA	6031	244	5.28	2.97	1.76	27 1/2	9'1"	4.69	7.44	DNP	8 3/4	33 5/8	82 1/4
274	Aaron Miller	Benedict	6002	234	5.00	2.89	1.75	29 1/2	9'3"	4.75	7.72	10	9 1/4	32 7/8	77 5/8
275	Jordan Bussey	Mississippi Valley	5095	268	5.37	3.07	1.83	DNP	8'1"	4.91	8.00	DNP	9 1/8	30	74 1/4
276	Jaden Phillips	Sam Houston	6001	247	5.08	2.82	1.69	28 1/2	9'3"	4.82	7.71	17	9 1/2	31 1/4	74 7/8
277	Kayode Oladele	Abilene Christian	6040	281	5.14	2.91	1.75	31 1/2	8'6"	5.06	8.31	21	10 1/4	34 3/8	82 3/4
278	Brockman Wallace	Towson	6004	255	5.24	3.01	1.78	30	8'9"	5.00	8.15	DNP	8 7/8	29 7/8	73 1/2
279	Rayshad Wallace	Maine	6003	259	5.28	DNP	1.77	26	8'3"	4.65	7.96	20	9 3/4	31 3/8	76 3/8
280	Kabbash Richards	Akron	6040	235	5.30	3.15	1.85	27 1/2	8'7"	4.97	8.10	DNP	9 1/8	32 5/8	78 1/2
281	Tyreke Brown	Sacred Heart	5114	255	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	8'9"	4.75	7.87	19	9 3/4	31 1/4	75 1/2
282	Isaiah Farmer	West Virginia State	5104	263	5.46	3.00	1.81	26	8'4"	4.90	8.31	14	9 3/4	32	76 1/8

DEFENSIVE TACKLES

DEFENSIVE TACKLES

	NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1.	MASON GRAHAM	Michigan	1st	3JR	6034	306	DNP (DNP)	9 1/8	32	78 1/2	21.64
2.	DERRICK HARMON	Oregon	1st-2nd	4JR	6044	313	4.95 (1.74)	10 3/8	34 3/8	83 3/4	21.72
3.	KENNETH GRANT	Michigan	1st-2nd	3JR	6035	330	5.13 (1.72)	10 1/8	33 1/2	82 5/8	21.49
4.	WALTER NOLEN	Ole Miss	1st-2nd	3JR	6037	300	DNP (DNP)	9 1/2	33 3/8	80 1/8	21.53
5.	TYLEIK WILLIAMS	Ohio State	2nd	4SR	6027	329	DNP (1.74)	10 1/4	32	78 5/8	22.16
6.	SHEMAR TURNER	Texas A&M	2nd	4SR	6031	290	DNP (DNP)	10 3/8	33 5/8	81 1/8	22.27
7.	DARIUS ALEXANDER	Toledo	2nd-3rd	6SR	6037	305	4.95 (1.71)	10	34	82 7/8	24.66
8.	ALFRED COLLINS	Texas	2nd-3rd	5SR	6055	332	DNP (DNP)	10	35	85	23.54
9.	T.J. SANDERS	South Carolina	2nd-3rd	4JR	6037	305	4.95 (1.67)	10 1/4	33 1/4	80 7/8	21.73
10.	JOSHUA FARMER	Florida State	3rd	4JR	6032	305	5.11 (1.76)	10 1/4	35	83 3/8	22.27
11.	TY HAMILTON	Ohio State	3rd	5SR	6027	299	4.95 (1.70)	10 1/8	32 1/4	78 5/8	23.02
12.	TY ROBINSON	Nebraska	3rd-4th	6SR	6054	288	4.83 (1.70)	10	32 1/4	79 1/4	23.98
13.	JAY TOIA	UCLA	3rd-4th	4SR	6024	341	DNP (DNP)	10	32 1/2	77 1/4	21.77
14.	CAM JACKSON	Florida	3rd-4th	5SR	6062	328	5.17 (1.80)	9 3/4	34 3/4	83 1/8	22.71
15.	OMARR NORMAN-LOTT	Tennessee	3rd-4th	5SR	6017	303	5.15 (1.83)	10 3/4	33 3/4	80 1/2	23.12
16.	JORDAN PHILLIPS	Maryland	3rd-4th	3SO	6015	313	DNP (DNP)	10	32	81 1/4	20.82
17.	AENEAS PEEBLES	Virginia Tech	3rd-4th	5SR	6004	282	4.94 (1.74)	10	31 1/2	78	23.64
18.	JAMAREE CALDWELL	Oregon	4th	6SR	6021	332	5.16 (1.86)	9 5/8	32	78 3/8	24.65
19.	DEONE WALKER	Kentucky	4th	3JR	6074	328	5.35 (1.90)	10 5/8	34 1/4	84 7/8	21.12
20.	VERNON BROUGHTON	Texas	4th	5SR	6050	311	DNP (DNP)	9 1/4	35	83 7/8	23.78
21.	CJ WEST	Indiana	4th-5th	5SR	6011	316	4.95 (1.73)	10	31 7/8	79 1/8	22.87
22.	JJ PEGUES	Ole Miss	4th-5th	5SR	6024	309	5.15 (1.81)	9 3/8	32 1/2	79 7/8	23.41
23.	RYLIE MILLS	Notre Dame	4th-5th	5SR	6053	296	DNP (DNP)	10 1/8	32 3/4	79 3/4	23.68
24.	CAM HORSLEY	Boston College	5th	5SR	6026	312	5.04 (1.73)	9 1/2	33	81	23.21
25.	YAHYA BLACK	Iowa	5th	5SR	6056	336	5.38 (1.88)	10 3/8	35	84	23.01
26.	NAZIR STACKHOUSE	Georgia	5th-6th	5SR	6036	327	5.15 (1.80)	10 1/2	32 5/8	79 1/4	23.02
27.	JARED HARRISON-HUNTE	SMU	5th-6th	6SR	6033	290	4.86 (1.69)	9 1/2	33 3/8	79 3/4	24.76
28.	WARREN BRINSON	Georgia	6th	5SR	6052	315	5.09 (1.75)	10 1/2	33 1/2	80 7/8	23.22
29.	TIM SMITH	Alabama	6th	5SR	6040	306	5.14 (1.82)	10 1/2	33	81 7/8	22.71
30.	ERIC GREGORY	Arkansas	6th-7th	6SR	6032	319	5.14 (1.76)	9 5/8	33 1/4	81 1/4	24.61
31.	ELIJAH SIMMONS	Tennessee	6th-7th	6SR	6010	334	5.37 (1.87)	10 1/4	32 3/4	80	23.75
32.	TONKA HEMINGWAY	South Carolina	6th-7th	5SR	6027	284	5.02 (1.65)	9	33 3/8	80 3/4	23.48
33.	ZEEK BIGGERS	Georgia Tech	7th	4SR	6054	321	5.09 (1.74)	10 1/2	35 3/4	85 1/8	21.55
34.	HOWARD CROSS III	Notre Dame	7th	6SR	6013	283	DNP (DNP)	10 1/2	32 1/2	78 1/2	23.73
35.	SEAN MARTIN	West Virginia	FA	5SR	6054	293	4.88 (1.69)	10 5/8	35 1/4	84 1/2	23.30
36.	DEANDRE JULES	South Carolina	FA	6SR	6035	316	5.26 (1.79)	9	34 1/2	83	23.96
37.	KYONTE HAMILTON	Rutgers	FA	4SR	6033	305	5.02 (1.70)	9 1/4	32 1/8	79 3/8	22.46
38.	JUNIOR TAFUNA	Utah	FA	5SR	6034	308	5.03 (1.79)	10 5/8	33	78 3/4	24.15
39.	JAHVAREE RITZIE	North Carolina	FA	4SR	6043	288	5.00 (1.70)	10 1/2	33 1/4	81 3/4	22.23
40.	NASH HUTMACHER	Nebraska	FA	5SR	6034	312	5.20 (1.79)	9 1/2	31 3/4	76	23.94
41.	PAYTON PAGE	Clemson	FA	4SR	6034	300	5.13 (1.75)	10	31 3/8	79 3/8	22.57
42.	TOMMY AKINGBESOTE	Maryland	FA	4SR	6036	306	5.09 (1.76)	10	33 1/2	82 5/8	22.16
43.	SIMEON BARROW JR.	Miami	FA	5SR	6013	283	4.89 (1.69)	9 1/8	32 3/8	77 3/4	22.80

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Mission Viejo, CA	Servite	Sep 02, 2003	21.64	6034	306	#55

BACKGROUND: Mason Graham, who has one older sister (Taylor) and two younger brothers (Landon and Carson), was born and raised in southern California with his parents (Allen and Kimberly). He started playing organized sports at age 4, first soccer and then basketball, baseball, football and rugby. At the Pop Warner level, Graham starred at running back and linebacker for the Santa Margarita Titans and Eagles, and he often played up a grade level or two because of his size. He continued playing basketball through middle school and was named team MVP of his junior high team. Graham also played club rugby for eight years in middle and high school (Back Bay Rhinos and Raptors). After he graduated high school, his parents and younger brothers relocated to the north shore of Oahu, Hawaii. His older sister graduated from Arizona in 2023.

Graham attended Servite High, an all-boys prep school in Anaheim, Calif., that produced several NFL players, like Trent McDuffie, Ryan Kalil, Matt Kalil and others. He enrolled as a 6-foot-1, 215-pound linebacker but (reluctantly) moved to the defensive line. All of Servite's players play both ways, so he also lined up at offensive tackle. After playing JV as a freshman (Servite freshmen aren't allowed to play varsity), Graham moved up to varsity as a sophomore and became a starter, posting 34 tackles and two sacks. Servite's fall football schedule in 2020 was pushed to spring of 2021 because of the pandemic, and Graham finished that year with nine tackles and two sacks. He had his best season as a senior (60 tackles, 22 tackles for loss and 14 sacks), as he was named player of the year by the L.A. Times and most valuable lineman in the conference. Graham helped the team to a 10-3 finish, losing to eventual 2021 state champion Mater Dei in the state playoffs.

Servite's 2021 team included several other high-profile recruits, like wide receiver Tetairoa McMillan, tight end Keyan Burnett, quarterback Noah Fifita, and linebacker Jacob Manu — all four signed with Arizona in the 2022 class. As a freshman and sophomore, Graham played basketball and track, with personal bests of 41 feet, 4 inches in the shot put and 107-5 in the discus. He joined the wrestling team as a freshman and could have been a high-profile wrestling recruit (the Cal and Stanford wrestling programs inquired about him; Colorado-Mesa asked him to play both sports). Graham won two heavyweight Trinity League championships and qualified for states.

A four-star recruit, Graham was the 32nd-ranked defensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 19 recruit in California (third-ranked from Servite, behind McMillan and Burnett). A late bloomer on the recruiting trail, he received his first offer as a 280-pound junior in November 2020, from Fresno State head coach Kalen DeBoer and director of player personnel Courtney Morgan. During the spring season in 2021, Graham added offers from Army, Boise State, Colorado State, San Jose State, Utah State and Oregon State (his lone offer from a power conference). After an official visit, he committed to Boise State in July 2021. However, Graham blew up as a senior and picked up an offer from Michigan just two games into the 2021 season. (Morgan, a Michigan alum, had joined the Wolverines' staff by that time.)

Within a few weeks, Graham visited Ann Arbor and flipped his commitment to Michigan. His dream school growing up had been UCLA, but the Bruins never offered a scholarship. Several other programs entered the mix, like Oregon and USC, and Graham considered staying home and becoming a Trojan — especially after defensive line coach Shaun Nua left Michigan in January 2022 to join Lincoln Riley's staff. But Graham was already enrolled in classes at Michigan and stayed with his commitment. He was the seventh-ranked recruit in former head coach Jim Harbaugh's 2022 class. Graham started training with pass-rush trainer Javon Gopie (also known as "sack sensei") before the 2024 season. He became best friends and roommates at Michigan with Kenneth Grant. Graham opted out of Michigan's 2024 bowl game and skipped his senior year to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (14/2)	27	2.5	2.5	0	1	0	Freshman All-American; enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/13)	35	7.5	3.0	1	1	0	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; Rose Bowl Defensive MVP; missed two games (left thumb)
2024: (12/12)	45	7.0	3.5	0	1	0	Consensus All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; blocked FG
Total: (39/27)	107	17.0	9.0	1	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6034	296	9 1/8	32	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	24	BP only (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	306	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Thick, square build with naturally low pads to win the leverage battle
- Strong at the point of attack with above-average instincts against the run
- Explosive by nature to fire off the ball and drive opponents into the lap of the quarterback
- Quick feet and hands as a pass rusher to cross the face of blockers, win half-man and knife into the backfield
- Agile athleticism is evident on stunts and loops
- Twitchy in his upper half for strong push-pulls and understands how to dismantle balance of blockers
- Moves well laterally with relentless effort to consistently make plays away from starting point
- Missed tackles were hard to find on his 2024 film
- Blocked field goal on against Washington in 2024

- Calls out blocking schemes pre-snap — football IQ jumped each season
- Low-key personality off the field but violent competitor on it
- Played five different sports in high school, which helped unlock his physical abilities

WEAKNESSES:

- Average body type and lacks desired length
- Doesn't always create clear separation after initial punch
- NFL scouts say there is some sloppy weight on his frame
- Anchor breaks down against double teams and redirect blocks
- Inconsistent sifting through traffic
- Needs to add more variety to pass-rush attack
- Broke left thumb as a junior (Sept. 2023) and required surgery, but he only missed two weeks and returned with a club on his left hand

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Michigan, Graham was a three-technique defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Wink Martindale's four-man front (76.6 percent of his career snaps came over the B-gap). Although his backfield production doesn't jump off the stat sheet, Graham was arguably the most valuable defensive player on the Wolverines' 2023 national championship team and played even better (with lesser talent around him) in 2024.

Graham naturally plays from a low position to consistently win leverage through contact — he credits his athletic twitch and understanding of angles to his championship-level wrestling background. He needs to develop his efficiency versus double teams, but he violently sheds single blocks and plays the piano up and down the line with his outstanding chase effort. Overall, Graham is a leverage monster and skillfully destroys blocks with his strength, quickness, motor and play recognition to make an impact versus both pass and run. He projects as a versatile interior presence with the floor of an NFL starter.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 4 overall)

DT2 Derrick Harmon

Oregon, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Detroit, MI	Loyola	Aug 03, 2003	21.72	6044	313	#55

BACKGROUND: Derrick Harmon was born and raised in Detroit (on Seven Mile Rd.) and was primarily raised by his mother (Tiffany Saine), who battled health issues throughout Harmon's childhood. When Harmon was a freshman at Michigan State in 2022, Saine suffered a stroke that paralyzed the left side of her body (Harmon: "She is my 'why' and what drives me."). Harmon started playing football at the age 5 and was forced to play up a grade or two throughout most of youth football, because of his size. He played for the Eastside Raiders in the Detroit PAL league and saw time on both sides of the ball as an offensive and defensive lineman.

Harmon enrolled at Loyola High, a small, Catholic all-boys school in Detroit, and played in one of the lowest divisions in the state (Division 7). He moved up to varsity as a freshman and played primarily on the offensive line, but he admittedly "didn't see a future on offense." During Harmon's sophomore season, the coaches added him to the defensive line — and things started to click. As a junior, he played both ways and earned honorable mention all-state honors on defense. Despite larger schools trying to woo him away, Harmon stayed at Loyola for his senior season and led the team to a 9-3 finish and the 2020 district championship. He received first-team all-state honors on defense and allowed only one sack as an offensive lineman.

A three-star recruit, Harmon was the 117th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 26 recruit in Michigan. After he moved to the defensive line as a sophomore, he picked up his first offer from Central Michigan (Jan. 2019). Several FCS programs tried to get in the mix, and he received offers from Alabama A&M, Alabama State, Austin Peay and Morgan State. But after his junior year, Harmon started to add offers from Big Ten and SEC schools, including Ole Miss and Purdue. He had grown up a Michigan State fan and took several visits to East Lansing, but an offer didn't come from former head coach Mark Dantonio. Harmon was leaning toward Purdue, but he finally received his Michigan State offer soon after Mel Tucker took over as Spartans head coach in February 2020. Harmon decided to stay close to his mother and committed to Michigan State. He was the seventh-ranked recruit in Tucker's 2021 class (same class as wide receiver Keon Coleman).

After Michigan State fired Tucker during the 2023 season, Harmon entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2023) and took visits to Auburn, Ohio State and Oregon. He initially withdrew his name from the transfer portal, mostly because of his desire to be close to his mother, but reentered the portal four months later and signed with Oregon. After one season in Eugene, he elected to forego his senior year and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (4/0)	1	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Michigan State; redshirted; enrolled July 2021
2022: (12/5)	30	3.0	2.0	0	1	0	Michigan State
2023: (12/10)	40	3.5	1.5	1	1	0	Michigan State
2024: (14/14)	45	10.5	5.0	2	3	0	Oregon; Third Team All-Big Ten
Total: (42/29)	116	17.0	8.5	3	5	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6044	313	10 3/8	34 3/8	83 3/4	4.95	2.89	1.74	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6046	322	10 1/8	34 3/8	84	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Athletic big man with desired size, length and quickness
- Big, heavy guards struggle to match his lateral agility
- Upper-body strength and physical swipe/rip moves give him access to gaps
- Varies rush moves and is always looking to mix in new tactics
- Finds wrists/arms of blockers and throws them away
- Closes in a flash once he has a lane to the ball carrier
- Shoots downhill to win front-side angles and blow up ball carrier at the line of scrimmage
- Can hold his ground in the run game, against either single or double blocks
- Dogged effort is his calling card when chasing
- Durable; didn't miss a game over his final three college seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Good-looking frame but has some sloppy weight on his body
- Below-average finisher and must become a better tackler in backfield
- Throws the kitchen sink at blockers and is still learning how to efficiently streamline his attack
- Relies more on quickness than block reads when attacking the run
- More consistent pad level will improve his anchor
- Too many undisciplined penalties on his 2024 tape (roughing the passer, unnecessary roughness, hands to the face)
- Arrived at Michigan State as a 350-pound freshman — conditioning will be key

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Oregon, Harmon lined up primarily over the B-gap in defensive coordinator Tosh Lupoi's multiple fronts. He flashed promise at Michigan State before transferring to Eugene and producing his breakout season in 2024, when he led all FBS interior defensive linemen with 55 pressures (12 more than the next-closest DT).

A player who can win in different ways, Harmon forces blockers to attack air with his lateral explosiveness or uses strong, crafty hands to swat away the reach of blockers as he bursts through gaps to close on the ball carrier. Though he led FBS interior linemen in pressures, he also led the position in missed tackles (12) — even the smallest improvements in his backfield finishing ability would have resulted in double-digit sacks.

Overall, Harmon is a highly active and disruptive big man who consistently finds ways to gain freedom from blocks as a penetrating pass rusher and run stuffer. He projects as a scheme-diverse NFL starter, anywhere from one- to five-tech.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 16 overall)

DT3 Kenneth Grant

Michigan, 3JR

HOMETOWN Gary, IN	HIGH SCHOOL Merrillville	BIRTHDAY Oct 27, 2003	AGE 21.49	HT 6035	WT 330	NUM #78
----------------------	-----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Kenneth Grant grew up in Merrillville, Ind. (40 miles from Chicago), with his father (Kenneth Grant Sr.) and mother (Ewana Chatman), who divorced when Grant was in elementary school. He showed a natural interest in NFL football at a young age, and his mother finally allowed him to play organized football at age 8. Grant was almost always the biggest player on the field, and the coaches often needed his birth certificate ready to prove his age. There also were questions about whether or not he would make the 250-pound weight limit. He started playing for the Crowne Point Bulldogs and later joined several other teams, including the Raiders and Vikings in Pop Warner (weighed close to 300 pounds in middle school). Grant also played basketball and competed in track throughout middle school. He was recruited by Chicago-area high schools, but his mother kept him close to home.

Grant attended Merrillville High, where he was a three-sport standout. He started both ways as a freshman and made a name for himself as a sophomore with 42 tackles, three sacks and two forced fumbles. As a junior, Grant helped Merrillville to a 10-2 record and the 2020 conference title, finishing with six tackles for loss, three sacks and a 50-yard fumble recovery for a touchdown. Despite dealing with tendinitis in his right foot, he had his best season as a 350-pound senior and was named 2021 conference defensive player of the year (38 tackles, 14.5 tackles for loss, 6.5 sacks, four forced fumbles, four blocked field goals, two blocked extra points and two blocked punts). He also started at left guard as part of an offensive line that blocked for running back Lavarion Logan, who set the school's single-season and career rushing records before signing with Illinois State in the 2022 class. Merrillville enjoyed its first undefeated regular season in more than 30 years and finished with a 12-1 record, falling in the semifinals of the 2021 state playoffs.

Grant also lettered in basketball at track at Merrillville and had personal bests of 60 feet, 4 inches in the shot put and 55-0 in the discus, advancing to the state championships in both events.

A three-star recruit, Grant was the 59th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 10 recruit in Indiana. His recruitment started to take off after his sophomore year, when he received offers from Cincinnati and Purdue in the summer of 2020. After his junior season, Arizona State, Illinois, Michigan, Nebraska and Wisconsin joined the mix. Grant visited Columbus (and was considered an Ohio State lean) before committing to Michigan midway through his senior season. He was the 11th-ranked recruit in former head coach Jim Harbaugh's 2022 class. Grant became best friends and roommates with Mason Graham at Michigan. He opted out of Michigan's bowl game and accepted an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl but didn't participate.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (14/0)	8	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Enrolled June 2022
2023: (15/5)	29	5.0	3.5	0	6	1	Second Team All-Big Ten
2024: (12/12)	32	6.5	3.0	0	5	0	Second Team All-Big Ten; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (41/17)	69	11.5	6.5	0	11	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6035	331	10 1/8	33 1/2	82 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	22	No jumps, 40, pos. drills (med. exclusion: right hamstring)
PRO DAY	6033	330	DNP	DNP	DNP	5.13	3.01	1.72	31	8'9"	4.76	7.69	27

STRENGTHS:

- Wide-bodied lineman with thickness throughout and unique athleticism ("Freaks List" alum)
- Moves with big-man balance and flexible hips to swim through gaps
- Uses lateral range to work up and down the line
- Tough to move him off his spot
- Plenty of natural power behind his active, physical hands
- Locks out with his arms to control blocks and muck up things inside
- Rare speed and hustle for his size to close the gap when chasing ball carrier
- Smoothly calms his feet on the move to gobble up ball carriers and finish tackles
- Has a knack for getting his big mitts up (10 combined pass breakups past two seasons)
- Not overly vocal, but the coaches say he took on more of a leadership role in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Slow-burn pass rusher with an undeveloped plan if his first move is ineffective
- Elevated pad level will leave him uprooted and neutralized post-snap
- Delivers initial pop but struggles to create a consistent pocket push
- Late to read blocking scheme or ball carrier at times
- His weight will climb north of 350 pounds in the offseason, and his conditioning needs monitored
- Didn't miss a game because of injury in Ann Arbor but battled through right foot tendinitis as a high school senior
- Tackle production (on either side of the line of scrimmage) doesn't jump out

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Michigan, Grant was an interchangeable defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Wink Martindale's four-man front, lining up as both a three-technique and nose tackle. He went viral during the 2023 season when he chased down Penn State running back Kaytron Allen in the open field, and he was a steady presence on the Wolverines' defensive line the past two seasons.

A dominant run presence, Grant is a powerful boulder who can execute two-gap techniques or stack single blocks and work down the line with quickness. He looks to fire off the ball, although his tall pads will negate his leverage and lower-body strength, diminishing his bull rush and limiting the ways in which he can impact the quarterback. Overall, Grant plays big in a big man's game, but he also has the athletic traits and effort to grow into more than just a stout run stopper. He projects as an early-down NFL starter with three-down upside.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 25 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Powell, TN	Powell	Oct 14, 2003	21.53	6037	300	#2

BACKGROUND: Walter Nolen, the oldest of three boys, grew up in the Memphis, Tenn., area with his parents (Walter Jr. and Yolunda). He started playing football at age 5 and developed an immediate connection with the sport. Nolen continued playing in Pop Warner and middle school and started to gain attention on all-star teams. His younger brothers (Warren and Waylan) also have futures in college football. Warren Nolen was a three-star recruit in the 2025 class and signed with Arkansas State as an interior offensive lineman.

Walter Nolen started out at Olive Branch High in northern Mississippi. As a freshman, he was part of a varsity team that won 12 games (he also competed on the powerlifting team). Nolen had his breakout season in 2019 as a sophomore defensive lineman (92 tackles, 26 tackles for loss, two sacks and two forced fumbles). He earned first-team all-metro honors and skyrocketed up the recruiting rankings. With the spotlight on him, Nolen transferred midway through his sophomore year (Feb. 2020) to IMG Academy, the football powerhouse and boarding school in Bradenton, Fla. However, he returned home to the Memphis area after just four months (June 2020), because of his mother’s desire to have him close to home during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Before his junior year, Nolen enrolled at St. Benedict at Auburndale, a Catholic school in Memphis, where he was coached by Marlon Walls, who had played defensive line at Olive Branch and Tennessee (2009-13). But St. Benedict managed only two wins in 2020 and fired Walls (former Memphis tight end Joey Magnifico replaced him). For his senior season, Nolen transferred to Powell High, which is 10 miles north of Neyland Stadium and the Tennessee campus. Despite joining the team late, he helped Powell to a 13-2 record and the 2021 5A state championship. Nolen finished his final season with 93 tackles, 33 tackles for loss, 17 sacks and six forced fumbles, which earned him several state and national awards, including Defensive Player of the Year by USA Today. He also played basketball at St. Benedict.

A five-star recruit, Nolen was the top-ranked defensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class (one spot ahead of Mykel Williams) and the No. 1 recruit in Tennessee. He finished as the No. 2 recruit nationally, behind only Travis Hunter. During the spring of his freshman year, Nolen impressed at several camps and earned his first offer from Tennessee, followed by offers from Georgia, LSU, Mississippi State, Missouri and Ole Miss (April 2019). The offers continued to pour throughout his breakout sophomore season, and it was clear that Nolen would have his choice of colleges. The summer before his senior season, Nolen announced a final five of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Michigan and Tennessee, but a month later, Texas A&M shot to the top of his list. He ultimately committed to head coach Jimbo Fisher and the Aggies in November 2021 and headlined the famed "best recruiting class ever," which included eight five-star signees (five on the defensive line).

After two seasons in College Station, following Fisher’s dismissal and defensive line coach Elijah Robinson’s move to Syracuse, Nolen entered the transfer portal. He was the third-ranked player in the portal and committed to Ole Miss in December 2023. Nolen skipped his senior season and entered the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (10/4)	29	2.5	1.0	1	0	0	Texas A&M; enrolled May 2022
2023: (12/10)	37	8.5	4.0	0	1	0	Texas A&M
2024: (13/13)	48	14.0	6.5	0	3	0	Ole Miss; consensus All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in TFL; enrolled January 2024
Total: (35/27)	114	25.0	11.5	1	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6036	296	9 1/2	32 1/2	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6037	300	9 1/2	33 3/8	80 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.76	DNP	27

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive first step with equally explosive hands
- Has initial movements to cross face, shoot gaps and live in gaps
- Weaponizes length to stab and flashes a twitchy slap/arm-over move
- Relies on get-off quickness as his source of power to create push at contact
- Rangy athlete for his size, with the secondary quickness to finish behind the line of scrimmage
- Quick to find his balance to react to the ball carrier and get him on the ground
- Strong tackler in close quarters (rarely missed tackles)
- Able to plant his post leg and hold his own against doubles
- Plays hard, and his effort doesn’t see major dips snap to snap
- Production improved each season — finished top three among FBS interior defensive linemen in tackles for loss in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Can do a better job staying square when moving laterally down the line
- Reacts first and reads second, leaving him out of position at times

- Rush plan is based more on activity than cohesion
- Improving his lock-out will help keep his eyes elevated to find the football
- Personal foul on the 2024 Arkansas tape for extracurricular efforts
- Disappears on some tapes; averaged only 2.7 pressures per game in 2024
- Attended six different programs over the last seven years, so interview process will be crucial to his final grade

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Ole Miss, Nolen played three-technique tackle in defensive coordinator Pete Golding’s 4-2-5 base scheme, occasionally lining up over or outside the tackle. A consensus top-five recruit out of high school, he played two mediocre seasons at Texas A&M before transferring to Oxford, where he had his best season in 2024, joining Patrick Willis as the only consensus All-Americans from the front seven in school history.

With his length and surge off the ball, Nolen creates immediate force and can be a play-wrecker with how quickly he penetrates gaps (the type of leverage that creates holding calls). He doesn’t rely on just quickness to win, but there are inefficiencies in his attack, especially when he is late to read the play. Overall, Nolen has areas of his game that require maturing, but he flashes big-time disruption in his initial burst and fast, physical hands to regularly affect the backfield action. He will be attractive for NFL teams looking for an active gap-shooter with high-end upside.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 31 overall)

DT5 Tyleik Williams

Ohio State, 4SR

HOMETOWN Manassas, VA	HIGH SCHOOL Unity Reed	BIRTHDAY Feb 25, 2003	AGE 22.16	HT 6027	WT 329	NUM #91
--------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Tyleik (ty-LEEK) Williams, the fourth of five children, grew up in northern Virginia with his mother (Gloria). Wanting to follow in the footsteps of his older brothers, he started playing pee wee football at age 5, first as a quarterback before moving to running back. In middle school, Williams shifted to the defensive side of the ball and played linebacker. He also played basketball throughout childhood and competed in the shot put while in junior high.

Williams enrolled at Stonewall Jackson High (later renamed Unity Reed High) in Manassas, Va. Because of his growing size, he moved to the defensive line and earned a starting role as a freshman, earning second-team all-district honors and quickly announcing himself as one of the better players in the area. As a sophomore, Williams was named the district's defensive player of the year (65 tackles, 23 tackles for loss and 15 sacks) and helped lead Unity Reed to the 2018 1A state playoffs. As a junior, he helped the program to an 8-3 record and was named first-team all-state, with 47 tackles and 3.5 sacks. The 2020 season was postponed to the spring because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but Williams graduated early and didn't play his senior year. Williams also lettered in track and set the school record in the shot put.

A four-star recruit, Williams was the 25th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 6 recruit in Virginia. After his sophomore season, he picked up his first FBS offers from Virginia and Virginia Tech. He added offers from several Big Ten (Michigan, Penn State) and SEC (Georgia, Tennessee, Texas A&M) schools before narrowing down to a top six: Alabama, LSU, North Carolina, Ohio State, South Carolina and Virginia Tech. Williams originally picked Alabama, but another defensive line recruit (Tim Keenan) filled his spot, so Alabama turned him down. His focus shifted to his relationship with Ohio State defensive line coach Larry Johnson, and he committed to the Buckeyes in August 2020. Williams was the 14th-ranked recruit in Ohio State's 2021 recruiting class (two spots ahead of Marvin Harrison Jr.). He graduated with a degree in sports industry (Dec. 2024). Williams declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl, because of Ohio State's deep playoff run.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/0)	16	6.5	5.0	1	2	0	Freshman All-American; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/0)	21	2.5	1.0	0	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2023: (13/12)	54	10.0	3.0	0	5	0	Second Team All-American; Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in TFL; fumble return TD
2024: (13/13)	46	8.0	2.5	0	1	0	Third Team All-Big Ten; missed three games (lower body, ankle)
Total: (51/25)	137	27.0	11.5	1	10	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6027	334	10 1/4	32	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6027	329	10 1/4	32	77 1/2	DNP	2.77	1.74	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Owns a thick frame with large hands
- Quickly breaks down blocks in the run game with hip explosion and extension at contact
- Maintains gap integrity and uses natural leverage to stay balanced through congestion
- Upfield burst once he defeats the hands of blockers
- Tough guy to slow down once he gets his momentum downhill through gaps

- Terrific block awareness and has a feel for splitting double teams
- Creates more penalties than he commits
- Sniffs out screens and understands where the offense wants to attack
- Always in pursuit mode — frequently makes tackles away from his square
- Weighed more than 360 pounds when he enrolled and worked hard to keep a steady weight

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average length and can be out-levered if he doesn't win off the snap
- Doesn't consistently collapse the pocket as a pass rusher
- Not known for his ability to counter and has some stiffness attempting to redirect
- Needs to mature his pass-rush plan beyond his initial attack
- Strong backs can run through his fingertip tackles (see 2024 Penn State tape)
- Missed three games as senior with lower-body injury (Sept. 2024) and ankle issue (Nov. 2024); battled shoulder, elbow and knee injuries throughout 2022 season

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ohio State, Williams played the three-technique position in former defensive coordinator Jim Knowles' four-man front. His production won't jump off the page — he finished 10th in tackles (46) and sixth in sacks (2.5) for the Buckeyes' national title-winning squad in 2024. But his impact as a dominant run defender is much clearer on the tape.

With his initial quickness, Williams can cross the face of blockers or create knockback with his ability to stack, find the football and detach. Aside from his physical capabilities, he has outstanding awareness to identify pre-snap clues and anticipate play design. Overall, Williams needs further development as a pass rusher, but he is one of the best run-defending linemen in the draft class because of his recognition skills and disciplined execution at deconstructing blocks. He has the type of skill set that will be appreciated by NFL coaches.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 40 overall)

DT6 Shemar Turner

Texas A&M, 4SR

HOMETOWN DeSoto, TX	HIGH SCHOOL DeSoto	BIRTHDAY Jan 14, 2003	AGE 22.27	HT 6031	WT 290	NUM #5
------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Shemar Turner grew up in the Dallas area with his mother (Nakita). He got his start playing flag football for the pee wee Texans. Admittedly an unruly kid, Turner was sent by his mother to live with her brother (Jeffrey Booker) in DeSoto, just south of Dallas. When Turner was in seventh grade, Booker (also a barber and track coach) coached his youth football team (DeSoto Dolphins), which included Byron Murphy (2024 first-round pick of the Seattle Seahawks) at running back. Turner started to grow into his frame while playing for McCowan Middle School and later worked with private trainer Brandon Tucker, a defensive line player development specialist and founder of the Trench Warfare training program.

Turner enrolled at DeSoto High, a national football powerhouse that has produced dozens of NFL players, including eight who are currently active. After a promising freshman year, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore stand-up pass rusher and produced 70 tackles, four sacks and three forced fumbles, earning district sophomore defensive player of the year honors. As a junior, Turner moved to the defensive line full-time and played alongside his longtime friend Murphy, who made the transition from linebacker. Turner earned first-team all-district in 2019 (44 tackles, nine tackles for loss and eight sacks). As a senior, he led DeSoto to a 10-win season and was named 2020 district player of the year, with 76 tackles, 18 tackles for loss, 12.5 sacks and two forced fumbles (one returned for a touchdown). Turner also had a 3-yard touchdown catch on a goal-line package. He lettered in track and had personal bests of 131 feet, 11 inches in the discus and 47-8 in the shot put.

A five-star recruit, Turner was the sixth-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in Texas. He was the 22nd-ranked recruit nationally (three spots ahead of quarterback J.J. McCarthy). Between Turner and Murphy, college programs made regular visits to DeSoto just to see the defensive line. Before he moved up to varsity, Turner received his first scholarship offer as a freshman from FCS Alabama A&M, followed by his first FBS offer from South Alabama. After his sophomore season, the major programs — including Oklahoma, Texas and Texas A&M — started to offer him. He collected more than 40 offers and announced a final five of Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Texas and Texas A&M. Turner elected to follow in the footsteps of DeSoto product Von Miller and commit to the Aggies. He was the top-ranked recruit in former head coach Jimbo Fisher's 2021 class. After playing defensive tackle as a freshman, Turner primarily lined up as an edge defender as a sophomore and junior.

Several players exited the program after Fisher's firing in November 2023, but Turner stayed committed to Texas A&M for his senior season. He moved back to defensive tackle for the 2024 season under new head coach Mike Elko, who had recruited him to College Station and been his defensive coordinator in 2021. Turner graduated with a degree in agricultural leadership and development (Dec. 2024). He opted out of Texas A&M's bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl, but he was forced to pull out because of a stress fracture that hadn't healed properly.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (8/0)	14	2.0	1.5	0	0	0	Freshman All-SEC; enrolled May 2021
2022: (11/11)	32	4.5	0.5	0	0	0	Missed one game (injury)
2023: (12/12)	33	10.5	6.0	2	0	0	Second Team All-SEC; two blocked FGs; missed bowl game (shoulder)
2024: (12/12)	36	5.5	2.0	1	1	0	Missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (43/35)	115	22.5	10.0	3	1	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6031	290	10 1/4	33 5/8	81 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6027	294	10 3/8	33 5/8	81 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive in his lower half and through his hips
- Added 30 pounds before 2024 season but didn't sacrifice initial quickness to squeeze gaps
- Flashes quick-swim and violent club-rip moves to power through shoulders
- Effective on stunts and games that get him free
- Hands are active and strong to snatch/pull blockers
- Able to lock out, sumo sit and track football in the backfield
- Grew up idolizing Ray Lewis and plays with similar on-field violence
- Willing to throw the first punch (both literally and figuratively)
- NFL scouts describe him as a "foxhole-type" and "outstanding teammate"
- Consistently plays through pain, including a stress fracture during the 2024 season

WEAKNESSES:

- Adrenaline is overflowing and compete skills border on reckless
- Flagged seven times for personal foul penalties over past two seasons (five in 2024, two in 2023)
- Ejected from a game (Nov. 2023) after throwing multiple punches at an Ole Miss blocker, including an uppercut to the groin (Stewart called his actions unacceptable and tweeted an apology for "embarrassing myself, my family and my team")
- Needs to improve aiming points for more efficient stack and shed
- Inconsistent gap integrity and can be pushed away from run lane
- Lackluster secondary moves as a pass rusher
- Sloppy tendencies as tackler (double-digit misses on his 2024 tape)
- Off-field decision-making will be scrutinized after he was arrested and charged with reckless driving during his junior season (Sept. 2023); he faced "internal discipline" and didn't miss any playing time.
- Stress fracture during 2024 fall camp (that required a rod be inserted) and played through the injury, but it didn't heal properly and he missed a portion of the draft process; played through a torn labrum over the second half of the 2023 season and underwent offseason surgery; underwent surgery following the 2023 season for a shin injury (June 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Texas A&M, Turner played a three-technique role as a senior in head coach Mike Elko's four-man front, logging snaps everywhere from zero- to seven-technique. After playing primarily on the edge as an underclassman, he added weight for the transition inside in 2024 and made his presence known on every tape studied, despite playing through a stress fracture.

With his active motor and body quickness, Turner finds ways to pierce gaps and affect the backfield action. He has a strong, explosive grip to snatch and displace blockers in the run game, although he can be a liability at times when he abandons his gap or fails to break down and finish. Much will be made of his overzealous tendencies, which draw attention from officials, but as one scout described him: "He's the type you want on your side." Overall, Turner needs to introduce more discipline to his play style, but he prides himself on being the aggressor and relies on his initial twitch, fierce hands and combative mentality to be a factor. He projects best as a penetrating one-gap tackle.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 56 overall)

DT7 Darius Alexander

Toledo, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Fort Wayne, IN	Wayne	Aug 26, 2000	24.66	6037	305	#9

BACKGROUND: Darius Alexander, one of four children, grew up in Fort Wayne, Ind., with his mother (Taya Alexander). His younger brother (Darrion) played defensive back at Division II Anderson as a freshman in 2024 before entering the transfer portal. Alexander has a 6-year-old son (Messiah), who has lived with him in Toledo the past few years (Alexander: "I didn't have a dad growing up, so my goal is to give (Messiah) everything.").

Alexander attended Fort Wayne High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman and played both ways at offensive tackle and defensive tackle. His talent earned him varsity reps as a freshman, and he continued to make an impact on the defensive line as a sophomore. As a junior, Alexander earned honorable mention all-state honors (97 tackles, 16 tackles for loss, five sacks and one forced fumble). After three straight losing seasons, he led Fort Wayne to a 9-3 record (including two playoff wins) as a senior. Alexander finished his final year with 87 tackles, 21 tackles for loss, 10 sacks, three forced fumbles and one interception, earning first-team all-state and conference player of the year honors. He also played offensive tackle and had a rushing touchdown as a senior. Alexander lettered in basketball and track at Fort Wayne, setting a personal best of 45 feet, 8 inches in the shot put.

A three-star recruit, Alexander was the 130th-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 30 recruit in Indiana (defensive end George Karlaftis was No. 1). He earned an invite to The Opening camp in 2018. Alexander went overlooked by most of the FBS programs in the area, but Toledo identified his talent early and was one of only two schools to offer him (Bowling Green being the other). He committed to the Rockets and was the 12th-ranked recruit in head coach Jason Candle's 2019 class. Alexander played offensive tackle during his redshirt year before moving to the defensive line.

He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his sixth season. He graduated with a degree in communications (May 2024). Alexander accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the National Team's top defensive lineman during the week of practice.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Redshirted
2020: (6/0)	9	1.0	0.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/3)	21	1.0	0.0	0	2	0
2022: (13/1)	21	7.0	1.5	0	3	0
2023: (14/11)	36	5.5	4.0	0	3	0	Third Team All-MAC
2024: (12/12)	40	7.5	3.5	0	5	1	Second Team All-MAC; 58-yard INT TD; missed season opener
Total: (58/27)	127	22.0	9.0	0	13	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6037	305	10	34	82 7/8	4.95	2.91	1.71	31 1/2	9' 3"	4.79	7.60	28
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Owns an NFL-ready frame, with long arms and big hands
- Fluid big man with outstanding body control for his size to slip through gaps
- Works well laterally to make plays up and down the line
- Shows basic understanding of how to lock out and leverage blocks, both as a rusher and run defender
- Rudely introduces himself to blockers with firm punches to create control
- Uses forceful tugs and rips to cross the faces of blockers
- Saw snaps on the edge, where he could tilt the field and create push with an extended runway
- Sniffs out screens and plays alert as a drop player (see his interception in 2024 bowl game)
- Dominated against stiffer competition during Senior Bowl practices

WEAKNESSES:

- Finds himself too upright with only average contact strength to battle through blocks
- Needs to develop instincts to feel blocking pressure and anticipate scheme
- Rangy tackler, but he'll leave some production on the field when he plays too hot
- Fights through traffic, but his rush plan often lacks cohesiveness
- Didn't dominate in college to the level his talent suggests he should have
- Single-digit career sacks over 59 games in college
- Will be 25 as a rookie

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Toledo, Alexander played primarily the three-technique position in defensive coordinator Vince Kehres' hybrid front. The Rockets' coaches initially played him at offensive tackle his first year in the program before moving him to the defensive line. His development was more gradual than immediate in college, but he flashed high-end ability over his final two seasons (led the team in pressures created in 2023 and 2024) and didn't disappoint under the microscope at Senior Bowl practices.

Alexander is rangy defending the run, with the body fluidity and length to displace blocks. He has shown an improved ability to feel the rhythm of blocks to work off contact but needs to streamline his pass rush with more consistent leverage and sequencing. Overall, Alexander isn't yet the full sum of his impressive parts, but his blend of power, length and athletic body control give him the makings of a three-down, scheme-versatile NFL starter. He projects best in an attacking role, where he'd be able to maximize his disruptive traits. His peak plays are reminiscent of Leonard Williams.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 61 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Bastrop, TX	Cedar Creek	Oct 08, 2001	23.54	6055	332	#95

BACKGROUND: Alfred Collins, the second of four children (three girls, one boy), was born and raised just outside of Austin, Texas, with his parents (Bernard and Benita). His mother, who teaches math in the Bastrop school district, played college basketball at Texas (1990-94) and received a degree in 2003. Collins' older sister (Kennedy) surpassed 1,000 career points at Cedar Creek High and played collegiately at Houston Baptist (2015-19). His cousin (Trent Brown), a Bastrop native, is a 10-year NFL offensive tackle and has played for the San Francisco 49ers, New England Patriots, Las Vegas Raiders and Cincinnati Bengals. Growing up, Collins was a standout basketball and football player.

Collins attended Cedar Creek High, which didn't have a varsity football program until 2012. He played on the offensive and defensive lines on the freshman team in 2016. As a sophomore, Collins moved up to varsity as a defensive end and was named the district's newcomer of the year (75 tackles, 14 tackles for loss, four sacks and three forced fumbles). He had a breakout junior season and took home honorable mention all-state, first-team all-district and district defensive lineman of the year honors. Collins finished the 2018 season with 92 tackles, 25 tackles for loss and six sacks. As a senior, he helped Cedar Creek to a 5-5 finish, the first non-losing season in school history. Collins posted 86 tackles, 35 tackles for loss and eight sacks, again earning first-team all-district and district defensive lineman of the year honors. He also lettered in basketball and track at Cedar Creek, averaging 11.9 points and 8.3 rebounds per game over his four-year varsity career on the hardwood.

A four-star recruit, Collins was the second-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class (behind 2023 first-rounder Myles Murphy) and the No. 8 recruit in Texas. He was the No. 63 recruit nationally. He became well known on the recruiting trail after his sophomore season and helped himself at camps. The offers started to pour in during his junior year, and Collins narrowed his options to a top five of Alabama, LSU, Oklahoma, Texas and Texas A&M. Ultimately, he committed to Texas, the program he'd rooted for growing up and where his mother played college basketball. Collins was the second-ranked recruit (behind Bijan Robinson) in former head coach Tom Herman's 2020 class. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his fifth season.

Collins was a three-time member of the Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll and graduated with a degree in human dimensions of organizations (May 2024). He accepted an invitation to the Senior Bowl but had to pull out of the event.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (10/1)	23	2.5	1.5	0	4	1	Enrolled July 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/4)	25	5.0	2.0	1	0	0
2022: (12/1)	17	3.0	1.0	0	0	0	Missed season opener (injury)
2023: (14/6)	22	2.0	2.0	0	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big 12
2024: (16/16)	55	5.5	1.0	1	7	0	Blocked FG
Total: (64/28)	142	18.0	7.5	2	13	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6055	332	10	34 5/8	85	DNP	DNP	DNP	26	8' 0"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6052	332	10	35	84 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Broad-framed with exceptional height-weight-length combination
- Creates movement with natural power behind swats/strikes
- Uses wide base, body control and long arms to leverage blockers off balance
- Can get blockers moving one way before cutting back toward the pocket
- Agile-footed for his size, with the tools to play multiple gaps and flatten down the line
- Elite tackle-to-missed tackle ratio in 2024 (55:2)
- Matured play recognition helps him cover more ground than expected (see forced fumble on 2024 Arkansas tape)
- Blocked a field goal as senior; six batted passes at line in 2024 tied for No. 2 in FBS
- Played more snaps in 2024 but effort level didn't decline
- Proven durability — played in 64 of 65 games over five years in Austin

WEAKNESSES:

- Comes off ball tall and will struggle to get underneath blocks
- Leggy; high center disrupts his ability to quickly change directions
- Plays hard but too much wasted movement in his hands trying to wrestle free
- Not consistently explosive separating from blocks, especially later in games
- When given chances to rush the passer, his moves lacked efficiency with inconsistent counters

- Missed part of the draft process because of a left calf strain
- Played only one season as a full-time star

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas, Collins played nose tackle in defensive coordinator Pete Kwiatkowski's front, although he saw most of his 2024 snaps over the B-gap (299, compared to 145 over the A-gap and 129 over the tackle). Highly recruited out of the Austin area, he was given an "underachiever" label by some while playing behind T'Vondre Sweat and Byron Murphy III in 2023, but he played his best ball in 2024 with starting-level snaps.

A coordinated big man, Collins plays with natural power and does a great job as a two-gapper, stacking, peeking and grounding ball carriers between the tackles. His hands are more heavy than disciplined, and he struggles to root himself versus doubles because of his tall pads. Overall, Collins is still learning how to maximize his size and talent, but he took a sizable jump this past season and shows the physical traits to be a disruptive force, especially against the run. He will provide immediate depth as a rookie, and his snap count should increase with experience.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 68 overall)

DT9 T.J. Sanders

South Carolina, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Marion, SC	Marion	Jul 30, 2003	21.73	6037	305	#90

BACKGROUND: Tanaeri "T.J." Sanders, one of four children, grew up in Marion, S.C. (100 miles east of Columbia), with his mother (Leticia Williams). His younger brother (Tyshawn) played football at Marion High and redshirted in 2024 as a cornerback at Appalachian State. Sanders also has several other relatives who played college football, including a cousin (Quay'Sheed Scott) who is a rising sophomore defensive back at Kentucky. Growing up, Sanders started playing basketball in elementary school, and it became his go-to sport. He played rec football in middle school, primarily on the offensive side of the ball, but "wasn't feeling it" and decided to quit to focus on basketball.

Sanders attended Marion High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman in basketball. As a junior forward, he earned all-state honors and led the program to the 2019-20 regional title, while averaging 18 points, 12 rebounds and two blocks per game. At the coaxing of his friends and coaches, Sanders returned to football before his junior season and moved to the defensive line for the first time (he also started committing himself to the weight room). He collected 26 tackles and two sacks in his first season back on the field and started to receive recruiting attention, so he shifted his focus to football. As a senior, Sanders led Marion to an 8-2 record and a spot in the 2A state championship game (for the first time in 33 years). He finished his final season with 59 tackles, 18 tackles for loss, six sacks and one fumble recovery for a touchdown, while also seeing time in certain packages on offense (one rushing touchdown). Sanders earned all-state honors and was named 2020 defensive player of the year. He also played for the basketball club Team Wall SE throughout high school.

A three-star recruit, Sanders was the 81st-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 8 recruit in South Carolina. Several Division II basketball programs recruited him, but after he returned to football as a junior, he started to receive attention from FBS schools and told recruiters he would play football in college. After his junior season, he attended offseason recruiting camps and picked up his first scholarship offer from South Carolina. Sanders added offers from Syracuse, Tennessee and a few others before announcing his final four: NC State, South Carolina, Vanderbilt and West Virginia. On July 4, before his senior season, Sanders committed to the Gamecocks and stayed loyal to the program after it fired head coach Will Muschamp midway through the 2020 season. He was the second-ranked recruit in head coach Shane Beamer's first class in Columbia. Sanders graduated with a bachelor's degree (Dec. 2024). He elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. Sanders accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (2/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled June 2021
2022: (12/0)	16	1.0	1.0	0	1	0
2023: (12/7)	43	9.5	4.5	0	4	0
2024: (13/9)	50	7.0	4.0	0	1	0
Total: (39/16)	109	17.5	9.5	0	6	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6037	297	10 1/4	33 1/8	80 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	9' 4"	4.67	7.70	DNP	No 40, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6035	305	10 1/8	33 1/4	79 3/4	4.95	2.87	1.67	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, athletic frame with long arms and range
- Light on his feet and moves well laterally to access different gaps
- Fluid off blocks to close on the football
- Flashes violence in his hands to shed and make stops at the line
- Active on loops and will get skinny on stunts/twists

- Can push the pocket when he creates downhill momentum
- More physical at the point of attack than expected for his size
- Loses slowly versus double teams and two-gaps with control when needed
- Covers ground from the backside with a consistent motor
- NFL scout: "The coaches say he really matured and went from being late to meetings when he first got there to becoming a guy who sets the example of how to carry himself as an upperclassman."

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks desired mass to combat NFL power in trenches
- Savvy blockers will use his aggressiveness against him
- Inconsistent resisting pressure on angle/down blocks and can be caught out of position
- Caught leaning on blocks
- Can do a better job countering once pads become elevated and first move is halted
- Has some rough stretches as tackler (see 2024 Vanderbilt tape)
- Average production reflects his average awareness

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at South Carolina, Sanders was a versatile defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Clayton White's four-man front, aligning up and down the line of scrimmage. A late bloomer (Sanders didn't focus on football until his junior year in high school), his impact steadily improved each of his four seasons as part of a deep, talented Gamecocks defensive line (averaged just 36 defensive snaps in 2024).

With his initial burst, Sanders can maneuver through gaps with abrupt hands/feet or change the line of scrimmage by quickly getting into a blocker's chest. He is surprisingly stout at the point of attack and flashes power and hand use to stack and shed against the run. Overall, Sanders is a long, twitchy big man and has the tools to make consistent plays in the backfield with continued technical and awareness improvements. His promising skill set will fit both even and odd fronts.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 70 overall)

DT10 Joshua Farmer

Florida State, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Port St. Joe, FL	Gadsden	Jan 17, 2003	22.27	6032	305	#5

BACKGROUND: Joshua Farmer, the youngest of eight children in a blended family, grew up in Port St. Joe and Apalachicola in the Florida panhandle. He lost both parents at a young age. When he was 2, his father (Greg) died of complications from a botched stomach surgery. When he was 11, his mother (Pauline) died from a brain aneurysm. Farmer went to live with his grandmother (Ruby Lee Farmer) in Port St. Joe and later lived with his siblings.

Like his older brothers, he was active in sports throughout childhood and started playing football at age 7. His older brother (Tyler) played basketball at Tallahassee (Fla.) Community College and is now a coach. Farmer initially attended Port St. Joe High, where he played both ways as a running back and linebacker as a freshman on varsity. As a sophomore for the Tiger Sharks, he posted 84 tackles and two sacks, helping Port St. Joe to an 11-2 record at the Class 1A level.

Hoping to get more looks as a recruit, Farmer transferred to Gadsden County High in Havana, Fla., for his final two seasons and played under head coach Corey Fuller, a cornerback at Florida State (1990-94) before a 10-year NFL career (1995-2004) with the Minnesota Vikings, Cleveland Browns and Baltimore Ravens. Farmer joined a roster that included several FBS recruits, including Darrell Jackson Jr., his future Florida State teammate on the defensive line. As a junior, Farmer earned first-team all-league and honorable mention all-state honors, helping Gadsden County to an 11-7 record over his final two seasons and the semifinal round of the 2020 Class 4A state playoffs.

A three-star recruit, Farmer was the 79th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 89 recruit in Florida. He received his first scholarship offer after his sophomore season from Southern Miss (Jan. 2019). After his transfer to Gadsden County as a junior, Farmer added offers from Auburn, Maryland, Miami, Nebraska, Tennessee and others. But the chance to stay close to home and work with defensive line coach Odell Haggins at Florida State. Farmer became the first commit in Mike Norvell's tenure as head coach and was the 14th-ranked recruit in the Seminoles' 2021 class.

He briefly entered the transfer portal in April 2023 but decided to stay in Tallahassee. He was twice named to the All-ACC Academic team and graduated with a degree in social science (May 2024). After four years, Farmer elected to forgo his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (4/0)	1	0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted
2022: (13/0)	15	6	2	0	0	0
2023: (13/13)	32	7	5	1	2	0	Missed bowl game (thumb)
2024: (12/12)	32	8	4	0	0	0	Honorable Mention All-ACC; led team in sacks
Total: (42/25)	80	21	11	1	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6032	305	10 1/4	35	83 3/8	5.11	2.96	1.76	29	9' 4"	DNP	DNP	26	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6031	312	10 1/8	34 3/8	82 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Broad, thick build with big hands and long arms (NFL scout: "He was in the best shape of his life when the season kicked off this year.")
- Explosive mover to attack gaps like a bull in a china shop
- Quick, fierce hands to stab/swipe and work off contact (doesn't like to wear gloves)
- Uses a variety of club moves to blow through shoulders of blockers
- Rushes with joint bend to get underneath blocks and unlock leverage
- Keeps tabs on the ball with backfield vision
- Played senior year of high school at 255 pounds and pushed himself in the weight room
- Team captain in 2024 — his alpha attitude started to show

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent snap anticipation (two offsides flags on 2024 Duke tape)
- Linear pass-rush approach and inconsistent adjusting path
- Hands are forceful but often mistimed
- Needs to better transition to swim/arm-over techniques once initial rush is stalled
- Streaky anchor, mostly because of issues with pad level
- Needs to do better job as a read player to feel screens
- College production doesn't grab the eye
- Played through thumb injury for most of 2023 season and underwent surgery (Dec. 2023), which sidelined him for bowl game and part of the offseason training

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Florida State, Farmer lined up as a 2i-/three-technique in former defensive coordinator Adam Fuller's four-man front. He showed gradual improvements over his four seasons in Tallahassee, as he embraced coaching and matured his body, finishing second on the team in pressures (26).

Farmer is a burly, power-packed lineman who can deliver pop at contact and get himself free with his active hands and short-area quickness. He can muddy things up in the run game, although his base strength shows cracks when he loses leverage, and his block recognition must continue to develop. Overall, Farmer goes through too many quiet stretches on film, but he is a force creator with his natural power as a two-gapper and promising pass-rush tools. He should step into a rotation as a rookie and has the potential of a full-time starter.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 76 overall)

DT11 Ty Hamilton

Ohio State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pickerington, OH	Central	Apr 15, 2002	23.02	6027	299	#58

BACKGROUND: Ty Hamilton, the middle child of three, was born and raised in the Columbus suburb of Pickerington, Ohio, with his parents (Damian and Sabrina). Damian is a corrections officer and Sabrina is a nurse. Hamilton's older brother (DaVon) played on the defensive line at Ohio State (2015-19) and was a third-round pick by the Jacksonville Jaguars (No. 73) in the 2020 NFL Draft. Ty followed in Davon's footsteps and played sports at a young age, including football. He was primarily a running back for much of Pop Warner (grew up idolizing LaDainian Tomlinson) until seventh grade, when his size led him to defensive end and linebacker. While in college, Ty Hamilton returned to his pee-wee roots as an assistant coach for a middle school flag football team that won the 2021 national championship.

Like his older brother, Hamilton attended Pickerington Central High, although their time there didn't overlap (DaVon graduated in 2015; Ty enrolled in 2016). He saw varsity action as a freshman linebacker for a team that went 13-2 and fell one win short of the state title game. As a sophomore, Hamilton was a stand-up edge rusher and helped lead the team to a 14-1 record and the 2017 Division I state championship, the first in school history. After earning second-team all-conference as a junior, Hamilton had his best season as a senior edge rusher (also saw action at tight end), finishing with 118 tackles, 16 tackles for loss, 8.5 sacks and one forced fumble to earn first-team all-metro honors. He was a key factor behind Pickerington's 14-1 finish in 2019, which included another Division I state championship.

A three-star recruit, Hamilton was the 33rd-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 24 recruit in Ohio. He received his first scholarship offer after his sophomore season from Western Michigan (May 2018). After his junior season, the major conferences ramped up interest with offers coming from Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan and Pittsburgh in January 2019. A few months later, Hamilton received an offer from Ohio State, the team he'd watched throughout childhood. He took final visits to Michigan, Penn State and Ohio State before deciding to follow his brother to nearby Columbus and play for defensive line coach Larry Johnson.

Hamilton signed as a 250-pound defensive end and was the 23rd-ranked recruit (out of 25) in the Buckeyes' 2020 class. He earned multiple Academic All-Big Ten honors and graduated with a degree in family resource management (April 2024). Hamilton accepted an invitation to the Senior Bowl but later pulled out of the event after Ohio State advanced to the national championship game.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (13/0)	12	2.0	2.0	0	1	0
2022: (13/5)	15	0.5	0.5	0	1	0	Filled in as starter for injured Michael Hall Jr.
2023: (13/8)	38	4.5	2.0	0	0	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (16/16)	51	6.0	3.5	1	0	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (58/29)	116	13.0	8.0	1	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6027	299	10 1/8	32 1/4	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6025	299	10	32 1/4	77 1/2	4.95	2.82	1.70	32	9'3"	4.72	7.78	34

STRENGTHS:

- Compact frame and comfortably carries added weight
- Large, physical hands and continues to pound on the door
- Creates initial knockback at the point of attack to disrupt run angles
- Moves well laterally with coordinated feet to quickly catch his balance
- Strong backfield vision to stay gap sound and play the cutback
- Snaps per game almost doubled in 2024, but his motor stayed cranked
- Described as "quiet but cold-blooded" by the coaches (Ryan Day: "He's the ultimate team player. Doesn't say a whole lot, but goes to work every day.")
- Reliable — played in all 55 games over past four seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Average length and likely at max playing weight
- Has some lower-body stiffness, which hinders his quick redirect skills
- Plays with decent anchor but can be moved by double teams
- Initial quickness is better than his gap-penetrating quickness
- Plays high as a pass rusher, with a limited arsenal of pass-rush moves
- Able to collapse the pocket, but it takes him time to get there

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ohio State, Hamilton played out of position as the nose tackle in former defensive coordinator Jim Knowles' four-man front. A late bloomer on the football field, like his older brother, he added 30 pounds for a move from defensive end to tackle and evolved into a valuable part of the Buckeyes' national title-winning team in 2024.

With his initial quickness and block awareness, Hamilton initiates leveraged contact to stack blocks, create push and shed versus the run. Though he has one-gap traits, he plays with two-gap technique and was asked to do a lot of dirty work in college to make life easier for the linebackers. Overall, Hamilton needs pass-rush development, but he is quick, forceful and urgent to create disruption within the structure of the defense. His coachable attitude and position versatility raise his NFL floor as a role player and potential starter.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 92 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Gilbert, AZ	Higley	May 03, 2001	23.98	6054	288	#9

BACKGROUND: Ty Robinson, the oldest of three children, was born and raised outside of Phoenix with his parents (Jason and Tresha), who met at Chadron State and got married in April 1995. Jason, who was a farrier and horse trainer, was a four-year starter on the Chadron State basketball team (1990-94) and played on the same team with his two brothers. He was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 2009 with 1,581 career points. When Ty was 12, Jason died (May 2013) at age 40 after a two-year battle with a rare form of lymphoma. Tresha, a Nebraska native, graduated from Kansas State College of Veterinary Medicine and works as a vet, primarily for horses.

Ty Robinson grew up playing football and always had a size advantage — he sometimes had to shed weight to make Pop Warner weight requirements. He also played baseball, basketball and grew up riding horses. His younger brother (Truitt) was a walk-on wide receiver at Nebraska (2021-22). His younger sister (Tanner) signed with Scottsdale (Ariz.) Community College in 2024 to play volleyball.

Robinson initially attended Queen Creek High for his freshman season before transferring to Higley High in Gilbert. He had hopes of making an impact as a sophomore on varsity, at wide receiver or tight end, but saw most of his playing time at defensive end and posted 16 tackles, five tackles for loss and three sacks, helping the team to an 11-2 record and a deep playoff run. As a junior in 2017, Robinson again led Higley to an 11-win season and the regional title. He earned all-state honors with 56 tackles, 30 tackles for loss, 13 sacks and five forced fumbles while also seeing snaps at offensive tackle and tight end (two touchdown catches). As a senior, Robinson moved inside to defensive tackle and posted 74 tackles, 34 tackles for loss and seven sacks, helping Higley reach the playoff semifinals for the third straight season. He was named a high school All-American (the first in school history) and was a finalist for the 2018 All-American Bowl National Defensive Player of the Year. Robinson was also a pitcher for the Higley baseball team.

A four-star recruit, Robinson was the 10th-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Arizona (quarterback Spencer Rattler was No. 1). He received his first scholarship offer after his sophomore season from Iowa State (Iowa State targeted several Gilbert recruits, including quarterback Brock Purdy, in the 2018 class). As a junior, Robinson became one of the highest-recruited players in the state, adding offers from Alabama, Arizona State, Florida, Georgia, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Texas A&M, USC and Washington — he received an in-house visit from Nick Saban. As a senior, he announced a final five of Alabama, Nebraska, Oregon, Stanford and USC before committing to the Huskers on signing day. Robinson was the fifth-ranked recruit in former head coach Scott Frost's 2019 class (wide receiver Wan'Dale Robinson was No. 1). He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Lincoln for a sixth season. Robinson made the Scholar-Athlete Honor Roll four times and graduated with a degree in nutrition and health sciences (May 2023). He accepted an invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (3/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted
2020: (8/7)	17	2.0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/4)	27	4.0	2	0	1	0
2022: (12/12)	24	4.0	2	0	1	0
2023: (12/11)	29	4.0	1	0	6	0	Blocked FG
2024: (13/13)	37	12.5	7	1	4	0	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in sacks, TFL
Total: (60/47)	134	26.5	12	1	12	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6051	288	10	32 1/4	79	4.83	2.80	1.70	33 1/2	9'11"	4.50	7.58	28
PRO DAY	6054	291	10	32 1/4	79 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Built like an oak tree — big, thick and strong
- Stout at the point of attack and not easy to move
- Able to tilt the field with initial quickness
- Power bull is foundation of pass rush
- Violent swipe/swat/rip moves leave an imprint on blockers
- Urgent play personality — doesn't know how to play half-speed
- Finds passing lanes when rush stalls (10 combined batted passes over past two seasons)
- Demolished poor souls as a short-yardage lead blocker on offense
- Earned single-digit jersey past two seasons, in team vote representing the team's toughest players
- Team-first attitude (Matt Rhule: "I can't express how much Ty means to me. ... I can't express it.")

WEAKNESSES:

- More average than above-average as an athlete
- Upright with tightness through his hips and ankles
- Provides initial pop, but his feet slow at contact and blockers are able to settle down against his power
- Hands are active but not consistently well-timed for easy transitions
- Inconsistent balance — on the ground more than you'd like
- Arrives too hot and leaves too much tackle production on the field
- Will turn 24 shortly after draft weekend

SUMMARY: A five-year starter at Nebraska, Robinson was an interchangeable defensive lineman in former defensive coordinator Tony White's 3-3-5 scheme, lining up as the nose, 3-/4i-technique and wide of the tackle. He returned for his sixth year and helped Nebraska achieve its first winning record in almost a decade, posting personal bests across the board with 42 pressures, 12.5 tackles for loss and seven sacks.

When he stays low with forward lean off the snap, Robinson can slant and shoot through gaps like a locomotive off the tracks, although his attack is much more methodical if he doesn't win quickly and has to play through contact. He has natural football instincts with play-recognition skills that show against the pass and the run. Overall, Robinson might lack star potential, but rugged competitors with his size, toughness and ability never go out of style in the NFL. He projects as a rotational defender who fits both even (one-technique) and odd (4i-/five-technique) fronts.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

DT13 Jay Toia

UCLA, 4SR

HOMETOWN Inglewood, CA	HIGH SCHOOL Grace Brethren	BIRTHDAY Jul 16, 2003	AGE 21.77	HT 6024	WT 341	NUM #93
---------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jay Toia (Toe-ee-ah) was born in Inglewood, Calif., before his parents (Viliani and Fa'aki) moved the family to the Virgin Islands when he was a baby. With his brothers, he grew up playing rugby throughout childhood. The family returned to the United States in 2017 and settled back in Inglewood. Despite having zero football experience (either playing or watching), Toia and his older brother (Sione) were encouraged to give the sport a try by their uncle (Chris Maumalanga), founder of the American Football Institute. Maumalanga played defensive tackle at Kansas and was a fourth-round pick (No. 128) in the 1994 NFL Draft, then played seven seasons in the NFL (1994-2000) and two seasons in the AFL (2000-01). Sione played defensive tackle at San Jose State (2020-24) and is also a prospect in the 2025 NFL Draft class. Toia's older brother (Abitoni) is a rugby player in New Zealand. His other older brother (Siaki Ika) was a third-round pick (No. 98) in the 2023 NFL Draft and plays for the Philadelphia Eagles. Toia's younger brother (George) is a coveted five-star defensive tackle recruit in the 2027 class.

After moving back to the United States, Toia enrolled at Grace Brethren Christian High in Simi Valley, where his cousin (Stanley Ta'ufo'ou) played football. He joined the football team as a freshman and moved up to varsity in his first year playing the sport. As a sophomore, Toia played both ways, on the offensive and defensive lines, and helped the program to a 14-2 record and the 2018 Division 2AA state championship. He had his best season as a junior (43 tackles, 6.5 sacks and one forced fumble) to earn first-team all-area honors. Along with playing offensive guard in 2019, Toia also had a 1-yard touchdown run. Because of the COVID-19, Grace Brethren canceled its 2020 fall and 2021 spring seasons. Toia also lettered in track and participated in the shot put and discus.

A four-star recruit, Toia was the 27th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 16 recruit in California. Despite his very limited experience, he made recruiting waves during his first season in the sport and received his initial scholarship offer from Utah (May 2018). A month later, he committed to his "dream school," USC, in June 2018. Toia later added offers from LSU, Michigan, Nebraska, Oregon and UCLA but stayed committed to the Trojans for almost three years. He was the ninth-ranked recruit in former head coach Clay Helton's 2021 class.

Toia enrolled early and participated in 2021 spring practices, but he abruptly entered the transfer portal in May 2021. He transferred to UCLA the next month. After his junior season, Toia entered the transfer portal in April 2024 to "explore his options" and took an official visit to Texas. He also flirted with Florida State and other schools but ultimately decided to return to UCLA for his final season. Toia graduated from UCLA with a degree (June 2024). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl but was a late scratch.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/0)	8	0	0	0	1	0	Initially enrolled at USC (Jan. 2021) before transfer to UCLA (June 2021)
2022: (13/12)	30	3	1	1	1	0
2023: (13/12)	28	4	1	0	1	0
2024: (12/12)	25	2	1	0	1	0	Team captain
Total: (50/36)	91	9	3	1	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6020	342	10	32 1/2	76 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6024	341	10	32 1/4	77 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	24 1/2	DNP	4.82	7.96	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Wide-bodied frame with proportionate thickness
- Eats up blocks with base power
- Able to stack and shed blocks when he plays with knee bend
- Solid vision to track the ball at the line
- Reads blocking scheme to anticipate running back's desired lane
- Physical hands and wrists to swipe/rip blockers off him as a passing-down rusher
- Number of third-down snaps doubled as senior and increased pressures from three in 2023 to 19 in 2024
- Described as "selfless" by the UCLA coaches

WEAKNESSES:

- Mediocre lateral range when attempting to expand pursuit
- Inconsistent feel for anticipating and countering down blocks
- Pass-rush plan is based more on aggression than strategy
- Expected more out of his bull rush (never had multiple sacks in his college seasons)
- Leaves too much tackle production on the field
- Caught on video during freshman year screaming abusive language toward a group of people; Toia released a statement apologizing for the incident

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at UCLA, Toia was the zero-/one-technique in defensive coordinator Ikaika Malloe's 3-3-5 base scheme. His production on paper doesn't jump out, but the tape shows a player willing to chew up blocks in the middle, freeing linebackers and ends to make plays.

When he plays with consistent leverage, Toia is able to put down roots and shut down inside run lanes. However, he must continue to develop his instincts to create tackle opportunities, instead of just taking up room. Overall, Toia might not have the length or awareness to be a full-time two-gapper in the NFL, but he has a powerful base and physical hands to neutralize the point of attack. He projects as a scheme-versatile nose tackle.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

DT14 Cam Jackson

Florida, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Haynesville, LA	Haynesville	Aug 07, 2002	22.71	6062	328	#99

BACKGROUND: Cam’Ron "Cam" Jackson grew up in Haynesville, La. (near the Arkansas state border), with his mother (Latoya Turner). His earliest football memory is of playing catch with his grandad in the backyard at age 5. Cam's younger brother (Alonzo Jr.) redshirted in his first season at Louisiana Tech in 2024. His uncle (Kendrick Jackson) played fullback at Arkansas (2015-18), and his cousin (James Jackson) was an All-CUSA safety at Louisiana Tech (2015-19). Cam's best friend in high school (Joseph Evans) — he and Evans later found out are cousins — played three seasons at LSU (2019-21) and three seasons at UTSA (2022-24). Evans is also a 2025 NFL Draft prospect.

Cam Jackson attended Haynesville High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman and played on both the offensive and defensive lines. While playing alongside Evans, he became a starter as a sophomore in 2017 and helped the team to a 10-win season and the 1A district title. As a junior, Jackson posted 42 tackles and eight tackles for loss, leading Haynesville to a 13-2 record. He earned all-area honors as a senior and again led the program to the state playoffs. Jackson also lettered in basketball (known for his throw-down dunks) and track.

A three-star recruit, Jackson was the 55th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 25 recruit in Louisiana. He started to make noise on the recruiting trail during his sophomore season and received his first scholarship offer from Nick Saban and Alabama in January 2018. Two months later, Jackson received an offer from Ed Orgeron and LSU. He added offers from Florida, Louisiana Tech, Mississippi State, Texas A&M and others, but he'd grown up dreaming of playing for his home state Tigers and committed to Orgeron after his junior season (Evans signed with LSU in the 2019 class). During his senior season, the LSU coaches were concerned that his grades wouldn't allow him to qualify academically. He took online classes and was dedicated to achieving the required 2.5 GPA.

However, Jackson wasn't able to sign with LSU on signing day in February 2020 and found himself in limbo as he awaited word from the NCAA on his eligibility. Not wanting to miss out on a scholarship spot, he instead signed with Memphis in June 2020. Jackson still had his eyes on the SEC, though. After flirting with the transfer portal following the 2021 season, he officially entered the portal in December 2022. Jackson transferred to Florida in January 2023 and took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic, returning for a fifth season. He graduated with a degree from Florida (Dec. 2024). Jackson opted out of Florida's bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (9/0)	1	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Memphis; blocked PAT; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (12/0)	9	2.5	1.5	0	0	0	Memphis
2022: (13/13)	41	2.5	1.0	0	1	0	Memphis
2023: (11/11)	32	0.5	0.0	0	2	0	Florida; missed one game (injury)
2024: (12/11)	37	4.0	1.5	0	2	0	Florida; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (57/35)	120	9.5	4.0	0	5	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6062	328	9 1/2	34 1/8	81 7/8	5.17	3.00	1.80	24 1/2	7' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6063	322	9 3/4	34 3/4	83 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.89	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Mammoth frame with above-average height, length and body thickness
- Solid athleticism and balance for a man his size
- Plays strong and can be immovable in the run game
- Improved use of length and hands in the run game for quicker sheds
- Heavy-handed with stopping power at contact, routinely handling double teams
- Uses height to his advantage and rarely loses sight of the football
- Wide tackle radius to swallow up runners and finish with throw-down violence
- Played penalty-free football in 2024
- Coaches say his leadership voice got better and better over two seasons in Gainesville

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average pass-rush impact
- Streaky snap anticipation — doesn't gain much ground with his initial step
- Creates pop at contact as a bull rusher but doesn't consistently drive blockers backwards
- Gets upright quickly, which weakens his base and zaps some power
- Needs to improve consistency, staying square in the run game
- Plays hard but doesn't have much range or closing burst outside the hashes
- Gets out of control at times, leaving him overextended at the waist
- Combined for just 18 pressures on 321 pass-rush snaps in two seasons with the Gators

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Florida, Jackson was the nose tackle in co-defensive coordinator Austin Armstrong's scheme, playing primarily on early downs (averaged 28.8 defensive snaps per game over his two seasons in Gainesville). After his full ride to LSU fell through, he earned Memphis' attention before finally making it to the SEC as a dominant run defender with the Gators.

A massive human (you don't need to know his jersey number to spot him on tape), Jackson occupies space and is able to eat up double teams to keep linebackers clean behind him. He flashes power to big-boy blockers but doesn't consistently sustain and collapse the pocket, which limits his role on sub-package downs. Overall, Jackson has a shallow toolbox as a pass rusher, but he is a solid athlete for his size and a tough player to displace as a two-gapping run stuffer. Regardless of scheme, he offers value as an early-down NFL nose who can anchor and eat up blocks.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

DT15 Omarr Norman-Lott

Tennessee, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
North Highlands, CA	Grant Union	Mar 11, 2002	23.12	6017	303	#55

BACKGROUND: Omarr Norman-Lott was born in Sacramento, Calif., before moving to the San Diego area with his mother (Flora Norman) at age 2. He signed up for flag football at age 7 and played on the offensive and defensive lines throughout youth ball. At age 10, his family returned to the Sacramento area, and Norman-Lott leaned on football as an escape from negative influences in his neighborhood. Once he started receiving college interest in high school, his mother sent him to live with his aunt and uncle in Vallejo, Calif., for a stretch to keep him focused on his future. He also trained as a boxer growing up and continued boxing as a junior and senior in high school. While enrolled at Arizona State, Norman-Lott became a bouncer at a local nightclub to earn extra money.

Norman-Lott attended Grant Union High in Sacramento County, where he was a three-year letterman on varsity. He played both ways on the defensive line and as an offensive tackle. As a junior, Norman-Lott emerged as a major recruit with 45 tackles, 18 tackles for loss, 10 sacks and two forced fumbles, helping Grant Union to the 2018 Division II state playoffs. The team struggled to win games during his senior season, but he still earned honorable mention all-metro honors in 2019 (45 tackles, nine tackles for loss, five sacks and an interception returned for a touchdown).

A four-star recruit, Norman-Lott was the 34th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 29 recruit in California. After his breakout junior season, he received an offer from Arizona State (Jan. 2019). Norman-Lott had a connection to the Sun Devils: His main recruiter, defensive line coach Jamar Cain, is Norman-Lott's uncle (Norman-Lott was ring bearer at Cain's wedding). He was hosted on his campus visit by wide receiver Brandon Aiyuk and developed a connection with the rest of Herm Edwards' coaching staff. Before his senior season, Norman-Lott added offers from Arizona, Boise State, Texas A&M, USC and others but committed to Arizona State in October 2019. He was caught off guard when Cain (currently defensive line coach for the Denver Broncos) opted to take a job as Oklahoma's defensive line coach after the 2019 season. Norman-Lott didn't waver on his commitment to Arizona State, however, and was the 10th-ranked recruit in Edwards' 2020 class.

After his first two seasons, Norman-Lott entered the transfer portal in April 2022 to "explore his options" before withdrawing his name a week later. He again entered the portal after the 2022 season and committed to Tennessee. Norman-Lott has three pets: a cat (Goddess), dog (Bella) and calico ball python (Juju). Norman-Lott accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	1	0	0.0	0	0	0	Arizona State; missed three games (COVID-19); redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/0)	30	4	2.0	0	0	0	Arizona State
2022: (9/2)	14	3	2.0	0	2	0	Arizona State; missed three games (left knee)
2023: (10/2)	26	6	5.5	0	0	0	Tennessee; missed three games (injury); enrolled January 2023
2024: (13/0)	18	4	4.0	0	0	0	Tennessee
Total: (44/4)	89	17	13.5	0	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6017	291	10 3/4	33 3/4	80 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	9' 5"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6015	303	10 3/4	33 3/4	80 3/8	5.15	3.00	1.83	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Compact ball of energy with massive, stiff hands
- Flashes upfield burst and lateral quickness to play in gaps
- Explodes from low position to leverage point of attack
- Will change line of scrimmage with his ability to roll his hips into contact and create movement
- Erases reach of blockers with fierce club/swipe moves
- Will break out jab and Euro steps to give blockers the slip
- Able to bench press himself off bodies with upper-body strength
- Impressive redirect and range to chase down plays away from line of scrimmage
- Motor stays cranked
- Finished second on team in pressures in 2024, despite being a part-time player

WEAKNESSES:

- Not a starter — averaged just 17.3 defensive snaps per game in 2024
- Always looking to jump the snap, which backfires at times (three offsides penalties in 2024)
- Can be stalled, moved or uprooted once blockers get into him
- Loses angles in run game, leaving him late to shed or regain positioning
- Plays in overdrive and has trouble breaking down as tackler (unusually high 33.3 percent missed tackle rate in 2024)
- Highly penalized player — 12 flags over his two seasons at Tennessee
- Known as an emotional player and was part of a post-game altercation against Florida (September 2023); suspended for the first half of the following game
- Missed multiple games in 2022 and 2023 because of minor injuries

SUMMARY: A part-time player at Tennessee, Norman-Lott was a subpackage three-technique in defensive coordinator Tim Banks' four-man front. Since he played limited snaps on the Vols' heavy-rotation defensive line (20th on the team in defensive snaps in 2024), his production volume doesn't jump out, but he led all FBS interior defensive linemen in 2024 in pass rush win rate (12.6 percent) and win percentage (18.9 percent).

Often the first defender to cross the line of scrimmage, Norman-Lott is a twitched-up big man with a diverse skill set to win one-on-one matchups with quickness, power or leverage. He uses sound hand/move fundamentals but leaves a lot of tackle production on the field and needs to play with better control. Overall, Norman-Lott is an explosive disruptor and offers high upside for a coaching staff that can harness his energy, although he will need to improve his undisciplined tendencies, especially in the run game. There is no doubt about his NFL talent, but his ability to handle more of a full-time role is a tricky projection.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

DT16 Jordan Phillips

Maryland, 3SO

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Ocoee, FL	Ocoee	Jun 30, 2004	20.82	6015	313	#8

BACKGROUND: Jordan Phillips, the youngest of three children (two boys, one girl), was born and raised in Orlando, Fla., with his mother. He started football at age 6 and played running back and defensive line, but his mother pulled him from the sport because she was afraid he would get hurt (Phillips: "Understandably, she wanted to protect her babies."). Phillips picked up basketball and joined a swimming and diving team, but all along, he was hoping to return to football. At age 10, he finally convinced his mother to sign him back up, although he was forced to play with 12- and 13-year-olds because of his size.

Phillips initially attended Olympia High in Orlando as a freshman before transferring to Ocoee High for his final three years. After a modest sophomore season (16 tackles, one sack), he had a breakout junior year with 71 tackles, 14 tackles for loss, five sacks and two forced fumbles in only eight games during a pandemic-shortened 2020 season. As a senior, Phillips earned third-team all-state honors (56 tackles, 29 tackles for loss, 11.5 sacks and one forced fumble) and added three rushing touchdowns as a goal-line wildcat quarterback. Phillips joined the wrestling team as a freshman to stay conditioned for football and won the JV Metros in his first year. As a junior, he finished runner-up at the 3A regional tournament and qualified for the state tournament. Phillips was also on the weightlifting team and had personal bests of 365 pounds in the clean and jerk and 345 in the bench press.

A three-star recruit, Phillips was the 91st-ranked defensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 88 recruit in Florida. He received his first offers as a sophomore from Miami, Missouri and Pittsburgh. After his breakout junior season, his recruitment skyrocketed with offers from Georgia, Michigan, Penn State and UCF. The summer before his senior season, Phillips received an offer from Tennessee and took multiple visits to Knoxville with his mother, a Memphis native. He committed to the Volunteers in July 2021 and was the eighth-ranked recruit in head coach Josh Heupel's 2022 class (one spot behind running back Dylan Sampson).

After one season with the Vols, Phillips entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2022) and signed with Maryland. After two seasons with the Terrapins, he elected to skip his final two seasons of eligibility and enter the NFL Draft. Phillips accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (3/0)	1	0.0	0	0	0	0	Tennessee; redshirted; enrolled December 2021
2023: (13/11)	28	1.5	0	0	0	0	Maryland; enrolled January 2023
2024: (12/12)	29	1.0	0	0	0	0	Maryland
Total: (28/23)	58	2.5	0	0	0	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6015	312	9 3/4	31 1/2	79 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	31	9' 0"	4.65	8.19	29	No 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	6015	313	10	32	81 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	7.65	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Muscled-up, compact frame with meaty thighs and hips
- Heavy hands to jolt blockers off balance
- Explosive out of his stance and has short-area movements to win gaps
- Plays loose with body control to work laterally and patch together his moves
- Effective rip and swim moves when given one-on-one opportunities (dominated East-West Shrine Bowl practices)
- Strong finisher as tackler
- Played a healthy number of defensive snaps each game (44.8)
- "Freaks List" alum (has squatted 665 pounds, power cleaned 365 and done two reps of 365 on overhead press)
- Known for legendary work ethic in the program and set a high bar
- Charismatic and personable off the field but flips mean switch on the field

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent snap timing; often driven backwards when late off the ball
- Late to anticipate/read blocking angles, which leaves him swallowed up
- Needs to put up a better fight to split doubles (see 2024 Iowa tape)
- Lacks ideal arm length and struggles to lock out and effectively peek-a-boo the runner

- Delivers jarring blows to reset line of scrimmage but needs to continue that push into the quarterback
- Needs to develop a Plan B, C and D when his initial rush attack is neutralized
- Basement-level backfield production

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Maryland, Phillips was an interchangeable defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Brian Williams' hybrid fronts, lining up everywhere from head-up nose to five-technique (mostly in a frog stance). After one season in Knoxville, he transferred to Maryland and showed noticeable promise, despite remarkably low production (2.5 tackles for loss and zero sacks over 23 starts).

A toolsy prospect, Phillips jumps off the film with his light feet, explosive movements and heavy hands. Though it is encouraging that he is one of the youngest players in the draft class, his inexperience jumps off the film — he's often neutralized and off balance, especially when he is late off the ball. Overall, Phillips is a dancing bear with big-man twitch and commanding power, but his immense talent needs to be unlocked by more mature timing and technique. Although he will need time, he has the traits and work ethic to become a rotational nose with the upside of an NFL starter.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

DT17 Aeneas Peebles

Virginia Tech, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Raleigh, NC	Knightdale	Sep 03, 2001	23.64	6004	282	#16

BACKGROUND: Aeneas (ah-NEE-as) "Fub" Peebles (PEE-bulz) grew up in the Raleigh, N.C., area with his parents (William and Gia). William played on the defensive line at Appalachian State (1991-94) and had an All-America senior season (23 tackles for loss and 11.5 sacks), plus set the school's single-game record for tackles for loss (six). He signed with the Charlotte Rage of the AFL in 1996 and has coached his son throughout his life (they started a tradition in middle school of watching film together after each game, which continued through Aeneas' five years in college). Gia became the first Black woman to play softball at Cal State Long Beach (1990-93) and helped lead the program to the College World Series all four seasons. She played professionally for the Durham Dragons and was head softball coach at North Carolina Central in 1999. Aeneas' older half-brother (Caleb Hawkins) played defensive end at Western Carolina (2012-15).

However, the most accomplished athlete in the family is Gia's father and Aeneas' grandfather (Doug Wilkerson), who was an All-American at North Carolina Central (1965-69) and drafted in the first round (No. 14) of the 1970 NFL Draft, then played 15 seasons in the NFL (1970-84) at both defensive end and offensive guard. While playing primarily with the San Diego Chargers, Wilkerson made three Pro Bowls and one All-Pro. He was later inducted into the San Diego Chargers and NC Central Halls of Fame. Wilkerson, who died in February 2021, also served as Los Angeles Raiders strength and conditioning coach (1990-94) and a St. Louis Rams executive (1995-96). Peebles played baseball and basketball throughout childhood.

Aeneas Peebles picked up his nickname "Fub" as a baby, because he was fat and chubby. Born into a football family, he developed a passion for the sport at a young age, first playing flag football and then Pop Warner. Peebles attended Knightdale High (east of Raleigh), where he was a four-year varsity letterman. After seeing action his first two seasons, he had his breakout as a junior defensive lineman (89 tackles, 13.5 tackles for loss, 6.5 sacks and two blocked field goals). As a senior, Peebles was named 2019 4A defensive player of the year and led Knightdale to a 7-5 record and a spot in the 4A state playoffs. He finished his final season with 106 tackles, 21 sacks and two blocked field goals. Peebles also lettered two years in baseball, playing right field and third base.

A three-star recruit, Peebles was the 67th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 22 recruit in North Carolina. His recruitment started to pick up after his junior season with several FCS (James Madison, NC Central, The Citadel) and FBS (Central Michigan, Louisville and Navy) offers. Peebles was tempted to follow in his father's footsteps and play at Appalachian State, but he was drawn to head coach David Cutcliffe and committed to Duke in June 2019. He was the second-ranked recruit in Cutcliffe's 2020 class (behind Graham Barton). Peebles graduated with a degree in sociology (Dec. 2023) and entered the transfer portal after four seasons with the Blue Devils. He committed to Virginia Tech for his final season. Peebles accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (10/0)	3	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Duke; enrolled January 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/2)	26	3.0	2.0	0	0	0	Duke
2022: (13/0)	15	2.0	1.5	1	1	0	Duke
2023: (13/1)	43	9.5	5.0	1	2	0	Duke; Third Team All-ACC; led team in sacks, TFL
2024: (12/12)	31	6.5	3.0	0	3	0	Virginia Tech; First Team All-ACC
Total: (60/15)	118	21.0	11.5	2	6	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6004	282	9 5/8	31 3/8	78	4.94	2.89	1.74	32 1/2	9' 1"	4.70	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6005	289	10	31 1/2	77 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	28

STRENGTHS:

- Light on his feet and moves well for the position
- Springs into action with outstanding quickness off the ball
- Agile and energetic, cleanly beating blockers across their faces
- Mixes in stutter and flatten steps to keep blockers guessing
- Plays with low center of gravity and stays balanced in spins
- Purposeful hands to create movement with double swipes or bull rushes
- Low pads help him play stout versus the run
- High activity level but tracks the ball well to not take himself out of plays

WEAKNESSES:

- Short, light-framed and doesn't fit the size requirements for most schemes
- Body tightness shows in different ways
- Relies more on active play style than consistent counter maneuvers
- Will find it much tougher to create push against NFL blockers
- Struggles to lock out and control, because of his lack of length
- Stiffness hinders his ability to easily wrap/dip under redirection
- Just 6.5 tackles for loss over 12 games in 2024

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Virginia Tech, Peebles manned the three-technique tackle in head coach Brent Pry's four-man front, also seeing snaps at 4i-/five-technique. After leading Duke in tackles for loss and sacks in 2023, he fell short of that production with the Hokies in 2024 (although, his 37 pressures ranked third among all FBS interior defensive lineman). With his first-step quickness and non-stop energy, Peebles flashes as a pass rusher and competes with the urgency to affect the backfield action. He plays with balance at contact but lacks the mass, length and anchor that teams generally desire, especially in the run game. Overall, Peebles has an unconventional body type, which raises obvious concerns about his NFL transition, but he is a spirited pass rusher with serious juice and a diverse set of tactics to be disruptive. He projects as a rotational backup as a penetrating one-gapper who can carve out a role as a sub-down rusher.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

DT18 Jamaree Caldwell

Oregon, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Newberry, SC	Newberry	Aug 30, 2000	24.65	6021	332	#90

BACKGROUND: Jamaree Caldwell, the middle of three boys, was born and raised in Newberry, S.C., with his parents (Cecil and Shonda). His father played on the defensive line at South Carolina and for two seasons with the Cleveland Browns (2001-02) after going undrafted in the 2021 NFL Draft. Cecil played four more seasons professionally in the Arena League (2003-06). Jamaree's uncle (Larry Werts) played linebacker at Jackson State (1977-80) and was an eighth-round pick (No. 200) in the 1981 NFL Draft. Jamaree Caldwell started playing football "the earliest he could," around age 5. Originally a running back throughout youth ball, he also played AAU basketball. At age 11, Caldwell moved to the Charlotte, N.C., area. He continued playing football in middle school and moved to the defensive line.

Caldwell originally attended East Gaston High in Mount Holly, N.C., where he was a three-year varsity letterman on the defensive line. He was part of the starting mix as a junior in 2017, as the team struggled to two wins. Looking for a different situation, Caldwell moved back to Newberry before his senior season and transferred to Newberry High (his father's alma mater). He played both ways as a senior and got his first reps on the offensive line, primarily at left guard. Caldwell helped Newberry make the 3A state playoffs in 2018.

A no-star recruit, Caldwell wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class. Without a ton of tape, he was overlooked by FBS programs. Caldwell received a few offers from Division II programs, but he chose junior college and signed with Hutchinson (Kan.) Community College as an offensive lineman. After one season primarily spent on the scout team, Caldwell moved back home when the COVID-19 pandemic hit and walked away from football, unsure what the future would hold. After almost a year, he decided he wasn't ready to give up his football dreams and walked on at Independence (Kan.) Community College — and returned to the defensive line.

Caldwell did enough to attract attention from both FCS and FBS programs. He received some looks from SEC schools but didn't have enough credits to qualify. Caldwell had developed a close bond with Houston defensive line coach Brian Early, who became a "second dad" for him. He signed with former head coach Dana Holgorsen as part of Houston's 2022 class. Caldwell had his breakout season in 2023 and decided to enter the transfer portal after Holgorsen, Early and the rest of the coaching staff were let go. He wanted to play in the Big Ten, and Oregon gave him that opportunity — he transitioned to nose tackle with the Ducks. Caldwell accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Hutchinson (Kan.) Community College
2020: (-/-)							NA; did not play football
2021: (-/-)							Independence (Kan.) Community College
2022: (9/0)	12	3.5	2.0	0	0	0	Houston; blocked FG
2023: (11/10)	26	8.5	6.5	1	0	0	Houston; blocked FG
2024: (14/14)	29	4.5	0.0	1	3	0	Oregon; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (34/24)	67	16.5	8.5	2	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6021	332	9 3/8	32	78 3/8	5.16	3.05	1.86	27	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No BJ, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6021	331	9 5/8	32	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Played three-technique at Houston and nose tackle at Oregon — offers experience at both
- Carries weight smoothly for a thick 332-pounder
- Flashes short-area quickness to attack edges and play in gaps
- Built low and wins with leverage to play underneath blocks
- Can deliver blows and put blockers on their heels
- Strong through his core and hips to maintain positioning
- Steady activity level, with ball-searching eyes
- Blocked a pair of field goals in two seasons at Houston
- Played entire 2023 season with a hard cast after breaking his left hand in the opener
- Started every game in 2024 and was a consistent presence

WEAKNESSES:

- Played a tad heavy in 2024 — admittedly, needs to stay in better shape
- Longer blockers can get to him and cut him off
- Needs to develop more consistent handwork to protect his frame
- Will freelance at times and doesn't always play gap sound
- Inconsistent rush plan — needs to better set up moves
- Predictable movements — needs to develop more of a go-to move, aside from his quickness
- Willingly leaves his feet (and missed tackles start to pile up)
- Below-average backfield production in one season at Oregon

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Oregon, Caldwell was the nose tackle (zero-/2i-technique) in defensive coordinator Tosh Lupoi's multiple fronts. After temporarily stepping away from football in 2020, he walked on at the junior college level and worked his way to Houston, where he became a disruptive three-technique (despite playing the entire 2023 season with a hard cast after breaking his hand in the opener). After transferring to Oregon, he showed his willingness to do whatever was asked by adding weight and playing more of a plugger role (2.1 tackles per game in 2024).

Caldwell is an interesting study, because he has the look of a squatty nose but the quickness and activity level of a one-gapper with the potential to impact the backfield (Caldwell: "I see myself as a pure three-tech, but I can do both."). He can explode into blockers to create pop, although I worry about NFL centers reaching/sealing him — he needs to be more consistent with his hands for quicker sheds, if he hopes to turn his potential into more production. Overall, the tape runs hot and cold for Caldwell, and he plays with a confused identity. However, he has an interesting collection of traits and put a little bit of everything on tape, which will make him appealing to different schemes. I like him best as a rotational one-technique who can stay on the field on passing downs.

GRADE: 4th round

DT19 Deone Walker

Kentucky, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Detroit, MI	Cass Tech	Mar 11, 2004	21.12	6074	328	#0

BACKGROUND: Deone (dee-ON) Walker, who has one sister (Nikita), was born and raised in Detroit with his parents (Deone Walker Sr. and Sanquanetta). Eager to play football, he joined the Giants in the Detroit Police Athletic League at age 5 (with his older nephew) but wasn't allowed to compete in games until age 7. Walker played a little bit of quarterback early on, but because of his size, he primarily lined up in the trenches throughout youth football. He later played for the Raiders and Ducks and lined up on both sides of the ball through middle school. He was also active in bowling and track throughout childhood, but basketball was his "first love."

Walker attended Detroit's Cass Technical High, which has produced numerous NFL Draft picks, including current pros Mike Onwenu and Jourdan Lewis. Walker played his freshman year on the JV team before a late call-up to varsity. He hit a growth spurt and grew six inches after his freshman year, then became a varsity starter as a sophomore and played both ways as a defensive tackle and offensive tackle. He helped Cass Tech to a 12-2 record as a junior and the 2020 league championship. As a senior, Walker earned first-team all-state honors with 43 tackles, 15 tackles for loss and six sacks over seven games. He was also a center on the Cass Tech basketball team and joined the track team. He had personal bests of 44 feet, 3 inches in the shot put and 94-1 in the discus as a junior.

A four-star recruit, Walker was the 36th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 6 recruit in Michigan. Despite having very little varsity experience, he received his first scholarship offer (Bowling Green) after his freshman year in June 2019. The following summer, Walker picked up a coveted offer from Michigan, followed by offers from Michigan State, Pitt and Toledo. After his junior season, he hit the road and visited several SEC programs, which resulted in offers from Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, LSU, Tennessee and others. His father was hoping he would choose Georgia or Michigan, but Walker's connections with head coach Mark Stoops and defensive line coach Anwar Stewart led him to Kentucky. He was the sixth-ranked recruit in the Wildcats' 2022 class. After three seasons, Walker opted out of Kentucky's 2024 bowl game and declared for the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (13/11)	40	4.5	1.0	1	2	0	Freshman All-American; All-SEC Freshman; started final 11 games; enrolled July 2022
2023: (13/13)	55	12.5	7.5	0	2	0	Second Team All-SEC; led team in sacks, TFL, team captain
2024: (11/11)	37	5.0	1.5	0	2	0	Third Team All-SEC; missed one game (injury); team captain
Total: (37/35)	132	22.0	10.0	1	6	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6073	331	10 5/8	34 1/4	84 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	25	8' 8"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6074	328	10 5/8	34	84 7/8	5.35	3.01	1.90	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	22

STRENGTHS:

- Rare height/weight/length combination and blocks out the sun with sheer size
- Light, bouncy feet and carries weight uncommonly well (wears wide receiver cleats, because they are lighter)
- Gets off the ball quicker than you'd expect to maneuver through gaps
- Has a basketball background and still uses the hardcourt for conditioning
- Athletic enough to drop, loop or move around the defensive front
- There are examples on tape of him owning the point of attack
- Has upper-body strength to turn, dump or displace blockers, when he wants to
- Naturally left-handed and uses both hands well to swat reach of blockers
- Uses pterodactyl wingspan to expand tackling radius and pull in or clothesline ball carriers
- Achieved goal of becoming a team captain as sophomore (and again as junior in 2024)
- Played through injuries — only game he missed in college was against FCS Murray State in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Top-heavy body type with leaner legs and extra weight in midsection
- Taller pad level can bring his downhill momentum to a screeching halt
- Needs to add more thought and process to pass-rush approach
- Barrels into the backfield — late to break down or react to evading/climbing quarterback
- Three offsides penalties in 2024
- Needs to keep feet underneath him while engaged
- Maintaining a lower, consistent weight must be a priority in the NFL
- Coasted at times because of fatigue (averaged 52.8 defensive snaps per game over the past two seasons)
- Diagnosed with pars defect, a fracture between two vertebrae in the spine, during the 2024 season

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Kentucky, Walker was an interchangeable defensive lineman in defensive coordinator Brad White's scheme (45.7 percent of his 2024 snaps came as a three-technique DT, 26.3 percent as a one-technique/nose, 25 percent head-up on or outside of the offensive tackle). After earning preliminary first-round grades from scouts as a sophomore, his junior season wasn't nearly as dominant or consistent (pressures created dropped from 51 in 2023 to 21 in 2024), partly because of his back injury.

A passionate basketball player through high school, Walker certainly benefits from the "planet theory" — there are only so many humans walking the earth who have his combination of size, strength and sweet feet. Though he doesn't play stiff, there are sloppy elements of his game that must improve to streamline his ability to stack, shed and finish. Overall, Walker is a unique athlete with impressive balance and movement skills for a 330-plus-pounder, but his technique and pad level must catch up with his physical talent for the flashes to become consistent. If he adapts to pro coaching, he has the skill set to become an NFL starter.

GRADE: 4th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Houston, TX	Cypress Ridge	Jul 15, 2001	23.78	6050	311	#45

BACKGROUND: Vernon Broughton Jr. (BRAWT-un), the oldest of three children, grew up with his parents (Vernon Sr. and Yolanda Wells-Broughton). His father was a defensive lineman in the Arena Football League for five years (1997-2001) and teammates with Kurt Warner for the Iowa Barnstormers in 1997. His mother played college basketball at Howard Junior College (1990-92) and Grambling (1993-95) — she helped the Lady Tigers to their first-ever appearance in the NCAA Tournament in 1994. After her playing days, she became head women's basketball coach at Paul Quinn College (1998-2000), followed by assistant roles at Trinity Valley (Texas) Community College (2000-04), TCU (2004-07) and LSU (2007-08). She later was named head coach at Texas Southern (2008-12) and since 2016 has been a teacher and coach at Victory Prep Academy in Houston. Broughton's younger sister (Asia) played college basketball at Southern Miss (2021-23) before transferring to Nicholls State (2024-25). His younger brother (Isaiah) is a rising senior defensive lineman at Cypress Ridge High and holds offers from SMU and Texas Tech.

Basketball was Broughton's focus growing up, initially at the youth levels, then travel camps and AAU. He initially attended Spring Woods High in Houston and played basketball as a freshman. With his size, he decided to give football a chance as a sophomore and showed a lot of promise as a defensive lineman and tight end during the 2017 season. With colleges excited about his recruiting potential (and after Spring Woods finished 0-9), Broughton transferred to Cypress Ridge High for his final two years. As a junior in 2018, he earned first-team all-district honors (92 tackles, 25 tackles for loss, six sacks and three forced fumbles), helping the team to a 7-3 record. As a senior, Broughton was named second-team all-district and finished with 36 tackles, 10 tackles for loss, three sacks and two forced fumbles. He earned an invitation to the Under Armour All-American Game. Broughton also lettered in basketball at Cypress Ridge.

A four-star recruit, Broughton was the 14th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 16 recruit in Texas. After joining the football team as a sophomore, he picked up his first scholarship that spring from Baylor (April 2018). Broughton attended several recruiting camps the following summer and came away with offers from Alabama, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Texas, Texas A&M, USC and others. Before his senior season, he narrowed his choice to Arkansas, LSU, Ohio State, Texas and Texas A&M, taking several visits to all five programs. In the end, Broughton was drawn to Austin and committed to the Longhorns in July 2019. He was the 10th-ranked recruit in former head coach Tom Herman's 2020 class. He earned first-team Academic All-Big 12 honors in 2021 and graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024). Broughton accepted his invitation to the 2025 Senior Bowl but tweaked his quad during training and pulled out of the event.

Broughton and his wife (Camille) got married in April 2024 (Broughton missed the 2024 spring game). The couple are expecting their first child in May 2025.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (2/0)	2	1.0	1.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled January 2020
2021: (12/0)	4	0.0	0.5	0	0	0
2022: (12/1)	7	1.0	0.0	0	0	0
2023: (14/1)	17	4.5	1.0	0	0	0
2024: (16/15)	39	4.5	4.0	2	2	0	Missed one start after sitting out first half because of targeting penalty
Total: (56/17)	69	11.0	6.5	2	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6050	311	9 1/4	35	83 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6045	314	9 1/4	34 7/8	83 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Impressive size — you need entire measuring tape for his dimensions
- Plays with body quickness to swipe and access gaps (see 2024 Texas A&M and Ohio State tapes)
- Forceful hands to chop/swat hands of blockers
- Efficient arm-over techniques to avoid getting tied up
- Has a knack for attacking throwing arm of the quarterback
- Long arms allow him to lock out at point of attack
- Strong enough to hold his ground when he taps into lower-body flexibility
- Better range in the run game than expected
- Violent finisher when he gets his hands on the ball carrier

WEAKNESSES:

- High cut with lean lowers and elevated pads
- Inconsistent snap reaction can leave him a tad late off the ball
- Requires a beat when stopping feet to change directions

- Body control fluctuates, based on his footwork and hip turn
- Needs better efficiency when transitioning to counters
- Tends to give away positioning too early as a two-gapper
- More missed tackles than you'd like, especially in tight quarters
- Only one season as a starter

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas, Broughton was an interchangeable defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Pete Kwiatkowski's front, lining up mostly as a 2i-/three-technique. A late bloomer, he required time to develop when he arrived in Austin. He waited his turn behind Byron Murphy and T'Vondre Sweat, then became a starter as a super senior (fourth on the team in pressures in 2024).

With his length and play strength, Broughton flashes dominance when he transfers power from his hips to his hands to create knockback in the run game, although you would like to see him stay square to help his anchor. Though he is still learning how to become a more well-rounded rusher, he plays with the quickness and force to penetrate gaps. Overall, Broughton has NFL size and traits to make an impact as part of a defensive line rotation, if he can continue developing his handwork and consistency. His ascending skill set should speak to every scheme.

GRADE: 4th round

DT21 CJ West

Indiana, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Chicago, IL	Nazareth	Jun 12, 2002	22.87	6011	316	#8

BACKGROUND: Chaddrian "CJ" West Jr. was raised in Chicago with his parents. He refers to his mother (Richelle) as his "rock," because of her hard-working attitude in the face of any adversity (including when West' childhood home was destroyed by a fire in 2022). Basketball was West's first love and go-to sport throughout childhood. He also played rugby, track, cross country and other sports but had no interest in football. Going into eighth grade, his friend convinced him to join his Pop Warner football team, and West calls it the "greatest decision" he ever made. He started out as a running back, linebacker and safety.

West attended Nazareth Academy, a Catholic high school in LaGrange Park, Ill. (alma mater of NFL defensive back Julian Love). He continued playing football and started out on the freshman team before moving up to JV and varsity as a 200-pound linebacker his first two seasons. Between his sophomore and junior years, West committed to developing his body and added more than 60 pounds, which prompted his move to the defensive line. As a junior, he helped Nazareth to a 13-1 record and the 2018 Class 7A state championship, defeating St. Charles North High (led by New York Giants safety Tyler Nubin). As a senior, West earned first-team all-conference honors and helped the program to a 12-2 finish and a finish as state title runner-up. He also played basketball at Nazareth before deciding to focus on football.

A three-star recruit, West was the 91st-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 24 recruit in Illinois. He received his first scholarship offer after his junior season from nearby Northern Illinois. Over the next few months, several FCS (Eastern Illinois, Eastern Kentucky, Illinois State, Indiana State, Southern Illinois) and FBS (Bowling Green, Kent State, Toledo, Western Michigan) programs reached out with scholarship offers. On a visit to Minnesota in February 2019, West received an offer from head coach P.J. Fleck and committed on the spot — but decided to reopen his recruitment a few months later.

On signing day, he committed to Kent State and was the top-ranked recruit in former head coach Sean Lewis' 2020 class. After four seasons in the program, West entered the transfer portal in April 2024 to "challenge himself" against better competition. Despite his late entry into the portal, he was a popular target and received offers from Arkansas, Colorado, LSU, Miami, Michigan, Texas A&M and Wisconsin within three days of his announcement. But West connected with head coach Curt Cignetti and committed to the Hoosiers for his final season. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	1	0.0	0	0	0	0	Kent State; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/14)	43	8.0	4	0	1	0	Kent State
2022: (10/10)	26	4.5	1	0	0	0	Kent State; missed two games (injury)
2023: (12/11)	40	7.0	2	1	0	0	Kent State; Third Team All-MAC
2024: (13/13)	42	7.5	2	1	1	0	Indiana; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (52/48)	152	27.0	9	2	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6011	316	9 3/4	31 1/2	79 1/8	4.95	2.87	1.73	33	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No BJ, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6012	316	10	31 7/8	79 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	28

STRENGTHS:

- Burly body type, with burst out of stance (1.73-second 10-yard split was fastest among players weighing 315 pounds or more at combine)
- Plays with natural leverage to burrow and split double teams
- Spark-plug play style — stands out with his effort (see 2024 Michigan tape)
- Plays with sticks of dynamite for hands to bully and batter blockers
- Generates push from quick feet and leg drive
- Good feel for the blocking scheme to slant through gaps and anticipate run lanes
- Offers pass-rush upside, because of the ferocity in his moves
- Reliable character and intrinsically motivated (West: "I'm going to outwork you.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks ideal height and length, and his frame appears maxed out
- Quick in get-off, but his snap anticipation must be better
- Has some tightness in his hips and lower body, restricting ability to quickly counter redirect blocks
- Compact body and shorter arms leave him falling off tackle attempts
- Can get stuck on size and miss opportunity at constricting the run lane
- Pass-rush plan is based more on motor than move-to-move sequencing
- Single-digit sacks over 52 games in college

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Indiana, West was an interchangeable defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Bryant Haines' scheme, lining up everywhere from the nose to the 2i-/three-technique. A hooper growing up, he caught the football bug, moved to the defensive line as a high school junior and has steadily improved ever since — he had a career year in 2024 as the catalyst for Indiana's top-ranked FBS run defense.

The No. 1 criteria when scouting defensive linemen is to find the guys that hate to be blocked, and West falls into that category with his fast, strong hands and high energy level. He can win gaps with his quickness but has some tweener play traits, as he lacks the mass or length desired for the nose and his pass-rush process is underdeveloped when playing over the B-gap. Overall, West doesn't have the size measurements to fit every scheme, and he needs to continue connecting the dots as a pass rusher, but his natural leverage, play violence and ascending instincts are of NFL quality. Similar in ways to Poona Ford, he has the goods to become a valuable part of a defensive line rotation.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

DT22 JJ Pegues

Ole Miss, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Oxford, MS	Oxford	Nov 25, 2001	23.41	6024	309	#38

BACKGROUND: Jeremiah J'veon "JJ" Pegues (puh-GEESE), who has a younger sister (Jakayla), was born and raised in Oxford, Miss., with his parents (Jerry and Allison). Jerry was a productive tight end at Oxford High until a major knee injury altered his football career. He later played at Northwest Mississippi Community College (1998-99) and then Arkansas State (2000-01) — he caught a touchdown pass against Ole Miss (Oct. 2000). JJ started playing football in third grade for the Oxford Buccaneers and was coached by his father throughout Pop Warner. He played primarily on the defensive side of the ball as a linebacker and defensive lineman (his favorite player was Patrick Willis). When he got to middle school, the coaches also used him on the offensive side of the ball. Both of his parents played basketball, and Pegues started playing rec league basketball at age 7 for the Oxford Parks Commission and played throughout high school.

Pegues attended Oxford High, the same school that produced former Ole Miss and current NFL wide receiver DK Metcalf. Pegues started out on the freshman and JV teams before getting call-up to varsity as a freshman. As a sophomore, he played primarily at tight end (32 catches for 452 yards and three touchdowns) and saw reps as a 250-pound running back (43 carries for 207 yards and three touchdowns). Pegues battled through a torn meniscus as a junior and helped Oxford to nine wins, finishing with 346 receiving yards, 255 rushing yards and 14 total touchdowns (nine rushing, five receiving). He was a do-everything player as a senior, including playing wildcat quarterback and taking snaps on defense. He led Oxford to a 14-1 record and the 2019 6A state championship (first in school history). Pegues finished his final season with 36 receptions for 607 yards and six touchdowns, plus 92 carries for 623 yards and 12 rushing touchdowns. He also had a pair of sacks in 2019 and finished his high school career with three passing completions (all for touchdowns). Pegues also lettered in basketball, playing for several of the same coaches as his father at Oxford.

A four-star recruit, Pegues was the sixth-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 3 recruit in Mississippi (behind defensive tackle McKinnley Jackson and cornerback Emmanuel Forbes). He received his first scholarship offer as a freshman from his hometown Ole Miss (Feb. 2017). Pegues added offers from several other SEC programs, including LSU, Mississippi State and South Carolina — several programs wanted on the defensive line; others saw him playing tight end. He narrowed his final choice to Alabama, Auburn and Ole Miss, with many assuming he would play for the Rebels, who had recruited him since middle school and hosted him at double-digit camps. But Pegues had built a relationship with Matt Luke, and when Ole Miss fired him in December 2019, it led Pegues to look elsewhere. He committed to Auburn on signing day as a tight end (his preferred position) and was the ninth-ranked recruit in former head coach Gus Malzahn's 2020 class. He played tight end as a true freshman in 2020.

After Auburn fired Malzahn following the 2020 season, Pegues moved to the defensive line under the new coaching staff in the spring of 2021. After the 2021 season, he felt unsure about the direction of the program and wanted to be closer to family, so he entered the transfer portal in January 2022. He listened to pitches from Alabama and Georgia, but Pegues knew he would sign with Ole Miss, where he was given the nickname "The Mayor." He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Oxford for his fifth season. Pegues made the honor roll in 2023 and graduated with a degree in multi-disciplinary studies (Dec. 2024). He has a dog (Milo) that is a pit bull-mastiff mix. He was named a member of the 2024 AFCA Good Works team for his community service. He accepted an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (11/1)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Auburn; 7 catches, 57 yards; enrolled June 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/1)	16	2.0	0.0	0	0	0	Auburn; moved from TE to DL in 2021 spring practices
2022: (12/0)	26	5.0	3.0	0	2	0	Ole Miss; 1 carry for 4 yards; 1-yard TD reception
2023: (13/12)	42	8.0	3.5	0	4	0	Ole Miss; 4 carries for 13 yards
2024: (13/11)	42	13.5	3.5	0	0	0	Ole Miss; Third Team All-SEC; Chucky Mullins Courage Award; 7 rush TDs
Total: (62/25)	126	28.5	10.0	0	6	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6024	309	9 3/8	32 1/2	79 1/4	5.15	3.02	1.81	27 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No BJ, SS, three-cone, bench; also did RB drills
PRO DAY	6024	305	9 1/4	32 1/2	79 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.89	7.77	23

STRENGTHS:

- Burly big man through his waist and hips, and he carries it very well
- Plays with both quickness and bend to attack in different ways
- Roots underneath pads of blockers to establish the point of attack
- Flashes lower-body strength to wear down blocker's edge
- Natural feel for rushing angles when working back to the quarterback
- Looks to get his hands involved whenever possible
- Short-yardage back — accounted for 11 first downs, 10 broken tackles and seven touchdowns on 21 carries in 2024
- A-plus character — received 2024 Chucky Mullins Courage Award (and changed to No. 38, Mullins' number), awarded to the Ole Miss defensive player who embodies Mullins' legacy of courage, leadership, perseverance and determination

WEAKNESSES:

- Power shows up in spurts, not drives
- Tends to be short-stepper in his movements at times
- Overreliant on initial attack and needs to transition better to counters
- Wins the battle but loses the war when he can't maintain initial control
- Improved technique required to help compensate for average length
- Need to see a better plan against the run, including when facing double teams

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ole Miss, Pegues played across the defensive line in defensive coordinator Pete Golding's 4-2-5 base scheme, from the A-gap to outside the tackle as a wide rusher. Primarily an offensive player in high school, he arrived at Auburn as a tight end and didn't know anything about playing on the defensive line, but he gradually improved the past three seasons.

An Oxford native nicknamed "The Mayor," Pegues is a unique prospect, because he doesn't play with as much power as one might expect for his size, but he's a much better mover than most 310-pounders. He has an offensive background, which Lane Kiffin tapped into, especially in 2024, with an 85.7 percent conversion rate (18-for-21) in short yardage. Overall, Pegues is a compactly built athlete with the quickness and play strength to give blockers trouble from different alignments, although his ability to access counters and show better resolve will be his key to carving out a permanent defensive role. His versatility on offense should only boost his chances of locking down a roster spot.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

DT23 Rylie Mills

Notre Dame, 5SR

HOMETOWN Lake Bluff, IL	HIGH SCHOOL Lake Forest	BIRTHDAY Aug 20, 2001	AGE 23.68	HT 6053	WT 296	NUM #99
----------------------------	----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Rylie Mills, the youngest of two boys, grew up outside of Chicago in the northern suburb of Lake Bluff, Ill., with parents (Troy and Kristina). His father played linebacker at Connecticut (1986-90); his mother, a yoga trainer, played volleyball for the Huskies. Rylie's older brother (Jaxon) played defensive line at Lake Forest High before playing defensive tackle at Dayton (2016-19). Rylie Mills followed in his older brother's footsteps growing up and started playing football in elementary school, as a defensive tackle and running back. Once he started taking the sport more seriously in middle school, he picked up boxing and lacrosse to help with his conditioning. Mills is an avid musician and played multiple instruments growing up, including the guitar, keyboard, drums and ukulele. His aunt (Leigh Mills) played on the LPGA tour for 11 years; his grandfather played football at Arkansas State.

Mills attended Lake Forest High, where former Notre Dame quarterback (and current Cleveland Browns offensive coordinator) Tommy Rees played high school ball. Because of school rules, Mills was required to play on the freshman team in his first season and made a name for himself against smaller competition. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore defensive lineman and tight end, earning All-Area Rookie of the Year honors in 2017. As a junior, Mills posted 30 tackles, 17 tackles for loss, three sacks and one forced fumble, helping Lake Forest to the 2018 6A state playoffs. As a senior, he finished with 45 tackles, 14 tackles for loss and five sacks in just seven games, as Lake Forest finished 7-5 with a pair of playoff wins. As a junior, Mills joined the track team and competed in the shot put and discus. He trained throughout high school at EFT Sports Performance with Kerry Neal.

A four-star recruit, Mills was the seventh-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Illinois (one spot behind Peter Skoronski). He started to hear from college recruiters after his freshman season, and his first offer arrived from Minnesota in January 2018. In the six months after his sophomore season ended, Mills added a few dozen offers, including from heavy-hitters such as Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, LSU, Michigan, Northwestern, Oklahoma and Penn State. His final choice came down to Notre Dame, Ohio State and Wisconsin, and he committed to the Fighting Irish (May 2019).

Mills was the ninth-ranked recruit in former head coach Brian Kelly's 2020 class. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to the Irish for his fifth season in 2024. Mills graduated with a bachelor's degree in marketing (May 2023) and later earned a master's degree in nonprofit management (May 2024). After a season-ending injury against Indiana in December 2024, he wasn't cleared to fly but wanted to be with his teammates for the Orange Bowl, so he rented an RV and — along with his parents and girlfriend, Nicole Leon — drove to Miami. Mills was unable to participate in a pre-draft all-star game because of his injury.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (9/1)	7	2.0	0.5	0	0	0	Enrolled January 2020
2021: (13/0)	16	3.0	3.0	0	0	0
2022: (13/9)	24	6.0	3.5	0	0	0
2023: (13/13)	47	5.5	2.5	0	0	0
2024: (13/13)	37	8.5	7.5	0	0	0	Second Team All-American; led team in sacks, TFL; team captain; missed final three games (right knee)
Total: (61/36)	131	25.0	17.0	0	0	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6053	291	9 7/8	32 5/8	79 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (med. exclusion: left shoulder, right knee)
PRO DAY	6051	296	10 1/8	32 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete and flashes both quickness and power
- Leads with physical hands to bully, snatch or pull blocker's weight against him (see 2024 Florida State tape)
- Rolls his hips into run blocks to stack, peek and make stops in the gap
- Comes to balance on the move to make stops in space or close quarters
- Can make himself skinny and work half-a-man
- Two-time alum of Bruce Feldman's "Freaks List," for his explosion and strength (445-pound bench, 580-pound squat)
- Received team's 2024 Iron Cross Award for his work in the weight room
- One of just four players in Notre Dame history to play at least 62 games
- His coaches say he is "comfortable in his own skin" and well-respected in the program (voted a 2024 team captain)

WEAKNESSES:

- Middling arm length, which will be more noticeable against NFL talent
- Upright play style — once he loses leverage, he has a tough time gaining it back
- Bull rush stalls when base narrows
- Would like to see him add more finesse to rush attack
- Late to recognize and react to angle blocks
- Needs to play with more composure (punched an opponent in the helmet on 2024 USC tape; roughing the passer, unnecessary roughness and personal foul penalties in 2024)
- Season-ending right knee injury in first round of College Football Playoff (Dec. 2024), which required surgery

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Notre Dame, Mills lined up primarily as a two-/three-technique in former defensive coordinator Al Golden's four-man front, plus spent time on the edge. His production and impact improved each season in South Bend — he led the Irish in sacks (7.5) and tackles for loss (8.5) in 2024, despite missing the final three games with a knee injury.

As a pass rusher, Mills plays a tad high and tight and makes himself a large target, but he launches out of his stance with purposeful hands to generate pressure using various push-pull maneuvers. In the run game, he flashes the ability to stack and shed at the point of attack, but he too often gets lost in traffic and is late to rally.Overall, Mills is an energetic player with quickness, play strength and a feel for getting off blocks, which makes him a fit for an even (three-technique, B-gap rusher) or odd front (head-up, two-gapping end). His late-season knee injury will affect his draft projection, but his talent belongs in an NFL defensive line rotation.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

DT24 Cam Horsley

Boston College, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Cinnaminson, NJ	Cinnaminson	Feb 06, 2002	23.21	6026	312	#96

BACKGROUND: Cameron "Cam" Horsley, who has two brothers, grew up in Burlington County in New Jersey with his parents (Craig and Kim). He competed with his brothers in all kinds of sports in the backyard. When it came to organized sports, though, Horsley wasn't too interested in football, because baseball was his passion. But because of his size and ability, he heard constant nudging from friends to join the football team — he finally gave in after eighth grade.

Horsley enrolled at Cinnaminson High and started playing organized football for the first time as a freshman. At 250 pounds, he got his first taste of varsity as a sophomore defensive tackle and played with his older brother. As a junior, Horsley started on both sides of the ball (primarily at left guard and defensive tackle) and earned first-team all-conference honors, as he helped Cinnaminson to an 8-3 finish (undefeated in conference play). He again started both ways as a senior — and even got some carries in short-yardage situations — and took home all area and all-county honors. Horsley also lettered in baseball as a pitcher and power-hitting first baseman.

A three-star recruit, Horsley was the 118th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 36 recruit in New Jersey. Despite not playing football until high school, he started to receive recruiting attention as a sophomore. By his junior year, he knew his future was in football. Horsley received his first scholarship offer midway through his junior season from instate Rutgers (Oct. 2018). He added offers from nearby Temple and a few MAC programs, such as Central Michigan, Kent State and Western Michigan. He liked his visit to Rutgers but was sold on Boston College after visiting its campus. Before his senior year, Horsley committed to former head coach Steve Addazio in June 2019, and he stayed committed after Addazio was replaced by Jeff Hafley the week before national signing day. He was the ninth-ranked recruit in Hafley's first recruiting class at Boston College. Horsley took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his fifth season. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (11/0)	13	1.5	0.5	0	0	0	Enrolled August 2020
2021: (12/10)	38	1.5	1.5	0	1	0
2022: (12/12)	30	5.5	1.0	0	1	0
2023: (13/13)	41	3.0	0.5	0	3	0
2024: (11/11)	42	7.0	0.0	0	3	0	Third Team All-ACC; missed two games (injury)
Total: (59/46)	164	18.5	3.5	0	8	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6026	312	9 1/2	33	81	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	9' 0"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6027	312	9 1/4	33	78 3/4	5.04	2.88	1.73	DNP	DNP	4.74	7.67	26

STRENGTHS:

- Wide-bodied and stout against the run
- Quickly gets vertical to stack blocks or attacks gaps
- Uses long arms for abrupt lockout techniques to control blocks
- Plays with power to lift and displace objects in his way
- Doesn't appear stressed when asked to occupy double teams
- Flashes violence, with the hand strength to batter at contact
- Put some violent tackles on tape and finishes tackles that he should make
- Doesn't look like a fish out of water in space (would drop as a spy on 2023 tape)
- Has a knack for knocking down throws
- Often stayed on the field on third downs

WEAKNESSES:

- Can be moved from his spot when he doesn't keep leverage low
- Quickness is there but snap anticipation can improve
- Can be reached and sealed when late with his lateral engagement
- Bull rush often takes too long to affect the pocket
- Needs to develop his pass-rush construction and secondary moves
- Average overall range when chasing

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Boston College, Horsley played mostly as a one-/2i-technique defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Tim Lewis' 4-3 base scheme. Despite not playing football until high school, he quickly made an impact in college and was a valuable part of the Boston College defensive line, playing consistent snaps (42.2 defensive snaps per game as a starter) and proving to be disruptive (No. 2 on the team in tackles for loss in 2024).

Horsley is a stout run defender, using his heavy, upward strikes and immediate lockout to own the line of scrimmage or create vertical push. He flashes initial explosiveness to shoot gaps but needs to develop his pass-rush process, especially when facing single blocks. Overall, Horsley plays with the size and power to reset the line of scrimmage when he stays leveraged, making it difficult for run blockers to do their job. He has the talent to be a rotational nose for a long time in the NFL.

GRADE: 5th round

DT25 Yahya Black

Iowa, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Marshall, MN	Marshall	Apr 21, 2002	23.01	6056	336	#94

BACKGROUND: Yahya (WHY-yay) Black, who has a younger sister (Avery), grew up in Marshall, Minn., with his father (William), who works in construction, and stepmother (Wendy), a hospice nurse. Throughout childhood, he played baseball, basketball and multiple other sports (loves ice fishing), but he always gravitated toward football as his go-to sport. He followed Alabama in college football (his father is from Alabama) and the Vikings in the NFL (enjoyed watching Jared Allen).

Black attended Marshall Senior High, where he played both ways as an offensive tackle and defensive lineman for three seasons. He became a starter as a sophomore and blocked for quarterback Trey Lance during his senior season in 2017, helping the team to a 10-1 record (only loss came in the quarterfinals of the 4A state playoffs). He also accounted for 30 tackles, eight tackles for loss, two sacks and one forced fumble. As a junior, Black led Marshall back to the playoffs with a 7-2 record and was named the district's defensive lineman of the year. As a senior captain, he earned all-state honors and was named the district's defensive player of the year, setting a school record with 17.5 career sacks. Black lettered three seasons on the basketball team, leading the team in rebounding, blocks and assists as a senior. He also lettered in track and had personal bests of 50 feet in the shot put (a school record) and 133-3 in the discus.

A three-star recruit, Black was the 31st-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Minnesota. His first offer came from FCS South Dakota, followed by offers from North Dakota State and South Dakota State. His first FBS offer came from Buffalo. He received an offer from in-state Minnesota, but he ruled out the Gophers when head coach P.J. Fleck told him that the offer would expire after three days. Black strongly considered committing to Kansas State, which recruited him as an offensive tackle, but he was swayed by Iowa after an official visit. He connected with defensive line coach Kelvin Bell and committed to the Hawkeyes the summer going into his senior season.

Black was the fifth-ranked recruit in head coach Kirk Ferentz's 2020 class. He signed as a 250-pound athlete, and there were debates among the coaches over where to play him, but he started out on defense (his preferred spot) and never moved back to offense. Black accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	3	0.5	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (14/0)	18	0.0	0.0	1	1	0
2022: (9/0)	11	1.5	1.0	0	2	0	Missed five games (foot)
2023: (14/14)	51	5.0	3.5	1	5	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (13/13)	34	7.0	1.0	1	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; blocked FG
Total: (54/27)	117	14.0	5.5	3	10	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6056	336	10 1/4	35	83 7/8	5.38	3.12	1.88	25 1/2	8' 5"	4.72	7.63	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6056	330	10 3/8	34 7/8	84	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.58	7.58	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall with a hulking frame and "go go, gadget" arm length (and size 17 shoes)
- Added 80 pounds since high school and carries his weight well
- Attacks blocks with heavy hands to stack and anchor
- Holds up well versus double teams
- Limited as a pass rusher, but uses long arms to create occasional pocket push
- Able to close on the ball when given a lane
- Blocked a field goal on 2024 Washington tape
- Coaches describe him as "cerebral" and say he came out of his shell as senior on Iowa's Player Council
- Started every game the past two seasons (44.1 defensive snaps per game)

WEAKNESSES:

- Moves well for his size, but he's not an explosive athlete
- Bland pass rusher and doesn't consistently affect the quarterback
- Plays tall; almost immediately loses the leverage battle
- Needs to be more sudden/violent when attempting to get off blocks
- Average range — hoped to see more backside production
- Foot injury and missed five games (Sept. 2022)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Iowa, Black played both one- and three-technique defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Phil Parker's four-man front. His stats won't jump off the page, but Black was a star in the Hawkeyes' scheme, because of his ability to command blocking attention. Doing so freed up the linebackers, specifically Jay Higgins, who had 295 combined tackles over the past two seasons.

A two-year starter at Iowa, Black played both one- and three-technique defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Phil Parker's four-man front. His stats won't jump off the page, but Black was a star in the Hawkeyes' scheme, because of his ability to command blocking attention. Doing so freed up the linebackers, specifically Jay Higgins, who had 295 combined tackles over the past two seasons. A stout run defender, Black has outstanding size and uses his big-man balance to occupy space or hold the point. With his length and the strength in his hands, he can snatch/toss blockers but doesn't offer much as a pass rusher beyond a basic bull. Overall, Black looks every bit the part of a "do your job" defender who clogs run lanes and does the dirty work, although he will need to improve his disruptive skills to be a three-down player. He offers the scheme versatility to become a role player in any system.

GRADE: 5th round

DT26 Nazir Stackhouse

Georgia, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Stone Mountain, GA	Columbia	Apr 18, 2002	23.02	6036	327	#78

BACKGROUND: Nazir "Naz" Stackhouse was born in Trenton, N.J., and moved to Georgia at age 6. He tried several different sports throughout childhood but always gravitated toward football. Stackhouse had trouble staying awake throughout childhood. It wasn't until he enrolled at Georgia, however, that he was officially tested and diagnosed with narcolepsy. He would sometimes fall asleep in team meetings and often had to fight the urge for a quick nap during games (Georgia's eight-overtime win over Georgia Tech in 2024 was especially challenging).

Stackhouse originally attended Martin Luther King Jr. High in Lithonia, Ga., as a freshman and played both ways on varsity as an offensive tackle and defensive lineman. He transferred for his sophomore season to Stephenson High in Stone Mountain, Ga., and started on the defensive line in 2017. As a junior, Stackhouse helped Stephenson to a 9-2 record and the 2018 6A regional championship and earned second-team all-state honors. He transferred after the 2018 season to Columbia High, where he earned 2019 first-team all-state and the region's defensive player of the year award as a senior. In order to stay conditioned, he joined the swimming team as a freshman and sophomore, then gave basketball a try as a junior. He also lettered in track and had personal bests of 42 feet, 8 inches in the shot put and 128-7 in the discus. Stackhouse also competed in the 100 meters (top time of 13.14 seconds).

A four-star recruit, Stackhouse was the 27th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 25 recruit in Georgia. His recruitment started to take off during his sophomore season, when he received offers from Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Ohio State and Tennessee. But his proximity to Athens led him to commit to head coach Kirby Smart in December 2017 — he was the first commit of Georgia's 2020 class. However, Stackhouse kept his options open and took official visits to Auburn, Georgia Tech and others. He was close to flipping to Tennessee during his senior season but stayed committed to Georgia (following Decatur native Devonte Wyatt was a big factor). Stackhouse was the 16th-ranked recruit in Smart's 2020 class (three spots behind quarterback Carson Beck). He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Athens for a fifth season. Stackhouse accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/0)	3	0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (10/0)	9	2	1	0	0	0
2022: (15/15)	33	3	0	0	0	0	Blocked FG
2023: (14/14)	24	3	2	0	2	1	Second Team All-SEC
2024: (14/13)	27	1	0	0	1	0
Total: (59/42)	96	9	3	0	3	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6036	327	10 1/4	32 1/2	78 1/8	5.15	3.01	1.80	27 1/2	8' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6035	325	10 1/2	32 5/8	79 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.85	7.65	27

STRENGTHS:

- Big, stout athlete and carries his weight well
- Powerful at point of attack to stack the line of scrimmage
- Tough object to move in the run game
- Good contact balance to squeeze gaps; body control to cut back against blocks
- Delivers a thump when he wants to reestablish the line of scrimmage
- Used to dealing with extra attention from offenses
- Adequate quickness at the snap and puts hustle plays on tape
- Explodes through ball carriers as heavy tackler

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't take advantage of one-on-one opportunities when he gets them
- Lacks explosive element to his game to surprise blockers
- Too methodical in his process — want to see him amp up violence and power
- Has some range to work down the line but tends to lose sight of ball carrier on the move
- Doesn't reach backfield often and needs to finish tackles when he gets there
- Diagnosed with narcolepsy, which he needs to monitor
- Missed time during 2021 season, including national championship game vs. Alabama, because of plantar fasciitis

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Georgia, Stackhouse played nose tackle in head coach Kirby Smart's hybrid fronts, lining up primarily over the center. NFL teams quickly became familiar with him after he emerged as a dominant run defender on the Bulldogs' 2022 national title-winning team, even though he was used as more of a pawn in the scheme to take up space.

Stackhouse is power-packed and tough to displace in the middle of the line. Though he is appropriately named (because he probably could stack a house), his shed isn't as impressive — you'd like to see him play more physically against single blocks and bring a little more juice as a backfield disruptor. Overall, Stackhouse is a naturally powerful human who can two-gap, eat up double teams and make run stops at the line. He will add early-down nose tackle depth to an NFL defense.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

DT27 Jared Harrison-Hunte

SMU, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Middle Village, NY	Christ the King	Jul 22, 2000	24.76	6033	290	#81

BACKGROUND: Jared Harrison-Hunte grew up in Brooklyn, N.Y., with his parents. He watched football on TV with his dad growing up but didn't play — he was a basketball player throughout childhood (Harrison-Hunte: "I always loved football, I just wasn't around it."). Harrison-Hunte enrolled at Christ the King High, a Catholic school in Middle Village in Queens, where he continued playing basketball. Going into his junior year, he joined the football team after persistent suggestions from his friends. Harrison-Hunte lined up on the defensive line and at tight end and immediately fell in love with the sport, because of the controlled aggression. Christ the King finished winless (0-8) in his first year, but Harrison-Hunte created buzz, especially on offense (23 catches for 227 yards), where he earned second-team all-league honors. As a senior, Harrison-Hunte continued to develop on defense and earned first-team all-league with 45 tackles and three sacks, as the team finished 1-7.

A three-star recruit, Harrison-Hunte was the 38th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in New York. He received basketball scholarship offers from Iona and several Division II schools. After his junior season (his first playing football), though, the next six months were a recruiting whirlwind and cinched his permanent move to football. Harrison-Hunte received his first scholarship offer in February 2018 from Cincinnati, followed by offers from nearby Rutgers and Syracuse. Soon after, several national programs took notice, and he added offers from SEC (Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Ole Miss, Tennessee, Texas A&M) and Big Ten (Michigan, Ohio State, Penn State) powers.

But a late push by Manny Diaz and the Miami coaching staff swayed Harrison-Hunte to commit to the Hurricanes on signing day. He was the seventh-ranked recruit in Diaz's 2019 class. After five seasons in the program as a part-time player, Harrison-Hunte entered the transfer portal and committed to SMU for his sixth season, rejoining former Miami assistant coach Rhett Lashlee. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (1/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Miami; redshirted; enrolled July 2019
2020: (8/1)	17	6.0	3.0	1	0	0	Miami; blocked FG
2021: (11/8)	19	7.5	2.0	0	1	0	Miami
2022: (9/2)	16	4.0	2.0	0	0	0	Miami
2023: (13/11)	26	3.0	2.0	0	0	0	Miami
2024: (14/14)	42	8.5	6.5	0	1	1	SMU; First Team All-ACC; enrolled in May 2024
Total: (56/36)	120	29.0	15.5	1	2	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6033	290	9 1/8	33	79 1/2	4.86	2.82	1.69	32	9' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6031	290	9 1/2	33 3/8	79 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.65	7.76	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Former basketball athlete and comfortable in space
- Springs forward out of stance to create knockback with his hands when he times the snap
- Can make himself skinny as a gap slasher when working across widened guard
- Immature hands, but his swipes have juice behind them
- Quick lateral step and arm-over move to slip through gaps for fun stuffs
- Able to control point of attack when he uses proper bend and stack technique
- Reads backfield well to retrace or work down and find the ball carrier
- Motor says revved whenever he is on the field (43.9 defensive snaps per game in 2024)

WEAKNESSES:

- More narrow than wide — body type won't be ideal for every scheme
- Flashes suddenness but doesn't always show it as a pass rusher
- Pads get tall quickly, which negates ability to stay under blocks and create movement
- Inconsistent snap anticipation against the run
- Plays with functional length but can be neutralized when he doesn't use extension to create separation
- Hands stay active, but they still have developing to do
- Will be 25 as a rookie

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at SMU, Harrison-Hunte was a two-/three-technique defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Scott Symons four-man base. Late to the game of football, he was a steady part of Miami's defensive line rotation before blossoming at SMU — especially over the final month of the Mustangs' run to the playoffs (six of 8.5 sacks came in the final four games).

As a pass rusher, Harrison-Hunte plays well on his feet, with the initial quickness and upfield mentality to force his way through gaps. He reads well versus the run, although zone-based runs and point-of-attack power in the NFL will be a much tougher challenge. Overall, Harrison-Hunte might not be an ideal body/style fit for every defense, but he is explosive, active and promising in enough areas on the field to earn a rotational role in an attacking, one-gapping scheme.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

DT28 Warren Brinson

Georgia, 5SR

HOMETOWN Savannah, GA	HIGH SCHOOL IMG Academy	BIRTHDAY Feb 04, 2002	AGE 23.22	HT 6052	WT 315	NUM #97
--------------------------	----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Warren Brinson, who has two younger sisters (Taylor and Caroline), was born and raised in Savannah, Ga., with his mother (Monik). He started organized sports at age 4 and often spent time at Habersham YMCA throughout childhood. Brinson gravitated toward football starting at the pee-wee level and continued playing in youth leagues. Since leaving for college, he has returned to Savannah multiple times to help run free youth football camps, including his own defensive line clinic. Brinson is also a hunter, fisherman and amateur pilot (flew his first plane in July 2024).

In sixth grade, he enrolled at Savannah Christian Preparatory School and spent five years there. After earning a spot on varsity as a freshman, he collected all-region honors with 41 tackles and 2.5 sacks as a sophomore defensive lineman, helping the team to a 6-5 record and playoff appearance. After his sophomore season, football powerhouse IMG Academy in Bradenton, Fla., reached out with interest — Brinson didn't take it seriously, because of the cost of attending. In the summer of 2018, however, his mother applied for multiple scholarships and surprised him with the opportunity to attend IMG Academy for his final two high school years. He was teammates there with several future NFL draft picks, including safety DJ Turner and edge rusher Nolan Smith. As a junior in 2018, Brinson posted 27 tackles, seven tackles for loss and 2.5 sacks. As a senior, he helped the team to a 9-1 record with 30 tackles, 6.5 tackles for loss and three sacks. Brinson joined the track team in the spring of his sophomore year and had personal bests of 38 feet, 10 inches in the shot put and 86-2 in the discus.

A four-star recruit, Brinson was the 30th-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and No. 51 recruit in Florida. He had a strong performance at a summer Georgia camp in July 2018, and within a few days of enrolling at IMG, received a scholarship offer from head coach Kirby Smart. Brinson officially committed to the Bulldogs toward the end of his junior season but changed his mind a few months later and reopened his recruitment. He entertained offers from Alabama, Auburn, Clemson, Florida, Miami, South Carolina and others before recommitting to Georgia (July 2019). Brinson was the 18th-ranked recruit in Smart's 2020 class, which also included Jalen Carter, Broderick Jones, Tate Ratledge, Ladd McConkey and Carson Beck. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Athens for his fifth season. Brinson accepted an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	3	0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (12/0)	9	2	1	0	0	0
2022: (15/0)	12	3	1	0	0	0
2023: (13/4)	21	3	2	0	1	0	Missed two games (left ankle)
2024: (12/4)	26	6	2	0	0	0
Total: (59/8)	71	14	6	0	1	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6052	315	10 3/8	33 1/2	80 7/8	5.09	2.93	1.75	31	9' 7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6056	316	10 1/2	33 1/4	80 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.64	DNP	27

STRENGTHS:

- Looks like an NFL player with his height, build and length
- Athletic for his size, including flexibility in his knees and ankles
- Plays with battle-ready hands and uses various swipe/rip moves to clear path to the pocket
- Flashes a decent bull rush when he stays low into contact
- Shows off body control on twists and games
- Pays attention to gap responsibilities through lateral engagements
- His ability to quickly redirect in pursuit helps him get hands on the ball carrier
- Self-described "biggest personality" on Georgia roster and hosts several podcasts

WEAKNESSES:

- Average reaction time at the snap
- Not a player who will win off the ball or capture the edge consistently
- Plays high as a pass rusher, which hurts his ability to collapse
- Inconsistent secondary rush activity
- Doesn't play with power behind his hands to always control the point
- Want to see him finish more run plays and boost production
- Played just three snaps in 2024 season opener before leaving with a left ankle contusion, which sidelined him the following two games

SUMMARY: A part-time starter at Georgia, Brinson played across the defensive line in head coach Kirby Smart's hybrid fronts, lining up at the 4i-technique, sliding down to the nose in bear looks and aligning everywhere in between. His defensive snap count increased each of his five seasons in Athens, and he put steady play on tape — despite a stat sheet that won't draw the eye.

Brinson is fairly stout against the run and works to keep his arms locked out to find the ball and create stuffs. He has explosive moments when he is given the freedom to pursue the pocket, but he'll need to be better with his hands and overall rush plan to get NFL blockers off balance. Overall, Brinson flashes NFL-level play with his ability to get off blocks and force his way through gaps, but excitement over his talent needs to be tempered by his sporadic impact. He offers intriguing tools in an NFL-ready body.

GRADE: 6th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Gifford, FL	Sebastian River	Aug 09, 2002	22.71	6040	306	#50

BACKGROUND: Timothy "Tim" Smith grew up near the Atlantic coast in eastern Florida with his mother (Ethel). He played sports throughout childhood and was a standout power hitter on the baseball diamond as a first baseman and outfielder (also played the triangle in his middle school band). Smith was unable to play youth football throughout middle school, because of weight restrictions.

Smith enrolled at Sebastian River High, where he was a three-sport athlete. He became a starter on varsity as a sophomore and played up and down the defensive line, earning honorable mention all-county honors. As a 350-pound junior nose tackle, Smith helped the team to a winning record and boosted his recruiting profile. He dropped weight for his senior season and was named the 6A district player of the year (98 tackles, 32 tackles for loss, 14 sacks and six forced fumbles). Smith also lettered in basketball at Sebastian River and joined the track team — he quickly developed into one of the top throwers in the area. He placed first in the 2018 district championships in the discus and shot put and advanced to states as a sophomore and junior. Smith finished with personal bests of 171 feet, 3 inches in the discus and 51-10 in the shot put.

A four-star recruit, Smith was the eighth-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 11 recruit in Florida. In the few months after his sophomore season, the offers started to pour in, including from Alabama, Florida State, Georgia, Miami, Nebraska, Oregon and South Carolina. The summer before his senior season, Smith narrowed his choice to Alabama, Clemson and Florida, and he committed to the Crimson Tide in July 2019. The Gators stayed persistent, but Smith stuck to his pledge and signed with former head coach Nick Saban. Smith was the fourth-ranked recruit in Saban's 2020 class (behind Bryce Young, Will Anderson Jr. and Drew Sanders). He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his fifth season. Smith graduated with a degree in sport management (Dec. 2023). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (9/0)	14	2.5	1.0	1	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (15/2)	24	4.0	0.5	0	1	0
2022: (13/7)	20	2.5	1.0	0	0	0
2023: (14/10)	31	2.0	2.0	0	0	0
2024: (13/13)	35	3.5	2.0	0	1	0
Total: (64/32)	124	14.5	6.5	1	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6043	302	10 3/8	33	81 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6040	306	10 1/2	32 7/8	81 7/8	5.14	2.93	1.82	23	8'2"	4.69	7.75	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- NFL frame, with solid height and thickness
- Shows a feel for maximizing his length to work around blocks
- Has some bend, which allows him to play square and low
- Able to post up — and respond to — different types of blocks
- Plays hard but also has body control to adjust on the move to make tackles
- Bear hugs ball carriers with his constricting wingspan, making missed tackles rare
- Doesn't have deep tool box but knows how to mix up rush attack
- Played in double-digit games each of his five college seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Moves well enough, but I wouldn't classify him as explosive or sudden
- Run-game leverage tends to be inconsistent, giving blocker the upper hand
- Can do a better job turning over his feet to stay tied to twists and stunts
- Lacks true go-to move or effective set of secondary moves
- Needs to cut down on the waste and streamline attack
- Below-average career backfield production

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Alabama, Smith was a versatile defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Kane Wommack's 4-2-5 base scheme, lining up from the one-technique to the edge and everywhere in between. With a combined 65 games played over the past five seasons, he carried himself like a veteran and did what was asked of him up until the very end (the 2024 bowl matchup against Michigan, which was probably his best game).

Smith is big and strong. He has a feel for using his length and feet to execute his assignments, which often means setting edges and defending multiple gaps. His process as a pass rusher lacks efficiency (as evidenced by his 6.5 career sacks), but you rarely see him miss tackles when he gets a crack at the ball. Overall, Smith's stat production doesn't indicate an impactful player, but he consistently flashes on tape with the traits and assignment-sound mentality that suggest he can be a role player in the NFL.

GRADE: 6th round

DT30 Eric Gregory

Arkansas, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Memphis, TN	IMG Academy	Sep 13, 2000	24.61	6032	319	#50

BACKGROUND: Eric Gregory, who has an older sister (Aariona), grew up in the Memphis, Tenn., area with his mother (Aneesah Wallace). His father recently died. When he was young, Gregory saw his older cousin play football and couldn't wait to get on the field. He first played for the Pee Wee Renegades, which is when he "fell in love" with the sport. He started out as a quarterback, running back, wide receiver and linebacker and received some reps along the offensive line in middle school.

Gregory initially attended Memphis Central High, where he was a two-year varsity letterman. Lining up on the defensive line as a sophomore, he helped the program go 10-2 and capture the 2016 district championship. Gregory posted 56 tackles, 16 tackles for loss and 12 sacks as a junior, earning all-conference honors. For his senior season, Gregory transferred to IMG Academy, the football powerhouse in Bradenton, Fla., where he was teammates with numerous FBS recruits, including future first-round picks Evan Neal and Nolan Smith. Gregory posted 17 tackles, 3.5 tackles for loss and 1.5 sacks as a senior in 2018, as he helped IMG finish with a 7-1 record.

A three-star recruit, Gregory was the 33rd-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 55 recruit in Florida. He received heavy SEC interest the summer before his junior season, including offers from Arkansas, Auburn, Ole Miss and Tennessee. Instead, he committed to his hometown Memphis, in order to stay close to family. However, Gregory's move to IMG gave him a broader perspective about being outside his comfort zone, and he decommitted in May 2018. He added offers from LSU, South Carolina and a few others before committing to Arkansas, mostly because of defensive coordinator John Chavis. He was the 21st-ranked recruit in former head coach Chad Morris' 2019 class.

Gregory took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Fayetteville for his sixth season. He twice earned SEC Academic Honor Roll and graduated with a degree from Arkansas. Gregory opted out of Arkansas' 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl. His daughter (Aurora) was born in April 2024.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (2/0)	4	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled January 2019
2020: (9/7)	27	3.0	2.5	0	1	1	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/3)	27	4.0	1.0	0	1	0
2022: (13/10)	19	4.0	2.0	0	0	0
2023: (12/12)	16	2.5	1.0	0	1	0
2024: (12/12)	42	5.0	3.0	0	1	0	Missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (61/44)	135	18.5	9.5	0	4	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6032	319	9 5/8	33	81 1/4	5.14	2.96	1.76	27	9' 0"	4.97	7.68	28
PRO DAY	6030	316	9 3/4	33 1/4	80	DNP	DNP	DNP	27 1/2	DNP	4.64	7.72	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Looks like an NFL player, with his naturally wide frame and length
- Plays square and gap-sound in the run game
- Flashes power in upper body to punch and hold the edge
- Nice mix of arm-overs, swims and body turns to work his way through gaps
- Consistent tackle finisher, when he gets his hands on the ball carrier
- Steady run-game motor to stay in the hunt
- Dependable, with NFL-ready experience (61 games played in SEC)

WEAKNESSES:

- Not dynamic enough to impress with initial quickness
- Hands flash violence, just not consistently enough
- Didn't affect the quarterback once on several of his 2024 tapes studied
- Gets moved around too much by leverage-based blockers

- Struggles with balance through contact, especially when working laterally
- Can play ahead to avoid being reached but is late redirecting to backside gap
- Will turn 25 during rookie season

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Arkansas, Gregory lined up in a variety of roles on the interior of defensive coordinator Travis Williams' scheme. His production and impact improved each season in the SEC, including career bests as a senior leader of the Razorbacks' defensive line.

Gregory is a player who understands his role as a force player who can occupy space, fight through a crowd and pick away at the scraps. He occasionally shows life as a pass rusher (see 2024 Tennessee tape), but he needs to develop more of a plan, rather than simply overwhelming blockers. Overall, Gregory is an athletic-looking 320-pounder who has enough power to control the block in front of him, but he is more likely to be on the clean-up crew (rather than the defender creating disruption). He has the foundation of an early-down backup in the NFL.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

DT31

Elijah Simmons

Tennessee, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Memphis, TN	Pearl-Cohn	Jul 26, 2001	23.75	6010	334	#10

BACKGROUND: Elijah Simmons was born and raised in Memphis, Tenn., with his mother (Stephanie Halliburton) and father (Eric Simmons) before moving to Nashville at age 8. Simmons immediately connected with football while playing for the pee wee Patriots. He continued playing throughout middle school as a running back. Simmons also discovered a love for singing as a kid (his Tennessee teammates said he was the best singer on the team). He grew up singing in the church choir and later was a member of his high school a cappella group, "Fab Five."

During his senior year of high school, Simmons and several other top high school players from the Nashville area were recognized on stage during the 2019 NFL Draft, which led to a tweet from J.J. Watt: "Can we draft (No.) 72 from the Tennessee Metro High School team? Kid looks like a beast."

Simmons enrolled at Pearl-Cohn Entertainment Magnet High in Nashville, alma mater of former Tennessee first-round defensive tackle John Henderson. He was a four-year varsity letterman and helped Pearl-Cohn to four straight regional championships while playing both ways as an offensive guard and defensive tackle. After posting 36 tackles as a sophomore, Simmons earned all-region honors as a junior in 2017 with 49 tackles. As a senior, he was named the regional defensive MVP (54 tackles, 10 tackles for loss, two sacks, one forced fumble and one interception, which he returned 55 yards for a touchdown). At 6-foot-1 and 335 pounds, Simmons started dunking as a senior in high school. He also lettered in track and won the 2018 state championships in the shot put and discus, then repeated as state champ in the shot put as a senior. Simmons set school records in both events: 54 feet, 4 inches in the shot put, 156-10 in the discus.

A three-star recruit, Simmons was the 41st-ranked defensive tackle in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 16 recruit in Tennessee. He received a handful of FCS offers after his junior season, including from Southern, Tennessee State and UT Martin. Simmons picked up FBS offers from Memphis and Missouri and added a coveted offer from Tennessee (June 2018). He committed to former Volunteers head coach Jeremy Pruitt and was the 15th-ranked player in Tennessee's 2019 class (Darnell Wright was No. 1). Simmons took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Knoxville for his sixth season. He graduated with a degree in communication studies (Dec. 2023).

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (3/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted
2020: (10/2)	10	0.0	0.0	0	1	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (7/4)	11	1.5	0.0	0	1	0	Missed six games (injury)
2022: (13/0)	8	1.0	0.0	0	0	0
2023: (9/0)	19	3.0	0.5	0	1	0	Missed four games (injury)
2024: (13/2)	11	1.5	0.0	0	0	0
Total: (55/8)	59	7.0	0.5	0	3	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6010	334	10 1/4	32 3/4	80	5.37	3.11	1.87	32	8'10"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6010	327	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8'10"	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Built like a fire hydrant — wide hips/shoulders and short, stocky frame
- Immovable when he minds his leverage and lowers center of gravity
- Fires out of stance to surprise blockers
- Balanced through contact and stays off the ground
- Uses violent hands to attack down the middle of single blocks and play both gaps

- Strong post leg and battles back against doubles to hold his ground
- Flashes suggest there is upside available with more steady playing time

WEAKNESSES:

- Averaged just 14.4 snaps per game in 2024
- Late to discard blocks and be in position to make tackles
- Doesn't consistently maximize length advantage
- Bull rush stalls out too quickly (created only one pressure in 2024)
- Pass-rush counters are nonexistent
- Uncommonly low on-field production, considering his games played
- Missed 10 games between his 2021 and 2023 seasons because of injuries
- Will be 24 as a rookie

SUMMARY: A part-time player at Tennessee, Simmons lined up as the one-/2i-technique defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Tim Banks' four-man front. Part of a heavy rotation, his career production over 55 games (59 tackles, seven tackles for loss, 0.5 sack) would be considered average for just one season — he logged a paltry 840 defensive snaps in six years.

When you grade to the flashes, you see a disruptive force who explodes out of his hips to create knockback, control the point of attack and cause 10-car pileups at the line. But his pass rush is non-existent, and his lack of overall production reflects the inconsistent levels of play to his game. Overall, Simmons has the natural body girth to grow roots and play stout against down blocks and double teams, but he will need to prove to NFL coaching that he can handle more of a workload to lock down a roster spot. He projects as an early-down nose.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

DT32 Tonka Hemingway

South Carolina, 5SR

HOMETOWN Conway, SC	HIGH SCHOOL Conway	BIRTHDAY Oct 31, 2001	AGE 23.48	HT 6027	WT 284	NUM #91
------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Terrell "Tonka" Hemingway, the youngest of four children, was born and raised in Conway, S.C. (15 minutes from Myrtle Beach), with his parents (Kenneth and Lena). His father gave him the nickname "Tonka," because of his reckless play style as a kid. Tonka grew up in an athletic family — all three of his older siblings received scholarships to continue playing sports after high school. His older brother (Junior) played wide receiver at Michigan and was drafted in the seventh round (No. 238) of the 2012 NFL Draft before spending three seasons with the Kansas City Chiefs (2012-14). His older sister (Shamae) played college basketball at Coker University and is the assistant principal at Conway High. His older sister (Janecia) was an all-state basketball and softball player in high school and played college softball at Francis Marion (2019-22).

Tonka was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, including baseball, basketball and football and was trained by his father. Starting at age 6, Hemingway watched his older brother play at Michigan, which only fueled his football passion even more. Like his three older siblings, Hemingway attended Conway High, where he played on offense (tight end), defense (defensive end) and special teams (punter). As a sophomore, he helped the team to a 10-win season and the 2017 regional title (49 tackles, six sacks and one forced fumble). Hemingway had his breakout season as a junior with 60 tackles, 20 tackles for loss and three sacks, earning all-state honors. As a senior (his second season as a captain), he was named first-team all-state (92 tackles, 24 tackles for loss and four sacks). Hemingway also lettered in baseball and basketball. He was a power-hitting first baseman and pitcher on the diamond, and he earned first-team all-state honors on the basketball court while leading Conway to the lower state basketball finals for the first time in school history.

A four-star recruit, Hemingway was the 32nd-ranked defensive tackle in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in South Carolina. He received his first offer from former head coach Will Muschamp and his home state Gamecocks in April 2017. Throughout his sophomore season, he drew interest from other top programs, such as Alabama, Clemson and Georgia. Hemingway visited North Carolina and other schools, but he was always drawn to South Carolina and committed the summer before his senior year. He was the eighth-ranked recruit in Muschamp's 2020 class and signed as a defensive end before moving to the interior as a sophomore. Hemingway took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his fifth season.

He was a four-time member of the SEC Academic Honor Roll and graduated with a degree in public health (Dec. 2023). Hemingway represented South Carolina on the NCAA's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC) for three years (2022-24). He accepted an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (10/3)	16	1.0	0.0	1	2	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (13/0)	6	0.0	0.0	0	0	0
2022: (13/9)	33	8.0	4.0	0	1	0	Led team in sacks; 2-point rushing conversion; 16-yard reception on fake field goal
2023: (12/5)	32	4.5	1.5	0	7	0	2-yard rushing TD
2024: (13/11)	25	4.0	4.0	1	1	0	36-yard fumble return TD
Total: (61/28)	112	17.5	9.5	2	11	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6027	284	9	33	80 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	32	9'4"	4.48	7.36	DNP
PRO DAY	6027	282	9	33 3/8	80 1/4	5.02	2.87	1.65	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, bench (choice)

STRENGTHS:

- Active big man with body control and lateral mobility
- Teammates say he is the best basketball player on the team
- Can be a wrecking ball with initial momentum off the snap
- Effort prevents big plays and is one of the main takeaways from his tape
- Mixes up rush attack with spins, clubs and swims; effective on stunts
- Shows pad level in the run game
- Teammates and coaches give strong feedback on his work ethic
- Played in double-digit games each of past five seasons; toughs out minor injuries

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks ideal frame and girth for the interior
- Can be bumped or tossed off spot in both the run and pass game
- More strong than powerful — struggles to withstand force
- Rushes tall and will be denied gaps
- Struggles to regain rush momentum once initially stopped
- Plays hard but hands/moves need more violence to help him escape blocks
- Unreliable tackler — needs to be a better finisher once he makes contact

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at South Carolina, Hemingway worked up and down the line of scrimmage in defensive coordinator Clayton White's four-man front. As part of one of the deepest defensive lines in college football, he lined up in multiple spots and showed that he could make an impact from across the line. With three older siblings who also were college athletes, Hemingway developed his competitive toughness at a young age — that toughness is evident in the way he works to stay involved in plays.

Undersized for interior work, he can be jarred off balance once engaged and tossed to the ground, so NFL offenses won't hesitate to run at him. Overall, Hemingway probably isn't going to have a ton of success as a pure take-on player in the NFL, but he moves well for his size and has a feel for keeping himself freed up to chase the football. His best fit will be in a scheme that helps keep him clean, potentially outside on the edge.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

DT33 Zeek Biggers

Georgia Tech, 4SR

HOMETOWN Salisbury, NC	HIGH SCHOOL West Rowan	BIRTHDAY Oct 04, 2003	AGE 21.55	HT 6054	WT 321	NUM #88
---------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Andre "Zeek" Biggers, the youngest of three children, grew up in Salisbury, N.C. (midway between Greensboro and Charlotte), with his mother (Kelly Taylor). Following in his older brother's footsteps, he started playing football at age 5 and, aside from some time at running back, was primarily a lineman. Because of his size (11 pounds at birth), Biggers had to play up a grade level throughout youth football. Biggers also used his size on the basketball court — he started dunking in sixth grade. His uncle (Raymond Taylor) played tight end at Western Carolina (1986-90); his cousin (Dominique Noble) played at West Rowan High before signing as a defensive back with Georgia Tech in 2011.

Biggers also enrolled at West Rowan, where he was a multisport standout over his four years. He was introduced to varsity action as a freshman and played both ways as an offensive tackle and defensive tackle, although he stood out on defense. Biggers had his breakout season as a sophomore (85 tackles, nine tackles for loss, 2.5 sacks and two forced fumbles). He helped West Rowan to a nine-win season as a junior in 2019, then played his senior season in the spring of 2021 because of the COVID-19 pandemic (earned all-state honors both seasons). Biggers started on the West Rowan basketball team and earned all-county honors as a senior, averaging 8.2 points and 8.1 rebounds per game. He also lettered in baseball and track over his time in high school and was named homecoming king as a senior.

A three-star recruit, Biggers was the 259th-ranked defensive lineman in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 83 recruit in North Carolina. He picked up his first offer midway through his junior season from Liberty, followed by offers from Georgia State and Georgia Tech. Biggers took a visit to Georgia Tech in March 2020 and was on campus the same day quarantine started because of the COVID-19 pandemic. He added offers from East Carolina, NC State, Old Dominion and Temple but connected with the Georgia Tech coaches and committed in May 2020. Biggers was the 16th-ranked recruit in former head coach Geoff Collins' 2021 class. He graduated with a degree in logistics, materials and supply chain management (Dec. 2024). Biggers accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (9/0)	9	0.5	0	0	0	0	Enrolled June 2021
2022: (12/0)	32	1.0	0	0	1	0	Blocked FG
2023: (13/13)	40	4.0	1	0	3	0	Blocked FG
2024: (13/13)	23	3.5	1	0	3	0	Honorable Mention All-ACC; 2 Blocked FGs
Total: (47/26)	104	9.0	2	0	7	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6054	321	10 1/4	34 7/8	85 1/8	5.09	2.93	1.74	34 1/2	9' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6054	322	10 1/2	35 3/4	84 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9'5"	4.75	7.91	22

STRENGTHS:

- Elite frame and length — largest wingspan of any defensive player at combine
- Can force way through gaps when he finds the football and uses proper pad level
- Flashes raw power to dent depth of the pocket
- Blocked three field goals over the past two seasons
- Still young — played first college game at 17
- Weighed 363 pounds when he enrolled but dropped some weight and stayed conditioned
- Durable — played every game past three seasons, including 26 straight starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Better traits than impact suggests over course of a game
- Undisciplined hands when attempting to shed in the run game or as a rusher
- Lacks true burst at the snap to play in gaps
- Late to access counters and ends up stalled out
- Missed tackles all over the place — struggles to settle and finish
- Finished with single-digit tackles for loss over 47 games in college

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Georgia Tech, Biggers was an interchangeable defensive tackle in former defensive coordinator Tyler Santucci's fronts, lining up primarily as the one-/three-technique. While averaging just 28.9 defensive snaps per game in 2024, he was an early-down player (81.2 percent of his snaps came on first or second down). He also found a way to impact special teams — he had more blocked field goals (four) in his career than sacks (two). Biggers passes the eye test with flying colors and flashes with spurts of power to create knockback or force his momentum through gaps. He can handle himself against doubles but doesn't have the quickness through single blocks to extend his range.

Overall, Biggers is appropriately named — his size and ability look good on paper. The traits, however, need to translate better on the field for him to consistently impact the game. He has the tools to fit in even or odd fronts.

GRADE: 7th round

DT34 Howard Cross III

Notre Dame, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Paramus, NJ	St. Joseph	Jul 31, 2001	23.73	6013	283	#56

BACKGROUND: Howard Cross III, who has a twin sister (Isabella), was born and raised in upper New Jersey with his parents (Howard Cross Jr. and Pia). His father played tight end for Alabama (1985-88) and was inducted into the Alabama Hall of Fame in 2010. He was drafted in the sixth round (No. 158) of the 1989 NFL Draft and played his entire 13-year NFL career with the New York Giants, winning Super Bowl XXV in 1991. He finished his career with 201 catches for 2,194 receiving yards and 17 touchdowns over 207 games (third most in franchise history behind only Michael Strahan and Eli Manning).

Despite growing up with a father who played in the NFL, Howard Cross III was encouraged to play every sport possible (baseball, basketball, lacrosse, golf, etc.) throughout childhood. But he gravitated toward football and played on the offensive and defensive lines throughout the youth levels. Even though his father didn't push football, he was an invaluable mentor for his son (Cross: "Everything I know, I learned from him. ... He has taught me everything.").

Cross lettered all four years at St. Joseph Regional High, a private all-boys school in Montvale. After playing both ways as a freshman, Cross moved exclusively to the defensive line as a sophomore and recorded 13 tackles for loss. He had his breakout season as a junior defensive end and nose tackle (103 tackles, 10 tackles for loss, 5.5 sacks and one forced fumble. As a senior, Cross led St. Joseph Regional to a 10-2 record and the 2018 state championship. He finished his final season with 76 tackles, 22 tackles for loss, 9.5 sacks and one forced fumble, earning first-team all-state and New Jersey Player of the Year honors.

A four-star recruit, Cross was the 20th-ranked strongside defensive end in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 7 recruit in New Jersey (one spot ahead of David Ojabo). Cross started to receive FBS scholarship offers after his sophomore season from programs such as Maryland, NC State and Rutgers. After receiving an offer from Notre Dame in April 2018, Cross took an official visit to South Bend and committed to the Irish over Duke and Michigan. He was the 14th-ranked recruit in former head coach Brian Kelly's 2019 class (behind RB Kyren Williams and DE Isaiah Foskey). Cross took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to South Bend for his sixth season. Cross earned an undergraduate degree and recently finished a master's degree in nonprofit management.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	7	0.0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (12/0)	13	0.0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/2)	22	4.5	3	0	0	0
2022: (12/7)	33	2.5	2	1	1	0
2023: (13/13)	66	7.0	2	2	2	0	Second Team All-American
2024: (13/13)	28	5.5	4	0	1	0	Second Team All-American; missed three games (left ankle); team captain
Total: (66/35)	169	19.5	11	3	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6013	285	10 1/2	32 1/4	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	29	8' 8"	DNP	DNP	DNP	Jumps only (choice)
PRO DAY	6013	283	10 1/2	32 1/2	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	8'11"	4.63	7.53	24

STRENGTHS:

- Agile out of stance to cross the face of blockers and force way through gaps
- Short-area quickness helps him redirect in small spaces to finish tackles
- Times snap well as a pass rusher
- Plays with balance at contact to keep his eyes up and feet underneath him
- Leverages strength to create movement
- Violent, forceful hands, with a high activity level
- Doesn't quit, quickly shifting to Plans B, C and D when Plan A doesn't work
- Strong work ethic, in the classroom and on the field (former defensive coordinator Al Golden: "He prepares and practices at a high level.")
- Voted a 2024 team captain (NFL scout: "His dad played a dozen years in the league and is an even better person, so I know his son grew up with a great role model.")
- His 66 career games played ranks second most in Notre Dame history

WEAKNESSES:

- Squatty, unorthodox body (NFL scout: "Just doesn't have an NFL body. ... Look around on Sundays, not many guys like him.")
- Can get blown off the ball by powerful angle blocks, clearing run room up the gut
- More likely to end up where blockers want, rather than the other way around
- Struggles to press off blocks once engaged
- Counter measures are based more on effort than technique
- Doesn't know the meaning of the word "quit" — but often exerts a lot of effort without going anywhere
- Missed three games as a super senior because of a left ankle injury (Nov. 2024)
- Doesn't have stat-sheet production that gets you excited

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Notre Dame, Cross played three-technique defensive tackle in former defensive coordinator Al Golden's four-man front. He was a buzzworthy prospect during the 2023 season, especially after a remarkable performance vs. Duke (13 tackles, 3.5 tackles for loss), but his body of work wasn't nearly as exciting on the 2024 tape (pressures created dropped from three per game in 2023 to 1.7 in 2024).

A highly active athlete, Cross creates flash plays with his short-area burst to slice gaps and find the football. He keeps his candle lit while playing a lot of snaps, but he struggles to counter against both run and pass and often stalls out once he meets block resistance. Overall, Cross has the initial quickness, lateral agility and handwork to play in gaps, although he tends to be reliant on his first step and has too much volatility on his run-defending snaps. He competes his butt off and has upside as a sub-package gap shooter.

GRADE: 7th round

DT35 Sean Martin

West Virginia, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Bluefield, WV	Bluefield	Jan 05, 2002	23.30	6054	293	#5

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (13/0)	15	0.5	0.0	0	0	0
2022: (12/8)	34	8.0	4.0	1	0	0
2023: (13/13)	27	5.0	1.0	0	0	0	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; Blocked FG; Graduated with degree in sport management (Dec. 2023)
2024: (13/13)	23	5.5	3.5	0	1	0	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; changed jersey number to honor friend who died (Tony Webster)
Total: (56/34)	99	19.0	8.5	1	1	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6054	293	10 5/8	35	84 1/2	4.88	2.82	1.69	28 1/2	9' 4"	DNP	7.38	28	No shuttle (choice)
PRO DAY	6053	289	10 3/4	35 1/4	84 1/4	4.94	2.85	1.64	29	DNP	4.59	7.38	DNP

SUMMARY: Sean Martin, one of seven children, grew up with his parents (David Leggett and Torie Martin). He was an all-state basketball player and all-state defensive end at Bluefield High, and he did battle against Zach Frazier when Bluefield faced rival Fairmont. A three-star recruit, Martin initially committed to North Carolina but later flipped to his home state West Virginia, partially because of Frazier's influence. He filled out his frame over the last five years and was used across the defensive line, which showed his versatility, but I don't think he found a true "home" position.

His lackluster production reflects his overall impact, but he has the frame and movement traits that flash against both pass and run — he just needs to translate the talent into more consistency. Overall, Martin is a durable player (played every game the past four seasons), with above-average length and body twitch. It won't be a surprise if he becomes a better pro than college player, likely in a 4i-/five-technique role.

GRADE: FA

DT36 DeAndre Jules

South Carolina, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Germantown, MD	Northwest	May 08, 2001	23.96	6035	316	#99

BACKGROUND: DeAndre Jules, one of four children, grew up north of Washington D.C., with his mother (Sabrina). He received the nickname "Big Baby" in youth football, because of his size. He attended Northwest High in Germantown, Md., where he played as a defensive end and tight end. A four-year letterman, Jules flashed as a sophomore with a handful of sacks and three blocked kicks on special teams. Already receiving recruiting attention, he was poised for a productive junior year but tore his meniscus in the second game, which sidelined him for the rest of the 2017 season. Jules returned healthy as a senior and led Northwest to a 9-3 record and the 2018 regional title. The 250-pounder finished his final season with 59 tackles, 11 tackles for loss, 10 sacks, two forced fumbles and one blocked kick.

A three-star recruit, Jules was the 62nd-ranked weakside defensive end in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 13 recruit in Maryland. Despite missing most of his junior season, his recruitment picked up in the spring of 2018, when he received offers from Boston College, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Rutgers and Temple. He took an official visit over the summer to Pittsburgh and committed to head coach Pat Narduzzi. Jules was the 12th-ranked recruit in Pitt's 2019 class (same class as Calijah Kancey). He became a starter in his fifth season but decided to enter the transfer portal ahead of his sixth season, taking advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Jules enrolled at South Carolina for the 2024 season.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Pittsburgh; redshirted; enrolled July 2019
2020: (6/0)	6	1.5	0.5	0	0	0	Pittsburgh; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (7/0)	2	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Pittsburgh
2022: (12/0)	5	2.5	1.0	0	0	0	Pittsburgh; blocked PAT
2023: (12/6)	24	7.5	2.0	1	0	0	Pittsburgh
2024: (9/1)	15	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	South Carolina; blocked PAT; missed four games (left knee); enrolled January 2024
Total: (46/7)	52	11.5	3.5	1	0	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6035	316	8 3/4	34 1/4	83	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6033	315	9	34 1/2	82 5/8	5.26	3.03	1.79	24	8'5"	5.10	8.50	25

STRENGTHS:

- Owns an NFL frame, with long arms
- Strikes blockers with force behind his hands at the point of attack
- Can occasionally win with pure strength, driving defenders backwards
- Plays with surprising quickness for his size
- Able to dip and contort body when attempting to maneuver through gaps
- Out of control at times but can plant his foot and make sharp turns to adjust
- Short-area range in run game to work a gap over and lasso the runner

WEAKNESSES:

- Averaged just 15.7 defensive snaps per game in 2024
- Slow getting off blocks
- Plays high, making it easier for leveraged blockers to uproot him
- Game often moves too fast for his responses to blocking
- Inconsistent countermeasures to double teams
- Late piecing together rush plan during a play
- Poor career tackle and backfield production
- Missed four games as a super senior because of left knee injury (Oct. 2024); didn't look the same after return

SUMMARY: A part-time starter at South Carolina, Jules was a rotational defensive tackle in defensive coordinator Clayton White's four-man front, lining up primarily as a three-technique. A late bloomer who didn't become a starter until his fifth season of college football, he joined the Gamecocks for his final year but struggled to stand out on a deep defensive line, even before his midseason knee injury.

Jules aces the eye test. He has the size and lower-body quickness to factor into the play when he gets off the ball and puts himself in the right positions. However, he is often late to react to the blocking scheme and doesn't show enough urgency in his stack and shed. Overall, Jules doesn't have a proven track record of impacting the quarterback, but he is big, long and physical — and the NFL values big, long and physical players in the trenches. He is worth a late-round developmental flier and would be a candidate for a practice squad.

GRADE: FA

DT37 Kyonte Hamilton

Rutgers, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
District Heights, MD	Georgetown	Nov 07, 2002	22.46	6033	305	#48

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/1)	22	2	0	0	0	0	Also competed for wrestling team
2022: (12/12)	24	3	1	0	0	0
2023: (13/5)	28	1	1	0	0	0
2024: (13/13)	36	5	4	1	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (51/31)	110	11	6	1	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6033	305	9 1/4	32 1/8	79 3/8	5.02	2.87	1.70	29	9'2"	4.58	7.58	29

SUMMARY: Kyonte Hamilton grew up outside of Washington, D.C., and was introduced to football and wrestling by his father at age 5. He starred in both sports throughout middle school and at Georgetown Prep, playing both quarterback and linebacker on varsity. As a senior in 2020, he won a state and national championship wrestling in the 220-pound category. A three-star recruit in football, he was also one of the top wrestling recruits in the country and committed to Rutgers for both sports (gave up wrestling after the 2021 season). Hamilton played in every game the past four seasons and saved his best for his senior year (second on the team with 27 pressures).

You can see his wrestling background in his bend and hand strength, especially when he gets underneath blocks and imposes his will. He flashes twitch and fast hands off the snap, but his block recognition to be more of a playmaker in the run game is still developing. Overall, Hamilton is strong, explosive and durable. He's viewed as an ascending prospect by NFL teams.

GRADE: FA

DT38 Junior Tafuna

Utah, 5SR

HOMETOWN Taylorsville, UT	HIGH SCHOOL Bingham	BIRTHDAY Feb 27, 2001	AGE 24.15	HT 6034	WT 308	NUM #58
------------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/11)	33	5.5	4.5	0	1	0	Pac-12 Freshman Defensive POY
2022: (14/14)	27	3.5	1.0	0	2	1	Second Team All-Pac-12
2023: (11/11)	17	3.0	1.5	1	2	0	Second Team All-Pac-12
2024: (10/9)	31	3.0	0.5	0	4	1	Honorable Mention All-Big 12
Total: (48/45)	108	15.0	7.5	1	9	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6034	308	10 1/2	32 1/2	78 3/4	5.03	2.95	1.79	28 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	24	No BJ, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6030	299	10 5/8	33	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	29	8'3"	4.62	7.51	DNP

SUMMARY: Timote "Junior" Tafuna, one of five children, grew up with his parents (Timote and Mau). He led Bingham High to back-to-back 6A state titles his sophomore and junior seasons, posting 56 tackles and three interceptions as a 220-pound linebacker. A three-star recruit, he committed to Utah over BYU, Oregon and others. Before joining the Utes, he took a 2019 mission trip to Cape Verde as part of the Church of Latter-day Saints. He married his high school sweetheart (Olivia) in September 2020.

Tafuna added weight and transitioned to defensive tackle during his first year on campus, then started 45 games at the position the past four seasons. Despite some tightness in his movements, he does a nice job working laterally against the run and shows the recognition skills to sniff out and chase down screens. He doesn't have a diverse pass-rush plan but can surprise blockers with his upper-body strength. Overall, Tafuna can get moved when his pad level isn't right, but he creates knockback and controls his man when he rolls his hips into contact. He has a chance to carve out a depth role in the NFL.

GRADE: FA

DT39 Jahvaree Ritzie

North Carolina, 4SR

HOMETOWN Kernersville, NC	HIGH SCHOOL Glenn	BIRTHDAY Jan 31, 2003	AGE 22.23	HT 6043	WT 288	NUM #5
------------------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/1)	25	1.5	1.0	0	0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (14/7)	48	2.0	1.0	0	0	0
2023: (13/0)	25	0.5	0.5	1	1	0
2024: (12/12)	40	6.5	6.5	1	2	1	84-yard INT TD; graduated with degree (May 2024)
Total: (52/20)	138	10.5	9.0	2	3	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6042	294	10 1/4	33 1/4	81 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	35 1/2	9'6"	DNP	DNP	26	Jumps, bench only (choice)
PRO DAY	6043	288	10 1/2	33 1/4	81 3/4	5.00	2.81	1.70	36	9'6"	DNP	7.78	DNP

SUMMARY: Jahvaree Ritzie grew up with his mother (Kindra), a heptathlete at SUNY Brockport, and younger brother (Jahnaul), who competes in the shot put and discus at Charlotte. Jahvaree Ritzie was also a standout in track at Glenn High (personal best of 57 feet in the shot put), but his calling was on the football field — he had 18.5 tackles for loss as a junior. A four-star recruit, Ritzie stayed close to home, choosing North Carolina over LSU, Texas A&M and other SEC programs. After not starting as a junior, he posted career bests in backfield production in 2024. Ritzie is a unique athlete, because of his smooth movements and foot speed (ran relays in high school), which showed on an 84-yard pick six in 2024. But he stays hung up in the wash too long and struggles to disengage single blocks, often conceding ground to power-based run blockers. Overall, Ritzie flashes explosive power and short-area quickness, but he hasn't learned how to translate his talent to consistent production and impact, which could change with NFL coaching.

GRADE: FA

DT40 Nash Hutmacher

Nebraska, 5SR

HOMETOWN Oacoma, SD	HIGH SCHOOL Chamberlain	BIRTHDAY May 15, 2001	AGE 23.94	HT 6034	WT 312	NUM #0
------------------------	----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0
2022: (12/2)	15	0.5	0.0	0	0	0
2023: (12/12)	40	8.0	4.5	0	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (13/13)	24	4.0	2.0	1	0	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; graduated with degree in management (May 2024); East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (49/27)	79	12.5	6.5	1	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6034	312	9 1/2	31 3/4	76	5.20	2.95	1.79	29 12	9'3"	4.77	7.53	26

SUMMARY: Nash Hutmacher grew up in South Dakota, with his parents (Joe and Laura). He was a multisport star at Chamberlain High School, winning the state title in the shot put and discus, earning all-state on the defensive line and finishing as a four-time state champion wrestler with a 166-0 record (started practicing with the varsity team in sixth grade). A three-star recruit, he signed with Nebraska over Wisconsin and started the past two seasons at nose tackle. After the 2023 football season, he dropped 45 pounds, joined the Huskers' wrestling team and qualified for the NCAA wrestling championships. Nicknamed "The Polar Bear," Hutmacher translates several of his wrestling techniques to the football field, keying on leverage and hand placement to break down blocks. He is tight through his hips and rushes like he is wearing skates because of balance issues, which hinder the way he can affect the backfield. Overall, Hutmacher is a compact, sawed-off plugger with limitations, but stands out because of his power and competitive energy — which could earn him a reserve role.

GRADE: FA

DT41 Payton Page

Clemson, 4SR

HOMETOWN Greensboro, NC	HIGH SCHOOL Dudley	BIRTHDAY Sep 27, 2002	AGE 22.57	HT 6034	WT 300	NUM #55
----------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/0)	4	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (14/0)	14	3.5	0.0	0	1	0	Blocked FG
2023: (13/0)	10	0.5	0.0	0	0	0
2024: (14/14)	32	2.5	0.5	0	2	1	Third Team All-ACC; 57-yard INT TD; team captain; graduated with degree (Dec. 2024)
Total: (53/14)	60	6.5	0.5	0	3	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6032	290	10	31 3/8	79 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	33	9' 8"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No 40, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6034	300	10	31 3/8	79 3/8	5.13	2.97	1.75	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	27

SUMMARY: Payton Page grew up in Greensboro, N.C., with his parents (Eric and Felicia). His father played football at North Carolina A&T. Page considered himself a basketball player growing up until he was convinced to switch to football at Dudley High (former Dudley quarterback Hendon Hooker helped sway him). Page collected 191 tackles and 55 tackles for loss over his first three years (his senior year was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic). A four-star recruit, Page picked Clemson over North Carolina and Tennessee, then waited his turn to become a starter for the Tigers as a senior. After enrolling at Clemson weighing 395 pounds, Page became serious about nutrition — he has lost more than 100 pounds. He gets off the snap with bouncy quickness and the hand strength to force his way through a blocker's shoulder. However, his pad level lowers his chances for quick sheds or counters, and he needs to find more ways to impact the pocket. Overall, Page spent most of college buried on the depth chart, but he flashed the type of potential on his senior tape that suggests there is more in his game than his production suggests.

GRADE: FA

DT42 Tommy Akingbesote

Maryland, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Largo, MD	Flowers	Feb 25, 2003	22.16	6036	306	#7

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (7/0)	3	0	0	0	0	0	Enrolled July 2021
2022: (12/2)	14	2	2	0	0	0
2023: (13/7)	28	1	1	0	2	0	Blocked FG
2024: (12/12)	32	5	1	1	0	0	East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (44/21)	77	8	4	1	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6036	306	10	33 1/2	82 5/8	5.09	2.95	1.76	28	8' 7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6035	307	10	33	82 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	8'7"	4.76	DNP	DNP

SUMMARY: Olatunbosun "Tommy" Akingbesote (ah-KING-bah-so-tay) grew up in District Heights, Md., with his parents (Odun and Arinola). He saw himself as a basketball player before making the switch to football as a junior at Charles Herbert Flowers High, because that was his best chance at a college scholarship. A four-star recruit, Akingbesote received offers from Oklahoma, Texas A&M and others, but he was locked on nearby Maryland because of the coaching staff. He was the second-ranked defensive lineman in Mike Locksley's 2021 class, behind Chop Robinson. Akingbesote carries most of his weight in his upper half, and he can dent the depth of the pocket with initial quickness off the snap. He made gradual improvements each season and has yet to play his best football, although he is still connecting the dots — and things won't slow down in the NFL. Overall, Akingbesote has unquestionable talent, especially for his size, but he was more of a cog in the machine than a difference-maker that jumped off the tape or the stat sheet.

GRADE: FA

DT43 Simeon Barrow Jr.

Miami, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Grovetown, GA	Grovetown	Jul 06, 2002	22.80	6013	283	#10

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Michigan State; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/10)	34	4.0	3.0	1	1	0	Michigan State; missed three games (injury)
2022: (12/10)	40	9.0	4.0	0	0	0	Michigan State; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2023: (12/10)	36	5.5	3.5	1	0	0	Michigan State; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; 2 blocked FGs
2024: (13/12)	30	8.0	5.5	1	1	0	Miami (Fla.); First Team All-ACC
Total: (47/42)	140	26.5	16.0	3	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6013	283	9 1/8	32 3/8	77 3/4	4.89	2.72	1.69	DNP	DNP	4.30	7.56	32

SUMMARY: Simeon Barrow Jr. is from Grovetown, Ga. (near the South Carolina border), and put his name on the recruiting map early in his high school career. After playing at 235 pounds as a junior, he added weight and was named regional player of the year as a senior in 2019 (63 tackles and eight sacks). A three-star recruit, he committed to Michigan State (over West Virginia and Virginia Tech) and continued to add weight for a move inside to defensive tackle. He transferred to Miami (over LSU, USC and others) for his final season and was one of the ACC's better defensive linemen in 2024.

Barrow flashes linear burst to close on the ball, especially on tight stunts that create rush lanes. He is compactly built and doesn't have ideal height or length to stay square taking on blocks, but he carries power behind his pads as a tackler and plays with high adrenaline levels. Overall, Barrow is an undersized and competitive player who can free himself from blocks with his scrappy mentality, which leads to effort-based production against both run and pass.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
44	Joe Evans	UTSA	6020	323	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	28	10	33 1/2	80 3/8
45	Wy'Kevious Thomas	South Alabama	6015	301	5.20	3.02	1.76	26	8'5"	4.64	7.55	30	9 1/2	32 1/2	80 3/4
46	Philip Blidi	Auburn	6026	284	4.94	2.81	1.71	34	10'2"	4.83	7.83	30	10	34 1/8	83 3/4
47	Sebastian Valdez	Washington	6033	301	5.02	2.84	1.72	27 1/2	8'10"	4.46	7.38	34	10 3/8	31 1/4	76 7/8
48	Treven Ma'ae	Baylor	6031	277	4.77	2.71	1.58	33	9'5"	4.60	7.46	27	10	32 1/4	78 3/8
49	Gavin Meyer	USC	6031	285	4.87	2.80	1.72	27	9'1"	4.52	7.40	DNP	9 5/8	31 3/8	75
50	Thor Griffith	Louisville	6020	305	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.84	DNP	42	10	31 1/2	76 5/8
51	Nathan Kapongo	Akron	6030	287	4.94	2.85	1.75	30 1/2	10'0"	4.82	7.95	DNP	10 1/4	35 3/8	83 1/8
52	Ricky Barber	UCF	6011	296	5.20	3.00	1.78	30	9'1"	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	33 1/4	80 3/4
53	Desmond Watson	Florida	6060	464	5.95	3.31	2.05	25	6'10"	5.28	DNP	36	10 1/2	33 1/2	82 5/8
54	James Carpenter	Indiana	6007	293	4.96	2.88	1.70	29	8'6"	4.56	7.84	22	9 7/8	31	75 1/2
55	Anthonie Lattany	Wofford	6032	289	4.95	2.89	1.76	36	10'10"	4.64	8.02	21	9 7/8	32 5/8	79 1/2
56	Corey Suttle	Miami (OH)	6042	258	4.89	2.79	1.78	35	10'1"	4.70	7.82	11	9	33 1/2	82 1/8
57	Keivie Rose	Arkansas	6027	303	5.07	2.85	1.77	24 1/2	8'9"	4.78	7.55	30	9 1/4	34	80 1/4
58	Omari Thomas	Tennessee	6035	299	5.01	2.97	1.76	24	8'10"	DNP	7.88	19	9 3/4	34 1/8	80 5/8
59	Peyton Price	Eastern Michigan	6014	292	5.17	3.00	1.71	26 1/2	8'9"	4.68	7.66	24	9 3/8	30 1/2	74 1/2
60	Devonte O'Malley	Northern Illinois	6024	284	4.95	2.82	1.73	32 1/2	9'5"	4.46	7.46	26	10 3/4	32	78
61	Darrian Baker	Eastern Kentucky	6040	276	5.11	2.94	1.83	28 1/2	9'5"	4.58	7.46	21	9 1/4	30 3/8	74 1/2
62	Kristian Williams	Missouri	6015	296	5.10	2.94	1.75	27 1/2	9'1"	4.76	7.44	31	10 1/8	32	78 1/2
63	Dante Barnett	Jamaica (England)	6010	275	4.69	2.77	1.75	28	9'0"	4.57	7.33	24	9 5/8	32 5/8	77 1/8
64	Elijah Hills	Wisconsin	6021	288	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.50	DNP	15	9 1/4	31	75 1/8
65	Fatorma Mulbah	West Virginia	6027	309	5.07	2.91	1.67	32 1/2	9'2"	4.59	7.78	28	10 1/2	33 1/2	83 3/8
66	Dennis Briggs Jr.	Illinois	6035	276	5.09	2.89	1.77	27 1/2	8'9"	5.01	7.82	18	10 3/4	33 3/8	80 3/8
67	Savio Frazier	Miami (OH)	6007	283	5.04	2.85	1.75	30	8'8"	4.44	7.57	25	8 7/8	30 1/4	75 1/2
68	Tre'vonn Rybka	Kentucky	6040	278	5.17	2.91	1.78	28	8'9"	4.97	7.64	20	9 1/2	33	81
69	Isaiah Raikes	Auburn	6011	310	5.10	2.89	1.75	27	9'3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	33 5/8	81 1/4
70	Kevin Pointer	Wake Forest	6005	282	5.00	2.81	1.65	31	9'0"	4.51	7.32	20	9 7/8	32 1/8	78 1/2
71	John Nelson	BYU	6037	271	4.94	2.87	1.71	33	9'10"	4.60	7.58	25	9 1/2	32 1/2	76 7/8
72	Eli Mostaert	North Dakota State	6025	294	5.05	2.90	1.77	32	9'1"	4.63	7.33	26	9 5/8	32	79 1/8
73	Andre Jefferson	Lenoir-Rhyne	6012	304	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	33 1/8	79 7/8
74	Tru Thompson	Jackson State	5117	272	5.01	2.89	1.72	35	9'10"	4.60	7.76	26	10	32 3/4	78 3/8
75	TeRah Edwards	Illinois	6025	321	5.23	3.01	1.80	25 1/2	8'9"	4.69	7.70	29	9 1/4	32	75
76	Soane Toia	San Jose State	5114	283	5.35	3.07	1.87	DNP	7'10"	4.92	7.90	25	10 3/8	30 1/4	73 5/8
77	Thomas Gore	Georgia Tech	5111	286	5.12	2.98	1.68	29 1/2	8'11"	4.84	7.85	28	9 1/8	31 1/4	74 1/2
78	Marley Cook	Miami	6005	302	5.03	2.89	1.80	28 1/2	8'7"	4.69	8.03	30	9 3/4	31 3/4	78
79	Josh Fuga	Virginia Tech	6012	321	5.08	2.91	1.78	31	8'8"	4.82	8.18	22	9 5/8	32 1/4	78 1/8
80	Darien Newell	Queen's Univ. (Can.)	6030	287	5.03	2.76	1.76	34	9'5"	5.07	7.91	27	9	32 7/8	79 1/8
81	LD Cox	UAB	6040	303	5.45	3.21	1.87	26	7'11"	4.84	7.70	16	9 7/8	33 3/8	83 1/2
82	Bill Norton	Texas	6050	325	DNP	DNP	1.95	22	7'9"	5.13	8.10	25	9 5/8	32 1/4	75 5/8
83	Dvon J-Thomas	Penn State	6012	304	5.14	2.90	1.69	30	9'1"	4.82	7.64	28	10 1/4	33 1/4	80 1/8
84	Marlon Taylor	Chattanooga	6020	296	5.35	3.03	1.77	26	8'2"	4.97	8.34	15	9	33	78 7/8
85	Herbert Gums	Boise State	6006	313	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	32 3/4	79 3/4
86	Coziah Izzard	Penn State	6025	298	4.85	2.77	1.56	33 1/2	9'5"	4.52	DNP	25	9 5/8	34	82 1/2
87	Carson Primrose	Rhode Island	6004	281	4.90	DNP	1.69	35	9'0"	4.62	7.45	21	9 7/8	30 7/8	74 3/4
88	Bryce Ganius	Wake Forest	6003	293	5.06	2.81	1.66	29 1/2	9'0"	4.55	7.55	30	9 1/2	32 1/4	77 1/4
89	Devonta Davis	Florida Atlantic	6025	300	4.87	2.78	1.70	26	8'5"	4.60	7.58	27	9	32 3/4	78 1/8
90	Wilfried Pene	Virginia Tech	6016	280	4.90	2.87	1.69	30	8'8"	4.44	7.44	25	9 5/8	32 1/4	77 3/8
91	Patrick Jenkins	Tulane	6016	287	4.93	2.81	1.73	30 1/2	9'3"	4.73	7.58	30	9 7/8	32	78 1/8
92	Da'Jon Terry	Oklahoma	6026	317	5.58	3.19	1.99	28 1/2	8'1"	4.64	7.86	17	9 5/8	35 3/4	83 3/8
93	Jeff Clark	Arizona State	5111	272	5.20	3.02	1.77	30	9'1"	4.69	7.91	27	10 1/8	31 7/8	75 3/8
94	Jelani Stafford	UConn	5117	292	5.14	2.93	1.74	32	9'3"	4.56	7.94	24	9 1/4	31 1/2	77
95	Rodas Johnson	Texas A&M	6026	294	5.16	2.98	1.76	27 1/2	8'6"	5.21	7.94	20	9 7/8	32	78 1/4
96	TJ Jackson II	West Virginia	6000	287	5.15	3.04	1.76	23	8'4"	4.75	8.24	DNP	9	31 1/2	77
97	Chidozie Nwankwo	Colorado	5116	309	5.60	3.23	1.79	23	8'1"	4.91	8.40	26	10 1/4	31 1/4	76 3/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
98	D'Quan Douse	Michigan State	6010	292	DNP	DNP	DNP	28 1/2	8'11"	4.75	7.68	20	9 1/4	32 3/8	79 1/8
99	Alex Huntley	South Carolina	6030	294	5.12	2.93	1.70	27 1/2	8'9"	4.81	7.78	22	9 5/8	33	80 3/8
100	Kendy Charles	Duke	6004	281	5.05	2.82	1.70	32 1/2	9'3"	4.54	7.76	28	10 1/4	32 5/8	79 1/2
101	Brandon Brown	UTSA	6010	313	5.07	2.91	1.74	25 1/2	8'4"	4.63	7.63	23	8 7/8	29 7/8	74 1/2
102	Gio Paez	LSU	6033	312	DNP	DNP	DNP	26 1/2	8'1"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/4	32	77 7/8
103	Charlie Looes	Rice	6027	282	5.12	2.95	1.71	30 1/2	9'4"	4.78	7.68	24	9 1/4	33 1/4	79 1/4
104	Shane Cokes	Colorado	6025	288	DNP	DNP	DNP	31	9'4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	32 3/8	80 5/8
105	Bryce Santana	New Mexico	6020	313	5.33	3.13	1.85	28 1/2	8'5"	4.79	7.84	29	9 1/4	31 1/8	76 3/4
106	Deontae Craig	Iowa	6021	278	5.03	2.85	1.71	30 1/2	8'9"	4.54	7.30	14	9 3/8	31 1/2	79
107	Kevin Hester Jr.	North Carolina	6033	315	5.24	2.87	1.71	28	8'4"	4.99	7.97	22	10 1/8	33 1/8	80 3/4
108	John Costanza	Maine	6025	303	5.09	DNP	1.70	27	8'9"	4.74	7.71	DNP	10 1/8	32	79
109	Brandon Davies-Lyons	York (Can.)	6043	301	5.20	2.94	1.88	27	8'8"	4.81	7.83	26	9 5/8	32	79 1/2
110	Westley Neal Jr.	Rhode Island	5116	282	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	31 3/4	77
111	Cade Haberman	Northern Illinois	6020	307	5.12	3.04	1.80	30	8'11"	4.65	7.90	30	8 5/8	32 3/4	75 3/8
112	David Rowe	Idaho State	6045	293	5.20	3.00	1.69	29 1/2	8'9"	4.62	7.75	21	9 7/8	32 3/8	79 1/2
113	Dal'Mont Gourdine	UConn	6031	288	5.10	2.81	1.74	31 1/2	DNP	4.68	DNP	26	9 3/4	32 1/4	78
114	Decarius Hawthorne	South Florida	6010	286	5.33	3.04	1.79	29	8'8"	4.85	7.70	17	9 7/8	32 3/8	77 1/8
115	Anthony Campbell	Miami	6061	307	5.01	2.82	1.78	29 1/2	9'3"	4.78	7.76	23	9 1/2	34 1/2	83
116	Anthony Booker Jr.	SMU	6032	347	5.13	3.00	1.91	29	DNP	5.00	DNP	27	10	33 7/8	83 3/8
117	Dezmond Tell	Louisville	6003	289	4.98	2.70	1.65	29	8'3"	4.58	7.42	34	9 5/8	30 5/8	74 7/8
118	Elijah Morris	East Carolina	6003	280	5.28	3.00	1.73	26 1/2	9'0"	4.75	7.78	19	9 3/8	30 7/8	75 1/2
119	Caleb Taylor	Kansas	6040	309	5.45	3.16	1.85	25	8'1"	4.94	8.08	22	9 3/4	33 3/4	82 5/8
120	Blake Holden	South Dakota	6026	294	5.00	2.85	1.76	26	8'9"	4.44	7.44	33	9 1/8	31 1/2	74 3/8
121	Alexander Whitmore	UNLV	6005	283	5.20	3.01	1.89	25	8'4"	5.01	8.17	22	9 5/8	31 7/8	77
122	Isaac Anderson	Virginia Union	6014	297	5.02	2.90	1.77	27	8'10"	4.51	7.72	16	9 3/8	32 7/8	78 1/2
123	C.J. Clark	Miami	6026	292	5.15	2.91	1.72	28 1/2	8'9"	4.66	DNP	14	9 1/2	32	75 1/4
124	Suirad Ware	East Carolina	6001	285	5.16	2.95	1.70	26 1/2	9'2"	4.63	DNP	18	9 7/8	32	79
125	Ricky Correia	California	6034	322	5.55	3.19	1.88	23	8'3"	4.76	7.69	12	9 1/2	32 7/8	79
126	Muftah Ageli	NW Oklahoma State	6003	298	5.25	2.98	1.73	28	8'9"	4.88	7.84	33	9 1/2	31 1/2	76 3/4
127	Matt Lawson	New Mexico State	5116	295	5.18	2.92	1.88	23 1/2	8'0"	5.08	8.13	28	9 1/2	31	75 1/4
128	Stephen Hoffman	Bemidji State	6040	286	5.18	2.94	1.78	28 1/2	8'9"	4.69	7.87	24	10	32 3/4	79 1/8
129	Quay Wiggles	Chattanooga	6020	280	5.18	2.96	1.71	27	8'9"	4.69	7.88	21	9 1/2	33 1/8	76 7/8
130	Chris Fitzgerald	James Madison	5102	292	4.94	2.84	1.72	28	8'5"	5.19	7.90	31	9 7/8	30 7/8	75
131	Kyle Philbin	Brown	6036	296	DNP	DNP	DNP	31	DNP	4.84	7.78	19	10	32	78 1/4
132	Dontrez Brown	Bowling Green	6011	286	5.11	2.97	1.77	31 1/2	8'6"	4.50	7.45	34	8 7/8	31 1/2	75 3/8
133	Mason Narcisse	Louisiana	6017	303	5.22	3.03	1.81	29 1/2	8'6"	4.90	7.88	23	9	31 1/2	77 1/8
134	Kori Roberson Jr.	SMU	6030	294	5.19	2.95	1.84	27	DNP	DNP	DNP	32	9 5/8	33 1/4	79 7/8
135	Joey Slackman	Florida	6030	291	5.24	2.92	1.71	26 1/2	8'5"	4.64	7.36	27	9 7/8	32 1/2	79 1/4
136	D'Anta Johnson	East Carolina	6011	287	5.21	3.07	1.74	25	8'7"	4.87	8.40	22	8 1/4	32 1/2	78
137	Quincy Ledet Jr.	Texas Tech	6006	310	5.50	3.15	1.80	29	8'5"	5.05	8.13	21	9 1/2	32	78 3/4
138	TyQaze Leggs	Marshall	6023	293	5.29	3.02	1.75	27 1/2	8'10"	4.53	7.41	17	9 3/4	33 1/2	79 1/2
139	Sulaiman Kpaka	Mississippi State	6022	302	5.07	2.85	1.82	28	8'7"	4.78	8.08	26	9 7/8	34 3/8	80 3/8
140	Demeco Roland	Southern Miss	6026	312	5.25	3.03	1.85	29	8'0"	4.78	8.09	23	9 1/4	33 1/4	80 1/4
141	Jarod DePriest	South Dakota State	6031	290	5.14	2.95	1.77	30 1/2	8'11"	4.58	7.83	17	10	32 1/8	79 5/8
142	Joshua Harris	North Carolina	6026	345	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	30	10 3/8	31 1/4	78
143	Daniel Morrison	Wingate	6011	279	4.94	2.88	1.71	30 1/2	9'1"	4.63	7.55	33	9 3/4	31	75 5/8
144	Yoesph Carter	Findlay	6035	295	5.27	3.09	1.82	21 1/2	8'5"	5.03	7.65	10	9 3/4	30	78 1/4
145	Jahkari Larmond	Idaho	6012	306	5.30	3.01	1.87	28	8'4"	4.97	8.06	28	9 3/4	30 5/8	77 3/4
146	Jalen Williams	Southern Miss	6026	309	5.41	3.02	1.81	30	8'6"	5.20	7.89	21	9 3/4	33 1/4	80 1/4
147	Mosai Newsom	South Dakota	6037	293	5.13	2.95	1.84	29 1/2	9'3"	4.70	7.67	21	9 1/2	34 1/4	80 5/8
148	Elinus Noel III	Baylor	6005	339	5.57	3.18	1.90	25 1/2	8'2"	5.10	8.39	24	9 7/8	33	79
149	Justin Rhodes	Georgia Southern	6005	283	5.09	2.76	1.83	25 1/2	8'1"	5.01	7.69	27	9 1/2	32 1/4	73 1/2
150	Kyron Mims	Louisiana	6026	300	5.50	3.15	1.82	26	8'3"	5.02	8.14	DNP	9 7/8	35	82 7/8
151	Mike Lockhart	SMU	6022	295	5.03	2.92	1.81	24 1/2	8'7"	4.69	7.77	DNP	9 3/4	33 5/8	81

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
152	Earl Barquet Jr.	Louisiana-Monroe	6015	269	5.01	2.89	1.80	29	9'0"	4.67	7.83	20	9 1/2	32	78 1/4
153	Anthony Hawkins	Bowling Green	6010	277	5.22	3.02	1.87	25	7'11"	4.82	7.60	21	9 3/8	33 1/8	79 5/8
154	Tyler Leavy	Merrimack	5095	278	5.40	DNP	1.77	25	8'4"	4.70	7.97	14	9 3/8	29 3/4	72 1/4
155	Jayson Jones	Auburn	6056	325	5.32	3.05	1.88	23	8'2"	4.96	8.04	18	10 1/2	33 7/8	83 3/4
156	Marquez Casey	Austin Peay	6017	266	4.98	2.83	1.79	27	8'7"	4.63	7.63	23	9 1/2	31 1/4	76
157	Justin Cody	Wake Forest	6025	266	5.08	2.93	1.67	30 1/2	9'0"	4.73	7.65	28	9 7/8	33	79 1/2
158	Quantez Mansfield	NC Central	6016	281	4.94	2.79	1.70	32 1/2	9'4"	4.94	7.70	25	9 5/8	32 1/4	78
159	Geemontae Peck	Davenport	6024	302	5.20	3.00	1.79	25	8'6"	4.80	7.65	29	8 7/8	31 3/8	75 5/8
160	C.J. Warren	St. Thomas (Minn.)	6021	283	4.83	2.69	1.57	37 1/2	9'8"	4.26	7.30	29	10	32 5/8	80 1/8
161	Darren Cook	Delaware State	6000	309	5.79	3.16	1.85	28 1/2	7'4"	DNP	8.37	18	9 1/4	31 1/2	76 3/4
162	Caleb Fox	TCU	6017	317	5.38	3.07	1.83	27	8'10"	5.02	7.91	6	9 5/8	31	76 3/8
163	Maurice Strong Jr.	South Alabama	6002	287	5.32	3.08	1.82	26	8'5"	4.96	7.90	27	9 1/8	31	75 1/2
164	Tobin Phillips	Stanford	6030	295	5.34	3.08	1.82	22	8'0"	4.95	8.21	20	9 3/4	31	77 3/4
165	Jaden Wheeler	Florida Atlantic	6016	305	5.34	3.07	1.90	25 1/2	8'4"	4.86	DNP	31	10 1/4	33 1/2	82 1/4
166	R.J. Pearson	Northwestern	6015	310	5.50	3.15	1.89	DNP	8'1"	5.15	8.25	21	9 7/8	31 1/8	76
167	Tupu Alualu	San Diego State	6003	267	5.10	2.94	1.83	26 1/2	8'8"	4.69	7.82	24	9 7/8	32 7/8	78 5/8
168	Demond Taylor Jr.	Northern Illinois	6014	303	5.40	3.06	1.82	23	8'1"	4.88	7.94	29	10 1/8	31	75 3/8
169	Nate Martey	Arkansas State	6005	286	5.52	3.10	1.87	DNP	DNP	4.84	8.52	25	8 7/8	33 3/8	79
170	Prince James Boyd Jr.	Florida Atlantic	5116	307	DNP	DNP	DNP	26 1/2	8'0"	DNP	DNP	23	10	32 3/8	79 1/8
171	Tevita Fotu	Utah	6042	287	5.22	3.05	1.76	26 1/2	8'5"	4.54	7.96	11	10	32 1/4	77 1/2
172	PJ Lucas	Memphis	6024	300	5.42	3.13	1.87	26	7'8"	4.81	7.98	18	9	32 7/8	78 1/8
173	Marvion Field	Eastern Kentucky	6012	281	5.57	3.19	1.90	24	8'2"	5.10	8.00	21	9 3/8	32 1/2	79 1/8
174	Javier Derritt	Kansas	6007	292	5.25	3.08	1.76	27 1/2	8'2"	4.81	7.71	24	9 3/4	33 1/4	80 3/8
175	Darryn Kindles	Davidson	5107	291	DNP	DNP	DNP	27 1/2	8'3"	DNP	DNP	20	9 7/8	31 5/8	76 1/4
176	De'Braylon Carroll	Texas Tech	5106	291	5.25	3.00	1.67	27	8'5"	4.95	7.89	30	9 3/8	31 1/4	77 7/8
177	Jacob Newsom	Eastern Washington	6006	271	5.15	2.93	1.78	29	8'4"	4.66	7.83	32	9 5/8	31 1/2	77 1/2
178	Brandon Johnson	Missouri Western State	6031	307	5.19	3.08	1.84	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 7/8	32 3/8	77 3/4
179	Semisi Saluni	Oregon State	6034	289	4.90	2.83	1.70	25	8'9"	4.58	7.58	20	9 5/8	32 3/4	78 1/8
180	Malcolm Ray	Rutgers	6007	296	DNP	2.96	1.70	28	8'5"	DNP	DNP	23	9 1/8	32 3/8	77 1/8
181	Voi Tunuufi	Washington	5117	252	5.03	2.89	1.65	29 1/2	8'10"	4.49	7.72	22	9 1/2	30 7/8	75 7/8
182	J.R. Singleton	Iowa State	6012	299	5.16	3.01	1.75	29 1/2	9'0"	4.66	7.59	26	9 5/8	32 5/8	80 1/8
183	Maverick Hansen	Michigan State	6035	294	5.28	3.04	1.72	28	8'7"	5.10	7.70	31	9 1/2	32 3/8	77 5/8
184	Latrell Jean	Temple	6010	283	5.15	2.93	1.74	26	8'2"	4.96	7.60	28	9	31 5/8	75 1/4
185	Jason Williams	Central Michigan	6014	306	5.25	3.09	1.75	26 1/2	8'3"	5.00	8.05	30	8 3/4	32 1/2	78 3/4
186	Dylan Brown	Jacksonville State	6025	329	5.28	3.01	1.89	24 1/2	8'6"	4.96	8.21	24	9	30 5/8	74 7/8
187	Roderick Brown	North Texas	5113	284	5.26	3.00	1.81	28 1/2	8'2"	4.75	7.70	20	9 1/2	32	77 7/8
188	Dylan Shelton	Eastern Michigan	6002	288	5.27	3.03	1.70	26	DNP	4.95	8.22	30	10 3/8	31 3/8	75
189	Devin Brandt-Epps	New Mexico	6032	310	5.15	2.93	1.72	30 1/2	8'8"	4.76	7.57	27	9 1/8	32 1/2	78 3/8
190	Christian Dowell	UT Martin	6015	320	5.27	2.88	1.76	28	9'1"	4.78	7.88	22	8 7/8	33 1/2	80 1/4
191	Hidetora Hanada	Colorado State	6007	277	5.21	2.96	1.83	26	8'4"	4.87	7.79	29	9 7/8	31 3/8	74 1/2
192	Carson Berenyi	Saginaw Valley State	5117	284	4.94	2.82	1.71	31	9'1"	4.55	7.39	36	8 7/8	30	72 3/8
193	Howard Brown	Boise State	6003	316	5.28	3.01	1.84	27	7'9"	4.79	8.12	26	9 1/8	30 3/8	75 5/8
194	Chris Morgan	Western Carolina	5112	280	5.38	3.07	1.80	DNP	7'11"	5.08	8.16	18	9 1/8	31 1/4	76 5/8
195	Brandon Roberts	Merrimack	5106	277	4.93	DNP	1.75	27	9'0"	4.70	7.69	26	8 7/8	29 1/8	71 7/8
196	Daishon Folsom	Buffalo	6020	291	5.45	3.19	1.81	25 1/2	8'4"	4.88	7.59	26	9 1/4	32 1/2	78 3/4
197	Troy Rainey	Rutgers	6030	288	5.03	2.93	1.69	30	8'7"	4.88	7.69	14	10	33 1/4	81 3/4
198	Xavier Ross	Oklahoma State	6040	297	5.19	3.05	1.73	27	9'1"	4.85	8.08	27	8 3/4	34	81 3/8
199	Sam longi-Amituanai	Northern Colorado	6012	291	5.38	3.07	1.83	26	8'6"	4.93	7.78	20	9 3/8	31 7/8	77 1/8
200	Tymon Mitchell	TCU	6023	318	5.70	3.30	1.96	22	7'5"	5.40	8.44	19	9	32 3/4	79 3/8
201	E.J. Thomas	Chattanooga	6002	296	5.44	3.06	1.87	20 1/2	7'6"	5.12	8.45	31	9 3/4	31 3/4	76
202	Ja'Courtney Snipes	Charleston Southern	6000	313	5.15	2.94	1.78	28	8'6"	4.87	8.03	33	9 7/8	33 1/2	79 5/8
203	Deron Irving-Bey	Ferris State	6031	319	5.41	3.09	1.89	24	8'2"	5.35	8.01	20	9 3/8	34 1/2	82 3/8
204	Davon Sears	Oklahoma	6017	305	4.95	2.86	1.71	29	9'1"	4.87	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	33 1/2	78 3/4
205	Jacob Bandes	Washington	6023	307	5.64	3.24	1.91	24 1/2	7'10"	4.71	8.03	22	9 1/2	30 3/4	75 5/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
206	Jaylen Jordan	Aurora	5114	300	5.46	3.12	1.85	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	29 1/2	74
207	Jude Okolo	Marshall	6032	302	5.41	3.07	1.78	25 1/2	8'2"	5.08	8.15	25	8 1/2	33 1/8	82 1/2
208	Kobe Hilton	Miami (OH)	6032	254	5.05	2.85	1.75	34	9'8"	4.60	7.68	17	9 1/8	33 1/8	77 1/4
209	Sheldon Newton	Boise State	6030	321	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	20	9 3/8	32 5/8	78 3/4
210	Harold Irby III	Saginaw Valley State	5117	272	5.11	2.90	1.75	34	9'1"	4.82	7.77	33	9 5/8	31 3/8	78 3/8
211	Matthew Brown	Eastern Washington	6024	303	5.17	2.91	1.77	26 1/2	8'6"	4.63	7.56	27	9 1/2	30 7/8	76 3/4
212	Joseph Barton	Delta State	5113	252	4.95	2.84	1.75	DNP	8'5"	4.98	8.15	DNP	9 1/8	31 5/8	76 1/4
213	Jamel Stewart	Howard	6006	280	5.35	2.89	1.71	34	8'10"	4.63	7.91	19	9 7/8	31 1/8	74 3/4
214	Nazir Sy	Samford	6013	292	5.52	3.06	1.82	28	8'3"	5.13	8.31	9	9 1/4	32 1/2	78
215	Daniel Robledo	Northern Arizona	6020	270	5.08	2.92	1.81	30	8'8"	4.70	7.84	19	9	32 1/2	77 7/8
216	Gaige Hill	CSU Pueblo	6030	298	5.46	3.16	1.85	26	7'11"	5.26	8.01	15	9 1/2	32 3/4	77 7/8
217	Terrion Thompson	Western Kentucky	5110	299	5.21	2.95	1.70	27	8'6"	4.97	8.01	20	9	30 7/8	74 1/8
218	Sione Tonga'uiaha	UTEP	5113	297	5.32	3.13	1.99	24	8'3"	4.93	8.22	22	9 5/8	31 5/8	78 1/8
219	Leonard Scott	Frostburg State	6033	300	5.01	3.00	1.82	29 1/2	7'8"	4.69	7.80	18	9 3/8	33 5/8	80
220	Jevon Banks	UConn	6015	260	5.18	2.85	1.80	26 1/2	9'2"	4.90	7.98	DNP	9 1/4	32 1/4	77 3/8
221	Victor Nelson	Ferris State	5091	293	5.17	2.89	1.75	27	8'8"	4.39	8.33	35	9 3/4	30 5/8	75 7/8
222	Garrison Walker	New Mexico	6003	300	5.32	3.12	1.87	25 1/2	8'2"	4.93	7.77	20	9 7/8	32 1/8	77 7/8
223	Ra'Quan Thompson	Marshall	6030	329	5.38	3.07	1.76	23 1/2	8'6"	5.02	8.34	24	9	31 3/4	76
224	Zeke Birch	Weber State	6045	302	5.52	3.23	1.75	27	8'5"	4.90	8.59	20	9 5/8	32 1/8	78
225	Dion Crews-Harris	Towson	5105	299	5.30	3.09	1.84	25 1/2	8'6"	5.00	DNP	20	8 1/4	29 7/8	73 1/2
226	Caleb Williams	Lamar	5102	304	5.32	2.96	1.80	25 1/2	8'7"	4.69	7.83	28	9 1/8	31 1/4	72 7/8
227	Jordon Tagaloa	Portland State	6004	266	5.52	3.12	1.84	24	8'6"	4.85	8.06	17	10 1/8	31 1/4	76 1/8
228	Michael Larbie	Rice	6002	284	5.21	3.10	1.90	27 1/2	8'4"	5.04	8.25	16	9 1/4	33	74 3/4
229	Eric Hicks Jr.	Tulane	6022	288	5.39	3.14	1.88	22	8'0"	4.93	7.80	21	9 1/2	30 7/8	75 7/8
230	Jason Shuford	Marshall	6036	337	5.49	3.16	1.85	22 1/2	8'4"	5.18	8.53	7	9 1/8	33 1/2	82 3/8
231	Jerrad Price	Eastern Illinois	6021	291	5.53	3.16	1.89	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	31 1/2	75 5/8
232	Ty Thomas	Henderson State	6015	303	5.24	3.06	1.84	23	8'2"	DNP	DNP	30	9 3/4	31 1/4	74 1/2
233	Wesley Coleman	Harding	6014	346	5.58	3.13	1.96	25	7'8"	DNP	DNP	35	8 3/8	32 1/2	77 3/4
234	Giovanni Cancro	Bloomsburg	6013	327	5.50	3.03	1.89	DNP	8'1"	5.16	8.25	24	10	30 7/8	76 7/8
235	Jayden Simon	UConn	6024	300	5.57	3.06	1.85	27 1/2	8'6"	4.81	8.04	15	10 1/8	32 1/4	80 3/8
236	Ernie Smith	Towson	6010	297	5.46	3.27	1.93	25	8'9"	5.04	8.56	17	9 1/2	31 5/8	77 1/2
237	Thomathan Good II	Houston	6000	328	5.50	3.15	1.90	22 1/2	7'7"	5.30	8.43	27	9 5/8	30 5/8	74 1/8
238	Josh Simmons	Oregon	6036	325	5.46	3.06	1.90	21	7'11"	5.20	8.51	18	9 3/4	33 3/4	84 1/2
239	Tuiits Kanosh	Utah Tech	5112	313	5.73	3.25	2.04	24	7'7"	5.28	8.57	23	9 3/4	31 5/8	76 3/8
240	Stephen Matina	Nebraska-Kearney	6051	360	5.90	3.25	2.04	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	31 1/2	81 1/4

LINE BACKERS

The title 'LINE BACKERS' is rendered in a large, bold, teal-colored font with a slight 3D effect. The word 'LINE' is on the top line and 'BACKERS' is on the bottom line. The text is decorated with white football field markings: a yard line with a hash mark to the left of 'LINE' and a hash mark to the right of 'LINE'; a line of scrimmage with a center snap circle below the 'B' in 'BACKERS'; and a line of scrimmage with a center snap circle below the 'K' in 'BACKERS'.

LINEBACKERS

NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1. JIHAAD CAMPBELL	Alabama	1st-2nd	3JR	6027	235	4.52 (1.58)	10 1/2	32 1/2	80	21.16
2. CARSON SCHWESINGER	UCLA	2nd	4JR	6024	242	DNP (DNP)	9 1/4	31 5/8	77 1/2	22.16
3. DANNY STUTSMAN	Oklahoma	3rd	4SR	6032	233	4.52 (1.56)	9 1/8	32 5/8	78	22.12
4. JEFFREY BASSA	Oregon	3rd-4th	4SR	6012	228	4.62 (1.61)	9 5/8	31 5/8	78 3/4	22.59
5. SMAEL MONDON JR.	Georgia	3rd-4th	4SR	6023	224	4.58 (1.56)	9 3/4	31 3/4	80 1/8	22.19
6. DEMETRIUS KNIGHT JR.	South Carolina	3rd-4th	6SR	6015	235	4.58 (1.63)	10	32 5/8	81 3/8	25.30
7. CHRIS PAUL JR.	Ole Miss	3rd-4th	4JR	6007	222	4.63 (1.58)	9 3/8	30 1/2	76 1/4	22.47
8. KOBE KING	Penn State	4th	4JR	6006	243	4.67 (1.57)	9 1/2	31 1/4	78 5/8	22.24
9. BARRETT CARTER	Clemson	4th	4SR	6001	232	4.63 (1.59)	9 1/4	32 3/8	78 5/8	22.50
10. KAIN MEDRANO	UCLA	4th	6SR	6027	222	4.46 (1.52)	9 1/8	32 5/8	77 1/4	24.18
11. CODY SIMON	Ohio State	4th-5th	5SR	6017	232	4.60 (1.54)	10	31 3/4	75 7/8	23.06
12. JACK KISER	Notre Dame	4th-5th	6SR	6015	229	4.67 (1.62)	9 1/8	30 5/8	75 5/8	24.62
13. TEDDY BUCHANAN	California	5th	5SR	6021	233	4.60 (1.61)	9 1/2	31 3/8	75 1/2	22.56
14. SHEMAR JAMES	Florida	5th	3JR	6014	222	4.69 (1.68)	9	32	77 3/4	20.83
15. NICK MARTIN	Oklahoma State	5th	4JR	5114	221	4.53 (1.60)	9 1/4	32	78 3/8	22.53
16. CODY LINDENBERG	Minnesota	5th-6th	5SR	6023	236	4.71 (1.69)	9 1/4	32 3/4	78	23.27
17. EUGENE ASANTE	Auburn	5th-6th	6SR	6007	223	4.48 (1.57)	8 5/8	30 1/4	73 1/2	24.25
18. COLLIN OLIVER	Oklahoma State	5th-6th	4SR	6016	240	4.56 (1.57)	9 3/4	30 3/4	76 1/4	22.58
19. JALEN MCLEOD	Auburn	6th	5SR	6016	241	DNP (DNP)	9 3/4	32 3/8	80	22.88
20. FRANCISCO MAUIGOA	Miami	6th	4SR	6021	233	4.60 (1.59)	10 1/4	31 3/4	77 3/8	22.10
21. JACKSON WOODARD	UNLV	6th-7th	5SR	6021	230	4.87 (1.71)	9 3/8	31 3/8	77 5/8	22.81
22. JAY HIGGINS	Iowa	6th-7th	5SR	6001	224	4.82 (1.66)	9 1/2	31	75	23.19
23. CARSON BRUENER	Washington	6th-7th	5SR	6012	227	4.58 (1.59)	9 1/2	31 3/4	78 1/4	23.88
24. JAILIN WALKER	Indiana	7th	4SR	6003	219	4.40 (1.53)	9 1/8	31 1/2	77 1/8	22.20
25. JAMON DUMAS-JOHNSON	Kentucky	FA	4SR	6006	236	4.60 (1.59)	9 3/4	32	78 1/2	23.40
26. CHANDLER MARTIN	Memphis	FA	5SR	5117	229	4.54 (1.58)	10	31 7/8	76 3/8	22.37
27. JUSTIN BARRON	Syracuse	FA	5SR	6036	225	4.68 (1.65)	9 1/8	31 1/8	76 3/4	23.50
28. AUSTIN KEYS	Auburn	FA	5SR	6022	229	4.63 (1.64)	9 1/4	31 5/8	77 7/8	23.06
29. TYREEM POWELL	Rutgers	FA	5SR	6044	239	4.92 (1.57)	9 1/8	34 3/4	82 5/8	23.32
30. KARENE REID	Utah	FA	4SR	5116	229	DNP (DNP)	9 1/4	31 3/8	75 3/4	25.18
31. SHAUN DOLAC	Buffalo	FA	5SR	6002	221	4.63 (1.53)	9 3/8	30	74 3/8	23.61
32. POWER ECHOLS	North Carolina	FA	4SR	5113	234	4.72 (1.62)	9 1/4	31	75 5/8	22.26
33. BAM MARTIN-SCOTT	South Carolina	FA	6SR	6023	231	4.63 (1.62)	9 1/8	32	79 3/8	24.81
34. DE'RICKEY WRIGHT	Vanderbilt	FA	5SR	6036	208	4.71 (1.58)	8 5/8	34 3/4	79 3/4	23.21

LB1 Jihaad Campbell

Alabama, 3JR

HOMETOWN Erial, NJ	HIGH SCHOOL IMG Academy	BIRTHDAY Feb 24, 2004	AGE 21.16	HT 6027	WT 235	NUM #11
-----------------------	----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jihaad (JUH-haad) Campbell was born and raised in south New Jersey with his mother (Stephanie Hopkins), who is a nurse. He started playing football at age 4 and also competed in basketball and track growing up. Campbell enrolled at Timber Creek Regional High in Gloucester Township, where he was teammates with current Los Angeles Chargers cornerback Tarheeb Still. He primarily lined up at defensive end and posted 41 tackles, two sacks and one forced fumble as a sophomore, helping the team to a 7-4 finish and the 2019 state playoffs. His junior season in 2020, Campbell earned first-team all-state honors with 45 tackles and seven sacks in a pandemic-shortened, seven-game season. He also added wide receiver duties to his resume (15 catches for 249 yards and two touchdowns).

After the 2020 season, Campbell transferred to IMG Academy in Bradenton, Fla., for the second half of his junior year and his senior season. He moved to an off-ball linebacker role and was teammates with several top recruits, including guard Tyler Booker (Alabama), safety Keon Sabb (Michigan/Alabama), cornerback Daylen Everette (Georgia) and running back Kaytron Allen (Penn State). Campbell earned Under Armour All-American honors after his senior season.

A five-star recruit, Campbell was the second-ranked edge rusher in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 3 recruit in Florida. He ranked as the No. 21 recruit nationally. After his freshman season, Campbell attended several camps and started to pile up offers, including from his home state Rutgers, which hired Campbell's Timber Creek head coach (Rob Hinson) as a player personnel analyst following the 2019 season. Several national programs entered the mix during his junior season, including Michigan, Ohio State, Oregon, Tennessee and Texas. In March 2021, Campbell announced a top eight of Clemson, Florida, Georgia, Oklahoma, Ohio State, Penn State, Rutgers and Texas A&M. He committed to Clemson in July 2021 as a hybrid defensive end.

He was locked in with the Tigers throughout his senior season, until a few weeks before signing day when then-defensive coordinator Brent Venables left for the head coaching job at Oklahoma (Dec. 2021) and Campbell scrambled to reopen his recruitment. He took a few last-minute visits, including to Alabama, which had offered him late in the process. Campbell committed to the Tide and became Nick Saban's top-ranked recruit in the 2022 cycle (just ahead of Booker). After three seasons in Tuscaloosa, he elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (9/0)	1	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/8)	66	4.0	0.5	0	4	1	Missed season opener (knee scope)
2024: (13/13)	117	11.5	5.0	2	3	1	Second Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in tackles, TFL, sacks and FF
Total: (35/21)	184	15.5	5.5	2	7	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6027	235	10 1/2	32 1/2	80	4.52	2.66	1.58	DNP	10' 7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No VJ, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Big athlete who can really run and cover ground
- Led all linebackers at combine in shuffle sprint (19.45 mph) and wave drills (11.01 mph)
- Works well laterally as run defender with quick trigger to redirect and drive
- Long, secure tackler who breaks down well in the open field
- Physical in the hole with stopping power when he explodes into the ball carrier
- Dynamic run/pass blitz (inside and outside) who slips through gaps and blows up plays (see 2024 LSU tape)
- Can burst and bend the corner when lined up on the edge
- Effective closing speed from the backside
- Shows promise in coverage, because of his speed down the seam and short-area quickness on quick routes
- Made strides when reading eyes of the quarterback to jump passing lanes
- Filled up stat sheet in 2024 (at least eight tackles in 10 of 13 games)

WEAKNESSES:

- Off-ball instincts are still developing — can be late on read plays
- Doesn't have great peripheral vision and runs himself into blocks
- Can be blown backwards when he stops feet to catch tackle (see first-quarter touchdown on 2024 Vandy tape)
- Missed tackles usually come when he attacks high, hurting ability to wrap (also had multiple facemask flags on tape)
- Not as aggressive as a take-on player as he could be
- Still learning how to cycle through route concepts
- Grabby in man coverage when he doesn't trust his leverage
- Missed second half of 2024 bowl game with left shoulder injury (Dec. 2024), which required surgery (March 2025) to repair "slight" tear in his labrum; missed 2023 season opener after requiring knee scope during fall practices (Aug. 2023)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Alabama, Campbell played the Mike and Will linebacker roles in defensive coordinator Kane Wommack's 4-2-5 base scheme, while also lining up off the edge and slightly walked-out in space. A former five-star recruit as an edge rusher, he made the transition to off-ball linebacker and developed into the most productive defender on Alabama's 2024 squad, leading the team in tackles (117), tackles for loss (11.5), sacks (five) and forced fumbles (two). With his size and length, Campbell is a good-looking athlete and has the sideline-to-sideline speed, lateral agility and short-area burst to out-leverage and finish the ball carrier. He doesn't always trust what he sees and tends to be inconsistent taking on blocks — those issues made him more effective outside the hashes on tape, where he didn't have to sort (physically or mentally) through the muck. Overall, Campbell is an explosive, physical athlete with the developing instincts to impact the game as a run defender, cover man and blitz from various angles and depths (some teams like him best as a full-time edge rusher). He is a first-round talent, although the medical feedback will be crucial for his final grade.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 14 overall)

HOMETOWN Moorpark, CA	HIGH SCHOOL Oaks Christian	BIRTHDAY Feb 24, 2003	AGE 22.16	HT 6024	WT 242	NUM #49
--------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Carson Schwesinger (SWESS-in-jurr), the middle child of five (three boys, two girls), grew up in the Santa Clarita, Calif., area with his parents (Dennis and Diana). He started playing sports as soon as he could walk. He first played flag football at age 5, in a league for 6-year-olds so he could play with his older brother (E.J.), later a tight end at Division III Cal Lutheran. Schwesinger continued playing up a level during youth football and was coached by his father (lost only one game in five years). He played almost every position on the football field but was at his best as a linebacker and running back. Schwesinger also played basketball and multiple other sports throughout childhood.

Like his older siblings, Schwesinger attended Santa Clarita Christian School, a private K through 12 school. His father doubled as head coach of the Santa Clarita Christian girls basketball team and an offensive assistant for the football program. Schwesinger played alongside his older brother in 2017 and 2018, although E.J. missed a chunk of that time with a torn ACL. Carson Schwesinger was an immediate impact player as a freshman on varsity at both wide receiver and linebacker, posting 83 tackles, 3.5 sacks and two interceptions, plus 44 catches for 604 yards. As a sophomore, Schwesinger finished with 69 tackles, two sacks, two interceptions and one forced fumble, plus 47 catches for 624 yards and six touchdowns. When Santa Clarita Christian transitioned from 11-man to eight-man football after the 2018 season, Schwesinger transferred to Oaks Christian High (the alma mater of several current NFL players, including Kayvon Thibodeaux, Michael Pittman Jr. and Zach Charbonnet). Schwesinger started at safety as a junior in 2019 and posted 80 tackles, three forced fumbles and one interception. His senior season featured a pandemic-abbreviated five-game schedule in the spring of 2021, and Schwesinger finished with 36 tackles and six interceptions. He also combined for 24 catches for 442 yards and four touchdowns over his two seasons at Oaks Christian.

A no-star recruit, Schwesinger wasn't ranked by the online recruiting services in the 2021 class. After playing at a smaller program as a freshman and sophomore, he went overlooked throughout the recruiting process. Schwesinger received his first scholarship offer from FCS Bucknell midway through his senior year. However, former UCLA head coach Chip Kelly and his staff recruited Oaks Christian, primarily to see four-star linebacker Ethan Calvert (who later signed with Utah), and the coaches convinced the Bruins' staff to take a long look at Schwesinger.

Instead of accepting a partial scholarship from Bucknell and relocating to Pennsylvania, Schwesinger accepted a walk-on opportunity at UCLA. He impressed in practice during the 2021 season and earned a spot on the scout team for special teams. Before the 2022 season, the coaching staff put Schwesinger on full scholarship. He followed in the footsteps of his older sister (Payton), who studied physiological science at UCLA, and wanted to be a part of the STEM program. Schwesinger was an eight-time Honor Roll member as a bioengineering major and is on pace to graduate in the spring of 2025. He elected to skip his final season of eligibility and enter the NFL Draft. Schwesinger accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but had to pull out because of injury.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (-/-)							Redshirted
2022: (13/0)	15	0.5	0	0	0	0	Put on full scholarship (Aug. 2022)
2023: (13/0)	12	2.0	1	0	0	0
2024: (12/10)	136	8.5	4	1	3	2	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; led Big Ten in tackles; led team in INTs; team captain
Total: (38/10)	163	11.0	5	1	3	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6024	242	9 1/4	31 5/8	77 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	39 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	20	VJ, bench only (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	238	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10'7"	4.25	7.05	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Field fast with speed to outpace blocking scheme and string out runs
- Impressive pursuit range to touch every blade of grass over the course of a game
- Outstanding play recognition to quickly key and diagnose (models game after Roquan Smith and Matt Milano)
- Bobcat of a tackler to consistently finish, even when technique isn't picture perfect
- Loose joints allow for fluid breakdowns as tackler on the move
- Has a knack for keeping himself clean in the box or when working down the line
- Alert following quarterback's eyes while matching up in man coverage versus backs/tight ends
- Understands route concepts and can spot drop in underneath zone as hook/curl defender
- Flashed better and better blitz timing as he got deeper into 2024 season
- Competitive edge and internal wiring are different
- NFL scouts rave about his effort and "walk-on" attitude
- Outstanding special teams profile (522 kickoff/punt coverage snaps, 15 tackles)
- High-volume tackle production (only Power 4 player with 130 tackles or more in 2024)

WEAKNESSES:

- Good-sized athlete and shows admirable fight but can be overwhelmed by size at the line (NFL scout: "He looks like a wide receiver.")
- Doesn't play with shock in his hands when taking on blocks
- Plays too fast at times, creating awkward tackling angles
- Could make things easier on himself by lowering his tackling strike zone
- Only one season of starting experience/production

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at UCLA, Schwesinger was the MIKE linebacker in defensive coordinator Ikaika Malloe's 3-3-5 base scheme, lining up mostly stacked and playing on all sub-packages (58.8 defensive snaps per game). The former walk-on was a special teams ace his first three seasons with the Bruins before emerging as an All-American in 2024 and producing an FBS-best 90 solo tackles (his 7.5 solo tackles per game are the most in the FBS since 2020).

A player in perpetual chase mode, Schwesinger is lightning quick in his key-and-react processing and flies to the football with an innate feel for beating blockers to the spot and navigating box traffic to stay clean. I want to see more shock and leverage in his hands when he does take on contact, but he has a high batting average as a tackler (just 10 career starts but had double-digit tackles in nine of them). Overall, Schwesinger is an easy player to appreciate, because he is a tractor beam to the ball, a consistent finisher as a tackler and always plays at full speed to close on plays in a blink. He has the instincts, demeanor and cover talent to be a four-down NFL starter early in his NFL career.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 38 overall)

LB3 Danny Stutsman

Oklahoma, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Windermere, FL	Foundation	Mar 10, 2003	22.12	6032	233	#28

BACKGROUND: Steven "Danny" Stutsman, the youngest of two children, grew up in Windermere, Fla. (15 miles west of Orlando), with his parents (Steve and Susy). Steve, who has more than 30 years' experience as a commercial/residential painter and founded SJS Painting in 2007, played tight end at Baylor (1987-91) before seeing action at linebacker and wide receiver in the Arena League (1992-93). Steve coached both of his children, in multiple sports. Susy, originally from Puerto Rico, played point guard on the Baylor women's basketball team. Steven and Susy met in Waco, Texas and got married before moving to Florida in 1993. Danny's older sister (Sabrina) played softball at Florida State (2015-18) and was part of the Seminoles' 2018 national championship team. Danny played baseball, basketball and several other sports throughout childhood before football became his focus. He played primarily quarterback throughout youth levels and helped lead the Bobcats to the 2014 FYFL AAU District Title.

Stutsman was a three-sport standout at Foundation Academy, a small private Christian school in Winter Garden (graduating class of 60). He played both ways on the football field as a linebacker and wide receiver (also took snaps at quarterback and running back). He saw immediate varsity action as a freshman and racked up 59 tackles, followed by an 86-tackle sophomore season. As a junior, Stutsman led Foundation to a 9-3 record and the 2019 2A regional finals. He earned all-state honors with 110 tackles, 19 tackles for loss, three sacks and two forced fumbles (one returned for a touchdown), adding 44 catches for 891 yards and 14 touchdowns. As a senior in 2020, Stutsman finished with 78 tackles, five sacks and two interceptions in eight games. He also posted 588 rushing yards, 542 receiving yards and 19 total touchdowns (10 rushing, seven receiving, two interception returns). Stutsman finished his high school career with a combined 333 tackles, 3,252 all-purpose yards and 48 touchdowns. He was also a power forward on the Foundation basketball team and averaged 13 points and seven rebounds in his three years on varsity. Stutsman lettered in track and had personal bests of 24.54 seconds in the 200 meters and 20 feet in the long jump.

A three-star recruit, Stutsman was the 47th-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 61 recruit in Florida. After his junior season, he received his first FBS scholarship offer from Kent State (April 2019). Soon after, Stutsman picked up offers from Maryland, Minnesota, NC State, Nebraska and Pittsburgh. He added an offer from Baylor (his parents' alma mater) but ultimately had a final three of Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Texas A&M. Despite not being able to visit Norman, Okla., because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Stutsman committed to the Sooners in May 2020. He was the 12th-ranked recruit in former head coach Lincoln Riley's 2021 class (same class as Caleb Williams).

Stutsman considered transferring after Riley left following the 2021 season, but he stayed following the hire of head coach Brent Venables. After his junior season, he initially declared for the 2024 NFL Draft before a change of heart led him back for his senior year (he announced the decision with a choreographed video that included Brian Bosworth). Stutsman graduated with a degree from Oklahoma (Dec. 2024). He declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (10/0)	38	1.5	1	2	0	0	Missed three games (left elbow); enrolled June 2021
2022: (13/13)	125	10.5	3	0	7	2	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led Big 12 in tackles
2023: (12/12)	104	16.0	3	2	4	1	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big 12; led team in tackles, TFL; missed one game (right ankle)
2024: (12/12)	110	8.0	1	0	0	0	Consensus All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in tackles; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (47/37)	377	36.0	8	4	11	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6032	233	9	32 1/8	77 1/2	4.52	2.63	1.56	34	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No BJ, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6031	236	9 1/8	32 5/8	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	22

STRENGTHS:

- Big athlete; plays fast and physical
- Quick to key, press and flow and won't back down from pulling blockers in hole
- Sees through blocks when mirroring at line to track football
- Uses hands and length to leverage and work off blocks
- Keeps eyes before his feet as tackler and drives through contact
- Lassos ball carriers out of reach and responds to cutback
- Effective inside pass/run blitz, hitting A-gap with speed, power and timing
- Outstanding leader and heartbeat of the program (NFL scout: "He connects with everyone in the locker room. ... He gave up some of his NIL money for the walk-ons so they felt seen. Dude gets it.")
- Finished Oklahoma career with 37 starts over final three seasons
- Surpassed 100 tackles each of past three seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Overaggressive flying downhill and needs to develop better balance with run patience
- Tight-hipped and labors versus misdirection
- Inconsistent coverage awareness when dropping in zones
- Too much delay reacting to throws — didn't register pass breakup as senior (313 coverage snaps)
- Might be a liability one-on-one against NFL backs in space
- Dislocated left elbow (Sept. 2021), which required minor surgery and sidelined him three games during freshman season; missed one game as junior because of sprained right ankle (Oct. 2023)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Oklahoma, Stutsman lined up as the MIKE linebacker in defensive coordinator Zac Alley's 4-2-5 base scheme. He led the Sooners in tackles each of the past three seasons and finished his career with 377 tackles, top 10 all-time in Sooners history.

With his field IQ and toughness, Stutsman is at his best diagnosing in the run game and playing with violence at the point of contact to tune up his target. He showed more promise in coverage as an underclassman compared to his senior tape, and he will struggle if asked to pattern match or make plays as a hole player against crossers. Overall, Stutsman doesn't have the proven coverage talent required of modern-day linebackers, but he is a gap-sound run defender and thundering tackler with the swagger (on and off the field) that will be welcome in the NFL. He will start early in his NFL career, because of his ability working downhill, although his development when working in reverse will determine his pro ceiling.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 87 overall)

LB4 Jeffrey Bassa

Oregon, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Salt Lake City, UT	Kearns	Sep 20, 2002	22.59	6012	228	#2

BACKGROUND: Jeffrey Bassa, the second of four children (and only boy), was born and raised in Salt Lake City. At age 12, his family relocated to Baton Rouge, La., for a few years before returning to Utah after Bassa finished seventh grade. His younger sister (Nabila) battled cancer when she was young — he says watching her go through treatments was a defining moment in his life and "helped him become a better brother and man today." (Nabila's cancer went into remission.)

Bassa grew up a basketball-focused athlete and didn't play organized football as a kid. He was playing basketball in eighth grade at Kearns Junior High when the varsity football coach convinced him to try out for the high school football team. Bassa enrolled at Kearns High School in Salt Lake City, where he was a multisport athlete. As a freshman, he made the football team, and it was "love at first sight" for him. After getting a taste of varsity as a freshman, Bassa saw his role increase as a sophomore as a two-way player (wide receiver and safety/nickel). He finished the 2018 season with 27 tackles, two sacks, one interception (returned for a touchdown) and a blocked field goal, plus 16 catches for 291 yards and four touchdowns. Bassa earned honorable mention all-state honors as a junior with 53 tackles, 10 tackles for loss and two interceptions (one returned for a touchdown). He also had his best season on offense — 18 receptions for 421 yards (23.4 average) and four touchdowns, leading Kearns to 10 wins and the 2019 regional championship.

As a senior, Bassa took home first-team all-state honors and led the team to an 8-1 finish in a season shortened because of the COVID-19 pandemic. He finished with 17 catches for 304 yards and three touchdowns, plus 38 tackles and one forced fumble. Bassa also added kick-return duties as a senior and had a pair of touchdowns. He also lettered in basketball and track at Kearns, with personal bests 20 feet, 8 inches in the long jump, 96-9 in the javelin, 11.24 seconds in the 100 meters and 23.24 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Bassa was the 22nd-ranked safety in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Utah (behind players such as Kingsley Suamataia, Jaxson Dart and Jackson Powers-Johnson). His recruitment started to take off after his sophomore season with an offer from nearby Utah, which liked him as a linebacker. Bassa collected more than a dozen offers before announcing a top six of Arizona State, Baylor, Louisville, Oklahoma State, Oregon and Utah the summer before his senior season. Midway through his senior season, he committed to former head coach Mario Cristobal and was the 17th-ranked recruit in the Ducks' 2021 class (which also included Suamataia and Powers-Johnson).

Bassa signed as a safety but started the transition to linebacker — a position he had never played before — midway through his freshman season. He graduated with a degree from Oregon (June 2024). Bassa accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the National Team's top linebacker during the week of practice.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (14/7)	48	3.5	1.0	0	1	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/9)	62	4.0	2.0	0	2	2
2023: (14/14)	72	3.5	0.0	0	2	1	Second Team All-Pac-12; 45-yard INT TD; bowl game defensive MVP
2024: (14/13)	54	2.5	1.5	2	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (55/43)	236	13.5	4.5	2	7	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6011	232	9 1/4	31 3/8	78 3/4	4.63	2.73	1.67	38 1/2	9' 10"	DNP	7.34	21	No shuttle (choice)
PRO DAY	6012	228	9 5/8	31 5/8	78 3/4	4.62	2.76	1.61	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Adequate size and play speed
- Plays with wide lateral shuffle to cover a lot of ground in mirror
- Rangy against the run to flow, stay ahead of blocks and shut down outside runs at numbers
- Will use sudden punch to stay unglued from blockers before they can cover him up
- Can see his safety background in ability to turn and run in coverage
- Brackets well down the seam to complicate catch windows
- Communicates adjustments pre-snap and brings energy
- Started 43 games and played on special teams all four seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Appears tight when attempting sudden direction changes
- Can be caught flat-footed in coverage, giving pass catcher chance to make move
- Loses depth in drops at times while tracking quarterback's eyes
- Tends to duck head when taking on blocks, losing sight of ball
- Had trouble when attempting to set edge against Ashton Jeanty runs
- Takes himself out of position when he attacks before reading
- Needs to improve timing and finish as a blitz

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Oregon, Bassa played Mike linebacker in defensive coordinator Tosh Lupoi's hybrid front seven (played Will as a freshman and sophomore before moving to the middle). He grew into the Ducks' defensive leader the past two seasons — and that extended to the Senior Bowl, where he was in charge of the huddles for the National Team (his on-field performance there is a good example of a prospect improving their draft grade by playing in an all-star game). Bassa gets impatient at times against the run, but he handles run fits and gap exchanges with excellent lateral flow to make stops. A former safety, he looks natural turning and running down the field in coverage. Overall, Bassa (who wore the green dot for the Ducks in 2024) needs to turn the "almost" plays into more steady production, but he does everything well on the football field and can become an NFL starter with improved consistency. His football arrow is pointing up.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round (No. 99 overall)

LB5 Smael Mondon Jr.

Georgia, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Dallas, GA	Paulding	Feb 13, 2003	22.19	6023	224	#2

BACKGROUND: Smael (Smile) Mondon Jr., one of five children, was born and raised outside of Atlanta with his parents (Smael Mondon Sr. and Dissa). He's named after his father, whose name was supposed to be "Ismael" but was misprinted on his documentation. In 1990, his parents immigrated to the United States from Ivory Coast for better opportunities. The family lived in New York City for more than 10 years, followed by a short stint in Boston. The Mondons then put down roots outside of Atlanta shortly before Smael Mondon Jr. was born. His family was unfamiliar with football, but Mondon started playing pee wee — and it quickly became his favorite activity.

Mondon attended Paulding County High, where he was a four-year letterman and played both ways. He moved up to varsity as a freshman and quickly established himself as one of the top players in the program with 45 tackles and an interception in his first season. Mondon played mostly linebacker and safety on defense and was a do-everything weapon on offense, lining up at quarterback, running back and wide receiver. Paulding County had a losing record in all four of Mondon's seasons, but he stayed loyal to the program. He missed most of his senior season because of meniscus surgery and finished with 38 tackles. He also lettered in track at Paulding and specialized in the triple jump, winning the 2019 Paulding County Championship (46 feet, 2 inches). Mondon had personal bests of 11.46 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.33 in the 200 and 18-4 in the long jump.

A five-star recruit, Mondon was the fourth-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Georgia (No. 2 linebacker in the state behind Barrett Carter). He was the No. 35 recruit nationally. As a sophomore, the offers started to pour in. Mondon finished with more than 40 full-ride offers, including from high-profile programs such as Alabama, Michigan and Ohio State. He announced a final five of Auburn, Florida, Georgia, LSU and Tennessee. On his grandmother's birthday, Mondon announced he would stay close to home and attend Georgia. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in head coach Kirby Smart's 2021 class. Mondon graduated with a degree from Georgia (Dec. 2024). He accepted an invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (15/0)	12	1.0	1	0	0	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/13)	76	8.0	1	0	2	1	Led team in tackles; missed two games (ankle)
2023: (13/11)	68	5.0	3	0	1	0	Second Team All-SEC; missed bowl game (left foot)
2024: (10/8)	57	3.5	3	0	3	0	Missed four games (foot)
Total: (51/32)	213	17.5	8	0	6	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6022	224	9 3/4	31 3/4	80 1/8	4.58	2.66	1.56	DNP	10'10"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No VJ, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6023	229	9 3/4	32 1/8	80 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Long-armed athlete with lean, defined muscle tone
- Above-average speed to shoot downhill or get sideline to sideline
- Pursues with different gears, including serious closing burst
- Slippery through gaps but also uses violent hands to punch off blocks
- Can get depth in zone drops or attach to running backs/tight ends in man
- Drops pads as tackler and understands leverage to minimize misses
- Played on punt coverage all four seasons (two tackles in 2024)
- Never been afraid of the work (his first job in high school was at McDonald's)
- Plays through injuries; resilient when attacking rehab to miss minimal time
- Grew into an on-field leader — his voice was "missed" when injured, according to his teammates (loudest defensive player during Senior Bowl drills)

WEAKNESSES:

- Slender torso and likely near maxed-out physically
- Triggers with the play but would like to see better anticipation based on play design
- Plays physical but doesn't qualify for "thumper" status downhill
- Low production in coverage and needs to lose the blinders
- Had a silly unnecessary roughness penalty out of bounds in the 2024 SEC Championship Game
- Arrested and charged with reckless driving (July 2024); charges were dismissed, and he pled guilty to misdemeanor count of driving too fast for conditions
- Durability is a question mark — missed four games as senior with foot injury (Oct. 2024); left foot injury during 2023 spring practices, which he played through for much of season before requiring surgery after season; missed 2022 spring practices because of labrum surgery; required meniscus clean-up surgery and missed most of senior year of high school

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Georgia, Mondon played the Will linebacker position in head coach Kirby Smart's hybrid front seven. After Nakobe Dean and Quan Walker graduated following the 2021 season, Mondon stepped up as the Bulldogs' top tackler in 2022 and was productive as a junior and senior, despite battling a nagging foot issue.

Mondon is one of the best athletes at the position in this draft class (Smart calls him "as good an athlete" as he has ever seen) and has the read-react quickness, change-of-direction skills and open-field acceleration to track down plays. He displays the physicality to work off contact versus the run and as a blitzer, but he can do a better job staying ahead of blocks and when dropping in coverage to sniff out passing lanes. Overall,

Mondon needs to see things a half-beat faster to reach his full potential, but his athletic range and toughness give him upside as a four-down NFL linebacker. His health could be the main concern that keeps him from becoming an NFL starter.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

LB6 Demetrius Knight Jr.

South Carolina, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Locust Grove, GA	Strong Rock Christian	Jan 04, 2000	25.30	6015	235	#17

BACKGROUND: Demetrius Knight Jr., who has a younger sister (Knyla), grew up in Henry County, Ga. (south of Atlanta), with his parents (Demetrius and Stephanie). He started playing football in elementary school, first on the offensive line before showing off what he could with the ball in his hands for the pee wee Stallions. Several of Knight's family members have played football, including his cousin (DeAngelo Hall), a first-round pick (No. 8) in the 2004 NFL Draft who played 14 seasons in the NFL. Knight is also distant relatives with R&B musical artists Gladys Knight and Aretha Franklin. Knight met his future wife (Jensy) in high school on a mission trip to Haiti, and the couple later married in September 2022. They have a 2-year-old daughter (Kamila) and their son (Malachi) turns 1 in June 2025.

Knight attended Strong Rock Christian School, a private school in Locust Grove not exactly known for its football program. While playing quarterback, running back, wide receiver and defensive back, he became a varsity starter as a freshman and accounted for 1,313 yards (935 passing, 378 rushing) and 11 touchdowns (six passing, five rushing). As a sophomore in 2017, Knight saw most of his time at wide receiver and posted 35 catches for 486 yards and two touchdowns. He also had 37 tackles and one interception, as he helped Strong Rock Christian to the school's first-ever playoff appearance. Knight earned second-team all-region and all-county honors as a junior captain with 1,025 passing yards, 682 rushing yards and 18 total touchdowns. As a senior captain, he surpassed 1,000 yards both passing and rushing and again earned all-region honors. Knight earned MVP honors playing for the U.S. national team against Canada in the USA Football Invitational at AT&T Stadium. He also lettered in baseball, basketball and track and finished fourth at the 2019 state championships in the 100 meters (11.02 seconds). He had personal bests of 23.47 in the 200 and 21 feet, 3 inches in the long jump.

A three-star recruit, Knight was the 31st-ranked dual-threat quarterback in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 119 recruit in Georgia. Playing at a Class A private school, he went overlooked as a recruit and didn't have any recruiting stars until he committed to Georgia Tech the summer before his senior year. His first scholarship offer came from FCS Tennessee Tech in April 2018. Two months later, Knight attended a camp at Georgia Tech and impressed with his speed and arm and secured a scholarship (as a quarterback) from former head coach Paul Johnson. Knight stayed committed after Johnson's retirement following the 2018 season and was part of Geoff Collins' first recruiting class at Georgia Tech, although the new staff wanted Knight as more of an "athlete." He was the 18th-ranked recruit in Collins' 2019 class and became the first football player in Strong Rock Christian history to earn a Division I scholarship.

Knight played primarily on special teams over his first three seasons at Georgia Tech (also practiced at quarterback). After Georgia Tech fired Collins a month into the 2022 season, Knight left the team after four games (to secure redshirt status) and entered the transfer portal (Oct. 2022). Charlotte strength and conditioning coach Lewis Caralla, who previously had worked on the Georgia Tech staff, reached out to Knight and invited him for a visit. He received an offer and enrolled at Charlotte in January 2022. To help provide for their family while at Charlotte, Knight and his wife held jobs as DoorDash delivery drivers (sometimes after games).

After one season, Knight decided to take advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and entered the transfer portal. After his visit to Columbia, Knight was locked on South Carolina for 2024. There, he rejoined Kyle Kennard, his teammate at Georgia Tech. Knight was a three-time ACC Academic Honor Roll recipient and graduated with a degree in literature, media and communication from Georgia Tech (Dec. 2022). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (12/0)	18	2.0	1.0	1	2	0	Georgia Tech; enrolled June 2019
2020: (8/0)	18	1.0	0.0	1	0	0	Georgia Tech; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/0)	6	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Georgia Tech; 1-for-1 passing for 4 yards
2022: (4/0)	9	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Georgia Tech; redshirted; entered transfer portal after fourth game (Oct. 2022)
2023: (12/12)	96	5.5	1.5	0	7	3	Charlotte; First Team All-AAC; led team in INTs, tackles; 16-yard INT TD
2024: (13/10)	82	8.0	2.0	3	2	1	South Carolina; led team in FFs; team captain
Total: (61/22)	229	16.5	4.5	5	11	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6015	235	10	32 5/8	80 1/2	4.58	2.69	1.63	31 1/2	9'10"	4.25	7.12	22
PRO DAY	6015	236	10	32 5/8	81 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Long, angular frame and carries 245 pounds well
- Light on feet for quick reactions with terrific straight-line speed
- Flashes serious closing burst, especially as blitz (see strip sack 2024 Oklahoma tape)
- Capable spy with good feel for when to unlock and drive
- Trusts eyes in run game to diagnose and park in correct gap
- Quickness and hands help him navigate rush-hour traffic at line
- Has some thump behind his tackles, with a decent tackle radius
- Extensive special teams background (675 career snaps)
- Described as "weight room addict" and twice named "lifter of the year" at Georgia Tech; won Gamecocks' Strength and Conditioning Award
- Established himself as a Gamecocks leader and team captain, despite just one season in the program

WEAKNESSES:

- Some tightness in quick direction changes
- Will take cheese on play fakes and misdirection
- Can be attacked in man coverage when stuck on an island
- Doesn't anticipate enough to be playmaker in pass defense
- Doesn't play inexperienced but lack of starting reps (for a sixth-year senior) is concerning
- Older player — will be 25 on draft weekend

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at South Carolina, Knight played the Mike linebacker spot in defensive coordinator Clayton White's flex-nickel scheme. A mature, well-traveled player, he spent four seasons as a special-teamer at Georgia Tech and one at Charlotte before transferring to Columbia in 2024. He quickly ingrained himself into South Carolina's culture and became a productive team leader on defense.

An active, green-dot defender, Knight has a quick downhill trigger against the run, with the straight-line pursuit speed to drive and finish at the ball carrier. Though he has some limitations in coverage, he is a capable underneath zone defender who can reach his landmark and get eyes on the passer. Overall, Knight won't be a true three-down player for some schemes, but he fits the bill for a defense seeking a fast, thumping run stuffer and blitz (see strip sack 2024 Oklahoma tape) with an old-school mentality. He has early-down starting potential and should see immediate reps on special teams.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

LB7 Chris Paul Jr.

Ole Miss, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Cordele, GA	Crisp County	Nov 04, 2002	22.47	6007	222	#11

BACKGROUND: Chris "Pooh" Paul Jr., one of eight children (six older sisters, one younger brother), was born and raised in Cordele, Ga., with his parents (Chris Sr. and Velieka). His father, who served in the Navy for six years, played high school football for Crisp County and semi-pro for Valdosta in 1998. Starting at age 7, Paul was coached by his father throughout pee wee, youth football and high school. He played linebacker and running back while also starring in other sports, including baseball. Paul's fiancée (Nya Stewart) played basketball at Arkansas Fort-Smith (2020-23) and now serves as an assistant coach. Their daughter (Laya) was born in May 2024.

Paul enrolled at Crisp County High, where he played both ways as a linebacker and running back. He broke into the starting lineup as a freshman and earned second-team all-region honors. Paul helped Crisp County to the 2018 regional title as a sophomore and posted with 92 tackles, 12 tackles for loss and 6.5 sacks. As a junior, he led the team to an 11-4 finish and a spot in the 2019 3A state championship game, finishing with 157 tackles, 10 tackles for loss and 4.5 sacks. As a senior, Paul recorded 91 tackles, 20 tackles for loss, 2.5 sacks, one forced fumble and one blocked punt, earning all-state defensive player of the year honors for the second straight year. He also accounted for 197 rushing yards, 192 receiving yards and 10 total touchdowns. Paul played shortstop on the Crisp County baseball team through his sophomore year and lettered in track.

A three-star recruit, Paul was the 80th-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 72 recruit. After his sophomore season, he picked up his first scholarship offer from UCF (Jan. 2019). Shortly after, Paul added offers from Cincinnati, Michigan State, Nebraska, TCU and West Virginia. The summer before his senior year, Arkansas entered the mix and Paul jumped at the chance to play in the SEC. He was the 18th-ranked recruit in the Razorbacks' 2021 class. After three seasons in Fayetteville, Paul entered the transfer portal in December 2023. He received offers from dozens of programs, including Auburn, Florida State, Missouri, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Texas A&M, but he quickly committed to Ole Miss after visiting the school. His fiancée, who was pregnant at the time, planned to have the baby in her hometown of Memphis — the proximity to Ole Miss made the decision even easier. After one season with the Rebels, Paul elected to skip Ole Miss' bowl game and his senior season to enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (4/0)	1	0.5	0.0	0	0	0	Arkansas; redshirted; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/2)	62	8.0	4.0	1	0	0	Arkansas; Freshman All-American; Freshman All-SEC
2023: (11/9)	74	6.5	2.0	0	1	0	Arkansas; missed one game (injury)
2024: (12/11)	88	11.0	3.5	0	5	1	Ole Miss; Third Team All-American; Second Team All-SEC; led team in tackles; enrolled January 2024
Total: (40/22)	225	26.0	9.5	1	6	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6007	222	9 3/8	29 7/8	75 3/8	4.63	2.69	1.58	36	9'9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (injury during drills)
PRO DAY	6007	225	9 3/8	30 1/2	76 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.45	7.46	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Twitched-up athlete who plays fast and physical
- Takes sharp, decisive angles and doesn't play unsure of himself
- Has range to make plays outside the numbers and logs more steps than everyone else on the field
- Sees through blocks when mirroring laterally to string out runs
- Fierce hands as tackler to finish the mission
- Green-dot defender for the Rebels
- Plays with relentless nature that you feel on each tape
- Quickly reaches depth in zone coverage and returns eyes to the quarterback
- Explosive blitzer who races through gaps before blocking scheme can react

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks ideal length, mass and growth potential (not built to play in a phone booth)
- Shorter arms limit his take-on ability and leaves him engulfed by offensive linemen (and some tight ends)
- Doesn't always see blocks in peripherals
- Frenetic pace leaves him vulnerable to cutbacks
- Average drive-through power as tackler, which leaves him hugging/pulling to finish
- Gets to landmarks in coverage but needs to develop route anticipation to be more of a playmaker versus pass

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Ole Miss, Paul played the "Mike" linebacker role in defensive coordinator Pete Golding's 4-2-5 base scheme. Though he was productive in his first three seasons at Arkansas, he played his best ball after transferring to Ole Miss — led the team in tackles in 2024 and benefitted from playing behind a defensive line full of future pros. A highly active, run-around linebacker, Paul is an easy linebacker to appreciate, because of his play speed, execution and competitive toughness (he always had the dirtiest jersey on each tape studied).

His lack of inches stands out, but he doesn't try to be something he's not and compensates for his lack of take-on length by eluding blockers or attacking full-speed into contact. Overall, Paul won't be a fit for NFL teams that have strict size thresholds at the position, but his "all-out" play style will find a way to be productive at the next level. He should shine on special teams.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

LB8 Kobe King

Penn State, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Detroit, MI	Cass Technical	Jan 28, 2003	22.24	6006	243	#41

BACKGROUND: Kobe King, who has a younger twin brother (Kalen), was born and raised in Detroit with his parents (TaDarrell and Felicia). The twins were inseparable growing up and often could be found playing sports — they gravitated toward football from age 5. Starting in elementary school, the brothers trained with their father and became each other's fiercest competition. King grew up watching Michigan football and idolized linebacker Devin Bush. He also starred in basketball (named after Kobe Bryant) and wrestling.

King enrolled at Detroit's Cass Technical High and was a four-year varsity letterman in football, helping the program to district and regional championships as a freshman in 2017. King played both linebacker, defensive end and running back as a sophomore. He posted 42 tackles, nine tackles for loss and two forced fumbles, helping Cass Tech to an 11-win season. He became a team captain for his final two seasons and finished with 47 tackles, 12 tackles for loss and one forced fumble as a junior, earning all-city and all-state honors in 2019. King helped Cass Tech to a 12-2 finish and was named the league's defensive player of the year in 2020, plus he picked up all-region and all-state honors. He was also a national champion wrestler at the 225-pound level and earned 2019 All-America honors.

A three-star recruit, King was the 48th-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 12 recruit in Michigan (Kalen ranked eighth in the state as a cornerback). After his freshman season, he received his first scholarship offer from Toledo (Feb. 2018), followed by his first then-Power 5 offer a few months later (Iowa State). After his sophomore year, King received an offer from Michigan, the school he'd grown up following. The twins had attended games at Michigan Stadium and watched several local players, including Donovan Peoples-Jones and Jourdan Lewis, star in Ann Arbor after Cass Tech careers. The twins received mostly the same offers and were considered a package deal. Together, they announced a top five of Arkansas, Iowa, Michigan, Penn State and Wisconsin.

There was a moment when Kobe considered going his own way and committing to Wisconsin, but both King brothers developed tight relationships with the Penn State coaching staff — and Micah Parsons hosting them on their official visit was the clincher. Kobe King was the 12th-ranked recruit in head coach James Franklin's 2021 class (Kalen ranked No. 2) The twins, who shared a bedroom growing up, lived together in an apartment in Happy Valley and were never really apart until 2024, when Kalen elected to leave school early for the NFL Draft. He was selected by the Green Bay Packers in the seventh round (No. 255). Kobe stayed another year but decided to skip his fifth season and enter the NFL Draft. He declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (4/0)	3	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/0)	41	4.0	0.0	0	3	0
2023: (13/11)	59	6.0	1.5	0	0	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (16/16)	97	8.5	3.0	1	1	0	Second Team All-Big Ten; team captain
Total: (46/27)	200	18.5	4.5	1	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6006	236	9 1/2	31 1/4	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No testing (choice)
PRO DAY	DNP	243	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.67	2.70	1.57	DNP	9'10"	4.32	7.19	26

STRENGTHS:

- Compact build with stout muscle throughout
- Brings trademark physicality to the ring and won't tap out
- Delivers healthy blows to climbers and puts blockers on turf with heavy shoulder
- Moves well laterally to mirror against run and bounce between gaps
- Bursty pursuit angles to scrape and sift through rush-hour traffic
- Runs through ball carrier to create collisions as tackler
- Reads block development to time attack
- Mixes it up as pass rusher and can be a weapon on simulated pressures
- Team captain in 2024 and offers dependable football character

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks ideal length, which leaves him stuck on blocks at times
- Take-on physicality is much better than take-on technique
- Occasionally creates bad angles for himself, leading to near misses
- Speed was solid for Big Ten but could become an issue against NFL competition
- Has some range in coverage but very little feel to make plays
- Lacks fluidity to be a reliable man-to-man cover player
- Late to drive and struggled challenging passing windows
- Never led his team in tackles in college

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Penn State, King was the Mike linebacker in former defensive coordinator Tom Allen's 4-2-5 base scheme and rarely came off the field (third-most defensive snaps for the Nittany Lions in 2024). His production and impact improved each season, and his presence in the middle of the field was a key reason why Penn State ranked No. 7 in total defense. With his violent play style, there is nothing passive about the way King plays downhill — he relies on his eyes, timing and physicality to muck up the run game. He is an adequate athlete in coverage and often finds himself in striking distance, but his lack of on-ball production reflects his struggles to impact the catch point. Overall, King will be targeted by offenses in coverage, but he fills quickly and powerfully at contact with the skill set to be a useful run defender. He projects as a throwback, early-down NFL linebacker with special teams potential.

GRADE: 4th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Suwanee, GA	North Gwinnett	Oct 23, 2002	22.50	6001	232	#0

BACKGROUND: Barrett Carter, who has two older sisters, grew up in Chicago. His parents (Barrett Carter Sr. and Alexis) moved the family to Suwanee, Ga., a northeast suburb of Atlanta, when he was 7. He started playing football at age 5 but blossomed in the sport after the move to Georgia. Carter's first love was baseball, and he was also active in basketball (his dad has a basketball background). Playing primarily running back and wide receiver, he quickly established himself as one of the top players in the North Gwinnett Youth football program and in middle school.

Carter attended North Gwinnett High. He initially played on the freshman team before moving up to varsity later in the year (as a running back) and helping the program capture the 2017 7A state championship (first state title in school history). Despite his objections, the varsity coaches moved him to linebacker as a sophomore in 2018 (Carter: "I hated defense, I had never really played it before.") — he finished with 51 tackles and seven tackles for loss. As a junior, Carter led North Gwinnett to 12 wins and the 2019 regional title, finishing with 73 tackles and 10 sacks. In a pandemic-shortened senior season, he did a little bit of everything on offense (wildcat quarterback, running back and wide receiver) and defense (linebacker and safety). Carter was named National Defensive High School Player of the Year with 49 tackles, 11 tackles for loss, five sacks and a 79-yard interception return for a touchdown. He rushed for 429 yards (9.3 average) and 10 touchdowns, made seven catches for 68 yards and threw a 13-yard touchdown pass.

A five-star recruit, Carter was the third-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 3 recruit in Georgia. He was the 33rd-ranked recruit nationally, one spot behind his future Clemson teammate Will Shipley. Carter received his first scholarship offer (Temple) after his freshman season in May 2018. His recruitment blew up after his sophomore season, when he received offers from Alabama, Auburn, Notre Dame and Texas A&M. Carter received more than 60 scholarship offers in all before narrowing his final choice to Clemson, Georgia and Ohio State. After his visit to Clemson, he committed to head coach Dabo Swinney in May 2020. Carter, who had been recruited by former defensive coordinator Brent Venables, was the second-ranked recruit in Clemson's 2021 class. He was a three-time ACC Honor Roll honoree and graduated with a degree in sports communications (Dec. 2024). Carter declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/1)	16	1.0	0.0	0	1	0	3-yard fumble-return TD; enrolled August 2001
2022: (13/13)	73	10.5	5.5	2	10	2	Honorable Mention All-ACC; missed one game (concussion)
2023: (12/12)	62	9.5	3.5	0	6	1	Second Team All-ACC; missed one game (ankle)
2024: (14/14)	82	10.5	3.5	0	7	0	Third Team All-American; First Team All-ACC; led team in tackles; 4-yard rush TD (on senior day)
Total: (52/40)	233	31.5	12.5	2	24	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6001	231	9 1/4	32 1/8	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	34 1/2	9'8"	4.41	DNP	DNP	No 40, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6001	232	9	32 3/8	78	4.63	2.68	1.59	33	DNP	DNP	DNP	22

STRENGTHS:

- Sudden speed and closes on the ball like a ravenous predator
- Frequently makes stops outside the numbers with perimeter range
- Quick to key on blocking scheme and flow to appropriate gap
- Able to slam on brakes mid-sprint to corral cutback angles
- Broken-tackle rate dropped from 20.5 percent in 2023 to 10 percent in '24
- Doesn't have any trouble turning and running with backs on wheel routes
- Tracks quarterback's eyes to get his hands in passing lanes (21 career passes defended)
- Rarely leaves the field (93 defensive snaps on the 2024 Pitt tape)
- Was a regular on punt coverage each of past three seasons (360 career punt/kickoff coverage snaps)
- Embraced veteran role in 2024 (defensive coordinator Wes Goodwin: "No one's more respected.")
- Missed only two games because of injury during four seasons at Clemson (52 games played)

WEAKNESSES:

- Longer arms than expected for his size but doesn't consistently use them effectively
- Needs to be more purposeful and well-timed with hands to shed road blocks
- Usually ends up where blockers want him to go
- Straight-line tendencies; looked slightly heavier and tighter on the 2024 tape
- Overcommits to gaps, leaving him late to scrape laterally and answer lane-changing runners
- Attacks high with only average finishing force, giving powerful runners the chance to escape his grasp
- Awareness in zone coverage brings both highs and lows
- Texas tight end Gunnar Helm bullied him at top of route

- Explosive downhill blitzing but needs clear lanes to be effective and lacks pass-rushing instincts
- Missed one game as sophomore after suffering concussion (Oct. 2022)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Clemson, Carter lined up as a MIKE linebacker in defensive coordinator Wes Goodwin's scheme (he was originally recruited to play the "Cheetah" position that Isaiah Simmons popularized while with the Tigers). He rarely came off the field (59.4 defensive snaps per game the past three seasons) and posted steady production.

A speedy run-and-hit athlete, Carter is one of the best open-field pursuit defenders in this draft class and has genuine sideline-to-sideline range. Though he tracks the ball well, he will run himself into roadblocks and needs to widen his vision and improve his take-on hands to avoid becoming Velcroed to blockers. Overall, Carter plays with the type of pursuit speed that can be weaponized as both a run defender and cover man, although he might be too reactionary and undersized for what some NFL schemes desire. At the very least, he will be lightning on special teams coverages while fighting for footing on the linebacker depth chart.

GRADE: 4th round

LB10 Kain Medrano

UCLA, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pueblo, CO	Pueblo East	Feb 16, 2001	24.18	6027	222	#20

BACKGROUND: Kain Medrano (MEH-draw-no), who has a younger sister (Harlie), was raised on his family's 1,500-acre cattle ranch in Pueblo, Colo. (100 miles south of Denver), with his parents (Mark and Alexa). He had daily farming chores and grew up involved in the rodeo (his grandfather was a bull rider and judge for the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association). Medrano competed in rodeo in elementary school and in the 2008 Mutton Bustin' World Championships in Las Vegas in first grade. He also started playing organized sports around the same time and developed a love for football, starting at age 4 in flag football, followed by pee wee ball with the Gators and Hawks.

Medrano enrolled at Pueblo East High, where he was a four-sport athlete. After being part of the school's state championship-winning team as a freshman in 2015, he posted 52 tackles and three interceptions as a sophomore, helping the team to a 13-1 record and the third of three straight Class 3A state championships. Playing both ways as a wide receiver and safety, Medrano finished his junior season with 82 tackles and one interception, plus 37 receptions for 721 yards and nine touchdowns. He had his most productive season as a senior with 66 catches for 1,211 yards and 21 touchdown grabs, adding 239 rushing yards and a rushing touchdown as he led Pueblo East to a 12-3 record and the 2018 league title. Medrano also posted 111 tackles and seven touchdowns (two returned for touchdowns), earning all-state honors for the second straight year. He had three punt return touchdowns over his prep career.

Medrano was named the state of Colorado Scholar-Athlete of the Year in 2019. He lettered in baseball and basketball and was highly decorated in track and field, including multiple top-three finishes. Medrano had personal bests of 59 feet in the shot put, 199-9 in the discus and 176-6 in the javelin. He won 2018 state titles in both the shot put and discus.

A three-star recruit, Medrano was the 112th-ranked athlete in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 14 recruit Colorado. The summer before his senior year, he held an offer from Division II Western Colorado and picked up his first Division I offer from FCS Northern Colorado. He received his first FBS offer from Wyoming, followed by another from Colorado State in June 2018. After a recruiting visit to UCLA, Medrano received an offer from former head coach Chip Kelly — his lone offer from a power conference. He committed to the Bruins as a wide receiver and was the 16th-ranked recruit in Kelly's 2019 class. After the 2019 season, Kelly asked him to switch positions to linebacker, a position he'd never really played. Medrano took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his sixth season. He graduated with a degree from UCLA (June 2023). Medrano accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (1/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (5/0)	4	1.0	0.0	0	2	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/0)	26	1.0	0.0	0	1	0
2022: (9/1)	38	1.5	0.0	1	2	1
2023: (13/13)	56	7.0	2.0	1	2	0	Blocked punt
2024: (12/12)	72	11.0	1.5	3	6	2	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in INTs, FFs; 38-yard INT TD
Total: (50/26)	196	21.5	3.5	5	13	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6027	222	9 1/8	32	77 1/4	4.46	2.57	1.52	38	10'5"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6027	228	9	32 5/8	77 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.26	6.96	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Play speed and timed speed both pop
- Able to shift gears on command, which helps him navigate traffic
- Trusts his eyes to take his feet to football
- Comfortable dropping and driving on throws
- Has athleticism to flex out against running backs or tight ends in man coverage
- Set school and city high school records in discus (energy creation from lower half translates to football field)
- Learned hard work growing up on family farm
- Immediate contributor on special teams (591 career special teams snaps in college, including a blocked punt in 2023)

WEAKNESSES:

- Missed tackles greatly affected multiple games (see 2024 LSU and Oregon tapes)
- Doesn't have top-tier size or length for NFL duties
- Attempts to attack with violence when taking on blocks, but offensive linemen will Pac-Man him
- Can get stuck at times with backfield action and play fakes
- Loses feel in coverage once he turns his back
- Older player and needed until his sixth season on campus to have a true breakout year

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at UCLA, Medrano was the Will linebacker in defensive coordinator Ikaika Malloe’s 3-3-5 base scheme. He struggled to find consistent defensive snaps over his first four years with the Bruins, but he made strides as a first-year starter in 2023 and became an impact player in 2024, finishing second on the team in tackles and creating five turnovers (three forced fumbles, two interceptions).

Medrano is a fun player to study, because of his short-area burst and range to impact the game in several ways. Slightly undersized, he is inconsistent playing through contact. The most concerning aspect of his college tape, however, is his alarming number of missed tackles, regardless of the 2024 tape studied. Overall, Medrano must better balance being aggressive and improving his discipline, but his speed and hyper-activity level will serve him well on an NFL field. His experience and traits will earn him an immediate role on special teams.

GRADE: 4th round

LB11 Cody Simon

Ohio State, 5SR

HOMETOWN Jersey City, NJ	HIGH SCHOOL St. Peter's Prep	BIRTHDAY Apr 01, 2002	AGE 23.06	HT 6017	WT 232	NUM #0
-----------------------------	---------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Cody Simon, the youngest of two boys, was born and raised in Essex County, N.J., with his parents (Mike and Amy Ellis-Simon). Both of his parents played college sports and studied finance. Mike was an inside center on Army's rugby team at Army, and Amy ran track at Michigan. Amy, now a managing director at Morgan Stanley, was the first Black woman to be named a managing director in investment banking at Merrill Lynch. Cody's older brother (Shayne) played linebacker at Notre Dame (2018-21) and Pittsburgh (2022-23), then signed with the Buffalo Bills as an undrafted free agent following the 2024 NFL Draft.

While often following in his brother's footsteps, Cody Simon played multiple sports throughout childhood, including basketball, football, taekwondo and track. He was a quarterback in Pop Warner (like Shayne) but later stepped away from football in middle school before rediscovering his love for the game.

Simon followed his brother and enrolled at St. Peter's Prep, an all-boys school in Jersey City. He primarily played on the freshman and JV teams his first season before being called up to varsity during a 2016 playoff run. Simon played both ways as a receiver and linebacker and collected 34 tackles as a sophomore. As a junior, he finished with 89 tackles, 13.5 tackles for loss, 4.5 sacks, one forced fumble and one interception, which he returned 90 yards for a touchdown to knock off top-ranked Bergen Catholic. As a senior, Simon helped lead St. Peter's Prep to an 11-1 record and the 2019 state championship. He finished his final season with 106 tackles, 4.5 sacks, four interceptions and one forced fumble, earning U.S. Army All-American honors. Simon also lettered in basketball at St. Peter's Prep before giving up the sport to focus on football.

A four-star recruit, Simon was the fourth-ranked inside linebacker in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in New Jersey (one spot ahead of his future Buckeyes teammate Luke Wypler). He was also the No. 75 recruit nationally. As a freshman, Simon received his first scholarship offer from Maryland (May 2017). After his sophomore season, he added offers from Boston College, Nebraska, North Carolina, Stanford, Virginia Tech and Notre Dame (where his brother played). Simon added an offer from Ohio State in the spring of his junior year, and he officially committed a few months later (June 2019). He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Columbus for his fifth season. Simon earned Academic All-Big Ten honors three times and graduated with a degree in finance (Dec. 2023). He is currently working on his master's degree in human development and family services. Simon was named a semifinalist for the 2024 Jason Witten Collegiate Man of the Year Award.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/0)	4	0.0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (12/10)	54	2.5	1	0	2	1	Missed bowl game (right shoulder)
2022: (13/0)	32	5.5	2	1	1	0
2023: (13/5)	57	3.0	0	0	2	0
2024: (15/15)	112	12.5	7	1	7	0	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in tackles; national title game Def. MVP; missed opener (injury); team captain
Total: (59/30)	259	23.5	10	2	12	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6017	229	9 3/4	31 1/4	75 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6015	232	10	31 3/4	75 7/8	4.60	2.59	1.54	33 1/2	10'0"	4.38	7.19	21

STRENGTHS:

- Compactly built with thickness in his legs and lower half
- Diagnoses keys with "do your job" discipline, not hero ball
- Plays decisive with straight-line explosiveness in pursuit
- Agile-footed to sift through traffic and shimmy past blockers
- Above-average patience and pacing on run blitzes and delayed pressures (third on team in sacks in 2024)
- Solid break down and strike-through tackling skills
- Didn't commit a penalty on 1,861 career defensive snaps
- Voted 2024 team captain and described as the "ultimate team guy"
- Selfless individual and personal character is off the charts (former Ohio State defensive coordinator Jim Knowles: "Cody is a future president of the United States.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Average length; more effective slipping blocks than taking them on
- Lacks suddenness disengaging contact
- Can be more nail than hammer as tackler when not properly squared to runner
- Loses sight of backfield action at times
- Average open-field twitch and loses phase in coverage (allowed six catches of 15 yards or more in 2024)
- Subpar coverage anticipation
- Missed 2024 season opener because of a lower-body injury from fall camp (Aug. 2024); torn labrum in right shoulder (Nov. 2021), which limited him late in the season and required surgery (held out of 2022 spring practices; Tommy Eichenberg passed him on depth chart)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ohio State, Simon was the Mike linebacker in former defensive coordinator Jim Knowles' 4-2-5 base scheme, lining up mostly stacked with some reps in the slot. Despite a 2021 injury that sidetracked his trajectory, he stayed committed and confident and became the glue of the defense as a senior. He was awarded the "Block O" jersey in 2024 and led the team in tackles, proving his value throughout the College Football Playoffs (named defensive MVP of the Rose Bowl and national championship game).

With his instinctive, competitive play style, Simon limits mental mistakes and shows a natural feel for navigating blocking schemes to drive on the ball carrier. He has the functional athleticism to be a zone-coverage defender, although his lack of dynamic twitch and coverage anticipation will limit him when isolated in space. Overall, Simon is urgent and decisive downhill with terrific key-and-diagnose skills, but he will need to prove not to be a liability on passing downs to ascend past role-player status. His intangibles will make him a favorite of the NFL coaching staff that drafts him.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

LB12 Jack Kiser

Notre Dame, 6SR

HOMETOWN Royal Center, IN	HIGH SCHOOL Pioneer	BIRTHDAY Sep 10, 2000	AGE 24.62	HT 6015	WT 229	NUM #24
------------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jack Kiser, the youngest of four children, grew up on the family's second-generation, 500-acre farm in Royal Center, Ind. (population: 850), with his parents (Aaron and Deborah). Throughout his upbringing, his focus was on three things: school, sports and farming chores (also participated in the 4H). He started playing football in second grade (his father was the coach), as well as whatever other sports he could. Wrestling was his favorite sport as a kid — he won the folkstyle wrestling state title four times and the 170-pound state championship in eighth grade.

Kiser grew up in a Purdue family and attended Boilermakers games and camps throughout childhood. His father was on the Purdue track team (discus and shot put) and won several Big Ten medals. His uncle (Brian) was named Purdue's 1990 Athlete of the Year after winning the Big Ten championship in the discus. He had numerous other family members attend Purdue, including his older brother (Sam). Kiser's oldest brother (Bryce) was a defensive end at Illinois State (2010-14). His older sister (Madison) competed in track and cross country at Louisville (2017-18) before transferring to Ball State (2019-21), where she competed in the 800 meters and relays. Jack proposed to his high school sweetheart (Meagan Chan) in August 2024 (wedding is scheduled for June 2025).

Kiser attended Pioneer Junior-Senior High, where he was a four-year letterman and one of the top athletes to go through the program. He played fullback and defensive end on varsity as a freshman, helping the program to a 12-1 finish. Kiser finished with 1,613 rushing yards and 22 touchdowns, plus 66 tackles. He moved to quarterback (in a Wing-T offense) as a sophomore and led Pioneer to a 14-1 record and the 2016 conference championship (only loss came in the Class A state title game). As a junior in 2017, Kiser willed Pioneer back to the Class A state title game, which it won to cap off an undefeated 15-0 season. He accounted for 1,964 passing yards, 1,193 rushing yards and 54 total touchdowns (38 rushing, 16 passing), adding 100 tackles and eight interceptions. Kiser led Pioneer to another state title — and another 15-0 record — as a senior. He was named 2018 Mr. Football with 64 total touchdowns (44 rushing, 18 passing, one interception return, one fumble return).

He finished his prep career with 11,257 total yards of offense, 424 total tackles, 20 interceptions and two blocked punts. Kiser decided to drop wrestling in high school so he could play basketball (wanted to play with his older brother). He also lettered in track and had personal bests of 166 feet, 10 inches in the discus, 54-3 in the shot put, 6.87 seconds in the 55 meters and 7.57 in the 60.

A four-star recruit, Kiser was the 21st-ranked outside linebacker in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 7 recruit in Indiana (pass rusher George Karlaftis and wide receiver David Bell ranked No. 1 and No. 2, respectively; both signed with Purdue). After his sophomore season, he attended several recruiting camps and picked up his first scholarship offers from Indiana, Iowa and Purdue. Since Kiser had grown up a fan of the Boilermakers, many expected him to follow in his family's footsteps and attend Purdue, but he was blown away by Notre Dame after visiting South Bend. Once the Irish finally offered him in May 2018, he didn't wait long to commit.

Kiser became the first player from his high school to receive a football scholarship to a then-Power 5 program. He was the sixth-ranked recruit in former head coach Brian Kelly's 2019 class (Kyle Hamilton was No. 1). Kiser took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to South Bend for his sixth season. He graduated cum laude (3.82 GPA) in business analytics (May 2022) and received his master's degree in accountancy, posting the top GPA (3.97) in the program. Kiser accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the American Team's top linebacker during the week of practice.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled January 2019
2020: (10/1)	20	3.0	0.0	0	1	1	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/8)	45	1.0	0.0	2	7	2	66-yard INT TD; 43-yard INT TD
2022: (13/6)	58	5.5	2.5	1	0	0
2023: (13/3)	62	1.5	1.5	1	2	1
2024: (16/16)	90	5.0	2.0	2	1	0	Led team in tackles; team captain
Total: (69/34)	275	16.0	6.0	6	11	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6015	231	9	30 3/8	75 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6014	229	9 1/8	30 5/8	75 5/8	4.67	2.78	1.62	34 1/2	9'9"	4.29	6.97	20

STRENGTHS:

- Covers a lot of ground and moves smoothly in everything he does
- Quick trigger and attacks blockers with temperament and technique
- Breaks down with control to finish ball carriers in tight or open spaces
- Matches up well with running backs and tight ends one-on-one
- Follows quarterback's eyes as hole player and races to catch point
- Effective green-dog blitz; rushes with quickness and purposeful hands
- Work ethic was cultivated growing up on family farm
- Voted a team captain (NFL GM: "Sometimes you interview a kid and he is exactly what you expected — that's Jack. An A-plus human.")
- Accounted for 975 career special teams snaps, playing on punt coverages all six seasons
- Iron-man toughness — set the Notre Dame record for games played (70)

WEAKNESSES:

- Shorter arms and frame appears maxed out
- Comfortable working downhill but too willing to sacrifice himself versus lead blocks
- Average play strength and leverage when attempting to work through traffic
- Fast-flow player who will bite hard on play-action passes and misdirection
- Inconsistent locating routes around him in coverage
- Not much nuance as a pass rusher (roughing penalty on the 2024 Army tape)
- Older prospect — will be 25 as rookie

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Notre Dame, Kiser was the Mike linebacker in former defensive coordinator Al Golden's 4-2-5 base scheme. His tackle production improved each of his six years in South Bend, and he was team captain and the leading tackler on the Irish squad that reached the 2024 national championship game.

Kiser is a well-rounded player with read-react quickness to drive, drop and find the football, although he will have issues shedding once NFL blockers get their hands on him. Though he might not be a top-tier athlete, he doesn't look like a liability in space and finds his balance to consistently finish tackles. Overall, Kiser is able to key run/pass quickly to consistently be around the ball, and he has the competitive skill set to be a solid backup and special-teamer at the next level. Considering his character and tools, he will make it difficult for NFL coaches to cut him.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

LB13 Teddye Buchanan

California, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
San Francisco, CA	St. Ignatius	Oct 03, 2002	22.56	6021	233	#10

BACKGROUND: Teddye (teddy) Buchanan was born in Palo Alto, Calif., and grew up in the San Francisco area with his mother (Kimberly Buchanan) and father (Arron Smith). His father loved football and introduced the sport to his kids as soon as they could walk — Buchanan started playing organized ball at age 6. He tried multiple sports growing up, but he always gravitated toward football as his favorite, playing quarterback throughout pee wee, youth leagues and into high school. Buchanan also enjoys drawing and is a talented artist. His younger brother (Tobey Weydemuller) prepped at Archbishop Riordan and signed as a defensive back with California in the 2024 recruiting class (redshirted his first season).

Buchanan attended St. Ignatius College Prep, a Catholic school in San Francisco. After playing quarterback on the freshman team his first year, he started on the JV squad as a sophomore captain. Buchanan moved up to varsity as a junior and started at quarterback before a broken thumb forced him to the sidelines (also had an ACL strain). Not wanting to miss any time, he wrapped his thumb into a club and moved to linebacker. Buchanan returned to quarterback for his senior season, but he also stayed at linebacker and played both ways. He was named the league's player of the year and led Ignatius to a 9-3 finish and the second round of the 2019 state playoffs. Buchanan completed 71 percent of his passes (205-for-249) for 1,785 yards and 18 touchdowns and added 83 tackles, six sacks and three forced fumbles. He also lettered in track and had personal bests of 41 feet, 4 inches in the triple jump, 21-0 in the long jump, 5-0 in the high jump and 11.94 seconds in the 100 meters.

A two-star recruit, Buchanan was the 206th-ranked outside linebacker in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 372 recruit in California. He drew the attention of college programs as a defensive recruit after moving to linebacker as a junior, following a thumb injury. Buchanan received his first scholarship offer from Colorado State in May 2019, followed by offers from San Diego State and San Jose State. California was his dream school, but he didn't receive any then-Power 5 offers. Despite the FBS interest, Buchanan connected with the coaches and culture at FCS UC Davis and committed midway through his senior year. Buchanan is young for his grade, so he was just 17 when he enrolled.

After four productive seasons for the Aggies, he entered the transfer portal (Nov. 2023) for his final college season. Buchanan received several notable offers, including from Arizona, Arizona State, Houston, Michigan State, Oregon State and Washington. But playing for Cal was an easy choice, especially because his younger brother committed in the 2024 class (Buchanan made an impression on Cal head coach Justin Wilcox when he posted eight tackles and an interception against the Bears in 2022). A four-time All-Big Sky Academic recipient, Buchanan stayed at UC-Davis until June 2024 so he could graduate with a degree (pursuing his business certificate at Cal). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	19	1.0	0	0	1	0	UC-Davis; season played in spring 2021
2021: (12/11)	74	5.5	2	0	4	2	UC-Davis; led team in tackles
2022: (7/7)	43	3.0	0	1	5	3	UC-Davis; team captain
2023: (11/11)	72	5.5	2	0	4	3	UC-Davis; Second Team All-Big Sky; led team in tackles, INTs; team captain
2024: (13/13)	114	12.0	5	2	4	0	California; First Team All-ACC; led team in tackles, TFL, FF
Total: (48/42)	322	27.0	9	3	18	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6021	233	9 3/8	31 3/8	75 3/8	4.60	2.70	1.61	40	10'5"	DNP	DNP	26	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6020	235	9 1/2	31 3/8	75 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.27	7.24	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Ripped physique with notable upper-body strength
- Reads action quickly and covers ground in pursuit

- Stays square to form fit as tackler, then uses strong hands to finish
- Has a good feel for when to go for the strip (see forced fumble on 2024 Auburn tape)
- Shifty feet as a blitzing and feasted with Cal's simulated-pressure packages (25 pressures, five sacks)
- Flips his hips to spot drop, reach landmarks and hunt crossers
- Two-time team captain at UC-Davis and a team captain at Cal
- Strong character (Justin Wilcox: "Very driven, motivated, accountable. ... You can just tell he's made of the right stuff.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Average length and can find himself stuck in traffic
- Would like to see more suddenness and violence when he punches off blocks
- Can get hung up on play action a beat too long
- One-speed player with room to clean up perimeter angles
- Ordinary lateral burst in zone coverage
- Only played one season at the FBS level

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Cal, Buchanan was a stacked inside linebacker in defensive coordinator Peter Sirmon's hybrid front seven, lining up primarily in the box with some edge reps mixed in. After twice leading UC-Davis in tackles, he transferred to Berkeley for his fifth season and gradually became one of the leaders in the locker room. He also led the Bears in tackles and tackles for loss.

Buchanan had been a quarterback most of his life, and those instincts have carried over to the defensive side of the ball — his high-volume tackling reflects the way he sees the field and finishes. He has the movement ability to drop in coverage or sidestep blockers when working downhill, although he will be overwhelmed in tight quarters. Overall, Buchanan's physical traits are more good than great, but he is scrappy and football smart with strong tackling skills and competitive makeup. He projects as a Mike linebacker who can play on special teams until his opportunity comes.

GRADE: 5th round

LB14 Shemar James

Florida, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Mobile, AL	Faith Academy	Jun 24, 2004	20.83	6014	222	#6

BACKGROUND: Shemar James grew up in the Mobile, Ala., area with his mother (Alisa Orange). Starting at age 5, he often could be found outside playing football in the backyard, and he was raised in a family of Dallas Cowboys fans. However, his mother didn't allow him to play organized football until he reached middle school. Once he joined the team, James was primarily an offensive player (running back and wide receiver) before moving to the defensive side of the ball. He later played on the nationally ranked 7-on-7 C3 Elite team.

James attended Faith Academy, a private religious school in Mobile, where he was a three-year letterman and played both ways as a wide receiver, defensive end and linebacker. After sitting out his freshman season because of transfer rules, he became a starter as a sophomore and helped Faith to an 11-1 finish and the 2019 regional title (36 tackles and seven sacks; 13 catches for 262 yards and five touchdowns). As a junior, James led Faith to a 12-win season and the Class 5A playoff semifinals, finishing with 70 tackles, 17 tackles for loss, seven sacks and one interception, plus 13 touchdowns (eight receiving, five rushing). James transferred for his senior season in order to graduate early. He enrolled at Navarre High in Navarre, Fla., in August 2021, but left after two weeks and re-enrolled at Faith. James also lettered in basketball and track at Faith and set a personal best of 11.67 seconds in the 100 meters.

A four-star recruit, James was the fifth-ranked linebacker (one spot behind Georgia's Jalon Walker) in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Alabama. He was the No. 67 recruit nationally. His first major offer (Tennessee) arrived during his sophomore year, followed by offers from Georgia Tech, Kansas and Nebraska. During his junior year, Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Michigan, Ole Miss, Oregon, Penn State and South Carolina made strong pushes. James committed to Florida the summer before his senior season (June 2021), but he reopened his recruitment four months later given the uncertainty around head coach Dan Mullen, who ultimately was fired a few weeks after James decommitted. James took late visits to Alabama, Florida State and Georgia.

However, Billy Napier had offered James while at Louisiana, so he was able to lure James back to Gainesville after he was hired as the Gators' new head coach. James was the second-ranked recruit in Napier's first Florida class (and the first player from Faith Academy to sign with an SEC football program). He twice earned a spot on the SEC Academic Honor Roll. After three seasons in the program, James elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl, held in his hometown of Mobile.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (13/4)	47	2.0	2	1	0	0	Enrolled May 2022
2023: (8/8)	55	5.5	1	0	0	0	Missed final four games (left knee)
2024: (13/13)	64	4.0	2	1	4	1	Team captain
Total: (34/25)	166	11.5	5	2	4	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6013	222	8 1/2	31 1/2	77 3/4	4.69	2.75	1.68	32	9'9"	4.27	7.09	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6014	228	9	32	77 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Plays fast and persistent (models game after Patrick Queen)
- Loose, smooth-moving athlete in open field
- Flows quickly downhill and laterally to cut off running back angles
- Dips shoulder to bend underneath climbers
- Weaponizes speed through gaps as blitz
- Flashes physicality and looks to use technique in his take-on approach
- Has athletic tools to continue improving in coverage
- Team captain; described as an "energetic leader" and "great teammate" by Gators head coach Billy Napier
- One of youngest players in draft class

WEAKNESSES:

- Underdeveloped instincts and play recognition
- Needs to be quicker diagnosing mesh-point action on zone reads
- Inconsistent weight transfer in break down, leading to off-balance tackle attempts
- Average-at-best finishing strength (see 2024 Texas tape)
- Struggles to recover after misstep in coverage, leading to YAC opportunities
- Dislocated left knee cap (Oct. 2023), which required season-ending surgery (had a similar injury in high school)
- Played on kick and punt coverages in 2024 but had more missed tackles than tackles
- Unimpressive tackle production overall (tackles per start dropped from 6.9 in 2023 to 4.9 in 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Florida, James played Will linebacker in former defensive coordinator Austin Armstrong’s scheme. He was one of the prizes of Billy Napier’s initial recruiting class with the Gators and worked his way back from a season-ending knee injury in 2023 to put intriguing flashes on his 2024 film as a team captain.

When he accurately reads and unlocks, James plays with the speed, twitch and change-of-direction skills to make stops all over the field. He can flex as a blitz er but must become more consistent in his coverage drops to maximize his energetic talent. Overall, James needs to mature his play recognition to cut down on the missteps, but the athletic tools are there for him to become a rangy run-and-hit defender. Carving out a special teams role early in his career will be critical as he develops.

GRADE: 5th round

LB15 Nick Martin

Oklahoma State, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Texarkana, TX	Pleasant Grove	Oct 13, 2002	22.53	5114	221	#4

BACKGROUND: Nickolas "Nick" Martin, the youngest of four boys, was born and raised in Texarkana, Texas, with his parents (Michael and Tosha). While trying to keep up with his older brothers, he got into sports as soon as he could and played everything available, including baseball, basketball, football and karate. His older brother (Chauncey), who pushed him to get more involved with football, was a running back at Pleasant Grove High before signing with Texas A&M-Commerce and then transferring to Division II Harding (2021-24). He has two other brothers (Brandon and Ryan). Martin plays the guitar and designs clothes in his free time.

Martin attended Pleasant Grove High in Texarkana, where he was teammates with edge rusher Landon Jackson, another 2025 NFL Draft prospect. He was a three-year varsity letterman and played both ways as a running back and linebacker. Martin was named the district’s defensive newcomer of the year as a sophomore (128 tackles, 12 tackles for loss and 6.5 sacks), when he helped Pleasant Grove to a 14-3 record and a spot in the 2018 state championship game. Despite missing a chunk of his junior season with a knee injury, he helped Pleasant Grove to a 15-1 finish, including the 2019 4A state championship. Martin earned all-state and all-district honors as a senior, collecting 97 tackles, 24 tackles for loss and 10 sacks, plus 824 rushing yards and 15 touchdowns. He also lettered in track at Pleasant Grove.

A three-star recruit, Martin was the 36th-ranked athlete in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 85 recruit in Texas. After his breakout sophomore year, he received his first scholarship offer from UTSA (April 2019). The offers started pouring in following his junior season, including from Arkansas, Kansas and SMU. Martin narrowed his final choice to Kansas State, Oklahoma State and Texas Tech before committing to head coach Mike Gundy midway through his senior year. He was the fifth-ranked recruit in the Cowboys' 2021 class. Martin graduated with a degree in university studies (May 2024). After four years, Martin elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (3/0)	1	0.0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/0)	15	0.0	0	0	0	0
2023: (14/14)	140	16.0	6	1	2	2	First Team All-Big 12; led Big 12 in tackles; led team in sacks, TFL; team captain
2024: (5/5)	47	7.5	1	1	2	0	Missed final seven games (right knee); team captain
Total: (35/19)	203	23.5	7	2	4	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5114	221	9 1/4	31 3/4	78 3/8	4.53	2.64	1.60	38	10'3"	DNP	DNP	26	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5110	220	8 3/4	32	77 3/4	4.59	2.67	1.54	DNP	DNP	4.23	7.20	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Above-average athleticism allows him to impact game in multiple ways
- Shot out of a cannon when he unlocks and drives in pursuit
- Chases down runners as a middle-field spy
- Keys well versus the run and fits with physicality
- Uses twitch to sidestep climbers and operate inside tackle box
- Squares up target and looks to wrap at contact
- Impact special-teamer as a redshirt freshman (11 tackles in 2022)
- Two-time team captain and acted as an extra coach during his 2024 injury
- Grounded and genuine personality (Ollie Gordon II: "He's the most caring guy ever.")
- High-volume tackle production (No. 2 in FBS with 83 solo tackles in 2023)

WEAKNESSES:

- Short (and short-armed)
- Only average core functional strength and can be cinched/sealed
- Will take himself out of some plays trying to slip and dip blockers, rather than taking them on
- Lack of ideal length and finishing strength shows up on tackle attempts
- More reactive than proactive in coverage
- Caught staring at the quarterback and losing his man
- Left some interceptions on the field (see 2024 South Dakota State tape)
- Right knee injury (Oct. 2024), which sidelined him for remainder of his season

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Oklahoma State, Martin was a Mike linebacker in former defensive coordinator Bryan Nardo's 3-3-5 base scheme. He put himself on the NFL radar as a sophomore (one of six FBS players with 140 tackles or more in 2023), and he was on pace to average double-digit tackles again in 2024 before a right knee injury sidelined him.

Built more like a muscular safety, Martin is an easy mover with the straight-line burst and true sideline-to-sideline range to be a run-and-chase 'backer. He is an aggressive striker, and his tackle production speaks for itself, but his average length and point-of attack-strength will hurt his ability to sift through NFL traffic and disengage from pro blockers. Overall, Martin doesn't have the size that most teams desire at the position, but his urgent athleticism will give him a chance to earn a role as a Will linebacker. He should find regular work as a core special-teamer and be the first man off the bench on defense.

GRADE: 5th round

LB16 Cody Lindenberg

Minnesota, 5SR

HOMETOWN Anoka, MN	HIGH SCHOOL Anoka	BIRTHDAY Jan 15, 2002	AGE 23.27	HT 6023	WT 236	NUM #45
-----------------------	----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Cody Lindenberg, who has a younger sister (Karlee), grew up in the Anoka-Ramsey, Minn., area (northwest of Minneapolis) with his father (Ron) and mother (Kristi Haight). For as long as he can remember, Lindenberg was a multisport athlete and spent his childhood playing basketball, baseball and football throughout various youth levels. He grew up as a quarterback and running back and also played defensive end and linebacker. In middle school, he decided to try track and later earned a medal at the Junior Olympics as a sprinter in the 100- and 200 meters. In high school, he started training with sports performance coach Eric Harrison. Lindenberg has been dating his girlfriend (Isabelle Hiller) since high school.

Lindenberg enrolled at Anoka High, where he continued to shine in multiple sports. He was a four-year varsity letterman in football and played both ways, lining up mostly at quarterback, wide receiver and in a hybrid safety role, playing both high and low. Anoka was at a program low point during Lindenberg's time there, posting a combined 2-26 record over his final three seasons. As a junior, he posted 24 tackles before a fractured rib shut him down. As a senior, he wore No. 7 to honor former Anoka player Dylan Witschen, who died as a result of a brain tumor — Linderberg remains active raising money for a foundation formed in Witschen's memory. Lindenberg earned all-state honors in his final season while leading the team in receiving. He also lettered in basketball and baseball.

A three-star recruit, Lindenberg was the 73rd-ranked outside linebacker in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 10 recruit in Minnesota. While playing for a losing program that had instability on its coaching staff, Lindenberg went somewhat overlooked during the recruiting process. After his junior season, he received his first scholarship offers from FCS schools North Dakota, Northern Iowa and South Dakota, but he had his sights on the FBS. Because he played basketball and legion baseball in the offseason, Lindenberg didn't attend my camps, but he did drive down to St. Louis in April 2019 to attend the regional Nike "The Opening."

It was there that he opened eyes with his testing athleticism and subsequently started to hear from FBS programs, including nearby Minnesota. Lindenberg had grown up attending Gophers games at TCF Bank Stadium, and once head coach P.J. Fleck gave him a scholarship offer, Lindenberg committed almost on the spot (May 2019). He was the ninth-ranked recruit in Fleck's 2020 class. Lindenberg earned Academic All-Big Ten honors four straight years (2021-24) and graduated with a degree in kinesiology (May 2024). He is currently pursuing his master's degree in sport and exercise science. Lindenberg opted out of Minnesota's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/3)	10	0.0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (3/0)	3	0.0	0	0	0	0	Missed final 10 games (injury)
2022: (13/6)	71	4.0	1	0	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; started final six games
2023: (4/4)	31	3.5	0	1	0	0	Missed nine games (hamstring)
2024: (12/12)	94	5.0	1	0	7	1	First Team All-Big Ten; led team in tackles; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (38/25)	209	12.5	2	1	9	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6023	236	9	32 3/4	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (sports hernia)
PRO DAY	6022	236	9 1/4	32 3/4	78	4.71	2.68	1.69	36 1/2	9'10"	4.32	7.01	20

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete who runs and rallies to the football
- Rangy for his size and covers a lot of ground when chasing in open field
- Reads run game well and shuffles to mirror, scrape and close
- Uses his arm length to battle with blockers
- Reaches his landmarks with ease in zone coverage
- Brings some thunder as an A-gap blitzer
- Green-dot player for the Gophers, communicating calls and checks with the rest of the defense
- Productive when on the field

WEAKNESSES:

- Upright player — needs to attack blockers with better angling and bend
- Disappointing pop at contact and can be washed at second level
- Fast-flow play style can be disrupted by play fakes
- Late to settle his feet and adjust to elusive ball carriers
- Flagged for late hit out of bounds on 2024 Iowa tape
- Inconsistent steps and pacing when manned up against backs and tight ends
- Sports hernia surgery (Dec. 2024); hamstring injury during fall camp (Aug. 2023) and later aggravated injury, missing nine games in all during 2023 season; surgery in 2021, which ended his season

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Minnesota, Lindenberg was the Mike linebacker in former defensive coordinator Corey Hetherman's scheme. A do-everything athlete in high school, he became a full-time linebacker for the Gophers and was productive when on the field (7.8 tackles per game over the past two seasons). With his frame and acceleration, Lindenberg has an interesting collection of traits, which helps him make an impact against both run and pass and as a blitzer.

Though he appears to process things well, he tends to be inconsistent sifting and playing through contact, which often leaves him stuck in traffic or late reacting in man coverage. Overall, Lindenberg has throwback size and rallies well to the football, but he doesn't consistently stay ahead of plays and ends up stuck — an issue that will lead to less production in the NFL than it did in college. He projects as a backup Will with special teams tools.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

LB17 Eugene Asante

Auburn, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Alexandria, VA	Westfield	Jan 22, 2001	24.25	6007	223	#9

BACKGROUND: Eugene Asante grew up in Alexandria, Va., with his parents (Paul Asante-Manu and Juliana Mensah), who immigrated to the United States in 1996 from Ghana. His father, who shared bloodlines with rulers of the Ashanti Empire, died in February 2022 after a long battle with kidney disease.

Eugene was introduced to football by watching his brother (Larry), who is almost 13 years older. Larry played at Coffeyville (Kan.) Community College before becoming an All-Big 12 safety at Nebraska (2007-09). He was selected by the Cleveland Browns in the fifth round (No. 160) of the 2010 NFL Draft and played six seasons in the NFL (2010-15). At age 7, Eugene started playing Pop Warner football and continued throughout middle school. He trained with his cousin (Nana Marfo), a high school coach. Eugene has several cousins who played college football, including cornerback Isaac Yiadom, a third-round pick (No. 99) out of Boston College in the 2018 NFL Draft.

Asante attended Westfield High in Fairfax County, where he was a four-year letterman. He played running back and defensive back over his first two years and was part of back-to-back 6A state titles. Going into his junior season, the coaching staff challenged Asante to step up at running back, and he responded by leading Westfield to an undefeated 15-0 record and the 2017 6A state championship (the program's third straight). He dedicated his breakout junior season to his cousin (Samuel Kwarteng), who was shot and killed in April 2017. Asante earned first-team all-state and Northern Virginia player of the year honors as a junior with 1,866 rushing yards on 296 carries (6.3 average) and 15 touchdowns. As a senior, Asante became a starter at linebacker — his first time playing the position in high school — and took home first-team all-state honors. However, Westfield fell one game short of playing in a fourth-straight state championship game, suffering its first loss of the 2018 season in the state semifinals.

A four-star recruit, Asante was the 18th-ranked outside linebacker in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 9 recruit in Virginia. While playing primarily on the offensive side of the ball throughout high school, he was initially recruited as a running back and picked up several FCS offers after his breakout junior season, including from Delaware State, Howard, Morgan State, New Hampshire, Sacred Heart, Towson and Villanova. After switching to linebacker as a senior, Asante started to receive more FBS interest, including his first FBS offer (Kent State) midway through his senior season.

Two weeks before the early signing day in December 2018, the recruiting floodgates opened, as Virginia Tech reached out with an offer followed by offers from Baylor, Miami, TCU and a dozen others. Asante committed to North Carolina over Florida State, Maryland, Nebraska and Virginia Tech. He was the second-ranked recruit in former head coach Mack Brown's 2019 class (behind quarterback Sam Howell). After three seasons with the Tar Heels (mostly as a backup to Chazz Surratt), Asante entered the transfer portal and committed to Auburn (Jan. 2022). After spending most of the subsequent season as a redshirt on the scout team, he became a starter in 2023. He then took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a sixth season. Asante owns a pitbull (Miss Penny). He graduated with a degree in liberal arts (May 2024) and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (13/0)	12	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	North Carolina; enrolled July 2019
2020: (12/2)	27	0.5	0.0	1	0	0	North Carolina; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/2)	23	0.5	0.0	0	1	0	North Carolina; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2022: (4/0)	1	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Auburn; redshirted
2023: (13/11)	86	8.5	5.0	0	1	0	Auburn; led team in tackles; 67-yard fumble-return TD
2024: (12/10)	47	4.5	2.5	0	0	0	Auburn
Total: (66/25)	196	14.0	7.5	1	2	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6004	223	8 1/4	30 1/4	73 1/2	4.48	2.61	1.57	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	21	No jumps, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6007	218	8 5/8	29 7/8	72 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.27	7.15	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Plays with speed and energy for days
- Covers a ton of ground and makes plays on opposite sideline of where he started
- Quickly diagnoses blocking scheme (pullers, kick-outs, etc.) to unlock and go
- Plays with pop in his hands to punch above his weight class
- Explosive pass/run blitz and triggers without wasting steps to hit gaps with purpose and control

- Accelerates through running back blocks like a ball of butcher knives
- "Freaks List" alum (squats 635 pounds, benches 405)
- Vocal — teammates feed off his aggressive motor (Auburn adopted his "Let's Work!" motto)
- Skill set and play personality will thrive on special teams (14 tackles in college)

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized and doesn't have ideal frame or length
- Attacks before reading at times, creating false steps
- Occasional missed tackles usually come from him leaving his feet too early
- More reactive than proactive in coverage
- Inconsistent with spacing in his drops, with suspect ball skills
- Looks to create violent collisions, but the wear and tear on his body adds up
- Senior season production was underwhelming
- Already 24 years old

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Auburn, Asante was the Will linebacker in defensive coordinator D.J. Durkin's 4-2-5 base scheme. After struggling to find consistent snaps at North Carolina, he transferred to The Plains and became the ignitor on defense with 133 combined tackles over his final two seasons. Asante turned heads with his 40-yard dash at the combine, but it matched his speed on tape. At his best downhill, he senses what is coming, trusts his eyes and fits gaps against the run or provides disruption as a blitzer. At times, his overaggressive play style will create unfavorable angles, and his below-average ball production reflects his inconsistent spacing in coverage. Overall, Asante needs to play with better restraint to avoid mistakes, but he sets the tempo with overflowing adrenaline. Players with his combination of speed, energy and competitive toughness usually find ways onto NFL rosters. His special teams impact will stand out immediately.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

LB18 Collin Oliver

Oklahoma State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Oklahoma City, OK	Edmond Santa Fe	Sep 23, 2002	22.58	6016	240	#30

BACKGROUND: Collin Oliver, who has two sisters, was born and raised in Oklahoma City with his parents (Marshall and Jewel), both athletes at Southwestern Oklahoma State in the early 1990s — his father was a defensive back on the football team; his mother played basketball. Oliver showed an interest in football from a young age, and his father signed him up for pee wee at age 6. He started out as a running back and played for the PCO Panthers throughout elementary school. After the family relocated to Edmond, Okla., Oliver played for the Bulldogs and helped the team to an undefeated season and Pop Warner state title. At Summit Middle School, he moved to quarterback for a few seasons, but he missed playing defense and shifted to linebacker and wide receiver.

Oliver enrolled at Edmond Santa Fe High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman. He played both sides of the ball as a freshman (defensive lineman and tight end) before deciding to focus on defense as a sophomore linebacker. He posted 56 tackles as a sophomore and was off to a strong start as a junior (33 tackles, seven tackles for loss and an interception through six games), but he missed the second half of the 2019 season because of a bone contusion in his right knee. As a senior, Oliver led Santa Fe to a 10-3 record and the 2020 6A state championship game (lost to Jenks). He earned all-state honors and was named the conference defensive player of the year (66 tackles, 17 tackles for loss, four sacks and one forced fumble). Oliver was also a standout track athlete and as a sophomore placed third at the state championships in the high jump. He lettered his first three years (didn't compete as a senior) and had personal bests of 6 feet, 2 inches in the high jump, 21-1 in the long jump, 44-11 in the shot put and 110-8 in the discus.

A three-star recruit, Olliver was the 49th-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 7 recruit in Oklahoma. After becoming a starter on varsity as a sophomore, he received his first scholarship offer from Oklahoma State (May 2019). An avalanche of offers followed, including from Colorado, Iowa State, Kansas, Nebraska and Texas Tech. After his junior season, Oliver added SEC offers from Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Missouri, Ole Miss and Tennessee, but he felt most comfortable staying close to home and committed to Oklahoma State. He was the third-ranked recruit in Mike Gundy's 2021 class. He earned first-team Academic All-Big 12 honors in 2022 and later graduated with a degree in marketing (May 2024). Despite missing most of his senior season, Oliver entered the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (14/1)	29	15.5	11.5	1	0	0	Freshman All-American; Big 12 Freshman of the Year; Second Team All-Big 12; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/5)	28	7.5	5.0	0	1	0	Second Team All-Big 12; led team in sacks
2023: (14/14)	73	15.5	6.0	4	5	0	Second Team All-Big 12; led team in FF, sacks; team captain
2024: (2/2)	4	2.0	1.0	0	1	0	Missed final 10 games (right foot); team captain
Total: (43/22)	134	40.5	23.5	5	7	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6016	240	9 1/2	30 3/4	76 1/8	4.56	2.66	1.57	39	10'6"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (injury during drills)
PRO DAY	6014	238	9 3/4	30 1/4	76 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	24

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive athlete to stress blockers in space
- Forces holding calls as pass rusher with gap burst and ability to submarine blocking hands
- Accelerates in a blink to create immediate momentum in rush (1.57-second 10-yard split)
- Has some pop in hands to rock late-setting tackles
- Competes with physical mindset to fight off contact
- Alert eyes and shows basic understanding of blocking scheme
- Never lost killer instinct or revved motor, regardless of position
- Has upside in coverage because of athletic tools
- Consistently found ways to be productive (40.5 tackles for loss in 43 career games)

WEAKNESSES:

- Tweener body type, with below-average length
- Lacks ideal sand and play strength to set edge or match up with pullers
- Finds himself narrow at contact, which disrupts his contact balance
- Leaves too much production on the field
- Plays out of control as tackler — multiple misses on each tape studied
- Doesn't look as explosive when dropping in space
- Played just 80 snaps as senior because of right foot injury (Sept. 2024), which sidelined him for final 10 games of college career; missed half of junior season in high school because of bone contusion in right knee (Oct. 2019)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Oklahoma State, Oliver was a hybrid weakside linebacker in former defensive coordinator Bryan Nardo's 3-3-5 base scheme, standing up as a wide edge and off-the-ball 'backer. A defensive end his first two seasons in Stillwater, he moved to linebacker in the spring of 2023, although he was at his best when allowed to rush the pocket. He led the team in sacks his first three seasons — and likely would have again in 2024, were it not for his season-ending foot injury.

With his short-area burst and high energy, Oliver makes himself a fast, small target for blockers, and he plays with better force than expected for his size. Though it is easy to love his football-playing temperament, his sawed-off body can leave him tied up and overwhelmed, especially in tight quarters. Overall, Oliver is an explosive, leverage-based rusher, but he lacks the measurables for full-time edge work and is unproven dropping or playing from depth. He projects best as a nickel rusher with long-term potential as a developmental off-ball linebacker.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

LB19 Jalen McLeod

Auburn, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Washington D.C.	Friendship Collegiate	Jun 05, 2002	22.88	6016	241	#35

BACKGROUND: Jalen McLeod (mc-CLOUD) grew up in the Washington D.C., area with his mother (Marlea Tolson) and father (Aubrey). His older brother (Aubrey), whom Jalen says was his "No. 1 fan," was shot and killed in April 2024.

McLeod played multiple sports throughout childhood, but basketball was his first love. He originally attended National College Prep, a public charter high school in Washington D.C., where he played on varsity as a freshman. He transferred to Friendship Collegiate Academy, a program which has produced several NFL players, such as Yannick Ngakoue and Christian Braswell. As a junior, McLeod played both ways as a tight end and pass rusher and helped lead the team to 9-3 record and the 2018 DCSAA championship. He earned all-metro honors as a senior (60 tackles, 10 sacks, five forced fumbles and four interceptions). McLeod helped Friendship to a 10-3 record in 2019 and the second of back-to-back DCSAA championships. He also lettered in basketball.

A three-star recruit, McLeod was the 68th-ranked inside linebacker in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 13 recruit from Washington D.C. After his junior season, he received his first scholarship offer (Massachusetts). McLeod added a few FCS offers (Morgan State, Stony Brook), then Appalachian State entered the mix. The summer before his senior year, he committed to Appalachian State (July 2019). McLeod received more attention during his senior season, but those schools wanted him to move inside — he was committed to staying outside as a pass rusher. He was the 13th-ranked recruit in the Mountaineers' 2020 class.

After three seasons, McLeod entered the transfer portal (April 2023) and committed to Auburn for his final two years of eligibility. He graduated with a degree in sociology (Dec. 2024). McLeod accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/1)	9	2.0	2.0	1	0	0	Appalachian State; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/0)	26	3.0	1.0	0	3	0	Appalachian State
2022: (11/2)	41	7.5	6.0	2	1	0	Appalachian State; Honorable Mention All-SBC
2023: (12/11)	48	10.5	5.5	1	1	0	Auburn
2024: (12/12)	57	13.5	8.0	2	1	0	Auburn; led team in sacks, TFL
Total: (54/26)	181	36.5	22.5	6	6	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6015	241	9 3/4	32 1/4	80	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6016	240	9 3/4	32 3/8	80	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Terrific eyes to find ball and chase it down
- Assignment sound and understands surroundings
- Stacks at point of attack with strong base
- Efficient working edge, pressing his foot in the ground and dipping at top of rush
- Active hands as pass rusher and uses various long-arm techniques
- Six career forced fumbles (including two on same play on 2022 Texas A&M tape)
- Productive and versatile enough to make an impact from different alignments
- Served as team captain for senior night win over Texas A&M

WEAKNESSES:

- Tweener size leads to questionable schematic fits
- Ordinary speed and range in open field
- A tad heavy-legged, which creates some limitations laterally
- Can get bumped off angles by intersecting climbers
- Leads with his helmet and needs to clean up tackling technique
- Athletes in space can escape his pursuit more than they should (see 2024 Georgia and Oklahoma tapes)
- will target him early and often as drop-coverage player

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Auburn, McLeod played the "Buck" position as a hybrid linebacker in defensive coordinator D.J. Durkin's 4-2-5 scheme, lining up off the ball on early downs and putting his hand on the ground in sub-packages. He showed promise at Appalachian State before transferring to Auburn, where he posted 24 tackles for loss in his 24 games played.

With his assignment-based approach, McLeod shows very little lag in his read-react and plays with well-channeled aggressiveness to create pursuit lanes, both as a run defender and pass rusher. His average athletic profile will be more noticeable against NFL talent, especially when tackling or covering in space. Overall, McLeod is the type of prospect that grows on you, because of the different ways he can align and make an impact. It will be critical for him to find the right role, though. He projects best as a hybrid outside linebacker in a 3-4 scheme.

GRADE: 6th round

LB20 Francisco Mauigoa

Miami, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
‘Ili’ili, American Samoa	Tafuna	Mar 17, 2003	22.10	6021	233	#1

BACKGROUND: Francisco "Kiko" Mauigoa (MAU-ing-oah) was born and raised in American Samoa with his parents (Fa'alialia and Telesia). Golf was his first sport growing up, and he also played volleyball. Football became his passion, though, and he had early dreams of playing in the NFL. Primarily an offensive player at quarterback, he played in youth leagues before moving up to the JV team in seventh grade. His older brother (Frederick) was a three-year starting center at Washington State (2016-19), which helped show his younger brothers that playing college football was possible.

Mauigoa attended Tafuna High in American Samoa, where he started at quarterback for two seasons. However, he wasn't receiving any recruiting attention, so the family sent him and his younger brother (Francis) to live with a host family in San Bernardino, Calif., to play high school football. Mauigoa arrived at Aquinas Catholic High as a quarterback, but the coaches had him play both ways, which started his transition to linebacker (Mauigoa: "I never thought I would play on defense, because I was a quarterback."). He posted 46 tackles and an interception in 2019 while earning the league's offensive player of the year honors with 1,113 yards and 14 total touchdowns at quarterback. Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, the boys returned to American Samoa in 2020 — Mauigoa played his senior season back at Tafuna. Midway through his senior year, he and Francis transferred to IMG Academy in Bradenton, Fla., for the remainder of Francisco Mauigoa's senior year.

A three-star recruit, Mauigoa was the 142nd-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the top recruit out of American Samoa. After he moved to the States for his junior season of football, he received his first scholarship offer from Division II Missouri Southern State (June 2019). Mauigoa added his first FCS offer (Idaho State) and several FBS offers (Army, Hawaii, San Jose State, Utah State) after his junior season. He received some offers to stay at quarterback, but the bigger offers were to play defense — he "fell in love" with linebacker. He also received an offer from Washington State, his lone then-Power 5 offer. While back in American Samoa during the pandemic, Mauigoa committed to the Cougars as the 12th-ranked recruit in their 2021 class.

He played two seasons in Pullman before entering his name in the transfer portal in December 2022. Mauigoa's next destination became a family decision — the goal being to pick a place he could reunite with Francis, a five-star recruit in the 2023 class. Miami, the first school to reach out, became the perfect spot and both brothers committed (their parents later relocated to Miami, as well). Mauigoa also accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/2)	17	0.5	0.0	0	0	0	Washington State; enrolled August 2021
2022: (12/11)	60	5.5	3.5	3	2	1	Washington State; led team in FF; 95-yard INT TD
2023: (13/13)	82	18.0	7.5	2	4	1	Miami; Second Team All-ACC; led team in tackles, TFL
2024: (13/13)	96	11.0	2.0	1	6	1	Miami; Second Team All-ACC; led team in tackles; team captain
Total: (51/39)	255	35.0	13.0	6	12	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6017	233	10 1/4	31 3/4	77 3/8	4.60	2.68	1.59	35	10' 1"	4.24	7.15	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6021	234	10 1/8	31 3/4	76 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	37	DNP	DNP	DNP	21

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with well-rounded skill set
- Instinctive and follows keys to football
- Good feel for working around noise downhill
- Masterful at timing blitzes to make it a bad day for the backfield
- Unlocks through hips to make the ball carrier feel it
- Can turn and run with wheel routes
- Team captain — you can tell he buys into "do your job" mantra
- Extensive special teams experience, including on all punt coverages as a senior
- Durable; didn't miss a game because of injury in four college seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Chase speed better than initial burst
- More likely to work underneath blocks, which can draw him out of position
- Needs to use better technique and pop as take-on player
- Struggles to shed or regain control once blockers latch on
- Multiple missed tackles on each tape studied — needs to play with better balance to finish
- Lacks twitch for quick reactions in coverage, leading to plays for the offense

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Miami, Mauigoa played Mike linebacker in then-defensive coordinator Lance Guidry's 4-2-5 base scheme. After two seasons at Washington State (he was teammates with Cam Ward at two different programs), Mauigoa transferred to Coral Gables, where he led the Hurricanes in tackles and tackles for loss as both a junior and senior. Miami's green-dot player on defense, Mauigoa reads well pre- and post-snap and is at his best working downhill angles to skim blocks and make stops at (or behind) the line — he had 29 tackles for loss in 26 starts at Miami. His awareness carries over to coverage, although his reaction quickness isn't as sharp and offenses can find success targeting him. Overall, Mauigoa needs to clean up his missed tackles and coverage missteps to earn defensive snaps, but his instincts, chase speed and mentality are draftable traits that will endear him to NFL coaching. Special teams will help him make a roster.

GRADE: 6th round

LB21 Jackson Woodard

UNLV, 5SR

HOMETOWN Little Rock, AR	HIGH SCHOOL Little Rock Christian	BIRTHDAY Jul 02, 2002	AGE 22.81	HT 6021	WT 230	NUM #7
-----------------------------	--------------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Jackson Woodard (who goes by his middle name; his first name is Ernest) is the middle of three children. He was born in Memphis, Tenn., and raised in Greenbrier, Ark. (north of Little Rock), with his parents (Ernie and Tacy). He grew up on his family's small-town cattle farm and has a pet pig named Calvin. Woodard has been an athlete since before kindergarten and started playing baseball at age 4. Football and other sports came soon after, and he grew up competing with his older brother (John). His younger sister (Sunnie) was a freshman soccer player at John Brown (Ark.) University in 2024.

Woodard attended Little Rock Christian Academy, where he starred in baseball and football. As a sophomore linebacker in 2017, he played on varsity alongside his older brother. As a junior, Woodard helped the program to a 14-1 record and the 2018 5A state championship. He led Little Rock Christian to a 13-1 record as a senior, the team's lone loss coming in the 2019 state title game. Woodard earned second-team all-state honors with 155 tackles, 16 tackles for loss, three sacks, four forced fumbles and an interception (returned for a touchdown). He also played as a tight end in 2019, catching 32 passes for 532 yards and four touchdowns(also had a passing touchdown). Woodard was a standout pitcher for the school's baseball team, too.

A no-star recruit, Woodard wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. He received his first scholarship offer from FCS VMI midway through his senior season, followed by an offer from Division II Southern Nazarene. A few weeks before signing day, Woodard was offered a preferred walk-on spot by Arkansas head coach Sam Pittman. Having grown up a Razorbacks fan, he opted for the opportunity to play in the SEC and signed. After his first two seasons, Woodard was put on scholarship (April 2022).

He didn't start a game over his first three years in the program, however, and entered the transfer portal in December 2022. He decided to follow his former defensive coordinator Barry Odom, who'd become head coach at UNLV. Woodard was a first-team Academic All-American in 2023 and graduated with a degree in kinesiology (May 2024) — he hopes to one day become an oral surgeon. With a 3.85 GPA, he was a finalist for the 2024 William V. Campbell Trophy ("academic Heisman"). Woodard accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	2	0	0.0	0	0	0	Arkansas; Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/0)	7	0	0.0	0	0	0	Arkansas
2022: (13/0)	7	0	0.0	0	1	0	Arkansas
2023: (14/14)	116	9	2.5	0	5	1	UNLV; First Team All-MWC; led team in tackles, TFL; team captain; enrolled January 2023
2024: (14/14)	135	17	3.5	0	16	4	UNLV; Second Team All-American; MWC Defensive POY; First Team All-MWC; led team in tackles, TFL, PD; team captain
Total: (56/28)	267	26	6.0	0	22	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6020	234	9	31	77 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	21	No 40, jumps, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6021	230	9 3/8	31 3/8	77 1/8	4.87	2.77	1.71	36	9'9"	4.50	7.44	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Carries quality lean mass on frame and plays with springs in legs
- Sees it quickly and drives downhill to create congestion
- Maneuvers well through inside zone, dipping blocks and finding stretch/cutback
- Very little wasted motion in pedal and change of direction
- Anticipates as drop player and undercuts routes
- Five interceptions to only two touchdowns allowed in coverage past two seasons
- Slippery timing is skeleton key that allows him to unlock gaps as blitzer
- Two-year team captain at UNLV and never lost walk-on attitude (NFL scout: "Dude puts everything he has into this.")
- His two happy places are the farm and the football field — he has a future in coaching
- Played on kick return and punt coverages all five seasons (12 career special teams tackles)

WEAKNESSES:

- Adequate frame and lacks elite length
- Solid speed but won't consistently close the gap if he loses step in pursuit
- Can do better stacking but probably will never be a knock-back guy
- Will take himself out of plays at times when he chooses to avoid blockers rather than take them on
- Physical tackler but not a thumper, especially when he tries to go high
- Pursuit angles stray when closing on the ball carrier, leading to misses (see 2024 Kansas tape)
- Can be drawn out of coverage position by quarterbacks who know how to use their eyes

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at UNLV, Woodard was the Mike linebacker in former defensive coordinator Mike Scherer's 4-2-5 base scheme. A former walk-on at Arkansas, he transferred to UNLV and topped 115 tackles in back-to-back seasons — including a standout senior year in which he led all FBS linebackers in passes defended (17) and ranked No. 2 in interceptions (four).

A green-dot player, Woodard sees the field well and has the functional movements to do a lot of things that help a defense. He anticipates well in his pass drops and when working downhill, although he can be swallowed up if he doesn't get a head start. Overall, it will be tough for Woodard to be as dynamic in the NFL as he was in college, but his play recognition, toughness and intangibles are traits that keep players on NFL rosters. He can become a team's fourth linebacker and a special-teamer, with a chance to rise from there.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Indianapolis, IN	Brebeuf Jesuit	Feb 14, 2002	23.19	6001	224	#34

BACKGROUND: Roy Jebaz "Jay" Higgins IV was born and raised in Indianapolis with his parents (Roy Higgins III and Shelley). His father is a pastor and well known among Hawkeyes fans for his support of the Iowa program. Jay Higgins started playing football at the pee-wee level, but like many athletes in the Indianapolis area, his first love was basketball — he was often coached by his father. Higgins played basketball through high school, including on the AAU circuit.

Higgins enrolled at Brebeuf Jesuit Prep, a Catholic school in northwest Indianapolis, where he was a four-year letterman in football. After collecting 17 tackles as a freshman on varsity, he helped lead the team to the 2017 3A state championship game during his sophomore season (lost to Evansville Memorial). Higgins finished his second season with 158 tackles and four forced fumbles, earning all-state and all-conference honors. As a junior in 2018, he posted 145 tackles, three forced fumbles and one interception (returned for a touchdown), helping Brebeuf Jesuit Prep to another 10-win season. As a senior captain, Higgins again earned all-state, all-county and all-conference honors (151 tackles and three forced fumbles). He finished his career as the school's all-time leader in tackles (471). Higgins was also a three-year letterman in basketball. He was named the conference player of the year as a senior after averaging almost 15 points per game.

A three-star recruit, Higgins was the 69th-ranked inside linebacker in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 16 recruit in Iowa. After his breakout sophomore season, he received his first offer from nearby Ball State. Several other MAC programs followed with offers, including Bowling Green, Central Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Kent State, Miami (Ohio), Toledo and Western Michigan. Higgins had his choice narrowed down to Miami (Ohio) and Toledo, but Iowa became his first (and only) then-Power 5 offer right before his senior season. Two weeks later, he committed.

Not only did he want to play in the Big Ten, but he also had several friends on the team, including Indianapolis natives Julius Brents and Tyrone Tracy Jr. (both later transferred and went on to become NFL draft picks). Higgins was the 19th-ranked recruit (one spot behind Lukas Van Ness) in head coach Kirk Ferentz's 2020 class — he was the only linebacker the Hawkeyes signed that year. Higgins took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a fifth season. He graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024) and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/0)	2	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (14/0)	5	0.0	0.0	0	0	0
2022: (12/2)	39	1.5	0.5	0	0	0
2023: (14/14)	171	5.0	2.0	1	5	1	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; Led FBS in tackles; team captain
2024: (13/13)	124	2.5	1.0	2	9	4	Unanimous All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; Big Ten LB of the Year; led team in INT, tackles; team captain
Total: (59/29)	341	9.0	3.5	3	14	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6001	224	9 1/2	31	75	4.82	2.79	1.66	33	9'2"	4.35	7.01	DNP	No bench
PRO DAY	DNP	233	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.45	DNP	20

STRENGTHS:

- Green-dot player who keys and diagnoses well
- Fills with stopping power as tackler in the lane
- Outstanding motor; always in chase mode (tackle production comes all over the field)
- Reads eyes of the quarterback as a hole player and breaks on throws to influence catch point
- Hunts crossers, especially on play-action passes, with focused hands to pick off throws (led all Big Ten linebackers in interceptions in 2024)
- Teammates call him the "ultimate leader," and he prides himself on being the example for the program
- Gets his teammates lined up pre-snap
- Special teams experience (11 career tackles)
- Elite tackle production, including an FBS-best 171 tackles in 2023 (tied school record)

WEAKNESSES:

- Shorter than ideal, with a stumpy frame and below-average length
- Lacks desired speed or explosiveness in space
- Shows some tightness in break down as tackler, leading to misses
- Inconsistent quickness off contact and can find himself stuck to blocks
- Gets grabby in coverage and will have a tough time manning-up NFL athletes
- Doesn't take many chances downhill (just 2.6 percent of his college tackles came in backfield)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Iowa, Higgins was the Mike linebacker in defensive coordinator Phil Parker's 4-2-5 scheme (averaged 64.5 snaps per game as a starter and rarely came off the field). He sat and learned behind Jack Campbell during his first three years on campus before filling Campbell's role without any drop-off. He led the FBS in combined tackles (295) over the past two seasons and became a consensus All-American.

A high energy player, Higgins holds a master's degree in reading run concepts and flowing to the designed angle to clean up the play. He is more of a one-speed athlete and plays with more urgency than true burst, which shows in man coverage and the open field. Overall, Higgins' lack of ideal speed and length will be more glaring in the NFL, but he consistently punches above his weight class. His instincts and toughness will help disguise concerns about his game, too. His game is reminiscent of Anthony Walker, who has been a productive pro when healthy.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

LB23 Carson Bruener

Washington, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Woodinville, WA	Redmond	Jun 05, 2001	23.88	6012	227	#42

BACKGROUND: Carson Bruener, one of five children, was born in Pittsburgh with his parents (Mark and Traci). His father was an All-American tight end at Washington (1991-94) and part of the Huskies' 1991 national championship-winning team, while Traci was a cheerleader at Washington. Mark was a first-round pick (No. 27) by the Pittsburgh Steelers and played nine seasons for the team (1995-2003) before finishing his career with the Houston Texans (2004-08). After his retirement, Mark (a native of Aberdeen, Wash.) relocated the family to the Seattle area and became a college scout for the Steelers in 2010 — the 2025 NFL Draft will be his 15th as a member of Pittsburgh's front office.

Carson was in second grade when the family settled in the eastside suburbs of Seattle, and he flourished in youth sports. His younger brother (Braydon) was a walk-on linebacker at Oregon State in 2022 before joining Carson at Washington in 2023. He also has two older sisters (Allie and Chloe) and a younger brother (Hudson).

Bruener attended Redmond High and was part of a varsity football program that won just 13 games combined and had a losing record each of his four years. He rarely came off the field and made an impact on offense (tight end, running back, quarterback), defense (linebacker) and special teams (kicks and punts). After earning first-team all-league honors as a sophomore linebacker, Bruener again earned first-team all-league honors on defense as a junior along with second-team recognition as a tight end. His best season came as a senior with 122 tackles and 13 tackles for loss, which earned him all-state and area defensive MVP honors. Bruener also played basketball at Redmond.

A three-star recruit, Bruener was the 45th-ranked inside linebacker in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 11 recruit in Washington. The spring after his sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer from Oregon (May 2018). During his junior year, Bruener added offers from Cal, Colorado, Northwestern, Utah, Utah State and Wisconsin. Once Washington offered in June 2019, he followed in his parent's footsteps and committed to former head coach Chris Petersen. Despite Petersen stepping down two weeks before signing day, Bruener stayed committed to the Huskies and was the 20th-ranked recruit in former head coach Jimmy Lake's first class as head coach. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Redshirted
2021: (11/5)	70	2.5	1.5	2	1	1
2022: (13/0)	46	3.5	0.0	0	1	0
2023: (15/1)	86	2.5	0.0	1	4	1	Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2024: (13/13)	104	2.0	0.0	1	8	3	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in tackles, INT; team captain
Total: (52/19)	306	10.5	1.5	4	14	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6012	227	9 1/4	31 3/4	78 1/4	4.58	2.68	1.59	33 1/2	9'11"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6012	226	9 1/2	31 3/4	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.24	6.77	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- NFL-quality speed to make plays near sideline
- Disciplined eyes to key, flow and stay ahead of blocks downhill
- Keeps feet underneath him as tackler with strong hands to finish
- Quick to read play action and drop into coverage
- Doesn't panic and finds throwing lanes as zone dropper (No. 2 on team with eight passes defended in 2024)
- Certified tough guy (played through a sprained AC joint throughout entire 2024 season)
- Four-phase special-teamer (23 career tackles) and Washington's special teams MVP in 2023 (can also long snap)
- Voted a team captain in 2024 and has strong football character

WEAKNESSES:

- Better straight-line speed than lateral quicks
- Ordinary size, bulk and length
- Questionable take-on strength and catches too much at contact
- Body tightness shows when attempting to tackle shifty runners
- Bigger backs can carry him for extra yards when tackling strike zone gets high
- Staying attached to seam/wheel routes versus NFL athletes will be tougher than in college
- Only one season as a full-time starter

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Washington, Bruener was the Mike linebacker in former defensive coordinator Steve Belichick’s versatile front seven. The son of a 14-year NFL veteran (and current NFL scout), he bounced around the depth chart (under three different head coaches) but found ways to be productive, regardless of his role. He had a career year in 2024 as one of only two Power 4 defenders with at least 104 tackles and three interceptions.

Bruener diagnoses quickly to drop into passing zones or trigger without wasting steps to hit gaps with purpose and control. Trusting his vision helps him play fast, although his average twitch and play strength will be tougher to overcome against NFL athletes. Overall, Bruener will be limited by middling agility and play violence, but his production represents an ability to always be around the football. He projects as an NFL backup with the speed and mentality of a core special-teamer.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

LB24 Jailin Walker

Indiana, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Richmond, VA	Varina	Feb 10, 2003	22.20	6003	219	#2

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (11/0)	18	1.0	1.0	1	1	0	James Madison
2022: (10/10)	63	3.0	1.0	0	8	3	James Madison; Honorable Mention All-SBC; 22-yard INT TD; 28-yard INT TD
2023: (10/9)	61	5.5	1.5	3	4	0	James Madison; Honorable Mention All-SBC; led team in FFs; missed two games (shoulder)
2024: (13/13)	82	10.0	2.0	3	10	2	Indiana; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in FFs
Total: (44/32)	224	19.5	5.5	7	23	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6003	219	9 1/8	31 1/2	77 1/8	4.40	2.52	1.53	35	10'7"	4.44	7.31	DNP

SUMMARY: Jailin Walker grew up in the Creighton Court neighborhood of Richmond, Va., with his parents (Nicole and Jaimmie). His father was shot and killed when Jailin was in high school (Aug. 2019).

Walker started playing football for the Mosby Spartans and later became a varsity starter (as a junior) at Varina High, playing running back and linebacker. A no-star recruit, he committed to James Madison over Old Dominion and Yale. He had two productive starting seasons before following head coach Curt Cignetti and defensive coordinator Bryant Haines to Indiana for the 2024 season. Walker was consistently productive over his career and created 11 turnovers (six forced fumbles, five interceptions) over the past three seasons.

He can be a little sticky in his change of direction, but he is agile and light on his feet to run and cover or close as a blitz. Overall, Walker is shot out of a cannon when he trusts his vision, and his 2024 jump in production against better competition is encouraging. As confirmed by his testing numbers, he has the speed and wiring to shine on special teams while adding depth on defense.

GRADE: 7th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Hyattsville, MD	St. Frances	Nov 28, 2001	23.40	6006	236	#2

BACKGROUND: Jamon (jah-MON) "Pop" Dumas-Johnson was born and raised in Prince George's County, Md. (just outside of Washington, D.C.), with his parents (Jimmie Dumas, who died after battling an illness in 2016, and Julia Johnson). Jamon is the second youngest of seven boys — his twin brother (Javon) is the youngest in the family (by 19 minutes). Javon played linebacker at St. Frances Academy before signing with Division II West Virginia State in 2021.

Jamon Dumas-Johnson started playing football at age 7 and was mainly an offensive player throughout youth league football. He also played youth basketball for four years. He enrolled at St. Frances Academy, an independent Catholic school in Baltimore, where he was teammates with several future NFL players, including running back Blake Corum and linebacker Chris Braswell. Dumas-Johnson was a four-year varsity letterman and helped St. Frances to a combined 34-1 record over his first three seasons (only loss came to Bryce Young and Mater Dei in 2019). He also helped the program to three straight state championships. (St. Frances' 2020 season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic). Dumas-Johnson played basketball for one season and joined the track team to help with his offseason conditioning.

A four-star recruit, Dumas-Johnson was the 22nd-ranked linebacker in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 8 recruit in Maryland. After his sophomore season, he picked up his first scholarship offer from West Virginia (April 2019). Several high-profile schools joined the mix during his junior season, including Kentucky, Michigan and Ole Miss. Dumas-Johnson announced a final five of Auburn, Florida, Georgia, Maryland and Tennessee before officially committing to the Bulldogs in July 2020. He was the 14th-ranked recruit in head coach Kirby Smart's 2021 class (two spots ahead of wide receiver Adonai Mitchell).

After three seasons in Athens, including a pair of national championships, Dumas-Johnson entered the transfer portal in December 2023 and committed to Kentucky for his senior season. Dumas-Johnson accepted an invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (14/0)	21	2.5	2.0	0	2	1	Georgia; enrolled June 2021
2022: (15/15)	70	9.0	4.0	1	3	0	Georgia; First Team All-American
2023: (9/9)	34	5.5	3.5	0	2	0	Georgia; missed final five games (left forearm)
2024: (11/11)	67	7.0	3.5	1	1	1	Kentucky; led team in tackles; 25-yard fumble-return TD; missed one game (injury)
Total: (49/35)	192	24.0	13.0	2	8	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6006	238	9 1/2	32	78 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (left foot)
PRO DAY	6006	236	9 3/4	31 5/8	78 3/8	4.60	2.60	1.59	37 1/2	10'6"	DNP	DNP	16

STRENGTHS:

- Densely built with proportionate thickness in upper and lower halves
- Plays hard with a mean-spirited demeanor
- Face-up, physical striker and drives through ball carriers to knock them backwards
- Has functional playing range between the numbers
- Uses peripherals to identify side-angled blockers mid-mirror
- Out-leverages perimeter; rarely out of place
- Aggressive in short yardage to stonewall blocks and disrupt run design
- Flashes blitz potential (especially as a green-dogger) with fierce hands and ability to dip under blocks
- Terrific communicator pre-snap — served as a signal-caller at both Georgia and Kentucky
- Described as a leader who "continues to find his voice" with a pulse of the team
- Productive at two different SEC programs

WEAKNESSES:

- Average suddenness by NFL standards
- Tightness in hips leads to limitations in coverage
- Will have a tough time staying connected man-to-man versus NFL backs on angle/wheel routes
- Doesn't consistently shock climbing blockers
- Struggles to shift back into gear post-contact
- Missed tackles usually a result of him lunging and falling off contact
- Didn't play on kickoff or punt coverages in 2024
- Charged with misdemeanors of racing and reckless driving (Jan. 2023); pleaded guilty to the latter charge and had the former dismissed (April 2023); sentenced to 12 months probation, community service and a defensive-driving course
- Season-ending left forearm fracture (Nov. 2023), which sidelined him for final five games of junior season; missed one game as senior because of injury (Nov. 2024)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Kentucky, Dumas-Johnson played stacked as the Mike linebacker in defensive coordinator Brad White's 3-4 base scheme (occasionally lined up as an edge blitz in sub). He was an All-American on Georgia's 2022 national championship team before moving to Kentucky for the 2024 season — he led the Wildcats in tackles (67) and defensive snaps per game (52.5).

With his quick trigger downhill, Dumas-Johnson sees the field well as a run defender and comes to balance on the move to avoid blockers or make stops. However, he doesn't have the explosiveness to be a true sideline-to-sideline chaser and will be targeted in man coverage by dynamic backs and tight ends. Overall, Dumas-Johnson is sound in his run fits and competes with a confident, physical edge, but he will need to prove he won't be a liability in coverage to see significant defensive snaps. He has the skill set of a potential role player and special-teamer.

GRADE: FA

LB26 Chandler Martin

Memphis, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Lithonia, GA	Arabia Mountain	Dec 11, 2002	22.37	5117	229	#11

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	3	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	East Tennessee State; season played in spring 2021
2021: (4/0)	3	1.0	0.0	0	0	0	East Tennessee State
2022: (10/10)	99	9.5	3.5	0	2	0	East Tennessee State
2023: (13/13)	95	17.0	3.0	2	4	2	Memphis; First Team All-AAC; led team in tackles, TFL, sacks; 60-yard INT TD; offseason shoulder procedure
2024: (13/13)	111	16.0	7.0	1	5	1	Memphis; First Team All-AAC; led team in tackles, TFL, sacks; bowl game Def. MVP
Total: (44/36)	311	43.5	13.5	3	11	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5117	229	10	31 7/8	76 3/8	4.54	2.66	1.58	37	10'6"	4.28	DNP	17

SUMMARY: Chandler Martin grew up outside of Atlanta, with his parents (Jeff and Sherlonda). His older sister (Jaya) played volleyball at Hiram College. Martin started playing linebacker at age 6 and continued on to Arabia Mountain High, where he posted 108 tackles as a senior in 2019. A two-star recruit, he went overlooked because of his size and signed with FCS East Tennessee State (enrolled at just 16). After three seasons, he entered the portal and transferred to Memphis for his final two seasons. He led the Tigers in tackles, tackles for loss and sacks as both a junior and senior.

Martin is extremely active and plays with his feet on fire. He can read and react in a blink to make plays at or behind the line (33.0 combined tackles for loss the past two seasons). He will run himself out of plays or into blockers at times, because of his eagerness to make plays. Although his coverage awareness is up and down, he showed improved confidence in his drops as a senior. Overall, Martin is a tad undisciplined, but he is an explosive athlete with the closing speed to be a useful run-and-hit linebacker on defense and special teams.

GRADE: FA

LB27 Justin Barron

Syracuse, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Rocky Hill, CT	Suffield	Oct 25, 2001	23.50	6036	225	#8

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (11/0)	4	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; moved from WR to DB
2021: (12/9)	42	0.5	0.0	0	3	0
2022: (13/12)	65	5.0	1.0	0	1	0
2023: (13/13)	90	5.0	0.5	3	8	1	Honorable Mention All-ACC; team captain; played the final nine games with broken hand
2024: (13/13)	93	9.5	2.0	0	4	1	Honorable Mention All-ACC; team captain; led team in tackles; Senior Bowl
Total: (62/47)	294	20.0	3.5	3	16	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6036	225	91/8	311/8	76 3/4	4.68	2.67	1.65	34	10'0"	4.38	6.98	DNP

SUMMARY: Justin Barron grew up in central Connecticut, with his parents. His father (Jason) played football at UConn; his mother (Sara) played college soccer at Hartwick. Barron was a wide receiver and safety at Suffield Academy and posted 525 receiving yards and two interceptions as a senior, leading the team to the 2019 Class A New England Championship.

A three-star recruit, Barron committed to Syracuse over UConn and others, and he made the switch from receiver to safety in 2020. Over the last few seasons, he played all over the back seven — linebacker, safety, big nickel — and reached at least 90 tackles in each of his final two seasons.

Barron is an impressive size-speed athlete, and there are zero concerns about his competitive toughness or football-playing temperament. Though his burst to close jumps off the tape, his coverage movements are inconsistent and missed tackles made for a nagging issue on his 2024 tape. Overall, Barron needs better consistency to find a full-time role on defense, but he can provide versatile depth. His special teams experience (949 snaps in college) will pay immediate dividends.

GRADE: FA

LB28 Austin Keys

Auburn, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Collins, MS	Seminary	Apr 03, 2002	23.06	6022	229	#6

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Ole Miss; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (6/1)	12	0.0	0	0	0	0	Ole Miss; missed final seven games (knee)
2022: (13/6)	39	3.5	2	1	0	0	Ole Miss
2023: (8/6)	30	3.0	2	1	2	0	Auburn; missed five games (thumb surgery); enrolled January 2023
2024: (12/4)	39	2.0	0	0	2	0	Auburn
Total: (43/17)	120	8.5	4	2	4	0

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6022	229	91/4	31 5/8	77 7/8	4.63	2.69	1.64	36 1/2	10'4"	4.44	7.41	21

SUMMARY: Austin Keys grew up in small-town Mississippi with his parents (Michael and Bridget). He was a standout basketball and football player at Seminary High and had a breakout junior season as a 200-pound linebacker (79 tackles, 23.0 tackles for loss). A three-star recruit, Keys committed to Ole Miss and played mostly on special teams his first two seasons. After handling a part-time role in 2022, he entered the transfer portal and spent his last two years at Auburn, primarily in a Sam linebacker role (averaged 33.3 defensive snaps per game in 2024).

Keys needs an extra half-beat to sort out what he sees at times , but he is quick in short areas to fill with thump. Although he can be outfoxed in coverage, he plays well in space to leverage his responsibilities and get his man on the ground as a tackler. Overall, Keys didn't truly separate himself on two different SEC defenses, but he's fast-flowing and physical and should be a day one contributor on kickoff coverages.

GRADE: FA

LB29 Tyreem Powell

Rutgers, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Vineland, NJ	Vineland South	Dec 28, 2001	23.32	6044	239	#22

BACKGROUND: Tyreem Powell Jr., the oldest of three boys, was born and raised in Vineland, N.J., with his parents (Tyreem Powell Sr. and Stephanie). He was a multisport athlete starting at age 5 and starred in baseball, basketball and football throughout childhood. Powell started out playing for the Vineland Midget team — he wore No. 22 because it was the same number his father had worn when he started playing for the same team in Vineland. Powell continued playing football for Vineland pee wee and youth teams, including for the Vineland Raiders in middle school. He developed a "big brother-little brother" relationship with Isiah Pacheco (Powell calls him "Pop"), who is a few years older and also grew up playing youth football in Vineland.

Powell enrolled at Vineland South High, where he was a standout on both sides of the ball. He was unable to play as a freshman because of a neck injury but became a starting wide receiver on varsity as a sophomore and caught passes from Pacheco, a senior. The next season, Powell became a two-way player and received first-team all-conference honors as a safety. He again started at wide receiver (23 catches for 274 yards) before moving to quarterback after the starter went down with a collarbone injury. It was the first time Powell had played quarterback since midget ball, but he led Vineland to the 2018 state playoffs and the program's first-ever postseason victory. As a senior captain, he led the program to a 6-5 record and earned all-region honors for the second straight season. Powell expected to play more tight end as a senior, but he again was needed at quarterback and posted 868 passing yards, 454 rushing yards and 13 total touchdowns. On defense, he finished with 60 tackles and two interceptions. Powell also lettered in basketball at Vineland.

A three-star recruit, Powell was the 45th-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 20 recruit in New Jersey. After his sophomore season, he received his first scholarship offer from nearby Temple (April 2018). After his junior season, both Rutgers and Virginia Tech offered him (Jan. 2019). After visiting Blacksburg, Powell committed to Virginia Tech in February 2019 as a safety. Penn State entered the mix in August 2019, and Powell kept his options open. On signing day, he flipped to Rutgers for the chance to stay close to home and play for newly hired head coach Greg Schiano and then-defensive coordinator Fran Brown. Powell was the second-ranked recruit in Rutgers' 2020 class and signed as a linebacker. He reunited with Pacheco for two seasons at Rutgers. Powell twice earned Academic All-Big Ten honors and graduated with a degree (April 2024). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but was unable to participate after getting "banged up" in Rutgers' bowl game.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled July 2020
2021: (13/3)	20	0.0	0	0	2	1
2022: (12/12)	71	6.0	3	0	4	0
2023: (8/7)	53	2.0	2	1	2	0	Missed final five games (left wrist)
2024: (10/10)	57	3.5	0	1	2	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed three games (Achilles); team captain
Total: (43/32)	201	11.5	5	2	10	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6044	239	9	34 5/8	82 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout
PRO DAY	6043	239	9 1/8	34 3/4	82 5/8	4.92	2.75	1.57	DNP	DNP	4.66	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Impressive size-speed athlete
- Rare wingspan with arm length that makes offensive tackles jealous
- Firm upward strike when using long arms to work off contact
- Leverages gap with physicality
- Builds up speed to close gap in backside pursuit
- Length allows him to lasso and finish tackles better than most
- Has value as blitzzer on simulated pressures
- Forced fumble late on 2024 Minnesota tape, which sparked a comeback win
- Played all four seasons on punt coverages and has skill set for special teams
- Voted a 2024 team captain; his coaches give their stamps of approval

WEAKNESSES:

- Want to see him punch to his weight class consistently
- Average trigger and tends to be a tick late driving downhill
- Inconsistent edge setter and block shedder
- Needs more leveraged approach to play under angle blocks
- Doesn't have body twitch for easy redirects in space
- Struggles matching tight ends down the seam
- Plays with blinders on in coverage
- Planned to leave for NFL after 2023 season but suffered a left wrist injury (Oct. 2023), which required season-ending injury; tore his Achilles while working back from wrist injury (Feb. 2024), which sidelined him for first two games of 2024 (he wasn't 100 percent most of final year); limited during the draft process after being "banged up" in final college game

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Rutgers, Powell was the Mike linebacker in then-defensive coordinator Joe Harasymiak's 4-2-5 base scheme. He put himself on the NFL radar in 2022 and was trending toward being a top-100 pick until injuries sidetracked his trajectory.

A big athlete, Powell is a smooth mover with functional range, although he didn't look quite the same on the 2024 tape while working his way back from an Achilles injury. He offers rare length and admirable physicality to work near the line of scrimmage, but he needs to stay disciplined with his keys and timing to remain a factor in the play. Overall, if Powell stays healthy and returns to form, he has the frame and tools worth developing on an NFL practice squad.

GRADE: FA

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
American Fork, UT	Timpview	Feb 19, 2000	25.18	5116	229	#21

BACKGROUND: Karene (kuh-ren-ay) Reid, the second of four children (three boys, one girl), grew up in American Fork, Utah, with his parents (Spencer and Marrieta). His father, who grew up in American Samoa, played linebacker at BYU (1994-97) before going undrafted in the 1998 NFL Draft; he played three seasons in the NFL for the Carolina Panthers and Indianapolis Colts, then retired because of a back injury. Karene also has four uncles who played college football: Gabriel Reid (BYU), Jared Reid (Utah State), Adney Reid (BYU) and Gordon Reid (Southern Utah). He also has numerous cousins that have played college football. His older brother (Gabe) played defensive end at Stanford (2018-21) before transferring to Utah (2022). Karene calls Gabe his "inspiration" and "role model." His younger brother (Mana) is a high school football recruit and received his first scholarship offer from Utah in December 2024.

Karene played flag football throughout elementary school, until convincing his parents to let him join a tackle-football league in fifth grade (Pop Warner Cavemen). Before moving to linebacker, he played primarily at running back throughout youth football and was coached by his father. Reid married his high school sweetheart (Addison) in November 2020 after they returned from Latter-day Saints missions. The couple has two children (Manu and Saia).

Reid attended Timpview High in Provo, where he was a four-year varsity letterman. After handling some kicking duties as a freshman, he played on defense as a sophomore in 2015 and posted 22 tackles. As a junior, he earned all-region honors and helped Timpview to a 9-3 record, finishing with 54 tackles, 15 tackles for loss, four sacks and one interception (returned for a touchdown). Reid earned first-team all-state and league defensive MVP honors as a senior in 2017 with 84 tackles, 11 tackles for loss, 2.5 sacks and one interception (returned for a touchdown).

A three-star recruit, Reid was the 132nd-ranked outside linebacker in the 2018 recruiting class and the No. 25 recruit in Utah. Given his family connections in Provo, he had grown up a BYU fan and received his first scholarship offer from the Cougars and Kalani Sitake in July 2016. However, Reid decided to go his own route and committed to Utah State over Air Force, Fresno State and Navy. He was the sixth-ranked recruit in former head coach Matt Wells' 2018 class. A member of the Church of Latter-day Saints, Reid went on a religious mission to Madagascar before starting his college football career. When he returned, Wells had taken the head coaching job at Texas Tech, so Reid elected to look elsewhere. Drawn to the culture at Utah, he walked on and later earned a scholarship with the Utes. Reid accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl and was a late call-up to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (10/6)	45	2.0	1	0	3	1
2022: (14/14)	72	9.5	5	1	4	1	Second Team All-Pac-12; 11-yard fumble-return TD
2023: (11/11)	67	2.0	0	0	5	1	Second Team All-Pac-12; 21-yard INT TD; missed two games (injury)
2024: (8/8)	54	6.0	3	0	1	0	Missed four games (leg); team captain
Total: (43/39)	238	19.5	9	1	13	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (right knee)
PRO DAY	5116	229	9 1/4	31 3/8	75 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	17

STRENGTHS:

- Short but not small, with a developed build
- Solid athlete and moves with body flexibility to plant, drive or redirect
- Pursuit quickness shined brightest as blitzer to work around (or leap over) blockers
- Instinctive reads lead to accurate angles (studies a lot of Fred Warner)
- Strong hands and routinely finishes tackle attempts he starts
- Sniffs out slants and follows quarterback's eyes to the passing lane
- Able to man up tight ends and stay attached outside the numbers
- Mature, selfless leader; voted a team captain in 2024 (NFL scout: "He's made of the right stuff.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average height and length
- Fast-flow player but a little sticky when moving laterally
- Long-armed lineman can give him a jolt and knock him off path
- Can evade blockers (former running back) but inconsistent when attempting to punch/separate
- Has enough athleticism for spot-drop duties but instincts aren't as sharp in coverage
- Will be 25 on draft weekend
- Missed four games as senior because of leg injury (Sept. 2024); right knee injury at Senior Bowl (Feb. 2025)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Utah, Reid played the Rover linebacker position in defensive coordinator Morgan Scalley's 4-2-5 base scheme. An older prospect, his maturity and experience led to production on tape — it was obvious watching the Utes' defense when he wasn't on the field because of injuries. Reid plays with a quick trigger and little wasted movements when keying or scraping across the line as a blitz and run defender. He isn't as consistent taking on blocks, and although his energized movements show in coverage, he isn't a playmaker once his back is turned to the ball.

A four-year starter at Utah, Reid played the Rover linebacker position in defensive coordinator Morgan Scalley's 4-2-5 base scheme. An older prospect, his maturity and experience led to production on tape — it was obvious watching the Utes' defense when he wasn't on the field because of injuries. Reid plays with a quick trigger and little wasted movements when keying or scraping across the line as a blitz and run defender. He isn't as consistent taking on blocks, and although his energized movements show in coverage, he isn't a playmaker once his back is turned to the ball. Overall, Reid is undersized and overaged, but he plays fast, self-assured and physical with the tackling skills to finish the mission. If healthy, he has a chance to earn a role as a backup and special teams contributor.

GRADE: FA

LB31 Shaun Dolac

Buffalo, 5SR

HOMETOWN		HIGH SCHOOL				BIRTHDAY		AGE		HT		WT		NUM
West Seneca, NY		East				Sep 14, 2001		23.61		6002		221		#52
YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	7	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Walk-on; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/2)	37	6.0	1.5	0	0	0	Blocked punt; put on scholarship
2022: (13/13)	147	13.5	4.5	3	7	0	First Team All-MAC; led MAC in tackles
2023: (4/4)	32	2.5	0.0	0	1	1	Missed final eight games (shoulder); transferred to Utah State for one semester, returned to Buffalo
2024: (13/13)	168	18.5	6.5	0	10	5	Consensus All-American; MAC Def. POY; First Team All-MAC; led FBS in tackles; led MAC in INTs
Total: (49/32)	391	40.5	12.5	3	18	6
	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6002	221	9 3/8	30	74 3/8	4.63	2.69	1.53	35 1/2	10'1"	4.22	6.93	25

SUMMARY: Shaun Dolac, one of five children, grew up outside of Buffalo, N.Y. His father (John), who coached Dolac growing up, died of esophageal cancer in 2016. Dolac played football and lacrosse at West Seneca East High — he received scholarship offers to play lacrosse , but college football was his (and his father's) dream. After a slow recruitment, he spent the 2019 season at Milford (N.Y.) Academy, then walked on at Buffalo in 2020 (he was put on scholarship before the 2021 season). After briefly transferring (spent 2024 spring with Utah State), he returned to Buffalo and became the first consensus All-American in school history (FBS-best 168 tackles).

Dolac plays with boundless energy and decisive read-react skills to drive on the football and explode through his target. Though he is fast in the open field, he can struggle working through high-trafficked areas. He does a great job anticipating and attacking passing lanes in the MAC, but covering NFL athletes will be a much different task. Overall, Dolac will be limited in areas because of his lack of size and length, but his competitive mentality and production will endear him to NFL coaches. He has the ingredients of a special teams ace, similar to Tyler Matakevich.

GRADE: FA

LB32 Power Echols

North Carolina, 4SR

HOMETOWN Charlotte, NC			HIGH SCHOOL Chambers			BIRTHDAY Jan 20, 2003		AGE 22.26	HT 5113	WT 234	NUM #23
YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/0)	25	1.0	0.0	0	1	1	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (14/14)	103	5.0	2.0	1	3	1	Honorable Mention All-ACC; team captain
2023: (13/13)	102	5.5	0.0	2	2	1	Third Team All-ACC
2024: (12/12)	76	1.5	0.5	0	7	1	Honorable Mention All-ACC; 42-yard INT TD
Total: (52/39)	306	13.0	2.5	3	13	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5113	237	9 1/8	30 5/8	75 5/8	4.73	2.81	1.73	33	9' 7"	4.56	7.60	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5112	234	9 1/4	31	74 3/8	4.72	2.75	1.62	DNP	9'3"	4.46	7.38	13

SUMMARY: Power Echols (named after actor Powers Boothe) grew up in an athletic family — his father (Brian Echols) was a defensive back at Michigan State and had short stints with the 49ers and Jets; his mother (Astarlove Robinson) played basketball at Western Michigan. After growing up in Arizona, Echols moved with his family to Charlotte at age 12. At Chambers High (formerly Vance High), he was a four-year varsity starter on varsity and compiled nearly 400 career tackles, plus led the team to a 2020 state title as an all-state senior.

A four-star recruit, Echols committed to North Carolina over Clemson, Penn State and Tennessee and started every game in the 2022-24 seasons (39 straight starts). He is quick to read the play and flow, and he isn't afraid to stick his nose in the blender to pull down the running back. He reaches landmarks in coverage and has shown improved recognition, although he will struggle to man up with NFL tight ends and backs. Overall, Echols is durable and trusts his instincts (for better or worse) to go get the football, although inconsistent take-on and leverage angles need to be addressed. Overall, Echols is durable and trusts his instincts (for better or worse) to go get the football, although inconsistent take-on and leverage angles need to be addressed.

GRADE: FA

LB33 Bam Martin-Scott

South Carolina, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Fort Wayne, IN	Snider	Jul 04, 2000	24.81	6023	231	#22

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Dodge City (Kan.) Community College
2020: (-/-)							Dodge City (Kan.) Community College
2021: (4/0)	0	0	0.0	0	0	0	South Carolina; Redshirted; enrolled August 2021
2022: (13/0)	16	1	0.0	1	4	1	South Carolina
2023: (10/3)	38	4	2.0	0	1	0	South Carolina; Started final three games
2024: (13/6)	67	9	2.5	2	2	0	South Carolina
Total: (40/9)	121	14	4.5	3	7	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6021	231	8 3/4	32	79 3/8	4.63	2.69	1.62	33 1/2	10' 2"	4.53	7.26	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6023	234	9 1/8	32	79 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	31	DNP	4.63	DNP	22

SUMMARY: Tavareon "Bam" Martin-Scott picked up his nickname because of the fireworks celebration he typically receives to celebrate his birthday. He grew up playing pee wee football in Fort Wayne, Ind., but developed late and was mostly a part-time player until his senior year at Snider High (alma mater of Jessie Bates). He posted 87 tackles and 6.0 sacks as a senior in 2018, but it wasn't enough to put him on the recruiting radar. A no-star recruit, he played two seasons with Dodge City (Kan.) Community College and then received several SEC offers. His playing time and production gradually increased each season for the Gamecocks, and he put intriguing flashes on film.

Martin-Scott is a good-sized athlete, with pursuit speed to match races to the perimeter. He competes with a banger mentality to pinball off blocks and stay determined on his path to the ball. Overall, Martin-Scott freelances a tad too much with inconsistent steps in coverage, but he is a classic run-and-hit linebacker who likes to play loose and chase plays — necessary ingredients for NFL special teams.

GRADE: FA

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Gadsden, AL	Gadsden City	Feb 07, 2002	23.21	6036	208	#19

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	6	0.0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled June 2020
2021: (8/6)	24	3.5	0	1	2	0
2022: (12/10)	55	2.5	0	0	10	3
2023: (10/10)	46	1.0	0	2	5	2	Missed two games (ankle)
2024: (13/12)	48	1.0	0	0	3	1	Left bowl game with labrum tear; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (48/38)	179	8.0	0	3	20	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6036	208	8 5/8	34 3/4	79 3/4	4.71	2.75	1.58	34	10'6"	4.44	7.23	DNP

SUMMARY: De’Rickey Wright, the oldest of four children, was born and raised in Gadsden, Ala., and started playing at age 4, although baseball was his main sport (he stopped playing football for a few years to play fall baseball). He played quarterback through his sophomore year at Gadsden City High, after which point he transitioned to safety and earned all-state honors in 2018 with six interceptions. His mother (Christian Henderson) died in December 2020 of an aneurysm. He married his high school sweetheart (Jada) in 2023.

A four-star recruit, Wright picked up offers from Alabama, among other big programs, and initially committed to Ole Miss, but he flipped to Vanderbilt for the chance to play for Derek Mason and "build something." Wearing the green dot in 2024, Wright was the communicator for the Commodores' defense, and his leadership was a key part of Vandy's success. Using his length and body control, he does a great job manning up tight ends and taking away passing windows. Overall, Wright has some linebacker/safety tweener traits, but he is a limber athlete and sees the field well through the eyes of a former quarterback. He can make a living covering kicks and adding depth on defense.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
35	Ruben Hyppolite II	Maryland	5115	236	4.42	2.58	1.53	33	9'10"	4.34	6.96	18	9	31 5/8	77 1/4
36	Brandon George	Pittsburgh	6032	246	4.65	2.66	1.59	42 1/2	10'8"	4.14	6.98	28	9 3/4	33	80 1/8
37	Aaron Smith	South Carolina State	6000	234	4.69	2.78	1.63	35	10'3"	4.48	7.37	25	8 1/2	31 5/8	74 7/8
38	Wesley Steiner	Washington State	5117	235	4.39	2.63	1.55	39	11'3"	4.27	7.24	23	9 3/8	31 1/4	77 1/2
39	Luke Gunderson	Northern State	6017	241	4.66	2.65	1.60	34 1/2	9'10"	4.37	6.94	24	8 1/2	32 1/4	76 1/2
40	Matt Jones	Baylor	6026	236	4.69	2.70	1.62	32 1/2	9'4"	4.34	6.95	DNP	9 5/8	32	77 5/8
41	Stone Blanton	Mississippi State	6017	227	DNP	DNP	DNP	35 1/2	DNP	4.36	7.34	16	9 5/8	30 1/8	73
42	K.C. Ossai	Louisiana	6011	237	4.68	2.63	1.57	39 1/2	10'6"	4.56	7.38	22	9 5/8	33	78
43	Greg Penn III	LSU	6006	226	4.82	2.82	1.65	32 1/2	9'4"	4.47	7.28	21	8 7/8	30 7/8	75 1/8
44	Joseph Vaughn	UCLA	6023	234	4.66	2.65	1.66	41 1/2	10'3"	4.18	6.82	21	9 3/8	32 5/8	78 3/8
45	David Gbenda	Texas	5114	236	4.70	2.62	1.64	32 1/2	9'9"	4.31	7.20	18	10 1/8	32 1/2	78 1/2
46	Easton Mascarenas-Arnold	USC	5111	227	4.58	2.80	1.59	32	10'0"	4.34	6.85	25	9 3/8	30 3/8	73 7/8
47	Ty French	West Virginia	6010	224	4.63	2.69	1.61	32	10'1"	4.44	7.34	25	9 7/8	32 3/8	77 3/8
48	DJ Lundy	Florida State	6001	239	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	23	9 1/8	32 7/8	77 5/8
49	Ale Kaho	UCLA	6015	231	4.50	2.60	1.64	33	9'11"	4.38	7.04	14	8 1/2	32 7/8	77 7/8
50	Marlowe Wax	Syracuse	6000	227	4.62	2.65	1.52	29	9'6"	4.29	6.98	23	8 3/4	31 3/8	77 1/8
51	Deshawn Pace	UCF	6007	212	4.55	2.63	1.51	32 1/2	9'9"	4.47	7.19	17	9 7/8	30 3/4	72 3/4
52	Tuasivi Nomura	Fresno State	6002	219	4.64	2.80	1.67	35	10'1"	4.40	7.27	21	9 3/8	31 1/8	77 1/8
53	Nick Jackson	Iowa	6006	228	4.75	2.74	1.65	34 1/2	9'5"	4.44	7.10	16	9 1/2	31 1/4	75
54	Devin Veresuk	Windsor (Can.)	6020	232	4.50	2.61	1.70	36	10'4"	4.48	7.21	27	9 5/8	31 1/2	76
55	Michael Batton	Houston	6003	222	4.53	2.59	1.53	32 1/2	10'2"	4.31	7.01	18	9 3/8	30	72 1/2
56	Kobe Wilson	SMU	5095	223	4.70	2.78	1.69	35	9'9"	4.46	7.59	23	9 1/8	29 1/2	72 1/2
57	Morice Blackwell Jr.	Texas	6016	216	4.59	2.65	1.64	37	10'9"	4.30	7.00	18	9	32 3/4	78 7/8
58	Noah Martin	Samford	5113	241	4.65	2.71	1.57	36	9'10"	4.27	7.28	24	8 7/8	29 5/8	73 3/8
59	George Udo	Ball State	5104	204	4.46	2.63	1.56	37	DNP	4.33	7.27	5	10 1/4	32 1/4	75 1/4
60	Dorian Mausi Jr.	Auburn	6010	231	4.68	2.76	1.67	33	DNP	4.35	DNP	18	9 5/8	32 3/8	79 7/8
61	Blake Leake	Ohio	6010	219	4.70	2.72	1.63	33 1/2	10'2"	4.25	7.06	20	9 7/8	31	73 1/2
62	Branson Combs	Wake Forest	6030	231	4.67	2.62	1.53	34	10'2"	4.41	7.08	19	9	31 1/4	76

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
63	Ty Wise	Miami (OH)	6014	223	4.70	2.75	1.68	30 1/2	10'0"	4.38	7.47	21	9 3/8	30 1/4	76 5/8
64	John Bullock	Nebraska	6000	224	4.63	2.70	1.65	32	9'9"	4.55	7.14	21	9	30	74
65	Brendan Jackson	Troy	6002	226	4.63	2.65	1.56	34	10'5"	4.38	7.21	23	9 5/8	30 3/4	74 7/8
66	Khari Coleman	Ole Miss	6012	213	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10	32 3/4	78 1/4
67	Garret Ollendieck	Indiana State	6011	233	4.75	2.80	1.60	32	9'7"	4.42	7.46	20	9 5/8	32 1/2	77 3/4
68	Amir Abdullah	Illinois State	6010	215	4.70	2.68	1.69	35 1/2	10'3"	4.37	7.18	19	9 1/2	31 3/4	78 1/4
69	Michael Moore	UAB	6043	228	4.69	2.75	1.65	35	9'7"	4.51	7.20	13	9 5/8	33 1/8	81
70	Alex Howard	Duke	6010	228	4.61	2.61	1.53	35	10'2"	4.32	6.80	18	8 5/8	30 5/8	76 1/2
71	Jordan Turner	Michigan State	6007	235	4.75	2.79	1.60	33	DNP	4.36	7.01	25	9 1/2	31 1/2	76 1/2
72	Ryan Meed	Illinois	6007	226	4.53	2.65	1.62	37 1/2	9'9"	4.42	7.35	25	9 3/8	30 7/8	75 3/8
73	Corey Flagg Jr.	Missouri	5103	238	4.68	2.71	1.68	34	9'7"	4.46	7.45	22	9 3/4	32	78
74	JB Brown	Kansas	6001	225	4.63	2.75	1.59	33 1/2	9'9"	4.53	7.32	20	8 7/8	32 1/4	77 3/8
75	Mason Cobb	USC	5116	232	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	20	9	30 1/4	74 1/4
76	Connor Shay	Wyoming	6014	227	4.58	2.70	1.60	38 1/2	10'3"	4.32	6.95	DNP	9	30 1/4	73 5/8
77	Keenan Pili	Tennessee	6022	223	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	32 1/2	80
78	Ethan Barr	UCF	6021	223	4.77	2.72	1.58	33 1/2	9'5"	4.34	7.09	22	9 1/8	30 1/2	74 1/8
79	Jared Bartlett	Cincinnati	6016	238	4.65	2.70	1.60	32	9'7"	4.41	7.07	19	10 1/8	33 1/4	78 1/2
80	Tristan Sinclair	Stanford	6006	229	4.81	2.75	1.59	33	9'10"	4.18	7.14	15	8 7/8	30 1/2	76 3/8
81	Jacob Dobbs	James Madison	5110	230	4.62	2.69	1.58	39 1/2	10'0"	4.28	7.22	25	9 3/8	31 1/8	74 3/8
82	Colin Ramos	Navy	5101	214	4.82	2.77	1.64	30	9'6"	4.46	7.20	23	9 3/8	30 5/8	72
83	Lance Dixon	Toledo	6023	224	4.58	2.69	1.66	33 1/2	10'2"	4.32	7.07	20	9 1/8	32 7/8	77 3/4
84	Jestin Jacobs	Oregon	6034	229	4.70	2.71	1.59	36 1/2	10'2"	4.34	DNP	17	8 1/4	32 5/8	78 1/2
85	Kam Arnold	Boston College	6005	227	4.58	2.66	1.53	38	10'3"	4.21	7.07	DNP	9 1/4	31 7/8	76 5/8
86	Jake Chaney	Wisconsin	5115	228	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	29	8 7/8	30 7/8	75
87	Alphonzo Tuputala	Washington	6014	231	4.75	2.70	1.59	33 1/2	8'10"	4.44	7.34	18	10 1/8	31 1/8	75 1/4
88	Jaden Dolphin	Northern Illinois	6022	228	4.74	2.70	1.62	34 1/2	9'9"	4.57	7.39	22	9 5/8	32 3/8	78 1/4
89	Damari Roberson	Western Michigan	6010	212	4.53	2.65	1.63	35 1/2	10'8"	4.51	7.10	20	9 1/4	32	75 3/8
90	Johnny Hodges	TCU	6002	237	4.74	2.77	1.57	30 1/2	9'4"	4.32	7.03	28	9 3/8	31 5/8	75
91	Trenilyas Tatum	Georgia Tech	6022	221	4.87	2.83	1.65	28 1/2	10'0"	4.61	7.44	17	8 3/4	31 1/8	74 5/8
92	Eli Purcell	Tennessee	5115	228	4.84	2.84	1.73	38	9'11"	4.38	7.44	20	9 1/4	31	77 1/2
93	Debo Williams	South Carolina	6003	225	4.85	2.81	1.62	31 1/2	9'4"	4.44	7.71	32	9 1/2	31 5/8	78 5/8
94	Solomon DeShields	Texas A&M	6015	235	4.62	2.69	1.63	37	10'9"	4.47	7.21	17	8 5/8	33 1/4	79 3/8
95	Zach Zimos	Louisiana Tech	6036	226	4.88	2.76	1.72	35 1/2	9'3"	4.41	7.19	17	9 7/8	32 1/2	78
96	Elijah Anderson-Taylor	Florida International	5115	225	4.82	2.78	1.72	32 1/2	9'10"	4.47	7.34	19	8 7/8	31	75 5/8
97	Rossy Moore	Mount Union	5115	218	4.94	2.81	1.64	31	9'5"	4.44	7.21	14	8 1/2	30 3/4	78 3/8
98	Shae Suiaunoa	Wyoming	6015	224	4.73	2.75	1.69	36	10'1"	4.32	6.84	19	9	30 5/8	75 3/4
99	Jaylen Smith	North Texas	5110	224	4.60	2.66	1.62	38	9'4"	4.12	6.82	26	8 1/2	30 1/2	74
100	Malachi Langley	Fresno State	6000	221	4.72	2.80	1.65	33 1/2	10'5"	4.33	7.01	25	9 3/8	31 1/4	76 1/4
101	Cam Riley	Florida State	6035	228	4.64	2.69	1.60	32	10'1"	4.45	7.18	19	9	33 3/8	79 3/4
102	Tongiaki Mateialona	Nevada	5117	238	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	9 1/4	31 1/8	74 1/2
103	Ozzie Nicholas	Duke	6007	226	4.64	2.62	1.50	32	10'3"	4.19	6.90	20	9 3/8	30 1/2	74 1/2
104	David Meyer	UC Davis	6013	226	4.69	2.74	1.74	33	10'0"	4.50	7.15	26	9 5/8	30 3/8	73
105	Adam Bock	South Dakota State	6003	225	4.67	2.67	1.60	33 1/2	10'5"	4.23	7.10	23	10 1/8	31	75 1/8
106	Jayden McDonald	UConn	5117	233	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	31 1/4	75 5/8
107	Brendan Bell	Villanova	6010	230	4.55	2.63	1.57	32 1/2	9'10"	4.39	7.20	DNP	9 3/8	30 1/2	73 3/4
108	Donyai Taylor	UTSA	6003	204	4.69	2.70	1.63	32 1/2	9'8"	4.45	7.78	DNP	8 3/8	29 5/8	74 1/8
109	Mannie Nunnery	Texas State	6007	224	4.50	2.60	1.58	38 1/2	10'9"	4.46	7.57	20	9 1/2	32 1/2	79 1/2
110	Tevin Shipp	UT Martin	6014	237	4.73	2.63	1.60	34 1/2	9'10"	4.25	7.05	22	10 3/8	33 7/8	79 1/2
111	Demetrias Charles	Central Arkansas	5096	222	4.58	2.68	1.59	38 1/2	10'0"	4.44	7.60	17	8 7/8	32 5/8	77 1/8
112	Frankie Monte	Holy Cross	5105	226	4.77	DNP	1.63	36	10'3"	4.40	7.41	28	9 1/8	30 3/8	74 1/2
113	LaVonta Bentley	Colorado	5110	225	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	9'2"	4.40	7.26	25	10 1/2	31 1/2	77
114	Jamie Pettway	South Florida	6000	228	4.77	2.78	1.69	36	9'7"	4.43	7.18	23	9 7/8	33 1/4	80 3/4
115	DeMarkus Cunningham	Alabama State	5114	208	4.69	2.80	1.68	31	9'2"	4.55	7.45	17	9	31 1/8	74 7/8
116	Brevin Randle	UTSA	5113	228	4.60	2.63	1.55	34	9'7"	4.45	7.50	27	9 1/4	29 7/8	73 1/8
117	Gavin Potter	Tulsa	6011	224	4.72	2.79	1.62	32 1/2	9'11"	4.34	7.43	20	9 1/2	31 5/8	74 1/2
118	Xander Mueller	Northwestern	6025	230	4.69	2.69	1.69	34 1/2	9'9"	4.20	6.99	12	9 3/8	31 1/8	74 1/8
119	Derek Wingo	Florida	6007	221	4.78	2.81	1.59	33	9'9"	4.22	6.88	14	8 3/4	32	79 1/2
120	EJ Green	Old Dominion	6000	225	4.75	2.64	1.55	31	10'1"	4.40	7.24	25	8 3/4	31 1/8	76
121	LaVoise-Deontae McCoy	Illinois State	5117	230	4.85	2.83	1.69	29	9'1"	4.59	7.44	18	9 3/8	30 7/8	76 7/8
122	Josiah Cotton	Stephen F. Austin	5104	229	4.76	2.78	1.60	33 1/2	9'1"	4.57	7.29	24	8 1/2	31 3/8	74 1/2
123	Chris Hunter Jr.	UT Martin	6003	225	4.79	2.66	1.53	36 1/2	9'9"	4.50	7.32	DNP	9 1/8	32 3/4	77
124	Jesiah Pierre	UCF	6012	241	4.75	2.80	1.63	29	9'6"	4.65	7.82	19	9 1/2	33	78 5/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
125	Adam Cohen	Eastern Washington	5115	224	4.82	2.81	1.75	27 1/2	10'0"	4.59	7.50	21	10	31 1/8	76 1/4
126	Corey Thomas Jr.	Virginia	6034	223	4.71	2.72	1.66	28 1/2	9'9"	DNP	DNP	19	8 7/8	31 5/8	76 3/4
127	Donald Willis	Western Michigan	6007	225	4.80	2.75	1.65	31 1/2	9'1"	4.55	7.03	DNP	9	31 7/8	75
128	Davon Gilmore	Georgia Southern	6013	242	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	31 1/8	77 1/4
129	Bo Spearman	Austin Peay	5113	233	4.81	2.79	1.63	30 1/2	9'6"	4.56	7.77	17	9 3/4	31 3/4	75 1/2
130	Austin Moore	Kansas State	5116	229	4.82	2.74	1.58	32 1/2	9'7"	4.53	7.39	DNP	9 1/2	31 1/8	74 1/8
131	Charles Willekes	Arkansas State	6010	226	4.88	2.88	1.67	31	9'6"	4.42	7.39	29	9 1/2	30	73
132	Quantrail Morris-Walker	Richmond	6003	197	4.63	2.69	1.63	33	10'1"	4.45	7.14	19	9 3/4	32 1/4	78 1/8
133	Maka Bangura	Univ. of B.C. (Can.)	5107	215	4.83	2.74	1.69	34	9'4"	4.79	7.53	DNP	9	32 1/4	77 3/8
134	D'Eryk Jackson	Kentucky	6014	237	4.96	2.82	1.72	32 1/2	9'4"	4.68	7.57	DNP	9 1/4	33	78 5/8
135	Cornell Wheeler	Kansas	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
136	Julian Young	Colby	6000	227	4.89	DNP	1.64	35 1/2	9'8"	4.44	7.39	16	9 7/8	31	75 1/2
137	Jamal Ligon	UTSA	6010	231	4.79	2.77	1.62	29	9'1"	4.46	7.22	16	9	32 1/8	76 3/8
138	Caleb McCullough	Arizona State	6012	221	4.78	2.80	1.74	33 1/2	9'6"	4.55	7.45	13	9 1/4	32	76 1/8
139	Darrius Bell	Charleston Southern	6015	230	4.85	2.82	1.71	33	9'6"	4.57	7.50	18	9	32	76 1/4
140	Tyler Grubbs	Tulane	6000	223	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	30 7/8	75 3/8
141	Noah West	Central Oklahoma	6020	231	4.90	2.81	1.64	31 1/2	9'7"	4.52	7.63	13	8 3/4	32 1/4	78 7/8
142	Jalil Clemons	Southern Miss	6030	248	DNP	DNP	DNP	31 1/2	9'5"	4.59	7.15	DNP	9	33 1/4	80
143	Matt Hudson	Memphis	6017	231	4.85	2.81	1.65	30	10'0"	4.22	6.79	13	10 1/4	31 1/4	78 1/4
144	Jahmar Brown	Liberty	6004	213	4.70	2.68	1.63	33 1/2	9'10"	4.40	7.27	27	10 5/8	31 1/2	76 5/8
145	OC Brothers	UAB	6003	233	4.88	2.85	1.70	32 1/2	9'4"	4.65	7.44	14	9 5/8	32 1/8	78 1/2
146	Evan DiMaggio	Furman	6020	231	4.96	2.84	1.75	29 1/2	9'7"	4.44	7.50	30	9 1/4	32 1/8	76 3/8
147	Ahmad Walker	SMU	5106	221	4.87	2.83	1.71	30 1/2	9'7"	DNP	DNP	13	9 1/8	31 1/4	75 3/8
148	Anthony Switzer	Arkansas	6000	221	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	8'11"	DNP	DNP	26	9	31 1/4	74 7/8
149	Jerome Jolly Jr.	Liberty	5113	224	4.77	2.74	1.56	34 1/2	9'11"	4.44	7.38	22	10	31 7/8	76 5/8
150	Devon Betty	NC State	6000	210	4.89	2.81	1.67	DNP	DNP	4.48	7.42	16	8 5/8	32	76 3/8
151	Marvin Ham	Arkansas State	6000	222	4.77	2.75	1.64	32	9'5"	4.72	7.59	DNP	9 1/2	31 7/8	75 1/2
152	Kavian Gaither	Sam Houston	5103	202	4.85	2.82	1.63	33	9'5"	4.20	6.85	11	8 3/4	30 1/2	72 1/8
153	Erek Campbell	Mississippi Valley	5104	206	4.70	2.70	1.59	DNP	9'11"	4.35	7.27	DNP	8 3/4	30 7/8	75 7/8
154	Alex Washington	William & Mary	5114	224	4.65	2.71	1.50	31 1/2	10'1"	4.60	7.30	17	9 1/4	32	76 3/4
155	Daniel Bolden	Toledo	5115	238	4.95	2.77	1.68	30	9'1"	4.56	7.45	26	8 3/4	31	74
156	Marlon Krakue	North Alabama	6023	237	DNP	DNP	DNP	30 1/2	10'4"	4.79	7.70	19	10 1/8	31 3/4	78 1/4
157	Jaheim Thomas	Wisconsin	6024	223	5.05	2.82	1.74	28	8'8"	4.65	7.28	DNP	9 1/2	33 1/2	80
158	Terrance Hollon	Howard	5113	211	4.67	2.65	1.50	38	10'1"	4.30	7.17	11	9 1/4	31 1/8	74 3/8
159	James Neal	Texas State	5116	224	4.74	2.69	1.66	33 1/2	10'1"	4.31	7.30	17	10 1/8	31 1/4	76
160	Trevon Stanford	West Alabama	6026	201	4.87	2.80	1.67	34 1/2	9'9"	4.43	7.58	6	9 1/8	33 5/8	81 3/4
161	Ositadinma Ekwonu	Charlotte	6005	234	4.84	2.83	1.73	30 1/2	9'8"	4.84	7.65	24	9 3/4	33 5/8	80 1/8
162	Mike Edwards III	East Carolina	5115	207	4.82	2.83	1.64	28	9'9"	4.33	7.50	14	8 7/8	32	78 1/8
163	Kesean Dyson	Maine	5115	216	4.89	DNP	1.59	30 1/2	9'6"	4.58	7.55	14	9 1/2	31 3/4	75
164	Justin Whiteside	Central Michigan	5110	227	5.00	2.82	1.56	37 1/2	9'9"	4.41	7.35	24	9 1/2	30 3/4	75 1/4
165	Benari Black	Johnson C. Smith	6005	227	4.75	2.65	1.73	31	10'2"	4.53	7.30	20	9 1/8	32 1/4	76 1/4
166	Taylor Jackson	Liberty	6005	218	4.90	2.77	1.57	33 1/2	9'8"	4.56	7.52	25	8 3/4	30 3/4	72
167	Raymond Scott	James Madison	5116	227	4.73	2.67	1.67	33	9'4"	4.38	7.02	25	8 7/8	31 1/8	75 1/2
168	Kobe Joseph	Chattanooga	6023	232	4.77	2.76	1.61	35	10'0"	4.59	7.51	17	8 3/8	31 5/8	75 3/4
169	Sadiq Salawu	Bowie State	5102	214	4.71	2.72	1.54	33 1/2	9'8"	4.35	7.40	24	8 3/8	32 1/8	75 1/4
170	Dontorian Best	Wingate	5103	219	4.88	2.80	1.63	30 1/2	9'6"	4.49	7.06	21	9 1/8	29 1/8	73 3/8
171	Dorian Hopkins	UTEP	5104	228	4.90	2.90	1.71	30 1/2	9'6"	4.66	7.48	13	9 7/8	31 5/8	76 3/8
172	Carl Glass Jr.	Louisiana-Monroe	5103	225	4.75	2.75	1.68	35 1/2	10'1"	4.33	7.35	24	9 1/4	31	74 1/2
173	Terreance Ellis	Western Kentucky	6002	221	4.76	2.72	1.57	27 1/2	9'7"	4.50	7.44	18	7 5/8	32 3/8	75 1/2
174	Tommy Ellis	Northern Arizona	6001	226	4.76	2.74	1.75	34	9'11"	4.62	7.40	17	8	30 1/2	73 1/8
175	Ken Savanah	Lamar	5115	210	4.62	2.59	1.60	34	9'8"	4.40	7.53	18	9 3/8	31	73 1/2
176	Quinn Osborne	William & Mary	6015	218	4.88	2.76	1.72	25 1/2	9'4"	4.75	7.33	15	9 1/4	32	77 1/8
177	Ken Standley	Mercer	5111	223	4.97	2.86	1.69	34 1/2	9'10"	4.59	7.31	17	8 3/4	31	75 7/8
178	Jackson Ambush	Florida Atlantic	5117	230	4.90	2.75	1.70	33 1/2	9'2"	4.31	7.21	25	9 3/8	29 1/2	74 1/8
179	Donte Reed	Mississippi Valley	6003	236	4.83	2.80	1.65	DNP	10'4"	4.62	7.46	DNP	9 7/8	32 1/8	77 1/8
180	Shane Perry	East Carolina	5096	236	4.71	2.71	1.61	30	9'5"	4.32	7.32	29	9	29 3/8	71
181	Caden Campolieti	Valdosta State	6005	226	5.06	2.96	1.82	32	9'2"	4.65	7.35	10	8 7/8	30 3/4	74 3/4
182	Dan Foster Jr.	Louisville	6010	223	4.97	2.64	1.68	33	9'10"	4.24	7.10	13	8 1/4	33 1/4	80
183	Conner O'Farrell	Eastern Washington	5107	213	4.57	2.65	1.63	38	9'9"	4.19	6.84	26	8 5/8	31 3/8	75 1/4
184	Kyler Fisher	Iowa	5115	235	4.68	2.66	1.63	34 1/2	9'8"	4.25	6.75	17	8 3/4	31	73 3/8
185	Nick Kubitz	North Dakota State	6022	224	4.64	2.65	1.63	41	10'9"	4.34	7.15	20	9 1/4	32	78 1/8
186	Daniel Raymond	Towson	5106	203	4.75	2.84	1.71	32 1/2	10'3"	4.41	7.10	18	9 7/8	31 5/8	77 1/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
187	Mbaimba Tunkara	Northwood	5106	220	4.78	2.75	1.68	31 1/2	9'5"	4.73	7.46	28	9 3/8	31 1/2	73 1/8
188	Maurice Wilmer	Long Island	6003	235	4.90	2.78	1.63	33	9'5"	4.51	7.51	17	8 7/8	32	76 7/8
189	Tui Faumuina-Brown	UConn	6017	217	4.78	2.65	1.61	31 1/2	9'7"	4.54	7.46	11	9 5/8	31 1/2	76 1/2
190	John Gioia	Towson	5114	224	4.72	2.81	1.69	34	9'8"	4.70	7.29	22	8 3/8	30	74 1/4
191	JP Purvis	Mississippi State	6006	248	4.92	2.88	1.79	29	9'7"	4.82	7.58	12	9 5/8	32 1/4	79 5/8
192	Ahmad McCullough	Morgan State	6010	221	5.11	2.90	1.71	30 1/2	9'5"	4.40	7.10	13	9	31 1/4	76 1/2
193	Tray Dunson	UTEP	6005	216	4.65	2.71	1.69	32 1/2	10'2"	4.50	7.28	14	8 5/8	31 7/8	77 3/4
194	Alex Raich	Kansas	6020	209	4.72	2.72	1.59	31 1/2	9'11"	4.45	7.30	DNP	8 7/8	31 5/8	76 1/4
195	Jordan Cobbs	San Jose State	6010	235	4.82	2.75	1.68	32	10'0"	4.33	DNP	21	9 1/8	31 7/8	77 1/4
196	Dion Hunter	Austin Peay	6011	211	4.78	2.70	1.60	29 1/2	9'11"	4.37	7.27	13	9 3/4	33	76
197	Hayden Gregg	Colorado Mines	6022	237	4.84	2.79	1.65	35	9'9"	4.70	7.14	15	9 1/8	31	76 1/8
198	Gaethan Bernadel	Stanford	5112	230	DNP	DNP	DNP	28 1/2	9'3"	4.54	7.52	19	9 1/8	30 7/8	75 1/4
199	Jackson Barrow	Toledo	5116	218	5.04	2.86	1.70	27	8'10"	4.56	7.60	17	9 1/4	32 1/4	74 7/8
200	Chad Holleran	Georgetown College	6031	221	4.90	2.75	1.64	29	9'10"	4.46	7.31	15	9	31 3/8	73 7/8
201	Zereoue Johnson	Limestone	5104	216	4.83	2.70	1.67	25 1/2	8'1"	4.80	7.57	17	9 3/8	30 1/2	73 7/8
202	Rara Dillworth	Baylor	6001	188	4.59	2.64	1.56	31	9'11"	4.38	7.15	DNP	9 1/2	30 3/4	75 1/4
203	Keionte Newson	Ball State	6016	218	4.70	2.76	1.58	32 1/2	9'11"	4.54	7.50	8	9 1/2	32	76 7/8
204	Brett Gerena	Army	6006	228	4.80	2.78	1.65	31 1/2	8'9"	4.55	7.42	17	8 5/8	30 1/4	73 1/8
205	Macklin Ayers	UMass	6015	226	4.81	2.75	1.59	36 1/2	10'4"	4.32	6.97	18	9 1/2	31 1/2	76 5/8
206	Tim Sanford II	West Virginia State	6002	193	4.63	2.60	1.56	31 1/2	9'9"	4.62	7.47	15	9 1/4	32 1/4	75 1/4
207	Matthew Davis	East Stroudsburg	6013	218	4.76	2.59	1.60	DNP	10'3"	4.47	7.53	15	9 3/4	31	75 1/8
208	Tre Pinkney	Southern Miss	6005	221	4.89	2.76	1.59	33 1/2	9'6"	4.66	7.32	18	8 7/8	32 1/8	78 1/4
209	Jon Ross Maye	Utah State	5107	225	4.76	2.77	1.67	31	9'4"	4.75	7.28	DNP	9 1/2	31 3/4	77
210	J'Coryan Anderson	Marshall	6017	231	4.61	2.64	1.59	DNP	DNP	4.37	7.10	13	9	31 7/8	76 1/8
211	Jacob Wahlberg	Western Michigan	6030	225	4.90	2.81	1.70	29 1/2	9'5"	4.42	7.25	17	9 5/8	32 3/8	77 1/4
212	Jamal Morris	Houston	6012	226	5.05	2.92	1.69	28 1/2	9'1"	4.72	7.77	14	9 7/8	32 1/2	77 1/4
213	Eddie Williams	Florida Atlantic	5113	203	4.87	2.71	1.67	33 1/2	9'5"	4.56	7.20	14	8 3/4	30 3/8	73 3/8
214	Brandon Stegall	Pittsburg State	6014	220	4.74	2.68	1.68	34	9'0"	4.27	7.33	14	8 7/8	32 5/8	78 3/8
215	Carl Ware	Wayne State	5105	211	4.83	2.76	1.70	29 1/2	9'2"	4.32	7.27	18	8 5/8	30 5/8	74 1/8
216	Taiwan Berryhill Jr.	Kansas	6004	229	4.88	2.63	1.69	33	9'7"	4.56	7.63	19	9 1/8	32 1/2	76 1/4
217	Kyle Moretti	San Diego State	5110	230	4.80	2.81	1.76	29	9'1"	4.48	DNP	16	8 3/8	31 1/4	75
218	Micah Cretsinger	Saginaw Valley State	6003	238	4.71	2.74	1.62	34 1/2	10'2"	4.37	7.14	29	9 5/8	32	78 3/8
219	Marques Thomas	Mercer	6000	214	4.78	2.72	1.66	33 1/2	9'10"	4.65	7.21	13	8 5/8	31 3/8	77 3/4
220	Jack Parry	Wheeling	5115	225	4.75	2.68	1.59	33	9'6"	4.63	7.22	21	9 3/4	29 7/8	73 3/4
221	William Hardy	Miles	5101	210	4.96	2.84	1.68	29 1/2	9'0"	4.52	7.38	8	8 7/8	31 3/8	75 1/2
222	Christopher Smith	Northern Arizona	6013	227	4.81	2.74	1.71	32 1/2	9'8"	4.84	7.82	16	9 1/8	32 1/4	77 7/8
223	Desmyn Baker	Southern Miss	6003	220	4.81	2.63	1.63	34 1/2	10'0"	4.21	7.00	21	9 1/2	31 1/4	77 1/2
224	Allen Walker	Jackson State	6007	231	4.89	2.89	1.71	32	DNP	DNP	DNP	23	10 3/8	31 1/4	75 7/8
225	Jason Williams	Ferris State	5112	217	4.96	2.78	1.71	30 1/2	9'1"	4.62	7.14	22	9 1/8	31 1/8	77 1/4
226	Harold Miles III	Rhode Island	5111	233	4.96	DNP	1.70	27 1/2	8'2"	4.85	7.48	16	8 3/4	31 1/8	76 1/2
227	Rico Dozier	Alabama State	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
228	Izaiah Kelley	Abilene Christian	6003	204	4.58	2.78	1.65	26	9'4"	4.53	7.56	8	8 7/8	31 1/8	74 7/8
229	Josh Addo	Merrimack	6012	201	4.80	DNP	1.68	28	9'9"	4.75	7.59	10	8 7/8	32 1/4	77 5/8
230	Jaylon Sharpe	UT Martin	6021	237	4.90	2.78	1.64	35 1/2	9'10"	4.54	7.56	16	10	32 7/8	77 1/8
231	Cody Moon	San Diego State	6040	199	4.87	2.83	1.70	30	9'11"	4.53	DNP	6	9 3/8	32 7/8	78 1/2
232	Alex Herriott	Presbyterian	5096	210	4.82	2.84	1.72	31	9'2"	4.53	7.56	16	8 1/4	30 1/4	73 1/4
233	Issiah Nixon	Sam Houston	5106	213	4.62	2.70	1.56	37	10'0"	4.445	7.59	14	9 1/2	32 1/4	76 1/2
234	Giovanni Williams	Miles	5100	209	4.82	2.79	1.57	31	9'7"	4.39	7.63	11	8 3/8	31 7/8	78
235	Ja'Len Sims	Southern Miss	6012	222	4.95	2.68	1.77	34 1/2	9'6"	4.68	7.97	16	9 1/4	30 7/8	77
236	Steven Adair	Southern Arkansas	5097	212	4.53	2.57	1.52	35	10'7"	4.38	7.19	30	8 3/8	29 1/2	72 1/8
237	Cam Jeffery	Arkansas State	5100	195	4.58	2.62	1.54	36	10'5"	4.51	7.68	16	9 3/8	32 1/8	76 3/8
238	Khalib Johns	Kent State	6004	229	4.80	2.61	1.64	33 1/2	9'8"	4.56	7.39	21	9 7/8	31 1/4	75
239	Austin Edmonds	Jackson State	5114	220	4.84	2.75	1.62	36	10'4"	4.56	7.52	11	9 3/4	30 1/2	77 1/8
240	Chase Lyons	San Diego	6032	242	4.90	2.88	1.71	30 1/2	9'10"	DNP	DNP	12	9 3/4	33 1/2	81
241	Dane Motley	Arkansas State	5107	223	4.82	2.71	1.69	30 1/2	9'6"	4.65	7.50	14	8 1/4	32 1/2	76 1/4
242	Xavier Harrell	Chadron State	6013	233	4.83	2.76	1.64	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 7/8	31 5/8	77
243	Clayton Burton	Duke	6000	211	5.10	2.83	1.73	27 1/2	8'10"	4.75	7.40	20	9 1/2	31 3/4	74
244	Keon Freeman	Robert Morris	5111	233	4.97	2.84	1.71	33 1/2	9'4"	4.50	7.31	14	10 1/4	31 3/4	74 1/2
245	Desmond Fogle	LaGrange	6002	196	4.80	2.72	1.69	34	9'5"	4.78	7.80	DNP	9 1/2	32 1/4	77 1/4
246	Jordan Brown	North Texas	6014	226	5.09	2.83	1.76	27 1/2	8'9"	4.47	7.81	12	10	31 1/2	75 1/2
247	Noa Purcell	CSU Pueblo	5102	241	4.90	2.81	1.70	35 1/2	9'1"	4.47	7.14	21	10	30 1/4	74 1/4
248	Treden Davis-Reed	Midland	5115	225	4.68	2.71	1.67	34 1/2	9'9"	4.54	7.43	10	9 3/8	30 7/8	75 3/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
249	Willie Floyd	Charleston	5100	244	5.01	2.78	1.62	29	9'0"	DNP	DNP	19	9	30 1/8	73 1/8
250	Mathias Bertram	Idaho	6012	208	4.69	2.69	1.65	36	10'3"	4.31	7.25	16	10	31 1/8	74 7/8
251	Xavier Robinson	Georgia State	5105	218	4.89	2.78	1.64	34	9'8"	4.36	7.37	28	9 5/8	31 5/8	76 1/2
252	Vincent King	Lindenwood	6004	229	4.75	2.76	1.65	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/8	31	73 1/4
253	Cortez Andrews	Alabama A&M	6000	241	5.15	3.03	1.96	29	9'1"	4.95	8.02	14	8 3/8	31 5/8	75 1/8
254	Jamier Wright-Collins	Rutgers	6010	217	4.83	2.78	1.66	34	10'2"	4.51	7.13	18	9 1/4	32 5/8	78 5/8
255	Donte' Daniels	SE Louisiana	5103	197	4.72	2.67	1.62	25	8'9"	DNP	DNP	10	8 5/8	30 1/2	72 3/4
256	Santonial Rice Jr.	Albany State	6005	227	4.78	2.83	1.70	28	8'2"	4.70	7.45	16	9 5/8	31 7/8	78 1/8
257	Keondre Williams	Western Kentucky	6010	209	4.83	2.72	1.59	32	10'8"	4.81	DNP	16	10 1/8	32	74 5/8
258	Jared Small	Arizona	5092	220	4.94	2.79	1.62	28 1/2	9'1"	4.46	7.66	16	9	29 7/8	75 1/4
259	Xavier Nurse	Samford	6020	232	4.75	2.75	1.58	32	9'10"	4.37	7.65	19	9	32 1/4	76
260	Devon Lynch	Western Kentucky	6003	224	4.77	2.65	1.63	33 1/2	9'7"	4.46	7.27	19	9 5/8	31 5/8	73 7/8
261	Kingston McKinstry	East Carolina	5111	194	4.75	2.74	1.60	30	9'6"	4.32	7.37	14	9 3/8	30 3/4	73 5/8
262	Jack Brutus	Shepherd	5110	243	4.80	2.67	1.66	32	9'1"	4.86	7.32	21	9 7/8	33	78 1/4
263	Dylan Downing	Kansas	6003	248	DNP	DNP	DNP	30	8'6"	DNP	DNP	23	9	30 1/2	73 1/4
264	Mateo Vandamia	New Hampshire	6005	251	4.95	2.83	1.69	30 1/2	9'8"	4.58	7.21	25	10 5/8	30 5/8	73 3/4
265	Desmond Tisdol	Florida Atlantic	5116	241	4.99	2.92	1.74	33	9'6"	4.59	DNP	19	8 3/4	30 3/4	73
266	Kendall Lightfoot	Western Colorado	6006	254	4.80	2.89	1.84	34	10'0"	4.82	7.40	18	10 3/8	31 3/4	76 1/2
267	Tyler Mello	Fresno State	6020	232	4.95	2.91	1.69	30	9'2"	4.59	7.53	25	9 1/4	31 1/8	74 3/4
268	DJ Gordon IV	South Florida	6000	222	4.94	2.74	1.63	32 1/2	9'9"	4.54	7.36	24	10 3/8	32 3/8	76 1/8
269	Alfred Dailey Jr.	Saginaw Valley State	5112	219	4.89	2.79	1.61	33	9'11"	4.26	6.90	25	9 5/8	30	73 7/8
270	Jayren Fox	Florida A&M	5117	218	4.97	2.82	1.74	28	9'6"	4.91	8.39	15	8 1/2	31 5/8	75 1/4
271	Marcus Guley	North Dakota State	6023	228	5.00	2.86	1.69	32 1/2	9'10"	4.53	7.35	DNP	9 1/2	33 1/4	79 1/8
272	Antoine Williams	Western Carolina	5102	188	5.00	2.87	1.63	29 1/2	9'3"	4.35	7.31	11	9 1/2	31 5/8	78 1/4
273	Garrett Cox	Indiana Univ. of Pa.	5104	226	4.73	2.80	1.62	33 1/2	10'1"	4.37	7.17	18	8 1/2	30	72
274	Tarian Lee Jr.	SMU	6000	230	4.75	2.78	1.70	31	9'3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	10 1/8	31 3/8	74 3/8
275	Fa'Najae Gotay	Auburn	5112	224	4.80	2.81	1.64	29 1/2	9'0"	4.70	7.72	20	9 3/8	29 3/4	73 1/8
276	Thomas Wyatt	The Citadel	6003	222	5.14	2.94	1.81	28	8'10"	4.83	7.78	11	9 3/8	32 1/4	77 3/4
277	Joe DiGello	Southern Conn. State	6011	245	5.03	2.89	1.71	29 1/2	9'1"	4.52	7.31	18	9 3/8	31	75 1/2
278	Makel Williams	Fort Hays State	5104	210	4.87	2.84	1.64	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/8	31 1/8	73 5/8
279	Michael Schweinefuss	Charleston	6036	229	4.99	2.81	1.69	36	9'5"	4.62	7.75	12	9 3/8	33 1/2	78 1/2
280	Kendre Gant	Houston	6023	226	4.96	2.84	1.71	28 1/2	9'4"	4.77	8.01	11	9 7/8	32 1/4	78 1/2
281	Tristan Driggers	McNeese State	6001	202	4.86	2.85	1.62	29	9'2"	DNP	DNP	6	9	30 1/4	74
282	Rush Lansdell	North Alabama	6014	213	5.17	2.96	1.69	30 1/2	9'9"	4.57	7.52	DNP	8 3/4	30 1/4	73 3/8
283	Juan Delacruz	Western Illinois	6016	235	4.97	2.89	1.79	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	32 1/8	77
284	K'Vaughan Pope	Virginia State	6005	197	5.01	2.90	1.68	32 1/2	9'2"	4.55	7.51	6	9 1/8	32 1/4	77 1/2
285	Kameron Brown	Chattanooga	5111	234	5.19	2.89	1.71	27 1/2	8'7"	4.50	7.65	19	8 3/8	33 1/4	76 3/4
286	Ke'Shon Parker	Central Michigan	5117	225	5.20	2.90	1.68	28 1/2	7'11"	4.58	7.65	19	9 1/8	30 3/4	73 1/2
287	Matt Ballentine	San Diego	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
288	Easton St. Clair	Heidelberg	5101	193	5.10	2.97	1.73	23 1/2	8'1"	4.90	7.59	3	8 3/8	29 7/8	72 3/4
289	David Schweinefuss	Charleston	6045	231	4.96	2.71	1.72	34 1/2	9'5"	4.56	7.40	12	9 3/4	33 7/8	79 7/8

CORNER BACKS

CORNERBACKS

NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1. TRAVIS HUNTER	Colorado	1st	3JR	6003	188	DNP (DNP)	9 1/8	31 3/8	76 7/8	21.93
2. WILL JOHNSON	Michigan	1st-2nd	3JR	6016	194	DNP (DNP)	9 1/8	30 1/8	75 7/8	22.07
3. JAHDAE BARRON	Texas	1st-2nd	5SR	5107	194	4.39 (1.55)	9 1/2	29 3/4	73 3/4	23.39
4. MAXWELL HAIRSTON	Kentucky	1st-2nd	4JR	5115	183	4.28 (1.53)	8 3/4	31 1/2	76 3/8	21.72
5. TREY AMOS	Ole Miss	2nd	5SR	6006	195	4.43 (1.53)	9 1/8	31 7/8	77 7/8	23.14
6. AZAREYE'H THOMAS	Florida State	2nd	3JR	6015	196	4.58 (1.55)	10 1/4	32 1/2	78	20.80
7. SHAVON REVEL JR.	East Carolina	2nd-3rd	5SR	6017	202	DNP (DNP)	9 7/8	32 5/8	80	24.04
8. NOHL WILLIAMS	California	2nd-3rd	5SR	6003	199	4.50 (1.61)	9 1/8	31 1/4	75 1/2	22.58
9. JACOB PARRISH	Kansas State	2nd-3rd	3JR	5097	191	4.35 (1.54)	9	31 1/4	75 7/8	21.15
10. BENJAMIN MORRISON	Notre Dame	2nd-3rd	3JR	6003	193	DNP (DNP)	9 1/4	30 1/2	75 7/8	21.12
11. QUINCY RILEY	Louisville	3rd-4th	6SR	5106	194	4.48 (1.60)	8 3/4	31 1/4	75	23.91
12. DARIEN PORTER	Iowa State	3rd-4th	6SR	6027	195	4.30 (1.51)	9 1/8	33 1/2	80	24.30
13. DORIAN STRONG	Virginia Tech	4th	5SR	6010	185	4.50 (1.57)	9 3/8	31	76 1/8	23.11
14. BILHAL KONE	Western Michigan	4th-5th	5SR	6012	190	4.43 (1.55)	9 1/8	31 5/8	75 1/2	23.14
15. CALEB RANSAW	Tulane	4th-5th	4SR	5115	197	4.33 (1.47)	9 3/4	31	75 5/8	22.34
16. DENZEL BURKE	Ohio State	4th-5th	4SR	5113	186	4.48 (1.56)	9 1/8	31 7/8	77 1/8	22.54
17. ROBERT LONGERBEAM	Rutgers	5th	5SR	5110	175	4.39 (1.55)	8 1/2	31 5/8	76 1/2	24.26
18. KORIE BLACK	Oklahoma State	5th	5SR	6002	192	4.35 (1.58)	9 1/4	31 7/8	77 1/2	22.84
19. ZY ALEXANDER	LSU	5th	5SR	6013	187	4.56 (1.60)	9 5/8	31 1/2	77 1/2	23.41
20. MAC MCWILLIAMS	UCF	5th	5SR	5102	191	4.41 (1.53)	8 5/8	30	72 5/8	23.40
21. UPTON STOUT	Western Kentucky	5th	5SR	5084	181	4.44 (1.56)	9 1/8	30 5/8	74 3/8	23.29
22. TOMMI HILL	Nebraska	5th-6th	4SR	6004	213	DNP (DNP)	9	32 7/8	79 1/2	23.09
23. ZAH FRAZIER	UTSA	5th-6th	6SR	6027	186	4.36 (1.47)	8 3/8	33	80 1/8	24.55
24. MARCUS HARRIS	California	5th-6th	6SR	5106	188	4.38 (1.55)	8 7/8	30 1/4	75	24.13
25. JORDAN HANCOCK	Ohio State	5th-6th	4SR	6001	186	4.45 (1.52)	8 3/4	31 5/8	76 1/8	21.70
26. COBEE BRYANT	Kansas	6th	5SR	6000	180	4.53 (1.56)	9 1/4	31 3/4	77	23.60
27. JUSTIN WALLEY	Minnesota	6th	4SR	5101	190	4.40 (1.56)	10	30 3/4	74 7/8	22.59
28. JASON MARSHALL JR.	Florida	6th	4SR	6003	194	4.49 (1.53)	9 1/4	30 3/8	75 5/8	22.63
29. ALIJAH HUZZIE	North Carolina	6th-7th	6SR	5096	193	DNP (DNP)	8 5/8	30	72 5/8	24.27
30. JAYLIN SMITH	USC	6th-7th	4SR	5105	187	4.45 (1.64)	9 1/4	30 3/8	75 1/4	21.47
31. BJ ADAMS	UCF	6th-7th	4SR	6016	187	4.46 (1.57)	8 3/4	31 3/4	76 1/2	21.68
32. MELLO DOTSON	Kansas	7th	5SR	6005	183	4.57 (1.60)	8 1/2	31 5/8	77 7/8	23.18
33. JABBAR MUHAMMAD	Oregon	FA	5SR	5092	178	4.50 (1.58)	9	29 1/4	71 3/8	23.32
34. FENTRELL CYPRESS II	Florida State	FA	6SR	6001	182	4.43 (1.54)	8 5/8	31 3/4	76 1/2	23.88
35. JERMARI HARRIS	Iowa	FA	6SR	6004	191	4.65 (1.64)	9 3/4	31 5/8	76	24.59
36. ISAS WAXTER II	Villanova	FA	6SR	6013	205	4.50 (1.53)	9 1/2	31 7/8	78 1/4	23.60
37. ETHAN ROBINSON	Minnesota	FA	4SR	5105	195	4.55 (1.63)	9 3/8	31	74 3/8	21.98
38. BJ MAYES	Texas A&M	FA	4SR	6004	187	4.54 (1.54)	8 5/8	31 1/2	74	22.08
39. MELVIN SMITH JR.	Southern Arkansas	FA	5SR	5104	190	4.39 (1.49)	9	30 7/8	73 1/4	23.03
40. TRIKWEZE BRIDGES	Florida	FA	6SR	6025	196	4.45 (1.51)	9	33 1/4	81 1/8	24.59
41. O'DONNELL FORTUNE	South Carolina	FA	5SR	6006	189	4.57 (1.57)	9 1/4	31 3/4	76 7/8	23.62
42. JALEN KIMBER	Penn State	FA	5SR	6001	190	4.39 (1.57)	9	31 3/8	75 3/4	24.19
43. DONTE KENT	Central Michigan	FA	5SR	5102	187	4.38 (1.53)	8 1/2	31	73 1/2	23.57
44. NIKKO REED	Oregon	FA	4SR	5092	183	4.46 (1.58)	9	30 1/8	71 3/4	22.14
45. ZEMAIAH VAUGHN	Utah	FA	5SR	6024	186	4.45 (1.55)	8 1/2	32 1/4	80	23.06
46. JORDAN CLARK	Notre Dame	FA	6SR	5092	184	4.66 (1.62)	8 3/4	29 3/8	71 3/8	24.01
47. DONTAE MANNING	Oregon	FA	5SR	5112	184	4.38 (1.58)	8	33 1/8	77 3/4	23.57
48. KAM ALEXANDER	Oregon	FA	6SR	5106	183	4.45 (1.53)	9 1/8	31 1/4	76 5/8	24.49
49. TJ MOORE	Mercer	FA	5SR	6003	187	4.44 (1.52)	9 1/4	31	72 3/8	23.36

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Suwanee, GA	Collins Hill	May 18, 2003	21.93	6003	188	#12

BACKGROUND: Travis Hunter Jr. was born and raised in West Palm Beach, Fla., with his parents (Travis Hunter Sr. and Ferrante Edmonds). He has said that he "doesn't like to be reminded about his childhood," because of the challenges (crime and poverty) his family faced. His father was a football and track star at Boynton Beach High (2001-05), including a 10.82-second 100-meter dash. But he was unable to continue his athletic career in college, as he had two children at home, including young Travis. Travis Hunter Sr. played semi-pro football in the FFA (Florida Football Alliance) and SSFL (Southern States Football League), but he was unable to catch on with a CFL or an NFL team.

Travis Hunter Jr. started playing football at age 4, when his grandmother got him involved in a youth football league. He was also a standout in basketball throughout middle school, although his favorite activity was fishing. In spring of Hunter's eighth grade year, his mother and stepfather moved the family from Palm Beach County to suburban Atlanta. Hunter later moved in with one of his high school assistant coaches (Frontia Fountain) for two years to stay focused on football and academics.

After the move to Suwanee, Hunter enrolled at Collins Hill High in Gwinnett County, one of the most talent-rich areas in high school recruiting. After getting some varsity experience as a two-way freshman, he became a sophomore starter at cornerback and wide receiver and posted 49 receptions for 919 yards and 12 touchdowns, adding 36 tackles and seven interceptions. As a junior, Hunter led Collins Hill to a 12-3 record and an appearance in the 2019 state championship game. He was named 2020 Georgia Player of the Year, with 137 catches for 1,746 yards and 24 touchdowns (all of which set Gwinnett County records), along with two passing touchdowns and one rushing touchdown. Hunter also posted 51 tackles, eight interceptions and one forced fumble. As a senior in 2021, he led Collins Hill to a 15-1 record and the school's first state title. Despite missing five games with a right ankle injury, Hunter again was named the top player in the state (85 catches for 1,284 yards and 12 touchdowns; 25 tackles, four interceptions and one forced fumble).

He finished his All-America high school career with a combined 272 catches, 3,963 yards and a state-record 48 touchdowns, and he also had 19 interceptions (two returned for touchdowns). Hunter played point guard on the Collins Hill basketball team.

A five-star recruit, Hunter was the top-ranked cornerback in the 2022 recruiting class and the consensus No. 1 recruit in the class. During a scrimmage in May 2019, as a freshman, he showed out in front of a crowd of recruiters, which led to offers from Alabama, Auburn, Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee. Hunter added offers from Clemson, Michigan, Texas and basically had his choice of whichever school he wanted to attend. After his sophomore season, he committed to Florida State and newly hired head coach Mike Norvell (March 2020). Hunter continued to take visits throughout the process, including to Georgia and Florida State. On signing day, though, he shocked the college football world by flipping to FCS Jackson State. He said head coach Deion Sanders, whom he considers a "father figure," sold him on following the same path as Jerry Rice, Walter Payton and others by attending an HBCU program. Hunter became the highest-ranked recruit to ever sign with an FCS program.

Sanders accepted the coaching position at Colorado after the 2022 season, and Hunter followed him to Boulder for the next two years. He proposed to his fiancée (Leanna Lenee) in February 2024. Hunter reportedly had an NIL valuation of $3.3 million in 2024, including deals with NerdWallet, United Airlines and EA Sports as the cover athlete of "College Football 25." An Academic All-American, Hunter was an anthropology major with a 3.6 GPA. He had an unprecedented award season in 2024, taking home the Heisman Trophy, Chuck Bednarik Award (nation's top defender), Biletnikoff Award (nation's top receiver), Paul Hornung Award (nation's most versatile player) and the Walter Camp Player of the Year. He elected to skip his senior season to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (8/8)	20	0	0	0	10	2	Jackson State; led team in INT, PD; 18 catches, 188 yards, 4 TDs; missed five games (right ankle)
2023: (9/9)	30	2	0	0	11	3	Colorado; Consensus All-American; First Team All-Pac-12; 57 catches, 721 yards, 5 TDs; missed three games (liver)
2024: (13/13)	35	1	0	1	16	4	Colorado; Consensus All-American; Heisman Trophy; First Team All-Big 12; 96 catches, 1,258 yards, 15 TDs; Bednarik Award; Biletnikoff Award; Lott Trophy; Paul Hornung Award
Total: (30/30)	85	3	0	1	37	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6003	188	9 1/8	31 3/8	76 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Sinewy body type with good height and long arms
- Electric athlete with dynamic change of direction and loose movements
- Rangy player who covers a lot of ground with long strides
- Elite ball instincts and adjustment/high-point skills on both sides of ball
- Above-average awareness along sideline; limits big plays (allowed just two catches of 20 yards or more in 2024)
- Frequently makes first man miss after catch
- More scrappy than powerful but doesn't shy away from getting physical

- Explodes from depth to avoid blocks and make stops at line
- Loves to mix things up but doesn't go too far (zero coverage penalties in 2024)
- Technical know-how improved each season (cornerbacks coach past three seasons was 10-year NFL veteran Kevin Mathis)
- Impressive mental acuity to understand playbook and weekly game plan at two starting positions (and on special teams)
- Committed to conditioning — stresses recovery time to keep body at peak levels
- Described as loyal, grounded and comfortable in his own skin
- His coaches say he wants to be pushed and doesn't stray from goals
- Positive personal feedback (NFL scout: "After that Colorado State safety was getting death threats (for a late hit on Hunter in 2023), Travis went out of his way to show no ill-will and smooth over the situation. Character-revealing move.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean-muscled and doesn't have ideal mass or limb definition
- Average play strength will be more noticeable versus NFL-level athletes
- Technical side of his game is still catching up to his athletic gifts (showed clear improvements each year)
- Always looking to bait in coverage, which leads to undisciplined movements and tendencies
- Flagged for three unsportsmanlike penalties in 2024 (mostly for excessive celebrating)
- Played half his usual number of snaps vs. Kansas State and Arizona (Oct. 2024) because of shoulder injury; missed three games as sophomore because of lacerated liver resulting from a late hit against Colorado State (Sept. 2023); right ankle injury held him out five games as high school senior (Oct. 2021) and required offseason surgery; aggravated that injury in second game of freshman year at Jackson State (Sept. 2022) and missed five games

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Colorado, Hunter was a rare two-way player for head coach Deion Sanders, lining up as an outside wide receiver and inside/outside cornerback (also played on field goal block coverages). He played more than 1,000 snaps in back-to-back seasons, including 1,552 in 2024 (753 on offense, 776 on defense, 23 on special teams). He led Colorado last season in both receiving (96 catches for 1,258 yards and 15 touchdowns) and coverage production (15 passes defended, four interceptions), which was enough to win him the Heisman Trophy. He also became the first player in the 135-year history of the Walter Camp All-America Team to be named to the first team on both offense and defense.

Hunter has an impressive mix of explosiveness, length and reaction skills, which allows him to be productive as both a pass catcher and cover man. Though he is a top-tier athlete, his ability to play both ways not only shows his stamina but also his work ethic and mental commitment to prepare/understand offense and defense. Learning how to balance his athletic instincts while also trusting his technique will be his focus once he reaches the NFL. Overall, Hunter has the twitchy, skilled talent and competitive mentality to be an impact wide receiver and/or cornerback at the next level. NFL teams are split on his role — and on the possibility of Hunter playing both ways, because of durability concerns. But he is both CB1 and WR1 in this class and will give his next coaching staff exciting options.

GRADE: 1st round (No. 1 overall)

CB2 Will Johnson

Michigan, 3JR

HOMETOWN Detroit, MI	HIGH SCHOOL Grosse Pointe South	BIRTHDAY Mar 29, 2003	AGE 22.07	HT 6016	WT 194	NUM #2
-------------------------	------------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: William "Will" Johnson, the youngest of two children, was born and raised in Detroit with his father (Deon) and mother (Kafi Kumasi). Deon, now a coach and co-founder of the Sound Mind Sound Body youth football organization, was a defensive back at Michigan (1990-94) and was part of three Big Ten championships. Johnson's older sister (Kayli) was on the track and field teams (indoor and outdoor) at Michigan State (2016-20) and Texas Tech (2021-22), earning All-America status and winning a Big 12 shot put title (58 feet, 5 inches, a personal best). After stints with the Detroit Lions and Rutgers, Kayli was hired by Michigan football in March 2024 to be director of campus recruiting.

With Sound Mind Sound Body, Will Johnson grew up in environments that put his football skills on a fast trajectory. He started training at a young age with his father, as well as with specialists like speed trainer Johnie Drake. Throughout youth football, he played multiple positions, often playing up a grade level or two in competition. Johnson later played for the 7-on-7 team Max Ex.

Johnson enrolled at Grosse Pointe South High, where he became the first four-year varsity starter in school history. He was an impact player on all phases as a wide receiver, cornerback and return man while also playing wildcat quarterback. Johnson helped the team to a combined 15 wins over his first two seasons, including back-to-back league titles. As a junior, during a season cut short by the COVID-19 pandemic, he accounted for 21 tackles and eight pass breakups and added 37 catches for 600 yards and eight touchdowns (also had a punt-return touchdown). As a senior, Johnson finished with 45 tackles, 12 pass breakups, 3.5 tackles for loss, one sack and one interception, earning all-state honors. He also had 42 receptions for 667 yards and six touchdowns in 2021 with 1,302 all-purpose yards and one punt-return touchdown. Johnson lettered in basketball, as well.

A five-star recruit, Johnson was the third-ranked cornerback in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 1 recruit in Michigan. He was ranked as the No. 15 prospect nationally. Growing up in a Wolverines household, Johnson was introduced to Michigan football at a young age and regularly attended the Big House, but it wasn't a foregone conclusion he would end up in Ann Arbor. After receiving his first scholarship offer (Southern Miss) during his freshman season, the recruiting floodgates opened, with offers coming in from Alabama, Florida, LSU, Notre Dame and several other top programs. After taking visits to Columbus and Los Angeles, Johnson narrowed his decision to Michigan, Ohio State and USC, but the chance to stay close to home and continue his family's legacy led him to Ann Arbor. He was the top-ranked recruit in Jim Harbaugh's 2022 class and enrolled early. Johnson opted out of Michigan's 2024 bowl game and skipped his senior season to enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (14/5)	27	2	0	0	6	3	Freshman All-American; enrolled January 2022
2023: (12/11)	27	1	0	0	8	4	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; defensive MVP of national title game; 36-yard INT TD
2024: (6/6)	14	1	0	0	5	2	Second Team All-American; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; 86-yard INT TD; 42-yard INT TD; missed seven games (shoulder, toe)
Total: (32/22)	68	4	0	0	19	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6016	194	9 1/8	30 1/8	75 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Fluid, long athlete with size to match up against bigger pass catchers
- Clean footwork is foundation for smooth click and close
- Quickly identifies route leverage to maintain phase out of breaks
- Great anticipation to key, read and drive from off coverage (set Michigan career record with three pick sixes)
- Receiver background shows when he has a chance at the ball
- Shows coverage awareness to stay connected to multiple routes in zone
- Stays patient and balanced through early jam and fights back against push-offs at top of routes
- Physical tackler near sideline and guards sticks
- Quiet, business-like demeanor
- Requested No. 2 jersey (Charles Woodson's number) for "extra motivation" to be great

WEAKNESSES:

- Average speed for position by NFL standards
- Opposing quarterbacks know they can bait him on double moves
- Panics at times with back to ball (late pass interference against Washington in 2024 helped seal Huskies' win)
- Made some business decisions — put poor tackling attempts on his 2024 film
- Doesn't consistently wrap and strike through when he does throw body around
- Only 4.4 percent of college snaps came inside versus slot
- Battled several injuries past two seasons: surgery ("minor scope") following 2022 season, which sidelined him for two games to start 2023; sat out 2023 Big Ten Championship game with minor injury; missed seven games as junior — one to shoulder issue (Sept. 2024), final six with toe injury (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Michigan, Johnson was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Wink Martindale's zone-heavy scheme (only 14.8 percent of his coverage snaps came in man to man in 2024). After an All-America sophomore season, including defensive MVP honors in the national title game, he put up-and-down play on his early 2024 tape before missing most of his final season because of injuries.

Johnson is comfortable in both press and off coverage with the fluid athleticism and route recognition to seamlessly transition or attack the football. He isn't shy about getting physical at the top of routes and in pursuit, but his tackling mechanics and execution need work. Overall, Johnson is more "good" than "great" in terms of twitch and speed, but he has outstanding eyes, feet and coverage IQ to match and make plays on the football. He projects as a day one starting outside cornerback in the NFL.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 18 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Austin, TX	Connally	Dec 04, 2001	23.39	5107	194	#7

BACKGROUND: Jahdae (zha-DAY) Barron, one of six children (two older brothers, three little sisters), was born in Corpus Christi, Texas (on the Gulf of Mexico), before moving to the Austin area in elementary school with his mother (Techonia Davis). He played multiple sports throughout childhood but separated himself on the football field in middle school. His cousin (Devin Lemear) is a rising senior safety at Baylor.

Barron attended John B. Connally High (Pflugerville school district), where he was a three-year varsity letterman (the team won just five combined games in those three seasons). He played on all three phases as a cornerback, wide receiver and returner. As a sophomore, he posted 48 tackles, three interceptions and one forced fumble, along with a 63-yard punt return touchdown. Barron earned all-district honors on defense as a junior (68 tackles, six tackles for loss and two interceptions). As a senior, he was named second-team all-state (43 tackles and three interceptions; 41 receptions for 673 yards and six touchdowns; punt return touchdown). Barron also lettered in basketball and track (sprints and relays) and had personal bests of 10.95 seconds in the 100 meters and 23.14 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Barron was the 25th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 51 recruit in Texas. After attending TCU's junior day in March 2019, he received an offer from former head coach Gary Patterson and committed to the Horned Frogs. However, Barron felt like he rushed his decision and decommitted six weeks later. He added offers from Arizona, Oklahoma State and Tennessee. He received an offer from Baylor in June 2019 and committed a week later, after taking his official visit. Barron signed with Baylor during the early signing period in December 2019 and was the Bears' second-ranked recruit in the class. But head coach Matt Rhule left for the NFL a few weeks later, so Barron was granted a release from his national letter of intent and entered the transfer portal.

He added offers from Virginia Tech and Washington State but was hoping his hometown Texas would enter the picture — he had grown up attending Texas games (his aunt worked with the Texas band and would get him passes). Chris Ash, who had offered Barron previously as head coach at Rutgers, was hired as Texas' defensive coordinator around the same time and helped clear the way for Barron. Barron committed in April 2020 and was the sixth-ranked recruit in the Longhorns' 2020 class (running back Bijan Robinson was No. 1).

He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Austin for his fifth season. (He switched his jersey number from No. 23 to No. 7, in honor of former Longhorn Michael Huff). Barron earned a spot on the Academic All-Big 12 first team and graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024). He declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	3	0.0	0	0	1	0	TD on blocked punt; enrolled June 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (9/2)	18	1.0	0	1	3	0	Missed three games (knee)
2022: (13/9)	78	11.5	1	0	5	2	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; 44-yard INT TD; 48-yard fumble-return TD; led team in TFL
2023: (14/12)	61	4.5	0	0	7	1	Second Team All-Big 12
2024: (16/16)	67	2.5	1	0	16	5	Consensus All-American; First Team All-SEC; Jim Thorpe Award; led SEC in INT, PD; Peach Bowl def. MVP
Total: (57/39)	227	19.5	2	1	32	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5106	194	9 1/2	29 5/8	73 1/2	4.39	2.56	1.55	35	10' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5107	198	9 1/4	29 3/4	73 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.20	7.05	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Fluid athlete with controlled body movements
- High football IQ and impressive reaction quickness in all phases
- Shows natural feel in underneath zone — didn't allow a touchdown catch in 2024
- Reads quickly from depth with drive acceleration to close in a blink (studies Trent McDuffie, specifically in this area)
- Not overly physical in press but stays patient to maintain phase, early and late
- Turns to find football and makes quarterbacks pay for inaccurate throws
- Always ball searching to turn catches into incompletions
- Skillfully works around blockers to make tackle or impact ball carrier's path (used as a blitzer)
- Four tackles on kickoff coverage in 2024
- Three career non-offensive touchdowns (blocked punt, fumble return, interception return)
- Dependable character; served as a team captain for 10 games in 2024 (Barron: "I just try to be the juice for the defense, for the team.")
- Played 57 games and has functional experience across the secondary

WEAKNESSES:

- Average height/weight — lacks ideal arm length for the position
- More quick than explosive — stopwatch speed doesn't always show
- Inconsistent adjusting in deep third, so NFL vertical shots will challenge him
- Can get caught watching eyes of quarterback, allowing receiver to get over top
- Too patient at times from off coverage, conceding throws in front of him
- Competitive tackler but had some key misses against better opponents (Ohio State, Georgia)
- Needs to attack blocks quicker to keep himself free on perimeter

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Texas, Barron played the STAR hybrid position in defensive coordinator Pete Kwiatkowski's zone-heavy scheme, seeing time at corner, safety, nickel and dime. After playing primarily inside as an underclassman, he moved outside in 2024 (69.9 percent of his snaps at corner, 30.1 percent in slot/box/post) and led the SEC in both interceptions (five) and passes defended (16). He became the third Longhorn to win the Jim Thorpe Award as the nation's top defensive back. Barron holds a master's degree in coverage schemes and has done a great job developing the mental part of his game, giving himself a headstart keying and diagnosing the quarterback and blocking scheme.

Though he doesn't have the movement burst for easy recoveries, he plays with supreme confidence and physicality without crossing the line, especially in zone coverage (two pass interference penalties over his last 35 games in college). Overall, Barron doesn't have the top-tier size that most teams prioritize at the position, but he trusts his instincts and competes with the toughness and ball skills to hold up versus pass or run. Some teams view him as a nickel-only prospect, while others see his value to play multiple positions across the secondary.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 30 overall)

CB4 Maxwell Hairston

Kentucky, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
West Bloomfield, MI	West Bloomfield	Aug 06, 2003	21.72	5115	183	#1

BACKGROUND: Maxwell "Mad Max" Hairston, the youngest of four children, was born and raised in West Bloomfield, Mich., with his parents (Marvin and Robin). He considered himself more of a basketball player growing up but started to blossom on the football field, primarily at wide receiver. In high school, Hairston was active on the 7-on-7 circuit and joined the Sound Mind Sound Body Max Ex program. His older cousin (Lindsay Hairston) played college basketball at Michigan State (1972-75) before being selected by the Detroit Pistons in the 1975 NBA Draft. Another cousin (Taiwan Jones) was an All-Big Ten linebacker at Michigan State (2011-14) and spent two seasons with the New York Jets (2015-16) after going undrafted. Another cousin (Jaylin Bannerman) played linebacker for two seasons at Kentucky (2016-17) before going the juco route and then finishing his career at Utah State (2019-21).

Hairston enrolled at West Bloomfield High, where he was a multisport athlete and member of the school's choir. He was teammates with several blue-chip recruits, including running back Donovan Edwards and safety Makari Paige (both signed with Michigan). Playing both ways as a wide receiver and cornerback, Hairston started on the JV squad as a freshman and sophomore. He grabbed the attention of varsity head coach Ron Bellamy, who played wide receiver for five seasons in the NFL and is now wide receivers coach at Michigan. Hairston made a name for himself as a junior by allowing just one catch all season, helping the team to a 10-2 finish. As a senior, he was voted a team captain and helped West Bloomfield to an 11-1 record, including the 2020 Division I state championship (Hairston had the game-winning touchdown in double overtime). He earned all-state honors in his final season with 23 tackles, 19 passes defended, three forced fumbles and three interceptions, adding eight touchdowns on offense.

He also lettered in basketball and track. He had personal bests of 11.75 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.06 in the 200 and 19 feet, 8 inches in the long jump. A three-star recruit, Hairston was the 79th-ranked cornerback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 24 recruit in Michigan. The summer before he became a full-time player on varsity, he started to get noticed at camps and picked up his first offer from Miami (Ohio). After his junior season, a handful of other MAC programs entered the mix, then he received his first offers from the Big Ten (Maryland) and SEC (Arkansas and Ole Miss). He collected more than three dozen offers (although, neither Michigan nor Michigan State offered) and narrowed his choice to Kentucky, Minnesota, Purdue and Virginia Tech. A week after receiving his Kentucky offer from head coach Mark Stoops in July 2020, Hairston committed and officially announced the decision a month later (on his father's birthday). He was the 11th-ranked recruit in Stoops' 2021 class. Hairston graduated with a degree in community leadership and development (Dec. 2024). He elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. Hairston accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (-/-)							Redshirted; enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/0)	2	0.0	0	0	0	0
2023: (13/13)	68	1.5	0	1	11	5	Second Team All-SEC; led SEC in INT; led team in PD; 29- and 54-yard INT TDs
2024: (7/7)	19	1.0	1	2	5	1	25-yard INT TD; missed five games (shoulder)
Total: (32/20)	89	2.5	1	3	16	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5112	183	8 3/4	31	76 5/8	4.28	2.51	1.53	39 1/2	10' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5115	183	8 3/4	31 1/2	76 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Has height and length to match up with receivers
- His 4.28-second 40-yard dash and 24.25 mph were fastest in each category at combine
- Comfortable in man-to-man because of body twitch and nimble feet
- Quick to recognize route breaks and trigger/drive out of pedal from off coverage
- Enough deep speed to carry and compete vertically (loves to use sideline)
- Patient hips to mirror releases and get physical at line of scrimmage
- Finds ball quickly and without panic once he turns his head
- Flashes closing burst to attack throws without making early contact
- Collected six interceptions in 20 career starts
- Averaged 23.7 yards per interception return (six INTs for 142 yards and three TDs) and became sixth player in SEC history with a pair of pick sixes in single game
- Favorite player is Jalen Ramsey — they share similar confidence
- Want-to" in run support is night-and-day better than when he arrived, Kentucky coaches say

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean-framed from head to toe, with minimal bulk
- Looks to get physical in press but spotty timing/technique leaves him step behind
- Overaggressive and handsy on double moves and stutter-and-go's (something NFL quarterbacks will pick up on)
- Rarely played slot on tape
- Will throw body at ball carrier, instead of wrapping, allowing ball carrier to keep feet through contact and pick up extra yards
- Missed five games as junior because of shoulder injury (Sept. 2024)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Kentucky, Hairston was the field cornerback in defensive coordinator Brad White's scheme with a balanced mix of man and zone. He put himself on the NFL radar with an SEC-best five interceptions in 2023 and tied the school record with three career pick sixes. A fluid mover with A-plus speed, Hairston moves fairly effortlessly in all areas of the field. He plays to his help in man-to-man coverage while also showing conviction and awareness in Cover 3. He is a natural making plays at the catch point, but he's also more scrappy than strong, which will show against physical NFL receivers and in run support.

A two-year starter at Kentucky, Hairston was the field cornerback in defensive coordinator Brad White's scheme with a balanced mix of man and zone. He put himself on the NFL radar with an SEC-best five interceptions in 2023 and tied the school record with three career pick sixes. A fluid mover with A-plus speed, Hairston moves fairly effortlessly in all areas of the field. He plays to his help in man-to-man coverage while also showing conviction and awareness in Cover 3. He is a natural making plays at the catch point, but he's also more scrappy than strong, which will show against physical NFL receivers and in run support. Overall, Hairston is a competitive, lanky athlete who feels routes developing around him and plays with the reactionary movements and ball skills to fit a variety of coverages. If he makes the necessary improvements as a tackler, he has the talent to become a capable NFL starter early in his career.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 35 overall)

CB5

Trey Amos

Ole Miss, 5SR

HOMETOWN New Iberia, LA	HIGH SCHOOL Catholic-New Iberia	BIRTHDAY Mar 03, 2002	AGE 23.14	HT 6006	WT 195	NUM #9
----------------------------	------------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Trenayvian "Trey" Amos, one of six children, grew up in the area of New Iberia, La. (west of New Orleans), with his mother (Renee Francis) and stepfather (Darren Francis). He started playing football at the pee-wee level and continued throughout middle school for the Tigers.

Amos attended Catholic-New Iberia High, where he was a three-sport standout. After splitting his first year between freshman, JV and varsity teams, he was primarily a cornerback as a sophomore (also saw time at quarterback) and helped the team to a 13-1-1 record and the 2017 Division III state championship. His offensive breakout came as a junior, as he quarterbacked Catholic's Wing-T offense during a 14-3 season (lost in the 2018 Division III title game). He finished his junior season with 1,583 rushing yards, 736 passing yards and 40 total touchdowns (31 rushing, nine passing), while earning 6AA Offensive MVP, first-team all-district and honorable mention all-state honors. As a senior, Amos led Catholic to a 7-4 record and the 2019 district title, again playing both ways as a quarterback and cornerback. He also played basketball and was a standout track athlete, winning the 2019 state championship in the long jump (school-record 22 feet, 10 inches). Amos had personal bests of 11.49 in the 100 meters and 23.55 in the 200.

A three-star recruit, Amos was the 105th-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 65 recruit in Louisiana. After his breakout junior season, he received his first scholarship offer from Louisiana Tech (Feb. 2019, followed by an offer from Louisiana-Monroe, Louisiana and several FCS programs. Before his senior season, Amos committed to the Ragin' Cajuns (as a cornerback), mostly because of his connection with Billy Napier and the coaching staff. Despite some late interest from SEC programs, he stayed committed and was the ninth-ranked recruit in Napier's 2020 class (Kyren Lacy was No. 1).

After three seasons at Louisiana, Amos entered the transfer portal in May 2023 and committed to Alabama over offers from Florida, LSU, Michigan, Ole Miss, Oregon, Texas A&M and others. After Nick Saban's retirement following the 2023 season, Amos again entered the transfer portal and signed with Ole Miss for his fifth and final season. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (11/0)	10	0.0	0	0	1	1	Louisiana; enrolled June 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/2)	14	1.5	0	1	5	0	Louisiana
2022: (11/10)	35	1.0	0	0	8	0	Louisiana; missed first two games (hamstring); blocked PAT (returned 85 yards for two points)
2023: (14/1)	12	0.5	0	0	5	0	Alabama; enrolled May 2023
2024: (13/13)	50	3.5	0	1	16	3	Ole Miss; First Team All-SEC; led team in INT, PD; enrolled January 2024
Total: (61/26)	121	6.5	0	2	35	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6006	195	9	31 1/4	77 3/4	4.43	2.57	1.53	32 1/2	10' 6"	DNP	DNP	13
PRO DAY	6005	194	9 1/8	31 7/8	77 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.36	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Impressive height/weight/speed athlete
- Quality play strength and doesn't get punked by receivers
- Comfortable close to line, where he can smother slants and underneath routes
- Aggressively plays through hands to turn catches into incompletions
- Times ball attacks well — doesn't let length go to waste
- Always on alert and route awareness continues to improve
- Has a little extra in tank to close out throws
- Plenty to like about effort in run game
- Violently attacks and defeats stalk blocks
- Played on punt return coverages all five seasons and had blocked PAT in 2022 (562 career special teams snaps)
- Saw action in 61 career games and final season was best one

WEAKNESSES:

- Upright mover with hints of tightness in turns
- Feet get a tad clunky at top of routes, creating slight hitch
- Can lose receivers deep after misstep or double move
- Likes to play physical but made it way too easy for officials on 2024 Kentucky tape
- Balance gets away from him at times, including as break-down tackler
- Struggled to find tape of him blitzing
- Missed two games as sophomore because of a hamstring injury (Aug. 2022)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Ole Miss, Amos was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Pete Golding's diverse coverage scheme (press man, off man, zone, etc.). After three years at Louisiana, he transferred to Alabama and played behind Kool-Aid McKinstry and Terrion Arnold. After Nick Saban retired, Amos made the move to Ole Miss, where he had his breakout season with an SEC-best 16 passes defended.

A good-looking athlete, Amos is a professional pesterer with the way he reads receivers, crowds break points/catch points and never stops ball searching with his length. Whether in man or zone, he has a feel for phasing up receivers from different alignments. His timed speed is better than his play speed, however, and there is some stiffness in his change of direction. Overall, Amos has an appetite for press, but I liked him best in zone (Cover 2, Cover 3, quarters), where he can trust his athletic instincts from depth to read and rally. His super-senior season convinced evaluators that he is a pro starter, similar in ways to Paulson Adebo.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 39 overall)

HOMETOWN Niceville, FL	HIGH SCHOOL Niceville	BIRTHDAY Jul 06, 2004	AGE 20.80	HT 6015	WT 196	NUM #8
---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Azareye'h (uh-ZAR-ee-yay) Thomas, the fourth of five children, was born in Okaloosa County (Florida panhandle) with his mother (Stephanie Thomas). When he was 2 months old, his father (Willie Lee Thomas), who had recently returned from Iraq on deployment in the Marines, intentionally set fire to the family's home. He was arrested on suspicion of attempted murder, arson, aggravated battery and child abuse; he later was diagnosed with PTSD. Stephanie and the children avoided serious injury and fled to safety, but they were homeless for a stretch.

The family relocated to public housing in DeFuniak Springs, Fla., where Azareye'h Thomas followed in his older brothers' footsteps and started playing basketball, baseball, soccer and track. He started football at the pee-wee level, and it quickly became his favorite sport. His oldest brother (Azende Rey) played wide receiver at Florida A&M (2016-20) before transferring to Georgia Tech in 2021. His older brother (Juanyeh Thomas) was a safety at Georgia Tech (2018-21) and signed with the Dallas Cowboys after going undrafted in the 2022 NFL Draft. Thomas also has an older (Cachet) and younger sister (Na'Taliyeh).

Thomas played varsity football at Walton County as a sixth-grader, but the family relocated 30 miles west to Niceville for better football opportunities. Thomas attended Niceville High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman and played both ways. As a sophomore, he was named the team's defensive MVP at safety, as Niceville finished 12-1 and captured the 2019 7A district championship. As a junior in 2020, Thomas accounted for 1,125 all-purpose yards and 14 touchdowns, and he did not allow a touchdown in coverage (named the county's defensive player of the year). As a senior in 2021, he led Niceville to another 10-win season and the program's third straight Okaloosa County Championship. Thomas earned all-state honors his final season with 438 receiving yards, 421 rushing yards and 17 total touchdowns (10 rushing, seven receiving), adding a pair of interceptions. He also lettered in basketball and track. He had personal bests of 11.45 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.87 in the 200 and 21 feet, 11 inches in the long jump.

A four-star recruit, Thomas was the fourth-ranked athlete in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 13 recruit in Florida (No. 89 recruit nationally). He received his first scholarship offer, during his sophomore season, from Georgia Tech (Sept. 2019). After that sophomore season, Thomas added offers from Florida State, Michigan, Ole Miss, South Carolina and Tennessee. During his junior year, Alabama, Clemson, Florida, Georgia, LSU and Miami joined the party, with some schools recruiting him on offense and others for defense. Ultimately, Thomas decided to stay close to home (his mother was having health problems) and committed to the Seminoles and head coach Mike Norvell. He was the second-ranked recruit in Florida State's 2022 class. After three seasons, Thomas elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (11/0)	14	2.0	0.0	0	2	1	Enrolled January 2022
2023: (14/1)	29	4.5	0.5	1	10	0	First career start came in bowl game
2024: (12/12)	52	1.5	0.0	0	5	1	Honorable Mention All-ACC; led team in INT, PD
Total: (37/13)	95	8.0	0.5	1	17	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6014	197	10	32 3/8	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6015	196	10 1/4	32 1/2	77 1/2	4.58	2.66	1.55	DNP	DNP	4.21	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, long athlete who moves well in space
- Press technique isn't perfect but stays patient to engulf, reroute and use sideline
- Able to regain phase and stay on same plane vertically
- Instinctive as underneath zone defender to close on plays in front of him
- Returns eyes to quarterback and length becomes factor at catch point
- Two pass interference penalties in 2024 but generally does nice job playing through receiver with nonobvious contact
- Competitive personality shows in coverage, in run game and as blitz
- Developed toughness from two older brothers
- Focused on defense as junior but was core-four special-teamer first two seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have desired timed speed for position
- Can get a tad upright in pedal
- Feet can get clunky with short-area redirects or when attempting to decelerate on command
- So-so hands — left some interception production on the field
- Good tackling strength but overaggressive pursuit angles will lead to misses
- Very few slot snaps on 2024 film

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Florida State, Thomas was an outside cornerback (left and right) in former defensive coordinator Adam Fuller's man/zone scheme. There weren't many bright spots in the Seminoles' two-win 2024 campaign, but Thomas' continued development was encouraging — he allowed just 17 catches (on 33 targets).

A good-sized athlete, Thomas isn't the fastest cornerback in the draft class, but he recovers well from missteps and rarely gets beat over the top. His length and physicality help him disrupt the timing of routes and make him a factor at the catch point, although you would like to see him come away with more interceptions. Overall, Thomas isn't the most sudden or button-upped cover man, but he consistently crowds receivers on the outside with his size, fluidity and competitiveness. He has NFL-starting tools, and his play style is very similar to that of Carlton Davis.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 51 overall)

CB7 Shavon Revel Jr.

East Carolina, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Winston-Salem, NC	Reagan	Apr 08, 2001	24.04	6017	202	#28

BACKGROUND: Shavon (Suh-vone) Revel Jr., who has three brothers and three sisters, was born and raised in the Winston-Salem, N.C., area with his father (Keith) and mother (Tomecka Rapley). He was introduced to football at age 4 by his father and started out at running back in flag football, then played at the Pop Warner level and settled in as a cornerback (also played defensive end, wide receiver and quarterback throughout youth football). He played soccer and basketball in middle school, but his focus was on football and track. Along with his brothers, Revel started speed training when he was young. He later played 7-on-7 for Tre4 Tigers, where he was coached by his father. His older brother (Shaheim) played running back at Division II Virginia-Wise (2019-21). His younger brother (Shamar) signed with Louisburg (N.C.) College in the 2021 class and played one season with his brother. His oldest sister (Shaqueria Carson) died in June 2023 after a long illness and kidney failure.

Revel originally attended Richard J. Reynolds High in Winston-Salem, where he played both ways as a quarterback, wide receiver and cornerback. He played on varsity as a sophomore, but his season ended prematurely after he was involved in a car accident during the fall of 2017 that resulted in serious head trauma, a fractured skull, broken nose (requiring 28 stitches) and a bruised jaw and neck (his father and two brothers were also in the car).

Revel returned as a junior and earned second-team all-county honors on offense with 38 receptions for 554 yards and four touchdowns. He also rushed for 599 yards and eight touchdowns and helped Reynolds qualify for the 2018 state playoffs, despite suffering a season-ending broken collarbone in the eighth game. For his senior season, Revel (and his younger brother, Shamar) transferred to Ronald Reagan High in nearby Pfafftown, N.C. He helped the team finish with a 9-4 record, posting 38 tackles, three tackles for loss and four interceptions. Revel added 33 catches for 439 yards and five touchdowns, including a game-winning score in the final minute to give Reagan its first-ever win over East Forsythe. Revel was able to dunk at a young age, but injuries kept him from playing basketball in high school. He ran track at both Reynolds and Reagan. He had personal bests as a senior of 20 feet, 10 inches in the long jump, 5-8 in the high jump, 6.90 seconds in the 55 meters and 37.87 in the 300.

A no-star athlete out of high school, Revel heard from several FBS programs throughout high school, but his grades kept him from being seriously considered at the time. Forced to go the junior college route, he signed with Louisburg College (130 miles east of Winston-Salem), a two-year program. Despite not having a ton of junior college tape because of the pandemic, Revel attended a recruiting camp at East Carolina. He impressed the coaches, who offered him and promised a scholarship if he could improve his GPA. He committed to East Carolina in June 2021 and was the fourth-ranked player in former head coach Mike Houston's 2022 recruiting class.

After his breakout 2023 season, Revel considered entering the transfer portal, especially after receiving interest from several high-level programs (many offering six-figure NIL packages), including Alabama, LSU, Ohio State, Penn State, Texas and Wisconsin. However, he chose to stay with the program that first believed in him and graduated with a degree (Dec. 2024). Despite missing most of the 2024 season because of his ACL injury, he entered the NFL Draft and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl (interviews only).

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Louisburg (N.C.) College; redshirted
2021: (-/-)							Louisburg (N.C.) College
2022: (9/0)	8	0.0	0	0	0	0	East Carolina; missed start of season (broken hand)
2023: (12/12)	54	3.5	1	0	12	1	East Carolina; Second Team All-AAC; led team in PD; 57-yard FR TD; blocked two FG attempts
2024: (3/3)	8	0.5	0	0	4	2	East Carolina; 50-yard INT TD; missed final 10 games (ACL)
Total: (24/15)	70	4.0	1	0	16	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6017	194	9 5/8	32 5/8	79 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6014	202	9 7/8	32 5/8	80	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	12

STRENGTHS:

- Impressive size-speed combination
- Above-average arm length, with a wingspan wider than any cornerback drafted last year
- Loves to press — looks to get physical and disrupt routes early
- Has knack for using sideline and escorting receivers there
- Eats up grass quickly with acceleration to make up gaps in coverage
- Shows astute timing and eye balance in bait and drive
- Budding playmaking skills (three interceptions in his final four games)
- Returned two of three career interceptions 50 yards or more for touchdowns
- Functional tackler — willing to drive, wrap and finish
- Blocked field goals in consecutive weeks in 2023
- Faced numerous roadblocks to get to this point in career — no questions about mental toughness or work ethic

WEAKNESSES:

- Thin-limbed and doesn't carry heavy mass on frame
- Gets upright in pedal, which will disrupt his balance in man-to-man
- Can do better job staying on same plane in vertical transitions
- Grabby at top of routes and will draw attention when ball is in the air
- Outside-only corner at East Carolina, primarily in the boundary
- Will be 24 on draft weekend
- Torn ACL and partial meniscus tear in left knee during practice (Sept. 2024), which sidelined him for remainder of his final season and most of draft process; missed start of 2022 season because of boxer's fracture to right hand suffered in preseason camp; multiple injuries from high school, including broken collarbone as junior (Oct. 2018) and serious head trauma and other injuries from car accident as sophomore (Nov. 2017)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at East Carolina, Revel was the boundary corner in former defensive coordinator Blake Harrell's quarters-based scheme. After grades forced him to go the junior college route out of high school, he drew East Carolina's attention and later emerged as an NFL prospect (17 passes defended and three interceptions over his final 15 college starts). Unfortunately, a knee injury sidelined him for most of his senior season and the pre-draft process, which kept him from testing or working out for NFL teams before the draft. With his size, speed and physicality, Revel changed East Carolina's approach on defense, because of his press-man skill set — he uses his length to disrupt routes and explosiveness to stay attached. Though he does a great job playing through the hands of receivers, he is guilty of grabbing and holding too much, especially in off coverage. That issue should continue to fade as he hones his technique in the NFL. Overall, his durability will be questioned, understandably, but Revel is a boundary bully with terrific speed, length and ball-tracking skills. He has the talent of an NFL starter.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 62 overall)

CB8 Nohl Williams

California, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Oxnard, CA	Pacifica	Sep 23, 2002	22.58	6003	199	#3

BACKGROUND: Nohl (nole) Williams, the youngest of two boys, was born and raised in Ventura, Calif., with his parents (Andre and Tracye), who both work with at-risk juvenile offenders. His father played wide receiver at Oregon and helped the Ducks win the 1989 Independence Bowl. His uncle (Laurence Burkley) was a wide receiver at UCLA (1987-89) and caught passes from Troy Aikman. His older brother (Miles) played football at Pacifica High before playing safety at Wyoming (2018-22).

Williams followed in his brother's footsteps and enrolled at Pacifica High in Oxnard, Calif., where he played both ways at wide receiver and cornerback. After playing mostly JV his first two seasons, he became a varsity starter as a junior and posted 52 tackles and two interceptions, earning first-team all-conference and honorable-mention all-county honors. As a senior, Williams led the program to a 15-1 finish, including the 2019 Division II state championship (first in school history). He posted 74 tackles and seven interceptions, one of which he returned 100 yards for a touchdown, and earned league defensive back of the year honors. Williams caught 21 passes for 330 yards and four touchdowns and also returned kicks and punts. He lettered in track and had personal bests of 16 feet, 4 inches in the long jump, 6-4 in the high jump, 32-10 in the triple jump, 25.86 seconds in the 200 meters and 52.62 in the 400.

A three-star recruit, Williams was the 197th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 183 recruit in California. He received plenty of attention after his breakout junior season from FCS programs, including offers from Eastern Washington, Montana State, Sacramento State, South Dakota and UC Davis. Williams also picked up an offer from UNLV and assistant coach Tre Watson. He committed to the Rebels and was the 13th-ranked recruit in former head coach Marcus Arroyo's initial 2020 class. After three seasons, Arroyo was fired, and Williams entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2022). Watson moved on to become the secondary coach at California and again recruited Williams. For his final collegiate game, Williams played against his former college team, UNLV, in the bowl game. Williams accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/5)	25	0	0	0	2	1	UNLV; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/8)	33	0	0	0	5	1	UNLV; INT vs. Jayden Daniels and Arizona State
2022: (11/11)	40	1	0	1	8	3	UNLV
2023: (13/13)	53	2	0	1	8	2	California; enrolled January 2023; 9- and 52-yard fumble-return TDs
2024: (13/13)	52	1	0	1	15	7	California; Consensus All-American; First Team All-ACC; led FBS in INT; 80-yard KR TD; 40-yard INT TD
Total: (52/50)	203	4	0	3	38	14

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6003	199	9	30 3/4	75 1/2	4.50	2.66	1.61	33 1/2	10' 0"	DNP	DNP	19
PRO DAY	6002	200	9 1/8	31 1/4	74 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.25	6.97	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Solidly built; checks boxes for height, weight and length
- Hyper-competitive in everything he does
- Stays dialed in with vision to track both route and backfield action
- Outstanding ball skills (14 career interceptions — only Quincy Riley has more in this draft class)
- Skillfully plays through hands of receiver
- Balanced at tops of routes for controlled and clean transitions (20.05 mph 45-degree backpedal was combine's fastest)
- Eager to jam with strong hands but doesn't sacrifice footing
- Subtly nudges receivers toward sideline and works to win body positioning
- Outstanding run defender willing to set hard edge
- Forceful tackler who brings his feet, keeps eyes up and rarely misses
- Throws hands into receivers to leverage blocks, detach and make himself a factor
- Responsible for four touchdowns in two seasons at Cal (two fumble returns, one interception return, one kickoff return)
- Became Cal's featured kick returner in 2024 and averaged 27.6 yards per return (12 attempts for 331 yards) with one touchdown
- Durable — has played a lot of football (50 career starts)

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't have elite top-end speed
- Average-twitch athlete — sudden start/stop receivers will run him off top of routes
- Can get turned around in bail, allowing receivers to stack or slip by him vertically
- Will have attention of officials with hands-on nature in coverage
- Not as disruptive as he could be from press
- Worked primarily as outside corner, so move to nickel would be a projection
- Love his physicality but has room to be more sound with finishing technique

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Cal, Williams lined up primarily at right cornerback in head coach Justin Wilcox's scheme (34.1 percent of snaps in man, 60.5 percent zone). In some games, he would follow the other team's top receiver, including an epic matchup against Stanford's Elic Ayomanor, who had just 24 receiving yards while Williams had three pass breakups. After three years at UNLV, he transferred to Berkeley and had an All-America super-senior season. His outstanding ball skills are reflected in his 2024 production: seven interceptions (No. 1 in the FBS) and 16 passes defended (No. 1 in the ACC). In coverage, Williams is a smooth mover in both man and zone and displays a natural feel for keeping eyes on the backfield action without sacrificing his coverage.

With his compete skills, receivers know they are in for a dogfight, and he is one of this class' best tackling cornerbacks. Overall, Williams will need to prove he can overcome his average long speed against NFL competition, but there are far more pros than cons to his game, including his awareness, ball skills and physical play demeanor. I think he'll stay at cornerback, but his game is reminiscent of another former Cal corner, Cam Bynum, who has found NFL success at safety.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 66 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Olathe, KS	North Olathe	Feb 29, 2004	21.15	5097	191	#10

BACKGROUND: Jacob Parrish, the middle of five children, was born in Jefferson City, Mo., with his parents (Jason and Ginger). At age 3, his family moved to Olathe, Kan. While growing up in an athletic family, Parrish started playing football in first grade, and it was "love at first sight." He was primarily a running back throughout youth levels with a little defense mixed in. Parrish also wrestled and played basketball throughout childhood. His mother played softball at Central Missouri. His older brother (Jevon), a chemical engineer in Minneapolis, was a state champion wrestler at North Olathe before wrestling at Nebraska (2018-22). His younger twin brothers (Jason and Joshua) were accomplished track athletes at North Olathe and both signed with Wichita State in 2023. Jason does hurdles and sprints; Josh competes in hurdles and jumps.

Parrish enrolled at North Olathe High, alma mater of 2020 first-round draft pick Isaiah Simmons. A four-year varsity letterman who played on offense (running back and wide receiver) and defense (safety), he worked into the mix as a sophomore and posted 389 rushing yards, four touchdowns, 33 tackles and two interceptions. As a junior in 2020, Parrish totaled 762 rushing yards, 536 receiving yards and 14 touchdowns, along with 49 tackles, three interceptions and one forced fumble. He earned all-state honors as a senior and helped the program to an 8-3 finish. Parrish accounted for 788 rushing yards (8.4 average), 519 receiving yards (17.9) and 16 total touchdowns, adding two kickoff return touchdowns. He also recorded 55 tackles and one interception in 2021. Parrish finished his prep career with 3,840 all-purpose yards and a school-record 1,313 receiving yards. He lettered in basketball and ran track (sprints and relays), too. As a senior, Parrish won the 6A state championships in the 100 meters (10.47 seconds, a personal-best time) and 200 (22.47). His younger brothers also won state titles in 2022: Josh in the high hurdles (14.40); Jason in the low hurdles (38.96).

A three-star recruit, Parrish was the 144th-ranked athlete in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 12 recruit in Kansas. His production put him on the recruiting radar, but questions about his size left him overlooked. After his junior season, Parrish received his first scholarship offer from FCS North Dakota State, followed by his first FBS offer from Air Force a week later (March 2021). He added offers from Army, Dartmouth, North Dakota, Northern Iowa and South Dakota State, but most of the bigger programs remained hesitant.

Parrish received an offer from Jerry Kill at New Mexico State, and he was close to committing until Kansas State ramped up its interest a few days before signing day. Head coach Chris Klieman originally offered him a blueshirt opportunity, but after seeing how much weight Parrish had added, offered a full-ride scholarship (Parrish committed almost on the spot). He was the 17th-ranked recruit in the Wildcats' 2022 class. Despite not having any experience at cornerback, he made the transition after arriving in Manhattan and learned from Julius Brents, who became a role model for Parrish. After three seasons at Kansas State, Parrish elected to skip his senior season for the NFL Draft. He opted out of Kansas State's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (14/0)	8	0.0	0.0	0	2	0	Enrolled July 2022
2023: (12/12)	44	2.5	0.5	0	13	4	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in INTs and PD; missed one game (injury)
2024: (12/12)	50	2.5	0.0	0	8	1	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in INT, PD; missed one game (injury)
Total: (38/24)	102	5.0	0.5	0	23	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5096	191	9	30 7/8	75 7/8	4.35	2.55	1.54	37 1/2	10' 9"	DNP	DNP	12
PRO DAY	5097	193	8 7/8	31 1/4	74 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	16

STRENGTHS:

- State-champion sprinting speed carries over to football field
- Twitchy reaction quickness and change-of-direction skills (played sticky against Travis Hunter on the 2024 Colorado tape)
- Balanced footwork at top of routes to redirect with receivers
- Always ball searching and times his swipes to knock away passes
- Loves playing press man and uses a variety of techniques to disrupt vertical releases
- Physical hands on perimeter and looks to match physicality of bigger receivers
- Drives downhill in run game and is strong open-field tackler
- Short but not small — has better build than he's given credit for
- Quiet and reserved off the field but looks to play loud on it
- Experienced both outside and in slot

WEAKNESSES:

- Lack of ideal height leaves him at disadvantage on high-placement throws
- Occasionally caught on heels — focuses more on matching athleticism than anticipating route
- Flagged four times for coverage penalties in 2024 (two holding, two pass interference)
- Needs to better toggle eyes between quarterback and route from off coverage

- Not as comfortable driving from side-saddle technique
- Eagerly jams at line but needs to stay under control to not sacrifice spacing
- Didn't play on kick or punt coverages past two seasons

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Kansas State, Parrish was the left cornerback in defensive coordinator Joe Klanderman's man/zone scheme and moved inside to nickel on third-down packages. A running back and safety in high school, he has been playing cornerback only the past three seasons but showed promising improvements each year — he led the team in passes defended as a sophomore and junior.

A smooth athlete in coverage, Parrish can flip his hips downfield and has fast feet in his transitions to click and close on the ball very quickly. His toughness shows in coverage and run support, although his lack of size will present itself on tape if he loses positioning downfield or doesn't square up the ball carrier. Overall, Parrish is still developing his discipline at the position, but he is a fluid mover with the speed and compete skills that are the foundation of a promising cornerback. He offers inside-out versatility and starting upside.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 67 overall)

CB10 Benjamin Morrison

Notre Dame, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Phoenix, AZ	Brophy Prep	Mar 11, 2004	21.12	6003	193	#20

BACKGROUND: Benjamin Morrison, the youngest of five children, was born and raised just outside of Washington, D.C., with his parents (Darryl and Jo Ann). His father, a Phoenix native, played safety at Arizona and was drafted in the sixth round (No. 155) of the 1993 NFL Draft, then played four seasons for Washington. He became a pastor after his retirement. In 2015, he moved the family from Virginia to the Phoenix area, where he founded Valley Gate Church (Jo Ann, who also graduated from Arizona, works in the church). Darryl Morrison also leads chapel services for the Arizona Cardinals on the weekend.

All five of the Morrison children became Division I athletes. The oldest (Faith) was a gymnast at Washington (2013-16). Benjamin's only brother (Sammy) played cornerback at his parent's alma mater, Arizona (2015-18), before transferring to San Diego State (2019) for his final season. Middle child (Grace) played volleyball at Appalachian State (2017-21). Youngest sister (Naomi) won a national championship as an All-Big Ten gymnast at Michigan (2021-24). Benjamin Morrison grew up as a multisport athlete, like his siblings, but he always wanted to follow in the footsteps of his father and older brother as a football player. He signed up for football "the first day he could." He also learned the game from Pro Football Hall of Famer Darrell Green ("Uncle Darrell"), his father's former teammate and a family friend.

Morrison attended Brophy College Prep, an all-boys Catholic school in Phoenix, and was teammates as a freshman with Ohio State cornerback Denzel Burke. After Burke transferred to Saguaro High in 2019, Morrison became a starter as a sophomore and had an interception in his first game. He finished the season with 42 tackles, nine passes defended and two interceptions. Morrison planned to follow Burke and transfer to Saguaro — a football powerhouse — for his final two years. However, after a few practices at his new school, he decided the Brophy culture was a better fit and was able to return without transfer restrictions because of rules related to the COVID-19 pandemic. He missed some time during his junior season with injuries and COVID-19-related issues, but he finished with 36 tackles as Brophy went winless (0-7). As a senior, he posted 53 tackles and two interceptions to earn all-conference honors. Morrison also lettered in track and had personal bests of 11.46 seconds in the 100 meters and 23.97 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Morrison was the 35th-ranked cornerback in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in Arizona. His name started to gain steam on the recruiting trail after his sophomore season, and he picked up his first scholarship offer from Iowa State, followed by offers from Michigan State, Oregon and Arizona (his father and older brother's alma mater). Morrison added several high-profile offers during his junior season, including from Alabama, Florida State, LSU, Michigan, Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Penn State. His "dream school" was Clemson, which never offered — Morrison admitted that was a blow to his confidence at the time.

Throughout much of the process, Washington (one of Morrison's other favorite schools growing up) was considered the favorite, and he narrowed his list to Alabama, Notre Dame and Washington. However, Morrison developed a connection with Irish defensive backs coach Mike Mickens and head coach Marcus Freeman, and he was drawn to the culture in South Bend, which he felt was similar to what he had in high school (both Catholic schools). He was the 16th-ranked recruit in Freeman's first class as head coach. After missing most of the 2024 season because of injury, Morrison elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (13/9)	33	1.0	0	0	10	6	Freshman All-American; led team in INT; 96-yard INT TD; enrolled June 2022
2023: (12/11)	31	3.5	0	0	13	3	Missed one game (quad)
2024: (6/6)	20	0.0	0	0	4	0	Missed final 10 games (hip); team captain
Total: (31/26)	84	4.5	0	0	27	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6002	193	9 1/4	30 3/8	75 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6003	191	9 1/4	30 1/2	75 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	17

STRENGTHS:

- Calm, coordinated athlete who can play variety of coverages
- Patient and balanced in off coverage; shows terrific awareness to read through receiver to QB
- Fluid movements — stays on balls of feet to react quickly with sharp route cuts
- Adapted well to Notre Dame's heavy press man, despite not playing it until college
- Plays fade really well, returning eyes to quarterback and defending throw
- Gets back in phase without panic to find football downfield
- Confident when making plays at catch point, which is reflected in stat sheet
- Flies off edge as blitzer (strip sack overturned on replay on 2024 Louisville tape)
- Competitive play personality and all about the work
- All four older siblings were Division I athletes — has observed and absorbed athletic success entire life
- Mature, driven by faith and loyal to teammates (took captain status to heart and remained plugged in throughout entire 2024 season, despite injury)

WEAKNESSES:

- Slight, muscular frame and lacks ideal mass
- Lack of ideal play strength popped up on each tape — offenses found success running to his side
- Great compete in run game but has his share of missed tackles (see 2024 Louisville tape)
- Spends too much time hung up on perimeter blocks
- Physical receivers can outmuscle his jam, leaving him off balance early in route
- Will get caught with fistful of opponent's jersey (holding penalty wiped out a Xavier Watts interception on 2024 Stanford tape)
- Two hip surgeries over past four years — missed most of junior season at Notre Dame after undergoing hip surgery (Oct. 2024); hip labral repair surgery as junior in high school (Dec. 2020), which required a nine-month recovery; missed one game because of quad strain (Oct. 2023); missed most of 2024 spring practices because of right shoulder injury, which required surgery (March 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Notre Dame, Morrison was primarily an outside cornerback in former defensive coordinator Al Golden's 4-2-5 base scheme, occasionally moving inside to the slot when shadowing receivers (86.7 percent of career snaps came outside). He put himself on the NFL radar as a Freshman All-American for the Irish and was a consistent performer when on the field. Unfortunately, injuries (including surgeries on his shoulder and hip) disrupted his junior season.

Regardless of the type of coverage, Morrison has terrific foot quickness and body fluidity to mirror early and regain phase late, allowing him to make plays on the football without panic. He shows a natural feel in coverage and understands play indicators to look and lean or read and drive. Overall, the play strength and durability concerns will follow him to the next level, but Morrison is an athletic, technically-sound cover man who works hard to stay attached to routes and make plays on the ball. As long as he stays healthy, he is a scheme-versatile NFL starter.

GRADE: 2nd-3rd round (No. 69 overall)

CB11 Quincy Riley

Louisville, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Columbia, SC	A.C. Flora	May 26, 2001	23.91	5106	194	#3

BACKGROUND: Quincy Riley was born and raised in Columbia, S.C., with his mother (Kellee Greene). He started playing football at age 8, mostly on offense through Pop Warner. He also played basketball, although baseball (shortstop and center fielder) was probably his best sport throughout childhood. His older brother (Cory) signed to play defensive back at FCS South Carolina State in 2017.

Riley attended A.C. Flora High in the Columbia suburb of Forest Acres, where he was a three-year letterman at cornerback and wide receiver. He became a starter as a sophomore and notched four interceptions, including one returned for a touchdown. A.C. Flora started his senior season 0-2, but Riley helped the program win nine straight games, including the 2018 regional championship. He earned all-state and all-metro honors and was named the regional special teams player of the year with six return touchdowns (four kickoffs, two punts) before teams stopped kicking to him. Riley finished his senior season with 28 tackles and six interceptions while adding 19 receptions for 303 yards and seven touchdowns. He also lettered in basketball and track, taking first place in both the 100 meters (10.48 seconds) and 200 (21.37) at the 2019 state championships. Riley was named 4A Track Player of the Year in 2019 and set a personal best of 50.08 in the 400.

A three-star recruit, Riley was the 128th-ranked cornerback in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 24 recruit in South Carolina. He played for an 0-10 team as a high school junior and didn't receive his first scholarship offers until the summer before his senior year, when FCS programs (The Citadel, Charleston Southern, Southern Illinois and Mercer) offered him. Midway through his senior year, Coastal Carolina gave him his first FBS offer, followed by another from Arkansas State. Despite several then-Power 5 schools showing late interest, Riley stayed committed to Middle Tennessee. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in former head coach Rick Stockstill's 2019 class. He also competed for the Middle Tennessee track team (sprints and relays) and had personal bests of 7.14 second in the 60 meters, 10.89 in the 100 and 23.77 in the 200.

After three seasons with the program, Riley entered the transfer portal (Feb. 2022) and received double-digit offers, including from several ACC and SEC schools. He took visits to Ole Miss and Tennessee before committing to Louisville. Riley graduated with a degree from Louisville (Dec. 2023). He opted out of Louisville's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (3/0)	3	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Middle Tennessee; redshirt; enrolled July 2019
2020: (6/5)	14	1.0	0.0	0	6	2	Middle Tennessee; CUSA All-Freshman team; missed three games (injury); pandemic-shortened season
2021: (9/7)	33	4.5	1.5	0	14	5	Middle Tennessee; First Team All-CUSA; led CUSA in INTs; 45-yard INT TD; missed four games (injury)
2022: (13/2)	27	1.0	1.0	0	5	3	Louisville; 90-yard INT TD
2023: (14/14)	49	1.5	0.0	0	14	3	Louisville; Honorable Mention All-ACC; led team in PD
2024: (10/8)	33	3.0	0.0	1	15	2	Louisville; Second Team All-ACC; led team in INT, PD; missed two games (ankle); missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (55/36)	159	11.0	2.5	1	54	15

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5105	194	8 1/2	31	75	4.48	2.64	1.60	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5106	193	8 3/4	31 1/4	74 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Above-average athletic talent across board
- Immediate speed (won high school state championship in 100 and 200 meters and also ran track in college)
- Has wheels to recover and regain phase after misstep in coverage
- Quick-twitch movements to drive on throws in a blink
- Balanced mirror-match to shadow early in man
- Locates and plays ball well (54 career passes defended in 55 games)
- Multiple interceptions each of past five seasons
- Had 403 career interception return yards (no other player in draft class had more than 250)
- Wasn't flagged for coverage penalty in final 23 games
- Returned punts in 2024 (8.8 average), before injury
- Louisville cornerbacks coach Steve Ellis on Riley: "He's the best I have ever coached, and I have coached some real ones."

WEAKNESSES:

- Short with average frame and bulk
- Size isn't deterrent against slants and fades
- Ordinary play strength — has trouble getting off wide receiver blocks
- Liability finishing ball carrier (double-digit missed tackles on 2024 tape)
- Two offside penalties on field goal block coverage in 2024, including a costly flag that led to a game-winning kick by Stanford
- Less than 5 percent of career snaps came in slot
- Missed two games and parts of others as super senior because of sprained ankle (Sept. 2024); labrum and hernia issues at Middle Tennessee
- Older prospect — will turn 24 shortly after draft weekend

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Louisville, Riley was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Ron English's balanced coverage scheme (moved inside to the slot on third downs). After three seasons at Middle Tennessee, he transferred to Louisville, where he continued to pile up production, including a combined 29 passes defended over the past two years (only Oregon's Jabbar Muhammad had more in the FBS over that span).

With his athletic traits, Riley stays attached in man-to-man and displays the click and close and ball skills to be disruptive — he is the only player in this draft class with at least 15 career interceptions. His size might force him into the slot for some schemes, although his inconsistencies in the run game become even more of a concern in that role. Overall, Riley will need to prove that he won't be a liability against NFL size and strength, but he has the requisite speed and nose for the football to carry vertical routes and challenge catch points. He projects as an immediate contributor (zone or man) with the upside to ascend to starter-level snaps.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 95 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Bettendorf, IA	Bettendorf	Jan 06, 2001	24.30	6027	195	#10

BACKGROUND: Darien Porter, the youngest of two children, grew up in a military family with his parents (Lionel and Carrie). Lionel, who served as a Marine, is the all-time leading rusher at NAIA St. Ambrose (Iowa) University (1993-96) and was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 2003. Carrie, a nurse, played college volleyball at Washington State (1990-93). Darien's older sister (Devan) was an All-American volleyball player in high school and signed with Georgia in 2014 before transferring to St. Ambrose in 2016. The Porter family moved around throughout Darien's childhood, including stops in San Clemente, Calif., and Fort Wayne, Ind. Porter spent most of his upbringing in the Memphis area, where he started playing organized sports. At age 8, he picked up football and starred as a running back throughout youth leagues. In the middle of sixth grade (Dec. 2012), his family relocated to Bettendorf, Iowa (near the Illinois border).

Porter enrolled at Bettendorf High, where he was a multisport star. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore and played both ways as a wide receiver and cornerback. Porter was expected to have a breakout season as a junior, but a ligament tear in his right wrist (which required two surgeries) disrupted his 2017 season — he finished with only 10 catches for 251 yards and four touchdowns. As a senior, he led Bettendorf to a 10-2 record and a spot in the semifinals of the 2018 4A state playoffs. Porter earned all-state and all-district honors with 27 receptions for 440 yards and seven touchdowns, adding three rushing touchdowns and averaging 31.2 yards per kick return.

However, Porter was even more accomplished as a track athlete. He bypassed the opportunity to graduate early so he could run track as a senior and set the all-time Iowa record in the 400 meters (46.99 seconds) at the 2019 state championships. Porter also won the 200 (21.76) and placed second in the 100 (10.97). He finished his prep career with five state titles and personal bests of 10.68 in the 100 and 21.69 in the 200. Porter also lettered in basketball.

A three-star recruit, Porter was the 93rd-ranked wide receiver in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 5 recruit in Iowa (one spot behind linebacker Jack Campbell). During his junior season, he took a recruiting visit to Iowa State and received an offer from head coach Matt Campbell. By the end of his junior season, Porter was ready to commit to Iowa State. He took visits to Iowa and Notre Dame, and added offers from Minnesota and Nebraska, but his mind was set on the Cyclones. Porter signed as a wide receiver and was the sixth-ranked recruit in Campbell's 2019 class (running back Breece Hall was No. 1). He stayed on offense for three seasons before moving to cornerback for his final three seasons. Porter twice earned Academic All-Big 12 honors and graduated with a degree in public relations. He opted out of Iowa State's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (3/0)	0	0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (12/0)	5	0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/0)	3	0	0	0	0	0	Blocked punt
2022: (12/0)	15	0	0	0	1	0	Blocked punt
2023: (12/0)	10	0	0	0	3	0	Blocked punt
2024: (12/7)	18	2	0	0	5	3	Honorable mention All-Big 12; blocked punt; blocked FG; missed two games (ankle; bowl opt-out)
Total: (64/7)	51	2	0	0	9	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6027	195	9	33 1/8	80	4.30	2.54	1.51	36	10' 11"	4.04	6.71	DNP
PRO DAY	6026	197	9 1/8	33 1/2	79 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Play speed and timed speed both elite (parents were accomplished college athletes)
- Posted outstanding mph numbers at both Senior Bowl (22.17) and combine (23.89)
- Boasts rare size and length for position
- Much better fluidity and change-of-direction skills than most tall corners
- Plays decisive in zone to overlap and confidently defend variety of routes (wasn't flagged in 2024)
- Casts wide net with long and well-timed arms (defends fade particularly well)
- Former wide receiver; doesn't become frozen on interception opportunities
- Plays with terrific chase effort to track down ball carriers
- Described by head coach Matt Campbell as "most selfless, most incredible human" on Iowa State roster
- Blocked four punts (one each of past four seasons) and one field goal over his career
- Played 970 career special teams snaps (18 tackles)

WEAKNESSES:

- Extremely lean experience — didn't log first start until sixth college season
- Saw only 17 targets in 12 games in 2024 — body of work is lacking
- Underdeveloped coverage awareness and still learning how to pick up route clues
- Has length for press man but wasn't asked to do it much
- Average upper-body strength; needs to crank up physicality
- Tall center of gravity disrupts ability to come to balance as tackler
- Needs to become better finisher once he gets hands on ball carrier
- Missed one game as super senior because of ankle issue (Oct. 2024); missed most of junior year of high school with wrist injury, which required two surgeries
- Older player — already 24

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Iowa State, Porter was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Jon Heacock's zone-heavy scheme. Though he set a school record with 64 games played, most of his playing time came on special teams (970 career snaps), not offense (53) or defense (694). After spending his first three seasons in Ames at receiver, he moved to corner in 2022 and became a starter in 2024, although he was part of a rotation (only 35.4 defensive snaps per game in 2024).

A towering athlete with a track background, Porter has exceptional athletic traits for his size and uses his length well to restrict air space in coverage (eight passes defended, zero touchdowns allowed over the past two seasons). He can be late to read route development, which is congruent with his experience, but his special teams background greatly increases his value (only player in Big 12 history with five or more career blocked kicks). Overall, Porter is a unique prospect that requires heavy projection because of his meager experience, but he has the rare combination of physical traits and promising ball skills to develop into an NFL starting corner. With rare size/speed and a wide receiver background, Riq Woolen is the natural NFL comparison — if Porter develops more of a competitive edge.

GRADE: 3rd round

CB13 Dorian Strong

Virginia Tech, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Upper Marlboro, MD	Wise	Mar 14, 2002	23.11	6010	185	#44

BACKGROUND: Dorian Strong, who has one sister (Taylor), grew up in Prince George's County, Md., with his father (Donovan) and mother (Vera). His father is a retired professional bodybuilder who had several top-five IFBB finishes over his career (2006-19). Strong was involved in several sports throughout childhood, including karate. He started playing pee wee football in elementary school and continued throughout middle school. Growing up as mostly an offensive player, he expected his football future to be with the ball in his hands. He developed at cornerback, however, while playing on the 7-on-7 circuit for Team Flex throughout high school.

Strong enrolled at Dr. Henry A. Wise Jr. High in Prince George's County, where he was a multisport standout. He missed most of his freshman season on JV because of a thumb injury (Wise's varsity team went undefeated and won the 2016 4A state championship). As a sophomore, Strong played primarily at wide receiver on the JV team. He became more of a two-way player as a junior and moved up to varsity, where he was a part-time player and helped Wise to a 10-2 record and the 2018 regional title. Strong moved into a more prominent role for his senior season, helping Wise to a perfect 15-0 record and the 2019 4A state championship. He finished his final season with 33 tackles and seven interceptions (four returned for touchdowns). He also posted 17 receptions for 425 yards and eight touchdowns, adding two kickoff return touchdowns and one punt return touchdown. Strong also lettered in track and had personal bests of 6.64 seconds in the indoor 55 meters, 7.24 in the 60 and 36.34 in the 300, as well as 11.28 in the outdoor 100, 23.01 in the 200 and 51.47 in the 400.

A three-star recruit, Strong was the 127th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 41 recruit Maryland. More of a role player his first year on varsity, he was easy to overlook as a recruit and didn't have any stars. Strong attended a spotlight camp and talked with several then-Power 5 level programs, but only Virginia Tech offered. He committed to the Hokies the summer before his senior season and stayed loyal to head coach Justin Fuente and the coaching staff through his breakout senior season. Strong was the 14th-ranked recruit in Fuente's 2020 class. He graduated with a degree (Dec. 2023). Strong accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (11/5)	22	0.0	0	0	6	1	Enrolled July 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/10)	23	1.0	0	0	7	1
2022: (4/4)	10	0.0	0	0	3	0	Redshirted; missed final seven games (right hand)
2023: (13/13)	25	0.5	0	0	11	3	Third Team All-ACC; led team in INT, PD
2024: (12/12)	32	0.0	0	1	8	2	Honorable Mention All-ACC; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (53/44)	112	1.5	0	1	35	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6010	185	9 1/4	30 7/8	76 1/8	4.50	2.61	1.57	36	9' 8"	DNP	DNP	15
PRO DAY	6006	186	9 3/8	31	75 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10' 8"	4.08	6.56	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Feels route development around him in zone
- Smooth body action when transitioning with different types of routes
- Good size, with mentality to match up against bigger targets
- Compete skills are immediately apparent, especially in press
- Uncoils into frame of receivers to slow patterns early and late, riding receivers vertically
- Quickly finds ball after returning his eyes to backfield
- Doesn't panic when he has a chance to make plays
- Wraps and runs through ball carriers to consistently finish as tackler
- Experienced on punt and kick coverages
- His coaches say he was a leader in meetings and carries himself with "locked-in confidence"

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks elite speed for position, which especially stands out when he's trying to make up ground
- Long strider who can be driven off top of routes, opening up comebacks and back-shoulders
- Will concede too much spacing from off coverage
- Needs to tighten footwork in press
- Plays physical but spends too much time attached to perimeter blocks
- Only 3.2 percent of career defensive snaps came versus the slot
- Tape doesn't show him as a blitzer
- Fracture in right hand near his thumb (Sept. 2022), which required season-ending surgery

SUMMARY: A five-year starter at Virginia Tech, Strong was the field cornerback in head coach Brent Pry's coverage scheme. After suffering a season-ending injury in 2022, he started 25 consecutive games the past two seasons. He combined for 19 passes defended and five interceptions while allowing just 39.6 percent completions when targeted (36-for-91).

Despite having average length, Strong gets physical early and maintains positioning to make quarterbacks second-guess targeting constricted windows. He can function well in zone because of his pattern recognition and effectiveness in run support. Overall, Strong doesn't have ideal foot speed or twitch for what some NFL teams desire, but he is a quick, instinctive player with the competitive profile other teams will highly value. He projects as a rookie reserve.

GRADE: 4th round

CB14 Bilhal Kone

Western Michigan, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Apple Valley, MN	Apple Valley	Mar 03, 2002	23.14	6012	190	#1

BACKGROUND: Bilhal (Bil-all) Kone (Cone-ay) was born in Minneapolis, but his mother (Amy Camara) sent him to live with relatives in Ivory Coast. At age 6, Kone returned to the United States, and his family relocated to Apple Valley, Minn. He played soccer growing up, but his mother didn't want him playing football — he finally convinced her (with the help of a coach) in sixth grade. Just before high school, Kone experienced a tough stretch, including his younger brother's death. He was homeless for a time and later moved in with the family of current NBA players Tre (Chicago Bulls) and Tyus Jones (Phoenix Suns), in hopes of finding some stability throughout high school. Kone's older brother (Mohamed), who has been his main athletic influence in his life, played basketball and football in high school, then continued on in basketball at the junior college level and later Bemidji State (14.9 points per game in 2022-23). Mohamed last played overseas for a team in China and recently signed with a team in Australia.

Kone enrolled at Apple Valley High and moved up to varsity as a sophomore, playing primarily on offense at wide receiver. Going into his junior season, Kone added cornerback duties and was coached by former NFL defensive back Tyrone Carter (2000-10). After posting five interceptions as a junior, Kone had six as a senior, including two returned for touchdowns. He earned all-conference honors, as he helped Apple Valley to a winning record and playoff spot in 2019. He was also the team's field goal kicker, kickoff specialist and punter (soccer background). Kone played two seasons of varsity basketball in high school.

A no-star recruit, Kone wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. With Carter's help, though, he generated interest in him from several Division I teams, including Iowa State. But he didn't have the grades to academically qualify, so Kone's best option was the junior college route — he played two seasons at Iowa Central Community College, achieving a 3.4 GPA. He heard from several interested FCS programs and committed to Indiana State over Northern Colorado, Incarnate Word and a walk-on spot at Minnesota.

After the 2022 season, he entered the transfer portal hoping to jump to the FBS. Kone heard from several MAC programs, and Minnesota again offered a walk-on opportunity, which only enlarged the chip on his shoulder. He committed to Western Michigan, partly because of the high-level opponents on the Broncos' schedule (Iowa, Ohio State, Wisconsin). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Iowa Central Community College
2021: (-/-)							Iowa Central Community College
2022: (8/8)	34	0	0	0	6	0	Indiana State; missed final three games (throat)
2023: (12/4)	42	2	0	0	9	1	Western Michigan; led team in PD; enrolled January 2023
2024: (13/12)	70	1	0	0	9	1	Western Michigan; led team in PD
Total: (33/24)	146	3	0	0	24	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6012	190	9	30 7/8	75 1/2	4.43	2.60	1.55	31 1/2	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	31 5/8	73 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	35	DNP	4.37	6.89	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good height-speed combination
- Rangy player who can turn, run and cover ground
- Able to carry and stay in phase on vertical patterns
- Patient in press and mixes up attack to keep receivers guessing
- Composed in short-area movements to limit wasted movements in transitions
- Reads well from depth to get a bead on what's happening
- Tracks with pacing to attack the ball, not the man
- No concerns about his want-to in run game
- One of only four FBS cornerbacks with 70 tackles or more in 2024
- Didn't have much stability growing up but never stopped working

WEAKNESSES:

- Leaner than ideal for the position
- Nuanced route runners can get him off balance at the stem
- A lot of side-saddle technique on his tape, instead of a backpedal
- Occasionally tardy with his vision when reacting to late motions or stacks
- Will lose spacing at times when his eyes get too nosy in backfield (see 2024 Akron tape)
- Plays ball well, but he has only two interceptions on his resume
- Physical enough for the pro game, but his play strength will be tested as tackler
- Missed final three games of 2022 season because of a sprained hyoid bone, caused when a ball carrier's knee hit his throat on a tackle attempt (liquid diet for a month and couldn't eat solid foods)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Western Michigan, Kone was an outside cornerback in former defensive coordinator Scott Power's zone-based coverage with man looks mixed in. After he was forced to go the junior college route because of his grades, he worked his way up from Indiana State to Western Michigan and led the Broncos in passes defended each of the past two years (despite never winning All-MAC honors).

Kone has the size, speed and movement skills desired on the perimeter, and he didn't look out of place against the top opponents on the schedule (Ohio State, Wisconsin). Skilled route runners will be able to find spacing against him as he continues to develop his eyes and technique, but his instincts and competitiveness seem to come naturally, which gives evaluators optimism. Overall, Kone isn't a polished player just yet, but his collection of athletic traits and overall toughness are worth the mid-round investment. He fits both press and zone schemes with upside as a starter.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

CB15 Caleb Ransaw

Tulane, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Harvest, AL	Sparkman	Dec 22, 2002	22.34	5115	197	#7

BACKGROUND: Caleb Ransaw, the youngest of three boys, grew up in northern Alabama (near the Tennessee border) with his father (Justin Ransaw) and mother (Ashanta Lindsey). Like his older brothers, he played several sports growing up, although he started to gravitate toward football. His older brother (Gavin) prepped at Sparkman High before playing defensive line (at 295 pounds) at Division II Virginia Wise (2021-22), Independence (Kan.) Community College (2023) and Coastal Carolina (2024). His cousin (Dre Kirkpatrick), a cornerback at Alabama and a first-round pick (No. 17) in the 2012 NFL Draft, played 10 years in the NFL (2012-21).

Ransaw enrolled at Sparkman High in Madison County and started out on the freshman team. After moving up to varsity as a starting cornerback as a sophomore, he helped the team to an 8-3 record as a junior (49 tackles, 26 pass breakups and one interception). As a senior, Ransaw earned first-team all-region honors with 32 tackles, 25 pass breakups, two forced fumbles and two interceptions, leading Sparkman back to the 7A state playoffs in a season truncated because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

A two-star recruit, Ransaw was the 216th-ranked cornerback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 110 recruit in Alabama. After his junior season, he received interest from FCS programs such as Alabama A&M and Samford. His first FBS offer arrived in April 2020 from Louisiana, followed by offers from Troy and Southern Miss. Ransaw committed to Troy and was the 11th-ranked recruit in former head coach Jon Sumrall's 2021 class.

After three seasons with the Trojans, he entered the transfer portal for his final season and followed Sumrall to Tulane. Ransaw opted out of Tulane's bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/0)	5	0	0	0	0	0	Troy; enrolled July 2021
2022: (11/5)	25	0	0	0	3	0	Troy; missed three games (concussion); blocked FG
2023: (14/14)	51	6	0	0	3	1	Troy; Honorable Mention All-SBC
2024: (12/12)	33	4	1	0	3	0	Tulane; Third Team All-AAC; missed one game (injury); missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (49/31)	114	10	1	0	9	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5113	197	9 3/4	30 3/4	75 5/8	4.33	2.50	1.47	40	10' 9"	DNP	DNP	16
PRO DAY	5115	196	9 1/2	31	75 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.34	6.93	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Explodes in movements to aggressively click and drive
- Clean hip turn to pedal, swivel and track the football
- Calms his feet and faces up ball carriers as tackler
- Stays under control working down; missed tackles are rare on his film
- Drops to landmarks with ease and understands route combinations from zone
- Always ball searching to poke the football out late
- Regular on punt coverages in 2024; blocked a field goal in 2022
- Experienced playing inside, outside and at safety

WEAKNESSES:

- Below-average ball production sticks out like a sore thumb
- Only one interception in college, and it was gift-wrapped for him (also had an interception in Senior Bowl game)
- Caught staring at the quarterback, losing track of his man
- Needs to cut down on extra steps at top of routes versus slots
- Has some panic moments in coverage, leading to flags (two pass interference penalties on 2024 Louisiana tape)
- Finds himself stuck on blocks near the line
- Missed three games as sophomore because of a concussion (Oct. 2022)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Tulane, Ransaw played the "Spur" nickel position in defensive coordinator Greg Gasparato's 4-2-5 base scheme. He was an outside cornerback as a sophomore at Troy before moving inside as a junior and senior, and he also can function as a linebacker when working down in the box (went through drills as a safety during Senior Bowl week).

Although there are some questions about his anticipation in coverage, which limited his on-ball production, Ransaw has the speed and movement skills to man up or drop and choke passing lanes. He is dependable in the run game and won't get beaten by athleticism in space. Overall, Ransaw doesn't have the resume of a playmaker, but his natural explosion and tackling skills are qualities NFL teams will put to use on special teams. Ransaw can provide depth in the secondary, too. His inside/outside experience will smooth his NFL transition.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Phoenix, AZ	Saguaro	Oct 10, 2002	22.54	5113	186	#10

BACKGROUND: Denzel (den-ZEL) Burke grew up in the Phoenix area with his parents (Zafiro and Deyanira), who are from Panama. His father grew up playing baseball in Panama and wanted his son to follow a similar path, but Denzel was drawn to football. Burke started playing at age 5, initially flag football before graduating to the pee-wee level in pads. He also played baseball and basketball, but football was his focus throughout youth levels and middle school. Burke played for the Chandler Bears club team as a wide receiver and cornerback. In high school, he started working out with private defensive backs coach Will Sullivan, who trained several NFL cornerbacks, including Darrelle Revis (Sullivan is also Burke's pastor). Burke has a young son.

Burke started his high school career at Brophy College Prep, an all-boys Catholic school in Phoenix, and became the first Brophy freshman since 1989 to start on varsity. Lining up at cornerback, he posted 27 tackles and one interception in his first season, as the team fought through a 1-9 finish. As a sophomore in 2018, Burke saw more action on offense as a wide receiver and finished with 50 receptions for 719 yards and nine touchdowns (also had a kick return touchdown). With Brophy looking to hire a third different head coach in three years, Burke elected to transfer before his junior season. He enrolled at football powerhouse Saguaro High, which won its 12th state championship in 2018. He joined a team that included several high-profile recruits, such as cornerback Kelee Ringo. As a junior, Burke helped the program to an 11-2 finish (lost in the 2019 division championship). He recorded two interceptions and four receiving touchdowns. As a senior captain, he suffered a shoulder injury in the 2020 season opener, which required surgery and ended his high school career. Burke played basketball and ran track at Brophy, setting a personal best of 11.71 seconds in the 100 meters.

A four-star recruit, Burke was the ninth-ranked athlete in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 3 recruit in Arizona. After transferring to Saguaro following his sophomore season, he picked up his first scholarship offer from Auburn (March 2019). Burke continued to add FBS offers throughout his junior season before narrowing down his final choice to Colorado, Ohio State, Oregon, USC or Washington (his parents encouraged him to leave the state). He wasn't able to visit Columbus because of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, but he still committed to the Buckeyes the summer before his senior season.

Burke was the 18th-ranked recruit in head coach Ryan Day's star-studded 2021 class, which included Marvin Harrison Jr., JT Tuimoloau and several other high-profile players. He was listed as an athlete, but signed with the intention of playing defensive back. He became the first Ohio State true freshman since 1996 to start the season opener on defense (Andy Katzenmoyer). He had never played a game in which the temperature was below 60 degrees until college. Burke graduated with a degree in sports industry (Dec. 2024). He declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl, because of Ohio State's deep playoff run.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/13)	37	0	0	0	13	1	Freshman All-American; Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in PD; 23-yard INT TD; enrolled January 2021
2022: (11/11)	34	3	0	0	5	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed two games (shoulder, finger)
2023: (11/11)	24	3	0	1	9	1	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; led team in PD; missed two games (injuries)
2024: (16/16)	48	3	0	0	4	2	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in INT
Total: (51/51)	143	9	0	1	31	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5112	186	8 3/4	31 3/8	77 1/8	4.48	2.61	1.56	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5113	187	9 1/8	31 7/8	76	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Quick-footed, urgent athlete
- Able to click and close on throws in front of him
- Shadows well early in press-mirror technique
- Locates football well while working himself back into phase
- Looks to send message with physical approach in coverage and run support
- Showed clear improvements tackling in 2024
- Called for just one penalty in 2024 (pass interference vs. Michigan)
- Battle-tested mentally; has worked through several low points (his father eventually moved to Columbus to provide another support system)
- Coaches speak highly of his work behind the scenes (Jim Knowles: "He's coachable, he competes, he listens to what you have to say. ... He's always (responded) to every challenge since I've been here.")
- Regular on kickoff and punt return coverage past two seasons
- Finished with 51 career starts (most on Ohio State's title-winning team)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean, wiry body type, with only average deep speed
- Gets leggy and upright out of cuts, hindering change of direction and leaving him late to recover
- Struggled with Oregon's speed in 2024 regular season (40 percent of receiving yardage allowed in final season came in that game)
- Needs to better protect sticks with cushion from off coverage
- Ball production was very sporadic (just four passes defended in 2024)
- Lacks much experience inside defending slot
- Put some big hits on tape but has marginal finishing strength (especially against tight ends)
- Missed second half of Texas game because of shoulder injury (Jan. 2025); battled numerous injuries throughout 2022 season, including nerve damage in left shoulder from preseason camp and right index finger injury (Sept. 2022), which required surgery; separated shoulder (Oct. 2020) as high school senior, which required season-ending surgery

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Ohio State, Burke was primarily an outside cornerback in former defensive coordinator Jim Knowles' scheme (variations of Cover 1, Cover 3 and Cover 4 quarters). From setting an Ohio State record for true freshman snaps at cornerback to returning for his senior year and winning a national title, his career in Columbus ran the gamut and should have him emotionally prepared for the next level.

Burke stays aware in zone to balance his eyes between the backfield and route concepts, which forces indecision from the quarterback. Though he has man-cover tools, he is missing a consistent feel, which leads to separation and catches downfield or deep (see Oregon tape). Overall, Burke is missing a true distinguishing trait at a position that's heavily scouted based on the stopwatch and measuring tape, but he plays alert, physical and determined. He has a chance to earn a backup role in the NFL while fighting for starting reps.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

CB17 Robert Longerbeam

Rutgers, 5SR

HOMETOWN Alexandria, VA	HIGH SCHOOL T.C. Williams	BIRTHDAY Jan 18, 2001	AGE 24.26	HT 5110	WT 175	NUM #7
----------------------------	------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Robert Longerbeam, the youngest of five children (three girls, two boys), was born and raised in Florida with his parents (Jimmy and Alette). While growing up in a football family, he was always around the game from a young age and got his start in church flag football leagues at age 4. His father has been a high school football coach and special education teacher for almost 40 years, jobs that required the family to make frequent moves. Jimmy was head coach at Loris High in South Carolina (2007-10) for four seasons before accepting the head-coaching job at Panama City Bay High. Robert's older brother (Xavier) played quarterback for their father in high school before playing at Division II Livingstone College (2016-19). After posting a winning record over five seasons at Bay High (2011-15), Jimmy accepted the head-coaching position at T.C. Williams High, and the family relocated to Alexandria, Va. Following four seasons there (Robert's four years in high school), Jimmy moved on to Riverside High in Loudoun County in 2020 before becoming the head coach at Woodbridge in 2021. Robert's mother, a track coach, was a record-breaking sprinter and jumper at Deerfield Beach in Florida. Robert Longerbeam has three sisters: Jimiesha, Marcheta and Nakia.

After the family moved to Alexandria, Longerbeam enrolled at T.C. Williams — the school portrayed in the movie "Remember the Titans" — and played for his father. He was set to make an impact as a freshman but missed his first season after breaking his wrist. He returned for his sophomore season, only to suffer an almost identical injury in the 2017 opener and again missing the rest of the season. Longerbeam finally got on the field as a junior. Five games into the 2018 season, the coaches moved him from wide receiver to quarterback to try to give the team a spark. Longerbeam stayed at quarterback for his senior season and led T.C. Williams to an 8-4 record, including a first-round playoff win in the 2019 Class 6 state playoffs (the school's first postseason victory in 28 years). He was named first-team all-district, all-region and all-metro with 34 total touchdowns (17 passing, 17 rushing). Longerbeam also returned kicks and punts and played cornerback on defense, setting the school record with three interceptions in a single game. Voted homecoming king as a senior, Longerbeam also lettered in track and had personal bests of 10.81 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.03 in the 200 and 17 feet, 8 inches in the long jump.

A three-star recruit, Longerbeam was the 84th-ranked athlete in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 26 recruit in Virginia. After his junior season, he received his first FBS scholarship offer from UMass. A month later, Longerbeam was offered by Temple and committed to the Owls in April 2019. He stayed committed throughout his senior season, until a week before early signing day, when Rutgers swooped in with an offer. Longerbeam flipped to the Scarlet Knights and was the third-ranked recruit in head coach Greg Schiano's 2020 class. Longerbeam signed as a wide receiver and practiced primarily on offense during his first season before switching to cornerback late in the 2020 season. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for a fifth season.

Longerbeam was a four-time Academic All-Big Ten recipient and graduated with a degree in criminal justice (Dec. 2023). He is pursuing a second degree in criminology and wants to work for the FBI after his playing days. Longerbeam accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Enrolled January 2020
2021: (13/1)	30	0.0	0	2	10	0	First career start in bowl game; led team in PD
2022: (10/6)	36	2.0	1	1	8	2	Missed two games (injury)
2023: (13/13)	43	1.0	1	2	11	1	Led team in PD
2024: (12/11)	45	1.5	0	0	13	2	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in INT, PD; missed one game (injury); team captain
Total: (53/31)	154	4.5	2	5	42	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5110	175	8 1/2	31 1/2	76 1/2	4.39	2.59	1.55	36 1/2	11' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5107	174	8 1/2	31 5/8	76 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.25	6.76	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Outstanding straight-line speed with clean pedal mechanics
- Decelerates well for quick stops and redirects from off coverage
- Overlaps well in zone and processes route combinations
- Instincts help for quick reads when driving on throws
- Takes smart angles and plays through hands of receivers
- Able to pin against the sideline, turn and find the football
- Outstanding ball production (42 combined passes defended over the past four seasons)
- Game-clinching interception on the 2024 Virginia Tech tape
- Tougher than his size would suggest — special teams aren't beneath him
- Voted a 2024 team captain and is the son of a football coach

WEAKNESSES:

- Narrow-framed and slight with questionable core strength
- Tardy punching his way off size at wide receiver
- Lack of size shows up frequently in the run game (see 2024 Virginia Tech tape)
- Early contact will work against him (flagged for holding and pass interference on 2024 Illinois tape)
- Needs to improve discipline to avoid getting beat over the top
- Missed only a few games in college because of injury but lack of size will create durability concerns
- Overaged — already 24

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Rutgers, Longerbeam was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Joe Harasymiak's balanced scheme. A high school quarterback, he showed steady development over his career with the Scarlet Knights, leading the team in passes defended in three of the past four seasons.

An urgent athlete with ball skills, Longerbeam has above-average speed and the controlled movements to sink in his transitions and stay in phase at break points. Though he works hard to position himself in coverage, his issues matching up against bigger receivers and getting off blocks in run support make him a potential liability. Overall, Longerbeam is lean and underpowered, which won't be easy to mask against NFL size. His speed and athletic instincts are NFL-level quality, however, giving him a chance to earn a long-term role. He projects as a rookie backup with upside to be more.

GRADE: 5th round

CB18 Korie Black

Oklahoma State, 5SR

HOMETOWN Waco, TX	HIGH SCHOOL Connally	BIRTHDAY Jun 22, 2002	AGE 22.84	HT 6002	WT 192	NUM #2
----------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Korie Black was born in Kansas City, Kan., and grew up in Waco, Texas, with his parents (Keith and Kiesha). His father was a defensive back at Kansas State and also ran track in college, qualifying for the 1997 NCAA Indoor Championships in the 400 meters (45.80 seconds). Black was a multisport athlete and competed with his brothers throughout childhood. His older brother (Keith Jr.) played basketball at Ranger (Texas) Community College. His younger brother (Kobe) was a five-star cornerback recruit in the 2024 class and committed to Texas over Ohio State and Oklahoma.

Black attended Connally High in Waco, where he was a three-sport star. He moved up to varsity as a freshman and lettered all four years, playing both ways at wide receiver and cornerback. After earning second-team all-district honors as a sophomore, Black had his most productive season as a junior in 2018 with 33 tackles, seven interceptions and three forced fumbles, plus 27 catches for 468 yards and three touchdowns, helping Connally to an eight-win season. As a senior, he led Connally to a 12-1 record and the district championship. Black finished with 31 receptions for 513 receiving yards with 29 tackles, plus one interception, earning all-district honors for the third consecutive year. He also earned all-district honors as a guard on the basketball team and was a standout track athlete. Black was part of the 4x400 relay team that set a school record and had personal bests of 20 feet, 4 inches in the long jump, 38-7 in the triple jump and 50.37 seconds in the 400.

A three-star recruit, Black was the 40th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 73 recruit in Texas. He received his first offer during his freshman year from hometown Baylor, and an offer from Oklahoma State arrived two months later. His father's alma mater (Kansas State) offered him after his sophomore season, and he later added offers from Colorado, Missouri and several Big Ten programs (Minnesota, Nebraska, Purdue). The summer before his senior year, Black committed to Oklahoma State and was the eighth-ranked recruit in head coach Mike Gundy's 2020 class.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (10/0)	3	0.0	0	0	1	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (14/0)	19	0.0	0	0	2	0	Blocked FG
2022: (13/13)	25	1.5	0	1	4	0	38-yard blocked FG return TD
2023: (13/13)	17	1.0	0	1	6	1	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; blocked FG; missed bowl game (injury)
2024: (12/12)	36	0.0	0	0	12	3	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in INT, PD
Total: (62/38)	100	2.5	0	2	25	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6002	192	9 1/4	31 7/8	77 1/2	4.35	2.54	1.58	39	9'9"	4.34	7.01	15

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, long corner who matches up well with size on the outside
- Aggressive-minded and doesn't shy from bumping routes
- Uses size to shrink catch windows and plays through hands
- Reads eyes of receivers to find the ball with his back to the quarterback
- Solid tackling strength and will unload on ball carriers when driving downhill
- Blocked two field goals in college; returned another for a touchdown
- Durable — started 38 games

WEAKNESSES:

- Average acceleration burst when carrying receivers vertically
- Upright and late to transition when he allows receivers get on him too quickly
- Inconsistent balance in recovery attempts
- Can be baited into excess contact downfield (see matchup against Jack Bech on 2024 TCU tape)
- Will lose track of his route when his eyes get too nosy in backfield
- Left a few interception opportunities on the field

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Oklahoma State, Black was an outside cornerback in former defensive coordinator Bryan Nardo's scheme. It was painful at times watching the porous Cowboys defense in 2024 (allowed more than 500 yards per game), although Black was one of the few bright spots — he posted career-best numbers as a senior.

A good-sized athlete, Black is a rangy cover man who can work underneath routes in zone or squeeze receivers outside in man-to-man. Nuanced route runners cross him up, though, and he lacks the elite recovery agility to easily get back on track. Overall, Black needs to improve his eye discipline to better stay in phase, but NFL teams will like his physical attitude and length to match up in coverage or as a tackler.

GRADE: 5th round

CB19 Zy Alexander

LSU, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Loreauville, LA	Loreauville	Nov 26, 2001	23.41	6013	187	#14

BACKGROUND: A'Zyrian "Zy" Alexander was born and raised in the small town of Loreauville, La. (population of 685), with his mother. He started playing football at age 6, primarily as a quarterback. He also loved baseball growing up — that and football were the only two sports he played until high school.

Alexander attended Loreauville High, where he was a multisport standout. He became the rare freshman to start at quarterback on varsity and immediately made a name for himself with 1,347 passing yards, 225 rushing yards and 16 total touchdowns. As a sophomore, Alexander earned first-team all-district honors on both offense (quarterback) and defense (free safety). He was on pace for another big season as a junior, but he suffered a broken collarbone in Week 2 (Sept. 2018) and missed the rest of the season (Loreauville finished 1-9). Alexander returned healthy as a senior and again played both ways, leading the program to an 8-4 finish and the quarterfinals of the 2019 Class 2A state playoffs. He also saw time at wide receiver (his favorite position) and as a return man. Alexander was the leadoff hitter for the Loreauville baseball team and helped the team win the 2018 Class 2A state title as a sophomore. He also joined the basketball team as a junior, once his collarbone injury healed.

A no-star recruit, Alexander wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. He was on pace to blow up on the recruiting trail after productive freshman and sophomore seasons, but he missed his junior season because of injury. Despite the setback, Alexander picked up his first offer in the spring of his junior year from FCS Southeastern Louisiana. He added offers from Northwestern State and Grambling, which wanted him as a quarterback. But he committed to Southeastern Louisiana in November 2019.

He was given the choice of offense or defense and elected to play defensive back. Southeastern Louisiana also told him he could be a dual-sport athlete and play baseball, but he elected to focus on football. After becoming an All-American at the FCS level, Alexander entered the transfer portal in December 2022. He immediately heard from several then-Power 5 programs, including Baylor, Houston, Miami, Michigan State, USC and West Virginia. But Alexander had always dreamed of playing at LSU, which made his decision easy once the Tigers offered. He graduated with a degree in sports administration (Dec. 2024). Alexander accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/4)	29	0.0	0	1	0	0	SE Louisiana; season played in spring 2021
2021: (13/13)	39	0.0	0	1	13	6	SE Louisiana; Second Team All-American; First Team All-Southland
2022: (12/12)	27	0.0	0	0	7	3	SE Louisiana; First Team All-Southland; 48-yard INT TD; 47-yard INT TD
2023: (8/8)	44	0.0	0	0	9	2	LSU; missed final five games (left knee)
2024: (11/10)	33	2.5	1	0	6	2	LSU
Total: (50/47)	172	2.5	1	2	35	13

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6013	187	9 1/4	31	77 1/2	4.56	2.68	1.60	31 1/2	9' 8"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6011	189	9 5/8	31 1/2	75 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tall, lanky athlete with functional arm length
- Can turn, open and track football vertically from press
- Runs with quiet, long strides to cover more ground than it seems
- Outstanding ball skills to locate and become an offensive player
- Affects catch point in different ways, raking the ball out
- Multiple interceptions each of the past four seasons (13 in his career)
- Penalized as many times in 2024 as you were (zero)
- Strong spatial awareness when crashing down as a run defender
- Owns rangy tackling radius to be a consistent finisher

WEAKNESSES:

- Top-end speed is lacking; will lose foot races downfield
- Can get dusted at the line when he can't jam or guesses wrong
- Inconsistent in lateral transitions and doesn't always trust his technique
- High center of gravity, which creates rigidity in his change of direction
- Tick late to gear down and can be run off the top of routes
- Torn ACL in his left knee (Oct. 2023), missed second half of junior season

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at LSU, Alexander was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Blake Baker's multiple coverage scheme. Primarily a quarterback in high school, he transitioned to the secondary in the FCS before shining in the SEC, allowing just 43.5 percent completions in 2024 (after returning from his knee injury).

With his length, Alexander smothers routes early and stays attached in his turn and run to shrink the passing windows for the quarterback. He pattern matches well and trusts his athletic instincts, although shifty receivers can uncover quickly, and he lacks ideal recovery speed. Overall, Alexander won't be an ideal fit for every scheme, but he has the athleticism, body length and ball skills to compete for a starting role in Cover 3. Because of his run-support skills, several NFL teams view him as a better fit at safety.

GRADE: 5th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Pensacola, FL	Pine Forest	Nov 29, 2001	23.40	5102	191	#20

BACKGROUND: Dacarrion "Mac" McWilliams grew up in Pensacola, Fla., with his parents. He developed a love for football from a young age, while playing for the Pensacola Browns pee wee team, and it quickly became his dream to play in the NFL. He was "always a wide receiver" growing up and became childhood friends with Devon Witherspoon, the No. 5 pick in the 2023 NFL Draft (Seattle Seahawks). McWilliams' brother (Fish), who is 18 months older, influenced his football journey. Fish played at West Florida High, so the two didn't play together in high school, but they reunited at UAB. Fish was a defensive lineman for the Blazers (2018-23); the brothers both served as team captains in 2023.

McWilliams attended Pine Forest High in Pensacola, where he was teammates with Witherspoon and Martin Emerson (Cleveland Browns). He started out on the freshman team before moving up to JV, primarily as a wide receiver. After seeing varsity action on offense as a sophomore, McWilliams made the transition to defensive back as a junior in 2018 and posted 61 tackles and three interceptions, playing in the same secondary as Witherspoon and Emerson. With Witherspoon off to Illinois and Emerson to Mississippi State, McWilliams became the defensive leader as a senior, helping Pine Forest to an 8-3 record and the 2019 5A district title. He finished his final season with 60 tackles, two forced fumbles and eight interceptions (218 interception return yards and five touchdowns). McWilliams added a punt return touchdown and kick return touchdown in 2019. He also lettered in basketball and track. He qualified for the 2019 state championships in the 100 meters (personal-best time of 11.10 seconds).

A two-star recruit, McWilliams was the 240th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 352 recruit in Florida. Having so many eyes on Witherspoon and Emerson in the same secondary helped McWilliams get noticed by college programs, as he transitioned to cornerback in 2018. After his junior season, McWilliams collected FBS offers from Coastal Carolina, Jacksonville State, Marshall, Middle Tennessee, South Alabama, Southern Miss, Troy and Western Kentucky. With his older brother at UAB, though, he was drawn to the Blazers' offer and committed the summer before his senior season. He was the 15th-ranked recruit in UAB's 2020 class.

After four years, he entered the transfer portal (April 2024) and "felt the most love" from UCF. McWilliams accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	6	0.0	0	0	0	0	UAB; redshirted
2021: (8/6)	24	3.0	0	0	4	0	UAB; CUSA All-Freshman; missed five games (thumb)
2022: (7/7)	19	1.0	0	0	11	1	UAB; 78-yard INT TD; missed final six games (leg)
2023: (12/12)	52	2.0	0	1	9	0	UAB; team captain
2024: (11/11)	32	6.5	1	1	3	1	UCF; missed one game (injury)
Total: (42/36)	133	12.5	1	2	27	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5102	191	8 3/8	29 7/8	72 5/8	4.41	2.58	1.53	34	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5101	202	8 5/8	30	72 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	12

STRENGTHS:

- Excellent speed and transitional quickness in both man/zone coverage
- Open-field movements are abrupt and clean (very strong positional work at combine)
- Patient in process and doesn't panic downfield (zero penalties in 2024)
- Has a knack for raking ball out of receiver's hands and creating late disruption
- Former wide receiver; caught the ball naturally in the gauntlet
- Sudden out of his pedal to drive on throws in front of him
- Quick to support the run, both outside numbers and in the nickel
- Played on kick coverage and brings punt return experience (11.6 yards per return)

WEAKNESSES:

- Average size and falls below desired arm/hand measurements
- Stays focused on face-guarding and doesn't consistently get head turned
- Needs to become more confident with look-and-lean techniques
- Can be outmatched in jump-ball situations
- Finds himself stuck on perimeter blocks
- Missed five games as freshman because of thumb injury (Oct. 2021); missed final six games as sophomore with leg injury (Oct. 2022); missed BYU game as senior because of injury (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at UCF, McWilliams played outside cornerback in former defensive coordinator Addison Williams' multiple coverage scheme (Cover 2, Cover 3 and press man). He played outside at UAB in 2022 before moving to the slot in 2023, then back outside after transferring to UCF for his senior season — he was outstanding inside and outside during Senior Bowl practices.

McWilliams moves with controlled feet to mirror early and the deep speed to stay within arm's length deep (didn't allow a catch of more than 20 yards in 2024; allowed just two longer than 15 yards). Though he shows disruptive instincts, you'd like to see him find the ball to create interception opportunities for himself. Overall, McWilliams lacks ideal length to match up with size on the outside, but he fits well in the slot with his stop-start quickness to stay attached and play through the hands of targets. He is ready to compete for an immediate role as an NFL rookie.

GRADE: 5th round

CB21 Upton Stout

Western Kentucky, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Houston, TX	North Shore	Jan 09, 2002	23.29	5084	181	#21

BACKGROUND: Upton Stout grew up in the Houston area with his parents (Bryan and Helen). He got involved with sports at age 6 and developed an early love for football. In middle school, he played for the Eagles in the Humble football league and ran track. Stout started designing his own clothes as a high school sophomore and now has his own apparel line (Lazywayz), which was popular on the Western Kentucky campus.

Stout attended North Shore Senior High in Harris County, Texas, which has produced dozens of pros, including active NFL edge rushers Dorance Armstrong and K'Lavon Chaisson. After becoming a starting cornerback on varsity as a sophomore in 2017, he helped North Shore to an undefeated 16-0 record and the 2018 6A Division I state championship (five-star running back Zach Evans was the star of the team). Stout earned first-team all-district honors as a junior with 20 tackles, 17 pass breakups and three interceptions (one returned for a touchdown). As a senior in 2019, he moved around the secondary (saw nickel and safety snaps) and was named first-team all-state, leading North Shore to a 15-1 record and back-to-back state titles. Stout finished his final season with 12 pass breakups and five interceptions. He also lettered all four years in track and had a personal best of 39.53 seconds in the 300-meter hurdles.

A three-star recruit, Stout was the 148th-ranked safety in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 267 recruit in Texas. After he helped North Shore to a state title as a junior, he picked up his first scholarship offer from Utah State (Jan. 2019). Over the next few months, Stout added offers from Louisiana-Monroe, New Mexico, South Alabama, UTSA, Wyoming and several FCS programs before committing to Utah State in June 2019. Late in his senior season, he flipped to North Texas (Nov. 2019). Stout was the ninth-ranked recruit in the Mean Green's 2020 class.

After two seasons in the program, he entered the transfer portal in November 2021. His best option was FCS Montana State until Western Kentucky entered the mix — he became an immediate starter for the Hilltoppers.

Following his standout 2023 season, Stout entered the transfer portal again and looked to capitalize on NIL opportunities to help his family. He received offers from SEC (Ole Miss), Big Ten (Michigan, USC), Big 12 (Cincinnati, Houston) and ACC (Pittsburgh, Virginia Tech, West Virginia) programs. His decision came down to Michigan or returning to Western Kentucky, a decision that became easier after Jim Harbaugh, Jesse Minter and Ben Herbert left for the Los Angeles Chargers. Stout graduated with a degree from Western Kentucky (Dec. 2023). He opted out of Western Kentucky's bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (8/3)	35	0.5	0.0	0	3	0	North Texas; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (4/2)	6	0.0	0.0	0	1	0	North Texas; redshirted
2022: (14/11)	44	0.5	0.0	0	6	4	Western Kentucky; Honorable Mention All-CUSA; led team in INT; 34-yard INT TD
2023: (7/6)	29	1.5	0.5	1	9	1	Western Kentucky; led team in PD; 53-yard INT TD; missed six games (shoulder)
2024: (12/12)	52	7.5	1.0	0	2	1	Western Kentucky; First Team All-CUSA; missed two games
Total: (45/34)	166	10.0	1.5	1	21	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5084	181	9	30	74 3/8	4.44	2.59	1.56	37 1/2	10' 8"	4.29	DNP	21
PRO DAY	DNP	187	9 1/8	30 5/8	73	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Fluid body movements and controlled footwork in man-to-man
- Enough speed to stay in phase when carrying crossers or getting vertical
- 19.47 mph during gauntlet was fastest among defensive backs at combine
- Physical and sudden in click and close
- Sniffs out screen game well and makes stops at or behind line
- Plays bigger than his size suggests as break-down tackler
- Smaller-framed player but has decent wingspan to finish wrap tackles

- Competitive play style jumps off tape
- Played on kick and punt return coverages in 2024
- Led all defensive backs with 21 reps on bench press at combine
- Experienced lining up both inside and outside

WEAKNESSES:

- Short, lean frame falls below height/weight thresholds for several teams
- Doesn't have elite recovery speed to easily make up ground
- More pesky than powerful
- Not a deterrent on fades or downfield throws — high ball location will exploit his size
- Will get handsy or wrap arm around receivers (flagged for defensive holding on 2024 Alabama and Toledo tapes)
- Tough to find ball production on 2024 tape
- Will get stuck on blocks near line of scrimmage
- Missed six games as junior because of shoulder injury (Oct. 2023)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Western Kentucky, Stout lined up at nickel cornerback in defensive coordinator Tyson Summers' scheme. After playing primarily on the outside his first four years in college, he moved inside for his senior season and raised his NFL profile (his ball production fell off in 2024, but he didn't see nearly as many targets).

In coverage, Stout has a balanced pedal and pitter-pat footwork to cleanly mirror and stay attached to different types of route runners. His aggressive nature gives him a noticeable swagger versus both pass and run (he prefers press man to off man, because he wants in on the action). That aggressiveness will lead to flags and overzealous decisions, though. Overall, Stout's lack of inches shows versus size in coverage, but so does his competitive urgency and controlled movements in all areas of the position. He projects as a slot cornerback who can be a role player similar to Avonte Maddox.

GRADE: 5th round

CB22 Tommi Hill

Nebraska, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Orlando, FL	Edgewater	Mar 21, 2002	23.09	6004	213	#6

BACKGROUND: Tommi Hill, who has two sisters, grew up in Tarpon Springs, Fla. (30 miles north of Tampa), with his mother (Loretosha Wallace). He first started playing pee wee football at age 6 as a running back. After a tumultuous childhood, Hill was raised by his uncle (Doug) and his uncle's wife (Denise) in Orlando. Doug, who was a coach, got Hill involved in Pop Warner football, where he started to excel as a wide receiver.

Hill also developed a close relationship with Dr. Demetrius Crane, who helped him catch up on his academics (he was two years behind in school). As a high school senior, Hill lived with the family of his friend (Kye Rivers), whose father (John Glenn) became Hill's godfather.

Hill enrolled at Evans High in Pine Hills, Fla., (north of Orlando) for his freshman year and played wide receiver. He also played for the Pop Warner Unlimited team as a freshman (coached by his uncle), where he learned how to play cornerback. Before his sophomore year, Hill transferred to Edgewater High in Orlando and caught passes in 2018 from quarterback RJ Harvey (running back and 2025 NFL Draft prospect from UCF). He played both ways as a wide receiver and cornerback over his three varsity seasons and helped Edgewater to back-to-back appearances in the 7A state championship game in 2019 and 2020 (lost to St. Thomas Aquinas both times). Over his junior and senior seasons, Hill earned all-state honors and combined for 85 catches for 1,586 yards and 14 touchdowns, along with 22 tackles and four interceptions. He was a Central Florida All-Star in 7-on-7 and trained with Lo Wood. Hill lettered in track and had personal bests of 11.12 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.67 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Hill was the 12th-ranked athlete in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 32 recruit in Florida. He received his first scholarship offer from Florida State during his freshman year of high school. Several major programs reached out with offers after he transferred to Edgewater, including Alabama, Kentucky and Ohio State. Hill announced a final five of Georgia, Oklahoma and Ohio State (as a receiver) and Arizona State and Nebraska (as a cornerback). He decided his best spot would be on defense, and he was attracted to the culture Herm Edwards, Antonio Pierce and Chris Hawkins were attempting to build at Arizona State. Hill was the second-ranked recruit in Edwards' 2021 class. After one season, Hill entered the transfer portal and signed with Nebraska. He started as a cornerback in 2022 before switching to play wide receiver over the second half of the season. Hill again saw action on offense in 2023 before focusing on defense in 2024. He is majoring in child, youth and family studies and made the Nebraska Scholar-Athlete Honor Roll in 2023. Hill accepted an invitation to the Senior Bowl

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (11/1)	9	0.0	0	0	0	0	Arizona State; enrolled January 2021
2022: (11/5)	17	0.0	0	0	4	0	Nebraska
2023: (12/8)	26	0.5	0	0	13	4	Nebraska; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (7/5)	21	0.5	0	0	2	1	Nebraska; 7-yard INT TD; missed six games (foot)
Total: (41/19)	73	1.0	0	0	19	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6004	213	9	32 7/8	79 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Built like muscled-up safety with long arms
- Loves to compete, almost to his detriment — coaches had to force him to shut things down in 2024 because of injury
- Can smother in press or close space and stay attached from off technique
- Picks up on bait routes in zone; quickly deciphers spacing required
- Has speed to carry deep routes
- Looks natural attacking football and making plays (see 2023 tape)
- Willing striker who loads up behind pads to detach ball from man
- Quickly gets busy in run support
- Averaged 20.2 yards on kickoff returns (22 attempts for 444 yards)

WEAKNESSES:

- found too much success targeting him in 2024
- Can be caught leaning; needs to hone press-man techniques to avoid getting beat by savvy releases
- Transition quickness from pedal is a tad labored
- Struggles to make up ground once he concedes a step
- Average drive quickness
- Inconsistent break-down process when working downhill as tackler (see 2024 USC tape)
- Rarely got chance to blitz
- Battled plantar fascia inflammation in left foot most of 2024, missing six games — tried to play through it rest of season (and at Senior Bowl)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Nebraska, Hill was the boundary cornerback in former defensive coordinator Tony White's scheme. He had a challenging upbringing, and football has always been his escape.

He got off to a hot start during his senior season at Nebraska (only player with a pick six against Colorado's Shedeur Sanders), but he will be a tough evaluation because the rest of his 2024 tape (including the Senior Bowl) was disappointing, as he attempted to play through a foot injury. Though that might not have been the smartest move, Hill's drive to push through pain says a lot about his football character. Overall, Hill is a good-sized man corner with the competitiveness and athleticism to push for early playing time in the NFL. Drafting him will require a leap of faith that he'll return to his 2023 form, but it won't be surprising if he outplays his draft spot.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

CB23 Zah Frazier

UTSA, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Cedartown, GA	Cedartown	Oct 05, 2000	24.55	6027	186	#3

BACKGROUND: Zahquan "Zah" (Zay) Frazier, who has an older sister (Deazjah) and younger sister (Nakedria), was born and raised in Cedartown, Ga. (near the Alabama border), with his parents (Arnesha Frazier and Marcus Turner). He played football and other sports growing up, but basketball was his main love, and he had dreams of playing in the NBA.

Frazier attended Cedartown High, alma mater of running back Nick Chubb, whom Frazier knows well. He was still basketball-focused in high school and played on the varsity team all four seasons. Frazier also played football — he spent his first year on the freshman team, then joined JV as a sophomore. He earned a spot on varsity as a junior wide receiver and cornerback and took home all-region honors, helping Cedartown to a 9-3 record in 2017. As a senior captain, Frazier earned honorable-mention all-area honors. He combined for 93 tackles and 10 interceptions over his two varsity seasons. He also ran track in high school and qualified for the state championships in the 400 meters. Frazier had personal bests of 43 feet in the triple jump, 5-6 in the high jump, 23.07 seconds in the 200 meters, 50.98 in the 400 and 2:20.28 in the 800.

A no-star recruit, Frazier wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class. He didn't switch his focus from basketball to football until his senior year, so he was behind on the recruiting trail. Frazier was deciding between a few Division II and junior college offers until FCS Southern Illinois swooped in and offered a late scholarship before signing day. Frazier redshirted in 2019, but he was looking for more playing time and transferred to Coffeyville (Kan.) Community College. After posting three interceptions in 2020, Frazier was named a juco All-American in 2021 and was a three-star recruit.

The offers started to pour in from several major programs, including Indiana, Kentucky, Nebraska, Tennessee, Texas Tech and Washington. Frazier narrowed his final choice to Mississippi State, Utah and UTSA before picking the Roadrunners, because of the coaching staff. He is considered the highest-ranked recruit in school history. Frazier graduated with a degree in multidisciplinary studies (May 2024). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	1	0	0	0	0	0	Southern Illinois; redshirted
2020: (-/-)							Coffeyville (Kan.) Community College
2021: (-/-)							Coffeyville (Kan.) Community College
2022: (12/0)	7	0	0	0	0	0	UTSA
2023: (5/0)	3	0	0	0	1	0	UTSA
2024: (12/10)	24	1	0	1	15	6	UTSA; First Team All-AAC; led AAC in INT, PD; school single-season INT record; missed one game
Total: (33/10)	35	1	0	1	16	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6027	186	8 1/4	32 7/8	80 1/8	4.36	2.51	1.47	36 1/2	10' 6"	4.26	7.00	DNP
PRO DAY	6025	184	8 3/8	33	80 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	37	DNP	DNP	DNP	14

STRENGTHS:

- Outstanding height and arm length for position
- Above-average timed and play speed, picking up momentum as he goes
- Closes distance in a blink with light, long strides
- Tracks ball well with a go-and-get-it gear down the field
- Looks like wide receiver playing ball in air
- Returns eyes to backfield — not shy coming off man to make plays
- Steady in mirror techniques to cover up receivers off the line
- Lags are minimal when flipping hips at top of routes
- Not a high-volume tackler but also rarely missed tackles on tape
- First in school history with six or more interceptions in a season

WEAKNESSES:

- Super slender, with sprinter's build and small hands
- More of a build-up runner, which allows quick receivers to create pockets of initial separation
- Long legs can get tied up at times with quick direction changes
- Inconsistent pattern recognition — you'd like to see better anticipation from him
- Undisciplined eyes from depth and can be manipulated
- Needs to improve leverage and strike zone as tackler
- Only 10 return yards on six interceptions
- Overaged, with just one year of starting experience

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at UTSA, Frazier was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Jess Loepp's balanced scheme. A hooper growing up, he bloomed late on the football field, making stops at the FCS and juco levels. He broke out in 2024 with six interceptions (No. 2 in the FBS), a UTSA program record. Most of his 2024 production came in a span of three games against East Carolina, North Texas and Temple (11 passes defended, six INTs), and he was inconsistent against better competition on the schedule (see Texas tape).

Frazier has a rare combination of length, speed and on-ball production (even if it is a small sample). His tall, upright posture will work against him at times, especially when he prematurely turns his hips and invites route runners to attack his blind spot. Overall, Frazier is a long, lean bump-and-run corner with the speed and coordination to cling to receivers and find the football, when his technique stays consistent. There isn't much mystery why a team might feel he is worth the gamble on Day 3 of the draft.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

CB24 Marcus Harris

California, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Portland, OR	Grant	Mar 06, 2001	24.13	5106	188	#5

BACKGROUND: Marcus Harris grew up in the Portland, Ore., area with his parents. His father (Diallo Lewis), who attended Portland State on a football scholarship, is a longtime football coach and served as head coach at Grant High for 10 years. He resigned just as Harris started high school to become the school's vice principal and currently serves as assistant director of athletics for Portland public schools. Harris' brother (Chris Lewis) played football at Northern Arizona. Harris played multiple sports growing up, including football in Pop Warner and at King Middle School.

Harris enrolled at Grant High, where he was a multisport athlete. He played both ways on the football field at cornerback and wide receiver. After helping the team to a playoff berth in 2016 as a sophomore, Harris became one of the team leaders as a junior. He posted five interceptions and four receiving touchdowns, helping Grant to an 8-3 record. As a senior, he earned all-region honors. Harris also lettered in basketball and track, finishing third in the 100 meters and second in the 200 at the 2019 Class 6A state championships. He had personal bests of 10.78 seconds in the 100 and 22.06 in the 200.

A two-star recruit, Harris was the 284th-ranked athlete in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 51 recruit in Oregon. Weighing just 160 pounds, he struggled to garner serious looks from college recruiters. Harris accepted a preferred walk-on spot at Oregon State and redshirted in 2019 before sitting out the 2020 season because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Searching for more playing time, he entered the transfer portal and landed at Idaho just as the 2021 spring season started.

After three seasons at Idaho, Harris entered the transfer portal (Dec. 2023). He immediately heard from dozens of schools, including Cincinnati, Louisville, Penn State and Wisconsin. But the chance to stay on the West Coast appealed to him, and he signed with Cal for his final season. Harris graduated with a degree in psychology from Idaho (May 2023). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Oregon State
2020: (4/0)	4	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Oregon State; opted out of fall season; transferred to Idaho for spring season
2021: (11/0)	46	1.0	0.0	1	8	1	Idaho
2022: (12/12)	53	2.5	0.0	1	14	2	Idaho; Second Team All-Big Sky; 56-yard INT TD; fumble-return TD; blocked PAT
2023: (13/13)	51	5.5	0.5	0	13	3	Idaho; First Team All-American; First Team All-Big Sky; 70-yard INT TD
2024: (13/12)	46	2.5	0.0	1	7	2	California
Total: (53/37)	200	11.5	0.5	3	42	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5106	189	8 7/8	29 3/4	75	4.45	2.60	1.57	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5106	188	8 3/4	30 1/4	74 3/8	4.38	2.61	1.55	36 1/2	10'0"	4.25	7.13	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Efficient change-of-direction skills to turn and run with ease
- Smooth in pedal mechanics for sleek transitions
- Technically sound with his hands when playing through hands of receivers
- Ability to get hands on the ball is reflected in stat sheet (42 passes defended the past four seasons)
- You'll wish he looked for the ball more, but he doesn't panic on deep throws
- Sees what he hits as tackler, which helps limit misses
- Average size but fearless lowering pads into contact
- Regular on kick and punt return coverages (also blocked an extra point in 2022)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks elite size measurements with shorter-than-ideal arms
- Lower-body mechanics aren't always consistent, which leads to excess space
- Size on the outside gave him occasional trouble
- Slight lag at the drive phase when in off coverage
- Can get caught too far over the top in man, allowing routes to get underneath
- Allowed at least one catch of 20 yards or more in five of seven 2024 tapes charted
- Older prospect with only one season of starting experience at FBS level

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Cal, Harris lined up primarily at left cornerback in head coach Justin Wilcox's scheme. A former preferred walk-on at Oregon State, he made a name for himself at Idaho (school-record 35 passes defended) and fit in well at Cal opposite Nohl Williams in 2024. Capable of playing a mix of press and off, Harris moves fairly effortlessly in all areas of the field to turn and run with receivers or work down and get physical against the run.

Though he looks natural making plays on the football, he needs to clean up his route-mirroring mechanics early and at the top of routes. Overall, Harris needs to improve some of his spacing issues in coverage, but he has legit speed and ball skills that will serve him well in the NFL. He falls in the "there is something promising here" category of prospects.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

HOMETOWN Suwanee, GA	HIGH SCHOOL North Gwinnett	BIRTHDAY Aug 12, 2003	AGE 21.70	HT 6001	WT 186	NUM #7
-------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Jordan Hancock, the youngest of four children, grew up in the Atlanta suburb of Suwanee, Ga., with his parents (Kenneth and Benita), who are both in sales. Benita was diagnosed with breast cancer and underwent radiation treatment, which proved successful — she was declared cancer-free in May 2020.

From a young age, Hancock was a standout athlete in several sports, including football and basketball, his "first love." He often played a grade level up to face better competition and was both a quarterback and defensive back in football. In seventh-grade basketball, Hancock was named team MVP and led his team to the Gwinnett Basketball League Championship (he could dunk at 5-foot-7 in middle school).

Hancock enrolled at North Gwinnett High, where he was teammates with several future NFL Draft picks (wide receiver Josh Downs, defensive back DJ Turner) and 2025 draft prospects (linebacker Barrett Carter, defensive lineman Jared Ivey). As a freshman, he played on varsity at cornerback and was part of a team that finished 14-1 and won the 2017 7A state championship. Hancock helped the team to its third straight regional title as a junior, earning 2019 all-region honors with 15 tackles, 12 passes defended, two interceptions and one forced fumble. With both of his parents considered "high risk" for COVID-19 because of underlying health conditions, Hancock originally opted out of his final season in 2020. However, he returned to the team midway through the year and collected four passes defended and one interception over the final five games. Hancock also lettered in basketball and track.

A four-star recruit, Hancock was the fifth-ranked cornerback in the 2021 recruiting class (two spots ahead of Nate Wiggins) and the No. 9 recruit in Georgia. He was the No. 73 recruit nationally. He initially planned to pursue a basketball scholarship, but his focus shifted during his freshman year when Mel Tucker (then defensive coordinator at Georgia) told his coaches he believed Hancock would be a big-time football recruit (Tucker later recruited him at Colorado). After his sophomore season, Hancock received his first scholarship offer from Kentucky (Jan. 2019). The floodgates opened during his junior season, as he added almost 50 offers, including from Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Michigan, Notre Dame and Texas. Hancock initially committed to Clemson in March 2020, his desire to stay close to home being a major factor. However, after his mother's successful cancer treatment, the family felt better about Hancock attending college further away. He had grown up an admirer of Ohio State's secondary and officially flipped to the Buckeyes in July 2020. Hancock was the eighth-ranked recruit in head coach Ryan Day's 2020 class. He was a two-time Ohio State Scholar-Athlete. Hancock declined his invitation to the Senior Bowl, because of Ohio State's deep playoff run.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (6/0)	4	0.0	0.0	0	1	0	Enrolled June 2021
2022: (6/1)	5	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Missed seven games (hamstring)
2023: (13/6)	41	2.0	2.0	2	6	2
2024: (16/15)	48	1.5	0.5	2	9	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (41/22)	98	3.5	2.5	4	16	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6001	195	8 5/8	30 3/4	76 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6001	186	8 3/4	31 5/8	75 1/2	4.45	2.55	1.52	41 1/2	10'6"	DNP	DNP	14

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized frame with workable strength
- Able to shade routes and force quarterbacks to rethink throws
- Quiet feet to answer different types of route runners
- Improved eye use to pick up passing clues
- Tackling really improved as 2024 season progressed
- Terrific pursuit effort; always looks for chances to rip ball loose (see 2024 Michigan State tape)
- Plays chippy and ready for battle (Ryan Day: "He's extremely competitive.")
- Willing to do whatever coaches wanted and doesn't back down from challenges
- Versatile experience outside, inside and at safety

WEAKNESSES:

- Lacks elite top-end speed by NFL standards
- Upright in pedal and transitions, disrupting balance in turns
- Impatient in press and doesn't trust twitch, which leads to early losses at line
- Not shy grabbing to slow down speed routes that gain upper hand
- Flagged for critical holding penalty on 2024 Oregon tape, which set up game-winning play
- Aggressive run fits but lack of discipline will sacrifice contain duties at times
- Torn hamstring (Aug. 2022 while covering Jaxon Smith-Njigba during preseason camp) — missed first half of 2022 season and was considered 70 percent for second half

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Ohio State, Hancock played nickel cornerback in former defensive coordinator Jim Knowles' scheme (variations of Cover 1, Cover 3 and Cover 4 quarters). He also filled in at free safety when Lathan Ransom was banged up, and the coaches considered him an interchangeable defender across the secondary.

Hancock plays with the size, strength and attitude of an NFL nickel and turned himself from a so-so tackler to an above-average run defender. In coverage, he falls behind too often from press and sees the field better from depth. Overall, Hancock is a quick and physical defender with versatile experience, although his average speed and below-average balance when turning and phasing routes will be an issue against NFL slots. His best pro position might be as a safety who can provide depth at different spots in the secondary.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

CB26 Cobee Bryant

Kansas, 5SR

HOMETOWN Evergreen, AL	HIGH SCHOOL Hillcrest	BIRTHDAY Sep 17, 2001	AGE 23.60	HT 6000	WT 180	NUM #2
---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: JaCobee "Cobee" Bryant grew up in Conecuh County, Ala., with his parents (Tammy Ingram and Jaycee Bryant), who named him after NBA legend Kobe Bryant. He was introduced to football by his father at age 3, but he also got involved with several other sports throughout childhood. Football became Bryant's escape growing up.

Bryant enrolled at Hillcrest High in Evergreen, where he was a four-year letterman and played both ways as a wide receiver and cornerback. He became a starter as a sophomore and helped the program to a 14-1 finish, including the 2017 3A state championship. He earned second-team all-state honors as a sophomore with 32 tackles and five interceptions (one returned for a touchdown). As a junior, Bryant was first-team all-state with 26 tackles, eight interceptions and 279 interception return yards (two touchdowns), adding 29 receptions for 493 yards and five touchdowns. He also had a 60-yard kick return for a touchdown. Bryant returned for his senior season but missed most of the year because of a broken ankle. He also lettered in baseball, track and basketball, earning all-region honors on the court in 2018.

A three-star recruit, Bryant was the 40th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 23 recruit in Alabama. He started taking recruiting visits during his sophomore year, including to Louisville (Jaire Alexander was his host). After his productive junior season, Bryant added offers from Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, Ole Miss, Tennessee and Virginia Tech. The summer before his senior season, he committed to the Jayhawks and former head coach Les Miles. Bryant was the fourth-ranked recruit in Miles' 2020 class. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Redshirted
2021: (11/7)	21	1.0	0.0	0	3	2	31-yard INT TD
2022: (12/11)	38	0.5	0.0	1	12	3	First Team All-Big 12; led team in INT, PD; blocked FG return TD; 86-yard INT TD; missed one game (left ankle)
2023: (13/12)	32	5.0	1.0	1	9	4	First Team All-Big 12; led team in INT; 22-yard FR TD
2024: (12/12)	37	3.5	0.5	1	11	4	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big 12
Total: (48/42)	128	10.0	1.5	3	35	13

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6000	180	9 1/4	31 1/4	77	4.53	2.60	1.56	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5116	178	9 1/8	31 3/4	76 1/2	4.55	2.64	1.64	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Elite competitor — NFL coaches will like the way he is wired
- Explosive straight-line burst to click and close
- Quick to key/read route breaks from off coverage; drives and disrupts catch point
- Finds football almost immediately once he turns his head
- Shows WR-level hand-eye coordination (see one-handed interception on 2023 Cincinnati tape)
- Multiple interceptions each of past four seasons (tied school record with three in one game)
- Loves to chirp and has a gift for gab, on and off the field (hosts his own podcast called "Kickin' it with Cobee")
- Highly physical and won't hold back (see his hit-stick forced fumble on 2023 BYU tape)
- Genuinely appears to love run-support duties and had very few missed tackles for an "undersized" corner
- Scored four touchdowns in three different ways in college (interception return, fumble return, blocked field goal return)

WEAKNESSES:

- Narrow frame with very thin limbs and average play strength
- Average speed by NFL standards, especially when attempting to recover
- Bites on initial breaks and will get beat by double moves (allowed six catches of 25 yards or more in 2024)
- Too eager at times to prove how physical he is, leading to penalties
- Flagged 18 times over his career, including five times in 2024 (two pass interference, two defensive holds, one personal foul)
- Hard to find many blitzing reps
- Played primarily on the outside and doesn't have a ton of career slot snaps
- Missed only one game in college (left ankle injury, Oct. 2022), although his size will lead to durability concerns for some

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Kansas, Bryant was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Brian Borland's multiple coverage scheme. He became the first Jayhawk named first-team All-Big 12 in three consecutive seasons and finished with 13 career interceptions (tied with Aqib Talib for second most in school history). With his quick trigger to close on plays in coverage and the run game, Bryant has splashy tape — you can feel his alpha energy on the screen.

Though his ingrained aggressiveness is what makes him appealing as a pro prospect, that play style will inevitably lead to penalties and loose moments, especially in coverage. Overall, some NFL teams won't be able to reconcile the slight frame and average speed, but Bryant's decisive reactor, ball skills and dog mentality are promising ingredients at the position. He can press, although he is at his best in zone and off coverage.

GRADE: 6th round

CB27 Justin Walley

Minnesota, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
D'Iberville, MS	D'Iberville	Sep 22, 2002	22.59	5101	190	#5

BACKGROUND: Justin Walley (WALL-ee), the middle of three boys, was raised in Greene County before his family relocated to D'Iberville, Miss. (part of the Gulfport-Biloxi Metro area), before high school. His father (Oliver Walley) was a basketball and track athlete; his mother (Kandice McCann) earned scholarships for basketball and softball at Jones College. His older brother (Jaden) was a Freshman All-SEC wide receiver at Mississippi State and played five years in Starkville (2020-24). Looking to follow in Jaden's footsteps growing up, Justin Walley started playing flag football at age 6 for the Vikings, then the Pop Warner Bearcats. He also has a cousin (Dee McCann) who played cornerback at Jones County Junior College and West Virginia before stints with the Detroit Lions (2006) and Minnesota Vikings (2007-08).

Walley enrolled at D'Iberville High, where he was a four-year varsity letterman at cornerback. After posting 46 tackles and one interception as a freshman, he earned all-conference honors as a sophomore with 43 tackles, four interceptions (one returned for a touchdown) and one forced fumble. As a junior, Walley backed up his older brother at running back (348 rushing yards) and accounted for 74 tackles, seven forced fumbles and one interception (also blocked two punts and one field goal). As a senior, he became the featured running back and was named Class 6A Mississippi Mr. Football, as he led D'Iberville to a 10-1 record, including the 2020 regional championship. Walley finished his final season with 1,005 rushing yards (9.5 average), 329 receiving yards and 20 total touchdowns, adding 55 tackles and two interceptions (one returned for a touchdown). He also lettered in track and had personal bests of 11.55 seconds in the 100 meters, 24.55 in the 200 and 55.20 in the 400.

A three-star recruit, Walley was the 57th-ranked cornerback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 12 recruit in Mississippi. Following his sophomore season, his first three offers all came from the SEC: Arkansas, Auburn and Mississippi State. The summer before his senior year, Walley narrowed his list to a top four of Baylor, Minnesota, Mississippi State and Ole Miss. Instead of joining his brother in Starkville, he looked to create his own path and committed to the Gophers. Walley was the 13th-ranked recruit in head coach P.J. Fleck's 2021 class. He twice earned Academic All-Big Ten honors. Walley opted out of Minnesota's bowl game and accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/6)	29	0	0	1	8	1	Freshman All-American; started final six games; enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/13)	39	0	0	1	5	3
2023: (13/13)	45	2	0	1	9	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (10/10)	42	2	1	0	12	2	Second Team All-Big Ten; 32-yard INT TD; missed two games (right knee); missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (49/42)	155	4	1	3	34	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5101	190	10	30 3/4	74 7/8	4.40	2.57	1.56	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5101	194	10	30 3/8	74 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	32	10'0"	4.36	7.01	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Plays with requisite speed for the NFL game
- Closes with secondary burst when driving on the ball
- Quick footwork in his pedal and out of breaks to run routes with the receiver
- Stays patient in both man and zone coverages
- Always returning his eyes to the quarterback for plays on the ball
- Sniffs out the screen game and doesn't hesitate to fly downhill
- Coaches praised his toughness as he played through a knee injury for much of the 2024 season
- Started combined 42 games the past four seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized frame with decent length
- Plays physical and tough, but his play strength will be more of an issue against NFL size
- Gets grabby at top of routes
- Can be drawn out of position by pumps and play fakes
- Man-cover recognition can run hot and cold at times
- More likely to throw his shoulder into ball carrier than wrap and finish
- Doesn't have a ton of experience in the slot
- Partially torn MCL in his right knee (Sept. 2024), missed two games

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Minnesota, Walley was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Corey Hetherman's multiple-coverage scheme. He earned a starting job as a true freshman and played with an impressive level of consistency each season, finishing top five in school history in passes defended (34). Walley has speed and movement skills to stay attached from different alignments, and he works hard to undercut and contest throws. Though not a true ball hawk, he is very opportunistic with hungry eyes, although his handsy approach and aggressiveness will backfire at times.

A four-year starter at Minnesota, Walley was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Corey Hetherman's multiple-coverage scheme. He earned a starting job as a true freshman and played with an impressive level of consistency each season, finishing top five in school history in passes defended (34). Walley has speed and movement skills to stay attached from different alignments, and he works hard to undercut and contest throws. Though not a true ball hawk, he is very opportunistic with hungry eyes, although his handsy approach and aggressiveness will backfire at times. Overall, Walley doesn't stand out with top-tier size or special traits, but he is competitive with a natural feel for coverage that coaches will want on their teams. He can hold up on the outside, although proving himself in the slot would boost his chances of carving out a long-term NFL role.

GRADE: 6th round

CB28 Jason Marshall Jr.

Florida, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Miami, FL	Palmetto	Sep 06, 2002	22.63	6003	194	#3

BACKGROUND: Jason Marshall Jr. was born and raised in Miami with his parents. He started playing football at age 6, and it quickly became his passion. Throughout youth football, Marshall played quarterback and wide receiver and saw time on defense. He also played basketball and track, but football remained his focus. Marshall played for the Florida Fire South team in 7-on-7 in high school, although he didn't participate in 2020 because of a fractured ankle.

Marshall enrolled at Miami Palmetto Senior High, where he was teammates with high-level FBS recruits such as defensive tackle Leonard Taylor III and running back Brashard Smith (both signed with Miami). A four-year starter, Marshall immediately earned a prominent role as a freshman in 2017 (started every game) and collected three interceptions. As a junior, he played both ways as a cornerback and wide receiver, helping Palmetto to a 9-2 record and the 2019 district title. He earned first-team all-county honors with 44 tackles, 20 passes defended and five interceptions. As a senior, Marshall battled through injuries but helped Palmetto to another playoff berth, earning first-team all-state honors and an invitation to the 2021 Under Armour All-America Game. He also lettered in basketball.

A five-star recruit, Marshall was the second-ranked cornerback (behind Kool-Aid McKinstry) in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 9 recruit in Florida. He was the No. 29 recruit nationally. After his impressive freshman campaign, Marshall picked up an offer from Miami, his hometown program. As a sophomore, he added offers from Florida, LSU, Michigan, Ohio State, Oregon, Penn State, Tennessee and USC. After a number of official visits, Marshall released a top seven of Alabama, Clemson, Florida, Florida State, Georgia, LSU and Miami. However, the Hurricanes didn't make the final cut when he narrowed his choice to Alabama, Clemson and Florida. At the start of his senior year, Marshall committed to the Gators and was the crown jewel of Dan Mullen's final recruiting class as Florida's head coach.

Marshall earned SEC Academic Honor Roll and graduated with a degree in education sciences (Dec. 2024) — he hopes to become a trainer after his playing days. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/7)	23	2.0	0	0	4	1	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (13/13)	29	1.0	0	0	9	1	Led team in PD
2023: (12/12)	26	3.0	1	0	10	0	Led team in PD
2024: (7/7)	20	1.5	0	1	4	0	Missed final six games (shoulder)
Total: (45/39)	98	7.5	1	1	27	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6003	194	9 1/4	30 1/4	75 5/8	4.49	2.60	1.54	37 1/2	10' 5"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6002	195	9 1/8	30 3/8	74 3/8	4.53	2.53	1.53	37	10' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone (choice)

STRENGTHS:

- Plays with a ton of confidence in man-to-man, his preferred coverage
- Good-looking athlete who can match up with big and small pass catchers
- Teases explosiveness and balance in movements
- Efficiently sorts through stacks and combination routes
- Locates and makes plays on the ball from trail coverage
- Muddies catch points with his physical nature (led team in passes defended in 2022 and 2023)
- Plays through contact well and gets physical early in rep
- Started almost immediately as freshman and was battle-tested in the SEC

WEAKNESSES:

- His last interception came the weekend before Thanksgiving 2022
- Looks like a technician on some plays, then doesn't trust his foundation the next play
- Average trigger burst from off coverage
- Eyes pay rent in the backfield, and play fakes create wasted reaction steps
- Crossers can gain a step on him too easily
- Willing in run support, but reckless tendencies need to be fixed to help avoid misses
- Needs to expand his special teams resume at next level
- Suffered torn labrum as senior (Oct. 2024), which required season-ending surgery

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Florida, Marshall was an outside cornerback in former defensive coordinator Austin Armstrong's multiple coverage scheme. A former five-star recruit, he was an immediate contributor in Gainesville and flashed his talent early, although he struggled to take the next step in his development (seven receiving touchdowns allowed, zero interceptions the past two seasons).

Marshall displays the feet to press and smoothly transition with route breaks, although he has trouble making up ground once he loses a step in coverage. He struggles to anticipate from depth and stay ahead of plays. He also needs to be more aggressive in his approach, including as a run defender. Overall, Marshall has the size and athletic ability to tighten throwing windows in man coverage, but inconsistent reads and reactions are too common on his tape. If NFL teams are convinced he is coachable, he is a worthy draft-and-develop candidate.

GRADE: 6th round

CB29 Alijah Huzzie

North Carolina, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
LaGrange, GA	Heard County	Jan 16, 2001	24.27	5096	193	#28

BACKGROUND: Alijah Huzzie, one of three children, grew up in LaGrange, Ga. (near the Alabama border), with his mother (Misty Eley) and father (Tellas Huzzie). He grew up playing sports for Troup County Parks and Recreation, primarily basketball and football. At age 9, Huzzie started playing for the Pop Warner Knights and saw time at quarterback, running back and on defense. He was part of several travel league basketball teams throughout middle school, too. When it came time for high school, Huzzie and his teammates decided to stick together and picked Heard County High in Franklin, about a half-hour drive north of LaGrange. His cousin (Qua Huzzie) played linebacker at LaGrange High and collegiately at both Kentucky (2009-10) and Murray State (2011-13).

Huzzie enrolled at Heard County High, where he was a multisport standout. A 5-foot-4 and 160-pound freshman, he started at quarterback for the JV team until being called up to varsity for the playoffs, after blue-chip recruit Emory Jones suffered an injury. After Huzzie spent his sophomore year back on JV at quarterback, the varsity coaches wanted to move him to cornerback for his junior season. With Jones graduating after the 2017 season (and signing with Florida), Huzzie returned to quarterback for his senior season and led Heard County to a 13-2 record and the 2018 2A state championship at Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta, the first state title in school history. Huzzie earned all-state honors in his final season with 1,524 passing yards and 741 rushing yards. He was also an all-state guard in basketball.

A no-star recruit, Huzzie wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class. With only one season of experience as a high school defensive back, he went overlooked by most college programs. Huzzie received a football scholarship from FCS Savannah State, but he was leaning toward playing Division III basketball. However, he started to receive attention from FCS East Tennessee State (secondary coach Steve Brown) midway through his senior year and picked up a football offer when he visited the campus. He committed to East Tennessee State and became an All-American at cornerback.

After four seasons with the program, Huzzie entered the transfer portal (Nov. 2022) and received offers from Appalachian State, SMU and Tulane — but interest from North Carolina excited him. He signed with the Tar Heels and had a productive 2023 season. Huzzie was planning to make the NFL jump then, but a late-season injury led him to return for a sixth college season. He graduated from North Carolina with a degree in sociology (April 2024). Huzzie accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	2	0.0	0	0	0	0	East Tennessee State; redshirted; enrolled July 2019
2020: (6/6)	42	2.0	0	0	8	3	East Tennessee State; Freshman All-American; season played in spring 2021
2021: (13/13)	76	2.0	0	2	12	3	East Tennessee State; Second Team All-SoCon
2022: (11/11)	59	2.5	0	0	22	6	East Tennessee State; First Team All-American; First Team All-SoCon; led FCS in PD; lead team in INT
2023: (11/11)	42	1.0	0	0	9	3	North Carolina; Honorable Mention All-ACC; 52-yard PR TD; missed final two games (right leg)
2024: (13/13)	40	5.5	2	0	9	1	North Carolina; Honorable Mention All-ACC; 69-yard PR TD
Total: (58/54)	261	13.0	2	2	60	16

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5096	193	8 5/8	29 5/8	72 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	DNP	DNP	8 5/8	30	72	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Moves with balance and body control
- On-ball production a consistent theme each season
- Catches ball with ease (16 career interceptions)
- Anticipates catch windows in tight coverage to accurately time swipes
- Widescreen vision to get eyes on both receiver and quarterback
- Honed patience and finishing skills as tackler in 2024
- Two punt return touchdowns while at North Carolina; averaged 13.9 yards per return in his career (19 attempts for 265 yards)
- Tough-minded and "works at his craft," according to an NFL scout
- Played a lot of football (54 career starts) with experience both inside and outside

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized and lacks ideal height and length for the position
- NFL size will give him all he can handle
- Has good enough long speed but struggles to make up ground if he loses a step
- Doesn't panic but will get excessively physical at the top of routes (pass interference on several 2024 tapes)
- Can be baited into early contact; vulnerable to double moves
- Needs to tighten up tackling technique even further to face NFL ball carriers
- Missed two games after fracturing right fibula (Nov. 2023); Suffered an ACL injury during East-West Shrine practices and underwent left knee surgery (March 2025), which sidelined him for the rest of the draft process
- Will be 24 on draft weekend

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at North Carolina, Huzzie moved from the nickel to outside cornerback in 2024 in former defensive coordinator Geoff Collins' scheme. He started out at East Tennessee State before transferring to Chapel Hill the past two seasons. He accumulated an eye-popping 60 passes defended and 16 interceptions over the past five years. Huzzie has terrific balance and footwork in coverage and was one of the winners during East-West Shrine Bowl practices, because of his efficient movements in drills. He flashes playmaking ability, while offering punt return value and the mental makeup for sub packages. A two-year starter at North Carolina, Huzzie moved from the nickel to outside cornerback in 2024 in former defensive coordinator Geoff Collins' scheme. He started out at East Tennessee State before transferring to Chapel Hill the past two seasons. He accumulated an eye-popping 60 passes defended and 16 interceptions over the past five years. Huzzie has terrific balance and footwork in coverage and was one of the winners during East-West Shrine Bowl practices, because of his efficient movements in drills. He flashes playmaking ability, while offering punt return value and the mental makeup for sub packages. Overall, Huzzie is more quick than explosive and will have some tough moments against NFL size, but his coordinated athleticism and compete skills help keep him connected in coverage. His tape reminds me of Kindle Vildor when he was coming out of Georgia Southern in the 2020 draft class. His recent ACL injury will affect his projection.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

CB30 Jaylin Smith

USC, 4SR

HOMETOWN Palmdale, CA	HIGH SCHOOL Bishop Alemany	BIRTHDAY Nov 05, 2003	AGE 21.47	HT 5105	WT 187	NUM #2
--------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Jaylin "J-Roc" Smith, who has a twin sister (Jayda), grew up in Lancaster, Calif. (north of downtown Los Angeles), with his father (James) and mother (Simone Walker). In March 2013, Smith's mother died six days after being struck in a hit-and-run incident (the driver of the vehicle was never found).

At age 6, Smith first suited up for football, playing for the pee wee Jets and then the Lancaster Colts. He joined the Snoop Youth Football League and played running back for Snoop's Diamond Valley Steelers (nicknamed the "Money Boyz"). Smith played up an age level and was profiled on the Netflix documentary series "Coach Snoop," which examined his emotional struggles (on and off the field) after his mother's death. (Snoop Dogg: "J-Roc is a different kind of kid. Definitely one of my favorites.") Smith was a member of the Steelers 14U 2016 national championship team. As part of Snoop Dogg's league, he had the opportunity to work with several NFL players, such as DeSean Jackson and Odell Beckham Jr. He later trained with Premium Sports with several other top recruits, including quarterback Bryce Young.

Smith enrolled at Bishop Alemany High, a Catholic school in the San Fernando Valley (he lived about an hour away). After playing on the freshman team, he moved up to varsity as a sophomore and proved to be an immediate difference-maker in the secondary with 31 tackles, three interceptions and two forced fumbles, adding a dozen catches and a kickoff return touchdown. As a junior, Smith led Bishop Alemany to a 10-3 record with 60 tackles and two interceptions (one returned for a touchdown), earning him all-state honors. On offense, he caught passes from quarterback Miller Moss (his close friend and future teammate at USC) and had two receiving touchdowns, two rushing touchdowns and a kickoff return touchdown. His senior season was disrupted when Bishop Alemany postponed the fall 2020 season because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

A four-star recruit, Smith was the 20th-ranked athlete in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 28 recruit in California. Midway through his junior season, he picked up his first offer from nearby USC. After the 2019 season, Smith added offers from Alabama, Clemson, Michigan, Penn State, Oregon, Texas, Utah and Washington. The summer before his senior year, he officially committed to USC as a defensive back. Smith was the 13th-ranked recruit in former head coach Clay Helton's 2021 class (Moss ranked fifth). He opted out of USC's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (10/1)	11	2.0	1	1	2	1	First start came at safety; missed final two games (concussion); enrolled July 2021
2022: (11/9)	37	1.0	0	0	1	0	Missed final three games (injury)
2023: (12/12)	75	5.5	1	1	1	0	Bowl game defensive MVP; missed one game (injury)
2024: (10/10)	59	4.0	0	0	4	2	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in INT; missed two games (injury); missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (43/32)	182	12.5	2	2	8	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5104	187	9 1/4	29 7/8	75 1/4	4.45	2.64	1.64	32 1/2	10' 2"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	5105	194	9 1/4	30 3/8	75	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	15

STRENGTHS:

- Very good lateral quickness to match receivers in press
- Confident speed and redirect skills to hold up on an island
- Good look-and-lean technique and presses receivers to the sideline
- Trusts route anticipation to put him in position to make plays on the ball
- Gets hands inside frame of receivers to hitch a ride in trail
- Plays with dog mentality as a run defender and in coverage
- Good tempo to weave around pulling blocks and dismantle screens
- Stood out on punt coverages as a gunner and jammer
- Versatile experience across the secondary at corner, safety and nickel

WEAKNESSES:

- Averaged-framed; lacks ideal mass and growth potential
- Better feistiness than play strength
- Only average burst when attempting to close out throws
- Inconsistent reacting to throws with his back to the ball

- Below-average ball production for a player with his experience
- Doesn't have length to compensate for poor technique in run support
- Leaves his feet prematurely, resulting in ankle-biting tackle attempts
- Staying healthy has been an issue: missed last two games as freshman after suffering concussion (Nov. 2021); missed final three games of 2022 season because of injury; missed one game as junior (Nov. 2023) and two more as senior (Sept. 2024) because of injuries

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at USC, Smith moved from the nickel to outside cornerback in defensive coordinator D'Anton Lynn's man/zone scheme. Compared to his 2023 tape, he made key improvements as a senior in both coverage and run support — he did not allow a touchdown catch in 2024 and set a career high with two interceptions. Although he is more quick than explosive, Smith has smooth movements in space to transition or ride the hip pocket with different types of route runners. He gets nose to nose with receivers in press and overlaps well from zone looks, but his ball instincts were lacking on tape (just eight passes defended over 32 career starts).

A three-year starter at USC, Smith moved from the nickel to outside cornerback in defensive coordinator D'Anton Lynn's man/zone scheme. Compared to his 2023 tape, he made key improvements as a senior in both coverage and run support — he did not allow a touchdown catch in 2024 and set a career high with two interceptions. Although he is more quick than explosive, Smith has smooth movements in space to transition or ride the hip pocket with different types of route runners. He gets nose to nose with receivers in press and overlaps well from zone looks, but his ball instincts were lacking on tape (just eight passes defended over 32 career starts). Overall, Smith's lack of size will show in several ways against NFL competition, but he is an agile-footed, speedy corner with the compete skills to fight for an inside nickel role. He will need to prove he can stay healthy to stick on a roster.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

CB31 BJ Adams

UCF, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Atlanta, GA	Arabia Mountain	Aug 17, 2003	21.68	6016	187	#0

BACKGROUND: Brandon "BJ" Adams grew up outside of Atlanta with his parents. His father (Rico) introduced him to football, and he played multiple positions throughout youth levels. His younger brother (Christian) is a safety recruit out of Eagles Landing High in the 2026 recruiting class. Adams attended Arabia Mountain High in DeKalb County, Ga. (east of Atlanta). After playing primarily on JV as a sophomore, he moved up to varsity as a junior and collected 20 tackles as a cornerback and safety. Adams also played quarterback and wide receiver in 2019, accounting for three touchdowns (two passing, one receiving). As a senior, he helped Arabia to four wins and again played both ways as a quarterback (four passing touchdowns) and defensive back.

A three-star recruit, Adams was the 85th-ranked safety in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 92 recruit in Georgia. He saw his recruitment kick into high gear between his junior and senior seasons with an offer from Troy (April 2020), followed by offers from Air Force, Akron, Charlotte, Cincinnati, Indiana, Kent State, UCF, Washington State and a number of FCS programs. Adams officially committed to UCF in July 2020 and was the fourth-ranked recruit in former head coach Josh Heupel's 2021 class. A month after early signing day, Heupel left for the head-coaching job at Tennessee and was replaced by Gus Malzahn. Adams graduated with a degree from UCF (Dec. 2024). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/6)	19	1.0	0	0	1	0	Enrolled June 2021
2022: (14/4)	34	0.5	0	0	4	0
2023: (13/10)	21	1.5	0	0	4	0
2024: (9/9)	14	1.0	0	0	4	2	Led team in INT, PD; 63-yard INT TD; Missed three games (injury)
Total: (48/29)	88	4.0	0	0	13	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6016	182	8 3/4	31 3/4	76 1/2	4.53	2.64	1.58	32 1/2	9'9"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6015	187	7 7/8	31 3/4	76 3/8	4.46	2.62	1.57	33	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Above-average height and length to match up with NFL size
- Covers a lot of air space to swipe away throws
- Plays physical brand of football with punchy jam
- Efficient opening his hips from press to ride routes
- Flashes an extra gear late when closing on catch point
- Improved ability to throttle down and sting as tackler
- Played on kick and punt coverages all four seasons (371 career special teams snaps)

WEAKNESSES:

- Thinly built with very little definition on his frame
- Average movement skills on tape — testing numbers back that up
- High cut and gets a tad gawky in coverage transitions
- Footwork and technique are all over the place, both in press and off coverages
- Flagged 16 times in college, including three pass interference penalties in 2024
- Underwhelming college ball production
- Spends too much time attached to wide receiver blocks

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at UCF, Adams was an outside cornerback in former defensive coordinator Addison Williams' multiple coverage scheme (Cover 2, Cover 3 and press man). He worked his way into the starting rotation as a true freshman and played in 48 games over the past four years, although he never had more than four passes defended in any of those seasons.

Adams puts his length to good use when he redirects receivers at the line and makes them uncomfortable throughout the route. He can take away passing windows with his size, but his tape doesn't show natural ball instincts, and he must become more disciplined in his process. Overall, Adams is long-limbed with enough athleticism to match routes from press, but he plays wild and upright in his movements, and his freelancing technique leads to spacing issues that NFL receivers will exploit. He is a developmental option for man-heavy teams.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

CB32 Mello Dotson

Kansas, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Daytona Beach, FL	Mainland	Feb 19, 2002	23.18	6005	183	#3

BACKGROUND: Ra'Mello "Mello" Dotson was raised in Daytona Beach, Fla., by his mother (Chenette Lord) and grandmother. Dotson started playing football at age 5, and it became his focus at the Pop Warner level. He wanted to follow in the footsteps of his older brother (Meiko Jr.), who played cornerback at Georgia Tech (2015), Garden City (Kan.) Community College (2016-17), FAU (2018-19) and Florida State (2020-21). Dotson has a 2-year old son.

Dotson attended Mainland High in Daytona Beach (alma mater of Seattle Seahawks defensive lineman Leonard Williams). After working himself into the varsity rotation as a sophomore, he played both ways at cornerback and wide receiver as a junior, helping the program to a 7-4 record and the 2018 6A district championship. Dotson had his best season as a senior with 46 tackles, two tackles for loss and five interceptions (110 INT return yards) and one touchdown. He also made an impact on offense with 15 catches for 263 yards (17.5 average) and two touchdowns. Dotson lettered in track at Mainland and had personal bests of 22.91 seconds in the 200 meters and 5 feet, 2 inches in the high jump.

A three-star recruit, Dotson was the 149th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 236 recruit in Florida. He was frustrated by not having any offers through his junior season, Charlotte handed him his first scholarship offer in May 2019. Dotson added offers from Central Michigan, FAU, Georgia State, UConn, UCF and UMass. It was an offer from Les Miles and Kansas, however, that interested him most — and a late visit the week before signing day sealed the deal. Dotson was the 16th-ranked recruit in Miles' 2020 class. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the pandemic and returned for his fifth season. Dotson graduated with a degree in liberal arts. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	2	0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (12/8)	24	0	0	1	2	1
2022: (13/13)	54	1	0	0	8	2
2023: (13/13)	48	3	1	0	15	4	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; led team in INT, PD; 50-yard INT TD; 37-yard INT TD
2024: (12/12)	49	1	0	1	12	5	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big 12; led Big 12 in INT; 33-yard INT TD; 25-yard INT TD
Total: (53/46)	177	5	1	2	37	12

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6005	192	81/2	31 1/2	77 7/8	4.59	2.68	1.60	34 1/2	10' 3"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6002	183	81/2	31 5/8	77 1/4	4.57	2.64	1.66	34	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Checks height box with solid arm length for the position
- Plays with natural feel for coverage and stays in phase with body control
- Uses length to take away passing lanes (35 passes defended over past three seasons)
- Makes quarterbacks pay for poor decisions

- Has some juice after interception — set Kansas record with four career pick sixes
- Very reserved and quiet off field (NFL scout: "He's basically the opposite personality of Cobee (Bryant).")
- Finished career with 38 consecutive starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Middling long speed by NFL standards
- Can get beat over the top and is forced to protect himself against verticals
- Plays tall, which hinders quick transitions
- Very slender with marginal finishing strength, which shows in his tackling
- Lacks urgency getting off blocks
- Outside-only cornerback with almost no slot experience
- Very little special teams experience, outside of field goal coverages

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Kansas, Dotson was an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Brian Borland’s multiple coverage scheme. With Cobee Bryant, he formed one of the best cornerback duos in college football the past few seasons and finished his career with 12 interceptions, fourth most in school history.

Dotson is a long, instinctive cornerback with the quiet confidence to sniff out routes. Although he can get a little tight at the top of routes, he trusts his eyes to lead him to the football and has the ball skills to do something about it (231 career interception return yards). Overall, Dotson lacks elite foot agility and long speed for man coverage, but he shows a good feel for what the offense is trying to do and reacts accordingly. He will be a potential target late in the draft for a zone-heavy team.

GRADE: 7th round

CB33 Jabbar Muhammad

Oregon, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
DeSoto, TX	DeSoto	Dec 28, 2001	23.32	5092	178	#7

BACKGROUND: Jabbar Muhammad, one of six children (five boys, one girl), grew up south of Dallas with his parents (Elijah Sr. and Danielle). He and the members of his family are devout Muslims, and he was named after NBA legend Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Growing up in an athletic family, Muhammad followed in the footsteps of his father, older brothers and numerous cousins who played football. Muhammad (and several of his family members) suited up for the DeSoto Cowboys in flag football and pee wee. His father played wide receiver at East Texas State. Two of Jabbar’s older brothers played defensive back in college: Elijah Jr. (who is also Jabbar’s agent) played at Nevada (2015-20); Khairi played at North Texas (2016-19). Several of his cousins also played in college, including cornerback A.J. Green, who played at Oklahoma State and is now in the NFL, and Malik Muhammad, a five-star recruit and now a rising junior at Texas. Jabbar’s cousin (Amina) started her college basketball career at Texas but transferred to Oregon in 2024.

Like his older brothers, Muhammad enrolled at DeSoto High, a program that has produced numerous NFL players, including Von Miller and Jabbar’s high school teammate Byron Murphy II. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore cornerback and helped the program to a 10-2 finish. As a junior, Muhammad earned first-team all-district honors with 32 tackles, 18 passes defended, five interceptions and one forced fumble. His production dipped as a senior, as opponents wisely stayed away from his side of the field. Muhammad finished with 31 tackles, 13 passes defended and one interception in 2019. He also lettered in track at DeSoto (sprints, relays and jumps).

A three-star recruit, Muhammad was the 89th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 125 recruit in Texas. He received his first offer (Oklahoma State) after his freshman season, before he’d even made an impact on varsity. Colorado, Houston, North Texas, Texas Tech and Tulsa followed with offers, as Muhammad made a name for himself after earning defensive MVP honors at The Opening in Dallas. But he committed to Oklahoma State as a sophomore and didn’t waver, becoming the 11th-ranked recruit in head coach Mike Gundy’s 2020 class.

After three seasons in Stillwater, Muhammad entered the transfer portal and signed with Washington, eventually helping the Huskies reach the national championship game. Instead of jumping to the NFL, he took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and again entered the transfer portal. Muhammad took visits to Alabama and Texas before choosing Oregon for his final season. He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (5/0)	1	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Oklahoma State; enrolled August 2020; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/1)	23	0.5	0.5	0	3	0	Oklahoma State; first career start in bowl game
2022: (12/12)	48	0.5	0.0	1	10	1	Oklahoma State; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2023: (15/15)	46	5.0	2.0	0	20	3	Washington; Second Team All-Pac-12; led Pac-12 in PD; enrolled January 2023
2024: (14/14)	41	0.5	0.0	0	12	0	Oregon; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in PD; enrolled January 2024
Total: (60/42)	159	6.5	2.5	1	45	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5091	182	9	28 5/8	71 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	DNP	4.19	7.01	13	Position drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	5092	178	9	29 1/4	71 1/8	4.50	2.65	1.58	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Tremendous ball instincts, putting himself in position to make plays
- Above-average on-ball production, with double-digit passes defended each of the past three seasons
- Always on high alert to make plays outside of his area
- Silky smooth hips for smooth transitions
- Leverages field/sideline and maintains proper positioning
- Takes calculated chances, while also being fearless to jump routes
- Made clear improvements as tackler in 2024, showing better throttle and control as a finisher
- Never gets bored out there — all of his former coaches praise his competitive mentality

WEAKNESSES:

- Thin-framed with poor height and arm length
- Non-explosive mover and doesn't have the long speed to make up ground
- Leaves some interceptions on the field because of his lack of ideal size
- Larger receivers have little trouble overwhelming him at the catch point
- Caught leaning into receivers and finds himself off balance
- Ball carriers will carry him for extra yardage
- Inconsistent run defender, and his strength doesn't consistently match his intentions
- Older prospect — will turn 24 as an NFL rookie

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Oregon, Muhammad was primarily an outside cornerback in defensive coordinator Tosh Lupoi’s balanced coverage scheme. After starting his college career at Oklahoma State, he became a gun for hire the past two years (Washington and Oregon). He accounted for a combined 41 passes defended over the past three seasons (no other player had more than 34).

With his full-field awareness, Muhammad shows the innate ability to judge the catch point and make plays on the football. He has the gritty play style needed for the move inside to the nickel, although that also would shine a light on some of his warts as a run defender. Overall, Muhammad has arguably the most impressive blend of fluidity and ball-hawking instincts in this draft class, but masking his size, speed and strength limitations will be a tough task against NFL-caliber athletes. His NFL-ready skill set will give him a chance to stand out in camp.

GRADE: FA

CB34 Fentrell Cypress II

Florida State, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Rock Hill, SC	Northwestern	Jun 05, 2001	23.88	6001	182	#23

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (2/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Virginia; redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (1/0)	2	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Virginia; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (6/6)	16	0.5	0.5	0	1	1	Virginia; 66-yard INT TD; missed six games (hand)
2022: (9/9)	39	0.0	0.0	0	14	0	Virginia; Second Team All-ACC; led team in PD; missed one game (illness)
2023: (14/14)	40	1.5	0.0	1	9	0	Florida State; Honorable Mention All-ACC
2024: (9/9)	27	1.0	0.0	0	5	0	Florida State; missed final three games (injury); Hula Bowl
Total: (41/38)	124	3.0	0.5	1	29	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6001	182	8 5/8	31 3/4	76 1/2	4.43	2.59	1.54	38	10'3"	4.34	6.84	DNP

SUMMARY: Fentrell Cypress II grew up in Virginia (Newport News and Petersburg) before moving to South Carolina at age 11. He played wide receiver and cornerback at Northwestern High in Rock Hill, combining for 59 passes defended and six interceptions over his final two seasons (also had a 10.70-second 100-meter time in track).

A three-star recruit, Cypress signed with Virginia and had a breakout fourth season in 2022. He transferred to Florida State for his final two seasons and posted 12 passes defended over 23 starts. Cypress is a height-length-speed prospect with the athleticism in space to mirror, float and maintain relationships between multiple routes. He drives on passes well in zone coverage to get his hands on the football without making early contact (zero penalties at Florida State), although his low interception number is discouraging. He's too much of a "catch" tackler, but he gets his guy on the ground. Overall, Cypress hasn't put consistency on tape, but when you grade to the flashes and trust his testing numbers, you can understand why a team could think there might be something there.

GRADE: FA

CB35 Jermari Harris

Iowa, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Chicago, IL	Montini Catholic	Sep 19, 2000	24.59	6004	191	#27

BACKGROUND: Jermari (Jir-MAR-ee) Harris was raised in south Chicago by his mother (Johnada Jenkins) and father (Quentin Harris). He has been involved with sports since age 5 and credits his father, who died in March 2021, for encouraging him to try basketball, baseball and football (basketball was his first love). Harris bounced around schools throughout Chicago and in high school moved in with another family (the Morrisseys), in hopes of better stability.

Harris originally attended Morgan Park High, where he became a standout guard on the basketball court. As a sophomore, he helped the team to a 26-6 record, including the 2016-17 Class 3A state championship. Before his junior season, Harris transferred to Montini Catholic High in Lombard, Ill., which required him to make up to a two-hour commute. With a better football program at Montini than at Morgan Park, Harris switched his focus from basketball and joined the football team as a wide receiver and safety in 2017. An all-state performer as a senior, Harris posted 72 tackles and eight interceptions, as he helped Montini to a 12-2 finish in 2018. Along with basketball and football, he also lettered in track. He had personal bests of 12.33 seconds in the 100 meters and 21 feet, 7 inches in the long jump.

A three-star recruit, Harris was the 151st-ranked cornerback in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 39 recruit Illinois. Thanks to his standout senior season, nearby college programs took notice. He received offers from several FCS programs, including Eastern Illinois, Indiana State, North Dakota State and South Dakota State. A few weeks before signing day, Ball State and Northern Illinois offered late, but Harris had his eyes on Iowa. Within a week of signing day, he took an official visit, received an offer and committed to the Hawkeyes. He was the 19th-ranked recruit in head coach Kirk Ferentz's 2019 class (same class as Jack Campbell and Sam LaPorta). Harris accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (2/0)	2	0.0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (6/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/6)	34	1.5	0	0	8	4
2022: (-/-)							Missed season because of injury (leg); suspended for season opener (OWI)
2023: (12/12)	42	1.0	0	0	9	1	Suspended two games (gambling)
2024: (10/10)	27	1.0	0	0	10	3	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in PD; 28-yard INT TD; missed final three games (leg)
Total: (44/28)	105	3.5	0	0	27	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6004	191	9 3/4	31 3/8	76	DNP	DNP	DNP	37	10' 0"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6003	191	9 1/2	31 5/8	75 1/8	4.65	2.67	1.64	DNP	10' 3"	4.60	7.10	12

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with decent length
- Pattern matches smoothly from zone
- Stays dialed in with his eyes to float and make plays
- Baits throws from different levels to enter passing lane late
- Physical at the top of routes and quick to regain positioning
- Addresses the ball well with strong hand-eye coordination to finish interceptions
- Strikes like a ton of bricks when he locks on to his target
- Plays with an edge, which helps him escape perimeter blocks
- Quality ball production as a three-year starter

WEAKNESSES:

- Average long speed and lacks an extra gear
- Has a tough time recovering from double moves

- Can get too nosy looking to jump routes and loses spacing relationships
- Competitive run defender but falls off too many ball carriers because of faulty technique
- Wasn't asked to do any blitzing or line up in the slot
- Received some criticism for opting out of final three games of 2024 season so he could undergo a procedure to remove a screw from his leg (it had been placed there after his 2022 injury, which required season-ending surgery)
- Off-field decision-making requires vetting: arrested on a charge of operating a vehicle while intoxicated (April 2022) and suspended one game; suspended for first two games of 2023 season after an NCAA investigation into gambling within Iowa's program

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Iowa, Harris was the left cornerback in defensive coordinator Phil Parker's 4-2-5 base scheme, playing heavy doses of Cover 2. His career with the Hawkeyes was marred by several setbacks (2022 injury; gambling suspension), but his on-field play improved each season — he allowed just 16 catches with 10 passes defended and zero penalties in 2024.

Harris sees the field well from off coverage to anticipate catch windows and put himself in position to make plays on the football. He is a little tight in his pedal and will struggle if asked to man up against route technicians who can lose his trail. Overall, Harris won't be an ideal fit for every scheme and needs to be more dependable as a tackler, but his instincts and competitive profile will have zone-heavy teams interested. Pre-draft interviews will be paramount to his final grade.

GRADE: FA

CB36 Isas Waxter II

Villanova, 6SR

HOMETOWN Newark, NJ	HIGH SCHOOL Immaculate Conception	BIRTHDAY Sep 17, 2001	AGE 23.60	HT 6013	WT 205	NUM #0
------------------------	--------------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (7/2)	25	0	0	0	1	0
2020: (2/0)	7	0	0	0	1	0	Season played in spring 2021
2021: (13/2)	17	1	1	0	4	0
2022: (-/-)							Missed season (MCL)
2023: (13/13)	26	4	0	0	11	3	Second Team All-CAA
2024: (11/10)	33	2	0	3	2	0	First Team All-CAA; led team in FF; East-West Shrine Bowl; missed three games (injury)
Total: (46/27)	108	7	1	3	19	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6012	209	9 1/2	31 3/4	78 1/8	4.56	2.68	1.62	35	10' 4"	DNP	DNP	DNP
PRO DAY	6013	205	9 1/2	31 7/8	78 1/4	4.50	2.56	1.53	DNP	10' 5"	4.18	7.00	DNP

SUMMARY: Isas (ice-iss) "Ice" Waxter II grew up in the Newark, N.J., area with his mother (Glenda). He started playing football and running track at age 8. He attended Immaculate Conception High and played both ways (cornerback and wide receiver).

A no-star recruit, Waxter received seven FCS offers and committed to Villanova. After missing the 2022 season because of a knee injury, he became a full-time starter the past two seasons and led the CAA with three forced fumbles in 2024. Waxter is a good-sized athlete who looks to disrupt routes early. He works hard to stay on top of the route, although his handsy approach won't fly against NFL athletes. He doesn't shy from the physicality in the run game, but he must find better control to cut down on missed tackles. Overall, Waxter needs to polish his footwork and technique, but he passes the eye test, runs well enough and battles on every snap. Some NFL teams have him tagged as a future safety.

GRADE: FA

CB37 Ethan Robinson

Minnesota, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Montgomery, NY	Iona Prep	Apr 30, 2003	21.98	5105	195	#2

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (11/6)	54	0.0	0	2	6	1	Bucknell
2022: (11/11)	50	3.5	1	0	6	1	Bucknell
2023: (9/9)	50	3.0	0	0	13	3	Bucknell; First Team All-Patriot; led team in INT, PD
2024: (13/13)	42	3.0	0	1	11	3	Minnesota; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (44/39)	196	9.5	1	3	36	8

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5105	195	9 3/8	31	74 3/8	4.55	2.65	1.63	42	10'7"	4.39	6.94	10

SUMMARY: Louis Ethan Robinson was born in Bronxville, N.Y., with his parents (Louis and Tawanda). A basketball-focused athlete as a kid, he also grew up playing quarterback before switching to the secondary at Iona Prep. A three-year starter, he posted 30 tackles and one interception as a junior in 2019. A no-star recruit, he received only FCS offers and committed to Bucknell over several Ivy League programs. He started immediately and had a breakout season as a junior.

He jumped into the transfer portal after the 2023 season and received more than 20 offers from schools in the SEC, Big Ten and other conferences before choosing Minnesota. He started at outside cornerback for the Gophers and earned All-Big Ten honors in 2024. Though his recovery speed is lacking, Robinson has good feet and a natural understanding of route combinations to put himself in position to make plays. Overall, Robinson has strong off-man coverage skills, and the FCS-to-FBS jump wasn't too big for him. He projects best as a Cover 2 corner with ball skills and toughness.

GRADE: FA

CB38 BJ Mayes

Texas A&M, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Houston, TX	Heights	Mar 24, 2003	22.08	6004	187	#20

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (6/0)	5	0	0	0	0	0	Incarnate Word
2022: (14/13)	48	3	0	0	14	1	Incarnate Word
2023: (12/11)	41	1	0	0	12	2	UAB; led team in INT, PD
2024: (11/4)	30	1	0	0	9	4	Texas A&M; led team in INT; missed two games (injury)
Total: (43/28)	124	5	0	0	35	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6004	187	8 5/8	31 1/2	74	4.54	2.65	1.54	30 1/2	9'10"	4.15	6.98	10

SUMMARY: Brian "BJ" Mayes grew up in Houston's Third Ward with his parents (Brian and Sheila). He was primarily a cornerback at Houston Heights High and combined for four interceptions (one pick six) over his junior and senior years. A three-star recruit, Mayes was committed to UTSA for eight months, but the school ran out of scholarship spots and he was left scrambling the week before signing day. He played at FCS Incarnate Word for two seasons before jumping up to the FBS with UAB in 2023. Mayes later transferred again, joining Mike Elko's first recruiting class at Texas A&M for the 2024 season.

Primarily an outside cornerback, he moved inside to the nickel at Texas A&M and did a nice job balancing his eyes between the route and the quarterback to break on the football (led the Aggies with four interceptions). He has decent size for the position but is inconsistent as a tackler and leaks yardage. Overall, Mayes lacks quick twitch in his movements, which leaves him making excessive contact mid-route. For better or worse, though, he is the type of defensive back who trusts his athletic instincts to put himself in position to make plays.

GRADE: FA

CB39 Melvin Smith Jr.

Southern Arkansas, 5SR

HOMETOWN Bossier City, LA	HIGH SCHOOL Airline	BIRTHDAY Apr 12, 2002	AGE 23.03	HT 5104	WT 190	NUM #24
------------------------------	------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Season canceled because of pandemic
2021: (11/11)	38	0.5	0	0	5	0
2022: (11/11)	50	1.0	0	0	6	0
2023: (12/12)	42	4.0	0	1	24	4	First Team All-GAC; Led GAC in PD; led team in INT; 100-yard INT TD; 19-yard INT TD
2024: (11/11)	38	1.0	0	0	11	5	Second Team All-American; First Team All-GAC; led team in INT, PD; 99-yd KR TD; 29-yd INT TD; Senior Bowl
Total: (45/45)	168	6.5	0	1	46	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5104	190	9	30	7/8	73 1/4	4.39	2.52	1.49	38 1/2	10'0"	4.19	7.13	13

SUMMARY: Melvin Smith Jr. grew up in northwest Louisiana and started playing football in elementary school. He was an all-league defensive back as a senior at Airline High in Bossier City, leading the program to a 10-win season and the 2019 district title. A no-star recruit, he signed with Division II Southern Arkansas, where he became a four-year starter. He had prolific junior and senior seasons, registering a combined 35 passes defended and nine interceptions.

Smith has production that jumps off the page — and it came both in off coverage, where he could drive on throws, and press man, where he pinned receivers to the sideline and found the football. He is only average in his hip turn and can get stuck at times in his transitions, but he plays with heart. I also don't question his compete skills, although his tackling was average, even by Division II standards, and must improve for him to get NFL athletes on the ground. Overall, Smith had the pre-draft process he needed to earn a shot — he didn't appear out of his element against better competition at the Senior Bowl, and his testing verified that he has NFL-level athleticism.

GRADE: FA

CB40 Trikweze Bridges

Florida, 6SR

HOMETOWN Lanett, AL	HIGH SCHOOL Lanett	BIRTHDAY Sep 20, 2000	AGE 24.59	HT 6025	WT 196	NUM #7
------------------------	-----------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (1/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Oregon; redshirt
2020: (7/0)	2	0.0	0	0	0	0	Oregon; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/3)	26	1.0	0	1	2	1	Oregon
2022: (13/13)	49	1.0	0	1	8	3	Oregon
2023: (13/1)	16	0.5	0	0	3	0	Oregon; missed bowl game (transfer portal)
2024: (13/7)	70	1.0	0	2	8	2	Florida; led team in tackles; 5 starts at CB, 3 starts at FS; Hula Bowl
Total: (61/24)	163	3.5	0	4	21	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6025	196	9	33 1/4	81 1/8	4.45	2.50	1.51	34 1/2	10'7"	4.39	7.02	DNP

SUMMARY: Trikweze (TRY-kwez) Bridges, one of three kids, grew up in Lanett, Ala. Several of his relatives played college football, including his father (Tremayne), who was a wide receiver at Florida A&M. At Lanett High, Bridges earned all-state honors three straight years and as a junior safety (104 tackles, 10 interceptions) and receiver led the team to the 2017 Class 1A state championship. He also led the basketball team to multiple state titles (his mother, Marcilyn Patrick, is a former basketball player).

A three-star recruit, he spurned several SEC offers (including one from Alabama) to sign with Oregon. After five years in Eugene, he transferred to the SEC for his super-senior season. He came off the bench early before becoming a starting safety and then a corner, leading the Gators in tackles and allowing just 14 catches (no touchdowns) in 2024.

An impressive athlete for his size, Bridges can press and use his impressive length to reroute receivers. He closes distance well from off coverage and arrives with physicality. Overall, Bridges has the tools and versatility to match up with size at receiver, and his impressive testing likely guaranteed him a long look in an NFL training camp.

GRADE: FA

CB41 O'Donnell Fortune

South Carolina, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Sumter, SC	Sumter	Sep 08, 2001	23.62	6006	189	#3

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (3/0)	3	0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (8/0)	3	0	0	0	0	0
2022: (9/2)	16	0	0	1	2	2	100-yard INT TD
2023: (11/10)	39	1	0	0	8	2	Graduated with degree in services management (Dec. 2023)
2024: (13/13)	47	2	0	1	6	3	Honorable Mention All-SEC; East-West Shrine Bowl (Defensive MVP); Hula Bowl
Total: (44/25)	108	3	0	2	16	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6006	185	9 1/4	31 1/2	76 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	32 1/2	9' 9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6005	189	9 1/4	31 3/4	74 3/4	4.57	2.71	1.57	33 1/2	9'10"	4.47	7.40	13

SUMMARY: O'Donnell Fortune started playing football in fifth grade for the Chargers at Dillon Park in Sumter, S.C. His junior year at Sumter High put him on the recruiting map (five interceptions — he had three more as a senior and received all-state honors). Fortune was a three-star recruit as a safety and corner and grew up a Gamecocks fan. After a 100-yard pick six in South Carolina's 2022 bowl game, he became a starter as a junior and played his best ball as a senior.

Fortune is a tall, slender athlete with length that he uses to disrupt route timing and obstruct passing windows. He isn't shy about trusting his instincts and tracking the eyes of the quarterback to make plays. His tackling was fine on some tapes but atrocious on others (LSU, Illinois, Kentucky), especially when he tried to hit too high. Overall, Fortune needs to play with improved discipline, both in coverage and run support, but his ball awareness and fluidity will translate well to the pro game.

GRADE: FA

CB42 Jalen Kimber

Penn State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Mansfield, TX	Timberview	Feb 13, 2001	24.19	6001	190	#3

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (2/0)	1	0	0	0	0	0	Georgia; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (1/0)	1	0	0	0	0	0	Georgia; missed final 13 games (shoulder surgery)
2022: (13/0)	13	0	0	0	2	1	Florida; 39-yard INT TD; Played through broken hand
2023: (12/11)	23	0	0	0	5	0	Florida
2024: (16/15)	37	1	0	0	3	0	Penn State; graduated with degree from Florida (May 2024); enrolled January 2024
Total: (44/26)	75	1	0	0	10	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6001	190	9	31 3/8	75 3/4	4.39	2.56	1.57	33 1/2	10'3"	4.15	6.88	13

SUMMARY: Jalen "Boogie" Kimber, one of four kids, grew up in Chicago with his parents (Art and Lisa) before the family relocated to Texas. He played both corner and safety at Mansfield Timberview High and collected two interceptions as a junior. A four-star recruit, his recruitment skyrocketed after his testing at The Opening Regional camp, and he later committed to Georgia.

After his 2021 season ended because of a shoulder surgery, Kimber entered the portal and transferred to Florida, where he played two seasons. For his final season, he again entered the portal, this time committing to Louisville before flipping to Penn State, where he won an outside corner starting spot.

Kimber is a lean-framed athlete and lacks ideal functional strength to reroute physical receivers. His lack of ball instincts downfield also shows on tape, but he can turn and run vertically, showing fluid body control to stay in phase. Despite his lack of size, he was a sound tackler on the 2024 tape. Overall, Kimber needs to play with better poise in coverage, but he has the athletic talent to keep up with NFL receivers and compete for a role on special teams.

GRADE: FA

CB43 Donte Kent

Central Michigan, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Harrisburg, PA	Harrisburg	Sep 28, 2001	23.57	5102	187	#4

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/1)	18	0.0	0.0	1	2	1
2021: (13/12)	55	0.0	0.0	0	15	1
2022: (11/11)	51	1.5	1.0	1	15	0	First Team All-MAC
2023: (11/11)	58	2.5	0.5	0	7	0	Second Team All-MAC
2024: (12/12)	53	0.5	0.0	0	8	0	Second Team All-MAC (CB and PR); 68-yard PR TD; Hula Bowl
Total: (53/47)	235	4.5	1.5	2	47	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5102	187	8 1/2	31	73 1/2	4.38	2.56	1.53	38 1/2	10'3"	4.38	7.15	14

SUMMARY: Donte Kent grew up in Harrisburg, Pa., with his parents (Ronald and Kathy). He was a two-way star (wide receiver and cornerback) at Harrisburg High and combined for 10 interceptions over his junior and senior seasons. A three-star recruit, he received mostly MAC offers and committed to Central Michigan. He compiled almost as many passes defended (47) as starts (48) over the past five seasons. As a senior, he added punt return duties to his resume and averaged 13.6 yards per return, including a 68-yard touchdown.

Playing a lot of Cover 2, Kent skillfully uses his eyes to pick up on route clues and drive on throws. His aggressiveness can get him in trouble at times, but he shows the make-up speed on tape to recover. Despite getting his hands on a lot of footballs, he was able to convert only two passes into turnovers. Overall, Kent is an above-average tackler for the position (at least 50 tackles each of the past four years) with NFL-quality speed, processing and special teams value.

GRADE: FA

CB44 Nikko Reed

Oregon, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Oakland, CA	Moreau Catholic	Mar 03, 2003	22.14	5092	183	#9

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/1)	9	1.5	0	0	2	1	Colorado; 100-yard KR TD; enrolled June 2021
2022: (12/12)	42	2.5	1	0	9	2	Colorado
2023: (14/2)	25	2.0	1	0	7	0	Oregon; enrolled May 2023
2024: (14/13)	39	2.0	0	0	8	2	Oregon; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
Total: (52/28)	115	8.0	2	0	26	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5092	183	9	30 1/8	71 3/4	4.46	2.62	1.58	32	9'8"	4.41	6.95	DNP

SUMMARY: Nikko Reed was born in San Francisco and raised by his mother (Maria Napitan). His older brother (Khalil Hudson) played wide receiver at Southern Oregon. Reed played wide receiver and corner at Moreau Catholic High and collected 2,199 career all-purpose yards and 13 interceptions (three returned for touchdowns).

An undersized (155 pounds) three-star recruit, he committed to Colorado, his lone then-Power 5 offer. After starting in 2022, he was part of the program's max exodus that came after Deion Sanders took the head-coaching job and flipped the roster. Reed transferred to Oregon and became arguably the Ducks' most consistent starter in 2024.

He is light-footed with balanced movement skills and recovery speed. His pattern recognition has shown steady improvements, although you'd like to see him better anticipate break points to be more disruptive. Overall, Reed lacks ideal size and explosiveness, but he plays fluid and natural in reverse and is quick to support the run. He's a candidate for a nickel role.

GRADE: FA

CB45 Zemaiah Vaughn

Utah, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Beaumont, TX	United	Apr 02, 2002	23.06	6024	186	#5

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (4/0)	1	0	0.0	0	1	1	Redshirted; Walk on; Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/4)	25	3	0.5	0	4	0
2022: (14/7)	25	1	0.0	1	9	0
2023: (13/13)	53	5	0.5	0	7	1	Honorable Mention All-Pac 12
2024: (12/12)	40	5	2.0	1	6	1	60-yard INT TD
Total: (56/36)	144	14	3.0	2	27	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6024	186	81/2	32 1/4	80	4.45	2.57	1.55	39 1/2	10'9"	4.37	7.31	DNP

SUMMARY: Zemaiah (zuh-my-uh) Vaughn, one of eight children, grew up in southeast Texas, with his parents (Chris and Zipporah). Following in one of his older brother's footsteps, he grew up playing quarterback and earned first-team all-district honors in 2019 as a senior at United High (1,049 rushing yards and 854 passing yards). A no-star recruit, he was overlooked until Utah and defensive coordinator Morgan Scalley gave him a walk-on opportunity as a defensive back. Despite having no experience in the secondary, he joined the Utes and made the positional transition, eventually starting 31 straight games at left cornerback to finish his career.

Although leaner than is ideal, Vaughn has an elite mix of height, length and straight-line speed. He is leggy in his movements — some of that stiffness hinders his ability to stay attached with quick-twitch route runners. He entered the 2024 season with high expectations, but offenses found too much success throwing at his side of the field. Overall, Vaughn allows too much separation in man, but he is long and fast and has upside as a corner in Cover 3, where he could read and react.

GRADE: FA

CB46 Jordan Clark

Notre Dame, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Baton Rouge, LA	University	Apr 22, 2001	24.01	5092	184	#1

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	5	0.0	0	0	0	0	Arizona State; redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (4/2)	16	1.0	0	0	2	0	Arizona State; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/2)	21	1.0	0	0	3	1	Arizona State
2022: (11/9)	47	3.0	0	0	6	2	Arizona State
2023: (11/10)	50	1.5	0	0	9	0	Arizona State; 38-yard INT TD
2024: (16/8)	37	2.0	0	0	6	1	Notre Dame; enrolled January 2024
Total: (57/31)	176	8.5	0	0	26	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5092	184	8 3/4	29 3/8	71 3/8	4.66	2.70	1.62	36 1/2	10'4"	4.34	7.31	18

SUMMARY: Jordan Clark, who has two sisters, grew up in Baton Rouge, La., with his parents (Ryan and Yonka). His father put together a 13-year NFL career (2002-14) at defensive back, mostly with the Pittsburgh Steelers, despite going undrafted out of LSU (Ryan Clark is now an NFL analyst for ESPN).

Jordan Clark developed a love for football and told his father in eighth grade that he eventually wanted to play college ball. He became an All-America defensive back at University Lab School in Baton Rouge. A four-star recruit, he committed to Arizona State, where he lined up primarily as a nickel over five years in Tempe. Clark transferred to Notre Dame for his final season and was part of the nickel rotation in Al Golden's scheme, helping the Irish reach the national title game.

He is very smooth in his movements and doesn't look out of his depth with man-coverage duties. He shows hip snap as a tackler, although his technique can be buttoned up to help him be a more consistent finisher. Overall, Clark is a fluid athlete with a nose for the football. NFL teams speak highly about his interviews and intangibles.

GRADE: FA

CB47 Dontae Manning

Oregon, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Kansas City, MO	Raytown	Sep 27, 2001	23.57	5112	184	#8

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/1)	21	1.0	0	0	1	0	First start came in bowl game
2022: (13/2)	20	0.0	0	0	1	0
2023: (13/4)	25	0.0	0	0	7	1
2024: (14/1)	18	0.5	0	0	7	1
Total: (54/8)	84	1.5	0	0	16	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5112	184	8	33 1/8	77 3/4	4.38	2.60	1.58	38 1/2	10'6"	4.38	7.07	DNP

SUMMARY: Dontae Manning grew up in the Kansas City, Mo., area and was a standout basketball, football and track athlete at Raytown High. He played on all three phases for the football team and earned first-team all-state honors as a senior with 970 rushing yards, 97 tackles and 24 total touchdowns. He also set school track records of 10.67 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.27 in the 200.

A five-star recruit, he was a consensus top-five corner in his class and originally committed to Oklahoma before flipping to Oregon. He struggled to separate himself as a full-time starter and spent most of his career as a nickel/dime outside corner (22.8 defensive snaps per game in 2024). He was able to make an impact as a senior as a core-four special-teamer (216 special teams snaps in 2024).

Manning has electric speed but lacks fundamental transition ability to stay attached to routes. His anticipation and feel for concepts are still in the development phase. Overall, Manning doesn't have draftable tape on defense, but he offers a combination of rare length, athletic gifts and special teams experience that makes him worth bringing to training camp.

GRADE: FA

CB48 Kam Alexander

Oregon, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Manvel, TX	Manvel	Oct 27, 2000	24.49	5106	183	#11

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (6/0)	4	0.0	0	0	2	0	Sam Houston State
2020: (10/0)	16	1.5	0	0	8	0	Sam Houston State; season played in spring 2021
2021: (12/1)	18	4.0	0	1	8	2	Sam Houston State
2022: (4/4)	14	0.5	0	0	1	1	Sam Houston State; blocked FG
2023: (13/9)	34	2.0	1	0	17	2	UTSA; First Team All-AAC; led team in PD, INT; Bowl game MVP
2024: (11/0)	4	0.0	0	0	1	1	Oregon; Enrolled January 2024
Total: (56/14)	90	8.0	1	1	37	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5106	183	9 1/8	31 1/4	76 5/8	4.45	2.59	1.53	41 1/2	11'1"	4.15	6.75	8

SUMMARY: Kameryn "Kam" Alexander grew up outside of Houston and was a standout football and track athlete at Manvel High. He was an all-district cornerback as a senior and had personal bests of 22 feet, 7 inches in the long jump and 46-1 in the triple jump.

A no-star recruit, he signed with Sam Houston State and helped the program win the FCS championship in the spring of 2021. He transferred up to UTSA in 2023 and finished top five in the FBS in passes defended (17) in 2023. Again looking to challenge himself, he transferred to Oregon in 2024 but failed to win a starting job and played just 71 defensive snaps in a Ducks uniform.

Alexander plays fast and competitive, with springs in his calves to explode downhill. However, his awareness and reaction skills are undisciplined and take him out of position. His underpowered frame shows against bigger receivers and when tackling bully runners. Overall, Alexander wasn't able to translate his 2023 success to his play for the Ducks in 2024, but his top-tier athletic traits were on display at his pro day, which will force NFL teams to take a longer look.

GRADE: FA

CB49 TJ Moore

Mercer, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Riverdale, GA	Riverdale	Dec 15, 2001	23.36	6003	187	#8

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (11/3)	24	0.0	0	0	1	0
2021: (10/3)	15	0.5	0	0	2	1
2022: (11/11)	40	1.5	0	0	4	3
2023: (13/13)	43	0.0	0	1	5	0
2024: (14/14)	64	1.0	0	0	20	7	Unanimous All-American; Buck Buchanan Award runner-up; First Team All-SoCon; 39-yard INT TD
Total: (59/44)	186	3.0	0	1	32	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6003	187	9 1/4	31	72 3/8	4.44	2.58	1.52	35	10'3"	4.52	7.00	DNP	No jumps, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)

SUMMARY: Tremain "TJ" Moore, one of four children, grew up in Riverdale, Ga., with his parents (Tamyra Smith and Tremain Sr.). He played both ways as a corner, wide receiver and quarterback at Riverdale High. A no-star recruit, he received mostly Division II interest (primarily at receiver) until FCS Mercer entered the mix. Moore signed there to play defense and immediately claimed a role as part of the secondary rotation, playing in 59 games (including 56 straight) over the past five seasons. He became just the second unanimous All-American in school history in 2024 (20 passes defended and seven interceptions). A good-sized athlete, Moore maintains good positioning in zone and aggressively plays the football with timing (zero penalties in 2024). He flashes a burst to close in coverage and run support, although his attempts to bait throws will backfire at times, and you'd like to see more disciplined technique. Overall, Moore will get in trouble freelancing, but he is a twitched-up athlete with physicality and ball skills. He will have a chance to compete for an NFL roster spot.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
50	Micah Robinson	Tulane	5107	183	4.42	2.55	1.52	35	10'3"	4.55	7.14	14	8 3/4	30 7/8	73 5/8
51	Sean Fresch	Rice	5083	173	4.40	2.66	1.52	41	10'4"	4.06	6.83	16	9 1/4	30 1/2	73
52	Austin McKinney	NW Missouri State	6000	200	4.59	2.66	1.56	40	10'8"	4.55	7.33	DNP	10	33 5/8	79
53	Jakob Robinson	Baylor	5102	181	4.39	2.54	1.55	38 1/2	10'5"	4.38	7.01	DNP	9	30 1/4	74 3/4
54	Johnathan Edwards	Tulane	6006	201	4.42	2.59	1.59	38 1/2	10'4"	4.41	7.00	13	8 7/8	32 1/4	76 7/8
55	Bruce Harmon	Stephen F. Austin	5106	202	4.44	2.51	1.48	36 1/2	10'8"	4.23	7.31	28	9	31	73
56	Garnett Hollis Jr.	West Virginia	6003	199	4.50	2.59	1.58	36 1/2	10'5"	4.30	DNP	11	8 3/8	31 3/4	76 1/4
57	Doneiko Slaughter	Arkansas	5112	195	4.38	2.52	1.56	36	9'11"	4.41	7.30	17	9	31 3/8	73 1/2
58	Kendall Paul	East Texas A&M	5086	162	4.38	2.50	1.55	35 1/2	10'1"	4.27	7.44	DNP	7 5/8	29	69 3/4
59	Tyron Herring	Delaware	6010	201	4.49	2.65	1.60	31 1/2	9'11"	4.41	7.25	10	9 1/4	31 7/8	77 1/8
60	Roman Parodie	Ohio	6013	192	4.52	2.68	1.64	35	10'5"	4.15	6.92	20	8 1/4	30 3/4	74 7/8
61	Car'lin Vigers	Louisiana Monroe	6012	205	4.52	2.64	1.60	38	10'10"	4.47	7.02	DNP	9 1/4	32 3/4	77 1/2
62	Tahveon Nicholson	Louisville	5097	182	4.60	2.48	1.54	35	9'11"	4.30	7.10	DNP	8 5/8	30 1/2	74 3/8
63	Jaydon Hill	Texas A&M	5117	194	4.52	2.62	1.53	34	10'1"	4.43	7.03	14	8 3/4	30 1/4	74 1/2
64	Terrence Spence	James Madison	6006	190	4.52	2.63	1.62	40	9'10"	4.21	6.94	15	8 1/2	30 1/2	74 1/2
65	Bralyn Lux	Texas Tech	5100	179	4.50	2.57	1.51	33 1/2	9'10"	4.10	6.95	5	9 1/8	29 5/8	71
66	Dom Jones	Colorado State	6021	192	4.56	2.63	1.59	36 1/2	10'4"	4.12	6.96	12	9 1/4	33	76 7/8
67	Cam Watts	New Mexico	5085	190	4.31	2.50	1.49	39	10'1"	4.38	7.00	20	8 3/8	29 3/8	72 3/4
68	Kahzir Brown	Florida Atlantic	6011	223	4.53	2.70	1.59	37	10'1"	4.37	7.16	24	10	32 1/2	76 7/8
69	Jaden Robinson	Oregon State	5115	192	4.42	2.59	1.59	38	10'4"	4.18	6.71	14	9	31 1/2	76 1/2
70	Keyon Martin	Louisiana	5092	170	4.38	2.56	1.52	39	10'4"	4.20	6.89	DNP	8 1/2	29 5/8	71
71	Keenan Garber	Kansas State	5111	192	4.50	2.54	1.54	39 1/2	10'6"	4.15	6.70	18	9	30 1/8	74 1/2
72	Aydan White	NC State	5117	182	4.58	2.62	1.47	34	10'3"	4.30	6.97	DNP	9 1/8	32 1/8	75 3/8
73	Davion Ross	Memphis	5100	177	4.40	2.62	1.54	33 1/2	10'8"	4.06	7.12	10	8 3/4	29 1/2	73 5/8
74	Gavin Holmes	Texas	5112	178	4.45	2.57	1.54	39	10'9"	4.44	6.97	14	8 3/8	30	71 1/4
75	Myles Purchase	Iowa State	5091	203	4.51	2.60	1.56	35	10'2"	4.41	7.38	17	8 7/8	30 3/8	73 1/4
76	RJ Delancy III	Wisconsin	5097	186	4.49	2.53	1.59	31	9'10"	DNP	DNP	17	9	30 5/8	71 1/4
77	Marquise Robinson	Arkansas	6002	192	4.45	2.57	1.54	34 1/2	10'5"	4.38	7.13	18	9 1/8	31 1/2	76
78	Reuben Lowery III	Chattanooga	5092	204	4.45	2.61	1.57	37	10'3"	4.16	7.03	17	9 1/4	31 3/4	75 1/4
79	Brandon Johnson	Oregon	5091	179	4.40	2.52	1.56	35 1/2	10'2"	4.21	6.94	11	8	30	71 7/8
80	Damaje Yancey	Troy	5102	192	4.46	2.63	1.56	36	10'5"	4.44	6.94	10	8 3/4	30 3/4	73 3/4
81	Jordan Mahoney	Arkansas State	5112	180	4.53	2.57	1.55	37	9'9"	4.37	7.17	14	8 7/8	32	77 1/4
82	LaMareon James	TCU	5094	193	4.40	2.50	1.53	36 1/2	10'7"	4.40	7.19	15	8 3/4	29 1/8	72 1/8
83	Keonte Ginton	New Mexico State	5094	178	4.445	2.55	1.55	37 1/2	10'6"	4.25	6.94	16	8 3/4	29 5/8	72
84	LaCarea Pleasant-Johnson	Southern Utah	6006	174	4.50	2.57	1.56	33	10'2"	4.47	7.09	DNP	10	32 1/2	78 5/8
85	Josh Stokes	Slippery Rock	5087	177	4.48	2.64	1.59	32	10'2"	4.42	7.01	9	8 3/4	31	75 1/4
86	Cam Lockridge	Fresno State	5106	181	4.58	2.72	1.60	31 1/2	10'0"	4.33	7.09	DNP	9 1/8	29 3/4	74 1/8
87	Corey Thornton	Louisville	6004	193	4.62	2.56	1.57	32 1/2	10'2"	4.29	7.21	9	9 3/8	32 1/2	79 1/8
88	Rod Heard II	Notre Dame	5103	183	4.67	2.74	1.68	33 1/2	9'11"	4.46	7.10	12	8 5/8	30 3/4	75 1/8
89	Isaiah Essissima	Colorado State	5102	177	4.40	2.57	1.52	30	8'5"	4.31	7.21	24	9 1/4	29 7/8	72 3/4
90	Clarence Lewis	Syracuse	5110	200	4.52	2.68	1.62	29	9'7"	4.22	7.02	16	9 5/8	32 1/8	77 5/8
91	John Humphrey	USC	6022	193	4.54	2.68	1.56	39	10'0"	4.23	7.33	9	9 1/2	33 1/4	79 1/4
92	Ridge Texada	North Texas	5080	186	4.42	2.59	1.52	33 1/2	10'1"	4.17	7.01	DNP	8 7/8	28 7/8	70 5/8
93	Brandon Crossley	SMU	5103	186	4.44	2.57	1.61	30 1/2	9'10"	4.35	7.08	11	8 1/2	29 1/2	71 3/8
94	Mike Reid	South Dakota	6013	203	4.59	2.65	1.59	35 1/2	9'11"	4.36	7.10	13	8 1/2	32 1/2	77 1/8
95	Eddie Faulkner IV	Slippery Rock	5075	189	4.63	2.66	1.64	37 1/2	9'8"	4.34	7.07	DNP	8 1/2	31 3/4	72
96	Jordan Wright	UConn	5101	187	4.52	2.59	1.62	36 1/2	10'2"	4.56	7.07	19	8 1/4	31 1/4	74 7/8
97	Jaaron Joseph	Emporia State	6002	205	4.59	2.68	1.59	35	10'1"	4.46	7.26	16	9 3/8	31 7/8	77 7/8
98	Naim Muhammad	Kent State	5103	188	4.52	2.67	1.61	31 1/2	10'3"	4.19	6.89	16	8 3/4	30 1/4	73 7/8
99	Key Cunningham	Heidelberg	5092	174	4.51	2.60	1.54	30	9'10"	4.32	7.23	11	8 1/8	29	70 3/8
100	Kaylin Moore	UCLA	5096	186	4.56	2.63	1.59	31 1/2	DNP	4.28	7.03	DNP	8 3/8	30 1/2	73 1/4
101	Brandon Turnage	Ole Miss	6003	190	4.51	2.61	1.57	41 1/2	11'0"	4.37	7.15	13	9 7/8	31 3/4	76
102	Cameron Oliver	UNLV	6004	166	4.52	2.61	1.62	34	9'11"	4.48	7.39	DNP	8 3/8	30 1/8	73 1/8
103	Isaiah Greene	Campbell	5114	188	4.46	2.61	1.58	37	10'10"	4.25	7.01	DNP	9 3/4	33 5/8	78 3/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
104	JaVaughn Byrd	Northern Illinois	6007	190	4.62	2.69	1.63	34	10'5"	4.35	7.31	DNP	9	33	78
105	Dashaun Peele	Navy	5100	195	4.62	2.73	1.67	28 1/2	9'4"	4.53	7.12	13	9 1/2	31	72
106	Kendall Bohler	Florida A&M	5105	194	4.59	2.69	1.55	35	10'11"	4.40	7.93	15	8 3/4	31 1/8	76 1/4
107	Keydrain Calligan	SE Louisiana	5111	197	4.45	2.56	1.55	35	10'5"	4.23	7.21	20	9	31	74
108	Andrew Volmar	Bethune-Cookman	6015	173	4.66	2.66	1.63	37	9'9"	4.37	7.39	8	8 3/4	31	74 7/8
109	James Burgess	Alabama State	6022	191	4.75	2.75	1.60	31 1/2	9'9"	4.46	7.37	11	8 1/2	30 1/2	74
110	Jordan Oladokun	Bowling Green	5105	188	4.63	2.70	1.64	31	9'2"	4.32	7.02	15	8 7/8	30	71 1/2
111	Daryl Porter Jr.	Miami	5110	184	4.58	2.70	1.67	36	DNP	4.53	7.15	12	8 1/2	31	74 1/2
112	Devin Hembry	North Dakota	6004	188	4.72	2.68	1.59	35 1/2	10'11"	4.58	7.37	12	9 1/4	32 7/8	78 1/8
113	Zeke Blake	Toledo	6023	200	4.68	2.65	1.69	32	9'9"	4.58	7.45	17	9 3/8	33 1/8	77 3/8
114	Aamir Hall	Michigan	6005	205	4.77	2.72	1.71	35	9'11"	4.63	7.27	DNP	8 7/8	31 1/4	71 5/8
115	Cam Stone	Hawaii	5090	191	4.62	2.68	1.63	33 1/2	9'5"	4.25	7.34	19	8 3/4	28 5/8	68 3/8
116	Devin Kirkwood	UCLA	6030	197	4.67	2.75	1.69	31 1/2	9'10"	4.59	7.61	13	9 1/2	33 5/8	80 3/8
117	Isaiah Hamilton	Ole Miss	6001	174	4.53	2.68	1.61	32 1/2	9'11"	4.31	7.18	8	8 7/8	31 1/2	76 1/4
118	Dylan Brown	Wisc.-River Falls	6024	202	4.55	2.53	1.57	34 1/2	10'8"	4.53	7.25	19	10 1/8	32 3/4	76 1/4
119	Woodi Washington	Oklahoma	5112	191	4.60	2.74	1.67	33 1/2	10'1"	4.44	7.20	11	9 1/8	31 5/8	75 7/8
120	David Spaulding	South Carolina	6005	193	4.58	2.65	1.51	36	10'6"	4.46	7.31	DNP	10 1/8	31 3/4	76 3/4
121	CJ Williams	Western Carolina	5077	166	4.53	2.65	1.49	31	10'2"	4.38	7.25	12	9 3/8	30 7/8	73 3/4
122	Greedy Vance Jr.	USC	5097	182	4.64	2.68	1.59	34	10'7"	4.20	7.09	13	8	30 1/8	72 3/8
123	Dallas Branch	Kent State	5100	184	4.50	2.64	1.57	39 1/2	10'8"	4.35	7.15	DNP	9 1/2	30 1/8	73 7/8
124	Amir Annoor	Wofford	5100	178	4.48	2.63	1.56	36	10'1"	4.52	7.44	12	10	30 7/8	74
125	Robbie Peterson Jr.	Northern Iowa	5116	186	4.63	2.56	1.58	38 1/2	10'10"	4.45	7.06	17	8 7/8	31 5/8	74
126	Lake Ellis	UMass	5105	185	4.55	2.63	1.58	32 1/2	10'2"	4.40	6.97	15	8 5/8	30 3/4	74 1/8
127	Kobee Minor	Memphis	5113	188	4.56	2.68	1.60	36	10'0"	4.54	7.23	9	10	31 5/8	76 1/2
128	Kole Jones	NC Central	5083	190	4.52	2.60	1.62	32 1/2	10'0"	4.28	7.04	14	8 1/4	31 1/8	73 1/8
129	Dalys Beanum	South Dakota State	6000	195	4.52	2.64	1.52	32 1/2	9'9"	4.445	7.23	6	9 3/8	32 1/8	74 1/2
130	Seyi Oladipo	Boise State	5112	209	4.61	2.63	1.62	33	10'3"	4.52	7.10	19	9 1/2	31	74 1/8
131	Bryquice Brown	Boston College	5110	190	4.61	2.63	1.58	38	10'4"	4.44	7.12	13	8 3/4	32 1/4	77 1/2
132	Gavin Pringle	Georgia State	5106	180	4.57	2.71	1.54	36	10'2"	4.15	7.09	10	8 3/4	30 1/8	73 1/2
133	Khai West	Minn. State-Mankato	6005	182	4.68	2.59	1.56	36 1/2	10'4"	4.32	7.19	DNP	9 1/4	31 5/8	76 1/2
134	Jeremiah Walker	Stephen F. Austin	6002	195	4.55	2.64	1.52	36 1/2	10'4"	4.20	7.33	21	9 1/2	30 1/2	72 3/4
135	Warren Burrell	Georgia Tech	5117	191	4.61	2.68	1.53	35	10'3"	4.49	7.37	13	9	32	76 1/2
136	Jamari Bellamy	Air Force	6002	192	4.63	2.65	1.62	33	10'1"	DNP	DNP	8	9 1/2	28 7/8	73 5/8
137	JayVian Farr	Augustana	5077	186	4.44	2.54	1.58	36	9'9"	4.36	6.97	8	9	31 1/2	74 1/2
138	Montre Miller	Mississippi State	5100	182	4.55	2.64	1.63	29 1/2	9'6"	4.38	7.13	DNP	9 1/4	30 3/8	73 1/4
139	Ed Woods	Michigan State	5112	186	4.63	2.69	1.59	34	10'2"	4.45	7.38	DNP	9 1/2	30 3/8	73 5/8
140	Jashon Prophete	Northern Illinois	5107	185	4.62	2.68	1.58	34 1/2	10'5"	4.18	7.06	10	9 3/8	31 1/2	74 7/8
141	JaTravis Broughton	TCU	5106	188	4.53	2.62	1.57	33	10'2"	4.06	7.02	DNP	8 3/4	31 3/8	75 7/8
142	Rashod Tanner	UNLV	5070	156	4.39	2.53	1.59	34 1/2	10'0"	4.41	7.22	14	7 7/8	29 5/8	72
143	Caleb Blake	Bethune-Cookman	5104	186	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	30 1/2	73 5/8
144	Darius Bruce	Indiana Univ. of Pa.	5105	191	4.65	2.67	1.59	33	10'6"	4.35	7.13	12	9 5/8	30 5/8	74 3/8
145	Eric Rogers	Rutgers	6014	178	4.64	2.68	1.52	32	10'3"	4.25	6.84	DNP	9 3/8	32 1/8	76 3/4
146	Eric Haney	San Diego	5086	183	DNP	DNP	DNP	34 1/2	9'7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/2	28 5/8	70 5/8
147	Andrew Pitts	Angelo State	5075	162	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	29 7/8	73 1/8
148	Kobe Hylton	Oklahoma State	5116	204	4.55	2.60	1.47	36 1/2	10'3"	4.52	7.20	13	9	32	79
149	K.J. Wallace	UCLA	5100	186	4.76	2.72	1.67	31 1/2	9'7"	4.37	7.22	11	8 3/4	30 3/4	75 3/4
150	Gio Nowotarski	Concordia (Wis.)	5115	180	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 5/8	31 1/8	75 1/2
151	Tyreese Shakir	Portland State	5095	197	4.59	2.75	1.60	36	10'1"	4.20	7.00	14	8 7/8	29	70 7/8
152	Justin Hodges	Arkansas State	5115	178	4.58	2.63	1.56	33 1/2	10'5"	4.21	7.19	5	8 5/8	32 7/8	77 1/8
153	Chris Mills	Texas State	5102	184	4.54	2.53	1.53	35 1/2	10'3"	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	30 1/4	73 5/8
154	Quinten Johnson	Michigan	5097	202	4.71	2.64	1.62	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/4	30 3/4	72 7/8
155	Robert Jones III	Howard	5115	183	4.48	2.59	1.54	38	DNP	DNP	DNP	14	9	31 3/4	73 1/2
156	Ajani Carter	Houston	6000	193	4.52	2.61	1.54	31 1/2	9'10"	4.38	6.95	18	10 1/8	32	75 1/2
157	Deshawn Jones Jr.	Stony Brook	5097	183	4.71	2.69	1.64	35	9'6"	4.40	7.52	16	8 1/2	29 5/8	70 3/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
158	Seth Robertson	Appalachian State	5096	191	4.57	2.59	1.53	38	10'5"	4.47	7.22	11	8 3/4	30	70 1/2
159	Ke'Vric Wiggins Jr.	Jackson State	5100	172	4.71	2.87	1.68	28 1/2	9'1"	4.46	7.28	DNP	8	30 3/8	72 1/4
160	Jesse Johnson III	Austin Peay	5111	174	4.83	2.79	1.66	31 1/2	9'6"	4.38	7.47	DNP	8 1/8	31 1/2	74 5/8
161	Kempton Shine	Virginia	5110	187	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10	8 3/4	30	74 3/8
162	Jacobe Covington	USC	6016	207	4.64	2.72	1.65	33 1/2	10'1"	4.52	7.09	12	9 1/4	32 1/2	79
163	Amir Wallace	San Jose State	6000	189	4.72	2.75	1.66	33	10'4"	4.48	7.14	12	9	30 7/8	75 1/2
164	Gio Waller	East Central	6000	187	4.62	2.72	1.53	39	10'6"	4.66	7.46	13	9 3/8	33	78 1/8
165	Cedarius Doss	Indiana	5067	172	4.53	2.58	1.56	33 1/2	9'11"	4.41	7.31	7	8 1/8	29 1/2	71
166	Steven Arrell	South Dakota State	6022	193	4.63	2.68	1.69	35	10'5"	4.33	7.34	9	10	31 1/2	76
167	Justin Efebera	Mississippi College	5106	197	4.60	2.63	1.63	DNP	10'4"	4.30	7.45	DNP	9 1/2	30	72 1/4
168	Fredrick Mallay	Rhode Island	5074	180	4.60	DNP	1.60	34	10'0"	4.58	7.19	18	8 3/8	29	70 7/8
169	Juan Powell	Coastal Carolina	5097	188	4.71	2.72	1.60	31 1/2	9'8"	4.72	7.51	DNP	8 5/8	30 3/4	74 1/4
170	Tyson Russell	Vanderbilt	5090	184	4.57	2.57	1.52	37	10'4"	4.25	7.07	16	8 3/4	32 1/4	75 3/4
171	Joshua Pickett	Duke	5113	186	4.59	2.60	1.53	36	10'6"	4.26	6.86	12	8 7/8	30 7/8	75 5/8
172	Lorando Johnson	Baylor	5106	181	4.56	2.64	1.60	34	10'1"	DNP	DNP	8	8 3/4	30 1/2	73 3/8
173	Xavier Lanier	Samford	6000	191	4.60	2.62	1.59	28	9'10"	4.57	7.38	4	9	32 3/8	79 1/8
174	Isaiah Rutherford	UMass	6004	191	4.57	2.70	1.58	31 1/2	9'10"	4.22	7.23	DNP	8 7/8	31 1/8	74 7/8
175	Matt Ross	Indiana State	6004	197	4.70	2.70	1.63	32	9'11"	4.63	7.51	11	10	31 1/2	77 3/4
176	Corry Thomas Jr.	Idaho	5087	182	4.48	2.51	1.59	39	10'5"	4.31	7.05	17	8 1/2	30 1/8	74 3/8
177	Marcus Sheppard	North Dakota State	5112	188	4.57	2.62	1.60	33	DNP	4.31	7.19	13	9 1/4	29 3/4	72
178	Cahleel Smith	NW Missouri State	5116	199	4.71	2.56	1.53	31	9'4"	4.43	7.22	9	9 3/8	32	75 3/4
179	Randy Jordan Jr.	Hampton	5083	169	4.53	2.61	1.53	34	DNP	4.34	6.98	12	9	29 1/8	71
180	Jacorey Benjamin	Bowling Green	5104	180	4.72	2.72	1.71	32 1/2	9'3"	4.38	7.18	12	8	30 3/8	73
181	Leonard St. Gourdin	UMass	6023	204	4.69	2.70	1.59	40	10'7"	4.42	7.27	DNP	9	32 5/8	78 3/4
182	Marque Collins	BYU	5104	173	4.68	2.69	1.68	35 1/2	10'6"	4.15	6.96	DNP	8 1/8	29	72 3/4
183	C'Darius Kelley	Wake Forest	5110	178	4.72	2.71	1.59	35 1/2	9'8"	4.43	6.89	DNP	9 1/8	31 1/4	76
184	Kevon Angry	Albany	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A
185	Daedae Hill	Florida Atlantic	5101	178	4.71	2.72	1.67	33	10'1"	4.37	7.26	13	9 3/8	30 1/4	73 3/8
186	Lu-Magia Hearn III	California	5090	171	4.67	2.73	1.58	33 1/2	9'10"	4.34	7.20	10	9 3/8	30	73 3/4
187	Tylor Bohannon	Idaho State	6015	185	4.76	2.61	1.69	34 1/2	9'10"	4.35	7.25	6	8 3/4	30 3/4	74 1/2
188	Christian Ais	New Haven	5115	202	4.65	2.65	1.64	36	10'1"	4.22	7.32	15	9 3/4	31 1/2	76
189	Day McKinney	Central Michigan	5091	196	4.58	2.60	1.54	36 1/2	9'10"	4.38	7.34	14	9	29 5/8	72 1/2
190	Anthony Johnson Jr.	Western Kentucky	5093	178	4.58	2.58	1.50	32	DNP	DNP	DNP	13	7 7/8	29 5/8	67 1/8
191	Corey Coley	NC State	6010	185	4.57	2.62	1.56	36	10'7"	4.27	7.18	12	8 7/8	33 1/8	78 5/8
192	Keshaun Harris	Michigan	5101	189	4.71	2.64	1.63	35	9'8"	4.26	6.76	DNP	8 5/8	29 3/4	71
193	Kendarius Smith	Nicholls State	5084	171	4.55	2.63	1.60	36	10'4"	4.28	7.15	14	8 3/8	30 1/2	73 3/4
194	Julian Barnett	Memphis	6014	187	4.51	2.63	1.56	31	9'10"	4.35	7.19	DNP	9 5/8	31 3/4	76 5/8
195	Charles Yates Jr.	Liberty	5093	188	4.59	2.62	1.57	36 1/2	9'9"	4.40	7.50	12	9 3/8	30 3/8	72 3/4
196	Kenny Bennett	Virginia State	6021	188	4.63	2.63	1.61	33 1/2	10'2"	4.45	7.32	10	8 1/2	32 3/4	73 1/4
197	Marco Baker	Jacksonville State	6002	179	4.58	2.75	1.60	31	9'9"	4.64	7.90	7	9 3/8	32 1/2	76 5/8
198	Matthew Littlejohn	California	5101	188	4.60	2.65	1.58	36	10'0"	4.23	7.07	13	9	29 1/2	72
199	Caleb Mead	New Hampshire	5085	178	4.56	DNP	1.57	30	10'0"	4.25	7.07	9	9	30	72 1/4
200	Cameron Bergeron	Duke	5106	187	4.57	2.57	1.52	34	9'10"	4.23	6.69	19	8 5/8	31 1/2	74
201	Amir Byrd	Maine	5072	168	4.65	DNP	1.63	36 1/2	9'10"	4.36	7.31	16	9 1/4	28 1/4	70 3/8
202	Justin Harris	Texas State	5104	183	4.70	2.72	1.57	33 1/2	10'0"	4.40	7.50	10	9 3/8	31 1/2	75 1/4
203	Vincent Fisher	Otterbein	5106	174	4.57	2.63	1.53	34 1/2	10'4"	4.44	6.85	DNP	9 1/8	31 1/4	74
204	Davone Walden Jr.	Central Conn. State	5116	187	4.64	2.76	1.63	37 1/2	10'5"	4.40	DNP	12	9 1/4	30 5/8	74 3/8
205	K.J. Truillo	Idaho	5114	177	4.66	2.69	1.65	36	10'4"	4.42	7.05	8	8 3/4	28 3/4	71 1/2
206	Kee'yon Stewart	Arkansas	5113	190	4.50	2.59	1.57	34 1/2	9'5"	4.45	7.31	16	9	30 3/8	74 1/4
207	Eli Pittman	CSU Pueblo	5102	184	4.58	2.69	1.59	34	10'1"	4.53	7.03	12	9 1/8	30 7/8	74 3/4
208	Jabril Hayes	Richmond	5093	172	4.51	2.63	1.56	37 1/2	10'11"	4.40	7.05	13	8 3/4	29 1/2	70 3/4
209	Darrien Sampson	Eastern Washington	5110	173	4.67	2.75	1.63	36 1/2	9'7"	4.40	7.22	9	9 1/2	30 1/8	72 5/8
210	Jaedon Joyner	William & Mary	6007	185	4.65	2.66	1.58	DNP	DNP	4.57	7.20	DNP	9 3/4	30 1/2	74 1/2
211	Kobe Rome	Fort Hays State	5107	186	4.46	2.66	1.58	31	10'5"	4.46	7.60	10	7 3/8	31 1/8	74 5/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
212	Trey Williams	Air Force	5094	176	4.56	2.61	1.63	33	9'10"	4.40	6.97	12	9	30 1/4	73 7/8
213	Javerius McGuinn	Missouri Western St.	5107	179	4.51	2.65	1.65	36 1/2	10'10"	4.39	7.14	6	8 1/8	29 7/8	73 1/2
214	Adrian Cole	Arkansas State	5105	187	4.64	2.57	1.57	40 1/2	11'0"	4.25	7.00	13	8 7/8	31 1/4	74 1/4
215	Noa Pola-Gates	New Mexico	5115	180	4.64	2.62	1.67	31	9'9"	4.53	7.05	DNP	8 1/2	32 1/4	72 3/4
216	Cam Sims	East Tennessee State	6000	182	4.75	2.64	1.68	33 1/2	10'2"	4.39	7.43	8	8 3/8	30 7/8	73
217	Arsheen Jiles	UMass	5084	187	4.73	2.77	1.60	32 1/2	9'7"	4.17	6.89	15	8 7/8	29 1/8	72 1/4
218	Reyjon Williams	Central Missouri	6001	195	4.67	2.70	1.58	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	7 3/8	30 5/8	74
219	Courtney Eubanks	Coastal Carolina	5101	182	4.76	2.76	1.60	34	10'1"	4.63	7.50	10	8 1/4	30	72 1/4
220	DaShon Bussell	Western Michigan	6002	185	4.55	2.64	1.56	33	10'2"	4.19	6.94	DNP	8 7/8	32 3/8	73 1/8
221	Naeem Alexander	Shepherd	5086	164	4.77	2.56	1.62	31	9'9"	DNP	DNP	6	8 5/8	29 7/8	70 3/8
222	Ricky Pearson	Northwood	5084	177	4.57	2.56	1.55	38	10'1"	4.31	6.97	13	8 1/8	30	70 1/8
223	Alex Oliver	Liberty	5102	176	4.75	2.72	1.65	33 1/2	9'7"	4.39	7.37	9	8 3/4	30 1/4	73 3/4
224	Ja'Kobe North	Charleston Southern	5117	196	4.63	2.70	1.63	35	10'0"	4.50	7.63	15	8 3/4	31 3/8	74 3/4
225	Quez Royal	Western Carolina	5114	179	4.62	2.65	1.61	31	9'11"	4.41	7.31	11	9 1/8	33 7/8	76 3/8
226	Damonte McCurdy	Grand Valley State	5072	165	4.54	2.63	1.56	35	9'6"	4.31	7.18	12	8 1/2	28 7/8	70 3/8
227	Lejond Cavazos	Michigan State	5114	197	4.60	2.56	1.56	36 1/2	10'8"	4.53	7.20	8	9 3/8	31 1/4	75 7/8
228	Semaj Brown	Houston Christian	5104	198	4.69	2.62	1.56	35 1/2	10'1"	4.42	7.12	11	9 3/4	34	78 1/8
229	Troy Jakubec	UAB	6002	191	4.68	2.71	1.57	30	9'6"	4.41	7.19	DNP	9 3/8	30	73 3/4
230	Dahlil Wilkins	Clark Atlanta	5076	186	4.77	2.77	1.63	30	8'8"	4.82	7.63	DNP	8 3/8	28 1/4	70 1/8
231	Kriston Davis	Houston	5116	183	4.65	2.66	1.59	35 1/2	10'1"	4.32	7.13	10	8 5/8	33	79 7/8
232	Carlvaisnys Decius	Morgan State	5106	188	4.82	2.72	1.59	36 1/2	10'9"	4.31	6.96	20	9	32 5/8	78 1/8
233	Darius Gooden	Hampton	6016	201	4.77	2.79	1.65	34	10'4"	4.42	7.56	10	9 1/4	32 7/8	77 7/8
234	Nyquann Washington	Western Michigan	5093	160	4.65	2.71	1.62	35 1/2	10'5"	4.66	7.38	DNP	7 1/2	31	71 1/4
235	JaCari Williams	Colorado Mesa	5064	172	4.54	2.68	1.59	30	9'2"	4.23	6.95	17	9	28 3/8	69 7/8
236	Jamal McMurrin	Portland State	5100	187	4.51	2.64	1.54	40 1/2	10'3"	4.37	7.47	21	9 1/8	30 1/4	71 5/8
237	Tyrell Mims	Villanova	5097	182	4.65	2.71	1.58	36 1/2	10'2"	4.48	7.07	12	8 7/8	29 5/8	72 3/4
238	Rob Carter Jr.	Robert Morris	5084	175	4.63	2.66	1.57	34 1/2	10'0"	4.20	7.05	8	8 1/2	30 1/4	71 5/8
239	Dontez Fagan	West Virginia	5092	181	4.71	2.72	1.63	32 1/2	9'9"	4.29	7.19	7	9	28 1/2	72
240	K-Shawn Schulters	Monmouth	6005	177	4.75	2.78	1.65	29	8'9"	4.68	7.65	DNP	8 3/8	32 3/4	75 3/8
241	Keyon Turner	South Dakota	5084	169	4.74	2.71	1.62	28	9'0"	4.41	7.35	10	8 1/8	29 1/4	68 1/8
242	Tre'shon Devones	Duke	5106	189	4.59	2.62	1.55	32	9'9"	4.33	7.00	16	9 5/8	31 1/2	74 1/2
243	Demarcus Griffin-Taylor	Louisiana Tech	5066	164	4.66	2.69	1.62	29	9'2"	4.50	7.09	DNP	8 1/4	30	71
244	Dante Abrams Jr.	Fairmont State	5076	188	4.59	2.72	1.57	35 1/2	10'3"	4.41	6.91	21	8 7/8	30 3/8	75 1/4
245	Sean Colman	Valdosta State	5116	181	4.71	2.66	1.63	35 1/2	10'11"	DNP	DNP	5	9 5/8	32 3/4	79 1/4
246	Alonzo Johnson	Limestone	5112	175	4.61	2.69	1.64	32 1/2	10'0"	4.45	7.45	5	9 1/2	31 1/4	74 5/8
247	Cameron Thomas	Henderson State	5083	170	4.66	2.63	1.59	34	9'7"	DNP	DNP	12	8 1/2	28 1/2	71 1/4
248	Deon Houston	Merrimack	5076	174	4.59	DNP	1.54	36 1/2	10'4"	4.40	7.16	14	9 1/4	30 5/8	72 3/8
249	Edwin Summerour	Alcorn State	5092	157	4.60	2.70	1.63	DNP	9'11"	4.50	7.83	DNP	8 7/8	29 1/2	70 5/8
250	Dez Malone	Oklahoma	6002	196	4.83	2.78	1.71	29 1/2	9'9"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/4	33 3/8	76 1/4
251	Colby Dempsey	UAB	5094	170	4.76	2.81	1.64	33 1/2	9'2"	4.38	7.02	DNP	9 1/8	28 5/8	72 3/8
252	Coryell Pierce	SE Louisiana	5086	187	4.78	2.75	1.63	30	9'3"	DNP	DNP	6	8 3/8	29 3/4	71
253	Josh Alford	Idaho State	5082	184	4.83	2.84	1.57	31	DNP	4.56	7.50	11	8 5/8	30 1/2	73 3/8
254	Noah Hambrick	East Stroudsburg	5087	166	4.58	2.66	1.55	DNP	9'9"	4.44	7.33	13	8 3/8	28 3/4	70 1/2
255	Marcus Clarke	Missouri	5102	200	4.88	2.69	1.74	30 1/2	9'5"	4.75	7.69	8	9 5/8	32 1/4	77 1/2
256	Cyrus McClure	Concordia St. Paul	6002	194	4.75	2.72	1.69	34	10'0"	4.31	7.32	DNP	9 3/4	32 3/8	78
257	Mark Shepherd Jr.	Glenville State	5112	185	4.65	2.56	1.52	33 1/2	10'1"	4.51	7.25	10	7 7/8	31 1/4	74 1/4
258	Dominick Poole	The Citadel	5100	187	4.80	2.78	1.69	30	9'5"	4.47	7.44	DNP	9	30 5/8	73 5/8
259	Jyaire Shorter	Memphis	6013	203	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	9 7/8	34	79 3/4
260	Elias Larry	Colorado State	5112	188	4.80	2.76	1.66	29 1/2	9'3"	4.48	7.56	8	9	30 3/4	75 1/2
261	Kenney Solomon II	Jacksonville State	5111	180	4.69	2.71	1.62	29 1/2	9'9"	4.34	7.41	11	8 1/2	30	73 1/4
262	Kendall Brewer	Nebraska-Kearney	5110	163	4.72	2.63	1.64	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	30	70 7/8
263	Kyle McDonald	Harding	6010	200	4.66	2.68	1.64	33 1/2	10'1"	4.39	7.22	14	9 3/8	32 7/8	77
264	Brandon Williams	Mississippi Valley	5084	182	4.70	2.72	1.63	DNP	9'10"	4.51	7.22	DNP	9 3/8	29 1/4	70 1/4
265	Jarvis Ware	UNLV	6003	197	4.72	2.81	1.70	33	9'7"	4.47	7.60	DNP	10 1/8	32 5/8	77 1/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
266	AT Ntantang	Lafayette	5074	199	4.69	2.69	1.58	36	10'4"	4.24	7.32	15	9 1/2	30 3/8	72 1/4
267	Deunte Moody	Black Hills State	5103	185	4.78	2.74	1.66	30	9'8"	4.72	7.25	13	8	29 5/8	71 7/8
268	Dywan Griffin	Old Dominion	5116	182	4.70	2.64	1.59	29 1/2	9'6"	4.44	7.05	6	9	30 1/4	72 3/4
269	Emmonte Davis	Incarnate Word	6015	177	4.65	2.63	1.62	33 1/2	10'1"	4.45	7.34	7	9	31 3/8	74 1/4
270	Maurice Perkins	Furman	5082	162	4.84	2.78	1.68	29	9'0"	4.29	7.35	7	8 3/8	29 1/2	71 3/8
271	Kamron Smith	Samford	5113	197	4.78	2.78	1.61	29 1/2	9'3"	4.46	7.34	16	9 1/8	31 3/4	76 7/8
272	Trey Thomas	Shorter	5091	172	4.76	2.78	1.59	31	9'8"	4.90	7.39	22	8 1/2	29 5/8	71 1/4
273	Nicholas Fannin	West Virginia State	5104	188	4.84	2.72	1.69	27 1/2	8'8"	4.51	7.31	DNP	9 3/8	29 1/2	71 7/8
274	Joshua East	Colby	5101	186	4.70	DNP	1.58	33 1/2	10'1"	4.42	7.13	19	9	30 1/8	73 1/2
275	Dominic Morris	Colorado State	5085	171	4.91	2.79	1.65	29	8'5"	4.66	7.87	5	8 5/8	29 1/2	70 3/4
276	Terron Mallory	Norfolk State	5105	192	4.85	2.75	1.68	36	9'4"	4.20	7.53	8	9	30 5/8	74 1/4
277	Ty Leonard	SE Missouri State	5115	179	4.84	2.72	1.71	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 7/8	32	76 1/8
278	Camyen Feagins	Limestone	5105	172	4.76	2.73	1.75	30	9'8"	4.55	7.45	12	9 1/8	31 1/4	72 3/4
279	Gabe DuBois	Lafayette	5081	171	4.84	2.73	1.64	34	9'8"	4.23	7.41	9	8 7/8	30	73
280	Benyon Williams	Fort Hays State	5075	179	4.68	2.75	1.70	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/8	29 3/8	72 1/8
281	Audrey Denson	Wisc.-Platteville	5076	159	4.78	2.73	1.73	31	9'0"	4.41	7.19	4	8 3/8	28 3/8	68 1/8
282	Clevester Hines III	Buffalo	6007	204	4.84	2.76	1.51	30 1/2	9'9"	4.56	7.39	13	9 1/8	30 1/2	74
283	Torey Richardson	Temple	6001	185	4.86	2.79	1.73	28 1/2	9'4"	4.28	7.05	7	9 3/8	30 7/8	74 5/8
284	Faybian Marks	Rice	5102	196	4.70	2.75	1.63	28	8'10"	4.52	7.38	8	8 3/4	31 3/4	74 1/4
285	Mike Webb	Barton	5102	183	4.92	2.84	1.66	26 1/2	9'10"	4.68	7.39	10	8 1/2	30 1/2	71 3/4
286	Jack Jones	Western Colorado	5085	168	4.92	2.88	1.75	29	8'10"	4.27	6.95	9	7 3/4	28	68 1/2
287	Michal Antoine Jr.	Florida Atlantic	5103	196	4.92	2.82	1.72	28 1/2	9'5"	4.68	7.90	DNP	9 5/8	32 5/8	78
288	Jamarius Brown	Southern	6005	208	4.94	2.77	1.68	35 1/2	9'9"	4.78	7.87	10	8	32	78 5/8
289	Keylin Roach	Newberry	5114	159	4.97	2.95	1.75	29	9'2"	4.69	8.00	1	10	30 3/8	74 1/8
290	Tim Jennings	Henderson State	5083	172	4.94	2.77	1.68	28 1/2	9'1"	DNP	DNP	7	7 7/8	30 1/4	72 3/4

+

SAFETIES

+♂

SAFETIES

	NAME	SCHOOL	GRADE	YEAR	HT	WT	40-YD (10-YD)	HAND	ARM	WING	AGE
1.	NICK EMMANWORI	South Carolina	1st-2nd	3JR	6031	220	4.38 (1.53)	9 1/4	32 7/8	78 5/8	21.21
2.	MALAKI STARKS	Georgia	1st-2nd	3JR	6007	197	4.50 (1.58)	9 1/2	32	78 3/8	21.44
3.	XAVIER WATTS	Notre Dame	2nd	5SR	6000	205	4.58 (1.62)	8 5/8	31 1/2	76 1/2	23.42
4.	KEVIN WINSTON JR.	Penn State	3rd	3JR	6014	213	4.51 (1.51)	9 1/2	33 1/8	80 7/8	21.39
5.	BILLY BOWMAN JR.	Oklahoma	3rd	4SR	5101	192	4.42 (1.56)	8 5/8	29 1/8	71 1/4	22.23
6.	JONAS SANKER	Virginia	3rd	4SR	6004	206	4.48 (1.61)	9 3/4	32 1/2	78	22.42
7.	ANDREW MUKUBA	Texas	3rd-4th	4SR	5112	186	4.45 (1.57)	9	30 1/2	75 3/8	22.38
8.	LATHAN RANSOM	Ohio State	3rd-4th	5SR	6002	203	4.59 (1.57)	8 1/2	31 3/8	75 3/4	22.77
9.	MALACHI MOORE	Alabama	4th	5SR	5112	197	4.57 (1.61)	9	29 7/8	75 7/8	23.61
10.	JAYLEN REED	Penn State	4th	4SR	5116	211	4.49 (1.55)	9	31 1/4	74 3/4	22.23
11.	MAXEN HOOK	Toledo	4th-5th	5SR	6004	201	4.52 (1.58)	9 1/8	32 1/4	75 1/2	23.68
12.	DANTE TRADER JR.	Maryland	4th-5th	4SR	5107	200	4.65 (1.58)	9	31 1/4	75 1/8	22.19
13.	MARQUES SIGLE	Kansas State	5th	5SR	5113	199	4.37 (1.54)	9 5/8	30 7/8	74	22.77
14.	HUNTER WOHLER	Wisconsin	5th	4SR	6020	213	4.57 (1.60)	9 3/8	30 5/8	75 3/8	22.28
15.	SEBASTIAN CASTRO	Iowa	5th-6th	6SR	5112	203	4.59 (1.60)	10 1/2	31	74 3/4	24.53
16.	DAN JACKSON	Georgia	5th-6th	6SR	6001	194	4.45 (1.54)	8 3/4	29 7/8	73 1/8	24.40
17.	CRAIG WOODSON	California	6th	6SR	6001	200	4.45 (1.56)	8 7/8	31	75 1/4	24.17
18.	RAYUAN LANE III	Navy	6th	4SR	5107	201	4.57 (1.65)	9 3/4	30 1/4	74 5/8	21.76
19.	MALIK VERDON	Iowa State	6th-7th	4JR	6037	219	DNP (DNP)	10	33	79 1/2	22.48
20.	KITAN CRAWFORD	Nevada	6th-7th	5SR	5105	202	4.41 (1.59)	9 1/2	31 1/4	75 1/4	23.31
21.	R.J. MICKENS	Clemson	7th	5SR	6000	199	4.49 (1.57)	8 7/8	32 1/4	78 1/4	23.79
22.	ALIYAH CLARK	Syracuse	FA	4SR	6006	188	4.50 (1.54)	9 1/2	31 1/2	78	21.79
23.	MIKE SMITH JR.	Eastern Kentucky	FA	5SR	6011	209	4.53 (1.64)	9 3/8	32	77 1/4	23.21
24.	KEONDRE JACKSON	Illinois State	FA	5SR	6021	207	4.69 (1.67)	9 1/4	31 5/8	79 3/8	22.98
25.	ZION CHILDRESS	Kentucky	FA	5SR	5112	199	DNP (DNP)	8 3/4	31 1/2	75 1/4	23.25
26.	DEAN CLARK	Fresno State	FA	6SR	6003	208	4.51 (1.59)	9 5/8	31 1/4	76 3/4	23.90
27.	JACK HENDERSON	Minnesota	FA	5SR	6017	203	4.52 (1.58)	10	33	76 7/8	23.33
28.	J.J. ROBERTS	Marshall	FA	5SR	5110	192	4.41 (1.46)	8 7/8	31 1/2	75 1/2	23.59
29.	SHAMARI SIMMONS	Arizona State	FA	6SR	5116	195	4.69 (1.64)	8 3/4	30 1/4	75 1/8	24.14
30.	KENYATTA WATSON II	Georgia State	FA	6SR	6004	185	4.51 (1.50)	9	32 1/8	75 1/2	24.19

S1 Nick Emmanwori

South Carolina, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Irmo, SC	Irmo	Feb 07, 2004	21.21	6031	220	#7

BACKGROUND: Nicholas "Nick" Emmanwori (EE-man-WORE-ee), the youngest of five boys, grew up just outside of Columbia, S.C., with his parents (Legun and Justina). With four older brothers, he was always outside playing sports throughout his childhood. He started playing organized football in middle school and earned attention as a running back, wide receiver and cornerback at Seven Oaks Recreation. One of his older brothers (Okachi) trained him throughout middle and high school — he is the main reason Nick fell in love with football. Okachi, who is three years older than Nick and attended Irmo High, played cornerback at Presbyterian (2019-21), Wofford (2022) and Tennessee Tech (2023) before going undrafted in the 2024 NFL Draft.

Nick enrolled at Irmo High, where he played on both sides of the ball as a wide receiver and hybrid defensive playmaker. He saw action as a freshman and sophomore, but it wasn't until his junior season that he truly blossomed. Playing mostly at safety in 2020, Emmanwori earned all-state honors with a team-best 100 tackles, eight tackles for loss, three sacks and two interceptions in nine games. His coaches moved him to linebacker (middle and strongside) as a senior, and Emmanwori responded by ranking top five nationally with 232 tackles. He also added eight forced fumbles and four sacks to earn first-team all-state honors. He helped Irmo to a 7-4 record in 2021, as well as a share of the 4A regional title and a spot in the state playoffs. Emmanwori also played basketball at Irmo.

A three-star recruit, Emmanwori was the 39th-ranked safety in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 6 recruit in South Carolina. After his breakout junior season, he received his first scholarship offers from Charlotte and Georgia Southern (April 2021). After attending a South Carolina football camp in June 2021, Emmanwori received his first major offer from the Gamecocks, and he committed a few weeks later. He heard from other Power 5 programs during his senior season, but his mind was set. Emmanwori was the 10th-ranked recruit in head coach Shane Beamer's 2022 class. He twice earned a spot on the SEC Academic Honor Roll. Emmanwori elected to forego his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (13/12)	85	1	0	0	1	0	Freshman All-American; SEC All-Freshman; led team in tackles; enrolled June 2022
2023: (11/11)	71	0	0	0	10	2	Led team in PD; missed one game (hamstring)
2024: (13/13)	88	3	0	0	6	4	First Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in tackles; 65-yard INT TD; 24-yard INT TD; team captain
Total: (37/36)	244	4	0	0	17	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6031	220	9	32 1/2	78 1/4	4.38	2.57	1.53	43	11'6"	DNP	DNP	20	No position drills, SS, three-cone
PRO DAY	6030	222	9 1/4	32 7/8	78 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Impressive size/speed athlete — easy to see why he is a "Freaks List" alum
- Explosive range from depth and underneath, stringing runs to the sideline with his wheels
- Productive as a robber and has a knack for undercutting routes
- Movement skills to match up with backs and tight ends in coverage (didn't allow a touchdown in 2024)
- Looks natural playing the football and makes quarterbacks pay for poor decisions
- Playmaker with ball in his hands (returned three of four interceptions 20 yards or more for touchdowns in 2024, though one was called back by penalty)
- Just as comfortable running alley as he is filling run from the box
- Love his physical mentality — he'd be competing in UFC if not for football
- Feel for balancing wrap-tackle technique, as well as being able to send a message
- Used from variety of angles as a blitz
- Being youngest of five boys developed toughness and competitive mentality at a young age
- Voted a team captain and missed just one game over three seasons in Columbia

WEAKNESSES:

- Inconsistent read anticipation as a post player
- Overaggressive angles raise difficulty level of some tackle attempts (also two facemask penalties on 2024 tapes studied)
- Body tightness shows when trying to redirect with shifty runners in space
- Has grabby tendencies in coverage, which will make him attractive target for officials
- Had some unnecessary penalties on 2024 tape (late hit versus Vanderbilt; unsportsmanlike conduct versus Kentucky)
- Played on punt coverage as freshman (two tackles) but doesn't have robust special teams experience
- Missed one game as sophomore because of hamstring injury (Sept. 2023)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at South Carolina, Emmanwori was listed as a free safety on the depth chart in defensive coordinator Clayton White's flex-nickel scheme, but he lined up primarily in the box with some slot and deep snaps. Because of injuries on the Gamecocks' roster, he was thrust into the starting lineup as a true freshman and became the program's first defender since Jadeveon Clowney to earn freshman All-American honors. After leading the team in tackles in 2022, he did it again as a junior and was one of only three FBS players with multiple pick sixes in 2024.

Emmanwori does a nice job reading route concepts in underneath coverages, and he will make plays on the ball with his reaction quickness. Some of his reads and angles are inconsistent from depth, but he keys quickly from the box and plays with physicality (Derwin James is his idol). Overall, Emmanwori has the size, speed and mindset to play a variety of roles, although he projects best near the line of scrimmage, where he can blitz, be an eraser against the run and man up with tight ends and backs in coverage. He has the floor of an adequate starter and special-teamer, but his ceiling is exciting and will put him high on NFL teams' safety stack.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 17 overall)

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Jefferson, GA	Jefferson	Nov 13, 2003	21.44	6007	197	#24

BACKGROUND: William Malaki (MAL-uh-KAI) Starks, who has an older sister (Mariah), was raised in Jefferson (a small town in northeast Georgia) with his parents (Larry and Tisha). While Starks was in grades three through six, his close-knit family of four was homeless and bounced between temporary solutions. Fishing, hunting and sports were his outlet through those challenges. His "first love" was basketball (Mariah played the sport, and he wanted to do everything his older sister did). Starks has several uncles who played college football, including former Clemson tight end Jerome Williams (1986-89).

Starks started playing pee wee football in Jefferson at age 6 and announced himself as a playmaker on both sides of the ball. Because Mariah was a track standout, Malaki got involved in track early and was named the state's track athlete of the year in middle school. His youth football highlights are legendary in Jefferson, and he grew to be a local celebrity because of his athleticism and loyalty to the community (especially its younger athletes). Malaki wears No. 24 because that was the number worn by his cousin (Keion), who died at age 7 in May 2010, when Keion's father (Keith Gresham) shot and killed both he and his 4-year-old brother (Keionte) in what was determined to be a murder-suicide.

Starks enrolled at Jefferson High and was a do-everything player in all three phases, spending time as a wing-T quarterback, running back, wide receiver, linebacker, cornerback, safety and returner. He was set to play a major role as a freshman but suffered a broken tibia and was sidelined for the 2018 season. Starks returned to the field as a sophomore and led Jefferson to a 10-2 record with 848 all-purpose yards, five interceptions and nine total touchdowns (five rushing, two receiving, two interception returns). Despite battling a thumb injury as a junior, he became the starting quarterback and led the team to a 14-1 record, with the only loss coming in the 2020 4A state championship game. Starks recorded 569 passing yards, 1,537 rushing yards and 35 total touchdowns (24 rushing, 11 passing), along with 41 tackles and a pair of interceptions. As a senior, he finished with 403 all-purpose yards, three interceptions and one forced fumble and was named an Under Armour All-American. Starks also lettered in basketball and track — he was named the 2021 track athlete of the year as a junior, winning the 4A state championship in the long jump (despite not having a long jump coach) and finishing top five in the 100-meters. He had personal bests of 10.55 seconds in the 100 meters, 21.67 in the 200 and 24 feet, 9 inches in the long jump — all Jefferson High records.

A five-star recruit, Starks was the top-ranked athlete in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Georgia (behind Travis Hunter, Mykel Williams and LT Overton). He was ranked as the No. 19 recruit nationally. Starks first drew the attention of the Georgia coaching staff going into his freshman year, after he attended a Bulldogs football camp (Athens is only 20 miles from Jefferson). Once he got on the field as a sophomore, he received four SEC offers (Georgia, LSU, South Carolina and Tennessee). Other national programs including Florida State, Notre Dame and USC offered him. He narrowed his final choice to Alabama, Clemson and Georgia and officially committed to the Bulldogs in March 2021. Starks signed as a defensive back and was the second-ranked recruit in head coach Kirby Smart's 2022 class (behind Williams). During his bye week in October 2024, he proposed to his longtime girlfriend (Savannah Jackson), with whom he has been close since fourth grade. Starks skipped his senior season and entered the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (15/14)	68	1.5	0	0	9	2	Freshman All-American; led team in PD; enrolled January 2022
2023: (14/14)	52	0.0	0	0	10	3	First Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in PD
2024: (14/14)	77	4.0	0	0	4	1	First Team All-American; Second Team All-SEC; led team in tackles
Total: (43/42)	197	5.5	0	0	23	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6007	197	9 1/2	31 5/8	78 3/8	4.50	2.62	1.58	33	DNP	4.45	7.26	DNP	No BJ, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6007	203	9 1/2	32	77 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Unique athlete with loose, fluid movement skills
- Shows speed to cover wide range of field off the hash
- Clean pedal to mirror/match tight ends or receivers underneath
- Diagnoses well post-snap to key quickly and drive on throws
- Shows body control to make "wow" plays on ball (see interception on slot fade versus Clemson in 2024)
- Large catch radius to high point the football and finish
- Competitive against the run and breaks down in space to react with ball carrier
- Slowest short-shuttle time (4.45) at combine but top mph (14.94) during that same drill
- Served as backup punt returner (four attempts for 39 yards); played full-time on punt coverages all three seasons (272 career snaps)
- Genuine leader because of humble attitude and commitment (secondary coach Travaris Robinson: "He holds people accountable, and he holds himself accountable. I think that's his greatest trait.")
- Terrific communicator — coaches put extra helpings on his plate by asking him to play every position in secondary
- Reliable player — started 42 straight games to finish career

WEAKNESSES:

- Not a powerful tackler — runners consistently fell forward once wrapped up
- Flies downhill in run support but doesn't consistently protect against cutbacks (three missed tackles on 2024 Alabama tape)
- Overaggressive at times biting on run fakes, leaving him late to recover over the top (see Florida's first touchdown on 2024 tape)
- Gives up inside position too easily in man-to-man in slot
- Can carry in man coverage but tends to overplay multiple breaking routes and stumble in recovery
- Didn't allow big passing plays on his 2023 tape, but gave up three catches of 40 yards or more in 2024

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Georgia, Starks was a do-everything safety (post, split-field, box, slot) in head coach Kirby Smart's man/zone scheme, often playing the "Star" nickel position. After announcing himself as a playmaker in his first game as a true freshman, he became a fixture of the Bulldogs secondary and earned All-America honors each of his three seasons. He quickly established himself as one of Georgia's leaders, both as a worker behind the scenes and on the field, often getting his teammates lined up properly based on offensive adjustments.

With his length, athleticism and recognition skills, Starks is a strong space defender and plays confident in all aspects of coverage and run support. Though there are plenty of examples of his range and playmaking skills, he doesn't consistently position himself to be disruptive in man-to-man situations — that issue led to several big plays allowed in 2024. Overall, Starks doesn't have Teflon tape, especially in man coverage, but his athletic profile, diagnose skills and intangibles will make him an immediate starter and special-teamer in the NFL. His versatile skill set can give a defensive coordinator options, although he is best suited for a free safety role.

GRADE: 1st-2nd round (No. 19 overall)

S3 Xavier Watts

Notre Dame, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Omaha, NE	Harry A. Burke	Nov 22, 2001	23.42	6000	205	#0

BACKGROUND: Xavier (Ex-avier) Watts is an only child and was born in Minneapolis with his parents (Jeff and Fallon). In June 2003, when he was 21, Jeff was shot in the back/spine during a verbal altercation outside a house party and paralyzed from the waist down. He spent three months in the hospital, lived at a physical rehabilitation center for 18 months and has relied on a wheelchair ever since.

When Xavier was 3, his family moved to Omaha, Neb., where Jeff joined his family's screen-printing business, Big Ink. Fallon is an adjunct professor at Clarkson College and the senior lead of organizational initiatives and programs at the Nebraska Children and Families Foundation. Xavier started playing organized sports, including baseball and soccer, at age 5, but basketball and football were his favorites (he grew up a diehard fan of the Minnesota Vikings and Stefon Diggs). He was the starting center in flag football before moving to quarterback, running back and wide receiver throughout pee-wee football. In middle school, Watts developed into a standout linebacker and played both ways. He also grew up playing a lot of AAU basketball — his initial dream was to play in the NBA.

Watts enrolled at Harry A. Burke High, where he was a multisport star. As a sophomore, he became a varsity starter at both safety and wide receiver (35 catches for 813 yards and nine touchdowns; 10 tackles and one interception). As a junior, Watts helped lead Burke to an undefeated 13-0 record and the 2018 state championship (the first state title in school history). He finished his junior season with 58 tackles and five interceptions (one returned for a touchdown), adding 67 receptions for 1,093 yards and 14 touchdowns. As a senior, Watts led Burke to a 9-2 record and the 2019 district title. He posted 68 tackles and three interceptions and 61 catches for 1,072 yards and 13 touchdowns. Watts earned all-state honors each of his last two seasons in high school. He started each of his first three seasons on the basketball team (didn't play as a senior). As a junior, he averaged 12.3 points, four rebounds and 1.8 assists per game. Watts, who graduated high school with a 4.0 GPA, also lettered in track and had personal bests of 5 feet, 10 inches in the high jump, 18-10 in the long jump and 54.96 seconds in the 400 meters.

A four-star recruit, Watts was the 65th-ranked wide receiver in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Nebraska. He initially thought his future would be in college basketball, but he received his first football scholarship offer as a sophomore (FCS South Dakota State), followed by his first FBS offer (Purdue). As a junior, Watts shifted his main focus to football, and several high-profile programs entered the recruiting mix. Watts narrowed down his choice to Michigan, Nebraska and Notre Dame. He wanted to stay close to home and join the Huskers, but the football program wasn't consistently winning, so Watts picked the Irish over the Wolverines. He was the seventh-ranked recruit in former head coach Brian Kelly's 2020 class. He signed as a wide receiver but struggled to move up the depth chart and moved to rover linebacker, then to safety in his second year on campus. Watts returned to offense for a quick minute before cementing himself on defense and becoming a starting safety in 2023.

With a passion for graphic design, he graduated with a degree in visual communication and a minor in computing and digital technologies (May 2023). Watts also earned his master's degree in sports analytics (May 2024). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but later withdrew because of Notre Dame's deep run in the College Football Playoff.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (2/0)	0	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Redshirted; pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (11/0)	15	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Moved to rover linebacker and safety
2022: (13/4)	39	2.0	1.0	0	4	0
2023: (13/13)	52	3.0	0.5	1	11	7	Unanimous All-American; Bronko Nagurski Award (nation's top defender); led FBS in INT; 16-yard FR TD; team captain
2024: (16/16)	82	3.5	0.0	1	16	6	Consensus All-American; Sugar Bowl MVP; 100-yard INT TD; team captain
Total: (55/33)	188	8.5	1.5	2	31	13

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5116	204	8 5/8	31 1/4	76 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	6000	205	8 5/8	31 1/2	76 1/2	4.58	2.70	1.62	35	9'10"	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Opportunistic and plays the ball well
- Combined for 13 interceptions over past two seasons (no other FBS player reached double digits)
- Terrific route instincts and sees things before they happen to jump throwing lanes
- Only one pass interference penalty in his career (versus Clemson in 2023)
- Runs with conviction, allowing him to play faster than timed speed
- Adequate size measurables by NFL standards
- Will create with ball in his hands (combined 273 interception return yards over past two seasons, including school-record 100-yard return)
- Doesn't get caught up with eye candy and stays glued to run keys
- Widens feet to wrap-tackle near the box
- Voted a team captain in 2023 and 2024 — "everyone" looks to Watts in defensive room, according to NFL scouts
- Played 55 games in college (didn't miss a game past three seasons), with plenty of special teams experience

WEAKNESSES:

- Size/speed traits aren't impressive and plays with more athletic urgency than natural explosiveness
- Shows some tightness and wasted motion when attempting to redirect and chase
- Flies downhill but can be guilty of overrunning ball and losing leverage
- Average finishing strength and will slide off some tackle attempts
- Will break down a tad early on open-field tackle attempts
- Don't want him playing man-to-man coverage against twitchy slot receivers

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Notre Dame, Watts played the field safety position in former defensive coordinator Al Golden's 4-2-5 base scheme, lining up mostly two-high and in the box, with one-high and slot reps. After toiling on offense upon his arrival in South Bend, he moved to rover linebacker before finding his home at free safety, where he became one of the most decorated players in Irish history. He collected 13 combined interceptions (and allowed zero touchdown catches) over the past two seasons, becoming the first two-time consensus All-American at Notre Dame since 1993.

Without imposing size or high-level explosiveness, Watts has been a slow-burn evaluation for NFL scouts, but his playmaking instincts are indisputable on tape. Although his aggressive nature leads to occasional mistakes, he plays with a quick, decisive trigger and his tone-setting toughness pops versus both run and pass. Overall, Watts isn't a safety you want playing man-to-man coverage against slot receivers very often, but he is a solid run defender with the route anticipation and ball skills to sniff out plays from depth. He projects as an NFL starter and would fit best in a split-safety, zone-heavy scheme, in which he can play two-deep and underneath zone.

GRADE: 2nd round (No. 54 overall)

S4 Kevin Winston Jr.

Penn State, 3JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Columbia, MD	DeMatha Catholic	Dec 02, 2003	21.39	6014	213	#2

BACKGROUND: Kevin "KJ" Winston Jr., who has a younger sister (Khloe), grew up just outside of Washington, D.C., with his parents (Kevin Winston Sr. and Natasha). He was born during his father's freshman season at James Madison — Kevin Winston Sr. was a three-year starting pass rusher (2003-06). While growing up attending James Madison practices and games, Kevin Winston Jr. was introduced to football as a toddler and quickly developed a passion for the sport. He started playing organized football at age 6 and quickly became one of the top young players in the area.

Winston played running back and safety for the Silver Spring Saints and helped the team to a combined 153-2 record and multiple state youth championships over his time with the program. He was voted the player of the year in 2014 and attended Washington Jesuit Academy for middle school, where his father (who also coached his son) still serves as vice principal. Winston grew up attending Washington's NFL games. He also played basketball.

Winston enrolled at DeMatha Catholic High, a renowned football powerhouse that has produced dozens of future pros, including defensive end Chase Young, running back MarShawn Lloyd and safety Nick Cross. Winston was a four-year letterman on varsity and saw playing time as a freshman at running back and defensive back (lost to Caleb Williams and Gonzaga in the 2018 playoffs). As a sophomore, he posted 30 tackles and two interceptions (one returned for a touchdown), earning honorable mention all-conference honors. After being named team MVP as a junior, Winston delivered his best season as a senior captain and was named 2021 All-Met State Defensive Player of the Year. He finished his final season with 72 tackles and four interceptions, along with two field goal blocks. He also handled the main kick return duties. Winston was the only two-way player on a loaded roster for DeMatha in 2021 and posted 42 receptions and five touchdown grabs. He also ran track (relays and sprints) and had personal bests of 23.67 seconds in the 200 meters, 36.33 in the 300 and 49.93 in the 400.

A four-star recruit, Winston was the 28th-ranked safety in the 2022 recruiting class and the No. 8 recruit in Maryland. He received an offer from his home state Maryland during his freshman year (May 2019) and later added offers from Boston College, Michigan State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Ole Miss, Pittsburgh, South Carolina, Syracuse and Tennessee. He had his heart set on playing for Penn State, however, after participating in LaVar Arrington's A11 All-Star Bowl in 2018. Winston picked up an offer from head coach James Franklin in May 2020 and narrowed his choice down to Maryland or Penn State before officially committing to Franklin the summer before his senior year. He was the 14th-ranked recruit in the Nittany Lions' 2022 class. Despite suffering a season-ending injury early in the 2024 season, Winston elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2022: (12/0)	16	1.0	0	0	0	0	Enrolled June 2022
2023: (13/13)	61	2.5	0	0	6	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (2/2)	13	0.0	0	1	0	0	Team captain; missed final 14 games (left knee)
Total: (27/15)	90	3.5	0	1	6	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6014	215	9 1/2	32 1/2	80 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (left knee)
PRO DAY	6013	213	9 3/8	33 1/8	79 3/4	4.51	2.61	1.51	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Put-together athlete who carries 215 pounds well
- Flashes burst to close on ball carriers and when recovering in coverage
- Reacts quickly when he keys correctly
- Equally explosive and violent as tackler without sacrificing finishing form
- Above-average balance through contact to get his man on the ground
- Takes on contact well to leverage runs toward the sideline
- Reads hands/eyes of receivers with his back to the ball for late breakups in man coverage
- Wasn't penalized during three college seasons
- Experienced on every special teams coverage (five career tackles)
- Voted a team captain in 2024 and remained on the sideline for every home game, despite season-ending injury (former Penn State defensive coordinator Tom Allen: "He sets high standards and elevates everyone around him.")

WEAKNESSES:

- Only one year of starting experience, which is reflected in his play recognition
- Easily sucked up on play-action pass — and offenses know it
- Zone instincts are average at best
- Questionable redirect and range from depth
- Only one career interception (and it was the result of coverage disguise)
- Allowed only two catches in two games played in 2024, but both went for more than 25 yards
- Felt a "tweak" in left knee in practice after 2024 season opener and tried to play through it the next week, but he pulled himself out after one quarter because it continued to bother him; MRI the next day revealed a partially torn ACL that required season-ending surgery (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Penn State, Winston was the boundary safety (high and low) in former Nittany Lions defensive coordinator Tom Allen's 4-2-5 base scheme. He became a starter as a sophomore and put himself on the NFL map before a knee injury wiped out his 2024 season. That injury complicates his draft evaluation.

A standout run defender, Winston is quick to trigger, deliver pop at contact and stay balanced in his finishing technique to avoid misses. His coverage reads are inconsistent, especially from depth, but he offers man-cover skills versus tight ends and big slots. Overall, Winston is still green in the way he diagnoses play development, but the tools are there for him to eventually become a quality NFL starter — if he's given a specific role and allowed to grow into the scheme. Rust should be expected during his rookie season.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 83 overall)

S5 Billy Bowman Jr.

Oklahoma, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Denton, TX	Ryan	Jan 29, 2003	22.23	5101	192	#2

BACKGROUND: Billy Bowman Jr., the oldest of two children, grew up in Denton (north of Dallas) with his parents (Billy Bowman Sr. and Keeley). He started playing flag football at age 4 and was a standout football and basketball player through youth leagues and middle school. Billy Sr. played defensive end and baseball at Division II East Central (Okla.) University, and he coached his son from pee-wee football all the way through high school (wide receivers coach at Denton Ryan High). Bowman's younger sister (Baylee) currently attends Denton Guyer High, where she is a highly recruited basketball player and runs track. Bowman started dating Jayda Coleman in high school, and they got engaged on New Year's Eve in 2023. Coleman, the nation's top-ranked softball recruit in 2020, won four straight Women's World Series titles with the Sooners and was the 2023 Big 12 Player of the Year (.408 batting average). She now plays professional softball for the Oklahoma City Spark.

Bowman enrolled at football powerhouse Denton Ryan, where he was teammates with top recruits, including linebacker Drew Sanders and tight end Ja'Tavion Sanders. He started as a wide receiver on varsity as a freshman and earned second-team all-district honors. Bowman added cornerback duties as a sophomore and played both ways, earning first-team all-state honors with five interceptions (three returned for touchdowns). As a junior, he helped Ryan to a 15-1 record, the lone loss coming in the 2019 5A state championship game. Bowman finished the season with 17 receiving touchdowns, 55 tackles and three interceptions (all returned for touchdowns). As a senior, he led Ryan to a 15-0 record and the 2020 5A state championship, the school's first state title since 2002 (Ryan didn't lose a regular-season game during Bowman's four seasons). He was a second-team All-American and finished his final season with 86 receptions for 1,207 yards and 15 touchdowns, plus 32 tackles, four interceptions and two forced fumbles (scored three touchdowns on defense). Bowman also lettered in basketball and track at Ryan, posting personal bests of 10.84 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.09 in the 200 and 22 feet, 9 inches in the long jump.

A four-star recruit, Bowman was the second-ranked athlete in the 2021 recruiting class (behind his teammate, Ja'Tavion Sanders) and the No. 9 recruit in Texas. He was ranked as the No. 44 recruit nationally. Bowman collected several notable offers during his sophomore year, including from Arkansas, Florida and Notre Dame. Texas (his favorite team in childhood) offered him in June 2019, and he committed a month later. Bowman later decommitted in October 2020 and announced a new final three of Georgia, LSU and Oklahoma. A month later, he committed to the Sooners and head coach Lincoln Riley. Bowman, who signed as both a defensive back and wide receiver, was the second-ranked recruit in Riley's 2021 class (behind only quarterback Caleb Williams). Once Bowman was on campus, the defensive coaches moved him to the secondary.

After Riley left for USC following the 2021 season, Bowman flirted with either entering the portal or following Riley to Los Angeles, but he stayed in Norman upon the hiring of Brent Venables. He opted out of Oklahoma's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (11/7)	22	1.5	0	1	3	0	Enrolled January 2021
2022: (11/9)	60	2.0	0	1	4	3	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; returned failed PAT for 2-point conversion; missed two games (right knee)
2023: (13/13)	63	3.0	0	0	5	6	First Team All-American; First Team All-Big 12; led Big 12 in INT; led FBS in INT yards (238) and INT TDs (3)
2024: (12/12)	54	2.5	0	0	1	2	Third Team All-SEC; 43-yard FR TD; missed bowl game (opt-out)
Total: (47/41)	199	9.0	0	2	13	11

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5097	192	8 5/8	28 1/2	70 3/4	4.42	2.59	1.56	35 1/2	10'3"	DNP	DNP	17	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5101	196	8 5/8	29 1/8	71 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Moves with the fluidity and change-of-direction skills of a cornerback
- Versatile space player who can diagnose from post, split-field or nickel
- High IQ awareness manifests with coverage angles/timing when driving on throws
- Smart in zone and understands how to play to help
- High-level body control and ball skills (combined double-digit interceptions over past three seasons)
- Can see his offensive background in the way he attacks the ball and returns it (251 career interception return yards)
- Flashes burst to close as a curl/alley defender
- Competes with consistent urgency and effort
- Played on kickoff and punt-return coverages all four seasons
- Won 2024 Don Key Award (Oklahoma's highest annual honor)

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized and won't meet some teams' height or weight thresholds
- Needs to continue developing play strength to cut down on missed tackles
- Has a tough time finishing as a tackler when technique and angles aren't on point
- Ball carriers will carry him for extra yards
- Will struggle to escape blockers if asked to dabble in the box
- Lack of inches will be more evident against NFL receivers who can box him out from the catch point or win over the top
- Looks to jump throws, which leads to overpursuing multiple breaking routes as a nickel
- Play action can draw him out of position
- Missed two games as sophomore because of right knee sprain (Oct. 2022)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Oklahoma, Bowman lined up as a versatile field safety in defensive coordinator Zac Alley's 4-2-5 base scheme (also saw snaps in the box and as a nickel). Recruited as an offensive player by some programs, he moved to defense full time in Norman and became an All-American. However, you could still spot his offensive roots, as he was responsible for four defensive touchdowns (with an average return of 58 yards) over the past two seasons.

With his range, fluidity and post-snap diagnosing skills, Bowman anticipates well in coverage to drive and finish at the football, and he's a threat to score every time he touches the ball. Though physical in run support, he is often overzealous with his angles and finish, and his small margin for error as a tackler leads to negative results. Overall, Bowman falls short in the size and strength categories, but he is among the best safeties in this class in terms of football IQ, movement skills and competitive urgency. His disruptive versatility on the backend will force teams to consider how much they are willing to compromise on desired size.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 85 overall)

S6 Jonas Sanker

Virginia, 4SR

HOMETOWN Charlottesville, VA	HIGH SCHOOL Covenant	BIRTHDAY Nov 23, 2002	AGE 22.42	HT 6004	WT 206	NUM #20
---------------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Jonas Sanker, the third oldest of seven children (six boys, one girl), grew up in Charlottesville, Va., with his parents (George and Jeannette). He traveled to Germany several times throughout childhood to visit his mother's family. His father, who played football at Colgate, was diagnosed with early-onset Alzheimer's disease in 2020. At age 8, Sanker and his older brother (Nicholas, who played defensive end at Princeton from 2020-24) started playing flag football at the YMCA. However, their father didn't allow them to play tackle football until middle school. Jonas' first sport was basketball, and he continued playing through middle and high school, but football took over as his focus before he got to high school. He also grew up playing the piano. His oldest brother (Kendrick) played wide receiver at FCS Hampton (2014-15) and founded a financial planning firm (Sanker Financial). His younger brother (Lukas) is a cornerback in the 2025 recruiting class. His other three younger siblings are Thomas, Lena and Elias.

Sanker attended The Covenant School, a private Christian school in Charlottesville, where his father served as headmaster (2011-2020). After seeing varsity reps in eighth grade, he made an immediate impact as a freshman on varsity, playing both ways as a running back, wide receiver and safety. During his sophomore year, Covenant moved to eight-man football, and Sanker led the program to an undefeated 10-0 record and the 2018 state championship. As the team's best player, Sanker transitioned to quarterback as a junior and accounted for 1,590 passing yards, 1,116 rushing yards and 57 offensive touchdowns (33 passing, 24 rushing). He also had 46 tackles, four interceptions and three defensive touchdowns, which earned him all-conference and all-state honors on both sides of the ball. Sanker's breakout junior season resulted in another 10-0 finish and state title for Covenant (Sanker accounted for eight touchdowns in the championship game). He didn't play as a senior after Covenant's 2020 season was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Sanker was also a productive point guard on the basketball team and surpassed 1,000 career points midway through his junior season. He was named the Division II player of the year as a junior and led the program to its first semifinals appearance in the 2020 state tournament.

A three-star recruit, Sanker was the 109th-ranked safety in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 33 recruit in Virginia. Playing eight-man football, he went widely overlooked as a recruit for most of high school. Sanker received a few basketball offers, but his football recruitment started to take off following his junior season, when he received his first three offers from Harvard, Princeton and Yale. He added a few FCS offers (James Madison, Richmond, Villanova), followed by a handful of MAC offers. Boston College became his first major offer (May 2020), and Sanker committed to the Eagles. However, a number of ACC schools then swooped in with offers, including NC State, North Carolina, Virginia Tech and his hometown Virginia. After considering his options, Sanker flipped to Virginia in July 2020, choosing to stay close to home. He was the 18th-ranked recruit in former head coach Bronco Mendenhall's final class at Virginia. Sanker accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (9/0)	5	0.0	0	0	0	0	Enrolled July 2021
2022: (10/9)	63	0.5	0	1	3	1
2023: (12/12)	107	4.0	0	3	11	0	First Team All-ACC; Led team in tackles, FF and PD
2024: (12/12)	98	8.5	2	0	5	1	First Team All-ACC; Led team in tackles, TFL; 40-yard fumble return TD; blocked FG; team captain
Total: (43/33)	273	13.0	2	4	19	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6003	206	9 3/4	32 1/4	77 5/8	4.48	2.63	1.61	36 1/2	10'8"	DNP	DNP	12	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6004	204	9 5/8	32 1/2	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.48	7.06	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Well-built athlete with long arms
- Effective play range, transition quickness and drive speed
- Takes fast, direct angles to the football, eating up ground fast downhill
- Physical striker and brings feet through his target
- Anticipates underneath throws in zone; can play over tight end or slot in man coverage
- Reads quarterback’s eyes well from depth
- Had a three-play sequence against Pittsburgh that included a third-down tackle for loss, blocked field goal and 45-yard interception return
- Accountable, family-first leader and voted a team captain as senior
- Coaches praise his communication skills and even-keeled personality
- Key special-teamer all four seasons (531 snaps), shining as a gunner and on kick coverages
- Durable and averaged 8.5 tackles per game over past two seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Eyes often spend too much time in the backfield, causing him to lose connection with route combinations
- Can get hung up on play-action pass
- Hints of tightness shows versus sudden slot receivers
- Thumping tackler but can do a better job breaking upon approach to avoid misses
- More likely to go for hit than catch point, limiting interception opportunities
- Played penalty-free football on defense in 2024 but had three flags on special teams

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Virginia, Sanker played free safety in defensive coordinator John Rudzinski’s nickel base scheme, aligning mostly near the box but also seeing snaps in the boundary and at the "Spur" position over the slot. A former high school quarterback in eight-man football, he blossomed over his final two seasons with the Cavaliers, leading the ACC in solo tackles in both 2023 (73) and 2024 (65).

Sanker is guilty of arriving too hot at times, which leaves him late to break down in the alley, but he is a long, rangy tackler who runs through the ball carrier to finish. Although some question his ability to make plays on the ball in coverage, he reads route stems well in underneath zone and can match tight ends in man-to-man to break on throws before they leave the quarterback’s hand. Overall, Sanker will be well-liked by NFL coaches because of his natural athleticism, competitive urgency and intangibles, as well as his strong special teams profile. He projects best as an instinctive box safety.

GRADE: 3rd round (No. 98 overall)

S7 Andrew Mukuba

Texas, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Austin, TX	LBJ Early College	Dec 07, 2002	22.38	5112	186	#4

BACKGROUND: Andrew Mukuba (moo-KOO-buh), the middle child of seven (four brothers, two sisters), was born and raised in Zimbabwe's capital city, Harare. The family didn't always have full access to modern amenities, such as electricity and running water. At age 8, Mukuba’s parents, who are originally from Congo, moved the family to Austin, Texas in 2012. Mukuba took English classes in Africa, but he faced challenges from a language barrier as he adapted to life in the United States (he speaks Swahili to his parents). Though he followed basketball and soccer throughout childhood, Mukuba didn’t start playing organized sports until sixth grade, when he joined a football team (Austin Steelers). He started out as running back and safety and fell in love with the new sport as he learned the rules.

Mukuba enrolled at Lyndon B. Johnson Early College High in Austin and initially played wide receiver his first two seasons on the JV squad. At a summer camp his sophomore year, he moved over to defensive back (because, he said, everyone wanted to be a receiver) and made a name for himself in coverage. Mukuba moved up to varsity as a junior and played both ways, as a receiver and defensive back. He earned district newcomer of the year and all-state honors with 32 catches for 635 yards and 12 touchdowns, plus 80 tackles, five interceptions, three forced fumbles and two kick-return touchdowns. As a senior, Mukuba was named the district's offensive player of the year, with 27 catches for 427 yards and eight touchdowns (six receiving, two rushing). He added 60 tackles, six interceptions and four forced fumbles. He led his team to a 9-3 record in 2020, which included a deep playoff run that ended in the 4A state semifinals. He played 7-on-7 football for the Texas Flex. Mukuba also lettered in track and had personal bests of 19 feet, 2 inches in the long jump, 37-11 in the triple jump, 11.48 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.64 in the 200.

A four-star recruit, Mukuba was the eighth-ranked safety in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 29 recruit in Texas. Following a few camps the summer before his junior season, he received his first FBS offers from Arizona, Arkansas and Tulsa. But his recruitment really blew up during his junior season, his first on varsity. Mukuba received almost 40 offers, including several from prominent programs, such as Alabama, Georgia and Notre Dame. He narrowed his final choice to Clemson, LSU and Texas — and was actually a silent commit to LSU after his junior season. But Mukuba developed a close bond with Brent Venables (then the defensive coordinator at Clemson) and committed in Sept. 2020 (head coach Dabo Swinney called him the school's first "COVID commit"). He was the 12th-ranked recruit in Swinney's 2021 class and graduated early to enroll in January 2021.

After three seasons, Mukuba entered the transfer portal in December 2023. He hadn't signed with his hometown school, Texas, out of high school because he expected Tom Herman's staff to be fired (he was correct), but Mukuba committed to the Longhorns (over Oregon) for his final season (he is close friends with Texas defensive backs Jahdae Barron and Michael Taffe). He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl. Mukuba has a son, born in Sept. 2023.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/10)	47	2.0	1	0	7	0	Clemson; Freshman All-American; ACC Defensive Rookie of the Year; Third Team All-ACC; enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/11)	54	0.5	0	0	4	1	Clemson; missed two games (elbow, knee)
2023: (10/10)	42	2.0	0	0	6	0	Clemson; missed two games (injury); Missed bowl game (transfer)
2024: (15/12)	69	4.0	0	1	11	5	Texas; Third Team All-SEC; led team in INTs; enrolled January 2024
Total: (50/43)	212	8.5	1	1	28	6

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5112	186	9	30	75 3/8	4.45	2.60	1.57	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Only ran 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	5112	194	8 7/8	30 1/2	75 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.45	7.15	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Shot out of a cannon when driving downhill on run fits
- Shows good feel for run-game geometry to leverage outside run paths with pursuit angles
- Calms feet and comes to balance on the move as tackler
- Drops pads to tackle low and hard and take out feet of the ball carrier
- Plays with route recognition to read passing concepts and anticipate receiver's breaks
- Tracks eyes of the quarterback and flashes a closing burst to arrive with the football
- Showed more confident ball-hawking skills as senior
- Driven individual; left Clemson because he "wasn't being pushed enough" (former defensive coordinator Brent Venables: "He's easy to coach and cold-blooded on the field. ... He's a self-starter and really ambitious.")
- Played 50 career games and made plays on kickoff return and punt coverages in 2024

WEAKNESSES:

- Undersized and has body type of a cornerback, including short arms and small hands
- Flies downhill and delivers blows but lacks desired mass for violent collisions versus NFL size
- Questionable finishing strength as tackler when not squared up
- Some tightness in movements show when asked to play man-to-man
- Wasn't nearly as comfortable playing nickel — prefers to be a true safety
- Lack of size also shows in coverage when shielded from catch point
- Grade 1 MCL sprain in left knee (Oct. 2024), which sidelined him for one game; missed two games as sophomore because of dislocated elbow and sprained MCL (Sept. 2022)

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Texas, Mukuba primarily lined up as the free safety in defensive coordinator Pete Kwiatkowski's 4-2-5 base scheme. Although he made a name for himself as a freshman All-American at Clemson, he put inconsistent play on tape as a sophomore and junior nickel after Brent Venables left the program. Considered at that point a borderline draft pick, he transferred to Austin for his senior year and played the best ball of his career, giving a boost to his projection.

Mukuba is at his best flying through alleys with urgency and conviction, but also with enough control to course correct angles while at full speed to leverage the run. He plays bigger than he looks, but he has mediocre finishing strength and some teams are worried about long-term durability because of his aggressive play style. Despite an average athletic profile, he is quick to read run/pass and shows terrific discipline in coverage (18 passes defended, zero penalties over his final 26 games in college). Overall, Mukuba's lack of size will be more noticeable against NFL competition, both in coverage and run support, but he brings energy, instincts and play speed to the secondary. He has the mentality and talent to compete for a starting role at free safety.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

HOMETOWN Tucson, AZ	HIGH SCHOOL Salpointe Catholic	BIRTHDAY Jul 16, 2002	AGE 22.77	HT 6002	WT 203	NUM #8
------------------------	-----------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Lathan (LAY-thun) Ransom, the oldest of two children, grew up in Tucson, Ariz., with his parents (Nathan and Linda; Lathan's name came from a combination of their names). Ransom started playing football at age 6 and played for the Broncos, Vikings and Falcons in the Tucson Youth Football League. His father, a standout running back in high school before playing at Mount San Antonio (Calif.) College, coached Lathan's teams. Nathan, who is now a fire department captain, joined the Air Force in 1997 and was stationed at the Davis-Monthan Air Force base in Tucson, which is where he met Linda, who grew up in a military family. Linda set the Sahuarita (Ariz.) High basketball records for career points (1,383) and single-season points scored (441) and was inducted into the school's hall of fame in 2004 (also played softball). Linda also helped coach Lathan's youth basketball teams. Lathan's younger sister (Jalynn) won three volleyball state championships in high school before playing at Pima Community College in Tucson.

Ransom attended Salpointe Catholic High, where he was teammates with running back Bijan Robinson and a three-year varsity letterman as a wide receiver, defensive back and return man. As a sophomore, he posted 48 tackles and five interceptions before a broken elbow ended his 2017 season. Ransom had his most productive season as a junior, leading the program to a 13-1 record with its only loss coming in the 2018 4A state championship game. He was named 2018 Class 4A Region Player of the Year with 82 tackles and six interceptions (one returned for a touchdown), adding 27 catches for 625 yards and six receiving touchdowns. As a senior, Ransom was named 2019 Tucson Athlete of the Year, with 58 tackles on defense and 21 catches for 534 yards and 21 touchdowns. As a return man, he accounted for five career punt-return touchdowns. Ransom also lettered in track (sprints and relays) and set a personal best of 11.95 seconds in the 100 meters.

A four-star recruit, Ransom was the 11th-ranked safety in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in Arizona (two spots behind Robinson). He put himself on the national recruiting radar as a sophomore and picked up his first scholarship offers from Arizona State, Arizona, California, Georgia, Michigan, Stanford and Washington. After Ransom's junior season, Alabama, Ohio State, Oregon, Texas and Texas A&M joined the mix. Ransom announced a final five of LSU, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oklahoma and Texas, and he officially committed to the Buckeyes in July 2019. He was the ninth-ranked recruit in head coach Ryan Day's 2020 class. Ransom was planning to enter the 2024 NFL Draft, after his fourth season, but he suffered a foot injury and decided to return to Columbus, taking advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

He graduated with a degree in communications (Dec. 2023) and achieved post-graduate certification (Dec. 2024). Ransom accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl but later withdrew because Ohio State advanced to the national championship.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (7/0)	5	0.0	0.0	0	1	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled August 2020
2021: (13/3)	38	2.5	1.0	1	5	0	Left Rose Bowl early (broken left leg)
2022: (12/9)	74	3.5	1.5	1	4	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed one game (injury); blocked two punts
2023: (9/8)	34	1.5	0.0	1	3	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed final five games (left foot)
2024: (15/15)	76	9.0	1.0	3	3	1	Second Team All-American; First Team All-Big Ten; led team in FF; 27-yard fumble return TD; missed one game (injury)
Total: (56/35)	227	16.5	3.5	6	16	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6002	206	8 1/2	30 1/2	75 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	Pos. drills only (choice)
PRO DAY	6000	203	8 3/8	31 3/8	75 3/4	4.59	2.58	1.57	36 1/2	10'1"	4.34	DNP	20

STRENGTHS:

- Flies downhill from depth with serious juice and bold demeanor
- Shines versus the run because of recognition skills and drive acceleration
- Discipline in run fits took a major jump in 2024 compared to his underclassman tape
- Aggressive strike-tackler when squared up to create stopping power at contact
- Effective B-gap blitzer as boundary safety
- Rangy in coverage to undercut routes or achieve top position downfield
- Can sniff out route combinations from different coverages/alignments
- Matches physicality of tight ends in man coverage
- Blocked two punts in 2022 and played on both punt return and punt coverages in 2024
- Grew up in a military family, and that structure shows in his work ethic
- Coaches at every level mention the energy he brings to the field

WEAKNESSES:

- Poor tackling habits pop up occasionally (see 2024 Texas tape)
- Guilty of leaving his feet too early and can end up trying to swipe ankles as a result
- Will go for the kill shot instead of wrap-finish at times
- Route anticipation is solid but not early enough to create interceptions
- More likely to go for the hit, not the pick (twice as many forced fumbles as interceptions in his career)
- His few penalties were pass interferences, which happened because he arrived too early
- Missed at least one game each of past four seasons, including two major injuries: Lisfranc injury to left foot (Oct. 2023) that sidelined him for the final five games of 2023 (and led him to return to school in 2024); broke tibia and fibula in left leg (Jan. 2022) while playing on kickoff coverage in the Rose Bowl.

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Ohio State, Ransom lined up primarily as a free safety (post, two-high, man-to-man versus tight ends) in defensive coordinator Jim Knowles' hybrid 4-2-5 scheme. His role evolved over his time in Columbus, and his late-season injury in 2023 (which forced him to return for a fifth year) was a blessing in disguise, both because of his individual improvements and his role in helping Ohio State win the national championship.

Because of his range, Ransom is at his best making noise in the run game with read-and-drive quickness and high-speed collision tackles — he creates bug-meet-windshield hits from different angles. Like any safety who plays fast and physical, you can expect him to have the occasional missed tackle or overaggressive coverage angle, although those negative plays decreased with each season he spent in college. Overall, Ransom might not have the coverage anticipation to be a true ball hawk, but he sees the field well to key quickly, run the alley and stay on top of everything. If he stays healthy, he has the run-defending range and matchup potential against tight ends to become an NFL starter.

GRADE: 3rd-4th round

S9 Malachi Moore

Alabama, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Trussville, AL	Hewitt-Trussville	Sep 13, 2001	23.61	5112	197	#13

BACKGROUND: Malachi Moore, who has a younger brother (Ayden), was born in Homewood, Ala. (outside of Birmingham), and grew up near Trussville, Ala. His mother (Penny), who is Laotian-American, has been a kindergarten and first-grade teacher for more than 20 years. His father (Torrey) played college basketball at Middle Tennessee (1994-97) and averaged 10.9 points per game as a senior. Following in his father's footsteps, Moore's first love was basketball. He played competitively throughout middle school, about the same time he started to blossom on the football field. In 2018, Moore developed a close friendship with one of his mother's students (Henrietta Murray), who faced several medical challenges and died in May 2024 at age 11. Henrietta accompanied Moore on his recruiting visit to Alabama, and he was a pallbearer at her funeral.

Moore attended Hewitt-Trussville High and saw immediate varsity action as a freshman wide receiver. Though he preferred to play offense, the coaches needed his talent on defense, and Moore moved to cornerback before his sophomore season and finished that year with 26 tackles and one interception. After earning all-state honors with 47 tackles as a junior cornerback, Moore moved to safety his senior year — opposing quarterbacks simply ignored Moore's side of the field when he lined up at corner. Moore finished his final season with 83 tackles, five tackles for loss and four interceptions (two returned for touchdowns), which earned him all-state and U.S. Army All-American honors. Moore lettered in basketball for two years before focusing on football.

A four-star recruit, Moore was the 19th-ranked safety in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 9 recruit in Alabama. He received his first major offer from Oregon (his "dream" school) the summer before his sophomore season. Over the next year, Moore added offers from Arkansas, Auburn, Clemson, Florida, Kentucky, LSU, Michigan and Tennessee. However, he had his eyes on Alabama and committed in August 2018, soon after then-head coach Nick Saban extended him a scholarship. Moore planned to enroll early but couldn't because of the Tide's scholarship numbers. He was the 13th-ranked recruit in Alabama's 2020 star-studded class, which also included Bryce Young, Will Anderson Jr., Brian Branch and Chris Braswell. Moore took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his fifth season. He graduated with a degree in communications and earned his master's degree in sports management (Dec. 2024). Moore accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (11/11)	44	4.0	0.0	1	9	3	Freshman All-American; SEC All-Freshman; Second Team All-SEC; fumble return TD; missed two playoff games (back)
2021: (15/9)	17	2.0	0.0	0	2	1
2022: (13/1)	31	1.5	1.5	0	5	0	TD on blocked punt recovery
2023: (13/13)	52	5.0	0.0	0	5	1	Team captain; missed one game (right ankle)
2024: (12/12)	70	3.0	1.0	2	10	2	Second Team All-American; First Team All-SEC; led team in FF, PD; missed bowl game (opt-out); team captain
Total: (64/46)	214	15.5	2.5	3	31	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5112	196	9	29 5/8	75 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	No workout (choice)
PRO DAY	5110	197	8 7/8	29 7/8	75 7/8	4.57	2.71	1.61	36	10'6"	DNP	DNP	15

STRENGTHS:

- High-level competitor who looks to mix things up and plays bigger than he looks
- Solid range, both underneath and from the post to get outside the numbers
- Aggressive against the run with little wasted time in key-and-read process
- Flows well to beat blocks and leverage the run on the edges
- Much-improved break-down skills in space to get the ball carrier on the ground on 2024 tape
- Identifies route concepts and can match up man-to-man against tight ends
- Anticipates well from deep hash and takes sharp angles to the football
- Versatile experience; had most productive season as senior safety after playing nickel as underclassman
- Played 486 career special teams snaps on kickoff and punt coverages
- Two-time team captain and extremely prideful about winning

WEAKNESSES:

- Average size profile and lacks elite height/weight/length
- Not a high-end athlete — ordinary speed and burst show in man coverage
- Labors in transitions versus speedy slots
- Doesn't have suddenness to easily recover, especially vertically
- Underpowered and sticks to blocks near the line of scrimmage
- Missed one game as senior with high right ankle sprain (Oct. 2023)
- Plays with "enforcer" attitude but takes it too far at times
- Lost his cool on multiple occasions late in 2024 Vanderbilt game, including a penalty for kicking the football in frustration (teammates called it "unacceptable," and Moore later apologized)

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Alabama, Moore was a versatile safety in defensive coordinator Kane Wommack's man-heavy scheme, lining up primarily in the post or dropping down as an extra box defender. His five seasons in Tuscaloosa were a roller coaster. He was the first true freshman defensive back to start an Alabama season opener since Minkah Fitzpatrick and played primarily at the "Star" nickel position before Brian Branch supplanted him as a starter. After Branch left for the NFL, Moore was up and down as a nickel in Saban's defense in 2023, but he moved to more of a traditional safety role in 2024 and produced his best season.

Although you don't want him consistently playing man-to-man coverage against NFL wide receivers, Moore does have the coverage awareness to put himself in position to make plays. He is a very willing run defender, and teams will love the competitive edge he brings to the field. Overall, Moore doesn't have difference-making size or athletic traits, but he is a tough, instinctive player who can defend the run and play with just enough range in coverage. He projects best as a post or half-field safety in zone, which would allow him to patrol, work top-down and be a solid NFL contributor.

GRADE: 4th round

S10 Jaylen Reed

Penn State, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Detroit, MI	Martin Luther King	Jan 29, 2003	22.23	5116	211	#1

BACKGROUND: Jaylen "Jay" Reed grew up as an only child in Detroit with his mother (LaToyia Johnson), whom he considers his "best friend." Other family members in his life include his father (Terrance) and stepfather (Jimmie Mitchell). He started playing football in elementary school, and sports became an escape from any adversities he experienced.

Reed attended Martin Luther King High in Detroit, where he shared a secondary with cornerback Sauce Gardner, who is two years older. Reed moved up to varsity as a sophomore and played linebacker and safety, helping the team to a 12-2 record and the 2018 Division 3 state championship. He finished that season with 64 tackles, two interceptions and one forced fumble. As a junior captain, Reed earned all-state and all-city honors with a team-high 119 tackles, eight forced fumbles and one interception (accounted for three defensive touchdowns). King played an abbreviated fall schedule in 2020 because of the COVID-19 pandemic, and Reed finished with 55 tackles, 11 tackles for loss and five sacks, earning all-state and all-metro honors. He also was selected as 2020 Black Athlete of the Year in the state of Michigan (other finalists included Damon Payne, Kalen King and Donovan Edwards). Reed also lettered in basketball and track (hurdles and relays) in high school.

A four-star recruit, Reed was the 18th-ranked safety in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 9 recruit in Michigan (one spot behind Kalen King, his future Nittany Lions teammate). After his sophomore season, he received his first offer from Cincinnati, which had just signed his mentor and friend, Gardner. Between his sophomore and junior seasons, Reed picked up more than a dozen major offers, including from Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan State, Penn State and Pittsburgh. Georgia, Nebraska, Oregon and USC joined the mix after Reed's junior season. In April 2020, Reed committed to Penn State and became the sixth-ranked recruit in head coach James Franklin's 2021 class. Reed declined an invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (8/0)	6	0.0	0.0	0	0	0	Enrolled May 2021
2022: (13/0)	31	2.0	0.0	0	3	0
2023: (13/13)	46	4.0	1.0	0	3	2	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten
2024: (16/16)	98	6.5	2.5	1	6	3	Second Team All-Big Ten; led team in INT, tackles; 19-yard INT TD
Total: (50/29)	181	12.5	3.5	1	12	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5115	211	9	30 3/8	74 1/4	4.49	2.59	1.55	33 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	19	No BJ, SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	5116	212	8 7/8	31 1/4	74 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- On-field aggressiveness and passion jump off the tape
- Bursty trigger and doesn't hesitate in his attack
- Fast and physical as a downhill striker
- Adjusts pacing and angles mid-pursuit to elude blocks without taking himself out of the play
- Built with solid muscle mass and finishes tackles with upper-body strength
- Understands route concepts in zone
- Times contact downfield to turn catches into incompletions (see 2024 West Virginia tape)
- Was used frequently as a blitzer and had a high success rate from various angles
- Credits high school teammate and mentor Sauce Gardner for "building" him into the player he is today
- Served as a team captain for six games in 2024
- Durable — played in all 42 games past three seasons, including 29 straight starts

WEAKNESSES:

- Always goes full speed and doesn't give himself much grace to recover if his angle is off
- Goes for kill shot too often
- Tackling technique is all over the place, leading to misses (see 2024 Ohio State and Boise State tapes)
- Falls off ball carriers when strike zone gets too high and dives at ankles when he stops his feet too early
- Shows range on the backend but can be a hair late reacting to throws outside the numbers
- Eyes get laser-focused on the quarterback, and he loses track of the route as a one-high player
- Four undisciplined penalties in 2024 (two personal foul late hits, two unsportsmanlike conducts)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Penn State, Reed was an interchangeable safety in former defensive coordinator Tom Allen's 4-2-5 base scheme, playing two-high, one-high and matched up against the slot. After joining a safety room that included future top-100 draft picks Jaquan Brisker and Ji'Ayir Brown, he emerged as an impact defender for the Nittany Lions in 2024, leading the team in tackles (98) and interceptions (three).

With his enforcer mentality, Reed is a blur working downhill, especially as a blitzer, and doesn't have a passive bone in his body. His tackling technique looks different from play to play, however, and the misses add up. He has the range to cover ground and explodes into the catch point in coverage, but his streaky angles and eye discipline can leave him out of position. Overall, Reed has the athletic traits and competitive urgency NFL teams want on their rosters, but he might be stuck as a backup and special-teamer until he cuts down on costly mistakes. He has starting potential in the post if he finds better consistency.

GRADE: 4th round

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
New Palestine, IN	New Palestine	Aug 19, 2001	23.68	6004	201	#25

BACKGROUND: Maxen (MAX-in) Hook was born and raised in New Palestine (a rural town 20 miles east of Indianapolis) with his parents (Matthew and Amy). His father, who owns Hook Lawn & Landscape, helped coach him through youth football. Hook played multiple sports throughout childhood, primarily baseball, basketball and football. Growing up, basketball was his focus, including club and travel teams, but football was always his "love" (he has wanted to be an NFL player since second grade). Hook started playing tackle football in first grade for the NPCFL DePauw Tigers, followed by the Pee Wee Greyhounds, then Doe Creek in middle school.

Hook attended New Palestine High, a football program that wasn't known for producing Division I recruits. He was coached by Kyle Ralph, who had been an All-American offensive tackle at North Carolina and then helped turn New Palestine into a state contender. Hook played on offense (wide receiver/tight end), but he was at his best as a safety and moved up to varsity during his freshman season. He helped the team to the 2017 league title as a sophomore with 69 tackles and three interceptions. As a junior, he posted 126 tackles, 14.5 tackles for loss, four sacks, three interceptions (one returned for a touchdown) and three forced fumbles — one of which came against running back Carson Steele, now with the Kansas City Chiefs. Hook earned all-state honors as a junior and led New Palestine to a perfect 14-0 record, including a 2018 5A state championship win at Lucas Oil Stadium. As a senior, he led New Palestine to another undefeated season and the second of its back-to-back 5A state titles.

He earned all-state honors and was recognized as Indiana's Defensive Back Mr. Football, with 90 tackles, two interceptions (one returned for a touchdown) and two forced fumbles; he added a punt-return touchdown and 25 receptions for 447 yards and seven touchdown grabs. Hook also played three years of varsity basketball at New Palestine (didn't play as a senior), and he helped the team to the 2018-19 state playoff semifinals as a junior (lost to Ben Davis High, whose roster included Dawand Jones).

A three-star recruit, Hook was the 205th-ranked safety in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 33 recruit in Indiana. He was one of three New Palestine recruits in the 2020 class, along with Kyle King (Michigan State/Ball State) and Charlie Spegal (Indiana/Ball State). After his junior season, Hook received his first scholarship offer (Illinois State) in January 2019, followed by his first FBS offer a month later (Air Force). He added a few Ivy League offers (Cornell, Dartmouth, Yale), but the bulk of his offers came from the MAC, including Ball State, Bowling Green, Central Michigan, Miami (Ohio), Ohio and Toledo. Hook committed to head coach Jason Candle and the Rockets the summer before his senior year. He was the 17th-ranked recruit in Candle's 2020 class (cornerback Quinyon Mitchell ranked sixth in that class).

After missing a handful of games in 2023, Hook took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the pandemic and returned for his fifth season in 2024. He earned Academic All-MAC honors four times, graduated with a degree in accounting (Dec. 2023) and is working on his MBA in leadership. Hook opted out of Toledo's 2024 bowl game and accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (6/0)	4	0.0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled spring 2020
2021: (13/11)	95	3.5	1	0	3	0	Third Team All-MAC; blocked punt; 35-yard TD on blocked punt return
2022: (12/11)	81	3.0	1	0	6	2	First Team All-MAC; missed two games (concussion)
2023: (9/9)	69	0.0	0	1	7	3	First Team All-MAC; missed five games (foot); team captain
2024: (12/12)	107	1.0	0	1	6	2	First Team All-MAC; led team in tackles; missed bowl game (opt-out); team captain
Total: (52/43)	356	7.5	2	2	22	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6004	202	9 1/8	31 1/2	75 1/2	4.55	2.64	1.58	34 1/2	10'4"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No position drills, SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6003	201	8 7/8	32 1/4	75 1/4	4.52	2.62	1.60	35 1/2	10'4"	4.34	6.92	18

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with adequate muscularity and length
- Rangy speed gives him versatility to play over the top or rotate across the secondary
- Fluid movement skills and doesn't play stiff
- Smart hook/curl zone coverage player
- Calms feet and stays balanced as tackler to get ball carriers on the ground in space
- Lowers shoulder to deliver forceful pop at contact
- Plays with toughness to attack pullers and maintain run-game leverage
- Committed only one penalty (late hit personal foul in 2022) on 2,653 career defensive snaps
- Experienced on special teams coverages (681 snaps, including one blocked punt) and was a special teams MVP three straight years in high school
- Two-year team captain (Toledo head coach Jason Candle: "Tremendous kid, tremendous leader.")
- Scouts say he has a blue-collar work ethic that was instilled in him by his parents and community

WEAKNESSES:

- Missed tackles on tape usually were of the fly-by variety because of his aggressive run angles
- Inconsistent eye discipline and can be late to diagnose play action or ball fakes
- Didn't have many man-to-man nickel reps on tape and doesn't have explosiveness to match up with NFL slots
- Average mid-air ball skills — left some interceptions on the field
- Rarely used as a blitz and struggled to find pass-rush snaps on tape
- Suffered a concussion on an opening kickoff (Oct. 2022) and missed the following two games; missed five games (Sept. 2023) with a foot injury

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Toledo, Hook was the strong safety in defensive coordinator Vince Kehres' 4-2-5 base scheme, rotating as a two-high player, underneath zone defender and box player. A three-time first-team All-MAC selection, Hook was considered a potential mid-round prospect in the 2024 draft class, but he returned for a fifth season (in part because of the foot injury he suffered in 2023) and ranked in the top 25 in the FBS in tackles per game (8.9).

In coverage, Hook has the range and smarts to stay in the hip pocket of backs and tight ends, although his average anticipation might keep him from being a deep-middle safety or man-coverage nickel against NFL players. He has an outstanding feel for run fits and doesn't get outmatched as an athlete in space, which allows him to secure open-field stops (missed tackles were rare on his tape) Overall, Hook is a hard-nosed competitor with the pursuit skills and athletic talent (burst, speed, change of direction) to compete for a box or two-high role in a variety of schemes. His special teams impact should keep him on a roster long-term, as long as he stays healthy.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

S12 Dante Trader Jr.

Maryland, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Delmar, DE	McDonogh	Feb 13, 2003	22.19	5107	200	#12

BACKGROUND: Dante Trader Jr. was born and raised on the eastern shore of Delmar, Del., with his parents (Dante Trader Sr. and Roniell). His father ran track and played football at Widener University (1997-2002) and was a wide receiver and secondary coach at Division III Salisbury College. He introduced Dante Trader Jr. to football at a young age. Trader's mother is a teacher, and she inspired Trader to create backpack drives and other initiatives to help kids with their education. Along with playing Pop Warner football in Delmar, Trader picked up lacrosse at age 7 and fell in love with the sport at Salisbury Lacrosse Club. His first sport was rec basketball, but football and lacrosse were his focuses throughout childhood. Trader was recruited for several travel lacrosse teams throughout middle school, and that sport helped develop his athleticism and set him up for football.

Trader originally attended Delmar Senior High (his parents' alma mater), where he made an immediate impact as a freshman quarterback, wide receiver and defensive back. He helped lead Delmar to a 12-1 record and the 2017 Division 2 state championship (took over at quarterback in the playoffs because of injuries). As a sophomore, Trader earned all-state honors and led the program to a 10-win season. Not knowing if college football would be an option for him, Trader transferred to McDonogh School, a private school in Baltimore County, Md., for his final two prep years to join the lacrosse program (Trader: "I had to make a sacrifice to better myself in lacrosse"). He also continued to play football at McDonogh and led the program to the 2019 conference title as a junior wide receiver and safety. Trader earned all-conference honors with 25 tackles, 20 passes defended and six interceptions (one returned for a touchdown), adding 21 receptions for 462 yards and six touchdowns on offense. He was a star on the lacrosse teams at both Delmar and McDonogh and joined the respected Madlax-Capital youth club team, enduring long commutes to play in the Washington, D.C. area.

A three-star recruit, Trader was the 49th-ranked cornerback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 19 recruit in Maryland. A dynamic two-way midfielder, he was also a five-star lacrosse recruit (No. 9 overall). Ever since he attended a Maryland youth lacrosse tournament in eighth grade, Trader had wanted to join the Terrapins. Before his junior season, in September 2019, he committed to Maryland for lacrosse. Midway through the 2019 football season, Trader then received an offer from head coach Mike Locksley to play football at Maryland, as well (he also garnered football offers from Boston College and Syracuse). He was the seventh-ranked recruit in Locksley's 2021 class. A dual-sport athlete at Maryland, he decided to focus only on football as a freshman (Maryland lacrosse went 18-0 in spring of 2022 and won the NCAA national championship).

As a sophomore, Trader joined the lacrosse team after the football season ended and accounted for 14 forced turnovers and five goals, earning honorable mention All-America honors. Trader decided not to return to the lacrosse team for the 2024 spring season because he needed time for his body to recover from football. He twice earned Academic All-Big Ten honors. Trader accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/0)	16	1.0	0	0	1	0	Enrolled June 2021
2022: (13/13)	62	0.5	0	0	6	2	Led team in INT; member of lacrosse team
2023: (12/12)	53	0.5	0	1	8	2	Led team in PD; missed one game (hamstring)
2024: (10/10)	59	0.0	0	0	5	1	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; missed two games (injury)
Total: (47/35)	190	2.0	0	1	20	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5107	196	8 7/8	31 1/4	75 1/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	31	9'9"	4.32	7.09	12	No 40 (choice)
PRO DAY	5107	200	9	31 1/4	74 3/4	4.65	2.67	1.58	33 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	16

STRENGTHS:

- Plays with natural athletic instincts
- Functional range from the post to get outside numbers or cover opposite hash
- Efficient click and close with little wasted movement
- Comfortable playing underneath routes, forcing pinpoint throws for completions
- Runs alley with physicality, but doesn't sacrifice pacing or technique
- Comes to balance well as tackler and rarely misses in open field
- Maryland strength staff says he is one of the hardest workers on the team
- Wired the right way with an attitude toward training and leadership (NFL scout: "He's already a pro. ... (The) type of dude with motivational quotes on Post-its and mirrors at his crib.")
- Played on punt and punt return coverages all four seasons (523 career special teams snaps)

WEAKNESSES:

- Doesn't stand out — on paper or in pads — in terms of size or length
- Quality speed, but he'll have a tough time if asked to cover slot receivers in man coverage
- Better anticipation will help him squeeze routes
- Falls off tackle attempts occasionally because of his lack of ideal measurements
- Minimal reps as a blitzzer (didn't have any career sacks)
- Missed one game as junior because of hamstring injury (Oct. 2023); missed two games with injuries as senior (Oct. 2024)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Maryland, Trader primarily played a field safety role in defensive coordinator Brian Williams' balanced scheme, alternating from the post or walking down toward the line. A former top-five recruit in lacrosse, he was a dual-sport athlete for most of his life — including with the Terrapins — and will benefit from being 100 percent focused on football in the NFL.

With his urgent, competitive mentality, Trader has twitchy responses to plays in front of him and loves to be around the action. His long speed isn't as impressive as his short-area burst, which can lead to coverage lapses if his reads aren't on point. Overall, Trader falls short of what teams desire size-wise at safety, but he is a tough, instinctive defender at his best driving downhill, although he also can patrol the deep half and match up man-to-man against tight ends. His aggressive play style will help him earn a backup role with the potential to eventually become a starter.

GRADE: 4th-5th round

S13 Marques Sigle

Kansas State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Omaha, NE	North	Jul 18, 2002	22.77	5113	199	#21

BACKGROUND: Marques (mar-KEECE) Sigle (SEE-gull), one of five children (four boys, one girl), was born and raised in Omaha, Neb., with his parents (Calvin and Natassha). He started playing flag football for the Lil' Vikes at age 5 before joining tackle football at age 8. He was a fullback throughout pee wee before moving to linebacker. Sigle also played baseball and wrestling and ran track as a child. As a sophomore in high school, he started training at First Pick Performance in Omaha with former North Dakota State defensive back Christian Dudzik.

Sigle attended Omaha North Magnet High, where he was a multisport athlete. After starting on JV as a freshman, he became a starting defensive back on varsity as a sophomore and helped the program to a 12-1 record and the 2017 Class A state championship. Sigle finished his sophomore year with 67 tackles, two tackles for loss and one interception. As a junior captain, he posted 72 tackles, two tackles for loss and one interception, helping Omaha North to a 6-4 finish and the 2018 district title. During his senior season, Sigle saw more of an expanded role on offense and played nickel cornerback on defense, earning first-team all-conference honors. He ran track at Omaha North and had personal bests of 19 feet, 9 inches in the long jump, 5-0 in the high jump, 11.77 seconds in the 100 meters and 22.91 in the 200. Sigle also lettered in wrestling and placed second in districts as a sophomore in 2018, which qualified him for states.

A no-star recruit, Sigle wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2020 class. After his junior season, he received his first offer from FCS South Dakota State (May 2019). Soon after, Sigle added offers from Iowa Western, North Dakota, Northern Iowa and South Dakota State. He attended a prospect camp in Lincoln but didn't receive an offer from Nebraska (or any other FBS program). Attracted to its winning culture, Sigle committed to North Dakota State the summer before his senior year.

After three years as a role player and special-teamer, he entered the transfer portal in November 2022. Sigle immediately heard from several Group of 5 schools, including Akron, Ball State, Colorado State, James Madison and Kent State. Midway through December, however, Kansas State became his first (and only) Power 5 offer, which made his decision easier. Sigle accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (1/0)	1	0.0	0	0	0	0	North Dakota State; redshirted; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (13/0)	23	0.0	0	1	5	1	North Dakota State; MVFC All-Newcomer
2022: (11/0)	27	1.0	1	1	5	2	North Dakota State; 43-yard INT TD
2023: (12/12)	63	3.0	0	0	10	1	Kansas State; Honorable Mention All-Big 12; blocked FG; missed season opener
2024: (13/13)	60	6.5	0	0	6	3	Kansas State; led team in INT; 43-yard INT TD; team captain
Total: (50/25)	174	10.5	1	2	26	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5113	199	9 1/4	30 3/4	74	4.37	2.55	1.54	38	10'10"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5110	202	9 5/8	30 7/8	73 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	18

STRENGTHS:

- Former cornerback and hasn't lost that speed
- His 15.13 mph at five yards during his 40-yard dash was combine's fastest
- Plays with patience when reading and reacting to receiver movements
- Smooth pedal and turn when manning up in the slot
- Disciplined process to track eyes of the quarterback to throwing lanes
- Didn't commit a coverage penalty in 2024
- Rangy run defender with speed to opposite edge
- Widens his base and strikes belt of the ball carrier as tackler
- Voted a senior captain, and NFL scouts speak highly of his standing in the program
- Didn't have much of a special teams role at Kansas State, but was a core special-teamer at North Dakota State (combined 12 tackles in 2021-22)

WEAKNESSES:

- A tad light for safety work, with mediocre finishing strength
- Average anticipation from depth and can get overly conservative reading keys
- Must sharpen up coverage angles
- Strong tackling form, but misses are usually a result of lunging prematurely or not getting arms wrapped in time
- Average length and shock in hands when attempting to take on bodies
- Physical blockers will keep him occupied

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Kansas State, Sigle was a hybrid nickel safety in defensive coordinator Joe Klanderman's balanced scheme and rotated between free, strong, nickel and dime safety. A cornerback at North Dakota State, he transferred to Kansas State for his final two college seasons, earned a starting role and led the team in interceptions as a senior (including a 43-yard pick six versus West Virginia).

In coverage, Sigle is rangy playing over the top and in slot man, although some of his tardy reactions create throwing windows. Despite being a tad undersized for downhill duties, he is bursty in the run game with the trigger and tackling mechanics to get his man on the ground. Overall, Sigle's missteps can be costly, but he feels route development around him and has above-average speed to be a factor in the play. He is scheme versatile with the athleticism to fit different coverages.

GRADE: 5th round

S14 Hunter Wohler

Wisconsin, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Muskego, WI	Muskego	Jan 12, 2003	22.28	6020	213	#24

BACKGROUND: Hunter Wohler, who has a younger sister (Autumn), grew up in Muskego, Wis. (20 miles outside of Milwaukee), with his parents (Kyle and Shelly). His mother grew up on a farm in Chippewa Falls, Wis., and Wohler spent time on that same farm, where he helped butcher pigs. He was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, playing basketball and baseball and water skiing. But football quickly became his favorite sport in Muskego's closeknit community. Wohler started playing football in first grade, and his father coached him all the way through eighth grade. He was primarily a linebacker throughout youth football before moving to safety in eighth grade.

Wohler attended Muskego High and was part of some of the best teams in program history. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore and set a school record with 155 tackles as the starting safety. Wohler also had five interceptions and earned first-team all-state honors in 2018, as he helped the team to a 14-0 record and the program's first state championship (he had 15 tackles in the title game). As a junior, he again led the team to an undefeated record and the Division I state championship, finishing with 122 tackles and being named the state's player of the year. Wohler was named Gatorade Wisconsin Player of the Year as a senior, as he led Muskego to another undefeated record in a 2020 season shortened by the COVID-19 pandemic. He also saw his first snaps at running back since middle school (averaged 15.8 yards per carry with two touchdowns) and had a 97-yard kickoff return for a touchdown. In his three seasons on varsity, Muskego posted a combined record of 37-0; Wohler finished with 355 tackles and nine interceptions. He lettered in basketball at Muskego and earned all-conference honors as a junior (11.3 points per game). He ran track and had personal bests of 11.49 seconds in the 100 meters, 23.53 in the 200 and 22 feet, 5 inches in the long jump. Wohler also competed in competitive barefoot water skiing for the Water Bugs Club Team in high school.

A four-star recruit, Wohler was the 13th-ranked safety in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 2 recruit in Wisconsin (one spot ahead of running back Braelon Allen). After his sophomore season, his first offer arrived from Wisconsin (Jan. 2019), the school he'd grown up rooting for every Saturday. Wohler added offers from Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota and Notre Dame, but his recruitment came down to Ohio State and Wisconsin — he was the first high school recruit from Wisconsin to receive an Ohio State offer since 2017. He was leaning toward staying home, so when Jeff Hafley left the Buckeyes to become head coach at Boston College, Wohler knew Wisconsin was the place for him. He was the fourth-ranked recruit in former head coach Paul Chryst's 2021 class. He was named a 2023 Academic All-American and maintained a 3.53 GPA. Wohler accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (13/0)	17	3.0	1	0	1	0	Enrolled July 2021
2022: (6/1)	21	2.0	0	0	1	1	Missed seven games (left fibula)
2023: (13/13)	120	5.5	1	0	8	2	Third Team All-Big Ten; led team in tackles
2024: (11/11)	71	1.0	0	0	6	0	Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in tackles; missed one game (injury)
Total: (43/25)	229	11.5	2	0	16	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6020	213	9 1/4	30 5/8	75 3/8	4.57	2.66	1.60	37	10'0"	4.25	6.72	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6020	214	9 3/8	30 3/8	74 7/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Good-sized athlete with motor and edge that stand out to scouts
- Outstanding run-diagnose skills and quickly puts himself on the right path
- Gears down smoothly to easily redirect pursuit (posted top three-cone time at combine)
- Plays physical through contact in the box
- Matches up well with tight ends and backs in man-to-man
- Crowds airspace well but was flagged for only two pass interference penalties over 25 college starts
- NFL scouts describe him as a "coach's dream" because of his belief in the program and hatred for losing
- Experienced on special teams coverages (also averaged nine yards per return as backup punt returner)
- His 120 tackles in 2023 were most by a Wisconsin defensive back since 1991

WEAKNESSES:

- Speed is solid but doesn't jump out as a differentiating trait
- Middling twitch in open field and will stumble in his click and close
- Often finds himself in and out of phase and needs to stay in the hip pocket
- Questionable deep-third range when attempting to play the sideline
- No interceptions on 2024 tape
- Short arms, which will leave him stuck on blocks near the line
- Broken left fibula suffered in 2022 season opener (his first career start) and missed next seven games; knocked out of Oregon game (Nov. 2024) and missed the following game

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Wisconsin, Wohler lined up at strong safety in defensive coordinator Mike Tressel's 2-4-5 base scheme. He led the Badgers in tackles each of his two seasons as a starter, and the defense looked completely different in the one game he missed in 2024.

Despite his short arms, Wohler is automatic as a tackler with his ability to work down, wrap and finish one-on-one (averaged eight tackles per game over the past two seasons). He shows some promise covering in underneath zones, but savvy route runners can get him turned around, and his recovery skills are mediocre. Overall, Wohler is a one-speed athlete and will be limited as a true coverage player at the next level, but his read-react ability and competitive edge versus the run should give him NFL value. He might not be an ideal starter, but he has the tools to hang around as a quality depth piece and special-teamer.

GRADE: 5th round

HOMETOWN Oak Lawn, IL	HIGH SCHOOL Richards	BIRTHDAY Oct 14, 2000	AGE 24.53	HT 5112	WT 203	NUM #29
--------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Sebastian "Mario" Castro, the youngest of two boys, was born in Chicago with his mother (Ruby Gonzalez). Castro, along with his mother and brother (Roque), grew up living with his maternal grandparents in the Chicago suburb of Oak Lawn. His grandfather (Jose) and grandmother (Teresa) are Mexican immigrants who met in Chicago before marrying in 1977 and starting a family (they had five daughters). Multiple aunts and cousins also lived in the same house, so Castro shared a bedroom with his mother and brother. He spent his childhood playing different sports outside, and his older brother taught him to play football at age 8 (Castro grew up a diehard Chicago Bears fan). He later played 7-on-7 for Lincoln-Way East. Roque played defensive back at St. Xavier (2015-18), an NAIA school outside of Chicago.

Castro enrolled at Harold L. Richards High in Oak Lawn, the alma mater of NBA legend Dwayne Wade. He moved up to varsity as a sophomore and started at free safety, collecting 63 tackles, six interceptions, two forced fumbles and a pair of defensive touchdowns. As a junior, Castro shared quarterback duties on offense and accounted for 1,301 passing yards, 467 rushing yards and 17 total touchdowns (12 passing, five rushing). He also tallied 52 tackles and a forced fumble, earning first-team all-state and all-conference. As a senior captain, Castro led Richards to a 12-1 record and the 2018 conference title (only loss came in the 6A state playoff semifinals). He again earned first-team all-state and all-conference honors, posting 95 tackles, five interceptions and three forced fumbles, plus 678 rushing yards, 421 passing yards and 13 total touchdowns (nine rushing, four passing). Castro also ran track (sprints and hurdles) at Richards.

A three-star recruit, Castro was the 71st-ranked safety in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 17 recruit in Illinois. After his breakout sophomore season, he started to attend camps and picked up FBS offers from Iowa State, Minnesota and Syracuse. After he visited Iowa City and met with the Hawkeyes' coaches, Castro made up his mind and committed to Iowa as a junior in April 2018. He was the 17th-ranked recruit in head coach Kirk Ferentz's 2019 class (same class as Sam LaPorta and Jack Campbell). Castro took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to Iowa for his sixth season. He earned an undergraduate degree (Dec. 2023). Castro accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Redshirted; enrolled in June 2019
2020: (1/0)	0	0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/0)	6	0	0	0	0	0
2022: (13/8)	33	3	1	2	5	0
2023: (14/13)	67	8	1	1	11	3	Third Team All-American; Honorable Mention All-Big Ten; led team in INT, PD; 30-yard INT TD
2024: (12/12)	57	3	0	2	2	1	Third Team All-Big Ten; missed one game (ankle)
Total: (54/33)	163	14	2	5	18	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5112	203	10 1/2	30 3/4	74 3/8	4.59	2.66	1.60	30 1/2	9'9"	4.34	DNP	DNP	No three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5111	197	10 3/8	31	74 3/4	4.70	2.72	1.66	32	DNP	4.31	7.11	13

STRENGTHS:

- His best athletic trait is fluid balance for smooth transitions
- Plays with urgency in his key and drive to make stops at the line of scrimmage in run game
- Fast and sharp downhill angles raise chances of finishing open-field tackles
- Physical finisher; throws body into the lower half of ball carrier (grew up idolizing Troy Polamalu)
- Gauges play speed from depth to leverage the field and guard the sticks
- Anticipates well from zone to undercut routes
- Big, steady hands to pick off inaccurate throws
- Didn't commit a coverage penalty over past two seasons (26 games)
- Detailed work ethic instilled in him at a young age by his grandfather

WEAKNESSES:

- Not a special athlete, with average-at-best speed
- More controlled than sudden in open-field movements
- Inconsistent as a true man-to-man defender
- Managed just two passes defended in 2024 (ninth on the Hawkeyes)
- Eagerness to make plays as senior led to false steps
- Arrives too hot at times as tackler and gets caught between wrapping and striking
- Didn't play on punt coverage in college
- Will be 25 as a rookie

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Iowa, Castro played the nickel "Cash" position in defensive coordinator Phil Parker's 4-2-5 base scheme, lining up primarily as a hybrid slot/linebacker. He earned draftable grades from NFL scouts after his All-American 2023 season, but his super-senior season was somewhat disappointing — he had more touchdowns allowed in coverage (five) than passes defended (two). Iowa has developed a reputation for sending alert, competitive and opportunistic defensive backs to the league, and Castro is next up in the pipeline.

Though not a top-tier athlete, he is a smooth, decisive player who keys well and takes smart angles in zone coverage and run support. Overall, Castro is an instinctive zone defender with trustworthy football character, but his ordinary speed and explosiveness limit his upside in most schemes. He best fits as a big nickel safety, likely as a backup.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

S16 Dan Jackson

Georgia, 6SR

HOMETOWN Gainesville, GA	HIGH SCHOOL North Hall	BIRTHDAY Nov 30, 2000	AGE 24.40	HT 6001	WT 194	NUM #17
-----------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Daniel "Dan" Jackson, the middle of three boys, grew up in Gainesville, Ga. (about an hour north of Atlanta), with his parents (Joe and Valencia). His father is a dentist, and his mother works at the family practice. Jackson played multiple sports throughout childhood, often competing against his brothers (Sam and Will). His favorite sports were baseball, basketball and football — he played all three through middle school. He broke his leg playing baseball in fifth grade, then broke the same leg playing football in seventh grade. Jackson was raised in a Georgia Bulldogs family and would spend fall weekends in Athens for football games. He also was an avid hunter — he still loves to bow hunt — and fisherman and played the guitar in his church band.

Jackson attended North Hall High in Hall County and was a multisport standout. He played a little varsity football as a freshman and saw more action as a sophomore. He got starter-level snaps as a junior, playing both ways as a running back and defensive back. Jackson had his best season as a senior, when he led North Hall to a 9-3 record and the second round of the 2018 3A state playoffs. He rushed for 1,084 yards on 96 carries (11.3 average) and 18 touchdowns, adding 15 catches for 381 yards and five touchdown grabs. Jackson also collected 76 tackles, three forced fumbles and two interceptions and returned a pair of kickoffs for touchdowns. He won the 3A region player of the year award. Jackson, who graduated from North Hall with a 3.8 GPA, also lettered in basketball and track and set school records in the 60-meter hurdles (8.77 seconds) and 110-meter hurdles (15.10). He had personal bests of 11.02 in the 100, 23.58 in the 200 and 6 feet in the high jump.

A no-star recruit, Jackson wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2019 class. Weighing just 160 pounds the summer before his senior season, he didn't have many highlights from his first three years in high school and didn't attend many recruiting camps. After a breakout senior season, Jackson received another look from Air Force, which offered him a scholarship (FCS Mercer was his only other Division I offer). He was leaning toward signing with Air Force but decided instead to attend Georgia — the school he'd always envisioned attending.

Despite receiving zero recruitment interest from Georgia, Jackson got in contact with defensive backs coach Charlton Warren and convinced him to watch his film. Warren offered him a preferred walk-on spot for the 2019 season. Jackson received the HOPE scholarship, which helped him pay tuition. After two seasons on the scout team, he earned his first start in 2021. Despite debating whether to give up football or return for a sixth season, Jackson returned in 2024 and raised his draft stock (head coach Kirby Smart: "He came back because he loves this place. ... He's never asked for anything. He doesn't do it for the money. He loves this place.") Jackson was named to the 2024 SEC Community Service Team. Jackson accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl and was voted the American Team's top safety during the week.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Redshirted; scout team; walk-on
2020: (0/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Scout team
2021: (15/4)	40	2.0	0	0	0	0	Blocked punt
2022: (7/1)	16	1.0	0	1	2	1	Missed final seven games (foot)
2023: (11/1)	20	0.0	0	1	2	1
2024: (14/13)	64	1.5	0	1	5	2	Third Team All-SEC; blocked FG
Total: (47/19)	140	4.5	0	3	9	4

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6001	194	8 3/4	29 7/8	73 1/8	4.45	2.64	1.54	34	10'3"	4.33	7.12	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Plays with a decisive reactor for quick-drive triggers
- Forceful high-to-low tackler — runs the alley like a runaway train
- Looks to lay licks on crossers and screens
- Anticipates wide receiver breaks and gets a head start

- Forced key fumble late against Georgia Tech in his final game in Athens, which allowed Bulldogs to come back and win (Nov. 2024)
- Extensive special teams background and a regular on kickoff and punt return coverage the past four seasons (blocked field goal in 2024)
- Described as "phenomenal" teammate because of a positive attitude and work ethic that raises the bar (Smart: "All he does is give everything he's got every single day.")
- Only missed start in 2024 was because of a targeting penalty the week before

WEAKNESSES:

- Average frame and lacks ideal length
- Tight hips and inconsistent sink create lags in redirects
- Lackluster coverage speed, especially when defending the sidelines
- Bites on initial route movements and can be fooled by ball/head fakes
- Misses too many tackles when he arrives too hot
- Tackling technique leaves plenty to be desired — often hits instead of wrapping
- Stress fracture in foot (Oct. 2022), which required season-ending surgery (also missed 2023 spring practices)
- Only one season playing starter snaps
- Will turn 25 during his rookie season

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Georgia, Jackson was a versatile safety in head coach Kirby Smart's scheme, lining up in two-high and in middle-field cheat coverage. Despite not being recruited by the Bulldogs, he earned his way as a walk-on and played six seasons without a football scholarship, becoming an impactful starter in 2024 (Smart admits they "lucked into" having him).

When he keeps the play in front of him, Jackson reacts without hesitation and closes with an extra gear to explode through contact. Though the highlights are fireworks, he also has reckless tendencies because of his aggressive play style. He must introduce more discipline into his tackling process. Overall, Jackson doesn't have the high-end coverage skills desired at the position, but he is instinctive, tough and determined, and his stopwatch speed shows when working downhill. At the very least, his special teams impact will make it tough for an NFL coaching staff to cut him.

GRADE: 5th-6th round

S17 Craig Woodson

California, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Grand Prairie, TX	South	Feb 20, 2001	24.17	6001	200	#2

BACKGROUND: Craig Woodson, the youngest of three children, was born and raised in Nashville, Tenn., with his parents (Gregory and Hellen). He grew up playing baseball, basketball and soccer. In 2009, When Woodson was 8, his family relocated to the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex, which is where he discovered football. Woodson played running back and wide receiver for the Grand Prairie Spartans and was coached by Robert Mayberry, who became an important mentor in his life. More so than any other sport, football felt natural to him and quickly became his passion.

Woodson attended Grand Prairie South High, where he was teammates with offensive lineman Steve Avila (second-round pick by the Los Angeles Rams in the 2023 NFL Draft). He wanted to keep playing offense, but his team needed help at safety, so he switched positions to get on the field. As a junior, Woodson recorded 70 tackles and one interception, as he helped Grand Prairie South to a 7-5 finish and a spot in the 2017 Class 6A state playoffs. He earned all-district honors as a senior with 96 tackles, two forced fumbles, two interceptions and two blocked field goals, again leading his team to the playoffs. Woodson also lettered in track and set a personal best of 6 feet, 5 inches in the high jump.

A three-star recruit, Woodson was the 126th-ranked safety in the 2019 recruiting class and the No. 200 recruit in Texas. His recruitment started out lightly, with mostly FCS attention, including offers from Bucknell, Lamar and Northwestern State. The spring after his junior season, Woodson received his first FBS offer from UTSA (May 2018). He committed a month later and was planning to sign with the Roadrunners. However, Cal was recruiting his teammate (Myles Jernigan) and made a late push just before signing day. Woodson flipped to the Golden Bears and became the 15th-ranked recruit in head coach Justin Wilcox's 2019 class.

He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned for his sixth season. Woodson graduated with a degree in film and media (May 2023) and added a graduate certificate in business administration (Dec. 2023). He accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	2	0.0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled in July 2019
2020: (4/2)	17	0.0	0	0	2	0	Pandemic-shortened season; blocked punt
2021: (-/-)							Missed season because of injury (knee)
2022: (12/12)	75	3.0	0	1	5	2	Honorable Mention All-Pac-12; 39-yard INT TD
2023: (13/13)	81	3.5	0	2	5	1	Honorable Mention All-Pac-12
2024: (13/13)	70	2.5	0	0	9	2	Third Team All-ACC
Total: (46/40)	245	9.0	0	3	21	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6001	200	8 3/4	30 1/2	75 1/4	4.45	2.59	1.56	36	10'7"	-.00	DNP	13	No SS, three-cone (choice)
PRO DAY	6001	203	8 7/8	31	74 5/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.20	7.06	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Controlled, fluid mover and stays on the same plan vertically in his turn and run
- Has good feel for spacing in the deep third to influence multiple routes
- Good timing when attacking the catch point to dislodge ball from man
- Arrives without going through receivers (one coverage penalty over past three seasons)
- Accelerates through hips of ball carrier as tackler
- Productive playing down at line of scrimmage
- Stopwatch speed shows up most as a backside chaser
- Plenty of special teams experience (450 career snaps)
- Started all 38 games the past three seasons; NFL scouts say he is an A-plus person

WEAKNESSES:

- More smooth than dynamic in his movements
- Trusts his eyes but can be manipulated for that very reason
- Plays with good speed but not good enough to easily recover from a misstep
- Needs to eliminate zigs and zags from pursuit angles
- Required season-ending surgery after injuring knee during 2021 fall camp
- Will be 24 on draft weekend

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Cal, Woodson was an interchangeable safety in head coach Justin Wilcox's 2-4-5 base scheme, playing nickel and both the field and boundary spots. He had a tough first three years in Berkeley (redshirt, COVID-19, knee injury), but he was a consistent presence over his final three seasons and got better each year, which didn't go unnoticed by NFL scouts.

Whether playing down or on the backend, Woodson shows terrific recognition of run-pass development to smartly put himself in positions to make plays. He is at his best in short zones or split-safety alignments, where he can maintain spacing and drive on the football. Overall, Woodson doesn't have dominant size or traits that make him jump off the film, but he is good enough in most critical categories NFL teams want at the safety position. He will be ready from day one to compete for a depth role.

GRADE: 6th round

S18 Rayuan Lane III

Navy, 4SR

HOMETOWN Jessup, MD	HIGH SCHOOL Gilman School	BIRTHDAY Jul 21, 2003	AGE 21.76	HT 5107	WT 201	NUM #18
------------------------	------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

BACKGROUND: Rayuan Lane III, the middle of three children, was born and raised outside of Baltimore with his parents (William and Felecia). His mother played college softball at Kent State. His younger brother (Dejuan) is a rising sophomore safety at Penn State. He also has an older sister (Armonie). Lane was a standout athlete from an early age, especially in basketball and football. He was a productive player with the ball in his hands throughout pee-wee football, but he really shined on the hardwood. He played for the Baltimore Stars and starred on the AAU circuit.

Lane enrolled at Gilman School, an all-boys school in Baltimore. He played quarterback on the JV team as a freshman, but he decided not to play as a sophomore so he could focus on basketball. However, Lane gave football another chance as a junior and became a two-way playmaker for the varsity. He earned all-conference honors, leading the team in rushing, returning kicks on special teams and lining up all over the back seven on defense. His senior season was cut short (two games) because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but he combined for seven touchdowns in those contests. Lane continued playing basketball at Gilman and also lettered in track. He had personal bests of 5 feet, 2 inches in the high jump, 18-7 in the long jump, 34-3 in the triple jump, 10.99 seconds in the 100 meters and 23.41 in the 200.

A no-star recruit, Lane wasn't ranked by online recruiting services in the 2021 class. With average size and limited tape, he went overlooked throughout the recruiting process. Following his junior season, he received his first offer (Navy) in March 2020. He added offers from Army and several FCS programs (Howard, Merrimack, Sacred Heart), but he was sold on Navy and signed as a defensive back. After his second season in the program, Lane entered the transfer portal in the spring of 2023 and received NIL offers from several major programs, including Notre Dame, Ole Miss and UCLA. He took some visits but ultimately decided to stay at Navy. Lane is on pace to graduate with his degree in quantitative economics in May 2025. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (12/6)	37	2.0	0.0	1	5	1
2022: (12/12)	71	2.5	1.0	2	4	0
2023: (12/12)	66	3.0	0.5	2	12	4	Third Team All-AAC; led team in INT, PD; 97-yard INT TD
2024: (13/13)	70	0.5	0.0	3	7	2	First Team All-AAC; 86-yard INT TD
Total: (49/43)	244	8.0	1.5	8	28	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5107	200	9 3/4	30 1/4	74 5/8	4.57	2.71	1.65	37	10'8"	4.28	7.10	DNP	No bench (choice)
PRO DAY	5104	201	9 1/2	30 1/8	72 3/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	13

STRENGTHS:

- Explosive lower body for sudden drives on the football
- Displays twitch in movements to avoid blocks or react with route runners
- Reaches landmarks with ease in coverage and baits the quarterback
- Created combined 11 turnovers over past two seasons (six interceptions, five forced fumbles)
- Can see his offensive background on interception tries (both pick sixes were longer than 86 yards)
- Fearless as run defender
- Makes defensive checks and communicates well to get teammates lined up
- Durable and versatile — finished career with 43 straight starts (NFL scout: "His coaches say he never even missed practice.")
- Shined as a gunner all four seasons (23 career special teams tackles)

WEAKNESSES:

- Frame and length won't be selling points in draft rooms
- Fills quickly but will overcommit himself and create tougher angles
- Physical ball carriers can power through his wrap-catch attempts (see 2024 Tulane tape)
- Doesn't have ideal speed to keep stride with NFL receivers
- Can get grabby when out of position (four pass interference flags in 2024, including one that brought back an interception on the Temple tape)
- Three personal foul penalties as senior

SUMMARY: A four-year starter at Navy, Lane was a versatile safety in head coach Brian Newberry's 4-2-5 base scheme, which showcased his versatility across the secondary. After he went overlooked as a high school recruit, he became a freshman starter for the Midshipmen and bypassed transfer opportunities to create his legacy at Navy.

An instinctive athlete, Lane sees the field well and understands where the quarterback wants to go, showing a feel for when to roll the dice. He trusts his eyes to drive on plays in front of him, although his timing and break-down technique can be improved. Overall, Lane needs to improve his reliability finishing tackles, but his fluid athleticism and football IQ are NFL-quality traits. His special teams impact as a gunner can really separate him on draft boards and in training camp.

GRADE: 6th round

S19 Malik Verdon

Iowa State, 4JR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Cincinnati, OH	Hamilton	Oct 31, 2002	22.48	6037	219	#7

BACKGROUND: Malik (Muh-leek) Verdon (Ver-DON), the oldest of four children (three boys, one girl), grew up in Arizona with his parents (Jimmy and Frances) before moving to the Cincinnati area in fifth grade. His father was a defensive lineman at Arizona State (2000-04) and earned All-Pac-10 honors as a senior. Malik was born during Jimmy's redshirt sophomore season, and his parents married after that season (Feb. 2003). Jimmy Verdon was selected by the New Orleans Saints in the seventh round (No. 232) of the 2005 NFL Draft. He spent time with the Cincinnati Bengals (2007-08) before playing in the CFL. He later became a graduate assistant at Eastern Michigan. Both of Malik Verdon's younger brothers played defensive end at Hamilton High — Gabriel signed with Division II Lock Haven in the 2023 class; Trey signed with Iowa State in the 2025 class. Verdon also has a younger sister (Cecilia).

Verdon spent his freshman year at Lakota West High in the Cincinnati suburbs, where the coaches gave him the option of playing wide receiver on varsity. He decided instead to stay on the JV squad, so he could play quarterback and continue developing. Before his sophomore year, Verdon transferred to Archbishop Moeller High, an all-boys Catholic school in Cincinnati known for its football program. After spending his sophomore season as the backup quarterback, he became the starter as a junior, but the offense struggled, and he moved to wide receiver before leaving the team after its seventh game. Verdon enrolled at Hamilton High midway through his junior season and was ruled eligible for the basketball season because he had transferred for "family reasons." He joined the football team as a senior and was teammates with future Iowa running back Kaleb Johnson, a potential first-round pick in the 2025 NFL Draft. Verdon earned first-team all-conference honors at safety (40 tackles and two interceptions) while also playing quarterback and wide receiver, helping Hamilton to a 6-4 finish (lost to both Lakota West and Moeller).

A three-star recruit, Verdon was the 54th-ranked athlete in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 29 recruit in Ohio. Before he even enrolled in high school, he received his first scholarship offer from Mississippi State (June 2017). Ron English, who coached Jimmy Verdon at Arizona State and hired him at Eastern Michigan, was a defensive assistant coach at Mississippi State at the time and offered Malik Verdon based on his potential. After Dan Mullen (and English) moved on to Florida in 2018, Verdon received an offer from the Gators. However, his quarterback career fizzled in high school, and those SEC offers vanished. After his junior season, Verdon received offers from Kentucky and several MAC schools, including Ball State, Bowling Green, Kent State, Toledo and Western Michigan. He committed to nearby Miami (Ohio) the summer before his senior year. However, he then added offers from Iowa, Iowa State and Pittsburgh during his senior year and decommitted from Miami (Ohio) in November 2019. Verdon officially flipped to Iowa State a few days later. He was the eighth-ranked recruit in head coach Matt Campbell's 2021 class and signed as a defensive back.

Verdon earned Academic All-Big 12 honors and graduated with a degree in liberal studies (Dec. 2024). After four seasons, Verdon elected to skip his senior season and enter the NFL Draft. He accepted his invitation to the Senior Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (2/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Redshirted; enrolled January 2021
2022: (3/2)	11	1.5	0	0	1	0	Missed final nine games (surgery)
2023: (10/9)	47	0.5	0	0	6	2	Honorable Mention All-Big 12; missed three games (left arm)
2024: (12/-)	76	3.5	1	2	6	1	Second Team All-Big 12; missed two games (hand)
Total: (27/11)	134	5.5	1	2	13	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6035	218	9 1/2	32 1/2	78 3/8	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.34	7.06	DNP	No 40, jumps, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6037	219	10	33	79 1/2	DNP	DNP	DNP	37 1/2	10'0"	4.20	7.34	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Frame and length that immediately draw the eye
- Smooth movements in short areas for quick reactions
- Drives on targets from short zone
- Uses length to disrupt throws near his air space and force incompletions
- Active to be where he needs to be supporting the run
- Pursuit effort is consistent to chase down runners
- Not shy delivering jarring hits near line of scrimmage
- Played penalty-free football in college (zero career flags)

WEAKNESSES:

- Lean-muscled with little definition on his frame
- Average speed player who quickly finds himself out-angled
- Can react with the play but doesn't consistently anticipate
- Hard to feel great about his man-coverage feel
- Too many missed tackles, usually because his upper-body strength wasn't enough to finish
- Didn't play on any kickoff or punt coverages in college
- Missed final nine games of 2022 season after undergoing season-ending surgery (Oct. 2022); missed three games as sophomore because of hairline fracture in left forearm (Oct. 2023); missed time as senior with left hand injury (Oct. 2024) and wore club over final month of season; right shoulder surgery (March 2025) after Iowa State's pro day (expected to be cleared for training camp)

SUMMARY: A two-year starter at Iowa State, Verdon lined up as the boundary safety in defensive coordinator Jon Heacock's zone-heavy scheme, spending most of his time in the box or over the slot. Primarily a quarterback in high school, he battled injuries over his last three seasons, but his impact and tackle production still increased each year.

Verdon has the body length and smooth athleticism to match up in man and zone coverage, although he tends to be more reactive than proactive. Though not an intimidating or forceful tackler, he stays disciplined with his keys and does a nice job lassoing ball carriers. Overall, Verdon is a tall, long athlete with a unique skill set as a low-hole defender, but his anticipation and finishing skills must improve before he is ready for full-time snaps in the NFL. Learning to make an impact on special teams will be important for him.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

HOMETOWN Tyler, TX	HIGH SCHOOL John Tyler	BIRTHDAY Dec 31, 2001	AGE 23.31	HT 5105	WT 202	NUM #4
-----------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

BACKGROUND: Kitan (KEE-tuhn) Crawford grew up in Tyler, Texas, with his mother (Natika Johnson) and stepfather (Eric Johnson). His aunt (Shelitrice Bonner) ran track at Baylor. Crawford was a multisport athlete throughout childhood, with football becoming his focus.

Crawford attended John Tyler High, the alma mater of Pro Football Hall of Fame running back Earl Campbell. After starting out on JV, he received some varsity action as a sophomore running back and produced 297 rushing yards (7.4 yards per carry) and 81 receiving yards. As a junior, Crawford played both ways as a cornerback and running back and helped Tyler to a 10-win season, including the 2018 district title. He finished his junior year with 30 tackles and two interceptions, along with 269 rushing yards and two touchdowns. Crawford delivered his most productive season as a senior, earning first-team all-district and honorable mention all-state honors at both running back and cornerback. He rushed for 1,065 yards (8.9 yards per carry) and 12 touchdowns and added 33 tackles and three interceptions (one returned for a touchdown). Crawford also lettered in track and helped Tyler finish second in the 4x100 meter relay at the 2019 state championships. He had personal bests of 10.60 seconds in the 100 meters, 22.16 in the 200 and 22 feet, 4 inches in the long jump.

A four-star recruit, Crawford was the 10th-ranked cornerback in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 25 recruit in Texas. After receiving mostly FCS interest as a sophomore, his recruitment picked up after his junior season, and he added offers from Arkansas, Baylor, Houston, Kansas State, SMU, Tulane and others in January 2019. Crawford narrowed his final list to Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas, and he committed to the Longhorns in June 2019. He was the seventh-ranked recruit in former head coach Tom Herman's 2020 class (one spot behind Jahdae Barron). Crawford decided to stay in school for a fifth season and entered the transfer portal.

He transferred to Nevada in January 2024, reuniting with head coach Jeff Choate, who had served as co-defensive coordinator at Texas (2021-23) the previous three seasons. Crawford accepted his invitation to the Hula Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (10/0)	7	1	0	0	0	0	Texas; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (10/0)	5	0	0	0	0	0	Texas
2022: (13/1)	25	0	0	0	2	0	Texas; blocked FG
2023: (13/3)	24	1	0	0	2	1	Texas; blocked punt (in end zone, leading to a TD)
2024: (13/12)	76	3	0	1	7	2	Nevada; Honorable Mention All-MWC; 51-yard INT TD; 1 catch for 6 yards
Total: (59/16)	137	5	0	1	11	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	5105	202	9 1/2	31	75 1/4	4.41	2.60	1.59	41 1/2	10'8"	4.03	6.81	18
PRO DAY	5104	205	9 5/8	31 1/4	75 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Athletic testing created buzz at the combine
- Both fast and agile, which leads to quick on-field reactions
- Eye balance to read the quarterback and route runner appeared to improve throughout the season
- Flashes intercepting skills on balls thrown near him
- Doesn't back down when asked to cover tight ends
- Not shy about mixing things up as a run defender
- Extensive special teams experience (1,010 career snaps)
- Special teams resume in college: 17 tackles, 10 penalties, one blocked field goal and one blocked punt

WEAKNESSES:

- Only one full season of starting experience
- Doesn't always move at full speed if he doesn't trust what he is seeing
- Savvy route runners can get him turned around
- Play-action pass can lure him down
- Inconsistent coming to balance as tackler — will be too hot or out of position
- Average play strength; needs to improve taking on and shedding stalk blocks

SUMMARY: A one-year starter at Nevada, Crawford played free safety while rotating in the box and as a nickel in head coach Jeff Choate's multiple coverage looks. Highly recruited out of East Texas, he made an impact on special teams for the Longhorns but struggled to break through on defense. He transferred to Nevada in 2024 for the opportunity to be an every-down safety.

Crawford is a fluid, loose athlete who can unlock and play fast to the football, although he can be moved off his post and often reacts to the first look from the quarterback. There aren't any questions about his willingness as a run defender, but his reliability finishing tackles must improve. Overall, Crawford has NFL-level speed and athleticism, but his inconsistent reads reflect his meager starting experience in the secondary. His special teams background and testing numbers will make him an appealing prospect in the later rounds.

GRADE: 6th-7th round

S21 R.J. Mickens

Clemson, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Southlake, TX	Carroll	Jul 10, 2001	23.79	6000	199	#9

BACKGROUND: William "R.J." Mickens, one of four children, was born in Irving, Texas, with his parents (Ray and Nicole). He spent part of his childhood in New York during his father's playing days — Ray Mickens Sr. played football and ran track at Texas A&M and was a third-round pick (No. 62) in the 1996 NFL Draft. He played for the New York Jets, Cleveland Browns and New England Patriots during an 11-year NFL career (1996-2006).

The family settled in Southlake, Texas (just outside of Dallas), where R.J. attended elementary school. He started playing pee wee for the Giants, and football became his passion from an early age (he wore his dad's No. 24 in youth football). Mickens also played baseball and soccer (goalie) growing up. In middle school, he was a member of the North Texas FBU club team that won a national championship. His three siblings are talented athletes, as well: His older sister (Kami) was a standout basketball player at Southlake Carroll and played at Boston College (2013-14), Trinity Valley Junior College (2014-15) and SMU (2015-17); his younger brother (Preston) played defensive back at Carroll and walked on at Oklahoma before the 2024 season; and his youngest sister (Baylee) is a standout high school soccer player.

Mickens attended Carroll High, where he was a four-year varsity starter and played on both sides of the ball (wide receiver, cornerback and safety). After posting 36 tackles and three interceptions as a freshman, he had a breakout sophomore season (99 tackles, four forced fumbles and two interceptions, including one pick six). As a junior, Mickens posted 57 tackles, two interceptions and one forced fumble. He battled a foot injury as a senior, finishing with 19 tackles, one forced fumble and one interception over eight games. He was named all-state for the third straight year as a senior and honored as a U.S. Army All-American. Mickens caught passes from future Texas QB Quinn Ewers, collecting 61 receptions for 1,092 yards and 14 touchdowns over his career. He also returned kickoffs and punts (one touchdown return in 2017).

A four-star recruit, Mickens was the 23rd-ranked safety in the 2020 recruiting class and the No. 35 recruit in Texas. His first offer (Arizona) arrived before the start of his freshman season (Aug. 2016). By the end of his sophomore year, Mickens had received offers from Alabama, Clemson, LSU, Michigan, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oregon, Tennessee and others. Along with being a former NFL player, his father evaluated defensive backs at regional and national camps as part of the Nike Opening, so R.J. was well known on the recruiting trail. After his junior season, he committed to Clemson (over Ohio State) in April 2019. Mickens was the 12th-ranked recruit in head coach Dabo Swinney's 2020 class. He took advantage of the extra year of eligibility granted by the NCAA because of the COVID-19 pandemic and returned to the Tigers for a fifth season. He graduated with a degree in management (Dec. 2023). Mickens accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (10/0)	1	0.0	0	0	0	0	Pandemic-shortened season; enrolled January 2020
2021: (13/2)	30	0.5	0	0	2	2
2022: (13/6)	48	3.0	0	0	5	3
2023: (11/9)	42	4.0	0	0	3	0	Missed two games (appendicitis)
2024: (13/13)	75	6.0	0	0	9	2	Honorable Mention All-ACC; missed one game (injury); team captain
Total: (60/30)	196	13.5	0	0	19	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6000	199	8 7/8	32 1/4	77 5/8	4.49	2.65	1.57	41 1/2	10'1"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6000	199	8 7/8	32	78 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	17

STRENGTHS:

- Solidly built with quality length
- Appeared leaner and quicker in 2024 compared to underclassman tape
- Drives downhill and widens feet to break down and finish tackles
- Physical in run support, getting low and sticking his pads into the gut of gap runners
- Smoothly turns with tight ends and receivers out of the break
- Reads quarterback's eyes from depth, with instincts to jump passes
- Productive player on the ball — wide receiver background shows (had a pick six called back by penalty in playoff game versus Texas)
- Named a team captain in 2024 and was recognized as a P.A.W. Journey ambassador (unique leadership)
- Played on punt return coverages all five seasons

WEAKNESSES:

- Solid yet unspectacular athlete
- Mediocre speed in coverage and will give up separation on crossers or vertical shots
- Lacks suddenness in recovery attempts
- Wasn't flagged in 2024, but he got away with grabs in coverage, especially deep (see 2024 Georgia tape)
- Misses in the run game usually came when he left his feet too early

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Clemson, Mickens played a versatile safety role in former defensive coordinator Wes Goodwin's scheme, aligning at free safety, nickel and near the box. He made the most of his final season, finishing third on the team in tackles (85) and second in interceptions (two).

The son of an 11-year NFL veteran, Mickens grew up around the game, and it shows in the way he sees the field — especially when working from depth in the run game as a willing, secure tackler. In coverage, he is more smooth than sudden with his movements and trusts his instincts to lead him to the catch point. Overall, Mickens doesn't consistently play up to his testing numbers, but he has a keen sense of football geometry and takes precise, physical angles to the football. He projects as a potential backup and special-teamer in the NFL.

GRADE: 7th round

S22 Alijah Clark

Syracuse, 4SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Camden, NJ	Camden	Jul 11, 2003	21.79	6006	188	#5

BACKGROUND: Alijah "Cinco" Clark, the fifth-born child among his siblings, grew up in East Camden, N.J., with his mother (Chekiha Rolen). Sports were a distraction to keep Clark from going down the wrong path, and football later became "therapy" when dealing with hardships, including the death of his older brother (Adrian). Clark signed up for football at age 5 and played Pop Warner in Camden. In middle school, he was invited to join NJ Flag, a flag football team that competed at the Pro Bowl in Orlando. Starting in eighth grade, Clark played for a 7-on-7 team called Next Level Greats and later won a 2019 national championship. He also writes, performs and produces his own music — he released a single ("Simulated Brain") on Apple Music.

Clark started his prep career at Gloucester Catholic High as a freshman quarterback, wide receiver and cornerback in 2017. Before his sophomore season, he decided to play for a bigger program, so he transferred to Camden High. After helping the team to a league title in 2018, Clark posted 35 tackles, five interceptions and a fumble return for a touchdown as a junior, earning second-team all-state honors. He also recorded 16 catches for 285 yards and five touchdowns. In a 2020 season abbreviated to five games because of the COVID-19 pandemic, Clark posted 27 tackles and 22 receptions for 374 yards and four touchdown grabs. He earned second-team all-state honors.

A four-star recruit, Clark was the 21st-ranked cornerback in the 2021 recruiting class and the No. 4 recruit in New Jersey (one spot behind running back Audric Esteime). After his sophomore season, he received an offer from his home state Rutgers (March 2019). Over the next two years, Clark added a dozen more offers, with some teams recruiting him as a receiver. In February 2020, he tweeted out his top five: Boston College, Maryland, Miami, Michigan and Ohio State. However, that same day, he posted another tweet announcing his commitment to Rutgers, revealing the initial tweet to be a red herring. Clark was the top-ranked recruit in head coach Greg Schiano's 2021 class.

After one season in the program, he entered the transfer portal and committed to Syracuse over Missouri. His childhood friend and high school teammate Duce Chestnut, who signed with Syracuse in the 2021 recruiting class, played a "major" factor in the decision. Clark accepted his invitation to the East-West Shrine Bowl.

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2021: (7/0)	6	0.5	0	0	1	1	Rutgers; enrolled January 2021
2022: (12/11)	55	2.5	0	0	2	0	Syracuse; missed one game (injury); enrolled January 2022
2023: (13/12)	65	4.5	0	1	3	0	Syracuse; partial suspension for one game (violation of team rules)
2024: (12/11)	61	2.5	0	0	5	1	Syracuse; missed one game (injury); bowl game MVP
Total: (44/34)	187	10.0	0	1	11	2

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
COMBINE	6006	188	9 1/2	30 7/8	77 3/4	4.50	2.61	1.54	33	10'2"	DNP	DNP	DNP	No SS, three-cone, bench (choice)
PRO DAY	6004	188	9 1/2	31 1/2	78	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.21	6.79	DNP

STRENGTHS:

- Versatile experience across the secondary
- Will go up and high point the ball — his offensive background is evident
- Reads well from depth, with a feel for developing routes
- Physical in coverage to disrupt timing at break points
- Flies downhill in the run game and looks to face-up runners in the hole
- His default setting as a striker is "violent"
- Played on punt coverages in college

WEAKNESSES:

- Physically, looks more like a corner than a safety
- Limited hip flexibility in space
- Freelancing footwork needs continued polish
- Might struggle against the agility of NFL receivers, especially in the slot
- Overaggressive tendencies in run fills and doesn't give himself much room for error (see 2024 Virginia Tech tape)
- Unnecessary roughness flag on 2024 Boston College tape (Boston College scored touchdown two plays later)
- Served partial one-game suspension as junior (Nov. 2023) for violation of team rules (played on special teams but not defense)

SUMMARY: A three-year starter at Syracuse, Clark was an interchangeable safety in defensive coordinator Elijah Robinson's scheme, splitting time evenly between nickel, field and boundary roles. After one year at Rutgers, he jumped to Syracuse, where he posted consistent production each season.

Clark's speed, explosiveness and physical profile are more good than great, but he likes to play with urgency when driving on plays and arriving with pop. Though the hunger to make plays is there, he doesn't put himself in position to get his hands on the football often enough. Overall, Clark has the versatile skill set and toughness to compete for a nickel role at the next level, but his college tape leaves you wanting more from a playmaking standpoint. His upside on special teams will help his chances of sticking in the NFL.

GRADE: FA

S23 Mike Smith Jr.

Eastern Kentucky, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Jacksonville, FL	First Coast	Feb 05, 2002	23.21	6011	209	#2

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (9/0)	4	0	0	0	0	0	Appalachian State; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (11/0)	0	0	0	0	0	0	Appalachian State
2022: (10/5)	31	2	0	0	2	1	Eastern Kentucky
2023: (11/10)	56	0	0	0	13	2	Eastern Kentucky; led team in INT, PD
2024: (13/13)	63	0	0	1	10	4	Eastern Kentucky; First Team All-American; First Team All-UAC; team captain; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (54/28)	154	2	0	1	25	7

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6011	209	9 3/8	32	77 1/4	4.53	2.66	1.64	38	10'1"	4.30	7.20	15

SUMMARY: Michael "Mike" Smith Jr., one of three kids, grew up in Jacksonville, Fla., with his parents (Lytama and Michael Sr.). He prepped at First Coast High and played across the secondary, notching two interceptions as a senior captain. A three-star recruit, he originally committed to UCF before his senior year before flipping to Appalachian State on signing day. However, he didn't get a chance to play for the coaching staff (led by Eli Drinkwitz) that had recruited him, and he transferred after two years to FCS Eastern Kentucky, where he had an All-America senior season.

Smith lined up mostly to the field side while also seeing snaps in the box and as a big nickel. With his coverage awareness, he works through route combinations and zeroes in on the eyes of the quarterback to jump throws. He plays with straight-line burst, although he is a tad tightly wound, which hurts his ability for quick recoveries. Smith runs the alley with conviction and paces himself to be a consistent tackle finisher. Overall, Smith has the athletic profile and field awareness to provide depth at multiple safety roles while also making noise on special teams.

GRADE: FA

S24 Keondre Jackson

Illinois State, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Freeport, IL	Freeport	May 02, 2002	22.98	6021	207	#3

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (-/-)							Redshirted; Season played in spring 2021; transferred from Nebraska-Kearney
2021: (10/0)	7	1.0	1.0	0	0	0
2022: (11/10)	46	2.0	0.0	0	2	1
2023: (11/11)	73	6.5	3.0	0	2	1	Honorable Mention All-MVFC; led team in tackles; 30-yard INT TD
2024: (13/12)	99	4.5	1.5	2	9	3	First Team All-MVFC; led team in FF; 30-yard INT TD; Senior Bowl (Top DB on National); Hula Bowl
Total: (45/33)	225	14.0	5.5	2	13	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6021	207	9 1/4	31 5/8	79 3/8	4.69	2.72	1.67	35 1/2	10'5"	4.28	6.93	15

SUMMARY: Keondre Jackson, one of 14 children, was born and raised in Freeport, Ill. He started at receiver and safety for two years at Freeport High, plus qualified for state in wrestling. A no-star recruit, Jackson signed with Nebraska-Kearney but entered the portal in his first semester and transferred to Illinois State, which is closer to home. A three-year starter, his production improved each season, and he generated some buzz after his performance during Senior Bowl week. Jackson is a heavy downhill striker, and his energy pops on tape (defense and special teams). He runs the alley with conviction, using loose feet to make abrupt changes to adjust with shifty ball carriers. His coverage reads and angles tend to be inconsistent from the post, although he keys quickly in underneath zone coverage. Overall, Jackson's average burst and speed aren't ideal, but he is physically imposing as a tackler and projects best near the line of scrimmage where he can man cover tight ends.

GRADE: FA

S25 Zion Childress

Kentucky, 5SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Houston, TX	New Caney	Jan 21, 2002	23.25	5112	199	#11

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (12/6)	61	0.5	0	0	4	0	Texas State; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (12/8)	74	1.5	0	2	6	1	Texas State
2022: (13/1)	34	2.0	1	0	3	0	Kentucky; enrolled May 2022
2023: (13/13)	59	2.0	1	0	3	0	Kentucky; team captain
2024: (12/12)	55	6.0	1	1	2	0	Kentucky; team captain; graduated with degree in communications (May 2024); Hula Bowl
Total: (62/40)	283	12.0	3	3	18	1

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5112	199	8 3/4	31 1/2	75 1/4	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.35	7.08	14

SUMMARY: Zion Childress, one of three children, was born and raised in Houston with his parents (Cynthia and Deric). Originally a wide receiver at New Caney High, he moved to quarterback and combined for 3,505 passing yards, 2,901 rushing yards and 68 touchdowns over his junior and senior seasons. A three-star recruit, he signed with Texas State as a defensive back and played for two seasons as a nickel. Looking to play at a higher level, he entered the transfer portal and committed to Kentucky (over TCU and Washington). He was a two-time captain for the Wildcats and started 25 straight games as a nickel safety.

Although he is undersized, Childress is quick to read and drive to influence the play. He made a number of plays on the 2024 Georgia tape early in the season but struggled to build off that performance the rest of his final year. Overall, Childress is easy to appreciate because he plays fast, physical and decisive, but his missed tackles and lackluster ball production make it tough to fully buy in. His special teams mentality certainly will help.

GRADE: FA

S26 Dean Clark

Fresno State, 6SR

HOMETOWN Massillon, OH	HIGH SCHOOL Washington	BIRTHDAY Jun 01, 2001	AGE 23.90	HT 6003	WT 208	NUM #32
---------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (12/0)	6	0.0	0	0	0	0	Kent State
2020: (4/4)	28	0.0	0	1	3	1	Kent State; led team in tackles; blocked punt; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/14)	116	2.0	0	0	3	0	Kent State; team captain
2022: (4/0)	7	0.0	0	0	0	0	Kent State; redshirted; missed eight games (Achilles); Graduated with degree in business (May 2022)
2023: (12/12)	83	1.0	0	0	6	3	Fresno State; missed one game (injury)
2024: (12/12)	63	3.5	2	0	6	1	Fresno State; Honorable Mention All-MWC; missed one game (injury)
Total: (58/42)	303	6.5	2	1	18	5

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6003	208	9 5/8	31 1/4	76 3/4	4.51	2.68	1.59	41	11'0"	4.09	7.09	19

SUMMARY: Dean Clark, the oldest of five kids, was born and raised in Massillon, Ohio, with his parents (Melissa Battle and William Clark). A safety and wide receiver at Massillon Washington High, he led the team to a 14-1 record and the 2018 Division II state title game as a senior (Clark also advanced to state in track). A three-star recruit, he signed with Kent State and had a breakout 2021 season with a team-best 116 tackles. After an Achilles injury in 2022, he transferred to Fresno State for his final two seasons and started 24 combined games.

Clark aligned all over the defense, from the box to single high. He reads the backfield action well to anticipate and react and will lay traps for quarterbacks in coverage. His decisiveness as a player really stands out, as it allows him to explode and finish. His alley angles are generally sharp, and he chases with pace so as to not overrun the ball carrier. Overall, Clark is a rangy, physical defender with an interchangeable skill set who can provide depth at multiple spots and shine on special teams (680 career special teams snaps in college).

GRADE: FA

S27 Jack Henderson

Minnesota, 5SR

HOMETOWN Mandeville, LA	HIGH SCHOOL Mandeville	BIRTHDAY Dec 26, 2001	AGE 23.33	HT 6017	WT 203	NUM #20
----------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR(GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (7/2)	22	2.5	0	0	2	2	SE Louisiana; Third Team All-SLC; blocked FG; season played in spring 2021
2021: (13/13)	51	2.5	0	0	5	2	SE Louisiana; Honorable Mention All-SLC
2022: (13/13)	90	7.0	2	2	6	2	SE Louisiana; First Team All-SLC; led team in tackles, FF
2023: (13/7)	59	5.0	1	0	3	2	Minnesota; led team in tackles
2024: (13/12)	44	9.0	6	1	2	1	Minnesota; blocked PAT
Total: (59/47)	266	26.0	9	3	18	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6017	203	10	33	76 7/8	4.52	2.56	1.58	39 1/2	10'8"	4.25	6.81	12

SUMMARY: Jack Henderson grew up outside of New Orleans with his parents (Paige and Steve). An all-around athlete at Mandeville High, he was one of the top lacrosse players in the area and earned all-district honors as a running back and defensive back. A no-star recruit, he received an offer from SE Louisiana and flourished as a three-year starter. He entered the portal after the 2022 season and committed to Minnesota over Louisiana Tech and Louisiana Monroe. Henderson started for two seasons as a hybrid nickel while establishing himself as a core special-teamer.

Despite sporting a slender frame, Henderson plays with a contact-driven mentality, but he must be more consistent with his finishing technique as a tackler. He shows some tightness when making sudden transitions but feels routes coming and flashes ball instincts when he has opportunities.

Overall, Henderson is a competitive and energetic athlete who has proven himself in a variety of roles and alignments, but special teams could be his ticket to an NFL roster spot.

GRADE: FA

S28 J.J. Roberts

Marshall, 5SR

HOMETOWN Ona, WV	HIGH SCHOOL Cabell Midland	BIRTHDAY Sep 22, 2001	AGE 23.59	HT 5110	WT 192	NUM #11
---------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	------------

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2020: (8/1)	5	0	0	1	0	0	Wake Forest; pandemic-shortened season
2021: (14/2)	21	0	0	2	4	1	Wake Forest
2022: (10/2)	20	0	0	0	7	0	Wake Forest
2023: (10/10)	73	1	0	1	3	2	Marshall; missed three games (injury)
2024: (13/13)	94	5	1	1	14	0	Marshall; First Team All-SBC; Led SBC in PD; Blocked FG
Total: (55/28)	213	6	1	5	28	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5110	192	8 7/8	31 1/2	75 1/2	4.41	2.56	1.46	40 1/2	10'6"	4.11	6.76	20

SUMMARY: Josiah "J.J." Roberts, one of five children, grew up near Huntington, W. Va., with his parents (B.J. and Tosha). Two of his younger brothers (Nemo and Zaky) currently play college football at Division II Fairmont State. Roberts was Gatorade Player of the Year in West Virginia as a senior at Cabell Midland High, playing quarterback (in an option offense) and defensive back.

A three-star recruit, Roberts was the fourth-ranked player in West Virginia (two spots behind 2024 Steelers second-round pick Zach Frazier), but he was overlooked by the Mountaineers and signed with Wake Forest. After three years, he transferred closer to home and joined Marshall for his final two seasons.

Roberts has the body type of a cornerback but the mentality of a safety with the way he runs the alley with speed and conviction (led the team in solo tackles in 2024). He explodes into ball carriers, although he often opts for the big hit instead of relying on tackling fundamentals. He plays with impressive range in coverage (led the Sun Belt in passes defended in 2024), although the speed he faced against Ohio State gave him some trouble. Overall, Roberts has the athletic profile, production and playing temperament that could make him a draft pick.

GRADE: FA

S29 Shamari Simmons

Arizona State, 6SR

HOMETOWN Ashland, AL	HIGH SCHOOL Clay Central	BIRTHDAY Mar 05, 2001	AGE 24.14	HT 5116	WT 195	NUM #7
-------------------------	-----------------------------	--------------------------	--------------	------------	-----------	-----------

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (-/-)							Hutchinson (Kan.) Community College
2020: (-/-)							Hutchinson (Kan.) Community College
2021: (11/9)	50	0.0	0	1	14	4	Austin Peay; led team in INT, PD
2022: (11/10)	63	2.5	0	0	7	3	Austin Peay; Second Team All-ASUN; led team in INT
2023: (12/12)	73	1.5	1	0	7	1	Arizona State; graduated with degree in liberal studies
2024: (14/13)	73	9.0	0	4	5	1	Arizona State; led Big 12 in FF; missed start because of targeting penalty; East-West Shrine Bowl
Total: (48/44)	259	13.0	1	5	33	9

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	5116	195	8 3/4	30 1/4	75 1/8	4.69	2.74	1.64	36 1/2	10'3"	4.43	7.44	12

SUMMARY: Shamari (shuh-MAR-ee) Simmons grew up in Alabama with his parents (Madelin Durrell and Stanford Simmons). His father was a defensive back at Auburn (1999-2001). Shamari Simmons was an all-state athlete in basketball and football at Central High, leading the football team to the 2018 Class 5A state championship as a safety and wide receiver. He started out at Hutchinson (Kan.) Community College before two productive seasons at Austin Peay, then two more at Arizona State. While playing a hybrid nickel role, Simmons did some of his best work near the line of scrimmage, using his burst and physicality to be a disruptive run defender (his run blitz forced a safety in Arizona State's playoff game versus Texas). His motor runs hot, and he explodes with force through the ball carrier as a tackler (has a knack for knocking the ball free). Overall, Simmons brings it every day as a competitor, plays bigger than he looks and has adequate range and ball skills in coverage.

GRADE: FA

S30

Kenyatta Watson II

Georgia State, 6SR

HOMETOWN	HIGH SCHOOL	BIRTHDAY	AGE	HT	WT	NUM
Loganville, GA	Grayson	Feb 14, 2001	24.19	6004	185	#1

YEAR (GP/GS)	TKLS	TFL	SACK	FF	PD	INT	NOTES
2019: (4/0)	6	0.0	0	0	1	0	Texas; redshirted; enrolled June 2019
2020: (2/0)	3	0.5	0	0	1	0	Texas; entered transfer portal October 2020
2021: (6/0)	0	0.0	0	0	0	0	Georgia Tech
2022: (10/0)	7	0.0	0	0	0	0	Georgia Tech
2023: (9/0)	5	0.0	0	0	0	0	Georgia Tech
2024: (12/10)	40	0.0	0	0	3	3	Georgia State; led team in INT; Enrolled January 2024
Total: (43/10)	61	0.5	0	0	5	3

	HT	WT	HAND	ARM	WING	40-YD	20-YD	10-YD	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	NOTES
PRO DAY	6004	185	9	32 1/8	75 1/2	4.51	2.68	1.50	37	10'9"	4.25	7.20	13

SUMMARY: Kenyatta (ken-YAH-tuh) Watson II grew up in an athletic family. His mother (Janelle) played basketball at Boston College, and his father (Kenyatta Watson Sr.) played wide receiver at Boston College before becoming a high school coach and later a college personnel staffer (currently director of recruiting research and strategy at Auburn).

Kenyatta Watson II was an All-American cornerback at Grayson High in Loganville, Ga., posting 91 tackles and two interceptions as a senior. A four-star recruit, he signed with Texas but left the team midway through his second season to look for more playing time. He landed at Georgia Tech, where he was a reserve for three seasons. He transferred to Georgia State for his final season and led the team with three interceptions, including one versus Georgia Tech in the 2024 opener.

Watson is a lean-framed athlete with linear twitch and speed but limited hip flexibility in his transitions. He is more reactive than proactive reading routes and needs to be more consistent finishing as a tackler. Overall, Watson doesn't have a robust body of work with just one inconsistent season's worth of starting experience, but he has the testing athleticism to get NFL eyes on him.

GRADE: FA

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
31	Major Williams	Carson-Newman	5113	198	4.40	2.55	1.51	37	10'5"	4.08	6.90	20	9 1/4	31 1/8	73 7/8
32	Glendon Miller	Maryland	6027	207	4.44	2.51	1.56	38	9'10"	4.25	7.09	15	8 3/8	32 1/4	78
33	Donovan McMillon	Pittsburgh	6015	203	4.46	2.62	1.64	35	10'5"	4.13	6.98	21	9 1/2	31 3/4	75
34	Major Burns	LSU	6020	207	4.52	2.60	1.56	37 1/2	DNP	4.45	7.13	12	9 1/8	31 1/2	75 7/8
35	Isaac Gifford	Nebraska	6002	203	4.50	2.60	1.60	36	10'6"	4.32	7.10	16	9 1/8	31	75 5/8
36	Trey Rucker	Oklahoma State	5115	203	DNP	DNP	DNP	36	9'10"	DNP	DNP	19	9 1/4	30 1/2	74 1/8
37	Tysheem Johnson	Oregon	5095	195	4.49	2.60	1.58	35	9'9"	4.46	7.47	9	8 3/4	30 3/4	72 5/8
38	Wyett Ekeler	Wyoming	5104	199	4.44	2.65	1.55	41 1/2	10'11"	4.24	6.80	12	9 1/8	29 3/8	74 1/2
39	Nic Toomer	Indiana	6007	200	4.52	2.57	1.52	40	10'7"	4.45	7.00	DNP	9 1/2	32 7/8	78 5/8
40	Hudson Clark	Arkansas	6007	194	4.59	2.62	1.56	38 1/2	9'10"	4.22	6.84	13	8 7/8	30 7/8	75 1/8
41	Will Brooks	Tennessee	6007	203	4.59	2.65	1.53	37	10'5"	4.33	6.98	10	8 7/8	30 1/8	72 5/8
42	Kevin Knowles II	Florida State	5097	189	4.48	2.59	1.54	41	10'6"	4.27	7.05	12	9	31 3/4	77
43	Shilo Sanders	Colorado	5117	196	4.59	2.67	1.62	DNP	9'5"	4.34	7.16	DNP	9 1/2	31 3/4	75 1/4
44	Tanner Moku	Washington State	5104	207	4.53	2.62	1.60	39 1/2	9'11"	4.19	6.97	21	9	31 7/8	74 5/8
45	R.J. Moten	Florida	5115	218	4.50	2.47	1.53	36 1/2	10'7"	4.21	6.88	19	9 3/8	32 1/8	77 5/8
46	Paul Lewis III	Akron	6017	202	4.50	2.74	1.62	36	10'2"	4.39	7.00	13	9 1/4	33 1/8	78 1/2
47	Bryan Addison	UCLA	6042	198	4.57	2.66	1.64	36	10'7"	4.62	7.41	8	9	31 1/8	76 1/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
48	Marcus Barnes	William & Mary	6026	195	4.53	2.60	1.55	35 1/2	10'6"	4.14	6.88	10	9 3/4	32 3/4	79 7/8
49	Henry Blackburn	Colorado State	6000	205	4.65	2.68	1.59	35	9'10"	4.15	7.00	19	9 1/4	31	75 1/4
50	Wande Owens	New Hampshire	5110	205	4.58	2.59	1.53	43	11'3"	4.05	6.99	18	10	31 7/8	76 1/4
51	Trey Washington	Ole Miss	5096	205	4.51	2.61	1.55	36	10'1"	4.56	7.19	23	9	31 5/8	76 3/8
52	David Carter Jr.	Eastern Michigan	5111	200	4.56	2.64	1.58	36 1/2	10'4"	4.39	6.96	9	9 1/4	30	75 1/2
53	Jayden Hill	North Texas	6004	199	4.50	2.50	1.57	36 1/2	10'11"	4.34	7.09	14	8 3/8	30 3/8	74 3/8
54	Elliott Davison	UTSA	5116	189	4.43	2.59	1.58	37	10'6"	4.28	7.02	12	8 7/8	30 3/8	73 7/8
55	Makari Paige	Michigan	6030	197	4.52	2.59	1.62	32 1/2	10'0"	4.44	DNP	15	10 1/2	32 1/2	78 1/2
56	Trey Jones III	Texas A&M	6010	219	4.51	2.65	1.62	39	10'7"	4.26	7.03	14	9 1/2	33 1/2	81
57	John Saunders Jr.	Ole Miss	6023	211	4.57	2.69	1.61	37	10'6"	4.32	6.81	14	9 3/8	32 1/8	77 1/2
58	Jordan Vincent	Utah State	5095	192	4.64	2.60	1.65	36 1/2	9'11"	4.53	7.20	DNP	9 1/8	30 3/4	74
59	Ian Kennelly	Grand Valley State	6020	209	4.52	2.63	1.57	35	10'4"	4.18	7.28	DNP	8 1/2	29 7/8	72 1/8
60	Desmond Igbinosun	Rutgers	6023	223	4.58	2.68	1.59	36	10'5"	4.33	7.20	20	8 1/2	31 1/2	74 1/4
61	Travis Martin	Langston	6014	213	4.50	2.68	1.58	33	10'0"	4.43	7.13	9	9 3/8	33 1/4	75 3/4
62	DK Kaufman	NC State	5084	207	4.53	2.56	1.49	37	10'5"	4.12	6.96	21	8 7/8	31	73
63	Anthony Wilson Jr.	West Virginia	5090	182	4.64	2.71	1.64	34	9'7"	4.20	7.01	18	8 3/4	29 1/2	72
64	Evan Slocum	Wake Forest	5100	191	4.58	2.62	1.51	32	9'9"	4.28	6.89	18	8 7/8	29 1/8	72
65	DJ Douglas	Florida	6000	213	4.65	2.62	1.57	33	9'5"	4.22	6.88	16	9 1/4	30 7/8	74 7/8
66	Stafford Everett III	Hampton	5082	186	4.58	2.63	1.57	31	9'8"	4.70	7.26	13	9 1/8	27 3/4	68
67	Trevian Thomas	Arkansas State	5106	193	4.48	2.60	1.58	36	10'3"	4.38	7.08	16	8 7/8	32 1/2	75 3/4
68	Sheldon Arnold II	UCF	5117	193	4.52	2.59	1.53	32	9'7"	4.30	7.22	14	8 3/4	31 1/2	74 1/2
69	Robert McDaniel	Jackson State	6020	211	4.55	DNP	1.56	39	10'10"	4.50	7.25	14	9 3/4	31 3/4	79 5/8
70	Jaden Voisin	South Alabama	5100	202	4.64	2.75	1.58	34 1/2	9'8"	4.26	7.10	15	9 1/8	28 7/8	69 5/8
71	Isaiah Mcelvane	Louisiana Tech	5110	203	4.65	2.71	1.63	41 1/2	10'3"	4.24	7.08	17	9 1/4	30 1/4	73 1/2
72	Malik Dixon-Williams	UConn	6000	203	4.60	2.66	1.60	40 1/2	10'4"	4.36	7.43	16	9 5/8	31 7/8	76 1/2
73	Yam Banks	Ole Miss	5113	215	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	32 5/8	79
74	Antonio Carter	Jacksonville State	6002	195	4.53	2.65	1.56	31 1/2	9'10"	4.44	7.40	19	9 5/8	30 1/2	74 3/8
75	Keonta Jenkins	Virginia Tech	6021	211	4.57	2.63	1.63	34 1/2	9'10"	4.58	7.18	9	8 5/8	30 3/4	73 3/4
76	Dorian Davis	Austin Peay	5113	186	4.70	2.76	1.62	40 1/2	10'10"	4.41	7.38	DNP	9	31 1/8	74 5/8
77	TaMuarion Wilson	Central Arkansas	6010	227	4.58	2.58	1.63	32	9'10"	4.47	7.46	14	9 3/8	31 7/8	75 3/4
78	Cameron Broussard	Washington	6014	200	4.76	2.77	1.66	30	9'11"	4.42	6.97	10	8 5/8	32	76 7/8
79	Terry Jones Jr.	Indiana	6004	194	4.65	2.69	1.57	30	9'10"	4.39	7.56	14	9	30 7/8	75 1/4
80	Shaquan Loyal	Rutgers	5115	202	4.58	2.64	1.56	34	10'9"	4.19	6.77	15	10	31 1/8	75 1/2
81	Beau Freyler	Iowa State	6015	221	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	30 3/4	73 1/8
82	Trey Adams III	Stephen F. Austin	5097	188	4.46	2.52	1.46	43	10'9"	4.41	7.34	20	8 3/8	31	73 1/4
83	Tanner Volk	Central Washington	6001	189	4.57	2.70	1.64	36 1/2	10'4"	4.25	7.00	10	9 1/4	31 1/8	73 1/4
84	Gabriel Taylor	Rice	5086	188	4.55	2.60	1.41	36	9'9"	4.30	6.99	13	9 1/4	30	71 1/4
85	Nate Valcarcel	Northern Illinois	5116	194	4.53	2.63	1.55	34 1/2	9'8"	4.13	6.90	12	9 1/4	30 5/8	74 1/8
86	Cam'Ron Silmon-Craig	Colorado	5104	194	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/2	29 1/2	70 1/2
87	Jack Howell	Colorado State	5104	193	4.63	2.66	1.58	36 1/2	9'11"	4.34	7.03	9	9 3/8	31 1/8	75 5/8
88	Stephen Douglas	Northwood	5107	192	4.45	2.57	1.53	41 1/2	10'4"	4.28	7.00	16	9 1/4	30 5/8	71 3/4
89	Jaylen Jones	Virginia Tech	5113	204	4.52	2.59	1.58	39	10'6"	4.31	7.09	14	9 1/4	31 5/8	77 1/4
90	Josh Minkins	Cincinnati	6011	207	4.54	2.56	1.50	38	10'8"	4.20	7.15	15	9 1/8	31 3/4	77
91	Alaka'i Gilman	Utah	5086	191	4.70	2.69	1.58	36	9'10"	4.32	7.02	DNP	8 1/4	30	73 3/4
92	Tyrone Lewis Jr.	Louisiana	5104	202	4.65	2.70	1.57	35 1/2	10'5"	4.35	7.08	13	9 1/8	31 1/2	76 5/8
93	Flip Dixon	Rutgers	6011	207	4.56	2.70	1.60	35	9'8"	4.43	DNP	20	9 7/8	32 7/8	77 7/8
94	Aubrey Burks	West Virginia	5104	205	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/4	30	72 1/2
95	Shawn Asbury II	Indiana	5094	194	4.58	2.65	1.63	34	10'2"	4.58	7.26	9	8 3/4	30 1/8	73 1/8
96	Xavier Robiou	Howard	6005	191	4.56	2.58	1.54	43	10'6"	4.08	6.91	15	9 3/8	32	76 3/4
97	Alton Julian	Oregon State	6016	211	4.63	2.75	1.64	33	9'7"	4.43	6.96	17	9 1/2	31 1/4	78
98	Kosi Agina	Fresno State	5107	192	4.69	2.75	1.68	37 1/2	11'1"	4.28	7.15	15	9 5/8	31 5/8	76 7/8
99	Quinn Schulte	Iowa	6000	198	4.75	2.71	1.63	38	9'9"	4.10	6.58	15	9 1/4	30	72 1/4
100	Ramon Henderson	UCLA	6010	200	4.38	2.56	1.63	38 1/2	10'9"	4.37	7.03	17	10 1/4	31	75 5/8
101	Owen Goss	Arizona	5112	199	4.57	2.67	1.57	32 1/2	9'11"	4.24	6.96	17	8 7/8	30 1/8	73 5/8
102	C.J. Baskerville	Texas Tech	6023	208	4.60	2.68	1.58	33	10'1"	4.35	7.06	14	9 1/2	31 1/2	76 3/8
103	Johnathan Baldwin	UNLV	5115	190	4.50	2.60	1.54	33 1/2	9'10"	4.39	7.11	10	8 7/8	31 1/2	75 1/4
104	Braden Price	Rhode Island	5117	197	4.42	DNP	1.57	34	9'7"	4.30	7.04	17	8 3/8	31	74 1/4
105	Josiah Johnson	Ouachita Baptist	5087	196	4.60	2.63	1.55	38 1/2	10'0"	4.30	7.13	24	9 1/8	30 7/8	74 3/8

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
106	Mishael Powell	Miami	6012	200	4.72	2.72	1.62	32 1/2	10'0"	4.10	7.27	13	8 1/2	30 1/8	74 7/8
107	Jordan Riley	Kansas State	5112	203	4.56	2.62	1.55	39	10'9"	4.20	7.28	18	10	31 1/2	76 3/4
108	Devonte' Mathews	Western Kentucky	5092	186	4.56	2.59	1.52	36 1/2	10'3"	4.38	7.21	19	8 3/8	31 1/8	71 7/8
109	Jackson Findlay	Western (Can.)	6026	198	4.63	2.66	1.70	34	10'2"	4.71	7.13	16	9 1/4	31 1/4	74 5/8
110	Akili Arnold	USC	5111	196	4.70	2.72	1.64	32 1/2	9'5"	4.24	6.90	19	8 5/8	29 3/4	73 1/2
111	Jaylon Jimmerson	Sam Houston	5104	194	4.62	2.65	1.56	37 1/2	10'4"	4.27	7.17	9	9 1/4	31 1/2	74
112	Rylan Ortt	Montana State	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A
113	Kolby Merritt	Fayetteville State	5113	205	4.54	2.59	1.52	35 1/2	10'8"	4.53	7.16	11	9 1/8	32 5/8	75 3/8
114	Jerrin Thompson	Auburn	6000	186	4.68	2.71	1.63	32 1/2	9'9"	4.40	7.03	DNP	9 7/8	31	75 7/8
115	Max Hurleman	Notre Dame	5107	200	4.65	2.71	1.70	36	9'11"	4.22	6.96	13	9 1/8	30 1/8	73 1/4
116	Omar Rogers	East Carolina	5113	197	4.75	2.83	1.59	36 1/2	10'7"	4.34	7.18	14	8 7/8	31 1/4	76
117	Tyjon Jones	UAB	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP
118	Maceo Beard	France (IPP)	6020	213	4.78	2.78	1.70	33	9'9"	4.45	7.07	25	9	32 1/4	77 1/4
119	Khari Johnson	Boston College	5103	192	4.60	2.67	1.59	36 1/2	10'3"	4.35	7.37	DNP	9 1/4	31 1/8	75 5/8
120	Angelo Grose	Michigan State	5094	178	4.69	2.70	1.59	29	9'2"	4.28	6.82	9	9 1/4	30 1/4	74 3/8
121	Gavin Davis-Smith	Sacramento State	5103	197	4.59	2.69	1.64	33	9'7"	4.24	6.99	14	8 3/4	30 1/2	72 5/8
122	Tre'Vez Johnson	Missouri	5103	191	4.50	2.63	1.60	36 1/2	9'11"	4.44	7.28	11	8 3/8	30 5/8	75 5/8
123	Ryder Meyer	Montana	5097	188	4.68	2.77	1.63	32 1/2	9'10"	4.38	7.15	DNP	8 1/4	28	68 1/8
124	Kamren Fabiculan	Washington	6012	190	4.78	2.80	1.66	29 1/2	9'1"	4.40	7.09	11	9 1/8	30 1/4	74 5/8
125	Marcus Fuqua	Buffalo	5105	190	4.62	2.62	1.53	36	9'10"	4.63	7.16	16	8 1/2	29 5/8	73 3/4
126	Jaylen Stinson	Duke	5071	174	4.63	2.62	1.55	37 1/2	10'4"	4.24	6.95	15	8 1/4	29 5/8	71 1/2
127	Greg Rubin	Memphis	5101	195	4.67	2.69	1.60	33	9'11"	4.28	7.10	15	9 1/8	31 1/4	74
128	O.J. Burroughs	Kansas	5093	180	4.56	2.60	1.53	36 1/2	10'1"	4.50	7.06	8	9 3/4	30 1/2	75 1/4
129	Corey Ellington	Mississippi State	6026	199	4.71	2.70	1.65	DNP	DNP	4.44	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	32 1/2	79 5/8
130	Ladarius Tennison	UCF	5090	207	4.61	2.64	1.58	32 1/2	10'0"	4.48	7.40	20	9 3/8	29 1/4	72 1/8
131	Alexander Teubner	Boise State	5110	195	4.58	2.57	1.64	35 1/2	9'9"	4.16	6.80	16	9	30 5/8	74 1/4
132	Joseph Charleston	Missouri	6000	204	4.55	2.63	1.56	36 1/2	10'4"	4.22	6.87	17	9 3/8	31	75 3/8
133	LaMiles Brooks	Georgia Tech	6014	192	4.69	2.72	1.64	36	10'0"	4.41	7.40	11	9 1/8	31 1/4	75 1/2
134	Oshae Baker	UT Martin	5093	198	4.60	2.72	1.64	36	9'7"	4.46	7.45	DNP	8 5/8	31	74 1/4
135	Devon King	East Carolina	5100	187	4.67	2.71	1.62	31	10'1"	4.31	7.29	10	9 1/8	31 1/8	74 1/8
136	Abe Camara	TCU	5110	191	4.58	2.67	1.58	32 1/2	10'0"	4.34	7.09	15	9	31 7/8	78
137	Iverson Brown	Southern Illinois	6012	211	4.58	2.65	1.63	35 1/2	10'5"	4.29	6.97	11	9 7/8	33	77 7/8
138	Marvin Grant	Kansas	6011	212	4.53	2.60	1.54	32	10'1"	4.45	7.47	12	8 3/4	32 3/4	78
139	Myles Redding	Mercer	6007	191	4.55	2.58	1.56	30 1/2	9'10"	4.25	7.12	DNP	8 7/8	32 1/2	75 3/4
140	Justin Parks	Arkansas State	5115	192	4.76	2.75	1.63	34	9'8"	4.41	7.11	DNP	9 1/2	30 1/2	74
141	CJ Taylor	Vanderbilt	5117	190	4.63	2.65	1.56	35	10'4"	4.37	7.51	10	9 3/8	31 3/8	74 1/8
142	M.J. Griffin	Louisville	6007	206	4.59	2.55	1.64	30	9'7"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	32 1/4	78
143	Kobe Savage	Oregon	5101	209	4.57	2.64	1.58	28	9'2"	4.45	7.18	17	9 5/8	30	72 1/4
144	Tamarion McDonald	Louisville	6014	206	4.65	2.49	1.57	36	10'1"	4.25	DNP	12	8 1/8	31 3/8	75 3/4
145	Amon Scarbrough	Alabama State	5097	191	4.65	2.75	1.58	29 1/2	9'10"	4.40	7.35	16	9 1/8	31 3/8	75
146	Kristian Story	Kentucky	6010	207	4.75	2.72	1.72	33 1/2	10'2"	4.53	7.22	8	9 1/8	31 1/4	76 1/2
147	Derrick Canteen	Cincinnati	5102	193	4.63	2.65	1.63	30 1/2	9'9"	4.10	7.00	17	9	29 7/8	73 1/8
148	Wesley Walker	Michigan	5112	195	4.75	2.72	1.62	30 1/2	9'2"	4.50	7.18	16	8	31	73 3/4
149	Jayden Johnson	Arkansas	6016	203	4.68	2.64	1.57	34	10'4"	4.46	7.19	12	9	32 3/4	76 5/8
150	Kenny Gallop Jr.	Howard	5106	212	4.66	2.63	1.49	33	9'9"	4.25	7.31	14	9	31 1/8	75 3/8
151	Quinton Reese	Liberty	5112	192	4.52	2.59	1.57	30	10'1"	4.34	7.38	13	9 1/8	33	78 1/8
152	Jordan Polk	Texas State	5110	189	4.52	2.64	1.55	30	10'1"	4.34	7.10	12	8 5/8	33 3/8	78 7/8
153	Cale Sanders Jr.	SMU	5095	183	4.51	2.59	1.58	32 1/2	10'8"	4.37	7.59	15	9 1/8	31 1/2	74 3/8
154	Dennis Shorter	South Dakota	5077	196	4.65	2.67	1.56	34	9'6"	4.27	7.18	16	8 5/8	29	68 5/8
155	Irekefe Kaylen Oweh	Monmouth	6020	196	4.59	2.58	1.58	33 1/2	9'7"	4.51	7.29	7	9	33 1/8	77 1/2
156	Darius McClendon	Bowling Green	6014	195	4.61	2.65	1.65	35	10'1"	4.51	7.22	11	9 1/8	31	73 1/2
157	Josh McCarty	Pittsburgh	5102	196	4.70	2.71	1.69	30 1/2	9'5"	4.31	7.13	20	9 1/2	30 3/4	73
158	Jakeen Harris	North Carolina	5096	199	4.58	2.56	1.56	28 1/2	9'4"	4.31	6.83	16	9 1/2	29 5/8	70 7/8
159	Tyme Collins	Air Force	5116	214	4.53	2.62	1.62	40 1/2	10'0"	4.25	7.13	22	8 5/8	28 7/8	71 7/8
160	Saiku White	Lafayette	5117	209	4.54	2.64	1.57	33 1/2	9'10"	4.45	7.21	18	8 3/8	30 3/4	72 1/4
161	Jonathan McGill	SMU	5090	183	4.62	2.69	1.61	34	9'9"	4.31	7.28	16	9 1/8	30 7/8	73 3/8
162	Davonte Brown	Florida State	6013	188	4.58	2.63	1.60	29	9'1"	4.57	7.20	DNP	8	31 3/8	74 1/4
163	AJ Watts	Memphis	5111	191	4.60	2.71	1.62	33	10'1"	4.41	7.01	4	9 1/2	30 3/4	75

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
164	D'Marco Augustin	South Florida	6003	202	4.61	2.67	1.59	34	10'7"	4.37	6.97	DNP	8 7/8	30 3/4	76 5/8
165	Zedane Williams	New Hampshire	6001	203	4.65	DNP	1.57	31	9'9"	4.55	7.42	19	9 3/4	30	73 1/2
166	Lovie Jenkins	Murray State	5105	188	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/2	31	73 1/4
167	Tristan Rankin	Mars Hill	5116	191	4.76	2.69	1.57	31 1/2	9'5"	4.49	7.40	10	9 3/4	32 3/8	77 1/8
168	Zachariah Twardosky	Endicott	5115	200	4.53	DNP	1.54	31	9'9"	4.28	6.93	17	8 3/4	30 3/8	72 7/8
169	Antavious Lane	North Carolina	5081	191	4.76	2.64	1.58	33	9'7"	4.30	7.09	11	9 1/2	29 1/8	72 1/8
170	Tommy McCormick	Idaho	6001	211	4.67	2.65	1.64	36	10'1"	4.34	7.21	23	9	28 3/4	71
171	Peyton Buckley	Augustana	6010	204	DNP	DNP	DNP	36 1/2	9'11"	4.02	6.94	15	8 3/4	31 5/8	74 1/8
172	Nicc Quinones	Black Hills State	5071	200	4.70	2.75	1.58	31 1/2	9'0"	4.62	7.44	16	7 1/4	29 1/4	69 1/8
173	Nick Bafia	Butler	6010	200	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	4.30	7.18	8	9 3/8	31 5/8	73 7/8
174	Dustin Johnson	Ohio	6001	188	4.63	2.72	1.68	34 1/2	10'2"	4.27	7.17	14	8 7/8	29 1/4	71 3/4
175	Edwin Dearman	Samford	5100	200	4.72	2.76	1.60	30 1/2	9'8"	4.55	7.53	14	8 3/8	30	72 3/4
176	Parker Rochford	Wartburg	5116	187	4.66	2.62	1.64	36 1/2	10'4"	4.34	7.00	DNP	9 1/4	30 1/2	72
177	Mason Chambers	Incarinate Word	5113	199	4.72	2.75	1.71	DNP	DNP	4.39	7.10	DNP	9	31	75 5/8
178	Coco Azema	Northwestern	5097	204	4.63	2.75	1.64	31 1/2	9'9"	4.48	7.22	21	8	31 7/8	74 1/8
179	Jay Jones	Southern Miss	6005	205	4.57	2.51	1.56	35 1/2	10'5"	4.43	7.32	14	9 3/4	31 3/8	76 1/4
180	Anthony Petty	Jackson State	5085	177	4.66	2.65	1.57	36	9'10"	4.18	7.12	6	8 1/8	28 3/8	70 1/4
181	Ken Robinson	UTSA	5100	182	4.61	2.64	1.53	31 1/2	9'5"	4.39	7.26	DNP	9 3/8	31 3/8	74 7/8
182	Jordan Grier	Memphis	5103	203	4.78	2.65	1.59	30 1/2	9'8"	4.39	7.04	9	9 3/8	31 1/8	74 7/8
183	Antorius Hambric Jr.	Lamar	5103	202	4.49	2.61	1.63	31	9'3"	4.72	7.35	15	9	32 1/8	73
184	Bryson Shaw	USC	6002	190	4.69	2.77	1.74	31	9'6"	4.50	7.06	5	8 3/8	31 1/8	73 5/8
185	Tyler Rudolph	UMass	5115	209	DNP	DNP	DNP	39 1/2	10'8"	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 7/8	31 7/8	75 5/8
186	Carson Hinton	Howard	5117	188	4.79	2.67	1.54	39	10'4"	4.32	7.02	DNP	8 5/8	30 1/8	74 1/4
187	Gregory Reddick	North Alabama	5084	197	4.86	2.87	1.55	29 1/2	9'4"	4.51	7.65	10	8 3/4	31 1/4	76
188	Jalen Geiger	Tulane	6001	192	4.70	2.77	1.68	34	9'9"	4.78	7.83	13	8 7/8	31 3/8	75
189	Darius Sanders	Incarinate Word	6010	206	4.69	2.75	1.65	32 1/2	10'3"	4.55	7.43	15	9 1/4	32 3/8	77 1/2
190	Tory Spears	Texas State	6030	206	4.71	2.70	1.59	35	10'11"	4.30	7.37	10	9 1/4	33 7/8	80 3/4
191	Ronan Horrall	Univ. of B.C. (Can.)	6016	202	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 7/8	31	73 1/2
192	Deco Wilson	Florida A&M	5114	187	4.70	2.70	1.59	31	10'1"	4.41	7.77	DNP	8 5/8	32	77
193	CJ Brown	Kutztown	5110	196	4.64	2.69	1.65	DNP	9'9"	4.50	7.39	9	9	30 3/4	76 1/8
194	Maurice Hampton	Vanderbilt	5113	204	4.56	2.65	1.60	31	8'11"	4.45	7.49	9	9 1/4	30 1/8	74 7/8
195	Colin Elliott	Bryant	6006	205	4.77	DNP	1.60	33 1/2	9'10"	4.40	7.28	17	8 7/8	30 5/8	73 3/8
196	Ty Trinh	Villanova	5105	194	4.63	2.69	1.64	38 1/2	10'0"	4.52	7.44	9	8 3/4	31	73 1/2
197	Andreas Keaton	Temple	6003	192	4.62	2.69	1.58	34 1/2	10'3"	4.24	7.27	15	9	31 1/4	75 1/4
198	Kory Chapman	UTEP	5097	181	4.76	2.72	1.65	31 1/2	9'8"	4.44	7.21	12	8 7/8	29 5/8	71 3/8
199	Cameren Grodhaus	Davenport	5112	204	4.64	2.64	1.63	34	10'0"	4.47	7.21	12	8 7/8	29 1/4	72
200	KaVan Reed	Murray State	6020	209	4.65	2.70	1.56	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 5/8	33 1/8	79 1/8
201	Keyshawn Swanson	Western Kentucky	5107	190	4.50	2.51	1.52	36 1/2	11'1"	4.52	7.26	14	8 7/8	31 5/8	73 1/8
202	Justin Fleming	Winston-Salem State	6015	205	4.72	2.75	1.70	32	9'7"	4.59	7.67	10	9 1/4	32 1/2	78 3/4
203	Malachai Jones	Tulsa	5110	189	4.59	2.69	1.52	30 1/2	9'8"	4.42	7.26	13	9 1/2	30 3/4	73 1/4
204	Teven McKelvey	South Dakota	5117	207	4.94	2.82	1.62	28 1/2	9'10"	4.36	7.18	17	9 5/8	32 1/4	76 5/8
205	Jamal Potts	Florida International	6015	199	4.77	2.77	1.64	32	9'9"	4.70	7.16	19	9	31 7/8	76 1/4
206	Diego Addison	South Carolina State	6000	180	4.65	2.78	1.62	29 1/2	9'4"	4.38	7.64	DNP	9 1/4	31	75 3/8
207	Nic Cheeley	Lenoir-Rhyne	5112	185	4.82	2.72	1.65	30	9'6"	4.25	6.84	7	9 1/4	30 7/8	76 3/8
208	Camby Goff	Air Force	6005	204	4.59	2.68	1.68	33	9'10"	4.45	7.12	14	9 3/4	32	78 5/8
209	Halid Djibril	Henderson State	5113	192	4.65	2.68	1.68	37 1/2	10'2"	4.32	7.22	9	9 3/8	32 3/8	76 7/8
210	JJ Dervil	Northern Iowa	6006	202	4.60	2.57	1.59	36	10'7"	4.60	7.15	15	9 1/4	31 7/8	76 1/8
211	Nate Capers	Bloomsburg	6013	208	4.57	2.62	1.56	DNP	10'6"	4.50	7.31	14	8 7/8	30 1/8	72 3/4
212	Jeffrey Smyth	Georgia Southern	5093	187	4.73	2.69	1.62	33 1/2	10'0"	4.43	7.19	DNP	8 7/8	29	72 1/8
213	Dylan Lawrence	Southern Miss	6042	207	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 3/4	32 1/2	79
214	Te'Rai Powell	UMass	5100	191	4.76	2.74	1.62	36	9'10"	4.35	6.99	10	9 1/8	30 1/4	73
215	Drew Hensor	Kutztown	6014	185	4.59	2.63	1.61	DNP	9'8"	4.52	7.50	3	8	29 1/2	70 3/4
216	Grant Jackson	Merrimack	5100	183	4.67	DNP	1.54	36	10'4"	4.22	6.84	13	8 1/8	29 1/4	72 1/4
217	Michael Oppong	Florida A&M	6000	190	4.58	2.65	1.59	34 1/2	10'1"	4.50	7.47	11	9 1/4	30 1/2	73 1/2
218	Cam Smith	TCU	5115	179	4.68	2.68	1.65	31	9'8"	4.42	7.01	12	9 1/4	30 3/4	75 1/4
219	Phillip O'Brien Jr.	Pittsburgh	6001	191	4.59	2.68	1.66	32 1/2	9'7"	4.52	7.18	13	8 1/2	30 7/8	71
220	Kyrin Beachem	Idaho	5114	196	4.59	2.64	1.64	33 1/2	9'10"	4.44	7.24	10	9 1/4	30 1/2	75 1/8
221	Khalil Baker	Elon	5107	187	4.80	2.73	1.63	31	9'8"	4.43	7.13	7	8 7/8	30 3/4	74

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
222	Brennan Boron	Waynesburg	5092	201	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 1/8	29	70 3/4
223	Raymond Woodie III	Bethune-Cookman	6007	196	4.90	2.75	1.77	32	9'8"	4.55	7.29	16	9 3/8	32	76 1/2
224	Scott Tumilty	St. Francis (Ill.)	5100	198	4.51	2.66	1.64	31 1/2	9'5"	4.21	6.97	19	8	30	71 5/8
225	Rodney Robinson	Boise State	5082	180	4.70	2.70	1.59	31	9'4"	4.46	7.31	DNP	8	30 1/2	72
226	Alex Odom	Monmouth	6001	211	4.78	2.72	1.63	30	8'11"	4.58	7.59	DNP	8 7/8	30 3/8	72
227	Isaac White	Wyoming	5111	189	4.83	2.81	1.71	32 1/2	9'3"	4.34	7.03	5	8 7/8	31 1/4	76 7/8
228	Omar Jarvis	Morrisville	6015	167	4.66	2.64	1.60	31	10'2"	4.42	7.27	DNP	8 7/8	32 1/8	78
229	Nick Murray	San Diego	5097	182	4.72	2.76	1.66	34	9'4"	4.26	7.46	9	8 3/4	29	72 3/8
230	Randy Cochran Jr.	Otterbein	5106	188	4.65	2.70	1.63	36	10'1"	4.45	6.93	14	8 7/8	30 1/8	74
231	Elijah Deravil	Temple	6006	197	4.74	2.68	1.52	30 1/2	10'0"	4.33	7.21	12	8 7/8	30 7/8	74
232	Ray Thornton III	UAB	6005	200	4.72	2.75	1.68	28	9'7"	4.31	7.50	15	9 1/2	30 7/8	77
233	Jake Connolly	Ithaca	5092	182	4.75	DNP	1.69	29	9'4"	4.48	7.24	11	8 7/8	28 5/8	70 1/4
234	Mehki Miller	Cincinnati	6005	198	4.63	2.69	1.61	33	9'11"	4.36	7.14	6	8 3/4	32 3/8	78 1/2
235	Roderick Roberson	Louisiana Tech	5112	195	4.77	2.76	1.66	36	9'8"	4.52	7.32	18	9 1/8	31	72 1/2
236	Kaleb Culp	Texas State	5090	194	4.69	2.62	1.59	37	10'4"	4.47	7.39	18	9 3/8	29 5/8	71 7/8
237	Herman Smith III	Colorado	5103	191	4.60	2.69	1.64	33 1/2	10'0"	4.50	7.39	12	9 3/8	30 1/4	74
238	Javius Williams	Texas Southern	5105	188	4.76	2.68	1.62	32 1/2	9'9"	4.51	7.19	15	9 7/8	30	71 1/2
239	Sidney Williams	Missouri	6001	189	4.69	2.58	1.66	28 1/2	9'8"	4.39	7.16	6	8 5/8	32 1/8	77 7/8
240	Tobias Fletcher	Coastal Carolina	5084	163	4.79	2.75	1.56	27 1/2	9'4"	4.48	7.08	DNP	9 1/4	30 3/8	73 3/8
241	Neriyen Brown	Lafayette	5110	197	4.74	2.73	1.67	34	9'9"	4.41	7.56	14	9 1/2	31	74 7/8
242	Giye Jenkins	New Haven	5095	200	4.57	2.69	1.62	34 1/2	9'5"	4.35	7.46	14	9	30 1/2	70 1/2
243	Armani-Eli Adams	Western Michigan	5103	189	4.63	2.66	1.63	33	9'10"	4.50	7.08	15	9 1/2	32	75 1/2
244	Tre Jordan III	Merrimack	5110	181	4.55	DNP	1.59	31 1/2	10'2"	4.24	6.82	DNP	8 7/8	29 7/8	72 5/8
245	CJ Hodgdon	Illinois State	6016	215	4.75	2.78	1.68	30 1/2	9'8"	4.53	7.35	14	9 1/4	31 1/8	73 3/4
246	Abraham Temoney III	Coastal Carolina	6027	191	4.68	2.77	1.57	34 1/2	9'8"	4.47	7.33	12	10	32	79 5/8
247	Diego Bremer	Valdosta State	6014	201	4.75	2.82	1.68	33	9'6"	4.43	7.63	DNP	9 3/4	31	75 1/4
248	Ronald Wilson	Incarnate Word	5087	189	4.74	2.69	1.60	31 1/2	9'8"	4.53	7.08	12	8 3/8	31	74 1/2
249	CJ Bufkin	Illinois	5102	193	4.59	2.74	1.61	40	10'4"	4.52	7.35	13	8 3/4	29 1/4	71 3/8
250	Shiloh Means	Penn	5106	208	4.71	2.70	1.58	38 1/2	10'4"	4.25	6.88	17	8 3/4	31 5/8	77
251	Josh Sanguinetti	Indiana	5112	191	4.81	2.75	1.57	32 1/2	10'0"	4.59	7.65	DNP	10	32 3/4	78 7/8
252	Larry Elder	Valdosta State	6000	207	4.70	2.75	1.64	31 1/2	9'10"	4.50	7.20	21	8 3/8	30 3/4	74 7/8
253	Joe Lusardi	Rutgers	5103	190	4.62	2.69	1.59	37 1/2	9'11"	4.25	7.06	13	9 1/4	30 1/2	73 1/2
254	Travis Jay	Colorado	6005	195	4.64	2.64	1.59	33	9'8"	4.32	7.25	12	9 1/8	30 1/4	74 1/4
255	Alphie Guillory Jr.	North Texas	5092	197	4.68	2.69	1.62	33 1/2	10'0"	4.18	7.03	17	8 3/8	29	72
256	Sean Conroy	Akron	5095	196	4.69	2.77	1.63	32	9'6"	4.70	7.69	DNP	8 1/2	30 1/8	72 3/8
257	Stacy Brown	Prairie View A&M	6020	205	4.66	2.74	1.64	32	9'11"	4.56	7.36	11	8 3/4	33	77 1/4
258	Jamere Jones	Nebraska-Kearney	5107	208	4.82	2.73	1.65	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9	31 5/8	77
259	Kenneth Cooper	Maine	6006	207	4.70	DNP	1.58	37	10'3"	4.45	7.29	17	9	31 3/4	77 5/8
260	Daniel Bone III	CSU Pueblo	6001	190	4.84	2.89	1.68	28 1/2	8'10"	4.70	7.10	10	9	30 5/8	73
261	Canary Simmons	Texas Southern	5097	182	4.76	2.64	1.58	28	9'6"	4.54	7.38	5	8 1/2	31 3/4	74 1/4
262	Durante Jones	UConn	6003	201	4.88	2.71	1.71	27	8'8"	4.51	7.58	15	8 5/8	31 1/2	73 3/8
263	Donte Williams	Merrimack	5080	191	4.88	DNP	1.73	24 1/2	9'0"	4.40	7.27	7	9 5/8	29 3/4	72 1/4
264	Oyame Adoga	Kutztown	6021	191	4.75	2.69	1.67	DNP	10'0"	4.70	7.64	11	9 1/2	33 1/4	77 1/4
265	Elias Escobar	Sam Houston	5091	201	4.71	2.71	1.58	33	10'0"	4.19	7.34	14	9 1/2	31	75
266	Malik Chavis	UNLV	6011	182	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 7/8	33	78 1/4
267	Avi McGary	Bowling Green	6021	195	4.79	2.70	1.71	34 1/2	9'8"	4.76	7.53	16	8 3/4	31 1/2	75 5/8
268	Christian Jones	Davenport	6010	203	4.60	2.67	1.59	34 1/2	9'11"	4.38	7.47	15	8 5/8	31	76 1/4
269	Mike-Lee Joseph	Sacred Heart	5114	192	4.75	2.70	1.65	36 1/2	10'7"	4.45	7.46	11	9 3/8	31 1/4	75 1/2
270	Jayden Curry	Maine	5113	195	4.71	DNP	1.50	35 1/2	10'3"	4.65	7.57	17	9 1/2	31	74 7/8
271	Kaleb Coleman	Wayne State	5110	203	4.77	2.70	1.58	39	9'9"	4.42	6.95	16	10 1/8	30 3/4	76 3/8
272	Bryan Massey	Houston	5097	182	4.72	2.76	1.58	29	9'0"	4.56	7.40	DNP	8 5/8	29 1/8	71 3/4
273	Robert Rahimi	San Jose State	6003	185	DNP	DNP	DNP	29 1/2	9'10"	4.59	DNP	DNP	9 3/8	29 1/2	72 1/8
274	Trent Crawford	West Liberty	5105	192	4.87	2.63	1.59	28	9'3"	4.46	7.12	11	8 7/8	31 1/4	74 7/8
275	Rashaad Morris	Charleston	6015	172	4.84	2.64	1.64	29	9'7"	DNP	7.59	DNP	8 1/4	30	73 1/8
276	Abdul Stewart	West Chester	6000	203	4.63	2.63	1.56	DNP	10'4"	4.42	7.67	5	8 7/8	31 3/8	75 1/4
277	Josh Shodipo	Limestone	5103	197	4.84	2.71	1.59	32	9'4"	4.75	8.07	13	9 3/8	30 7/8	74
278	Noah Guzman	Houston	5102	208	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 3/4	29 3/4	74 1/4
279	Marques Mason	Sacred Heart	5072	187	4.65	2.73	1.58	30 1/2	9'3"	DNP	DNP	20	8 1/8	28 3/8	69 1/4

	BEST OF THE REST	SCHOOL	HT	WT	40	20	10	VJ	BJ	SS	3C	BP	HAND	ARM	WING
280	Jaylin Ware	Judson	5084	192	4.78	2.78	1.68	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	8 5/8	29 5/8	71 1/2
281	Cam Williams	Georgia Southern	5116	209	4.94	2.75	1.70	33 1/2	9'2"	4.51	7.45	17	9 1/8	31 1/2	77 1/4
282	Henry Detmer	Carleton	6003	200	4.70	2.74	1.63	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	9 1/8	29 1/2	71 3/8
283	Liban Shongolo	Colorado Mesa	5091	188	5.01	2.72	1.72	30	9'6"	4.45	7.28	DNP	9	31 1/8	75 5/8
284	Will Johnson III	Houston Christian	5106	188	4.82	2.62	1.63	32	10'2"	4.63	7.64	16	8 3/4	32 1/4	75 3/4
285	John Burton	UMass	5096	217	4.75	2.75	1.64	33 1/2	10'4"	4.65	7.77	19	9	30 1/4	73 5/8
286	Torren Union	Utah State	6006	205	4.86	2.77	1.76	28 1/2	9'0"	4.98	7.70	DNP	9 1/4	32 1/2	77
287	Eltayeb Bushra	Charlotte	6000	183	4.72	2.60	1.60	34 1/2	9'9"	4.56	7.31	DNP	9 7/8	30 5/8	72
288	Juan Rosario	New Haven	5112	181	DNP	DNP	DNP	33	10'4"	4.39	7.21	DNP	9 1/4	30 7/8	74 5/8
289	Ishmael Roy	Marshall	5102	193	4.95	2.84	1.67	32 1/2	9'4"	4.54	7.01	12	9	31	74 1/8
290	Daishaun Hill	Ohio Dominican	6007	208	4.95	2.84	1.73	30 1/2	9'6"	4.57	DNP	13	10 1/4	33	78
291	Daego Albert	UNLV	5107	169	4.66	2.68	1.57	27	9'1"	4.60	7.50	DNP	8 5/8	30 1/8	73
292	Damien Savage Jr.	Lenoir-Rhyne	5101	193	4.94	2.84	1.72	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	DNP	10	31 7/8	76 5/8

SPECIALISTS

SPECIALISTS

	KICKERS	SCHOOL	GRADE	HT	WT
1.	ANDRES BORREGALES	Miami	6th	5111	202
2.	RYAN FITZGERALD	Florida State	6th-7th	5110	194
3.	BEN SAULS	Pittsburgh	FA	5097	186
4.	CADEN DAVIS	Ole Miss	FA	6015	208
5.	TYLER LOOP	Arizona	FA	5113	191
6.	KENNETH ALMENDARES	Louisiana	FA	6006	245
7.	DRAGAN KESICH	Minnesota	FA	6043	243
8.	GRAHAM NICHOLSON	Alabama	FA	5112	180
9.	MADDUX TRUJILLO	Temple	FA	6003	172
10.	JONATHAN KIM	Michigan State	FA	6001	226

	PUNTERS	SCHOOL	GRADE	HT	WT
1.	JEREMY CRAWSHAW	Florida	6th-7th	6035	201
2.	JAMES BURNIP	Alabama	7th	6063	235
3.	EDDIE CZAPLICKI	USC	FA	6007	200
4.	KAI KROEGER	South Carolina	FA	6033	213
5.	LUKE ELZINGA	Oklahoma	FA	6043	222
6.	ALEX MASTROMANNO	Florida State	FA	6016	243
7.	BRENDAN HALL	Montana State	FA	6074	230
8.	JESSE MIRCO	Vanderbilt	FA	6033	220
9.	BRIAN BUSCHINI	Nebraska	FA	6005	245
10.	MARK VASSETT	Colorado	FA	6032	215

	LONG SNAPPERS	SCHOOL	GRADE	HT	WT
1.	WILLIAM WAGNER	Michigan	7th	6013	239
2.	AUSTIN BRINKMAN	West Virginia	FA	6030	242
3.	BRENT MATISCIK	TCU	FA	6002	232
4.	JOSH WOJCIECHOWICZ	Colorado Mines	FA	6020	240
5.	JULIAN ASHBY	Vanderbilt	FA	6011	231
6.	LUKE ELKIN	Iowa	FA	6005	233
7.	AUSTIN RIGGS	Rutgers	FA	6026	235
8.	DONATO CRISANTI	Rhode Island	FA	6043	239
9.	KNEELAND HIBBETT	Alabama	FA	6005	227
10.	CHRISTIAN JOHNSTONE	Appalachian State	FA	6020	248

The text 'TOP 100' is rendered in a large, bold, orange-to-yellow gradient font with a slight 3D effect. It is surrounded by several white decorative elements: a curved arrow pointing towards the 'T' from the upper left, two small 'x' marks below the 'T', a small circle below the '0', and a single 'x' mark to the right of the '0'.

TOP 100

TOP 100 PROSPECTS

	PROSPECT	POS.	SCHOOL
1	TRAVIS HUNTER	CB1	Colorado
2	ABDUL CARTER	EDGE1	Penn State
3	ASHTON JEANTY	RB1	Boise State
4	MASON GRAHAM	DT1	Michigan
5	JALON WALKER	EDGE2	Georgia
6	WILL CAMPBELL	OT1	LSU
7	ARMAND MEMBOU	OT2	Missouri
8	TYLER WARREN	TE1	Penn State
9	SHEMAR STEWART	EDGE3	Texas A&M
10	MIKE GREEN	EDGE4	Marshall
11	COLSTON LOVELAND	TE2	Michigan
12	TETAIROA MCMILLAN	WR1	Arizona
13	CAM WARD	QB1	Miami
14	JIHAAD CAMPBELL	LB1	Alabama
15	MATTHEW GOLDEN	WR2	Texas
16	DERRICK HARMON	DT2	Oregon
17	NICK EMMANWORI	SAF1	South Carolina
18	WILL JOHNSON	CB2	Michigan
19	MALAKI STARKS	SAF2	Georgia
20	JOSH SIMMONS	OT3	Ohio State
21	MYKEL WILLIAMS	EDGE5	Georgia
22	DONOVAN EZEIRUAKU	EDGE6	Boston College
23	JOSH CONERLY JR.	OT4	Oregon
24	TYLER BOOKER	OG1	Alabama
25	KENNETH GRANT	DT3	Michigan
26	KELVIN BANKS JR.	OG2	Texas
27	LUTHER BURDEN III	WR3	Missouri
28	EMEKA EGBUKA	WR4	Ohio State
29	OMARION HAMPTON	RB2	North Carolina
30	JAHDAE BARRON	CB3	Texas
31	WALTER NOLEN	DT4	Ole Miss
32	GREY ZABEL	OC1	North Dakota State
33	MASON TAYLOR	TE3	LSU
34	SHEDEUR SANDERS	QB2	Colorado
35	MAXWELL HAIRSTON	CB4	Kentucky
36	JAMES PEARCE JR.	EDGE7	Tennessee
37	AIREONTAE ERSERY	OT5	Minnesota
38	CARSON SCHWESINGER	LB2	UCLA
39	TREY AMOS	CB5	Ole Miss
40	TYLEIK WILLIAMS	DT5	Ohio State
41	ELIJAH ARROYO	TE4	Miami
42	JAYLIN NOEL	WR5	Iowa State
43	JT TUIMOLOAU	EDGE8	Ohio State
44	KALEB JOHNSON	RB3	Iowa
45	JAYDEN HIGGINS	WR6	Iowa State
46	TREVEYON HENDERSON	RB4	Ohio State
47	LANDON JACKSON	EDGE9	Arkansas
48	DONOVAN JACKSON	OT6	Ohio State
49	JAXSON DART	QB3	Ole Miss
50	TYLER SHOUGH	QB4	Louisville

	PROSPECT	POS.	SCHOOL
51	AZAREYE'H THOMAS	CB6	Florida State
52	JORDAN BURCH	EDGE10	Oregon
53	TATE RATLEDGE	OG3	Georgia
54	XAVIER WATTS	SAF3	Notre Dame
55	JONAH SAVAIINAEA	OG4	Arizona
56	SHEMAR TURNER	DT6	Texas A&M
57	JARED WILSON	OC2	Georgia
58	JACK SAWYER	EDGE11	Ohio State
59	NIC SCOURTON	EDGE12	Texas A&M
60	QUINSHON JUDKINS	RB5	Ohio State
61	DARIUS ALEXANDER	DT7	Toledo
62	SHAVON REVEL JR.	CB7	East Carolina
63	JALEN ROYALS	WR7	Utah State
64	OLUWAFEMI OLADEJO	EDGE13	UCLA
65	TRE HARRIS	WR8	Ole Miss
66	NOHL WILLIAMS	CB8	California
67	JACOB PARRISH	CB9	Kansas State
68	ALFRED COLLINS	DT8	Texas
69	BENJAMIN MORRISON	CB10	Notre Dame
70	T.J. SANDERS	DT9	South Carolina
71	PRINCELY UMANMIELEN	EDGE14	Ole Miss
72	JACK BECH	WR9	TCU
73	JALEN MILROE	QB5	Alabama
74	DYLAN SAMPSON	RB6	Tennessee
75	TERRANCE FERGUSON	TE5	Oregon
76	JOSHUA FARMER	DT10	Florida State
77	JORDAN JAMES	RB7	Oregon
78	ASHTON GILLOTTE	EDGE15	Louisville
79	OZZY TRAPILO	OT7	Boston College
80	JOSAIAH STEWART	EDGE16	Michigan
81	MILES FRAZIER	OG5	LSU
82	HAROLD FANNIN JR.	TE6	Bowling Green
83	KEVIN WINSTON JR.	SAF4	Penn State
84	MARCUS MBOW	OG6	Purdue
85	BILLY BOWMAN JR.	SAF5	Oklahoma
86	QUINN EWERS	QB6	Texas
87	DANNY STUTSMAN	LB3	Oklahoma
88	ISAIAH BOND	WR10	Texas
89	CHARLES GRANT	OT8	William & Mary
90	ELIC AYOMANOR	WR11	Stanford
91	KYLE WILLIAMS	WR12	Washington State
92	TY HAMILTON	DT11	Ohio State
93	RJ HARVEY	RB8	UCF
94	ANTHONY BELTON	OT9	NC State
95	QUINCY RILEY	CB11	Louisville
96	GUNNAR HELM	TE7	Texas
97	TREVOR ETIENNE	RB9	Georgia
98	JONAS SANKER	SAF6	Virginia
99	JEFFREY BASSA	LB4	Oregon
100	BRADYN SWINSON	EDGE17	LSU

All information is last updated as of April 7, 2025.
For the latest version of The Beast, visit our interactive
version at nytimes.com/athletic/the-beast/2025.

Email any questions or comments to thebeast@theathletic.com.

Credits

Author: Dane Brugler

Editing: Chris Burke

Visual Editing: Skye Gould

Data Editing: Junghye Kim and Ryan Best

Design: Skye Gould and Dan Goldfarb

Art: Hust Wilson for The Athletic

Production: Junghye Kim and Skye Gould

Additional Editorial Contributions: Alison Cotsonika, Adam Hirshfield, Jim Ayello, Jayna Bardahl, John Bradford, Ken Bradley, Cale Clinton, Stephen Cohen, Adam Coleman, David DeChant, Jimmy Durkin, Gary Gramling, Drew Jordan, RJ Kraft, Cristina Ledra, David Niinemets, Mike Sansone, Lauren Smith and Josiah Turner

Notes and Sourcing

Select stats courtesy of Pro Football Focus.

All scouting reports and rankings are the original views and analysis of Dane Brugler and The Athletic.

Combine and Pro Day information is NFL verified.

Recruiting rankings are courtesy of 247Sports Composite.

© Copyright The Athletic 2025

The Athletic THE BEAST

2025 NFL DRAFT GUIDE

